Account books, entries how to be proved Where certain account books were produced in the original Court by the plaintiff, and all that was proved was that they were in the handwriting of his father, and the books were not examined in detail in the original Court, and the particular entries upon which the plaintiff relied were not selected and exhibited it was held that the entries ought to have been pointed out and proved and evidence should also have been given in detail as to the character of the books themselves Hingumaya v Heramba Chandra, 8 Ind Cas 81=13 C L J 139 In that case the Court in delivering the judgment said "It is essential, in every case where reliance is placed upon books of account, to establish that they have been regularly kept in the course of business It is perfectly true that as laid down by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee in the case of Deputy Commissioner v Ram Parshad 27 C 118=26 I A 254=4 C W N 417, they need not be written up from moment to moment or from day to day But it is obvious that if they have been written up casually once a week or a fortnight, though they may be admitted in evidence, obviously they do not possess the same claim to confidence that attaches to books entered from day to day or from hour to hour as transactions take place (Muncher Shaw v New Dhurumsay, 4 B 576) The proper procedure to follow therefore, is, as laid down by ... Committee in Dwarka Dass v ... has kept the accounts or ... prove that the books have ... that they are generally accurate But this is not all th... necessary, section 34 makes the entries relevant if they are entries in a book of account regularly kept ... is therefore not sufficient merely ... themselves have to be proved ... moved by the admission of the ... books were produced ... the plaintiff ... sonno Chucker... ... Court. The p... the plaintiff relies were not even selected and ex... this Court ... at all. Obviously the ... considerable laxity ... to have been pointe... detail as to the charact... the books closely ... has been applied ... use ...

... must, therefore ... evidence to show ... of his pred... assured that the ... and expenses ... th... were destroyed by him soon after the furd, embodying the expenses, and maskabar, monthly accounts, were prepared. It was found that these latter accounts were kept regularly in the ordinary course of business. The maskabari and rola books, furds under Mohan rt gave a decree for the plaintiff on the evidence of his account books and of his book-going into the witnessbox was not entitled to succeed. Hira Bhagat v. Gobind Ram, 63 P. R. 1897.

to
m nat ertain disputed items interpersed in the account should not be disallowed l no specific evidence hy such fictitious items Hanuanta v. Akbar, 0 P. R. 1910=147 P. L. R. 1910=117 P. W. R. 1910. It is not a condition precedent to accepting entries in account books as relevant under section 34, Indian Evidence Act that it should be proved how the accounts came to be written, and necessary is o be establi who were examined as witness for the defence, was considered sufficient corroborative evidence of the accounts to charge the defendants with liability. Bichha Lal v. Jai Pershad, P. L. R. 1900, 5. It is unnecessary to prove, by independent evidence, the correctness of every single item of an account extend-for the decision of the ittee likewise observed l account books, but each book contained that amount of difference which was appropriate to its character. The committee also used the better test of genuineness than the correspondence other evidence, firmed the deci

I A 6 P C

Plaintiffs sued to recover money due as balance of a running account and

The various items entered plaintiff, the High Court er this section, sufficient he evidence, however, one of the plaintiffs having given evidence with reference to the account books, stating the amounts advanced to and repaid by the defendant, and no question speaking from his own lence of a witness for the was sufficient to uphold carla Das v. Sant Baksh,

S. 34. There is frequently confusion in the subordinate Courts as to how an account book should be proved and used under section 34 aforesaid. It is common practice to call a witness and examine him, as to the particular item sought to be proved ...

...mouth of a witness who merely reads it and cannot supplement it with the personal knowledge Use of an entry to refresh memory is one thing its proof as substantive evidence under section 34 is another, but this distinction is constantly lost to sight by Judges and practitioners A clerk called as a witness may depose :—I remember ... last year Having ... my master's cash book ... not a case of evider... section 34 of the Evidence Act But suppose the account book had been produced and the entry tendered in evidence Then the deposition of the clerk might have been in these terms —'I know the defendant ...

'I ... ye ... mo ... ca ... wa ... bo ... we ... da ... adi ... wi ...

int ...

Adequate knowledge The declarant must have adequate knowledge as to the fact as ... w of his knowledge the truth of the transaction ... acts in pursuance of a report to him by an ... ployment there is presumption of the truth of the ... 3071. In a suit on accounts the plaintiff produced his ... send goods to the pla... used to be entered ... an account. Held that the matter was left in doubt whether the witness was speaking from personal knowledge or without personal knowledge and that the defendant not having chosen to cross-examine the witness the plaintiff should be given the benefit of doubt and the evidence taken to be tendered on personal knowledge Mt Har Dei v Kishen, 1931 A L J. 946 = 133 Ind Cas 900 = A I R 1932 All 60

But such statements shall not alone be sufficient evidence Section 34 ... is regularly kept in the ... to charge any person ... 5 Section 34 of the ... a decree by mere ... proving the existence of certain entries in books of account, even though ...

... entries. No particular form or kind of evidence in addition to the ... is required Any relevant facts which can be treated as evidence within the meaning of the Evidence Act would be sufficient corroboration of the entries furnished in books of account, if true Yesuvadiyan v. Subba Naicker 22 Ind Cas 704; see also Rama Swami v Ramanathan, 22 Ind Cas. 627, ... v Kala, 22 Ind. Cas 403 = 17 P L R. 1914; Beni v. Bisan, 89 Ind. Cas ...

Kalu v. Bhairam, 88 Ind Cas 383 = A I. R. 1925 All. 742, Abdul v Firm Ditta, 81 Ind Cas 909, Gopeswar v Bijoy, 28 B 291, Dhuka v Grant, 16 C L J. P C, Ganashi v Firm, 76 Ind Cas. 157; Khumi Mal v. Dwarka Das, 1930 A L J. ...orative proof must be given by evidence ... it seems to have been deemed necessary that this corroborative evidence should be furnished if the rule itself is to apply. Confirmation of a particular item may be sufficient In other words it was necessary for the proponent to call third persons such as those who had dealt with the plaintiffs and found their books to be correct. Where evidence of this ... produce the best ... good faith with ... In this connec... The book to be verified by the testimony of the witness must be the same in which the account in question is entered Chamberlayne's Ev. § 3096. But such entries are evidence against the person making them Ningama v. Bharmappa, 23 B. 63; Mathilda v Gaebele, 96 Ind Cas. 429 = A I R. 1926 Mad. 955; Jodha Mal v. Ditta, 81 Ind Cas 909 = A I R 1925 Lah 212

... accident Seth Maganmal v Darbarilal, 24 N L R. 10 = 30 Bom. L R. 296 = 107 Ind Cas. 113 = 47 C. L J 222 = A I R. 1928 P. C 39.

Relevancy of entry in public record, made in performance of duty.

35. An entry in any public or other official book, register or record, stating a fact in issue or relevant fact, and made by a public servant in the discharge of his official duty, or by any other person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which such book, register or record is kept, is itself a relevant fact.

General Principle An exception which in practice is by far the commonest in its employment is the exception admitting statements made by officials in persuance of official duty The principle of Necessity, which in one form or another ... the death, insanity, ... arant, but ...

... attendance of the officer is corporally impossible to obtain, there is ... a high degree of expediency that the public business be not deranged ... ing on the strict enforcement of the Hearsay rule Wigmore § ... Ev. § 162 (m).

S. 35.

The second essential for an exceptions to the Hearsay rule is that circumstantial guarantee of trustworthiness be found, to take the place of confrontation and cross-examination so far as may be Two reasons are by the Courts as ... [illegible] ... tion in this respect. The first ... public officers do ... justifying the exception ... § 162 (m) In ... "The law reposes ... public officers that it presumes they will discharge their several trusts with accuracy and fidel... charge of their public duty may ... true, under such a degree of ... case may appear to require" Sir ... "It depends upon the public duty of the person who keeps the register to make such entries in it, after ... Kennedy, 5 App Cas 623, ... F 468, Parke B said ...

... ly, the ... the document ... duty exists ... will ... ibly the duty ... whose violation a penalty is expressedly expressed. Possibly the officer may not be one from whom in advance an ... oath of office is required No stress seems to be laid judicially on either of these considerations, nor need they be emphasized It is the influence of the official duty, broadly considered, which is taken as the sufficient guarantee of trustworthiness, justifying the acceptance of the hearsay statement. Wigmore § 1632

... another person before use in Court is small, so ... making of this particular official statement is hardly amenable to the ... above supposed Finally, so far as the other element is concerned—the ... correction of errors by public inspection—its efficacy must be of the ... moment, for it is not supposed that the public, or specifically interested members of it, do in fact (whatever their rights may be) ever demand inspection of the vast majority of official records that are made, and there can be hardly any chance of checking or revision from that source. It would seem that the second reason, put forward so definitely by Lord Blackburn, is to be ... as merely a casual advantage, and not an essential limitation, of the class of documents to be included within the exception." Wigmore § 1632.

case as the present, statements in public documents are receivable to prove the facts stated on the general grounds that they were made by the authorized agents of the public in the course of official ... public interest or required to be r...
Taylor Ev 10th Ed § 1591 "In man... a lapse of years, it would be imp... contained in such documents were in... an exception is made to the rule ... Lord Carson in Ghulam Rasul v Secretary of State, 30 C W N 101 (101) = 86 Ind Cas 651 = 52 I. A. 201 = 23 A. L J 639 For further discussion vide next topic.

S.

v. Rajpat Singh 5 C 744 751, 753 = L R 7 I A 63; see also Mallikarjuna v. Secretary of State, 35 M 21) So the register is admissible irrespective of whether the official who actually wrote the entries had any personal knowledge or whether the register was a copy of a previous register which had become untidy William Graham v Phanindra Nath Mitra, 19 C W. N 1038; contra Ambalavana v Sree Minakshy, 28 M L J 217 = 26 Ind Cas 841 = (1915) M W. N. 76 Now let us examine whether the principle is violated on the ground of want of personal knowledge on the part of the entrant. The argument for excluding the use of entries except for facts necessarily within the entrant's personal knowledge is thus stated by Denman L C J in Doe v Wallaston, 1 Moo & R. 389. "The clergy man must be present . and this fact of the time (of the marriage) is ... gistery of baptism, the time of ... from ... ink it ... here stated necessarily within the ... But Pattison J. thus reasoned for ... there was no personal knowledge on the part of the entrant "Must we not take it to be the act of the incumbent, who, however he got his information, had satisfied himself of the fact before he sanctioned the entry?" Doe v France, 15 Q B 758 In the same case Wightman J s... having taken ...
English Com...

... 1073, ... ray, 8 ... 389; ... (988); ... Wigmore § 1646

"It ...
tion of a ... personal ...
receivable ...
practical ...
that the same principle is applied to persons whose hearsay statements are receivable under the exceptions to the Hearsay rule; and the application of the ...

here as elsewhere, but the principle itself need not be and is not judicially employed to the extent of unpractical strictness; and it has its qualifications and exceptions, based on good sense and practical convenience" Wigmore § 1635. So it is at first sight unsatisfactory to accept an entry as evidence of a fact not occurring within the personal knowledge of the entrant At the same time there

S. 35.

The second essential for an exceptions to the Hearsay rule is that ... circumstantial guarantee of trustworthiness be found, to take the place of ... confrontation and cross examination so far as may be. Two reasons are ... by the Courts as justifying the present exception in this respect. The fi... that public officers do th... ness justifying the except... al Ev. § 162 (m) In P...

trusts charge ...

... n Doe v France, 15 Q B ... who keeps the register to ... such entries in it, after satisfying himself of their truth' See also Lyell v Kennedy, 5 App Cas 623, 641 In Irish Society v Bishop of Derry, 12 Cl & F 168, Parke B said "The bishops in making the return discharged a public duty, and faith is given that they would perform their duty correctly, the return is therefore admissible on the same principle on which other public documents are received" The fundamental circumstance is that an official duty ex... make an accurate statement, and that this special and weighty duty will usually suffice as a motive to incite the officers to its fulfilment Possibly the ... may not be one for whose violation a penalty is expressedly expr... Possibly the officer may not be one from whom in advance an ex... oath of office is required No stress seems to be laid judicially on either of ... considerations, nor need they be emphasized It is the influence of the ... cial duty, broadly considered, which is taken as the sufficient guarant... trustworthiness, justifying the acceptance of the hearsay statement Wig § 1632 ... of of official documents, there are every where numerous official docu... ... of person having a spe... ... offi...

and comparison by another person before use in Court is small ... making of this particular official statement is hardly amenable to the ... ... is concerned—the actua...

vast majority of official records that are made, and there ... chance of checking or revision from that source It would seem ... second reason, put forward so definitely by Lord Blackburn, is to be regarded as merely a casual advantage, and not an essential limitation, of the class of ... "In su... documents to be included within the exception." Wigmore § 1632 city be not confirmed by the usual tests of truth, namely the swearing and the S. titled to this by law to put at so en

be difficult to prove them by means of sworn witnesses" Per Wayne J in Gaines v Relf 12 How 472, 570, Wigmore § 1631 So "official registers, or books kept by persons in public office, in which they are required to write down particular transactions, or to enrol or record particular contracts or instruments, are generally admissible in evidence, notwithstanding their authenticity is not confirmed by those usual and ordinary tests of truth —the obligation of an oath and the power of cross examining the persons on whose authority their truth and authenticity may depend This has been said to be because they are required by law to be kept, because the entries in them are of public interest and notoriety, and because they are made under the sanction of an oath of office or in the discharge of an official duty ' Per Fowler J in Ferguson v Clifford, 37 N H. al books, etc, books, and keep Nort.
g vo sufficient guarantee of reliability to render them admissible if offered in evidence Mckelvey's Ev § 206 The exceptional privilege given to public records by this section cannot be extended to entries which a public officer is not expected to, and is not permitted to make Ali Nasar v Manikchand, 25 A. 90 (F. B) = 1902 A W N 207; Madhabrao v Deonak, 21 B 695. There must be might not be admissible Bhaiya Dugaj v Beni Mahto, 22 C W N 139 = 23 M L T 382 = 20 Bom L R 712 = 28 C L J 1 = 47 Ind Cas 1 (P. C) But registers kept under private auth private individuals are inadmissibl (1913) 1 Ch 392, Whittuck, v R 303, Doe v Gatacre, 8 C & P 5 it is not the duty of the officer to 14 App Cas. 137, Farrell v Maguire, 3 Ir L R 187 A register can be received to prove incidental particulars concerning the main transaction where they (1926) 1 Ch 284

own to be prepared any other person he country, nor has the act or record e absence of proper
I R 1930 All.

English Law Another exception to the hearsay rule consists of statements contained in public or official documents which are admissible as evidence of 294 Statements
Royal proclama-

United Ins Co 7 Johns 38; mentary Journal (upon all matters properly before either House, Jones v.

S. 35. Randall, 1 Cowp 17; Root v matters, Oates Case, 10 How, St T not conclusive evidence of the f Dacklin, supra, Att-Ge Official registe is required by ... or reference, and (2) the entry has bee ... er. Ibid p 298. So in England, a ch ... in of the Establ bed Church, is admi ... by the evidence of the identity of the ch ... baptism; but not the time of its
... to make enquiry about the time of ... Draycot v Talbot, 3 Bro P C
... May v May, 2 Stra 1073; Wihen v Law, 3 Stark, R 63, Doe v Barnes, 1 M & Rob 389; Stark Ev 9 Eq 373, R. v Weaver L R 2 C the church of England, from the t

Hubback on Succession, 470; 474 ... in 1644 and 1653 provided for the registration of births, deaths and marriages Scobell's Ordinances, 76 236, Dudly's Case, 2 Sid 71 But these Ordinances were annulled upon the restoration of Charles II And registers kept under ecclesiastical authority continued to be admitted in evidence by the Courts although not required to be kept, nor declared to be evidence by any Statute. This is probably the meaning of Lord Holt's dictum that such registers are evidence from "the nature of the thing", and of the additional words attributed to him by one reporter of least au ... " Stainer v Burgesses of Droitwich, 1 Salk 28 ... 290 Abo the time of the decision of that ca which were repeale

... Will IV (
Statutes ...

... yer, 13 L J N S Ch 398 ... evidence of the baptism of the ambassador's son ... entries in a register are admitted ...

of their own or of England. Evans v. Ball, 38 L T. 111 ; Taylor § 1593; Php Ev 7th Ed. p 329.

S.

... e entry must have been contemporaneous ... the sanction of being under oath, but the official character of the transaction appears to afford a prima facie guarantee for its truthfulness—stronger, perhaps, than that which obtains in respect of books kept in the ordinary course of business Nort Ev 200 But the entries should be made promptly, or at least without such long delay as to impair their credibility. Php Ev 7th Ed 330, Doe v Bray 8 B & C 813

... of the Indian Evidence Act, the following documents are public documents —(1) documents forming the acts or r... , (ii) of official bodies and ... licial and executive, whether o... Majesty's dominions, or of a ... private documents ... 5 App. ... whole w... that it ... in a corporation book concerning a corporate matter, or something in which all ... ld be public within that sense But it must be ... made by a public officer I understand a ... a document that is made for the purpose of the ... able to refer to it It is meant to be where there is a judicial or ... be the ... ay be ... ; but I ... for the purpose of being ... have access to it afterwards ... any cases entries in the ... entries of that kind, ... are admissible, and they were "public" then, because the common law of England making it an express duty to keep the ... e kept by a public ... I think as far ... o its accuracy, and ... at, in every case ... , it has been made ... , as a register to be ... m public" says Prof. ... signify open to all', 'capable of being known or obs... persons in general,

... Ind Cas 125=A I R 1926 ... n cases, be a public record within ... it does not follow that every ... public servant to a superior officer and made in pursuance of orders given by the latter, is admissible evidence to prove such fact Mallikarjuna v. Secretary of State, 35 M. 21=14 Ind Cas 401.

S. 35. Other official book, register or record It is important to observe that whenever it is the duty of a public official, either at common law, or by S... to record certain facts in any book which is ... referred to ever after ...

...ot as a ... rove not only the ... recorded in the ...

... kept by any law ... the station writer, the register not being one directed ... where it neither purports ... The statement of ... Mohammad v Emperor ... Cr Pro ... and the ... prove tha ... is not a r... the docu... in que... provisions of that secti... N 65 The certificate of ... v Queen Empress, 28 C. 348=5 C W ... under this section, for it is neither a book ... is no evidence of the age of the m... any officer in accordance with law ... nor a register, not a record kept ... Teiskhana papers prepa... not papers of the de... Samar Dasadh v Jaggu ... of this section can be ... kept ouside British Ind... Teiskhana Register (so called from the number of columns in the statement ... register) prepared by a person who is called a patwari and submitted to the C... lector, in accordance with the rules framed by the Board of Revenue under s ... of Reg XII of 1817, is not an official publ... ... v Sundaram Pillai, 23 M 499 ... Makhan, 18 C 531 ...

... evidence, is admissible in consequence that part may not be admit... Durga v Deo Bahadur, 22 C W N 439=23 M L T 382=28 C L J 1=... Ind Cas 1 (P C) ... admissible in evidence under this section ...

preted ... as inc... in this section must be take... 28 Bom L R 1225=50 B 716=A I ... of a foreign state. ... servant' has not been defined in this Act. ... 21 of the Indian Penal Code and s 2 (17) of the Code of Civil Proc... of 1908) As regards who are public servants vide 12 B H C R 1 ... 7 B L R 448=16 W R ...

... Gangaram v Fakirgouda, 51 C L J 592

Register or record A ... in that ... recorded ... it is kep... that it is ... arises (perman... its own), ... the staten... ...saction ... separate ex... ance of ... circumstances that ... the official precincts and the ...

ore not fitted for entry in a single office volume The return differs from the S. artificate in that it is preserved in official custody A further distinction, within s that the former deals with r, while the latter records nt has occurred out of his s 1637. It must always be a correspondence which do, and those which do not, fall within the scope of s 35 But where there is a statutory duty laid upon public officers to investigate and report facts, a report of the facts elicited by their investigation is an official record within the meaning of this section Ramakrishna v Tirunarayana, A. I. R 1932 Mad. 198.

it essential that a register should be n str 7th Ev p 330, see also Graham v Phan Winfield, 18 Ves 143; May v May, 2 Str P 552

Nature of the Duty—General Principles Whether a given statement was made under an official duty will depend chiefly upon the nature of the office, the subject of the statement, and the form of its making (1) It is clear that no they did not occur (7) A statement otherwise admissible is not generally to be excluded where there existed for the declarant a special interest or motive to misrepresent (8) The person having the duty and the person making the statement must on principle be identical Wigmore § 1633

B 756

Any other person in performance of a duty, etc An entry in a Chaukidar's register of births and deaths was relied upon as proof of the date of the

S. 35. birth of a person The entry was admittedly not made by the Chaukidar & there was no evidence that it was made by any other public servant or that it was the duty of any public servant to make it Held, that the register was not admissible under s 35 of the Evidence Act Ganpat v. Gauri Sankar, 190 C 68.

Errors of interest affect the weight of App Cas 437, Falcon .
They do not also affect (1907) 2 Ch 592 So also, the fact that the entry is in the interest of the ... or body keeping the register, affects weight only, not admissibility Irish Soc ... Derry, 12 Cl. & F. 641; Phip. Ev 7th Ed. 330, Sturla v. Freccia, L R. 5 App Cas 623, 628

Wajib ul arz An entry in the wajib-ul-arz is admissible in proof of the custom under s 35 and its validity does not depend upon the question wh... the wajib-ul-arz Hasan v Abdul village admini the statements rights and cust of such rights and purport to give the history of the devolution in certain families ... When ... the narrators stand in no better position than any other tradition are incidents not with ...

safe to accep 4 O W N
have been
is shown by the party alleging it. Manya v. Sitaram, 23 N L R ... Ind Cas 438 = A I R 1927 Nag 147, Wasiq Ali v. Athar Ali, 110 Ind Cas ... I R 1928 Oudh 409, Sartaz Koer v Mahadeo Bux, 29 O C 153 = 92 Ind Cas 657 = A I R 1926 Oudh 332, ... Singh v Rustam Singh 3 O W ... or Riwaj i am should be supported by instances Baij Nath v ...

W N 872 ... An entry in a wajib-ul-arz ...

Singh v Babu Lal, 21 A L J 822 = L R 4 A 557, Sher Munawar ... Muhammad, 78 Ind Cas ... What existed or that had been made 207 Wajib-ul of 1863 when property ... much more reliable than oral evidence given after the event ...

Ashgar Ali, 57 I A 29 = 52 C. L J 183 = A I R 1930 P. C 30 = 59 ...
J 156 (P. C.)
... in the village records

...s laid down for his 216 = 13 C. W. N. Musammat Lali v ... = 10 C. W. N. 730; 63; Isri v Ganga, Maharaja, 2 A L. ...arurudhicaja, 15 A ..., 16 A 10, Garura- ... W. N 33 = 23 A 37; Ali Nasir v. Manick Chand, 25 A. 90.

Riwaj i am. An entry in a ... facie proof of the custom Lalh ... 924 = A I R 1927 Lah 241, Ghu... Riwaj i-am being a public reco... of his duties, is admissible in evidence to prove the facts therein entered and the ...

Lah. 99 = 1923 Lah 401

...it fact ... rana ... 6 Ind ... siwam ...

... a judgment, therefore, an ... to a relevant ... the judgment ... In support ...urno Chunder, 15 M 378 and ... For the respondents it is contended that the relevancy of judgments is governed by sections 40 to 43 of the Evidence Act and that a judgment not inter partes is not evidence ...

issue or relevant fact, even though the judgment may be between persons who ...

...ds" Then after dissenting from the Parbutty Dassi v Purno Chunder Singh ... Mahpal Singh, 5 C 744 = 6 C L R 593, ...ectness of this decision (i e Parbutty ...oubted in Sundar Das v Fatimul ul nissa ...

Appavu, 12 M 9 ... a judgment not inter ... a fact in issue or ...

S. 35.

ition between the parties." Ind. Cas 298='0 C W N Ind Cas 583=43 C 707= 20 C W N 802=11 A L. J 121=18 Bom L R 490=21 C L J. 116, see also Asa Singh v Uansa Ram, 621 Ind Cas 509=A I R 1930 Lah 237 On a consideration of the authorities and the provisions of the Evidence Act it is clear

L. R 763

relevant under s 35, Indian Evidence Act. Gehimul v. Kurmumal, 10 S L R 38=25 Ind Cas 551

book death to be accepted as conclusive of the dates of the death recorded Rangappa v Ranga Swami A I R 1925 M W N 232=88 Ind. Cas 249=A. I. R. 19 Mad 1005 The register of deaths maintained under para 367 of the Police

Reddi v Kotaiyya, 33 M L J III of 1899, the Registers of Births and e Board of Revenue since the year 1865 do come under this section Ibid Entry in death register may be rejected when used to prove or disprove death on a particular day, if register is prepared in casual way. Kali v Sashi, A I R. 1930 Cal Death Registers are evidence of the
of ved tribunal Phip Ev 7th Ed. 332.

of a partition which affected the public revenue is admissible in l purpose only. Abdul Hamid v Khasra is not a record herein in the name of a tenant in 35 of the Evidence Act, but ory of the plot in question before bua, A I R. 1923 P. 163.

weight cannot be attached to a partition paper in the absence of detailed inform- S.

35 of the Evidence Act Soshi Bhoosan v Girish Chunder, 20 C. 940; see also Ramsarup v. Ramnaram, A. I R 1929 Pat. 32. A batuara chitta is not admissible in evidence under s. 35 of the Evidence Act. Isuar Chandra v. Taranath, 1 Ind. Cas. 307. Entries in batuara khasra papers are admissible in evidence, but it is for the Court to decide in each particular case whether the made in a proceeding under Reg. XIX of 1831 between predecessors of the parties to a suit are good and admissible evidence, quite apart from anything contained in section 35 of the Evidence Act. Khetra Nath v. Mahomed, 23 C. W. N. 48 = 45 Ind. Cas. 921.

Entry in a certified copy. Under this section an entry made on a certified copy indicating the date on which it was completed is certainly relevant But when an enquiry as to correctness of such an entry has been started or its report Nizam Din v Mahomed Iqbal, 108 Ind. Cas 619 = A. I R 1928 Lah. 643.

Ghori v. Ajudhia, 14 R. D 444

Satish Chandra Mukho- ficate of guardianship was be a record kept by a Court of a District

S. 35.

erein So in the province of strict Judge to a guardian made by a public servant in in such record is there for meer Hasan v Ejaz Husain A I R 1929 Oudh 135; see Mehdi Ali v. Walayat Hasain, 5 Luck. 605 7 O W N 25 = 121 Ind Cas 277 = A I R 1930 Oudh 97 duty to titl ship c

of his official duty and the same was recorded It was held that the statement was admissible in evidence on the question of relationship under this section Lal Harihar Pratap v Bishesu Ind Cas 422 = A I. R 1928 ( by the surveyor who recorded Ba Htue 5 Bur L J 116 = 98 Ind Cas 166 = A I R 1926 Rang 204; entries in a prescription register maintained by a Government in a Government although the particular compounder or c witness. D Cruz Oudh 310 Altl final or sole test published at the Bidya Prasad v Surkhur, 134 Ind Cas 638 = A I. R 1931 Pat 263. of Chari ssistant Collector is admissible Gan A report in police diary is admissib witness. Abheraj v Ga Singh, A I R. 1932 Oudh 137

Where the subdivisional officer directed an enquiry by a Kanungo of the circle into the matter of the complaint by virtue of s 202 (1) of Cr Pro Code was admissible the actual state for that purpose being an offici comes under section 35 of the Evidence Act, and is admissible without formal proof Mohan Singh v Emperor, L R 6 A 49 Cr = 85 Ind Cas 647 = 26 Cr L J 551 = A I R 1925 All 413 The contents of the report may be used as a corroborative piece of evidence to show that the implication of the accused in the offence is not an after thought. It cannot certainly be used as a substantive piece of evidence Mohan Singh v Emperor, supra

An Inam Register embodies the conclusions of the Inam Commissioner on S. 35

3 Ind Cas 616 = 48 M L J .

Protap Chandra Deo v Jagadish Chandra, A. I R 1925 Cal 116. Entries in the Siyaha are made by the Patwari in the ordinary course of business and are

4 M. L J 182 = 72 Ind Cas 214. Extracts from Revenue Registers Nos 1 and

Surendra Nath, (1919) Pat 465 = 53 Ind Cas 20

A recital in a public record as to a statement made by a public servant with reference to a particular statement of the grant by the Government may be admitted, under section 35 of the Evidence Act as proving that the public servant made the statement that he is to have made, if the fact that he made such a statement is a relevant fact. Sankaracharya v Manali Saravana Mudaliar, 51 Ind C 876

Revenue Records are not evidence of title for they are kept for fiscal purposes and it is not part of the duty of the Revenue Officer to record title But under the Land Acquisition Act Secretary v Satish, 58 C 828 = 35 C W 173 P C

Though survey entries in survey records may not be sufficient evidence to prove that certain land is poramboke they are good evidence where the only question is as to the extent of poramboke land Kalayal v Secretary of State, 2 L W 413 = 29 Ind Cas 154

Officer that the name of this or that person was entered as the occupant of certain lands could be admissible if relevant, but it would not be admissible

S. 36.

36. Statements of facts in issue or relevant facts made in published maps or charts generally offered for public sale, or in maps or plans made under the authority of Government, as to matters usually represented or stated in such maps, charts or plans, are themselves relevant facts Relevancy of statements in maps, charts and plans.

Principle This section ... charts generally offered f... authority of Government are in favour of any inaccuracy being challenged and open to the criticism of all, the prob... (7th Ed) The person or persons who prepared the map in question, ... unavailable, both the principle of Necessity and the principle of the Guar... of Trustworthiness are satisfied Hence ...

ment surveyor ... rized to do; an

... to make return of his ... official surveys, and his returns are the... admissible Wigmore § 1665

Scope of the section ... charts offered for public sale ... country, etc, and as regards ... the section refers not ... fields Whiteh... Stat ... also boundaries of villages estates and (in Khasra ...

... Castro, alias Orton, L R 9 Q B 350, 12 Cox C C 454, ... B D 406, 14 Cox C C 436, 6 App Cas 229, 14 Cox C C 546 Under ... rule excluding declarations ... are admissible in Engla... Car & P 481, Bridg... L R 5 Ch D 709

a map is prepared, must be an authority given by statute Gahjoo La... Jagat Pal, 11 C W N 230=9 C L J. 415 But there must be judicial ... quasi judicial duty to enquire by a public officer Sturla v Freccia, 5 App ... 623, Irish Society v Derry, 12 C & F 64.

Survey ...

... Nevertheless, the principle was sufficiently recognized at common law ... Evans v Taylor, 7 A & A 617; Wigmore § 1665 These maps were also ... because they were findings by ...

it raises a reasonable presumption of title. Revenue Survey maps are not conclusive and may be shown to be wrong Ramnandan v Jaigobind, 2 Pat. 839. Thak and survey maps are not conclusive as to whether lands which formed part of the bed of the river were included in the permanent settlement of 1793. It is not permissible for a Court to act on the assumption that in 1793 a state of things existed different from what appeared from any evidence before the Court. Secretary of State for India v Upendra Narain, 71 Ind. Cas. 819 = A. I. R. 1923 Cal. 217 = 36 C. L J. 336. Maps and surveys made for revenue purposes are official documents prepared by competent person with due publicity and after notice to ... ...issible as ... They are ... h weight. ...

As a rule exparte statements in survey maps should be created on the same basis as books ... corroboration of ... distant times, ... available their value assumes greater proportions, and if they indicate a state of ... hey may be ... rd and fast ... this nature ... 28 Pat. 281 ... not direct ... the survey was made. In each case the Court has got to decide whether the evidence of possession is sufficient to raise a reasonable presumption of title. A survey map is an official document prepared by competent persons interested and with such publicity and notice to persons interested as to be admissible and valuable evidence of the state of things at the time they were made" Debendra v. Surendra, 31 C. W. N 419 = 102 Ind Cas 370 = 45 C. L J. 474 = A. I R. 1927 Cal. 347; see also Musst Bibi v. Deo Nandan, 5 Pat. L J. 681 = 2 Pat L. T. 81 = 59 Ind. Cas 298

Where the parties consent to be bound to regard the boundary lines as laid by the su... correctnes... Kistwari... between th... but evide... Abdul, 3 P... favour of the accuracy of thak and survey maps and it is for the party who ...

Ind Cas 182 There is no gener... on the thak or survey map must be presumed to have been in existence at the time of the permanent settlement The question is essentially one of fact and must be determined on the facts and circumstances of each case Profulla Nath ...

...ntrary ... made. ... maps ... but it ... at the time of the permanent settlement. Ananda Hari v Secretary of State, 3 C L J. 316, Mirza Shamsher v Kunj Behari, 7 C L J 414 Unless it can be proved that the person against whom a thak or survey map is attempted to be used

S. 36. expressly consented to the delineation or admitted the correctness of such maps they have no binding effect Kristomoni v Secretary of State, 3 C W N 53 ... thak map is admissible as evidence ...

... But a ... sufficient to prove ... v Gobind, 9 C ... Watson & Co, 27 ... sought to be set ... an Amin's report ... v Bisseshur, 5 W. R 34 If there has been a Government survey, the survey map must be taken as evidence. Radha Choudhrain v Gudharee, 20 W. R ... 25 W. R 153; Guddadhur v Tar ...

v. Fakrunissa, 15 Ind Cas. 159.

Thakbust map. ... sketches, in ... magnetic be ... made from c ... Bhusan Bane ... thak authori ... to title or pos ... can legitimately be drawn from thak map Debendra La v. Secretary of State 31 C ...

... and is in possession ... the zemindari papers ... value of such a map is ...

... was jungle ... discoverable from a mere inspection ... nor their agents have by their signatures, admitted the correctness of the ... Joytara v Mohomed ...

... picked up and verified the thak marks indicated ... in the thakbust map, prepared the revenue map by accurate observations made by, expert surveyors with scientific instruments Keshabjee v Sashi bhusan 90 Ind Cas. 1027 = A I R. 1926 P 385 As the object of a thakbust survey and map is to ascertain and delineate the boundaries of the estates borne on the Revenue roll of the District, the entry in a thak map that certain lands formed part of an estate become a relevant fact under this section and such entries are evidence on which a Court may act. Abdul Hamid v Kiran Chandra, 71 W N 849

Entries in a . . . . . . 1 Court of fact to hold that disputed . . . . . . it the time of the Permanent Settlem . . . it the boundary . . . . . . Ramnandan v. . . . . y that the state . . . survey maps existed at the time of the . . . . State v. Wazed, 31 C L J. 111 A . . . . . fmin in connection with the measurement . . . . is a rough register, statements entered in . . . affected thereby had notic . . .

23 C. 552.

In case of dispute between Thak and . . . revenue survey map which was carefully and officers and the thakbust map do not agree, . . . pillars, put down on the ground . . . xistence; and they correspond with . . . the field book and the materials . . . ish sufficient data The revenue . . . e signature of the revenue surveyor on the thak map does not mean that if the thak map is reduced to the same scale as the revenue survey map, then the two boundaries will necessarily agree but merely that the surveyor has satisfied himself that the boundary accepted and intended by the demarcation staff has been correctly picked up on the ground, . . . an v Ramjas, 3 Pat 85 . . . Cas 1027= A I R . . . jah Mahendra Ranjan, 4 . . . rule that a . . .

. . . the thak and the survey . . . clearly agrees with the . . . There is no general or . . . llow either the one or the other, the Court may, if it considers the thak map more reliable, follow that in preference to the survey map Abid Hossein v Doucourry Pal, 6 C. W. N 629

. . . held that a Topographical survey map of 1869 in which the boundary line between the two perganahs was given, was admissible in evidence under section 36 of the Evidence Act When pergannah boundaries are found entered in such . . .

S. 36 valuable eviden conclusive and contrary, they made. In cases o to possession is boundary line on absence of better evidence, the lower Appellate Court erred in law in not accepting a Topographical survey map as evidence of possession at the time the map was made. Gajhoo Damor v. Kotwar Jagatpal, 11 C. W. N 230=9 C. L. J. 415.

45 M. L J 444=50 C. 446=50 I. A 121=(1923) M. W. N 511 The map ... rd is the settlement map and the entr... in a different notation and therefore the ... map, nor is it an independent piece of evidence Laharam v Gurmukh Rao, 99 Ind. Cas. 628=A I R 1927 N. 204 Maps prepared under the Calcutta Survey Act have great evidentiary value as regards question of title Debendra v. Surendra, 31 C W N 419=102 Ind Cas. 370=45 C. L. J. 474=A I R 1927 Cal 345 A site plan prepared for ... of

Warden of the Cinque Part was excluded and this decision was ... appeal in Mercer v Denn, (1905) 2 Ch. 538, 555 A map prepared by a Commissioner entrusted with local inspection is only evidence in the case in which he was entrusted with such inspection. Dinabandhu v Aslarun, 12 C L R 50

Under sections 36 and 83 a map prepared by a Deputy Collector particularly for the settlement of land forming the settled bed of a river is not admissible ... Kanto Prosad v Jagat Chandra, 23 C 335 A map prepared for one purpose ... eonath Mozumdar v Durga Tarini 11 C. ... maps and plans were prepared by the ... not for a private purpose, such maps and plans are relevant facts under section 36 of the Evidence Act Rahimatulla v Secretary of State, 112 P ... =18 Ind Cas. ...
Though a Rennell Survey ... is valuable evidence on not conclusive of its non e N. 1113; see also Secretary of State v ... Haradas Acharya v The Secretary of State, 26 C L J, 590 A map pr... a kanungo, is not relevant under this section. Tarini Sarkar v Fakram ...

maps and chittas are g...
Maps and plans prepared under this section. Rahim
Cas 799.

37. When the Court has to form an opinion as to the existence of any fact of a public nature, any statement of it, made in a recital contained in any Act of Parliament, or in any Act of the Governor General of India in Council, or of "any other legislative authority in British India constituted for the time being under the Indian Councils Act, 1861, the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 and 1892, or the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 to 1909,"* or in a notification of the Government appearing in the Gazette of India, or in the Gazette of any Local Government, or in any printed paper purporting to be the London Gazette or the Government Gazette of any colony or possession of the Queen, is a relevant fact.†

Relevancy of statement as to fact of public nature contained in certain Acts or notifications.

S.

Legislative recitals—Principle The general grounds of reception are (1) sometimes advanced (vide R v. Sutton, 4 M & S 532, 549)—cannot otherwise suffice to give it any weight as evidence in controversy) But, next, it is clear he authority to inform itself was in fact the distinction of a statement in the recit

* Substituted by Act X of 1914, Sch 1

† The last paragraph added by s 2 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1899 (5 of 1899), was repealed by the Schedule II of Act X of 1914

S. 37. Phillips in R v Suton, 4 M & S 532, 539 These considerations indicate it as the wiser course to reject ordinarily such recitals as evidence Should it be made to appear that the recitals offered unknown basis but are n means of information h for their admission as official statements made with due authority and up adequ of th 532 ( and and v seem forth by the learned Judge is not sufficient to meet the objection raised by Wigmore, neither by Prof Wigmor laws to operate on accrued or vested u ought in such a intended that is an apology for the passage of the act and the reason why Legislature so acted Such a preamble is evidence that the facts were represented to the Legislature, and not that they are really so' Elmo dr v Carmichal, 3 Litt 472, 480 So the better opinion seems to be that the Legislature has no jurisdiction to determine facts touching the rights of individuals.' Parmalee v Thompson, 7 Hill N Y 77 (80)

Recital co
of a statute is t made by autho spiritual and truth ' Cole v sible Leister
But in England recital in a Private Act was not admitted Gardner v Le Merchant's Rep 276 Bret v Beales 1 M & M 416 421 But this distinction is apparently not only without principle to support it but is also ill adapted to in [illegible] of those outrages to support the averments to that effect in an information libel on the Government in relation to them R. v Sutton, 4 M & S 53 so a recital of a state of war, in the preamble of a public Statute is good evidence

Khn, 17 How St Tr 63
ence of the action of that House upon vp 17 Root v King 7 Cowen 613 E S 191 This section makes no di is as much relevant as the same England recitals in Private between the persons in whose behalf they are enacted 21 Beav 619 Beaufort v Smith 4 Ex 450, Cowell v Chambers, 21 Beav against the stran Colchestera 36 L J C P 20 They are not however evidence against to the act Elmondroff v admissible to prove the qu and speeches of members, these publications not having the authority of mentary Journals (McCarthy v Kennedy Times March 4, 1905, per D of 1855 cited in Phip Ev 7th Ed p 325) Section 9 of the repealed Act II of 1855 follows: "Any r... ndia in Council, ...

S. 3

reinafter to be pa... l such Courts an...
cited" This has been incorporated in this section.

... though ... nclusive ... rely as ... ot as determinations of controverted ... be made evidentially conclusive ... 1352; see also Harrat v. Wise, 9 B C. 712; R. v Greene, 6 A. & E 518; R v Franklin, 17 How St Tr 636; Att. Gen v. Bradlaugh, 14 Q B D 667 So a legislative declaration of fact that are material only as the ground for enacting a rule of law—for instance, that the use is public one may not be held conclusive by the Courts; but a declaration by a Legislature concerning public conditions that by necessity and ... ock v Heigh, 256 U ... se, the recital may ... Wigmore § 1352

...

rinciple admissible The executive cannot be supposed to need express authority

...

Canada).

Government Gazette The Government Gazette is admissible and sufficient evidence of such acts of the executive or of the Government, as are usually ... inations and the ... , 8 Price 89 For, ... the publisher to ...

... nature proof of the publication under due authority Goodeve Ev 307 The Government Gazette is also evidence of various Acts of state at common law R. v. Holt, 5 T R 436, A G v Theal stone, 8 Price, 89, Taylor § 1662; Phip.

S. 38 Ev. 4th Ed. 711. The appointment of an officer may be proved by the government Gazette. R. v. Gardner, 2 . .
2 Mod. & R. 363, where the . . division of a parish. The Gov of sale, and a printed paper in the Gazette, and issued from t were admitted in evidence to Jatindra v Brajo, W. R. (8864) 5.. conclusive even where such knowledge is presumed from the publication of a fact in the Government Gazette Harret v. Wise, 9 B. & C. 712.

Gazette of India Previous to 1863, the Government of India had no exclusive organ of its own; its notifications, orders, etc, being published in any of the Local Gazettes of the Local Governments as was necessary. In that as the Gazette of the Government 1863 was passed to give to publication ablication in any other Gazette in which publication was prescribed by the law then in force. Vide s. 1 of Act XXXI of 1863; Field's Ev 7th Ed 152 document constantly used and referred to, are to be assumed genuine principles, however, are in fact usually involved, first, the admissibility of a proved to be printed by official authority, as hearsay evidence of the contents of the original and secondly the presumption of genuineness of a particular two que nction of nction of t, to prove ng to be The Judge

ent, proof of its being bought of the Gazette printer, or where it came form. Wigmore § 2151 Section 81 of the Indian Evidence Act enacts: "The Court shall presume

known or observed by all and in which persons in general have well as which is done by an officer of the Government, executive, legislative or judicial.

38. When the Court has to form an opinion as to a law of any country, any statement of such law contained in a book purporting to be printed or published under the authority of the Government of such country and to contain any such law, and any report of a ruling of the Courts of such country contained in a book purporting to be a report of such rulings, is relevant.

Relevancy of statements as to any law contained in law books.

S. 3

Principle. There is no reason why an officer may not be authorized to give printed copies as well as to give written copies; nor has there been any doubt that such authorized copies are admissible Yet it cannot be said that such an

had their source, not so much in a doubt of any of these principles, as in the the copy rather than the authority to furnish it that the dificulties have arisen. Wigmore § 1681 "Not that the printed Statutes are perfect and authentic copies of records themselves, but every person is supposed to know the law, and therefore the printed Statutes are allowed to be evidence because they are the prints of what is supposed to be lodged in every man's mind already Buller J Trials at Nisi Prias, 225 The reason of their reception is thus stated by Duncan J. . . uthentic publication danger of mistake a Statute King's for by t affords to all parties, and en the States The rule, too, nger of abuse, and error or rry, 28 N H provides that be printed

law authorized reports of foreign countries would be admissible to show the ports of the domestic Government as well ld not be admissible. Taking every thing seems, to extend the meaning of the section of India, Great Britain and other foreign countries.

Mich 196

. 38. by an expert witness (Title 45 ... copy? It is usually said that ... case a copy must be used But the ...
that the state of Statute, but o l ... copy of it. This argument has much force but rarely prevailed, except that Statute already proven by copy Cowp 161, 174; Picton's Trial ...

178, Alivan v. Furnival, 1 C M. & R 291; Millore v. Heinrich, 4 Camp 1...
Baron de Bode's Case, 8 Q. B 250; Cocks v Purday, 2 C & K 270, Nelson ... Bradfort, 8 Beav. 539, Sussex Peerage Case, 11 Cl & F 115; Bremer v Freem. ... 10 Moore P C. 362, Greenl Ev § 488. The particular question is whether ... evidence of a foreign "written law" should be presented in the shape of a c... or merely by recollection testimony of one qualified to know it Wigmore § 12... In Baron de Bode's Case, 8 Q B 250, Patterson J said: 'I quite agree that witness conversant with the law of a foreign country may be asked what in ... opinion the law of that country is But I cannot help thinking that as so... as it appears that he ...

I ... why the rule should not be the same in the case of a foreign writ... law I think the rule would be just the same if the question related to ... French Code as existing at this moment. If a witness were asked what the l... now is with respect to a bill of exchange in France, and were immediately cro... examined as to whether that law was not in writing, and answered that it wa... I think a copy of the law must be produced.' So also Justice Story sta... "Generally speaking authenticated copies of the written laws, or other publ... instruments of a foreign Governm... not to be presumed th authenticated, which justice in foreign coun foreign Government on Conflict of Laws § 640.

According to this section evidence of foreign statute law can be given ... the authorised copy of the Statute of the foreign government But section ... of the Act says that it can be proved as well by the opinions of persons special... skilled in such law Now the proving a foreign statute, or different circumstances The
"But the answer to this is clear purely and simply directed to the contents of a specific Statute, the proof ... be by copy of its terms But in the usual case this is not the question. The inquiry is as to the state of law at the present time or at a given time past ... inquiry ...

... ter accuracy, would ... se other material elements" ... JJ in Baron de Bode's Case ... Sussex Peerage Case, 11 Cl. & F. 115; Cocks v. Purday, 2 C. & K. 270, vide notes under s 45 But in some cases a copy was required. ... Harford v Morris, 2 Hagg Cons 430, Boenllinck v Schneider, 3 Esp ... Cl... v Levy, 3 Camp. 166; Miller v. Heinrich, 1 Camp 155; Alves v Hodgson, 7 T R ...

S. :

The books are produced, but the witness, describes them as authoritative Proof. of the law itself, in a case of foreign law, could not be taken from the book of the law, but from witness who described the law If the witness says. 'I know the law and this book truly states the law,' then you have the authority of the witness Majesty's Dominions to ascertain the law of that part. Phip Ev 4th Ed. 359; Lord v Colvin, 1 D & S 24; Login v Princess of Coorg, 30 Beav, 632=1 Jour. O. S 109. So also by Stat 24 & 25 Vict Ch 11, a similar case may be stated for the opinion of a Court in any foreign state with which His Majesty may have entered into a convention for ascertainment of such law Phip Ev. 4th Ed 359 An unauthorized translation of the Code Napoleon is not a work to which reference can be made under this section Christian v. Delanncy, 26 C 931= 3 C W. N. 611 Under this section the Ceylon Insolvency Ordinances might be looked at to decide the question of the defendant's liability Devanayagam v. Muthu Kumar Swamy, 14 Ind Cas 560 admits authorized as well as unauthorized Law Reports when the latter is recog-or shall ded by report

always been done and ought to be done A judgment is none the less an authority because it has not been reported, otherwise the question of whether or not a judgment could or could not be regarded, would depend upon the mere whim of the Reporter I therefore respectfully dissent from the view on this point expressed in the case reported in 4 C W N 732" Brett and Banerjee JJ. concurred with him; see also Trustees, P. D. v. Venkata Chalam, 92 Ind. Cas.

S. 39. 710 An unauthorised report of a High Court case is entitled to respect. L J 153=A I. R 1925 Nag 414 Unauthorized reports are on the s footing as an unreported case 24 O. C. 319.

HOW MUCH OF A STATEMENT IS TO BE PROVEI

39. When any statement of which evidence is given form part of a longer statement, or of a conversation or part of an isolated document, or i contained in a document which forms par of a book, or of a connected series of letters or papers, evidence shall be given of so much and no more of the statement, conversation, document, book or series of letters or papers as the Court considers necessary in that particular case to the full understanding of the nature and effect of the statement, and of the circumstances under which it was made

What evidence is to be given when statement, forms part of a conversation, document book or series of letters or papers

Principle ... ing of an uttera ... word in another p ... clause is modified by a prior or subsequent clause; one sentence qualifies another; and one paragraph may form only a part of the whole exposition We must compare the whole, not because we desire the remainder for its own sake, but because without it we cannot be sure that we have the true sense and ... f parts is thus as ... he in tru ting ... emainder was." ... a portion only

... ent or subsequent words or ... the thing produced, and give ... Buller, J, Trials in N. P. ... 298 ...

... or criminal ... statement ... taken together; for thus alone can the whole of what the person making the statem ...

How St Tr 257 ... ce against him can ... In Algernon Sidney's ... arguing passages piecemeal said "My l ... you will make all the penmen of sc. ... David of saying' there is no G ... ngelists of saying, ... was a ... t they were drunk." ... L C J ... part of it that explains the sens ... e trifled with a little. It is ... you must not take that alone, ... is heart, There is no God' Now here ... call for it" This rule ... you can say there is any part that is in the admission of an opponent and to conversations in general, including in impeachment. Where a series of letters in a correspondence, or of entries in an account-book are involved, it is sometimes difficult to draw the line between those which are in effect part of the same statement and those which are not S (Call v. Howard, 3 Stark. 6; Sturge v. Buchanan, 10 A & E 59; Roe v Day, 7 C & P. 705) But it seems that so far as the letter or oral statement put in as an admission was written or made in reply, or contains within it a reference to a under section 33 Prince v Samo, 7 A & E 627

Abbot C J in the Queen's Case, 2 B & B 297, observed. "The conversations of a party to the suit, relative to the subject matter of the suit, are in themselves evidence against him in the suit, and if a counsel chooses to ask a witness as to anything which might have been said by an adverse party, the counsel for that party has a right to lay before the Court the whole which was said by his client in the same conversation—not only so much as may explain or qualify the matter introduced by the previous examination, but even matter not properly connected with the part introduced upon the previous examination, provided only that it relates to the subject-matter of the suit because it would not be just to take part of a conversation as evidence against a party without giving to the party what he said on the same heory at least, be defended E 627 Denman L C J "We cannot assent to it. We will merely observe that it was not introduced as an answer to any question proposed by the House of Lords, and may therefore be strictly regarded as extra judicial, that it was not necessary as a reason for the answer to the question that was proposed, that it was not in terms adopted by Lord Eldon or any of the other Judges who concurred, that it was expressly denied by Lords Redesdale and Wynford, and that it does not rest on any previous authority" The Indian Legislature has wisely left to the discretion book

f the

iders

and

d to

is concerned, they are still governed by the provisions of section 27 which must be construed as favourably to the accused as possible for it is a section which makes an , namely sections 25 A I R 1929 Lah ting in a confession in respect of which the bar created by ss 24, 25 and 26 Evidence Act, has not been removed by s 27 Sakhan v Emperor A I R 1929 Lah 341 Because a document is admissible first, whether the party other parts, of the conversation, document, whose statement it is, may afterwards, by remainder, or other parts, or other statements

Tr. N S. 785) or a lost writing Hardy's Trial, 24 How St. Tr 681 As to a in Bankruptcy Such judgments her parties or strangers Such bind only parties ... as between persons not so affect... Judgments in personam are all Co Lit 271 donor or do ancestor and

... ...chers; (3) In law (or representation) as testator and executor, intestate or administrator, tenant and lord ... successive incumbents The s parties, viz, that a party cl manner as the original party of their legal effect, as distin (Cockle Cas 14)

The distinction between judgments in rem and judgments in personam was thus laid down by Blackburn J in Castrique v. Imrie, L R 4 H L pp 4?– 429 'Some points are clear Where a tribunal, no matter whether in En... or a foreign country has to ...

judgment country rights of tl exercise of that jurisdiction ... on the disposition of the thing, and does in the
of any particular party in it, be sold or transferred, the case is very different Whatever it settles as to the right or title, or whatever disposition it makes of the property by sale reven... valid in

... has also been defined as a judgment by a Court having special jurisdiction over the subject-matter (M Dannel v Alcorn, [1894] 1 Ir R 274, 278); such judgments operate ... (Needham v Bremner ...

... of two reasons—first on account of the solemn ...
publicity attending such judgments; secondly, on account of the princip...

S.

Interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium (It concerns the state that there should be an end to all law suits) Hence the maxim, transit in rem judicatum The gment and also principle is that solemn character, must be presumed to be faithfully recorded), but that it between the Ev 10th

up Ev.
Alijan,
ist 361;

relevancy of 74) F B But the judgment

parties, except where the judgment is clearly res judicata A judgment other than a judgment referred to in ss 40 to 42 may be admissible to prove that a right was asserted or denied under s 13 of the Evidence Act or to explain or introduce facts in issues or to explain the history of the case Purnima v Nand, 12 Pat L. T 582=A I R 1932 Pat 105 The law of evidence does not make a one suit t Tulsi applies should not do so because that matter has been decided before Lakshman v. Ramdas, A I R 1929 Cal 374 (F B)

Judgment, meaning of The word judgment in sections 40—44 means any final judgment, order or decree of any Court Step, Dig Ev art 32

Scope of the section This section deals with judgment in personam and is v Bapu Kaihor, 10 B 439, anji v Dipa, 3 B p 3), it is plain ns

ge, er, also

S. 40. 2 of Act VIII of 1859 was to be construed as including a material issue, and we think that, similarly, the terms 'taking cognizance of a suit' may be construed as including a material issue in the suit between the same parties; in other words, that section 40 was intended to include cases in which the general law relating to res judicata inter partes as then understood applied" This section provides that the existence of a judgment, decree, or order is a relevant fact, if by law it has the effect of preventing any Court from taking cognizance of a suit or of holding a trial Per Mitter J in Gujju Lal v. Fatch Lal, 6 C 171 (176) In the same case Garth C J at p 190 said "It is true that s 40, might have been shown to the surv... the record is the entry Ram ... Balbin, 21 B 235, Gopal v Dasarathi 21 B 244; Gopal v Mogesnuar, ... Antaji v Madhab, 21 B 480 Where a subsisting judgment, order or decree, relevant under this section is set up by one party as a bar to the claim of the ... Court judicata or otherwise under some other rule ... This section ... because do with question of evidence beyond the adm... a plea of res judicata is not a plea as ... barring the ... parties ... refers ... to a point in issue Udamauthal v Parameswara, 85 Ind Cas ... 460 = A I R 1925 Mad 1019

Khoti Act, conclusive and final evidence of the liability thereby ... and the Civil Court cannot look behind the entry And, under the circumstances mentioned above, the evidence of a decision otherwise relevant under s 40 of the ... a date of the survey entry ... that the

Principle The doctrine of estoppel is a fundamental doctrine of all Courts that there must be an end of litigation Re May, (1885) 28 Ch D 516 (C A) Judgments being public transaction of a solemn nature are presumed to be faithfully recorded Every judgment is therefore, conclusive evidence for or against all persons of its own existence, date and legal effect as distinguished from the accuracy of the decision rendered Phip Ev 7th Ed. 392.

Foreign Judgment A party who has submitted to the jurisdiction of a foreign Court is bound by its judgment, when such judgment is within jurisdiction and does not offend the principles of natural justice. Irregularities which do not affect the jurisdiction of the Court do not vitiate such judgment

...w of the foreign Court, render the S. adugul amou Copin ection shall be conclusive as to any matter es under whom they or any of them (a) where it has not been pronounc ... b) where it has not been given on the merits of the case; (c) where it appears on incorrect view of international India in cases in which such law ...ich the judgment was obtained are opposed to natural justice, (e) where it has been obtained by fraud; (f) where it sustains a claim founded on a breach of any law in force in British India."

So a foreign judgment operates as res judicata except in the six cases specified in section 13 of the Civil Procedure Code of 1908 Bababhai v Narharbhai, 13 B 224 "Where a Court of competent jurisdiction has adjudicated a certain sum to be due from one person to another, a legal obligation arises to pay that sum on which an action of debt to enforce the judgment may be maintained It is in this way that the judgments of foreign and colonial Courts are supported and enforced" Per Parke B in Williams v Jones, 13 M & W. 633, Russel v Smith, 9 M & W 819, Goddard v Gray, L R 6 Q B 139

So where the subject matter is a res so situated as to be within the lawful control of the state under the authority of which a Court sits and that authority has conferred on the Court jurisdiction to decide as to the disposition of the thing and the Court has acted within that jurisdiction, that decision is conclusive, they are final and unalterable by the Court pronouncing them Duchess of Kingstons' Case, 2 Sm L C 731, Ricardo v Garcias, 12 Cl. & F 368; Nouvion v. Freeman, 15 App Cas 1

Previous Judgment to bar a second suit A judgment which is not a judgment in rem, is not admissible in evidence against those who are neither parties to it nor derive title through such parties, as proof of the facts determined therein. Kesho Prosad v Kashinath, A I R 1926 Pat 577=97 Ind Cas 282 Under section 40, the existence of a decree is a relevant fact when the question is whether in or to hold th

would also conclude the trial of the question as to what the rate of rent at the date of that suit was if the decree showed that that question was heard and finally decided in that suit Ibid 'It is not competent for the Court, in the case of the same question arising between the same parties, to review a previous decision If the decision was wrong it ought to have been appealed against" Per Lord Macnaghten in Badar Bee v Habib Merican, (1909) A C at p 623, see also Huntley v Gaskell, (1905) 2 Ch 656; Mangma v Wright, (1909) 2 K B, 958, Humphries v Humphries, (1910) 1 K B 796

Res judicata by general principles of law Where a matter has been

S. 40. 2 of Act VIII of 1859 was to be construed as including a material issue, and we think that, similarly, the terms 'taking cognizance of a suit' may be construed as including a material issue in the suit between the same parties; in other words, that section 40 was intended to include cases in which the general law relating to res judicata inter partes as then understood applied" This section provides that the existence of a judgment, decree, or order is a relevant fact if by law it has the effect of preventing any Court from taking cognizance of a suit or of holding a trial Per Mitter J in Gujju Lal v. Fatch Lal, 6 C 11 (176) In the same case Garth C J at p 190 said "It is true that s 40, m... have be ... VIII of ... Dayee v ... was in ... whether civil or criminal, from taking cognizance of a suit or trying any particular issue The words 'holding a trial' are amply large enough to admit of this construction, and it is not because in some other Act the words 'holding a trial', may have been construed to refer to criminal trials only, and we ought to confine their meaning in the same way in s 40 of the Evidence Act" See also the judgment of Mitter J in page 176 A party is precluded from contending the contrary of any precise point which, having been once distinctly put in issue, ... Expaite Official Receiver, (1896) 1 Q B. ... st and second actions are different, the ... irectly (not collaterally or incidentally) in ... a second action between the same parties. Prietman v Thomas, 9 P. D 210 C A; Halsbury Vol XIII p 33 An entry in a record prepared under s 108 of the Bombay Revenue Code, by the Survey ... the Bombay ...

Khots have never received tha... conclusive effect of the entry ... have been shown to the surv... the record is the entry Ram ... Balbin, 21 B 235, Gopal v ... Antaji v Madhab, 21 B 480 Where a subsisting judgment, order or ... relevant under this section is set up by one party as a bar to the claim of the other, the latter can show that the judgment, order etc, was delivered by a Court without jurisdiction or was obtained by fraud or collusion, and it is not necessary ... Bansi Lal v Dey ... admissible judgments ... own as plea of res ... ection has nothing to ... judgments because a plea of res judicata is not a plea as a matter of evidence, but only a pl... barring the actio... as a ... atte... of ... from the rules of evid... also Sita ... contain ... to a poir ... 460 = A I R 1925 Mad 1019

Principle The doctrine of estoppel is a fundamental doctrine of all Courts that there must be an end of litigation. Re May, (1885) 28 Ch D 516 (C A). Judgments being public transaction of a solemn nature are presumed to be ... therefore, conclusive evidence for or ... , date and legal effect as distinguished ... Phip Ev 7th Ed. 392.

Foreign Judgment A party who has submitted to the jurisdiction of a foreign Court is bound by its judgment, when such judgment is within jurisdiction and does not offend the principles of natural justice. Irregularities which do not affect the jurisdiction of the Court do not vitiate such judgment only when it is so pleaded, or there is an opportunity of so pleading it Otherwise it is only a relevant fact from which the Court may draw a conclusion in favour of the person who tenders it as evidence. Vooght v. Winch, 2 B & Ald 662.

But "the plea of res judicata as a bar to an action belongs to the province of adjective law, a l litis ordinationem ; but difference of opinion prevails among jurists as to whether the rule belongs to the domain of procedure or constitutes a rule of the law of evidence as furnishing a ground of estoppel In England, and I may say also in America, the rule is usually dealt with as belonging to the law of ...

judicata pro

alling beyo

procedure pr n the result, denying the ac he similarity

he ratio upon distinguishable

also Raicharan

Sections

previous judg

n a subseque

No Cour

substantially suit between the same parties, or between the parties under whom they or any of them claim, litigating under the same title, in a Court competent to try such subsequent suit or the suit in which such issue has been subsequently raised, and has been heard and finally decided by such Court

Explanation I The expression "former suit" shall denote a suit which has been decided prior to the suit in question whether or not it was instituted prior thereto

Explanation II For the purposes of this section, the competence of a Court shall be determined irrespective of any provisions as to a right of appeal from the decision of such Court

Explanation III The matter above referred to must in the former suit have been alleged by one party and either denied or admitted, expressly or impliedly, by the other have been made med to have been a

is not expressly granted by the decree, shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to have been refused

Explanation VI Where persons litigate bonafide in respect of a public cause

a suit in respect of such cause

A judgment in per record and their privies

S. 40. cannot canvass the same question again in another action, although, perhaps there must be an end of litigation, otherwise there would be no security for any person"

Stay o the matter instituted su or any of in the same relief claim continued by the Governor-General in Council and having like jurisdiction, o before

a suit in a foreign Court does not preclude the C · a suit founded on the same cause of action Vide section 10 of the Civil Procedure Code of 1908; see also Moyl v Kasouji 1 C L R 282, Balkissen v Kishan Lal, 11 A 148, Ramalinga v Raghunath, 20 M 418, Venkappa v Manjurath, 16 M L J 526; Bissessur v

Din Shaw v Galstaun 29 Bom L R 382=102 Ind Cas 229=A I R Bom 245; see also Kuberan v Kornan Nair, 88 Ind Cas 421=48 M L J
=A suit shall include the whole of act bring the suit w sue in respect of, not afterwards sue in respect of the portion so omitted or relinquished action person entitle may sue for the Court, t so omitted for its performance and successive claims arising under the same shall be deemed respectively to constitute but one cause of action Order II, rule 2, Civil Procedure Code

Previous Acquittals or Convictions Section 403 of the Criminal Procedure Code 1898 follows —A person who against him might have been made under section 236, or for which he been convicted under section 237

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged

Explanation The dismissal of a complaint, the stopping of proceedings under section 249, the discharge of the accused, or any entry made upon a charge under section 273, is not an acquittal for the purposes of this section

Judgments how proved If a party offering a record does so in support of a plea of res judicata, or to show that he has acquired or his adversary has lost some title or right either by the judgment alone or by it and proceedings taken for its enforcement, the whole record so far as it concerns the formal stages, must be either produced or exemplified, and if exemplified, the exemplification must show on its face that the record is complete and is regular nor can the record be patched with parol Wharton on Evidence § 824 Before any document, whether an original or a copy can be received in evidence of a judicial proceeding, it must, in general appear that the record or entry of such proceeding has been finally completed Taylor Ev 10th Ed § 1570

Judgments not relevant under ss 40 to 43 R was charged with the offence of defamation and convicted The complainant then sued R in damages

41 A final judgment, order or decree of a competent Court, in the exercise of probate, matrimonial, admiralty or insolvency jurisdiction, which confers upon or takes away from any person any legal character, or which declares any person to be entitled to any such character, or to be entitled to any specific thing, not as against any specified person but absolutely, is relevant when the existence of any such legal character, or the title of any such person to any such thing, is relevant

Relevancy of certain judgments in probate, etc, jurisdiction

Such judgment, order or decree is conclusive proof—that any legal character which it confers accrued at the time when such judgment, order or decree came into operation , that any legal character, to which it declares any such person to be entitled, accrued to that person at the time when such judgment, *[order or decree] declares it to have accrued to that person , that any legal character which it takes away from any such person ceased at the time from which such judgment, *[order or decree] declared that it had ceased or should cease , and that anything to which it declares any person to be so entitled was the property of that person at the time from which such judgment, *[order or decree] declares that it had been or should be his property.

* These words in s 41 wherever they occur were inserted by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872) s 3

... continual doubt; and as regards things, that every one who can be affected by the decision may protect his interests by becoming a party to the proceedings. In addition to which it is to be remembered that a decision in rem not merely declares the status of the person or thing, but ipso facto renders it such as it is declared, thus a decree of divorce not only annuls the marriage, but renders the wife feme sole, and adjudication in bankruptcy not only declares, but constitutes, the debtor a bankrupt, a sentence in prize Court not merely declares the vessel prize, but it vests in the captor. Phipson Ev 7th Ed 397; cited with approval in ... Venkataramananayya, A I. R 1931 Mad ...

tion pronou...

... the status. So a ... person, but for the purpose of adjudicating upon ... of competent jurisdiction determining the status of a person or thing, or the disposition of a thing (as distinct from the particular interest in it of a party to the litigation (Castrique v Imrie, L R 4 H L 414, 428). Apart from the application of the term to persons it must affect the res in the way of condemnation, forfeiture, declaration of status or title, or order for sale or transfer. Halsbury, Vol XIII, p 327.

Scope of the section Th... makes ...

... Gangadas, A I. R 1928 Sind. 121 = 22 S L R ...

S.

the purposes for which the judgment of a competent Court operates as conclusive against the world, and so far as such purpose relates to the status or what is referred to as legal character of a person, it specifies three purposes only: it is conclusive against all the world as to that status, whereas in a judgment in

B. 455=65 L. J. Q. B. 616=75 L. T. 95.

is thus supposed to be a party. Nort. Ev. 214; Cunningham Ev. 187. The four

S. 41. classes of judgments, etc. which alone are to be conclusive, affect, it will be observed, the status of a person

... the status is that of a thing—that the title to it accrued at the time when the judgment declares it did or should where the vesting is in futuro. Ev. 215. Radhakessin v. Mt. Gangabai, 22 S. L. R. 105 = 1928 Sind. Judgments declaratory of

... therefore a ... conclusive against ... 1928 A. 385.

... Official Receiver v. Lakshmi ... 54 M. 727 = A. I. R. 1931 Mad. 474.

Probate Jurisdiction. The Courts in India exercise the Probate jurisdiction under Act XXXIX of 1925.

... m probate is granted ... ers as such may be ... I think that it was ... intended to include the case of an executor. The fact that the section has been frequently applied to cases of persons after the Hindu Wills Act came into force shows this. The only legal character when the Probate Court declares a person to be entitled to is that of executor. It confers the character of administrator. It does not declare it. So the section would be meaningless unless 'legal character' included the office of an executor. I do not think that the circumstance that in the particular case the powers of the executor may be limited, makes any difference in the construction of the section."

... s only granted after satisfactory evidence has ... quate capacity on the part of the testator ... (Jones v. Goodrich ...

in any Co... v. Duke of ... v. Concha ... Griffiths v. ... Harris, 1...

to probate must be taken to have been conclusively determined and therefore probate is conclusive proof of the due execution of the Will which is the foundation of the title of the executor. Chandreshuar v. Bisheshuar, A. I. R. 1927 P

R. [illegible] also Ralabundu v. Yanamandia, 79 [illegible] 4 C 360; Mayho v. Williams, 2 N. [illegible] anjanabai v. Ram Das, 4 C. W. N. clxxvi; China Sami v. Hariharabarda, 16 M 380; Jagan Nath v. Rangit, 25 C. 354; Mt. Phekni v. Mt. Manki, 9 Pat. 698 = 128 Ind. Cas. 128 = A. I. R. 1930 Pat. 618.

Court in such matters is conclusive. See also Field Ev 335 in a Common-law Court, either he executed the Will (Marrio not then in England (Whitaker L. R 29 Ch. D. 657), provi the title of the executor, in whic 1433. But where the points were directly in issue and actually decided by the

S. 41. Court between the same parties, or persons claiming under them, the judgment in rem will be conclusive evidence of the matters decided in it. Spencer v Williams, 2 L R P. & D 230=40 L J P & M. 45 For instance, if, in a suit for administration, the sole question be, which of the two parties is next of Probate Division, declaring 'that as f...
...dant has proved himself next of kin,' ... m as such, will be conclusive evidence of the relationship of the parties in a subsequent action between them for distribution, instituted in another Court Barrs v Jackson, 1 Phill. 582; Bouchier v Taylor, 4 Bro P C 708, Doglioni v Crispen, 35 L. J P. & M 129, Thomas v Kettriche 1 Ves Sen execution of the Will, Harmusji v Bai Dahi Ganesh v Ramchandra, question was considered in Ramani Debi v Kumud Bandhu, ...
"The Judgement in a probate
...s has been repeatedly held an ...ct to the law of limitation (lar...
Ishan Chandra Roa, 6 C 707) A probate proceeding, therefore, while it enjoys the advantage ... to a special re... that a decision it is clear fro nandan v Sheo

by their very cause of action 21 B 563 In conclusively sh testator, and does not ... proceeding; in other words, the judgment of a Court by which ... refused, does not necessarily operate as a judgment in rem in the same way as a judgment by ... No doubt, such a judgment if it declares that ... has not been duly executed by the testator with ... it has not been duly attested may ... legal character of a ...racter and the Will, but every refusal to grant probate does not conclusively show that the Will propounded is not the genuine Will of the testator The decision may be based upon entirely different grounds, which do not touch the question of the genuineness of the Will Such a judgment cannot operate conclusively unless it embodies a final decision against the genuineness of the Will The learned Judges of the Bombay High Court while they lay down the proposition carefully guarded themselves, however, against any expression of opinion upon the question whether, if an issue had been raised upon the question of forgery of the Will and had been decided, the decision might not be conclusive." The true rule is thus formulated in the case of Schultz v Schultz, 10 Gratt, 358. When a Will has been propounded by a party interested and fairly rejected on the merits, it would defeat the policy of the law and be productive of many mischiefs, if it could be again propounded by the same party or by others who might be interested and the contest thus renewed from time to time. The sentence, therefore, against the Will must be regarded as a sentence against all claiming under it, it stands upon a footing analogous to the subject ... adjudications upon ... which they
... If there or against
... cannot be ment of the matter ... the same or in any other Court by in privity with them, in other w... a refusal to admit a Will to probate is conclusive of the facts necessary to support the decision Freeman on Judgments, Vol I, section 319(f). O...

for probate by another person, for example, a legatee who claims an interest under the Will; if so, it would be futile to hold that an executor who has made default, cannot propound the Will again. Ramani v Kumud, 14 C. W N 924 The finding as to the execution of the Will of the Probate Court binds at any as is contemplated in section 41 of the Evidence Act in as much as such judg Ramoje, 5 Mys L J 107, see also Monmohini v Banga, 31 C 357=8 C W N 197.

The expression 'legal character" in section 41, Evidence Act, when it has Matrimonial jurisdiction This section enacts that a final decree of a competent Court in the exercise of matrimonial jurisdiction which confers upon or takes away from any person any legal character not as against any specified

S. 41. (IV of 1869), does not make the proviso in section 17 applicable to the confirmation by the High Court of a decree of nullity of marriage made by a District Judge, and such a decree may therefore b six months from the pronouncing thereof to be applicable to a decree of nullity, the same before the six months' period has expired, cannot on that ground be treated as made by a C : ithin the meaning of sections 41 and 44 of the : is therefore, under s 41, conclusive proof Edward Caston v L H Caston, 22 A 270 (F B) In a case decided before the passing of the nedans in the case er wil the a ide, and but it would be no evidence against that the two ladies were s Charan, 7 W R 38=I whether the decision can judgment by a Court h

L R 4 H L 428) or maritime lien (MinnaCraig v Charbreed, etc ..., 1 Q B 460) A decree for enforcement of maritime lien by a Court of Admiralty is a judgment in condemnation of property as forfeited, and also is a judgment in rem Geyer v Aguilor, 7 T R 696, Maingay v Gahan, Ridge, L & S 1, 79 is barred by the previous decision which is a judgment in rem ... section Narayan v Hardutta Rai, 16 N L R 201 The decision of the Insolvency Court amounts to conclusive proof as to the title in respect of the specific things claimed by the applicant, not merely as against him, but absolutely, within the meaning of this section Pitaram v Jhujhar 33 Ind Cas 798, see also Mussamat v Mathura, 40 Ind Cas 102, Bhairo v P C Das even if it could be held that the decision was not a judgment in ... judgment inter partes and binds the creditor Ram Narain v Durga Das Ind Cas 568=55 P R 1912=242 P W. R 1912

An order of an Insolvency Court refusing to adjudicate a person insolvent on the ground that he was not a member of a firm which had been declared insolvent is not a final order which conferred upon or took away from him any legal character within the meaning of this section and hence it is not a judgment in rem Being a partner in a firm is not a legal character. Off. Assignee v

Madras v. Off Assignee of Rangoon, 46 M. L. J 580=1924 Mad. 662=34 M L T. (H. C) 90=83 Ind Cas. 171, see also Radha Kishen v. Mt. Gangabai, A. I. R. 1928 Sind 121=22 S L. R 105 An order adjudicating a person an insolvent and vesting his property in the Official Receiver no doubt operates as a judgment in rem but the grounds on which the order is based has no such effect Radha Kishen v, Mt Gangabai, A I. R. 1928 Sind 121=22 S L. R 105

S.

Legal Character.
The legal character assig legal status of the person

"We : 'A man's "legal attaches to hir ... ve mark or dress, as it were with which the law clothes him apart from the attributes which may be said to belong to normal humanity in general Rama Krishna v Narayana, 39 M. 80=26 Ind Cas 883.

ng must have been declared not as A decree declaring that A is entitled t only made against a specified person, so it is not conclusive proof of title to a debt Venkataramanayya Pantulu, 54 M 601=A I. R 1931 Mad 441=61 M L J. 229 (S B) Similarly a right to recover a debt or a chose in action cannot be deemed to be a "specific thing". Ibid.

f an issue as to the age of a of the guardian for person, proceeding, is not one of the judgments in conclusive against the world R 1910 On an application ministration her father, sly been made under the Guardians idow for a declaration that she was the infant son of the alleged testator, by the present petitioners who claimed to be testamentary guardians of the property appointed by the Will now propounded, and that the le question of genuineness of t le proceedings under the Pro haraborda, 16 M 380 A ju of adoption is not admissible le matters decided therein Guru Mahadev v Jagatraj, 71 Ind Cas 929, Kanhya Lall v Radha Churn, 7 W R 338, Yarakalamma v Ana Kala Naramma, 2 M H. C. R 276

uted
the d in edly were decree

S. 42. of the ... pro ... the ... the ... ical ... rties ... a sentence of ... of ... evidence on a questio ... estate ...

... marriage . . But in these cases the parties ... whom the evid...

... Judges, when taken apart ... But it has been contended that this opinion of the ... entitled to much weight, apart from the reasons on which it is founded, is not ... decision of ... it being merely ...

... section does not ... was not in issue ... on the matter appearing in the Administration ... Mah Muthu v Servai, 4 Rang. 251 = 97 Ind. Cas. 1051 = A. 1926 Rang 202; see also Oates v. King Emperor, 38 C. L J. 163.

Relevancy and effect of judgments, orders or decrees, other than those mentioned in section 41

42. Judgments, orders or decrees other than those mentioned in section 41, are relevant if they relate to matters of a pulic nature relevant to the inquiry; but such judgments, orders or decrees are not conclusive proof of that which they state.

Illustration.

... is relevant, but it is not conclusive proof that the right ... exists.

... not as res judicata ... parties ... Per ...

s section judgments S. whether between the see also Collector v.

such as the existence of custom in succession in particular communities. Such regarded as a species of reputation,—will also be received and this too, whether the parties in the second suit be those who litigated the first or be utter strangers. when admitted, will so far vary, that ey will be bound by the previous suit be strangers to the parties in the nclusive. Reed v. Jakson, Even before the enactment this country. Doorga v. Narendra, 6 W. R. 232; Madhab v. Toorne, 7 W. R 210, Totaram v. Mohan, 2 Agra 120; Venkata v. Subba, 2 M. H. C. 1.

Origin of the Rule It has often been said that verdicts of juries, and judgments, decrees, and orders of Courts of competent jurisdiction, are evidence of reputation, and possibly when juries were summoned de vicineto, and were consequently assumed to be acquainted with the subject in controversy this may s were admitted, said "Reputais case; a fortiori lays there is no exception to the Hearsay Rule Wigmore § 1593 Because "that was when the jury was summoned de vic Per Alderson B early part of the verdict was a c Pre Treat Ev 90 .
nor a Judge's c

S. 42. pronounced in a cause litigated is also admissible, not as tending to 'e to be forced into evide to the Hearsay Rule Il Case 147, which was dec the Reputation Exceptio explained in notes und "Such evidence, admiss is not in itself in any proper sense evidence of reputation It really stan upon a higher and larger principle, specially in cases, like the present, of prescription; it comes within the category of res gestae and of declarations accompanying acts . The effect of this evidence. is extremely strong to estab In the same c as evid and bet being fil referenc actions, the pat decree stronger Court b observed 'Here the persons acting as Judges had no knowledge of the except what they derived in the course of that proceeding" But see Duke of Newcastle v Braxtowe, 4 B & Ad 279, where Parke J said, 'Though they (Justices) are not proved to be residents in the country or hundred they must from the nature and character of their offices alone, be presumed to have sufficient acquaintance with the subject to which their declarations relate" The Similarly in Evans v Rees, 10 A & E 155, Denman L C J said his own opinion of an arbitrator as to a boundry is formed not upon the 933), and it seems to receive some support from a recent case in which held that old depositions are not admissible under this head of evidence if they contain testimony only as to particular facts Mercer v Denne, (1904) 2 Ch 534; (1905) 2 Ch 538, Wills Ev 234.

Cases in which judgments were held admissible where they relate to public matters In the verdict in an action

A judgment in favour of a Lord of a manor on a quo warranto for a franchise is evidence of the right even against copy holders of inheritance Carnarvon, Earl of v for pre-emption based on custom, evidence which it was alleged The most satisfactory based on the custom Akbar Khan, 1 A 44 Mundil, 27 C 379 (391), Kalian Das v Bhagirathi 6 A Judicial dec Sheonarayan, 1 A. 373; Sheoboran v Bhairo, 7 A 880 Judicial dec recognising the existence of a disputed custom amongst the Jains of one place are very relevant evidence of the existence of the same custom among the Jains of another place, unless it is shown that the customs are different and oral evidence of the same kind is equally admissible There is nothing to setting up of a High ...ge of the 43 of the ...ustees of a ...es money ...gments in have been decreed in favour of the trustees of the temple were relevant under s 42 of the Act as relating to matters of a public nature Ramasami v Appavu, 12 M. 9 to show that ... shrine Sri Ganesh v. Keshavrao, 15 ... ...cretary of State, 16 C 173 (183) Where ... daughter's son is sanctioned by cutom amongst Dehastha Smarth Brahmins, decisions in suits in which

who made it. Banwarilal v Sheochand, 85 Ind Cas 795=A I R 1923 Lah 384 When a question of status is in issue, judgment and orders between the ...e case, rent suits, suits for ...are of high evidentiary value Jumilal v Mt Hulki, A I R ...ugh a judgment not inter partes ..., as a fact in issue, or as a ...recitals in the judgment cannot Kashinath v Jagat Kishore, 20 C W. N. 643=23 C L J 583=35 Ind Cas 298; see also Ram Ranjan v Ram Narain, 23 C 533 (P C); Bhutto v Kesho Prosad, 1 C W N 265=24 of a public nature' within the meaning of section 42, and the judgment of the

S. 43. Faridkot Court is not therefore relevant as relating to a matter of public nature Ibid.

43. Judgments, orders or decrees, other than those mentioned in sections, 40, 41 and 42, are irrelevant, unless the existence of such judgment, order or decree is a fact in issue, or is relevant under some other provision of this Act

Judgments, etc, other than those mentioned in sections 40 to 42, when relevant Illustrations.

h of them

A obtains a decree against C for damages on the ground that C ... make out his justification The fact is irrelevant as between B and C a l fet ma

A afte... tion As b...
(d) A ... murders A in consequence

The existence of the judgment is relevant, as showing motive for a crime

* (e) A is charged with theft and with having been previously convicted of theft. The previous conviction is relevant as a fact in issue

* (f) A is tried for the murder of B The fact that B prosecuted A for libel and that A was convicted and sentenced is relevant under section 8 as showing the motive for the fact in issue

Principle It is well settled that a judgment in personam is not admissible in a suit between strangers or a party and a stranger except in a question of ... settled, the reason ... tendered against ... (R. v Fo... Morcan, 11 Q B D 1028), sometimes as hearsay (Step Art ..., Whart s ...), though it has been objected to this view that even if the judge were called as witness ... or to prove his judgment ...

could not make defenc... legitimate ground for r... satisfactory reason for ... that the objection of res i... solemn acts of strangers if relevant to the issue Phip Ev ... where the instance of judgments, orders or decrees is a fact in issue or a relevant fact under some other provisions of the Act, the judgments, orders or decrees ... i e the

... however, there is a highly important limitation. A judgment ...

*This Illustrations was added to s 43 by the Indian Evidence Act (1st) Amendment Act, 1891 (3 of 1891) s. 5

S.

sible for proving the truth of what it asserts may be valuable as evidence for some other purpose Its very existence may be a fact in issue, and then of course, evidence of it may be given; or it may be a fact relevant within some

'ence

So

. Imis-

0, 41

or 42. So the cases referred to in this section are such, as the section itself taking this view I am doing any violence to the language of s 43 of the Evidence Act, which, if I understood it aright, declares that judgments, orders and decrees other than those mentioned in ss. 40, 41 and 42 are of themselves irrelevant, that is in the sense that they can have any such effect or operation as which the partibility of the estate was asserted and recognised The reason upon and cannot be so than the transaction

Gobinda v Shamlal

C W N 521 P C

but if they are not

inter partes unless there existence of such judgment is a fact in issue or is relevant under some other provisions of the Act The existence of the judgment may be relevant but not the decision of the Judge or the opinion expressed by him It is immaterial if the defendant on both cases is the same and the decision of the Privy Council in 22 C 533 is no authority for the general proposition that a judgment against a party can always be used against him in a subsequent suit by another person Benodelal v Secretary of State, 34 C W 1113=A I R 1931 Cal 239 So recitals of judgments not inter partes of relevant fact are not admissible in evidence Asa Ram v Mausha, A I R 1930 Lab 237

Existence of judgment etc is a fact is issue If the object of the judg even though his name appear on the back of the bill, or of his malice, or of

S. 43.

l v. Macnamara, 9 East 361; Incledon v Bur hila, 14 W. R 339; Keramat v Gholam notwithstanding the verdict is still at liberty to r § 1667: but see vill apply to other cases, wh , or the like Powell v 158, Griffin v Brown, 2 Pick 304 In defence was that the plaintiff had received atisfaction of his damages, it was held that the plaintiff, on traversing this plea, might put in evidence a judgment recovered from him by the assignee of the principal for the amount so received eed as conclusive proof that the money had

Watson v Little, 5 H

29 L J Ex 270

Irrelevant under some other provisions of this Act. Ordinarily a s judgment not inter partes is m Lal, A I R 1929 Lah regards the value of the entries Nageshar v Hanuman

L R 10 (Rev)

In a sui binding on by the same part of the land in suit was not binding on the ground of the land ancestral, can only be treated as admissible for the purpose of showing that on former occasion the right of the alienee to alienate part of the property in suit was called in question on the ground that the property was ancestral The finding of the Court in the previous suit that the property was ancestral is not relevant Partap v Mothu, 8 Lah L J. 492 = 96 Ind Cas. 938 = 27 P L R 544 the f Harih Wher not re with s transa previous decisions in Land Acquisition cases are relevant in a subsequent where the market value of the land in the same neighbourhood is in Madan Mohan v Secretary of State, 78 Ind Cas 557.

S.

5 Pat. L. W. 97=43 Ind. Cas. 393.

One N, who was a usufructuary her right to recover profits in that sh defendant for a number of years. R dant's name continued to be recorded as a the defendant and R present suit for a declaration that the

, the lease in his favour having come to The defendant pleaded an arrangement the unexp mortgage pleaded b admissible Mahomed

Rec
Satindra v.

possession was claimed or disputed, and also as evidence to show that there was such a j determine w trial should c n an action for his land by the was accidental

of the executants of a bond on which a suit had been brought, directed the prosecution of the plaintiffs in t for the offence Raj Kumari
Sarma v. Kash

Kalipada, 28 C. W N 587. But
. p. 618, Ghosh J said · "I am not prepared to say that the decision in the civil suit would not be admissible in

, and what the land in
. Nath v. Mahomed Wafiz
P. C)=6 C. W. N. 387.

S. 44. Judgments, etc are admissible, meaning of The general principle is that the mere existence of a judgment, its date and legal consequences, are conclusively proved, as against all the world, by the production of the record, but that ...en though, as between the ...must have been proved. The ...non th...

sively ...
the par...
used ... such third person ... though the judgments cannot be ... W N 402 Judgments and decrees recognizing rights between parties to a suit or between persons whom they represent are not conclusive but are admissible in evidence under s 13, ... different from those in the former suit ...
Neamut Ali v Gooroo Das, 23 W R ...
Gopi v Kherod, A I R 1925 Cal 194. ... in evidence in order to prove that there w... certain way, does not make all the recitals i... in the subsequent action Abdul Latif v ...
Cas 667, see also Tripurana v Rokkam, 42 M L J 324 (F B)=45 M ...
Krishnanath v Jagat Kisho... 3 C L J 583; Sarod v ...
Kanta ... arties contains a recital of the ... refers to a point in ...
... 900 Statement ... ...adurn, A. I R 1925 Mad. 996=85 Ind Cas 996=... the respective claims which the parties put ... Chhadek v. Syd Ali, 85 Ind Cas 979 (981) ... available, and the substance of the pleading is narrated in the judgments, the judgments furnish evidence of the allegations made by the parties on that occasion Kailash v Bijoy, 72 Ind Cas 680, see also Parbatty v Purno, 9 C 586; Bhaya v Pande, 3 C L J ... Byathamma v Avallu, 15 M 19, Thama v Kondar 15 M 378, Krishna... v Rajagopala, 18 M 73, Malcomson v O'Dae, 10 H L C 593, Lyell v Kennedy (1889) 14 A C. 437 Neil v Devonshire, 8 A. C 135

Fraud or collusion in obtaining judgment, or incompetency of Court, may be proved 44 Any party to a suit or other proceeding may show that any judgment, order or decree which is relevant under section 40, 41 or 42, and which has been proved by the adverse party, was delivered by a Court not competent to deliver it, or was obtained by fraud or collusion.

Principle ...

between parties who were really not in contest with each other." This rule has been embodied in the Indian Evidence Act. Barkunissa v. Fazl Huq, 26 A. 262 (283). So under this section the defendant is entitled to show that the decree is obtained by fraud. Ibid, see also Hara Krishna v. Ramesh, 62 Ind. Cas. 962 = 6 P. L. J. 373.

ties to a suit tenders or has n 40, 41 or 42, it is open to the lays down that any party to a suit or judgment, order or decree which is relevant under s. 40, 41 or 42, and which has been proved by the adverse party, was delivered by a Court not competent to deliver it, or was obtained by fraud or collusion. Prayag Kumari v. Siva Prosad, 93 Ind. Cas. 385 = A. I. R. 1926 Cal. 1 = 42 C. L. J. 280. This section was construed by Maclean C. J. and Banerjee J. in the case of Rajib Pondey v. Lakhan Sendh, 27 C. 11 = 3 C. W. N. 660 and it was held that a party to a suit can show that a decree

Bose, 30 C. d is sought

a judgment, order or decree as barring a second suit or trial; section 41

S. 44. case of fraud or collusion will have to be specifically alleged and substantiated by the party setting it up. Baikantha v. Mohendra, 1 C. L. J 65. To set aside a decree on the ground of fraud, it is not sufficient to prove constructive fraud, but an actual positive fraud, a meditated and intentional contrivance to keep the parties and the Court in i[illegible] by that contrivance. Bishe[illegible] R. 1926 Lah. 177. Where a [illegible] fraud or collusion, such fraud or collusion as is contemplated by [illegible] the Evidence Act, must be raised in the defence. Ambika v. Kala Chandra, 10 C. W. N. 422 (424). Where a party seeks, under section 44 of the Evidence Act, to avoid a judgment on the ground that it was delivered by a Court not [illegible]

[illegible]
111 Ind. Cas 762 = A. I. R. 1928 Pat. 675.

Not competent. The words "not competent" in this section refer to a Court acting without jurisdiction. Kethamma v. Kelappan, 12 M. 229 (2[illegible]). "Jurisdiction may be defined to be the power of a Court to hear and determine [illegible]

[illegible] "jurisdiction", which has [illegible] stated to be "the power to hear and determine issues of law and fact, [illegible]

[illegible] v. Behary [illegible] . 193. This jurisdiction [illegible] circumstances. Thus, [illegible] to place, value, and [illegible] may be exercised within [illegible] pronounced by a Court without jurisdiction is void. [illegible] void and a nullity it is not only the duty of the Court which passed it to [illegible] Mohan v. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

Lal, 17 A. 478; Haji Musa v. Purmanc[illegible] Vaithinathu, 38 M. 682; Roop Narain v. [illegible] Narendra v. Gopal, 17 C. L. J. 634. One must [illegible] fundamentally [illegible]

[illegible]

pronounced, for the power to decide necessarily carries [illegible] decide wrongly as well as rightly. Ib W. N. S. 723=31 C. L. J. 482. In Mallarjun (347)= 5 C. W. N. 10, Lord Hobhouse said: wrong

Moomraj, 45 C. L. J. 24.

The plea of res judicata can be satisfactorily met by showing that the judgment, in which the issues pleaded were decided, was delivered by a Court

To sustain an objection that the Madras Insolvent Court's order is a nullity conferring no title to the debtor's estate on the Official Assignee, it is obviously not sufficient to prove that the order was wrong. To hold otherwise would virtually erect into a Court of appeal from the Insolvent Court, not only this Court, but every Court in which the (and would be inconsistent with section 41 Act What, then, is the test of wheth unless there is a

S. 44. Mere delay in raising it cannot itself be fatal objection when a fresh execution sought. Sheo Tahal v Binack Shukul, 1931 A L J 643 = A I R 1931 All 689, see also Panchkari v Girdharimal, 89 Ind Cas 347, Veerav v Muga 39 M thereof nullity, a made by a Court 41 and 44 of the Indian proof that the marriage 271 (F B)

un quam co habitatu' (Fraud It vitiates the most solemn proceedey, C J in the Duchess of Kingston's Case, 20 How St Tr 355 It avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal Ibid, see also Shedden v Patrick, 1 Macq 535 But the difficulty is that no definition is given in the Act of the word "fraud" This section provides that any party to a suit may show that any judgment was obtained by fraud "It is clear" says Martin C J in Bhikaji v Balwant, A I R. 1927 Bom 510 Bom L R 1046, 'that some limitation must be put upon that section For instance if party A, and his witnesses in a particular suit came into the box and committed deliberate perjury on material points, that is clearly fraud On the other hand if a decree is eventually passed in favour of that party, even on the perjured evidence, it ca ... the opponent to start a new action exactly the same eviden wrongfully believed by doctrine of res judicata party might alternately Consequently the authorities show, I think, that if the case merely in effect, a re-hearing of the previous suit on substantially the same evidence then the Court will not hear the second suit. On the other hand it is to my mind clear that in a proper case the Court has jurisdiction to set aside a decree which has been obtained by fraud practised on the Court. If, for instance, the existence of certain evidence has been stoutly denied by one party and the Court has been ... to ... decree on the basis that that evidence ... of such circumstances are looked at, that in that case the Court would ... original decree '

In Nanda Kumar v. Ram Jiban, 41 C 99 = 19 C L J 457 = 23 Ind Cas ... said The jurisdiction ... the decree being the principal point in issue, it is nece ... investigated it by proof before the propriety of the prior decree can be investigated Decrees may be (1) by consent, (2) exparte or (3) after contest, apparent or ... and though each is liable to be attacked for fraud, the character of the fraud would vary with the circumstances of each case One who seeks to impugn a decree passed after contest takes on himself a very heavy burden and ... the conclusion that the

on in the former suit was not be upset on a ... where, and ... k, 1 Macq ...

L. R 751=37 A

motion and acting in ord for the purpose of actually a fraud, must be fraud which and that mere irregularity, investigation of these righ is not the kind of fraud which will authorise the Court to set aside a solemn decision which has assumed the form of a decree signed and enrolled" Per Lord Cairns L J. in Patch v. Ward, L R. 3 Ch 203, see also Crew v Jhonston, 2 Sch & Lef 308

In Fowler v. Lloyd, L R 10 Ch. D Baggallay and Thesiger L JJ, the suit was d to have been sub nt question would in the affirmative action brought out could be set aside n to interrogatories, of a process had which the evidence other wilfully and corruptly perjured In this case, if the plaintiffs had sustained on this appeal the judgment in their favour the present defendants, in their turn, might bring a fresh action to set that judgment aside on the ground of perjury of the principal witness and subornation of perjury and so the parties might go on alter proved that a which judgm These observa

Mohomed Go
"The principl obtained by a fraud practised upon the other side by ... was prevented from placing his case before the tribunal which was called upon to adjudicate

S. 44.

Both the defendants contended that the Will was a forg... probate was induced by fraud. Held that the second defendant was barred by the decision of the District Court in the revocation matter from raising again the question in the Court of the Subordinate Judge. Further held that as regards the ...

he does not raise these questions by his pleading, although he has ... common cause with the second defendant in his defence .... As regards the second defendant, although he had a locus standi to make an application, his right is now at an end by reason of the unsuccessful result of his application for revocation. That being so, it appears to us that the first defendant has no defence to this suit.

The fact that the defendants have be... of all the land in the village implies a decision ... respect of any of the lands included in that village. ... decree of Court under section 11 of Regulation III of 1872. It is open to ... plaintiff to avoid the effect of such ... 25 A or sub-section (1) of section ... procedure laid down in section 24 o... interested to bring forward in the Settlement Court, ... any ... to make to any part of such record ...

... to the record ... I, 19 C. L. J 29; see also ...

... t XIV of 1882) can call ... against whom an order ... If he was ...

...he fraudulent nature of the ... the order passed upon it in any proceeding ... strength of that order. Chumma v. Ram Dayal ...

16 Bom. L. R. 648.

Judgment vitiated by fraud, whether the same should be set aside ... Whenever a party seeks to avail himself of a former judgment, fraudulently entered, the opposite-party may show the fraud, and thus avoid the judgment ... Whart. Ev. § 797. Now the question is whether fraud can be collaterally set up ... either directly or ...

and cannot resort to a ...

Whart. Ev. §§ 797, 798. So according to Burr Jones also "domestic ...

other words (confining our attention to so from a provision such as the plaintiffs contend it is intended to be merely ct on makes the same provision for aud that it does for avoiding a Now there can be no question

Sib Saran v Rameshwar, 60 Ind Cas 640=1920 Pat 363=2 P L T 40, Kuiaram v Banomali, 29 Ind Cas 838 The case of Bansilal v Ramu Lal collateral proceeding." "In applying this rule it matters not whether the impeached ju Highest Cou

every Court,

tes had fraudulently taken place under in Ireland obtained by collusion between person in whose favour a charge had

S. 44. been created, and the purchaser, and where the interests of the tenant in remainder had not been probated, the Court of Chancery in Ireland on the [illegible] on a bill filed to [illegible] estate of mortgagor. Nistarini v. Nundo Lal, ubi supra, see also [illegible] v Ramesh Chandra, 2 Pat. L. T 528=62 Ind Cas. 962=(1921) Pat. 209 It is competent for every Court, whether superior or inferior to treat as null any judgment which can be clearly shown to have been obtained by manifest fraud Maung Kyaw v Ammul, 62 Ind. Cas 53=13 Bur. L T 198, Manchha [illegible] Kalidas, 19 B. 821; Krishnabhupati v. Ramamurti, 16 M. 198; Admoney v Aimunissa, 12 C 156

Compromise decree—Fraud Where a decree is alleged to have been obtained by fraud and misrepresentation it is competent to a party to show under section 44 of the Evidence Act that this amount was obtained by fraud and misrepresentation, and a separate suit is not necessary to set aside the [illegible] [illegible] v. Panchi Dasi, 32 Ind Cas 849.

[illegible]

Pat 375=9 P. L T 375. Foreign judgments in personam [illegible] fraud of a party to the suit in foreign Court cannot be enforced by him in an action brought in an English Court. Nistarini v Nundo Lal, 26 C 591 [illegible] see also Abouloff v Oppenheimer, L R. 10 Q B D 295, Valda v Lawes, L R. 25 Q B, D. 310, Codd v. Dela, 92 L. T 5 10; Hip Foong v Neotia, (19 A. C 888; but see Robinson v Fenner, (1913) 3 K B 835

In Abo[illegible] B. D 295 it was held that even though [illegible] gated in th[illegible] committed, [illegible] an action claiming the value of goods and brought upon a [illegible] whereby the defendants were ordered to return to the plaintiff the goods, [illegible] judgment was obtained by [illegible] at the goods [illegible] the plaintiff [illegible] Lord Coleridge [illegible] it must be taken [illegible] foreign Court and that that the allegations of fraud were brought before the [illegible] the foreign Court came to a conclusion against the defendants, and whether the conclusion was right or wrong on the matters of fact the question of the plaintiff's alleged fraud could not be tried in the Courts of England, says [illegible] state the arguments for the plaintiff also in somewhat different words, namely that although the Russian Courts at Tiflis were led to decide [illegible] defendants through believing a false . . . . S. 4 the plaintiff, nevertheless the defendan l to a foreign judgment it obtained in an English ught. There may be a difference where it is sought to enforce by the process of a Court a judgment of that very Court, because if that judgment has been obtained by improper means the objection does not arise in a new action brought on that judgment, but it arises with regard to the process of the Court to enforce a judgment of its own In a case of that kind it was perhaps formerly necessary to proceed in a Court of Equity in order to get rid of the judgment, but I doubt whether it was necessary, because, at least in my opinion, a Court of Common Law would have in the exercise of its own jurisdiction set aside a judgment procured from it by deception "

In the case of Vadala v Lawes, L R 25 Q B D 310, in which an action was brought by the plaintiff in the English Courts upon a judgment obtained Bills of Bills were t without in equally general language, is perfectly well settled, is that when you bring Foreign judgment—how impeached under Indian law In India a foreign judgment shall be conclusive as to any matter thereby directly adjudicated law in force in 1908)

Collusion No definition of the word "collusion" is given in the Act. two some ment in
It
may be of two kinds—(1) when the facts put forward as the foundation of the judgment of the Court do not exist, (2) when they exist, but have been corruptly preconcerted for the express purpose of obtaining the judgment." Wharton Law Lexicon cited in Field Ev 7th Ed p 170 No doubt a decree can be avoided on the ground of fraud or collusion under this section But

S. 44. there is a great made the victim of discovered the fr a point of defence collusion is a m is a point which could and might have been raised before the decree was p on the last occasion. A third party can undoubtedly avoid a decree on the ground that it has been obtained collusively, but it is clear that a party to a collusive decree can not avoid it on that ground. Sahib Rai v Bal… A.
I R (1927) All 494=101 Ind. Cas 765, Chenur Appa v. Puttappa, 11 B Varadarajula v Srinivasulu, 20 M. 333; Kandetti v Nukamma, 31 M.
M. L J 576; Venkataramanna v Viramma, 10 M 17. That such a decree by the case of Rangammal v Venkat… li, A. I R. 1927 All 528=101 Ind Cas rtgage decree was made more than th absolute. After the decree absolute was m judgment debtor transferred his equity of judgment-debtors, though served with n the application questions and adduce evidence to prove the facts stated Kama…

18 C L. J 261

Who can plead fraud or collusion. The language of this section is enough to allow a party to the suit in which the judgment was obtained, to sh that it was obtained by the fraud of his antagonist, though the judgment y to set up his own fra ndian Code Vol II h under the Engli h a such judgment is he suit in which it is Aswani v Banamali, 21 C W N. 594; Taylor § 1713; Phip Ev 7th Ed In England a party to a suit would not be allowed to defeat a judgment showing that it has practised an … pon the Court Anglo Ind Code Vol II p 829 In

, 27 C 11 …
st a judgment. West v …
Ves Sen 244, Ahmedbhoy v Vullubhoy, 6 B 703; Prudham v Phillips, 2 Amb 763 The rule that fraud can only be proved by an innocent party does not apply, however to probate [Birch v B, (1902) p 130], or divorce [Bonsjo… v B, (1892) p 402] cases.

Party cannot plead his own collusion or fraud. Section 44 of the Indian Evidence Act, no doubt allows a judgment or decree, otherwise relevant, to be shown to have been obtained by fraud or collusion But the whole doctrine that a party cannot plead his own collusion to avoid a decree supported by numero … L R 177=3 Ind Cas 1179; Bhawabal v … W. R. 157, …
Nundo Lal, 26 C. 891 … 705; Varadara…
Srinivasulu, 20 M. 333 (338), Kondati v Nukamma, 31 M. 485 (487)=4 M L T. 331. A party cannot ask for relief against a fraudulent conveyance made by him and which has been successfully used by him to defraud a cre…
Banku Behary v. Rajkumar, 4 C W N 289=27 C 231, Gobardhan…
Ritu Roy, 23 C. 962; Kali Charan v Rasik Lal 23 C 962 N "The maxim in pari delicto potior est conditio possidentis is as thoroughly settled as any tion of law can be. It is a maxim of law established, not for the …

S.

it is made the antagonist of his executor (ancestor ?) and cessante ratione legis decree had been obtained by fraud fraud was their predecessor in tit The principle that a party to 1151 = 22 C L J 197 = 29 Ind Cas 699

Suit to set aside judgment obtained section where a judgment has been obtained decree, an ex parte decree or a decree passed after contest, is liable to be vacated on account of fraud M A Maistry v Abdul Aziz, 5 Rang 46 = 101 Ind Cas. 431 = A. I R 1927 Rang 130, Raman Menon v Madhava, 98 Ind Cas 176 = A I R 1927 Mad 96 To set aside a decree on the ground of fraud, it is not sufficient to prove constructive fraud, but an actual positive fraud, a meditated and intentional contrivance to keep the parties and the Court in ignorance of the real facts and obtaining a decree by that contrivance Bishun Singh v decree is whether there was fraud practised in relation to the proceedings [illegible]

[illegible]

sufficient ground for setting aside a decree Kasiswar v Aminuddin, [illegible] N 133=47 Ind Cas 84; Baikuntha v. Prahlad 31 C W. N 560, [illegible] v Hari Mandal, 24 C W. N 133=[illegible] T 735=60 Ind Cas 124, Kripa v Nan[illegible] But a decree can be set aside which [illegible]

[illegible]

8 S L R 81

To sustain an action to set aside a decree on the ground that it was obtained by fraud, the fraud must be extrinsic to the proceedings before the Judge [illegible] must be in the conduct of the suit by keeping the plaintiff out of Court [illegible]

[illegible]

by him [illegible] Madda Pedda v K[illegible] [illegible] Ind Cas 498=21 L [illegible]

[illegible]

Suit to set aside an exparte decree A suit to set aside an ex parte [illegible] on the ground that the claim was a false one and the decree was obtained by perjured evidence will not lie, where the prior suit is a contested one or an [illegible] decree was passed after service of summons Nalini v Hari, 29 C. W. [illegible] 325=86 Ind. Cas 779=41 C L J 281=A I R 1925 Cal. 663, [illegible] Prohlad, 30 C. W. N. 560 The mere fact that an ex parte decree has been passed does not show that there was no service of summons on the d[illegible] [illegible] Court passing the decree [illegible]

[illegible]

P L T. 239=(1920) Pat. 209=56 Ind Cas 615; Nagendra v. Parbatty, 20 C. W. N. 819, Gendu v. Saddi, 44 Ind Cas. 983.

OPINIONS OF THIRD PERSON WHEN RELEVANT.

might be more accurate and sound than mplation of law, a matter of no consequence. in the most unequivocal manner, that the

It was for the jury to form opinions, and draw inferences and conclusions, and y, or the Judge, the the witness spoke whether to believe then the jury were to judge of their import and their tendency The witness was not to say that he centuries, and it was but slight before the present century In a sense, all testimony to matter of fa from phenomena and Courts or in common lif is not really to be called opinion evidence in the sense of the rule It has been said, judicially, that there is, in truth, no general rule requiring the rejection of opinions as evidence' (Hardy v Merrill, 56 N. H. 227, 241). Without acceding

S. 45.

the case

Matters of opinion—meaning of. I phrase "matter of opinion" fails to repr definite conception. As used in the law of e shou gical es applies to the use of the rea of opinion there relating to facts, is sepa whole or in large part, of an act of reasoning, but propositions of belief, n able of verification religious views, political principles and the like, as to w certainty is practically impossible These are the matters of endless de of argument pure and simple In cases of these debatable questions, the of the trial, res gestae or probative, are in no way involved Chamberlayne's E 1791, 1792

Why opinion evide evidence was a matter of t tions In Wright v. Tatha concede, though, it is not, opinion of a witness even on oath is, as such, admissible evidence question of competency. When you can bring the decision of that question you sometimes may, to depend upon deductions from scientific premises at the same time that this principle is becoming recognized, or there occurs a general recognition of what seemed at the time as an exception to it—the use of skilled witness Wigmore § 1917 'Though the witnesses can in general speak only as to facts, yet in questions of science persons versed in the subject may deliver their opinion upon oath on the case proved by other on the subject in dispute" Peake's Evidence, 142 Like other exclusionary rules in the law of evidence, that which undertakes to reject 'opinion' may be a rfectly

nent of

is not

The

equate knowledge on the subject His declaration, therefore, is said to be rejected as opinion Chamberlayne's Ev § 1793 person who had to be received by way of exception to that notion Thus, when an ordinary lay witness took the stand, equipped with personal acquaintance ge, the circum

and expressed oper It would not occur to any Judge that this witness was doing a wrong thing In short, it was only 'opinion' as a mere guess and a belief without observation which they

3 Burr 1905, 1918 Lord Mansfield said "Mere t opinion as an inference or conclusion from did not think of disparaging That this was the ver will appear from the following passages hich witnesses speak from judgment and opinion, ich he witness may form Mr Espinasse when the early had in mind

the case of the lay ncluded in his testimony an opinion or inference based on these data—as in the leading instances (used by those writers and Judges) of handwriting character, and now an witness

propose made at this opi

before the jury and they were as competent as he to draw an inference It must ory,

It

r to be no English rulings which indicate that the opinion rule has there been bar Wigmore § 1917.

S. 45.

bsen groun giving witne

nature It simply endeavours to save time telling the witness: "The tribunal is on materials of information as yourself, thus, as you can add nothing materials for judgment ... is unnecessary, and encumbers the pro applied in each
the principle" ...
Mansfield in Carter v Boehm, 3 Burr. 1905, 1918. ... rightly formed, could only be drawn from the same premises from which Court and the jury were to determine the cause, and therefore it is improper irrelevant in the mouth of a witness"

Opinion and fact, how to distinguish. Accurately to distinguish "matter of fact" from "matter of opinion" is not less difficult than to distinguish ... from "matter of law" In all supposed statements of fact the witness ... testifies to the opinion formed ... upon the pre ... senses Statement of opinion is th fact. 1 Whart Ev § 15 An "opinion" is found in cases wh intangible to permit a correct or effective individual ... permitted to state simply the impression, such phenomena produced ... minds This apparently is simply another method of stating facts Best Ev 8th Ed p 473, Corn v Sturtivan, 117 Mass 122, 133 So also if we look ... sense this may be said to be a statement of opinion—that is, ... the ... the witness's mind upon a state of facts presented to his senses—and in the case in question there was sufficient doubt as to the nature of the statement to cause the objection to be raised, yet the Court held, and quite properly, that ... Indianapolis speaking th Ct Ry. Co ... cases which the witness in several ways, and sometimes the use of one word will ...

S. 4

could not even have been raised, had the witness used, instead of the word "acknowledged" the word "said" Hauuler v Davis, 128 Iowa 216=103 N W 573 A witness may not be asked whether there was any room in a car for other men, but may state whether there was any vacant or unoccupied space in the car Chicago Terminal T ...

knowledge on the part of the witness testifying What he thinks in respect to the existence or non existence of a fact in issue is matter of opinion, and he cannot state it It is for him to put before the jury the facts as he has perceived them by his senses, t of the robbery they recognized him by his

The testimony was objected to as opinion
The Court treats the question as follows The statement by the witnesses for the prosecution of a fact which they ascertained through the sense of hearing was not the statement of mere matter of opinion, but the statement of a conclusion reached directly ar A witness can learn and faculties—his five sense Prof Wigmore no such principle", says the lear out of the question and considering only principle) that there is no virtue in any test based on the mere verbal or logical distinction between 'opinion' and 'fact' Further more, an examination of the so called opinion rule, as applied in its various instances shows that the opinion element is in the very law itself, a merely superficial and casual mark and not the essential feature" Wigmore § 1919

Entire Elimination of Inference Impossible The impression which first arises to the mind upon hearing the ideal position of the witness thus stated is a conviction of the impossibility for any one to satisfy such requirements of the simplest fact itive recognition of ning Observation by the aid of the a that of inference or reasoning viz, intuition so instantly and intuitively that the mind is seldom conscious of the process These sense-impressions are seized by the reasoning powers and the mind becomes aware of the concept rather than a mere percepwhen those original sense perceptions have become so overlaid by inference experiment that the re action of each upon the other can no longer be di guished from the practically

Involution of Reasoning, (1) Inference While the entire elimin inference is impossible, something may fairly be said as to the relati tion which observation and inference bear to each other in cert classes of mental re ult However distinct the e classes may be fr in broad outline they present the ordinary difficulties inhere where one class shades into another by almost imperceptibl distinct line is frequently difficult to draw Nor can it be

S. 45. approximate certainty as to how far the state of the case, or other similar considerations may influence a Court in making rulings even on a similar set of facts It may be ob ficatior which the vi suggest of obs obnoxi divide t according to the proportion these mental acts or proc (2) Conclusion, and (3) Judgment

Inference—In the first of these classes, that of Inference, the element of observation is at its maximum The ob facts of th reasoned

is
by

A reasoned infer red to the satu not instantly reasoning more or intervenes between the phenomena and the "making up", as it were, of the mind A theory, simple, perhaps; but still a theory The mind is conscious of a distinct step, although, it may be, a short one Chamberlayne's Ev § 1802

Invol

under such a definition an intuitive inference of bankruptcy a neighbouring migh conclusion that reasoning is then seen to be based, in a greater or less degree upon the existence of facts not verified and frequently unascertained —Chamberlayne's Ev § 1803.

result is styled a hypothetical. The rrives is referred to as his Judgment. termed an expert".—Chamberlayne's Ev § 1804.

Credibility of intuition The administrative reason for rejecting the S. trustworth operation

statements, rience shows that instinctively acting the normal human mind tends to observe correctly and report neous statement is reasoning is not

almost as a matter of course, one more reasoned in its nature can be admitted only upon the exhibition of some satisfactory administrative necessity for so doing For the reception of a conclusion a still more imperative necessity is required Inability to offer other evidence or to prove a case without using this species of proof culminates when a judgment is offered Chamberlayne's Ev § 1806 omenon observed by the witness d to the tribunal wherever possible, cies

by nds

essential, in the second place, that the substituted evidence should be both objectively and subjectively relevant to the existence of some fact in the res gestae. Chamberlayne's Ev § 1808

Scope of the rule rejecting the opinion of witness "The opinions of any person, other than the Judge by whom the fact is to be decided, as to the exis-

"The opinion of a competent person is s in the case of 'hearsay', there is an . the rule may be stated as follows (1 express ive an doubt 45-50
person

is not allowed to express an opinion that a fact which is being enquired into exists (save and except in cases mentioned in 45-50), he is right in his statement of law But if his lordship meant that a fact-witness is debarred from stating his opinion in any case, when on the stand, his statement of law is evidently erroneous Observation and reason being practically inseparable, the real administrative problem is not as to whether reasoning shall be excluded in to to but rather in determining whether a particular involution of a given quantum of reasoning is necessary under the facts of a particular situation As facts become more complex, more compound, the proportion of reasoning almost of necessity, grows greater So intimate, in many cases, is the blending, that the

S. 45 Court is compelled to accept or reject the whole, despairing of success in separation Chamberlaynes Ev § 1837 In this connection the observation of Foster, C J in Hardy v. Merril, 56 N. H. 241, should be borne in mind "All evidence is opinion merely unless you choose to call it fact and knowledge as discovered by and manifested to the observation of ... to me quite unnecessary ... admission of such evidence, ... or isolated and arbitrary) to ... of some books and the c... rule requiring the rejection o... vidence A general rule can be said to exist, which is lost to sight in an enveloping mass of arbitrary exceptions" Wigmore § 1919 The Hearsay rule ... rule are the product of ... in E...

... will always ... while the Opinion rule ...

Proper scope of opinion ... his opinion ...

... good ground for excluding such evidence ... intimately connected with the main issue that its consideration is inevitable (b) So also, if certain evidential material, having a legitimate probative value, tends nevertheless to produce also, over and above its legitimate effect, an unfair prejudice to the opponent, or by virtue of the personality of the witness tends to receive an exa... there is good gr...

... with the witness to draw an inference ... The witness's opinion is excluded, not because inferences as such are objectionable—for a witness's knowledge and all knowledge is made up of inference,—but because the inference under the circumstances is ...

S. 45

of in this perfluous essential e opinion ation ions ts from which a be able to separate the facts and indications from which he has formed a conclusion from the conclusion itself Yahn v Ottumua, 60 Iowa 429=15 N W 257 From the many illustrations given below it will appear that, from the often be received ises is that, from the described in such language as will enable persons not eye-witnesses to form one accurate judgment in regard to it Burr Jones § 360 The opinions of non experts are admissible, therefore, provided they state, so far n the opinions are based on questions of ings, animals, or hand writing; and of the size time and distances; of the mental state or

and

or seemed hostile, intoxicated They can state as to who oded or that a person appeared rational person looked excit

matters more within the common observation and experience of men, non-experts may, in cases where it is not practicable to place before the jury all the primary facts upon which they are founded, state their opinion from such facts, where such opinions involve conclusions material to the subject of inquiry In su
fa
be re fr

Inference—condition of Admissibility—Necessity The necessity for a use of reasoning, more or less great, is practically insuperable. The simplest

S. 45. statement of a fact embodies an element of inference. In theory at least, original sense-impressions received from observations are brought to consciousness by faculty of intuition. The mind, however, seizes upon these material, with such instant avidity as to make the transition to inference practically unrecognizable. The statement therefore of an observed phenomenon, classed as one of fact, is, in reality, a declaration of what the observer inferred the fact to be. To this use of inference no administrative objection can be taken. Facts can be proved in no other way. They therefore continue thus to be stated. The necessity, however, for a larger element of inference, in a mental process somewhat more complex, at once discernible. Not only may the witness be powerless to state the simplest fact without stating his inference as to it. He may be compelled to state compound facts in the same way. True, it may be quite possible to declare certain of the component or constituent facts which go to make up a compound fact in such a manner tha[illegible] it without the slightest difficulty [illegible] facts Still he may, in most cases, by [illegible] clearest statement of [illegible] [illegible] any adequate [illegible] [illegible] hole, was observed by [illegible] Under such circumstances, judicial administration, ex necessitate rei, permits [illegible]
[illegible]
the result to which they have led his reasoning faculties. [illegible] Ev § 1810

[illegible]

in which t[illegible] of a pers[illegible] evidence, [illegible] Ev § 1867 [illegible] or mental states may serve [illegible] of the inference of the witness as to [illegible] tity is a matter of opinion or belief [illegible] [illegible] and incommunicable [illegible]

a stranger, and there [illegible] Expert and Opinion [illegible] the voice alone, and [illegible] the tones of voice in such a manner that from the description [illegible] The testimony of the [illegible]

[illegible] on as to the [illegible] not admissible to [illegible] 148 Cal [illegible]

707. In many instances [illegible] the act of reasoning is [illegible] numerous and minute to [illegible] Chamberlayne's Ev § 186[illegible] A person may be [illegible]
v. Frith, (1896) P. 74, Brooke v Brooke, 60 Md. 529, 533, [illegible] 167 The same [illegible] Nebr. [illegible] Gutierrez [illegible] well [illegible] to give [illegible] 542 [illegible] Ev § 1862. for the [illegible]

S. 4

it competent in itself as primary evidence It is the experience which he acquires in the ordinary conduct of affairs, and from means of information such uct of that lcher, 117

an expert

f a thing,

still there is no rule of law, and there can be non know of property before he can be

He must have some acquaintance with , estimate of its value, and then it is for the jury to determine how much weight to attach to such estimate Bedell v. Long Island R. Co, 49 N. Y. 367; Lawson be presumed to have a sufficient knowledge of the market value of property from the location and character of the land in question Pennsylvania, etc. R. Co. v Bunnell, 81 Pa St 426 The best and only legitimate evidence of the value of the land at the time of the sale would be the opinion of witnesses who had founded Illinois etc. Ry Co v Von Horn, 18 Ill 257; Burr Jones § 363 So it is clear that the valuation of land must be arrived at by the tribunal by taking

. As regards

urt. Stowell

ates, 2 Story,

421 (Am); Lawson's Exp & Op. Ev pp 463 501, Wigmore §§ 1940 1941, Narain Chandra v Cohen, 13 C 56; but see Dwarka v Ludar, 4 O C, 247 As to how valuation is to be made under the Municipal and Land Acquisition Act vide Manindra v Secretary of State, 41 C 967; Harish v Secretary of State, 11 C W N 875; Wenrick v Secretary of State, 13 C W N. 1058; Secretary of State v Shanmugaraya, 16 M 369; Government of Bombay v. Meruanji, 10 Bom L R 920, Heysham v Bholanath, 11 B L. R 230; Secretary of State v Belchambers 33 C 103; Tulsi v Secretary of State, 14 C W N. lxxx, Ram Sahoy Sha v Secretary of State, 8 C W N 671, In Esafali Salebhai, 10 Bom L R 997, Kailash v Secretary, 17 C L. J. 31

S. 44.

Sanity. The reason for admission of non expert opinion evidence as regards sanity N. H 144: " by witnesses a
The opinion no description ordinarily he cannot give an adequate description of them' 'The said ...

80 (Am); Wigmore § 1934 "To ask ... appeared peculiarly or strangely was s opinion she was insane" Per Doe J ... opinion of non-professional witnesse such opinions are based upon their person's appearance Burr Jones § 36 disease in any one" ... v Mc Daniel 4 Ired L 455 (Am.) ... expert witness ... person is sick upon the nature system of a ·p days, however, upon for their opinion as to sanity or insanity of the testator. ... 574 6 Caughman, 26 S E R 16 (S C); Wheeler v. Alderson, 3 Hogs Eccl 574 ... 8 Ves J 43 606, Dew v. Clerk, 3 Add Eccl 79; Eagleton v Kingston, 8 Ves J ... Tatham Hadfield's Case, 27 How St Tr 1281; Lowe v Jolliffe, 1 W Bl 365, ... Wigmore § 19...

might have as to the bearing of the opinion rule Wigmore § 1933 ... capacity ar as to sanity and opinion as to general testamentary or criminal capacity ar entirely distinct The latter sort of opinion is inadmissible (when it is) beca... a question of law may be involved, and witnesses' conclusions, are not neede on such points. Wigmore § 1937

Opinion from necessity The opinions of ordinary witnesses derived fro... observation are admissible in evidence when, from the nature of the subjec... the facts can no...

This rule, however, has its exceptions, some of which are as ... be ... settled as the rule itself When all the pertinent facts can be able to ... detailed and described, and when the triers are supposed to be able to ...

correct conclusions without the aid of exception to the rule is allowed. But case to deceive purchasers Macdonald v Holland, 10 S L R 175=41 Ind Cas. 539; Swadeshi Mills v. Juggi Lal, 24 A L J 975.

45. When the Court has to form an opinion upon a point of foreign law, or of science, or art, or as to identity of handwriting *[or finger impressions], the opinions upon that point of persons specially skilled in such foreign law, science or art, †[or in questions as to identity of handwriting] *[or finger impressions] are relevant facts

Opinions of experts

Such persons are called experts.

Illustrations

(a) The question is, whether the death of A was caused by poison

The opinion of experts as to the symptoms produced by the poison by which A is supposed to have died, are relevant

by mir
the relevant

(c) The question is, whether a certain document was written by A Another document is produced which is proved or admitted to have been written by A

The opinions of experts on the question whether the two documents were written by the same person or by different persons, are relevant knowledge of the facts, and, in the final outcome, withdrew from their consideration any facts of which they had original knowledge, confining them to such facts only as should be presented to them at the trial This left to the jury simply the duty of drawing conclusions from facts presented In many cases it was impossible to present to the minds of the jury, who were supposed to have no v Chadd, (1782) 3 Doug 157, was a case in which an engineer was called to

*The words 'or finger impressions" in both places where they occur in s 45, were added by the Indian Evidence Act, 1899 (5 of 1899) For discussion in Council as to whether 'finger impressions" include "thumb impressions", see Gazette of 1898, Pt. VI p 24 †These words in s. 45 were inserted by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872), s. 1.

S. 45. show the effect of an embankment upon the filling up of a harbour. Lord Mansfield says: "Mr. Smeaton (the witness) understands the construction of harbours, the cause of their construction, and how remedied. In matters of Thornton v. Assurance Co. (1790) Peak Camp. 116. In such a case often just The furnishing of such assistance to the Principle. An expert i. e. a person having special skill in than the jury to draw in nces on the subject.

skilled observer, administration is all times imposes for the proof of his case to actually tendered is relevant for the purpose some cases the expert observes nothing. His proper work is reasoning. Tal witnesses and enumerated by them, it is they indicate. that his reasoning has a tendency to supplant that of the instances when administration permits an invasion of the province of the jury, an adequate forensic necessity must be shown for receiving the judgment of an expert. The administrative warrant differs, however, widely from that presented in case of the observer, whether ordinary or skilled. Where one is using sense-perception, the forensic necessity for admitting the secondary evidence of an inference or conclusion most frequently in this, that the original ed by the witness as fully to be placed before is allowed, after stating such constituting ese and those previously detailed into the cited his mind.

In case of the expert, however, the inadequacy which the witness is to supply No man can satisfactorily reason of art, science or trade he necessary data both be unknown

could properly draw for themselves. Chamberlayne

When Opinion evidence of expert is admissible. The principle underlying this section is clear enough, but in leads to what seem to be inconsistent results. All must decide the question on a care which it arises more accuracy than the jurymen themselves. It is the nature of the subject matter

...f practical everyday matter that the ...example, is put before the jury to give ...year was a proper time to set fire to ...fe stable for horses, whether a fight is a 'prize fight' or whether the keeping of cows in connection with a hotel is unprofitable, the Court is presented with the question whether, because some which permits of opinion testimony being given Mckelvey's Ev § 134. In Ferguson v Hubbell, 97 N. Y. 507, 513=49 Am. Rep 544, the rule in regard to the admission of expert testimony is thus well stated by Earl J "It is not sufficient to warrant the introduction of expert testimony that the witness may know more of the subject of enquiry, and may better comprehend and appreciate it, than the jury, but to warrant its introduction, the subject of the enquiry must be one relating to some trade, profession, science, or art in which persons instructed therein by study or experience may be supposed to have more skill and knowledge than jurors of average intelligence may be presumed generally to have The jurors may have less skill and experience than the witnesses, and yet parties

nature
to them, to resort to expert or opinion evidence." "The opinions of experts are, in general, admissible whenever the subject is one, a knowledge of which can only be acquired by special training or experience When however, it is one upon his view is to prevail The Beryl, 9 P D 137, The Gannet, (1900) A C 234, 237, The Australia v The Nautilus, (1927) A C 145

S. 45. questions of science, skill, trade, and others of the like kind." Best Princ. of Evidence § 346. The rule on the subject is stated by Mr. Smith in his to Carter v. Bo appears to be is admissible, persons are u without such assistance; in other words, when it so far partakes of the nature of science, as to require a course of previous habit, or study, in order to the attainment of a knowledge of it. See Folkes v. Chadd, 3 Doug. 157; R. v. S 2 M. & M. 75; Thornton v. R. E. Assur. Co., Peake 25; Chaurand v. Angers, Peake 44. While on the other hand, it does not seem to be contended that the opinion of the witn matter, the nature

s, the fact that the witness, though a practising physician, was held to (1894) 2 Q. B. 766; Tullis v. Kidd, Ala. 648 (Am.); Greenl Ev. § 440. "The term 'expert' seems to imply both superior knowledge and practical experience in the art or profession; but generally nothing more is required to entitle one to give testimony as an exp Shelluson, 8 C. B. 819; Re. Whitelegs, (1899) P. 257; Halsbury

p. 481.

witness must have special concerning which existence of facts capable of being proved or disproved by opinion as well as hearsay must be excluded. But this general rule has broken in upon by the admission of various classes of exceptions, all upon the common grounds of necessity. Such necessity is allowed to when the facts in issue are not themselves accessible by evidence, being future probabilities or mere contingencies, or else actual facts but not ositive knowledge All of these must, of necessity, be judged of only from ther proved facts known generally to accompany or to indicate these in question, s, for instance, where the facts to be ascertained are inferred from some rule of rt or science, or observed law of nature thus proved; the knowledge by which may not fall professional or cience relating s frequently a question such as dealers in that article can alone decide There t is a matter of necessity to call in the experienced or instructed opinion of ship after a storm udge of those neces- cts. Thus, also, in Nesbit, 1 Car. & P. landsmen to draw any inference, and experienced of that kind amount to unjustifiable

, or the likelihood of their Indeed, it would be more en, professional or expert, are not admissible as such, but facts having been proved, men skilled in such

His scientific opinion is, in fact, his testimony to a law of nature All these are testimonies to general facts which the jury can ascertain in no other way, and in words the minute and transient facts observed by the witnesses from the r in his ne not r which which Op Ev herefore , must be necessary second ssary to 42 (Am); Burr Jones § 369.

made a study of the subject. On the other hand, he may be an expert although his knowledge has been derived from the study of the subject, and not from actual experience or practice in the business or profession Thus, it has sometimes been held that a physician may give opinions as to matters connected with his profession or with medical science, although in its own practice he may not have had experience as to such matters, and his knowledge in respect thereto is derived from study only, even though he may not have made the disease under subject, he may be competent as an expert although engaged in some ... occupation, (Detroit v. Van Steinbury, 17 Mich. 99), or even if he has ... doned the business to which the enquiry relates. Bearss v. Copley, 10 N. Y. ... It is necessary that the witness should possess the requisite skill e ... actual study, experience or observation. The mere opportunity of ... such skill does not suffice. It must be shown that he is skilled or scien... at least that he has superior actual skill or knowledge in relation to the ... to that possessed by ordinary witnesses or observers. Page v. Parker, 40 N. H. 47. To prove or disprove infringment of trade mark evidence of men in the trade is not admissible to show whether or not a combination is such as ... deceive a purchase-41 Ind. Cas. 539; ...

S. 45.

Lal, 49 A. 92=2 ... is true "he must, in ... the immediate line ... differentia of the ... few experts could be admitted to testify, certainly no Courts could ... capable of determining whether such experts were competent. A general ... the specialty belongs would seem to be ... Ala. 212. The value of the te... the experience or study of the ... Wells v. Leek, 151 Pa. 431; Burr Jones § 368. So "the first question that ... when we are dealing with an important witness who has made observations ... inferences is this: 'How intelligent is he? and what use does he make of ...

... ...mention for the Court ...

himself may be ... subject under en...
may be called ... give their opinions thereon. ... But the expert cannot give his own opinion as to his own qu... Broadman v. Woodman, 47 N. H. 120; Braham v. State, 143 Ala. 28 ... of the qualification of the ...

In India this practice does not obtain. In the examina... otherwise his testimony will be ... is purpose he should be examined ... But it seems that he cannot give ... opinion as regards his own qualification. No exact standard by which ... determine the competency of the witness exists, and much is necess... to the discretion of the trial Court. Forgey v. First National Bank, 66 Ind. ... Courts that the ...

"Wh...
tion, ...
the value of his testimony, and not to the Court for ... his testimony." Rog Exp Test 50. The right to a full cross-examination is thus secured; and if, it turns out the witness is not qualified, the Court should mination

witness,

rr Jones

§ 369.

Mode of examination of experts—Hypothetical questions It may be plainly inferred from what has already been stated that the testimony of those found qualified as experts is not confined to facts within their own personal knowledge, but that they may give their opinions upon an assumed state of facts, indeed, it is probably true that in the majority of cases in which experts are examined n facts assumed Vide, Raghunı , 15 C 589 Wl form of the hypothetical question in such cases, it is clear that the question should be so framed as to fairly and clearly present the state of facts which the counsel claims to be proved, and which the testimony on his part tends to prove. Cowley v. People, 83 as regards fact v Bell, 1 C If the other si examination being within is fairly and reasonably con other words, the hypothet would be defeated

Peerage, Le Marchant, Ed 379 The facts must on, 69 Mich 400 Where is of course no basis for the superstructure Burr Jones § 371, Whart §§ 441, 451, 452

In Lord Melville's Trial, 29 How St. Tr 1065, Lord Erskin L C said "If you take away the foundation upon which it is made, which is matter for the Court afterwards, there is an end to the superstructure All that the witness has

S. 45. although the facts assumed by counsel to be true are not proved, or although the question does not state the facts as they actually exist The facts are generally in dispute, and it is sufficient if the question fairly states such facts as the proof of the examiner, fairly tends to establish, and fairly presents his claim a theory Burr Jones § 371 Although on questions of professional skill he may state in a general form what could be the proper course to pursue under the circumstances proved (Sills v. Brown, 9 C & P 601, 603, Chapman v Wa... 10 Bing 57; Rich v Pierpoint, 3 F & E 35; Collier v Simpson, 5 C & P ... may not be asked what his own conduct would have been under the circumstances (Berthon v Loughman, 2 Stark. 258, Hatch v Lewis, 2 F & F 457, ... Ramadge v Ryan, 9 Bing 333) Phip Ev 7th Ed 380

Protection ... the jury, it is ... existence of a fact ... is controverted upon the evidence ... not be invoked which of the two sets of witnesses is the more credible or regarding the relative probability of antagonistic stories told by ... tions raised by the ...

science or skill merely ... the case, (b) Where the issue is substantially one ...

cally, but not en bloc, ... the correct course is to put such facts to him hypothetically, and to state his opinion thereon, asking him to assume one or more of them to be true, ... been said that the former question, where, however, the facts are not in dispute, it has though not as of right" Phip Ev 7th Ed p 380

Form of questions Policy as well as principle, require the form of the question to be expressly hypothetical, because otherwise the jury, and perhaps the witness, may be misled by the statement as a proved or admitted fact, of that which is ... yet ...

considered, and the foll... (Del) 512, the form of the question was very ... question was adopted "You have ... ry to be satisfied that the ... her witnesses, are true, what ... ... of the alleged crime? ... the prisoner's mind, at the time of ... time of ... Was the prisoner in your opinion, at ... and what kind of insanity or delusion ... conduct of a person under such ... ... C J adopted the following form. ... Rogers, 7 Met (Mass) 500=41 Am D... "If the symptoms and ...

testified to by other witnesses are proved and if the jury are satisfied of the truth of them, whether in their opinion, the party was insane and what was the nature and character of that insanity, what state of mind did they indicate; and at the same time to exclude their opinion as to the effect of the evidence in ge as an expert (3) , or where inferences of facts must be drawn from the evidence, in order to be reasonably certain of the grounds on which an opinion is based, it is usually necessary that the facts should be stated hyp rule for all cases, presiding at the trial or it will be held t in a hypothetical question may be very numerous, it sometimes happens that to answer a question which confessedly rest upon no sound basis of fact Substance rather than form is the important consideration with a sound judicial of its

he jury

It is not deemed objectionable that the proponent uses the actual names as developed in the evidence in connection with his question to the expert Argumentative questions, that is those which involve a favourable argument which is assumed to be true, may properly be rejected Chamberlayne's Ev §§ 2489—2494 is the cross-examination of an test his memory, observation, stand as a skilled witness, his judgment upon germane matters may be tested by assuming premises and asking his conclusions Wigmore § 684 The fact that the expert was not in a fit state of mind or health to form a proper opinion, or is interested, or corrupt be elicited in cross

v Royal Exchange

139) Phip Ev 7th

witness's opinion unless the passages to be used are put in cross-examination to the witness, for him to explain them if he can 46 Ind Cas 503-22 C W N 745.

and t

ment

that t

not testify that he saw a certain person at a certain time and that he was then

S. 45. labouring under an epileptic fit or strucken down and rendered uncons Felter, 25 Ia 75, per Dillon C J; & I. R. Co v. Bailey, 11 Oh St 3 .
the witness had been a stranger to the actual facts, it would then have been necessary to assume a state of facts as the foundation of any opinion he gave; but no such assumption, it seems to us, is necessary when the witness is or is properly presumed to be himself personally acquainted with the facts of the case If an expert may give his opinion on facts testified to presumably with ... fact be want... by cross-exami...

and by testimony aliunde" Ibid

An ...
why a s...
parties to ...
calls him ... the scientific opinion which he expresses, not the party by which such ev... is tendered Lila Singh v Bejoy Protap, 41 C L J 300=87 Ind Cas ... A I R 1925 Cal 768

Value of experts "Experts are the most important auxiliaries of ... investigating officer, in some way or other nearly always are the main ... deciding a case But everything depends upon knowing how to make ... questioned ... But it is ... he ought to ... ust know wha... re his know... t seize the ...

moment for putting his question i. e the moment when he is in poss... sufficient material to ren...

"Every Investigat... problems, seeming to ... experts in ph... ocess, traces ... chemical exp... once furnished the ... with certain ... been cut with ... encouraging feature of judicial enquiries in the present ... increasing appreciation of the application of science to proof. Ibid p 331

... a foreign country, the Court ... the Code as best as it can and it should not rely on the outside opinion ... eminent, as to the interpretation of that Code Ibid But in England ... should be ... law cannot be proved by produ... as matters of fact. Mostyn v ...
11 Cl. & F 85; Brenans Case, Moo P. C. 484 In England ...

'here the evidence is co . . . . . S. 4
'reeman, 10 Moo P.
'ew York, 96 L J. K. 1 ot by mere certificates dmissible, for being n authority. M'Cormu
'. 157; Westlake v Westlake, (1910) P 167; Re Arton, (1896) 1 Q B 509; Barter v Barter, (1907) P 333 Another reason for this is that the law is continually liable to change. Phip Ev 3rd Ed 342 So foreign law is to be proved by expert testimony. The main controversy is whether a witness to foreign law must be by profession an advocate, attorney or Judge or whether a layman, if he claims knowledge may be trusted to speak as to the state of the law The earlier practice in England seems to have been very liberal. Vide Sussex Peerage Case, 11 Cl & F 117-134; Venderdunct v Thellusson, 8 C B 12, 824; R v Dent, 1 C & K 97 But in Richardson v Anderson, 1 Camp. 6, Lord Ellenborough insisted on the necessity of a professional character in the witness, see al ... , (1917) 1 K. B. 359; Brad ... more § 564 But the decision ... have been held competent — ... the Courts of his own coun ... Hanson v Dixon, 96 L T 3 ... non-lawyer, ... v C K 1900 P 65). A colonial ... to the law of his colony (Sussex ... holdinge the office of coadjutor to ... n marriage law A French Vice-marriage law R v Savage, 10 East 281 But a mere tradesman in a foreign country can prove the law of that country R. v Brampton, 10 East 287, R. v. Naguib, (1917) 1 K B 359 C C A A person to become competent to ... expected to know the law from ... 11 Foreign law on particular ... idha, A. I R 1926 M 218 A ... Ibrahim 47 A 823 89 Ind Cas 690 So also his opinion of Hindu Law is admissible Nara Sinha v Ramgaya, 29 M 437

... ral, foreign laws are ... they can be verified by ... it respects the oath of an individual (Church v Hubbart, 2 Cranch 237) The usual mode of authenticating foreign laws (as it is of authenticating foreign judgments), is by an exemplification of a copy, under the Great Seal of a State, or by a copy proved to be a true copy, by a witness who has examined and compared it with the original, or by the certificate of an officer properly authorized by law to give the co ...
Hubba ... laws, ...
by par ...
competent witnesses, instructed in the laws, customs, and usages under oath. Church v. Hubbart, 2 Cranch 237, Dalrymple v Dalrymple, 2 Hagg. Const.

S. 45. App pp. 115—144, Brush v. Williams, 4 Johns Ch 520 ... Cowp 174 Sometimes, however, certificate of per ons in high author[illegible] been allowed as evidence, without other proof" Story on Con l of Law 647; Greenl Ev § 486; In re Dormoy, 3 Hagg Eccl. 767; R v P... Howell's State Tr. 515—673 When foreign law is allowed to be proved b[illegible] of experts, he is allowed to refer to accredited authorities on the [illegible] refreshing memory. Nelson v Lord, 8 Beav 527 systematized, and has obtained method, relations and the forms of law Davis J in Atchison & Co v U. S, 15 Ct Cl. 140 Expert t[illegible] usually thought of in connection with enquiry as to technical or [illegible] scientific questions—questions requiring, as an essential to [illegible] judgment, a special training of the mind—and this is the f[illegible] which the usefulness of such testimony is most often felt. The ph[illegible] of human body, and the condition and operation of any of [illegible] tions, have been a fruit-field for this class of testimony Young v M... 103 Mass 50, McKelvey's Ev S 138 So on questions of science or [illegible] relating to some art [illegible] may give their opinions [illegible] to cause death, the o[illegible] J L [illegible] of th[illegible] sible [illegible] testimony called for from medical and surgical practitioners, and the details of the various branches, upon which such evidence has been cal[illegible] and received, will disclose only portion of the area covered by the num[illegible] cases which increases with every discovery in either medicine or surgery opinions of physicians and surgeons may be admitted to show the phy[illegible] condition of a person, the nature of the disease, whether temporary or per[illegible] nent, the effect of disease or physical injuries upon the body or mind, as w[illegible] in what manner or by what kind of instrument they were made, or at what[illegible] wounds or injuries of a given character might have been inflicted, which would probably be fatal or actually did produce death, the cause, sympt[illegible] a physician how certain wounds or injuries were actually given, [illegible] by what [illegible] ment or medicines (Matteson v New York C S Co, 35 N ... 22 W... be proper treatment under a given state of facts (Wright v Hardy, 22 W... the probabilities of recovery from the effects of an injury [Hall v ... Watts (Pa), 227]; what, under certain circumstances, might cause d[illegible] ... Powell, 7 N J L 2[illegible] ... c. March. R, D... ity is real or feigned v Hayden, 51 Vt. 296), and whether or not great mental anxiety and [illegible] would tend to develop insanity, where there is an hereditary pre[illegible] (Dearnette v Commonwealth, 75 Va. 867) Upon the question of the [illegible] edical practitioner testifying in mental cases, there is a diversity of decision, American Courts, the preponderance of authority being in favour of accepting educ ecial prac inch nce with the subject may always be inquired into to enable the jury to estimate weight perience ssessed is groun stimony the causes, nature and effects of disease among animals State v. Sheets, 89 C 543 As a preliminary question as to his qualification as an expert, a edical witness may be asked whether the examination made by him was careful ate whether the injuries he is a speaking of amount to grievous hurt or not, but ily to describe the nature of the injuries Empress v Balwant, A W N 1885, edical man that has not seen the corpse, can give only expert evidence ortem examinati oticed by him leher Ali, 15 C 5

As regards proof of foreign law, Vide Gangadhar v Swaminath... 9[illegible] Cas 112 = A I R 1926 Mad. 218.

erson is in issu om wl edical hould nd to whom extracts might be put Shea Bahadur v Beni Bahadur, 6 O L J 78=51 Ind Cas 419

Testimony of physicians and others as to poisons Toxicology is regarded n some jurisdiction as part of scientific knowledge of physicians, and to a ertain extent this is justified by the course of education of medical men Thus is t erienc nd th ician resen
equisite knowledge of chemical science Although it is usual for experts to ubject compounds to a chemical analysis before testifying whether they are oisonous, or as to their ingredients, and although this has sometimes been eld indispensable, the better rule is that the opinion may be received, although his test has been omitted, it being a matter which affects the weight rather han the competency of the testimony State v Slagle, 83 N C 630, Burr Jones § 379.

Mechanics and machinists as experts When a witness shows himself expert in any particular art or craft, to admit of an examination properly addressed to persons of skill in that department of industry, he is competent to give an opinion upon matters of which the jury could not be expected to judge accurately from the mere detail of facts Cole v Clark 3 Wis. 323 Hence it is that the opinions of machinists and artisans may be received as e with the coming to opinions are

S. 45.

(James v Hods value of labour, Cook, 69 Ill 581
v Naglee, 17 Cal such work (Shut such manner a (U S) 167), or by certain mac certain force of n certain mode of machine itself w

Experts on agriculture As illustrations of the same principle the op of those skilled in farming and agr... be received as to the pr mode of probable stances,
probable
as to value, age, and weight of domestic animals and as to the u proper management of stock Milk experts are competent to testify wh certain liquid exhibited to them looked and tasted like milk and water Burr Jones § 382

Insurers and insurance The opinions of persons specially skilled th are admissible on questions Expert & Op Ev 31, Thornto Beckwith v Sydebotham 1 admitting the evidence said say whether, upon such and such symptoms a person whose ... could at the time of the insurance have been in good state of health ... can testify as to the average duration of life with respect to the value of annuities Rowley v London, L R 8 Ex 221 admissible —

Turn

Knight, 43 Me 27

"Book-keepers—As to the meaning of an entry in a bank book ... difficult to decipher Knox v Savings Bank, 93 Mich 19

"Botanists—As to whether the working of coke ovens near a park ... the trees in the neighbourhood Salvin v Coal Co, L R 9 Ch App 705 ...

"Chemists—As to the effect of a particular poison Railing v ...
Park. 319

"Engineers Civil—Eggers v Hoges, 37 Pac. R 1037

"Engineers, Electrical—As to the imperfections of contrivance ... Street, 57 N L J ...

... tank was ...

... rail road was finished ...

... or quantity exists on the ...

in question

"Inventors—As to the value of the case of certain inventions ... stock cars Burton v Burton Stock Car Co, 50 N E. R. 1029

"Photographers—As to the genuineness of a signature to a note ...
Barnes, 16 Gray 161

"Post office—Inspectors—As to whether a document is written in feigned or natural hand R v. Cator, 4 Esp 187, Revett v. Braham, 4 T R 4 97.

"Surveyors—Grand Rapid S R Co v Chesboro, 74 Mich. 766

"Veterinary Surgeons—That a horse has blind staggers People v Bain, 3 Mich 453" Lawson Op & Exp Ev pp 7—9 Handwriting The genuineness of hand-writing, including under this ire, however, co

he law deems and that the ge amples of the use of circumstantial evidence extrinsic to, outside of, a docu-thought, habit, character, as these, tend to develop each from the other, in this order, as a result of mental action In other words the tendency of mental, physical or metaphysical impulses to express themselves in physical action is the basis on which rests the probative force of resemblance in es himself into his hand-writing To Naturally, this can, as a general rule, formation of physical habits. Practil as it were, trained eye er. On this the inference from resemblance is based not have seen the person in question actually write. (Chamberlayne's Ev §§ 2177—2179)

An opinion c disputed writing English common fully in Doe v divided (Lord Denman and Mr Justice Williams favouring and Justices Coleridge and Patteson opposing) upon the question of admitting the testimony of an expert who had made an examination of admittedly genuine specimens on the first day of the trial, and was called to testify on the second, and at that time stated that he thought he had acquired a knowledge of the

S. 45. handwriting in question sufficient to enable him to tell whether the particular specimen was genuine. The Judges, however recognize with unanimity the established English common law doctrine that comparison of hands by the jury or by witnesses will not be allowed upon specimens introduced for that purpose. For purposes of comparison it is held that only original specimens may be used, press copies will not do. Lord Denman, in this case, speaks thus of this class of evidence "On the question whether handwriting, looked at by itself is genuine or forged, the cases appear to me to have justly exploded the notion that bare inspection by the most skilful person can form ... an opinion in point of reason ... of evidence. "But where," says Mr W. D. E

... with the immed... is aided by the compari...

mind may be supposed to have acquired from the previous perusal of ... very writings or even from the casual inspection of a single act is received and acted upon without objection" Mr W. D. Evans, Notes to Pothier, II, ... That note was written by ... the scientific aspects of ... great Judge like Lord Coke ... the learned Judge said ... not to the formation of the ...

... has been selected, (still) ...

§ 1998 "T... as to the general ...

... corresponded with him" Wigmore § 1998.

Objection based ...

... with an admitted specimen placed before him. Therefore an ...

S. 4

genuine additional as to be essential lly stated by Lord Coleridge J. in Doe v. Suckermore, 5 A. & E. 706: "If the of Lord Colerid[ge] is based on the assumption that the first of these modes, as indicated by Prof Wigmore is the only one which is proper and possible and

S. 45.

§ 2000 But the better way to avoid ... second mode of evidencing genuineness ... proving it to the Judge. In University of Illinois v Spalding, 71 N H ... 51 Att. 731, Remick J thus said · "The third objection—that to permit comparison with specimens not otherwise in evidence, and admitted for the ... purpose of comparison, would introduce collateral issues and confuse and distract the jury—is when applied to specimens neither admitted by the par... undoubted evidence This involves, indeed a marked departure from common law It does away with the common-law limitation of comparison ...

exceptions Wigmore § 2000

Thus stood the law in ... Procedure Act of that year (17 ... of a disputed writing with any ... to be genuine, shall in civil ... such writings and the evidence of witnesses respecting the ... submitted to the Court and the jury as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise ... years later a section in precisely the ... Evidence Act, 1865 (28 & 29 Vi... ... ference between the rules governing ... and criminal cases no longer ex...

Wills' Cir Ev p 233

Basis of expert testimony for proving handwriting "Manifold as are the points of difference in the infinite variety of nature in which one man ... from another, there is nothing in which men differ more than in ... and when a man comes forward and says, 'you believe that such a man is dead and gone; he is not; I am the man,' if I know the handwriting of the man supposed to be dead, the first thing I would do would be to say, 'sit down and write that I may ... of the man ...

handwriting of the defendant, and to compare it with that of ... Roger Tichborne and with that of Arthur Orton" Tichborne Trial ...

Nisi S.
) 156
or it their e the Ed)
nded uliar other man asily nown
"H ent i rom fi nviro ormati
lmost automatic succession of acts stimulated by these habits Thus, a person's tyle of writing, in most details, becomes as fixed as the habit, and serves as a ontinuous inseparable mark of that one person Moreover the imitation of ne style of writing by another person becomes difficult, because the other person annot by mere will-power reproduce in himself all the muscular combinations to this that modern apparatus, f details, characteristic of the the imitator (For a complete of handwriting, the reader is eferred to the following masterly treatise Albert S Osborn, 'Questioned Documents')

"Thus the data of graphic science make it possible to assert almost the universality of the proposition No two persons' handwritings are normally This proposi-finger-prints and as such rship of docu-investigating

as a standard to ermination of this skill must of Courts as applied to the circum-5 Various forms of test have lute. In Doe v Suckermore ess must be conversant with the of a Court of Justice to be 012 The following persons atters of handwriting —(1) Post Ic 4th Ed p 556; Last Ec § 246), (2) Bank clerks, and (3) Lithographers. A solicitor can also give opinion as an expert if he has made a special study of the subject. R v Silverlock, S. 45. Act V of 1899, has been appl parison being m An expert may his evidence But he cannot go on and assert his mere opinion or belief as it were a fact within his knowledge. In this respect an expert witness different position from a direct witness of fact. The value of ordinary or expert oral evidence mainly rests on the credibility of the witness—his and and capacity, for telling the trut skill of the witness—the extent Emperor v Sahdeo, 3 N. L R.

same combination of types, it has been said that the chances of a single marks showing the same pattern as another's are as, to about 64 millio hence the c another ten of the scienc p 118 , see also Public Prosecutor v. Virammal, 23 Cr L J 694.

The accused was convicted of theft. He had three previous con
The previous convictions were denied by the accused, and, in order slips, and the pressions of the finger impr sheets he produced from the finger impression bureau, he declared accused m produced not person the sheets he produced Held, the previous convictions of the a on the slips were not proved by the mere production of such slips.
King-Emperor, 4 L. B R 125=7 Cr L J 406. Where the thumb impr on a document were blurred, and many of the characteristic marks were from clear, rendering it difficult to trace the marks enumerated by an witness as demonstrating the correspondence between the thumb impr in the document and those made by the accused in Court, held, that circumstances of the case the evidence was not reliable and the jury is not acc Hamid, 32 eyes and no two human beings have the same thumb-markings, and, it ... is charged with having forged a document purporting to have been executed ... l of the Act, if their ... Empress v Fakir ... een cross-examined ... he had put a parti... alue and weight to ... ed by applying to it ... ected Sarwar v. ... a finger print expert ... and subjected to ... oss examination in open Court Pitam v Baboo Singh, A I R 1924 Nag 183 ... Court should be very chary in accepting an opinion of Finger Print Expert ... hen such ... itself so ... appears on ... e document Ramlakhan v Dharamdeo, 97 Ind Cas 335=A I R. 1926 ... at 575 Under this section the opinion of an expert formed by comparison ... the thumb impression of an accused taken in Court under Act XXXIII of ... 920, s 5 with his thumb impression on deeds is admissible in evidence. Superintendent v Kiran Bala, 30 C W N 373=43 Cr L J 79=93 Ind Cas ...=A. I. R. 1926 Cal 531 It cannot be laid down as a rule of law that it is ... unsafe to base a conviction on the uncorroborated testimony of a finger print ... expert. The true rule seems to be one of caution, that is to say the Court must ... ot take the opinion of the expert for granted, but it must examine his evidence ... order to satisfy itself that there can be no mistake and the responsibility is ... l th ... Fare ... 05; ... akin ... con. ... omp ... s not objectionable Public Prosecutor v Kandasami, 50 M 462=98 Ind. Cas. ... 9=A. I R 1927 Mad 696

... Principles of Judicial Proof p 123

Value of expert evidence generally ... considered to be of slight value, since ... unwittingly, biased in favour of the side ... to regard harmless facts as confirmation of preconceived theories; moreover ... ly be multiplied at will ... ie. & G 116, 128 per Lord ... Ashton, L. R. 17 Eq 373. ... deserving of notice is that ... if veracious and ... He combines ... witness—truthful,

S. 45. false, dogmatic, opinic- ... more bully this man ... truth You can no ...

... tenacity of opinion is his weakness I ... give up his opinion " Richard Harris ...

"It is known, for example' says Prof. Wigmore, "that the receipt of fees by experts tends to bias that kind of witness, as it would bias any ... and that in judicial trials incompetent persons who falsely pose as ... can often be obtained for hire. It is known too, that the selection and ... of expert witnesses by the parties, instead of their selection by the Judge, ... to create a partisan bias " Wigmore's Principle of Judicial Proof p. 334.

... th considerable ... chu Mondal v E ... s are not binding ... , that the determin... a matter to be ... ndness of the ... W. N. 465 In B. v B, 42 L Jo 402, the Court accepted the evidence of a wife as to the pa... of a ten months child, inspite of the unanimous opinion of several do... A tribunal should not accept the mere untested opinion of experts in ... ference to direct and positive testimony as to facts Poynton v P, 37 L T 54; Aitkin v. Mc Meikan, (1895) A C 310, Newton v. Ricketts, 9 A. L. J ... The evidence of a skilled witness, however eminent, as to what he thinks ma... may not have taken place under a particular combination of circumsta...

... taken by his own side Besides it must be remembered that an exp... called by one simply and solely because it may be ascertained that he ... views favourable to his interest. Hari Singh v Lachmi Devi, 3 Lah. L ... 110=59 Ind Cas 220; Boisagomoff v Nahapiet, 29 C 32 Where the ... called expert witnesses give no data in support of their opinions ... opinions should be rejected Pirbhu v Secretary of State, A. I. R. 1931 La... 364. An opinion of an expert witness not based on any well ... inexorable laws of nature cannot be taken as decisive especially where ... direct evidence opposed to it. Mansel v Emperor, 96 Ind. Cas. 641=27 Cr L J 977=A I R 1926 Lah 313 See also A. I R 1928 Pat. 568=161 Ind C... 698 "I am convinced" says Prof Wigmore "that the belief that such ... must be the best witness, is false, at least as a generalization ... have had such experience with expert witnesses, and most of us have ... observed that they often give false evidence because they treat the ... in terms of their own interest and are convinced that things must ... according to the principles of their trade However the event shapes itself ... inally implies their own appre...

... Every witness must be produced at ... trial, unless and until it is proved either to be actually impossible to pro... him or to be difficult to do so, that it is under the circumstances ... es such as those to ... ...

Gills v Emperor, 2 O. W. N. 377=12 O. L J. 497=83 Ind. Cas ... L J. 1232=A I R. 1925 Oudh 616. But it is not satisfactory to exa... expert witness on commission and not in the presence of the accused. The evidence of an expert has always to be carefully weighed but, when ... commission, its value is considerably reduced. Nur Din v. Emperor, 10 Lah. L. J. 235 = 108 Ind. Cas. 369 = 29 Cr. L. J. 377 = A. I. R. 1928 Lah 533

the person whose medical witness whc as to the nature of t In re K. Venkatar Code does not precl witness, that has ... elucidation,
. Raghuni
...al case the certificate by itself is not a person who gave it as a wit L. R 893 = 47 B 74 = A Cr. L J. 339. See also Sa 80. The certificate of a in the form prescribed in th His report on a case by in evidence without proof of the truth of its contents Raghunath v. Kurseong Municipality, 76 Ind. Cas 394 Deposition of Medical witness. Section 509 of the Criminal Procedure Code lays down. "(1) The deposition of a Civil Surgeon or other medical witness, taken taken on con enquiry trial

... is deposition" S 509 does not witness admissible at the trial before the Court of Sessions it should be recorded by the Magistrate who is even in the absence of the witness. 38 Ind Cas 764 = 18 Cr. L J 580 Report of chemical examiner Any document purporting to be a report under the hand of any Chemical Examiner or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government upon any matter or thing duly submitted to him for examination or analysis and report in the course of any proceeding under this Code, may be used as evidence in any enquiry; trial or other proceeding under this Code. (s. 510 Cr. Pro. Code).

S. 45

The report of a chemical the signature of the Examin App 112=15 W. R. 49; 2 We-before the institution of proc in person 50 Ind Cas 26=20 Cr. L J 266 Chemical examiner's does not require formal proof, but it must be tendered as evidence and such It can not for the first time be used in appeal 21 A L J 889-83 I Cas 904, but see 98 Ind Cas 177=5 Bur L J. 100=A I R 1926 Rang Failure by prosecution to adduce evidence connecting the parcels cont the blood stained clothes which reached the Chemical Examiner with Cas 485=28 C. W N 561.

Report of experts The reports of experts are not legal evidence , and are examined by parties in respect of 7=20 P. L R 125, 15 C. W N 728 Op t evidence 76 Ind Cas. 425=1 Rang Expert opinion given for the purposes of a previous suit is not evidence and its evidential value is very little 110 Ind Cas 810=A. I R Lah 921

Palm impressions Palm impressions are akin to finger impressions expert evidence relating thereto should on the whole be admitted rather excluded, to be weighed by the Court and the jury for whatever it is Emperor v Babu Lal 52 B 223=29 Cr. L J 410=30 Bom L R 321=1 Cas 508=A. I. R 1928 Bom 158

involv
exper stated by the Supreme Court of Ohio in Clark v State, 12 Ohio, "Medical testimony is of too much importance to be disregarded When with caution, and without bias in favo speculation and favourite theory, it even intelligent juries from following a on inconsistent and unsound principles and received with utmost caution, and, like the opinions of acquaintances, should be regarded as of little weight if not well reasons of facts that admit of no misconstructions, and supported by to which the judgment of Qualifications of a medical witness. If the judge be satisfied that witness is competent to give an inference helpful to the tribunal, essential that he should be able to produce a diploma to be engaged practice or even to h The rule is the in case of a specialist. the witness, th the fact as to wh however must ask in murder, the defence was insanity, the judges were all of opinion on the very point which the jury were to decide, viz, whether, from other testimony given in the case, the act charged was, in his opinion an act insanity. Wright, R & Ry 456, 1821, on the authority of which Park B owed a medical man, who had heard a trial for cutting and maiming, to be owed symptoms of insanity it in Mc Naughton, 10 Cl & F 2 Russ Cr 2262 (h) See the t words of the Judge's answers In T Mason, 7 Cr A. R 67=76 J P 184= T. L R 120 (1911) murder it was held that an expert who has not seen the ly, but has heard its condition described by the witnesses in their evidence, y state his opinion that death was not self inflicted Roscoe Cr Ev p 170, . Reg v Newton, Shrewsbury Spring C Sess Pap 374; Doe d Bainbridge v on, ib 149, Sills v Brown, 9 C & P asonable principle" says William Wills such, shall be permitted to testify only such matters of professional knowledge or experience as have come within to such proved, so that testing tness should be. "Assuming an injury of such and such a kind to have been flicted, what is your opinion as to the nature of the weapon by which it was ssibly or probably inflicted" Roghum v Empress 9 C 455 It is a settled questions entitled to be laid by erwaji, 10 an L R 907 (913) For questions to be put to medical witness, vide Achariar's Wills' Cr Ev App II

S. 4

The most legitimate, valuable and wonderful application of expert evidence on charge of poisoning where poison is extracted from corpse by means of emical analysis Best Ev § 514

Medical Inferences—Probative weight Many considerations may, as is atural, affect the weight ... he inrence of a s not cently made pative rce which drawn om it In h part, pon the truth of the statements made to him by the patient or by others is garded as impairing, to a certain extent, merely the weight of his testimony either a jury nor the trial judge is presumed to have such technical knowledge pass upon the improbability of

y an examination an those reached by itness toward the ay, e g that the witness is interested to support his present contention in other onnections Chamberlayne's Ev § 2030

Medical I

In many instan- This being so; they

S. 46. are received by case of any other although the wit men who have ob value from the facility and obvious incentive for accurate observation, and that their tra would fit them to appreciate and describe what they observed In the g Goppesser Dutta, 16 C W. N. 265 (273) But as regards expert w has already been said that "Tenacity of opinion is his weakness. He sacrifice truth itself rather than give up his opinion." Medical witness sh be carefully watched in these respects. They are witnesses of theory are most tenacious of their opinions. Hints on Advocacy by Richard Har pp 84, 97, 117 The following observation of Mr Justice Norman in v Ahmed Ali, 11 W R 25, is very pertinent: "The evidence of a me man or other skilled witness, however eminent, as to what he thinks or may not have taken place under a particular combination of circum however confidently he may speak, is ordinarily a matter of mere opi Human judgment is fallible, human knowledge is limited and imperfect and previously unobserved phenomena which till they have been record suppo easy to had be comme accepte much 42 L J
a ten months child, inspite of the unanimous opinion of sever Ev 7th Ed. p 375

Where the age of a party has to be decided for purposes of No doctor can give the precise age of o determine the exact date of that p Lah 250=10 L L J 183=113 I by a doctor that a person is of 21 years and he voice and teeth of that per opinion to the P C
of the W N 577=45 I A 284 P C =49 Ind Cas 540; 56 Ind Cas 313 Opinion of a doctor as to the physical condition of patient on a future date, is hypothetical and cannot be relied upon at against people who saw the person concerned on the said future date v Nilapagandu, 83 Ind Cas 616=26 Bom L R 625, see also Sudhir, 50 C 103; 9 A W N 74 The mere presence of semen loin cloth of the woman, is not sufficient to prove, that she was con party, especially in the absence of any spermato zo in the vagina. v Emperor, A I R 1925 Lah 94=6 L L J 474.

46. Facts, not otherwise relevant, are relevant if they support or are inconsistent with the opinions of experts, when such opinions are relevant.

Facts bearing upon opinions of experts.

Illustrations.

(a) The question is, whether A was poisoned by a certain poison.

The fact that other persons, who were poisoned by that poison, exhibited certain symptoms which experts affirm or deny to be the symptoms of that poison, is relevant

(b) The question is, whether an obstruction to a harbour is caused relevant.

it the round about way of stating that the rroboration or rebuttal The illustrations , for this purpose, res inter alios acta is eivable Nort Ev p 225 So this section embodies a general rule which s down that evidence of collateral facts cannot be received. Vide Taylor Ev 37. For purposes of corroboration, the proponent of the inference commonly kes use of the text book statements at the stage of exmination in-chief sting by means of them usualy takes place on cross examination. Chamber oponent uses it to enhance and corroborate the force of what his expert says ie right of a proponent, who has submitted an inference, conclusion or dgment of a skilled witness to corroborate within reasonable limits, its proba-re effect by showing the sound nature of the reasoning upon which it is based ems unquestionable Ibid § 2528. The authority of the text writer can not used as proof that the statements contained in the work are true The arsay rule forbids the use of the declarations in their assertive capacity At e same as that which it has on direct. In other words the statements contained nto employing in their probative capacity This result the judge may attempt o reach by mean hey may use by ss. 57 and 60 killed an expert

that madness is often of an hereditary character, evidence tending to show that none of the defendant's ancestors or near relations had been insane, would be admissible in support of the negative proposition; and on a question of disputed paternity, after proving as a matter of science, that children are apt to inherit the features or general appearance of their parents, evidence will be received of personal resemblance between the party in question and his alleged father.

S. 47. Bagot v Bagot, 1 L R Ir 308, Tay Ev (9th Ed) § 337. An expert w[illegible] himself paralysed in the arm and leg may support his opinion as to the e[illegible] of such paralysis by testifying to its effect on himself Chicago R C [illegible] Lambert, 119 Ill 255 (Am) an [illegible]

157 [illegible]
up of a harbour, and e [illegible] of the wall, proof that [illegible] bankments, had began to be choked about the same time as the harb[illegible] question, was admitted, as such evidence served to elucidate the rea on, [illegible] th [illegible]
[illegible]
wi [illegible]
Mr Smeaton's (the expert) opinion, but as to harbours in which there [illegible] embankments, we think it was improper, since litem lite resolvit"

47. When the Court has to form an opionion as to the p[illegible]son by whom any document was written [illegible] signed, the opinion of any person acquaint[illegible] with the handwriting of the person by wh[illegible] it is supposed to be written or signed that it was or was n[illegible] written or signed by that person, is a relevant fact.

Opinion as to handwriting, when relevant Explanation—A person is said to be acquainted with th[illegible] handwriting of another person when he has seen that person wr[illegible] or when he has received documents purporting to be written b[illegible] that person in answer to documents written by himself or und[illegible] his authority and addressed to that person, or when, in the ordin[illegible] course of business, documents, purporting to be written by th[illegible] person have been habitually submitted to him.

Illustrations.

The question is, whether a given letter is in the handwriting of A [illegible] merchant in London.

B is a merchant in Calcutta, who has written letters addressed to A [illegible] received letters purporting to be written by him C is B's clerk, whose [illegible] was to examine and file of B's correspondence D is B's broker, to wh[illegible] habitually submitted the letters purporting to be written by A for the purp[illegible] advi ing with him thereon.

The opinions of B, C and D on the question whether the letter is in [illegible] handwriting of A are relevant [illegible] nor D ever saw A wr[illegible]

Principle [illegible] distinct kinds [illegible] the act of writi [illegible] act, secondly, evidence of the kind of handwriting [illegible] the establishment [illegible]

[illegible]

mode, there is always an inference from the type to the [illegible] ation is [illegible]

[illegible]

of an inference. The difficulty has not been over the relevancy of dwriting traits to show the authorship of writing but over the mode of lencing them by circumstantial evidence, and that is by examining one or cause when the specimens to be used are themselves before the jury, they may imine them to form an opinion as to the standard or type of writing, and ice the opinion of a person of ordinary experience only, based upon these ecimens, being no better than that of the jury themselves, is not needed, and excluded by the opinion rule, and hence the only persons whose aid need be ced in studying these standards are those who have some special experience er and above that of the jury Thus, ses whether the person whose aid ne skill not possessed by the jury"

"The rule as to the proof of handwriting, where the witness has not cument in question may be stated generally the party write on some former occasions and the transactions have taken place between g to have been written or signed by supposition, the witness is supposed , not so much of the manner in specimens, but to the general character of the writing, which is impressed on is as the involuntary and unconscious result of constitution, habit, or other ermanent cause, and is therefore itself permanent. And we best acquire a tainedly, but in his natural manner" Per Coleridge J. in Doe v.

Suckermore, 5 A & E 703.

he latter is to be regarded as genuinely an instance of the type in question.

S. 47. How to evidence the type of specimens—is a different matter. the mode of proving it by testi that he is acquainted with the typ situation the witness (1) must of writing with which the adequacy of this knowl tness properly claim that opportunities of observation have been such as to give him a fair knowl of the general type or character of the person's hand Wigmore § 693 ordinary methods of proving handwritings are (1) calling as a witness a p who wrote the document or saw it written, or who is qualified to express hand This section deals with opinion evidence of non expert wi prove handwriting A person is considered qualified to testify to handwr when he has seen the person whose handwriting is in question (1) wr (2) in the ordinary course of business, has become familiar with such per handwriting through the receipt of communications purporting to be wr by him, or (3) when in the ordinary course of business, documents purp ing to be written by that person have been habitually submitted to h McKelvey's Ev § 145 This section lays down another real exception to rule excluding hearsay evidence. The reason for the exception is p Unless a signature or writing has been made in the presence of a witness can afterwards identify it, the only possible proof of handwriting is op evidence, and opinion evidence of person specially qualified to testify have thus in proof of handwriting the same two classes of expert testi which have been before referred to,—that which is based on observation that which is based on special training, or education upon a particular There is some difference of opinion in the authorities as to just how familiarity from observation will to give his opinion handwriting The general rule he once specially qualifies a person Varian, 54 N Y 395; Taylor § 18

21 Wend (N Y) 557

There should ould control Wigmore the mark is habitual, & Ma. 516; his signatu . initial amounts to a signature . Re Emerson, 9 L R I. 443; R andwriting includes everything . Webster, 5 Cush 301 (Am); Sayo . ether " mark " can ) saw ether m v writing,' we th

with his hand,

When he has seen the person write—Ex visu Scriptionis A person is acquainted with the handwriting of another when he has seen that person write whether often or seldom, much or little, recently or long ago Lawson Op & Exp Ev Rule 47 In De La Motte's Case, which took place in 1871, Mr Justice Buller said to the jury "The counsel on the part of the prisoner has just objected that similitude of handwriting is no evidence They certainly are right in the argument, but the objection does not apply to this case Similitude of

ody that has nce is made
, but that is the papers which you have heard read; they have all been proved by persons who were knowledge they say they believe the letters and papers are of his handwriting That, gentlemen is the only evidence that can be given of handwriting; except it happens that there be a person who saw the prisoner actually write the papers" Hensdy's Case, 19 How St Tr 1341 In Hoper v Ashley, 15 Ala rule that seeing the per Wigmore § 694 Garrells

William v Warrall, 8
Warren v. Anderson, 8 Sc

S. 47. write on any other occasion The Court admitted his evidence Garrel v Alexander, 4 Esp 37 The question is whether a paper is in B hand C seen him write only once His opinion is admitted Horne Toke's Case 25 H St. Tr 71, Wellman v Warrall, 8 C & P 380; Warren v Anderson, 8 S... A was sued on a note which he denied ever having signed To prove signature, B, who has seen A write but once, and then only to receipt a which B had paid to him, that case the Court observed called to prove the handwr large number of times Handwriting, like the countenance, form gait gesture of a party, is recognized by some more readily than by other wit nore decisive and obvious peculiarities than ascertain whether the witness has seen h he knows to be that of the party and he he must, upon his oath, declare if the writing exhibited appears to him that of the same party The weight to be attached to such testimony depend upon the ordinary tests of knowledge, the capacity of the witne his disposition to tell the truth, and the means that have been afforded whether from the intrinsic nature of the subject itself or the familiarity of the witness with it, to acquire the information he assumes to have The w to the genuineness of the defendant's signature to the note was there properly admitted" See also Hartung v People, 4 Park C C 319, Do v People, 6 Park C C 120, Lawson Expt & Op Ex p 336 Mr Evans 'I have known the admission of this evidence carried so far as for an ato after the failure of other attempts, to stand up and swear to a knowledge the writing of the opposite party from having once looked over his sh when writing ... " E...'s Pothier Vol II, 160, see a

In Powell v Ford, 2 Stark, 164 where the witness had seen ... but his name only once, on which occasion he did not write it at length, but the initial of his Christian name, Lord Ellenborough said that "if the w had seen the defendant write his name at full length although but once ... lf ...

Christian name, and that it was as necessary to prove the ... as well as the surname to be in the defendant's handwriting, and that the was not to be inferred from the other, any more than the rest of the name could be inferred from proof that one or two letters were in his handwr But ten years later, in Lewis v Sapio, M & M 39, Chief Justice ... to be bound by this ruling In this case, to prove the defendant to be ... of ...

is the foundati
"When I first c ton, 8 Ves. 424 Courts, was thi party write. If he s enough to introduc be his handwriting to go to the jury If he refused to answer to his belief, he was ... too much, to form a belief, but if he would not go to the l ...

S.

seen him subsequent
. and if he ht go to the ture of all
& E 793, Patteson J said: "All evidence of handwriting, except where the witness sees o belief which a an exemplar in vledge may have

13 W. R 191

The question is whether a certain paper was written by T W, who has not seen T write for nineteen years, is called, and his testimony is received Horne Tooke's Case, 25 How St Tr 71, see also Warren v Anderson, 8 Scott 384, where the witness has seen the writer to write ten years before So in Smith v. Walton, 8 Gill 18 (Am) a witness was allowed to depose after six years In that case the Court observes "The impression made on the mind of a witness who has seen a party write his name only in a single instance may be exceedingly faint and imperfect, but it is nevertheless testimony, provided the witness more vivid and lasting impression from the examination of a single signature —an assumption be acquired after comes important

S. 47. to testify as to the genuineness of a signature where his knowledge was d ... o him purporting ... saw her write ... nature to be h ... The c is whethe is a merc letters pur the letter Thorpe v v Fry, 1 C Bl 384; Murieta v Wolfhagen, 2 C & K 744; Southern Ex Co ...

41 Miss 216, Parsons v McDaniel, 62 Ga. 100. Lawson Exp & Op Ev ...
The question was whether a document was in T's handwriting B had re... letters purporting to come from A, and had answered one of them, but received no reply thereto B was held not qualified to prove T's handwr...
Webb v Manro Morris (Iowa) 411. "The witness in the present instance" the Court in the above case "had received two letters purporting to come the defendant, to one of which he had replied Had the corre ponden...
... ld have been so far rebutted ...

... fication that the ... 411 In ...
Bolinger, 59 Tex ... the legal ...
English case on the legal ... facts rec...
... hen speaking of the facts rec... to introduce knowledge of handwriting, not from actual inspection but corre pon lence I adverted to an expression in frequent use, and which ... ha let
it
the word act done the observation is without foundation ... the writer is ... sort is necessary Anything from which the identity of the writer ... 559, ... may suffice" In Cunningham v Hudson River Bank, 21 Wend 559, ... that a person had re...

and that merel His belief is of such a reason that the

The law in America on this point is thus ... veral letters purporting ... the part of the supposed writer, other than the letters ... from whom the ... letters are genuine, and in the handwriting of the person from whom such ... to come A person who has heard business correspondence with ... of his ... upon by both parties, is competent to testify as to the handwriting of ... pondent, although he may never have seen him write But when ... have no relation to business transactions, but are letters of merely ...

... in some way ...

and contents of the letters. The testimony of ...

S. 4

ffect that he had known the plaintiff for fourteen or fifteen years, did not know whether he had ever seen her write; corresponded with her about fourteen years ago, received about a dozen letters in answer to his own, with her name signed to them; had received no letters recently, had some of the letters with her. The question was then propounded to him: From your knowledge of her ... l you know ... to be asked, ... ld not know

1 W. Bl. 384, per Lord Mansfield; Barnes v Trompowsky, 7 T R 265 Ovenston v. Wilson, 2 C & K 1; Murieta v Wolfhagen, 2 C & K 741; Turner's Case, 3 Cr App 103, 155 = (1910) 1 K B 346 In the last mentioned case a document of consent signed by the Director of Public Prosecutions was put in In ... for ... cu- ... by ... ust ... dy. ... at ... lor ... abit of ... ch any ... ndent's ... In the ... math v

... Konkey ... stimony of K was clearly competent The witness testified that he had corresponded with the merchant in New York whose signature was to be proved, by writing to him, and receiving letters from him, and in this way he had acquired a knowledge of his signature The objection was, the 'witness had not shown himself qualified to speak of it' It is within one of the above modes stated whereby the competent knowledge may be acquired, and the witness professed that in that way he had acquired his knowledge of his operations."

When in the ordinary course of business, documents purporting to be written etc —Ex Scriptio Olim Visis A person is acquainted with the hand writing of another when, in the ordinary course of business, writings purporting to be written by that person have passed through his hands Berg v Peterson, 49 Minn 420 (Am), Tuttle v Rainey, 98 N C 513 (Am) "The clerk" as Lord Denman remarked in Doe v Suckermore, 5 Ad & El 703, "who con-by the supposed writer of the paper in question' In Tidford v Anott, (2 Jo...

Cas 214) it was held that the sig person who had been in the habit of s believed the signature to be his '. plaintiff's notes, all of which, except o notes, with his signature to them, une made and subscribed them If, then he handwriting, he was ight to have been asked handwriting if he answered that question affirmatively, then the receipts should have been rec... in evidence" Lawson Expt & Op. Ev p 343 Where the genuine... signatures to bank bills is disputed, the evidence of bank officers, th... whose hands similar bills pass daily, is obviously of highest value. L... pays...

...
...
all per... not connected with the bank, but who have frequently received and paid bills purporting to be issued by it, and who have cashed such bills at the b... are competent to testify to the signatures of the cashier and president on bills alleged to be forgerie president write Com v American Case, "that no and cashier c habit of rec sound one been in the

to be acqua official posi is settled
he can testi ... cated with him by letter, although he has never seen him write at all ...knowledge in one ... of knowledge of the party's handwriting which enable him ... genuineness he should be permitted to give to the jury his opinion ... subject." ...the peace may be pr... recorder in the off become Geoming

N. C 112); a jailor through whose hands letters signed by a prisoner received from him to parties out side have passed, may, from this circumstance alone, form a sufficient knowledge of the prisoner's handwriting State v. Hastings, 53 N. H. 450; Lawson Expt & Op Ev 399 In order to prove the handwriting or signature of another person one must show that he is acquainted

Emperor v Pande, 27 Bom L R 1031=89 Ind Cas 1042=26 Cr L J. 1474= A. I. R 1925 Bom 429

N Y 398.

Signature of a Partnership firm A witness may be acquainted with the signature of a firm without being able to identify the handwriting of either or any partner Gordon v Price, 10 Ired 385 "It is of no consequence that the

the witness The substance witness has drawn the inference that they were made by one and the same individual The strength of his belief will depend on the greater or less degree of similarity He can only testify to his own state of mind on this question. The

S. 47.

belief was properly before he could not sw understood by thereby to limit to say that the testimony of a p that he is of opinion, or that he thinks, the paper is genuine, yet, ... step further when the witness will only state that the handwriting is like ... statement which may be perfectly true, but yet, within the knowledge of the witness, the paper might have been written by an utter stranger ...

§ 1868

Knowledge of handwriting acquired for the purpose of testifying ... ledge of handwriting, acquired for where it is clear that there was no mot to manufacture testimony Reese v.
Ind 635 (Am) ; Lawson Expert & Op Ev Rule 54 The question ... a trial was as to the handwriting of A B was offered as a witness It appe... that previous to the trial, A had written his name for the purpose of ...
B, his mar ... v. S...
Esp 15 because, h common ing letter, handwritin

since the controversy on the subject arose To this general rule ... 13 Cr ... can be taken Chamberlayne's Ev § 2198; see also R. v Rickard, 13 Cr ...
R 140, Stranger v Searle, 1 Esp 14; Fitzwater Peerage, 10 C. & F 193, R. v Suckermore, 5 A & E 703

... on the burden proof burde insufficient to qualify him Henderson v. Bank of Montgomery, ...

Lawson Expert & Op Ev. rule 56 In proof of a document a witness ... he was acquainted with the handwriting of the writer, but he was not ... examination-in-chief any question which would elicit any of the several ... indicated in the explanation to section 47 of the Indian Evidence Act ...
1872) The witness was not cross-examined in the point, neither any ... was ... sible. ...
Ram
the exam... as it stands Taylor § 1863 "It appears to us that this is ... of the law in this country also, expedient that the matters referred t position to write to a ... the handwriting" Per Jenkins C J in Sankarrao v. ...

S.

Therefore, where the witness has not been questioned on the trial as to his means of knowing a certain handwriting, no objection to the want of qualifications so to testify can be made on appeal. Ibid; Berryman v Dahlgren, 6 Rob 188, Smith v Walton, 8 Gill 81. So the evidence of a witness contained in a deposition that he knows a certain paper to be in the handwriting of a party is sufficient, on appeal, where the opposite party has declined to cross-examine as to his means of knowledge Wither v Gould, 8 Walls, 485 So where the nce The testimony of one witness to a sign the instrument, and whose credi-the similarity and likeness to signatures of his which they have seen Such features or their expression remain as we have been accustomed to see them We know the face, though derangement has imparted to it a new appearance, or when distorted by pain or disfigured by wounds and presented in an entire s the memory The and trees, and to dis- general class We daily meet those who, with precise kind of fruit it will bea although, if questioned, they between the several species We judge of writings, as of other things, by its individual character as a whole We must take the opinion of those witnesses altogether, and judge of their testimony as under all the circumstances they shall appear entitled to weight, from their opportunity of knowing the defendant's handwriting, and your estimate of their skill and judgment A cashier of a bank is entitled to no more credit than any other person of equal skill" The jury found for the plaintiff Lawson, Exper & Op Ev. 380.

Ev 382.

S. 48.

Opinion as to existence of right or custom, when relevant 48 When the Court has to form an opinion as to the existence of any general custom or right the opinions, as to the existence of such custom or right, of persons who would be likely to know of its existence if it existed, are relevant.

Explanation.—The expression "general custom or right" includes customs or right common to any considerable class of persons.

Illustration

gation no better evidence can be obtained, or the facts cannot ... presented to the tribunal Lawson, Op & Expert Ev Rule 63 ... frequently collective where a combination of the known elements ... pressed in the form of a concl... Such inference is ...

are, so to speak, the depositories of the customary law just as the ... are the depositories of the general law Jag Mohan Das v Ma... B 528 (543)

Scope of the section In Bai ... 20 B 43 (...) said "Mere opinion evidence is ... custom must be proved by specific ... failed to adduce (Rahimat Bai v ... Akbar Khan, 1 A 441 But in a lat... a tribal or family custom excluding a daughter or sister from ... favour of a collateral may be proved by general evidence as to its ex... members of the tribe or family who would naturally be cognizant of ... and ... instances need ...

who would be likely to know of its existence, if it existed ... relevant, but such opinions must be given by witnesses who ... Maung On v Maung Shwe Bwin 1 L B R 80, Hubraj v Chandra ... 1921 Oudh 89=8 O W N 6 So the statements made by persons who ... a position to know of the existence of a custom or usage in the ... admissible under this section Sanaullah v Pran Nath, 26 C ... on the existence of ...

excluding daughters papers, directed to be ... usages of this kind of under s 35 of the Evidence Act, though they had been prepared by the settlement most important document contained in the official records relating to the village of inheritance, or, under section 48 as the record of opinions as to the existence it" So their Lordships think who holds that opinion should sed on hearsay Vide Per Lord Davy in Gurudhuaja v. Suparandhuaja, 23 A 37=27 I A 238 supra. So according to their Lordsl admissible in evidence tion of the section can construction of the wordi lay down certain well is admissible. But these sections are not in any way exceptions to section 60 of the Evidence Act, which lays down that if it refers to an opinion or to the grounds on which that opinion is held it must be the evidence of the person

M L T. 1=5 A L J and customs, public in evidence Section in cases in which the declarant cannot be brought before the Court, whether in consequence of death or from other cause This section refers only to general has personally known the right or custom exercised as a matter of fact Custom is not a matter to be submitted to the senses It is made up of an aggregated repetition of the same hough a bare opinion is worth data on which it is founded; is to be the lim ts of a village or t exclusion of others, a right roads, or plant trees, rights of common and the like, will Nort Ev 227

Customs A custom is a particular rule which had existed either actually obtained the force of law in not consistent with the general od, 6 Q B 50, Halsbury Vol X finite limited locality It may ylor, 4 Burr. 2305 For further annotations, vide p 211 supra

S. 49.

Right "It may be difficult, perhaps to define precisely the scope of the word 'right" but I think it was here intended to include those properties of an incorporeal nature, which in legal phraseology are generally called r...

6 C 171 (F B) at p 185 In the same case Jackson J said "It seems to a very wide interpretation to the has been said that, in section 13 of refer to incorporeal rights only, in ss 32 and 48, where the same word occurs in conjunction with the 'custom' it has been used in that sense. In the first place, it is by no means clear that ss to conceive that in the ge confined to that class only". See also Tippu Khan v. Rajoni, 2 C ... (F B), Collector of Gorakhpur v Palakdhari, 12 A 1 (F B), ... Bapu, 10 B 439; Lakshman v Amrit, 24 B 591; Ramdas v. Apparu, 12 M ...; Venkatasami v Venkatareddi, 15 M. 12; Vythilinga v Venkatacha, 16 M. 1...

Person who would be likely to know The opinion must be of the p... who are likely to know of its existence if it existed Jugmohandas v ... 10 B 528 (542) In Sariatullah v Prannath Nandi, 26 C 184, the question was whether occupancy right was transferable by custom In deciding ... competent to prove customs ... the Court observed "We ... in the present case also the
to know of the existence of F

and I think that the opinion out by the learned Judges under ... custom Nort Ev 227. In Wright v Tatham, 7 A & E ...

5 Cl & F. 720, Coltman J. asked: "Where boundary is proved by reputation what is the guarantee for ...?" Mr Starkie replied: 'The public ...

v Sparke, 1 M. & S 690, per Bailey J.

Opinion as to usages, tenets, etc., when relevant

49. When the Court has to form an opinion as to—the usages and tenets of any body of men or family, the constitution and government of any religious or charitable foundation, or the meaning of words or terms used in particular districts or S. 49 by particular classes of people, the opinions of persons having special means of knowledge thereon, are relevant facts.

Principle The matters mentioned in this section can only be proved by persons having special means of knowledge.

Scope of the Section The kind of evidence contemplated by this section must be the expres[illegible] petition of hearsay [illegible] the existence of a [illegible] information derived from deceased persons Gurudhwaja v Suparandhuaja, 23 A. 37=5 C W. N. 33 (P. C)=27 I A 238=10 M L J. 267 (P. C)=2 Bom L R 831 Where a certain member of a family accepted a certain interpretation of a clause in Wajib-ul arz the fact is admissible in evidence as to how a custom applying to the family is interpreted by members of that family. Sharfuddin v Niamut Ali 87 Ind Cas 8=A I R 1925 Oudh 688 Opinion [illegible]

R 6 O. 101.

[illegible]

omitting any reference to the legal effect. Wigmore § 1954 But the mere assertion of a "custom" does not involve opinion Conner v R Co, 146 Ind [illegible]

The effect is to be determined by the Court. Hoskins v Warren, 115 Mass 514, 535. "The inquiry . . is not after the opinion of traders and merchants in respect to the law upon a given question, but after the evidence of a fact, to wit the usage or practice in the course of mercantile business" Allen v Merchant's Bank, 15 Wend N Y 482, 488 So a party may exmine witnesses to prove a particular course of [illegible] of facts, but not to show what the law is [illegible] 145 (149) It is sometimes said that a [illegible] specific instances, or must at lea[illegible] statement of the general practic[illegible] Lord Mansfield and later Judges, [illegible] Edie v East India Co, 1 W Bl 295 (297), 2 Burr 1216 (1222), Mansfield L C. J said "Many witnesses were examined by defendants to prove this [illegible]

[illegible] Benson, 7 C. & P 711 (714) Tindal C J observed "Is there any general course of business? Let your mind revolve over instances I am not asking you whether it is just and proper, but whether there is any prevailing course of business." "But" says Prof Wigmore "there is no rule of exclusion The usage is itself a fact, and the opinion rule does not treat such testimony as an inference from data which can be adequately stated without the inference." Wigmore § 1954 This view is in accord with the opinion of Lord Mansfield, in Camden v Cowley, 1 W Bl 417, where he ruled that insurance brokers and others might be examined as to the general opinion and understanding of the persons concerned in trade, though they knew no particular instance in the fact, upon which such opinion was founded So the evidence of a well qualified witness as regards a trade usage, who could not state individual cases is admitted inasmuch as the factum probandum is not a single isolated act or long ... able. 316, ... lished ... J. 240; Lal Gajen ... W R (1864) 20 ... this section it can b... ... ame. Family custom includes the ... r descent in a family and other customary ...

S. 49. occurrence, but the result or conclusion derived from a series of ... or circumstances, creating and establishing in the mind of the witness a c... tion or belief of the complex whol... Nickerson 13 All Mass 351; Wigmor... of a witness as regards trade usage... section 13, specific instances of usage... this section all usages of trade and... persons having special means of knowledge ... 1 Sm L C 546.

Tenets of any body of men. This will include any opinion ... dogma, or doctrine which is held or maintained as truth It will ... religion, politics, science, etc Nort Ev. p 228.

The constitution and government of any religious or charitable foundation ... The opinions of ... constitution and ... vant under this ... Thus in Shore v ... early part of the eighteenth century, had, in the deed of grant, ... objects of her munificence as 'Godly preachers of Christ's Holy Go...' it became necessary to determine a few years ago what persons were ...

(308) where the grant of land was for a meeting house, ... the worship and service of God The trustees and the majority of the ... gation having later ceased to be Trinitarian in belief a bill to ... making a decree for ...

... rases are employ... stood their ... and to give ...

v Briggs, 2 Car. & P 525; "in the Month of October" ... Lucas ... Peake, 43 ... 7 Taunt ... Perrin, 2 ... convey" unless it comes from persons who are shown to have ...

There is thus analogy between opinion evidence under this section and hearsay evidence of custom based on hearsay Vide Per Parke B in Crease v. Barrett, 1 Cr M. & R 929, per Parke B

Opinion on relationship, when relevant

50. When the Court has to form an opinion as to the relationship of one person to another, the opinion, expressed by conduct, as to the existence of such relationship, of any person who, as a member of the family or otherwise, has special means of knowledge on the subject, is a relevant fact:

Provided that such opinion shall not be sufficient to prove a marriage in proceedings under the Indian Divorce Act*, or in prosecutions under section 494, 495, 497 or 498 of the Indian Penal Code†.

Illustrations.

(a) The question is, whether A and B were married.

The fact that they were usually received and treated by their friends as husband and wife, is relevant

(b) The question is, whether A was the legitimate son of B. The fact that A was always treated as such by members of the family, is relevant Principle The question of presumption of relationship by conduct of parties often arises in cases of marriage and legitimacy When the fact of marriage is in issue, subsequent conduct of the man and woman, said to have been the parties to it, is receivable to evidence the marriage This conduct is traditionally spoken of as "habit", and this common source of proof, with the reputation evidence which usually accompanies it, has come to be known by the phrase 'habit and repute" The logical nature of the argument indicates it plainly to fall under the principle, that from the conduct of the man and the woman as married persons may be inferred their firm belief that they were at some prior time made husband and wife, and from this belief may be inferred Scope of the section This section is taken from section 649 of Taylor which is as follows 'Next, family conduct,—such as the tacit recognition of relationship, and the distribution and devolution of property,—is frequently received as evidence from which opinion and belief of the family may be inferred, as resting ultimately on the same basis as evidence of family tradition For, since the principal question in pedigree cases turns on the parentage or descent of an individual, it is obviously material, in order to resolve this question, to ascertain how he was treated and acknowledged by those who sustained towards him any relations of blood or of affinity" The presumption in favour of wedlock is another instance of the rule omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta (all things are presumed to be rightly and solemnly done) Fox v Bearblock, 17 Ch D 499 It has its own special maxim semper praesumitur pro matrimonio 'By the as man there is a professs

*IV of 1869. †XLV of 1860.

S. 50. to be" Per 199; Lyle v lightly repell factory or conclusive Per Lord Lyndhurst in Morris v Davis, 5 Cl & F This was approved by Lord Cottenham in Piers v Piers, 2 H L Cas p see also Langham v Thompson, 91 L T 680, George v. Thayer, (1901) 1 Ch 456, Haynes v. Caster, 94 L T. 431; Cunningham v Cunningham, 2 Dow H.
L 507 ... But according to English La

L R
from th
of this person
dead or cannot b appears to afford a to prevent any pe

to the religious usage of the party, the names of particular person recited or omitted during the performance of ceremonies, and the observance pollution, are instances of conduct within the meaning of this section and admissible in evidence Ramkrishna v Chinna, 26 Ind Cas 110. When a witness vaguely states that he is related to the parties his opinion is not ad-sible Mohan Lal v Tulsan, 109 Ind Cas. 774 = A. I R 1928 Lah. 521 Relationship by marriage. "The parties' assertions of marriage general reputation of the fact m ... with as much strength distinctness by actions as by elopement and return as married ability was successfully relied was dwelt upon as a strong fact by Abott C J in summing up the case of Bear v Ward A similar weight was ascribed to the husband procuring a woman to be presented at Court as his wife"

... of a prior time by those who have witnessed the exchange of consent, and of contrary evidence which would naturally have come to light This net result of the sifting of the facts by gossip and by interested is summed up on the community's reputation; and this, though ordinarily be inadmissible by the Hearsay rule, is by long sible under a special exception to that rule. Now these two sorts of habit and reputation, are commonly found available together, commonly offered at the same time. They are admitted on distinct theories, the ical ase, ute vere

S. 5

a
to ord
the rth hat

the man and wom and to stand in the given by those ar and acquaintances, habit and repute ar and reputed to be combination of circumstances as evidence that consent to marry has been

Khoja Hedayet v Rayan, 3 M I A 295; Mahabta v Ahmed, 10 C L R 293 of direct proof, consent may be inferred f established by reputation But when pr mainly on reputation the circumstances some caution because the same word which Legitimacy as evidenced by conduct. In Berkely Peerage Case, Sir James Mansfield remarked, that, " if the father is proved to have brought up the party legitimate."

e Merchant's he supposed his question (of legitimacy) My Lords, when two women each claimed a particular child as hers, and called upon a person to decide between them, he ordered that the

s. 50 child should be severed in two parts, and that each take half; the true m...
... decided, upon that, that the child was ...
... s? Not, perhaps that mere declara...
... declarations, may be made for a temp... purpose (in that case both women made declarations, and one of course ... false declarations); but it teaches that the conduct of a parent, the feelin... a parent—those feelings being inferred from such conduct—afford us evidence assisting us in arriving at a right conclusion as to the ma... controversy It has been argued at the bar that mere declarations of ...

ground for inference, for it comes from the least suspicious source, ... the very individuals who are the most interested to give a different ...
If there ever was a case where circumstantial evidence of this descriptio... admissible, it is this" In the same case ... ment is sufficient evidence, if not rebut...

Wigmore § 269 So also the concealmen... husband Hargrave v Hargrave, 2 C & K ... such child by the person who, at the time of its conception, was living in a ... of adultery with the mother, and the fact that the child and its ...

the family appear to have been mentioned in the Will, but ... taken of such person is strong evidence to show, either that he was not the ...
... the Will (Tracy Pe...

W. N 130 (P C)

...nduct of parties is very ...
Mullangi v Venkatasi...
P 515 Such evidence is also ...
Maharaja Pertab v Maharan...

3 C. 626 P C = 1 C L R 113

Proviso The proviso is inserted, because in divorce, adultery and ... cases the marriage must be strictly proved, that is, by the evidence of a ... who was present at the marriage, or by the production of the regi... copy of the register, or such other record as the law of the country, ... a class, may provide. Nort Ev ... Vol 3 ... bigamy proof of second marriage is ...
U S. v. Miles, 103 U S 304 But ...
Com. v. Jackson, 11 Bush. (Ky) 679 ... an indictment or a civil action, the case for the prosecution is not made out S. 50

& W. 265; Roscoe Cr.
f the marriage, even Williams v. Williams, in Morris v. Miller, hat case the opinion of r to support an action or criminal conversation, there must not be proof of an actual marriage'; the ct was, they were married at Mayfair Chapel; the register or books could not laintiff's power, (2) it was not an actual i e ceremonial marriage Lord action .... Perhaps there need not be strict proof from the register, or by a person present, but strong evidence must be had of the fact,—as by a person present at the wedding dinner, if the register be burnt and the person and clerk as before. But an action for criminal conversation has a mixture of penal purpose by they are not an action a 1, 195 From lear that this ses of cases, namely (1) where the charge is a criminal one and (2) in the civil action of f of a marriage in fact" or actual

c. either by the register containing of parson clerk or some other person time, the action of criminal conversation occupied a far more prominent position and was therefore more liable to abuse. Wigmore § 2081. Nevertheless the rule

S. 50. of law as laid down by Lord Mansfield in the above two cases is appl[illegible] in common law of England Cathercood v Caslo[illegible] 13 M & W [illegible] le Vile [illegible] days has

[illegible] The f[illegible] are [illegible]

cient to prove a marriage in a prosecution for bigamy or in pr[illegible] a divorce, or in a petition for damages against an adulterer But th[illegible] to put it too broadly The marriage and subsequent ceremony upo[illegible] the prosecution is based certainly cannot be so proved but it may [illegible] another marriage becomes material in such prosecution, and such marri[illegible] certainly be proved by a reputation, although it is proving a marriage [illegible] prosecution for bigamy" Thus in the case of R v Wilso[illegible] 3 F & [illegible] the prisoner pleaded that when she went through the first ceremony [illegible]

24 & 25 Vict C 100, § 57, Stat 20 & 21 Vic C 85 § 33 These exc[illegible] rest on the ground that such proceedings, being of a penal nature req[illegible] strictest proof, and a further reason for the exception in the cases of a [illegible] another, as well as the injury to the progeny by placing them [illegible] without rights of legitimate children Now this deception and [illegible] to be more cautious and tender in favour of an opponent [illegible] criminal charge in which the opponent has placed himself on a level [illegible] meanness below that of the least meritorious opponent in any [illegible] Wigmore § 2084.

Under the proviso to this section, in proceedings of the k[illegible] [illegible] not by itself [illegible] in the ordinary way, i e, by other and more reliable evidence [illegible] mere opinion of a person who, as a member of the family or [illegible] especial means of knowledge. Queen Empress v Subbaraya[illegible] 9 M [illegible] 572 This is in accordance with the principle that strict [illegible] required in all criminal cases. Empress v Kallu, 5 A 233 [illegible] Empress v Pitambar, 5 C 566 But that principle is [illegible] inasmuch as in criminal cases a rule has grown up that the p[illegible] beyond a reasonable doubt. Wigmore §§ 2051, 2137 But [illegible]

's section in all prosecutions for adultery under s. 497 Penal Code, the irriage must be strictly proved. Gopal v. Emperor, 4 Bur. L. J. 107= I. R. 1925 Rang. 328. So the existence of a legal marriage has to be ction under s. 497, Penal Code the actual fact of the marriage between the rem Chand v. Hira, A. I. R. 1927 B. 594.

51. Whenever the opinion of any living person is relevant, the grounds on which such opinion is based are also relevant.

Grounds of opinion, hen relevant.

Illustration.

An expert may give an account of experiments performed by him for the urpose of forming his opinion.

Principle "The mere opinions of the witnesses are entitled to little or no ·gard, unless they are supported by good /arrant them in the opinion of the jury. lusive, the opinions of the witnesses are wo ı Harrison v. Rowan, 3 Wash C. C. 587. "Opinion is no eviedence, without esigning the reason for such opinion." Per Duncan J. in Rambler v. Tryon, S. & R. 94; Wigmore § 1917.

Scope of the section. In all cases in which opinion of experts are receivible, the grounds or reasoning upon which such opinion is based may also be nquired into Phip Ev 4th Ed. 362; Govt of Bombay v. Merwanji, 10 Bom.

S. 51. that case the Court observed. "The ground on which an expert, a Court that the witness should be permitted to explain the grounds and of his opinion to the Court and jury, they may readily perceive the force reasoning, the soundness or fallacy of his logic, and therefore ju capacity to give an opinion on the subject and the correctness of his taken to be true because the witness has stated that he founds them, but this is quite a mistake In order to obtain facts the opin all questions of fact upon competent evidence laid before of science they may be aided by the more exact experience of the trained expert." Lawson Expert & Op Ev pp

CHARACTER WHEN RELEVANT.

it is said of a person that he bears a good reputation, Chamberlayne's S. 5 racter which is a on person, which meaning of the position in this, that the latter is easily moveable, the former of longer ration and more difficult to be moved' I may notice that habit is formed or passion, and that this repetition Metaphysics Vol I p 178 Habit Chamberlayne's Ev § 3263

Act In explanation to section 55, the cter" includes both reputation and disposi-That actual character" says Prof Wigmore and the latter is merely evidence to prove common use of the word 'character' in the hers, especially the popular opinion, whether favourable or the reverse tandard Dictionary 'Character lives in a man, reputation outside him" olland, Gold Foil, C 19 p 219 "Character is like an inward and spiritual ace of which reputation is, or should be the outward and visible sign" of opinion arising from the deportment of a man in society As a man's deportment, good, or bad, necessarily produces one circle without another, and so extends itself till it unites in one general opinion, that general opinion is allowed to be given in evidence" State v Lanton, 76 N C 216; Burr Jones § 153.

Scope of Sections 52 to 55 The framer of the Act has dealt with these sections under the heading 'character when relevant." But in the explanation of section 55 he has indicated how the character of a person can be evidenced We have character includes both erroneous. Character and cases the term "general But there are two distinct ommon use of one word

S. 52. for two ideas has caused confusion. (1) Is a person's disposition—a or group of traits, or the sum of his traits—relevant and admissible for purposes? (2) Whenever it is so admissible as an evidentiary fact becomes in its turn a propc first question is essentially in to exclude relevant ch entirely different quarter, it has nothing to do with character, as an evi fact, but with the mode of proving character, assuming it to be provable either as an evidentiary fact or as an issue Wigmore § far as the first point is concerned, character is offered as an evi fact—as a basis for an inference as to conduct—in section 52, 53 may also be a fact in issue (Vide expla in the latter contingency, character not ut character in the sense of "general ch or "reputation" may also be a fact in issue, as in the ca es of d tion Whenever a party's character is itself a fact in issue, whether sense of disposition or reputation, and whether it be in a civil proceeding a criminal case, proof of that character is always admissible Taylor Best § 258 So also whenever character is relevant as a basis of any inference (than the inference of conduct), it is admissible without n Chamberlayne's Ev § 3307. But when a party's character is requ proved not as a fact in issue but as an evidentiary fact to prove condu generally excluded So the general rule is that from a party's chara conduct can not be presumed. So in civil cases a party's charact evidentiary fact is wholly excluded Such evidence can be given only cases, where the amount of dam good character has been offe But the bad character of a party criminal case may also be a fact in issue In such a case of course, evid his bad character is always admissible These are the questions which essentially one of relevancy. Now we come to the second phase of the i e how the character is to be evidenced Two special proble second qu Opinion

Hearsay,
on what observations of the conduct of the person under peculiar circu man the estimated character, or reputation, of being honest, or of natured, or passionate, or humane, or cruel—this general charac er, as it is also a fact; it is the opinion which those who are acquainted with him proved in respect to his several traits of character This is also proving real character, which is the object in view But it is the fact itself sible in more instances than the other," Per Pearson Jones L 160, Wigmore § 52. For further discussion on this point under s 55 infra

52. In civil cases the fact that the character of any concerned is such as to render improbable any conduct imputed to irrelevant, except in so far as such appears from facts otherwise relevant.

In civil cases, character to prove conduct imputed, irrelevant

Principle Evidence of a party's character in a civil suit is irrelevant for wo-fold reasons, namely, (1) A party's character is usually of no probative issues and to orcefully stated

9 "But in a civil suit, where the personal rights of opposite parties are to be weighed in a nicely adjusted balance, no proof except that relating to the facts in controversy should be admitted to turn the scale" Here the rejection of evidence is on the ground of principal and ev evidence of good admissible in evidence, because there is a fair and just presumption that a person of good character would not commit a crime But in civil cases such vidence is with equal good reason not admitted, because no presumption would would be infinitely er C in Slaw v Come er is not in issue, the and a very bad man may have a very righteous cause' Thompson v Church, 1 Root (Conn) 312 (1791) But in civil cases of a quasi criminal nature the reason for exclusion is not so clear in principle and the Courts do not speak

§ 3275 In

concur in er has but a been com-ice is doubtful and nicely balanced, it may then perhaps suffice to turn the wavering scale; or to form their opinion upon the opinions of others The introduction of such or bad simply renders his doing a particular act more or less probable It has not the belief compelling power, in reference to the proof of the matter in question, of a probative fact, properly so called Chamberlayne's Ev § 3266 words: § 2053 Evidence of good character of a party is not admissible in civil

S. 52. pursuant to a Statute to recover treble the value of property taken the Court said "All the rules of evidence applicable in civils are applicable to this" Hall v Brown, 30 Conn 551 So in an English case, [Att Gen v. Bauman, 2 B & P 532 note (a)] the q was squarely presented to the Court The trial was of an informa . for offering to corrupt w the defendant's charac nt the defendant was the crime imputed to him The evidence was rejected Eyre C B, cannot admit this evidence in a civil suit The offence imputed by the tion is not in the shape of a crime It would be contrary to the true distinction to admit it, which is this, that in a direct prosecution for such evidence is admissible, but where the prosecution is not directly crime, but for the penalty, as in this information, it is not If ev character is admissible in such a case as this, it would be character in any charge of fraud upon the Excise and Custom Chamberlayne's Ev § 3280.

Crimin principle it received as case, the mo such action law of evide and must confusion w relevancy to make it worthy of consideration and to avoid course, similar objections exist in reference to the use of such criminal cases, but they are disregarded by reason of the humane law in view of the fact that in criminal cases human life and liberty

Character in action for fraud. Where the nature of a civil acti involve the general character of a party, evidence as to that char not be offered to contradict an imputation of dishonesty, or even of fra transaction presented in an ordinary civil case must depend upon stances, and not upon the character of the parties. In such a case, how serious a moral delinquency may be involved in a fact and the establishment of that fact may affect a party's reputation, he can the aid of his previous reputation to disprove the fact. Strob (S C) 372 The doctrine has been announced in a few cases in Courts that, if a party is charged with fraud or other act involving turpitude and the charge is based only on circumstantial evidence, rebut the charge by proof of his good character Henry v (Ten) 213; State v Beebe, 17 Walker v Stephenson, 3 Esp has said "And generally it with fraud from mere circu admissible to repel it." Greenl Ev § 51 But this view is based upon any be indictible or not is not material Ward v. Herndon 5 Port (Ala) 382; urr Jones § 154 cluding all evide issue or relevant tions for robbery.

S. 5

insurance policy, when the defence was over valuation; for fraudulent burning of the property; for false representation as to the solvency of another; for curring a debt or other obligation; for maliciously burning property, for sault and battery; for embezzlement for malicious mischief, for fraudulent nveyance of property, for criminal conversation; for false arrest and imprisonment; for malicious prosecution; for divorce on the ground of adultery, and r procuring a deed of fraud. Burr Jones § 155 To some extent the reputation of parties is liable to be affected by any litigation; but this is not ground n which evidence of character is held material in such actions as slander, seducon and other lunket, 1 trob (S C 37 stated: If in every may be net by such ev might ot be introduced; trials would be insupportably tedious, and the result of a trial would as often depend upon the popularity of a party as upon the merits f his case" Burr Jones § 155

In criminal cases revious good character relevant

53. In criminal proceedings the fact that the person accused is of a good character is relevant.

racter then, as harged, is essenof crime arises and experience, course of conluct will depart from it . such a person may be overcome by temptation and fall into crime, and cases of that kind often occur, but they are exceptions; he general rule is otherwise. The influence of the presumption may be ve testi- aero the vidence esumption from proof of good character is entitled to great weight and will often be sufficient to turn the scale and produce an acquittal' Cancemi v People, 16 which is confronted when bad character is sought to be shown Chamberlayne Ev. §3277.

S. 53.

only was altogether unsatisfactory to his mind It was said to be ... vitae, but he had no conception, according to the principle, of sound sense ... right reason, that character could be evidence in a case affecting the ... man, and yet not evidence in a case affecting his freedom, his property, ... reputation" Wigmore Cas Ev Case No 21; Wigmore § 56 As regards ... second limitation that such evidence was limited to doubtful cases only ... following charges to ... St Tr 217 are pertinent ... should have an effect, ... be permitted to operate where a crime is clearly proved, it would ... brought forward; because there is hardly any one who has not at some ... maintained a good character . . . . If the evidence were in even balance, ... should make it preponderate in favour of a defendant; but in order ... character have its operation, the case must be reduced to this situation" ... more § 56, see also R v Broodhurs, 13 Cr. App. R 12... But now it is ... settled that an accused in a criminal case can always adduce evidence ... good c... Hardy, (18...) ... (317) (... be per... for he ... general c... it not to prevail ... he defendant ... prosecutor may ...

Scope. The prosecution in ... accused's bad character as a b... that such evidence is too likely to move the jury to con... his actual guilt of the offence charged R. v. Rowton, Leigh & C... But the accused himself may always invoke his good character as ... disprove his commission of the offence, no matter what the gra... offence, and no matter how strong the evidence against him ... § 11 (b) The character, by whichever party offered, must be as to the ... trait—e g honesty, violence, charity, etc, involved in the fact charged ... Erskine in Hardy's Trial 24 How St Tr 1076 It has already ... that the rule ... was in early ... Y. 501 (507) ... and it was ... ference that the accused would not have committed the ... That ... that therefore the crime was not in fact committed by him ...

are left in doubt It is to be treated just as other circumstances

S. 5

is to be N. Y. be the Moett, 23 Hun (N Y) 60, 65 "This of importance only where there is a in which case such evidence is entitled to the ch n Irish Judge sur xcellent character, ner, 6
How. St (Mass)
295–52 A question

Against any times t is one of nce there evidence of good characte principle What is in the circumstances, evidence of The very fact that it is McKelvey's Ev § 118 In latter part of the judgmer crimes, testimony of good c to the jury, and a specie See Cancemi v People, 16 N criminal cases is always given weight except in a the rules of

, there is a cter is made passionate,

confined to those particular traits which have some logical connection with the nature of th St 55 In Dovers' Trial, 6 How rged with seditious publication, as a faithful member of the traine C J said Do not mistake yourself The testimony of your civil behaviour going to church, appearing in the trained bands, going to Paul's, being there at common service,— this is well But you are yet be a naughty man in King's subjects" In Tur far as my experience goe,

58 Ala. 221

"It is needless to dwell on the fact" says Mr McKelvey "that the character the offence s a limited" Character than of the

S. 53. deed in question. This relevancy depends on the assumption that it was substantially unchaged in the meantime Character at the earlier or later time is offered not to prove or disprove the act in question but to prove the character at the time when the deed in question was done All that is required is that the character must relate to a period proximate to the period of the supposed offence. R v Swandson, 14 How St. Tr 596 Similarly character in one place stands on precisely the same footing as character in another place. The person is the same wherever he is and ...

... reputation in a community other than the prisoner's home may be ... Wigmore § 60 So far as this section is concerned which deals with relevancy those questions do not arise and more so as under the Indian Evidence character includes both reputation and disposition No importance can attached to evidence of good character where the case against the accused clear When it is doubtful some weight must be given to it Queen E v Nur Mahomed, 8 B 223.

Effect and operation of evidence of good character Good character should be permitted to operate as a positive, appropriate and substantive defence. No distinction should be made, in application and effect, between evidence to prove exculpatory facts and evidence to prove the character of the accused State v Mury, 118 Mo 7, 25, ... Stannard, 7 C & P. 673 Both rest ... character is a fact making strongly ...

... es, of to ... Underhill Cr ...

... turn their attention to his good character. [Vide R. v Davison (1808) ... St. Tr. 99 at p. 217 per Lord Ellenborogh) It is, however, submitted ... deference, that the good character of the party accused, when ... established, is an ingredient which ought always to be submitted to the ... together w... charge ar... ingredient ... any case, ... own conc... previously ... he is called upon to answer' 2 Russ Cr 7... The correct rule is ... cases a good character, if proved, to the satisfaction of the jury must be considered People v Van Dam, 107 Mich 425

... quit if it exist ...

... question of the guilt or innocence of the accused. The jury have ... separate it from the mass of the testimony, and to say that they ... accused has a good character and that therefore they will ... evidence of guilt. Sweet v. State, 75 Neb 263 But while proof of ... character alone may not be sufficient as against proof of guilt beyond a ...

of not
the putation for honesty and and require an acquittal, might be convincing, and If the evidence of guilt will be justi-with all the e, 220 Pa St. d character considered in ent to create a reasonable verdict of consider-he accused evidence fact that fact led a life of honesty during the past, is no reason to suppose that he will not succumb to temptation at the close of his career, but before a man of this type and such antecedents is adjudged guilty, the evidence against him must be of an unimpeachable character Mangat Rai v Emperor, 10 Lah L J 262=29 Cr. L. J. 740

Trait must be relevant It is a rule well enforced by reason and sanctiond by authority that character evidence, introduced for the purpose of laying a

, by the ot tend t of that a good on trial
of this onceded
2 The character should relate to a period proximate to the period of trial R v Swendson, 14 How St. Tr 696

Adultery In a criminal prosecution for adultery, the previous good character of the defendant for chastity is admissible in his favour Chamberlayne's Ev § 3289

t nearly relevant is would most likely citizen can not be 290

Assault The defendant's good character as a peaceable, law abiding citizen is admissible in his favour in a prosecution for assault with intent to prosecuted for the commis-relevant. For example, the accused in a criminal action for burglary who had been employed

S. 53. on the police force of a city was not allowed to show by the chief of po... his work had been of a satisfying character Chamberlayne's Ev § 329...

Carr ... peaceable, ... carrying ... offence ...

Fraud In criminal actions for fraud or involving fraud, the good cha... of the accused with respect to the trait involved may be shown in his ... but his personal habits or character for sobriety and morality are irrelev... is likewise his reputation for industry. Chamberlayne's Ev § 3294

Homicide Character evidence is probably more frequently used on ... f ...

... in such a case to the accused has sometimes led to a liberal construction ... general rule The good character of the accused for peaceableness and q... is admissible even where the instrument of death was poison Exampl... evidence, offered as character evidence on behalf of the accused, wh... been excluded are that the accused was industrious and honest, a go... valiant so... worker That the decea... case of ... may, on the other hand be ... by the ac... v Biggin (1920) 1 K B ... R v Macarthy, Russ Cr. (8th Ed) 1931, n(b)), but not the fact that h... engaged in selling whiskey, was unchaste or that he was a drinking man ... there was no evidence that he had been drinking on the occasion in q... Chamberlayne's Ev § 3295

Indecent assault The character of the accused for chastity is ... relevant in such actions.

... re the victim is other than ... y regarded as the only relevant ... would seem that other tra... as cruelty, brutality and their opposites ought often to be considered ... view has been recognized in a case of infanticide wherein the accused ... allowed to show that he was of a humane and kindly disposition toward ... Chamberlayne's Ev § 3298

Larceny In larceny cases, proof of character must likewise be co... to the trait involved in the crime, honesty, being regarded as such tra... good character of the accused for truthfulness is not admissible in h... nor is his character in respect to sobriety. Chamberlayne's Ev § 3299

Libel The reputation of the accused in a prosecution for criminal ... for truth and veracity, is inadmissible as is likewise his reputa... peaceableness and orderliness What trait would be relevant in a l... appears ... Chamberla...'s Ev. § 3300 has ... Howe ... establ ...

Rape The Courts have experienced some difficulty ... trait of character of the accused in a prosecution for rape is a ... favour His reputation for "morality, virtue and honesty in his ... in that context ...

... commit rape, the defendant's reputation for truth and ...

S. 54

n rejected as was likewise evidence of his general character. The reputation the prosecutrix in rape for chastity may always be shown by the accused as iring on the question of consent It must be observed that proof of character chastity of the female involved in all cases of this general class, which ludes adultery, rape, seduction and the like, is proof of the character of a placed upon proof of character tion by the prosecution in the first berlayne's Ev § 3303.

Receiving stolen property. The trait of character regarded by the Courts relevant in a prosecution for receiving stolen goods is honesty The accused ay introduce evidence of his character for honesty and probity for the purpose raising an inference that he is not guilty of the crime charged but traits her than honesty are not regarded as relevant and are therefore excluded ie language, however, which is used to express that general trait may vary, e words probity and interigity, for example, not being objectionable The putation of the person from whom the goods were received as a regular and mest dealer in goods such as those in question is relevant on behalf of the cused Such evidence bears upon the good faith in which the goods were ceived and tends to prove absence of criminal intent Chamberlayne's Ev 3304.

Seduction
on may not be haracter for virtu rebuttal the t as accused of the crime Chamberlayne's Ev § 3305

Train wrecking In a prosecution for attempting to wreck a train by lacing a tie upon a railroad track, the good character of the accused as a eaceable, orderly and law abiding citizen was held admissible in his behalf hamber ayne's Ev § 3306

Previous bad character not relevant, except in reply.

54. *In criminal proceedings the fact that the accused person has a bad character is irrelevant, unless evidence has been given that he has a good character, in which case it becomes relevant.

Explanation 1.—This section does not apply to cases in which the bad character of any person is itself a fact in issue.

Explanation 2—A previous conviction is relevant as evidence of bad character.

quires The evidence is relevant to the issue, but is excluded for reasons of

* This section was substituted for the original section 54 by the Indian Evidence Act (1872) Amendment Act, 1891 (3 of 1891), s 6

S. 54. Nath, 10 W. R. Cr. 17 ; R v. Tuberfield, 10 Cox. 1 ; Amrita [illegible] Emperor, 42 C. 957. But after a defendant has attempted to sh[illegible] character in his own aid, prosecution may in rebuttal offer as evi[illegible] character. Wigmore § 58. The reason for the reception of this evid[illegible] stated by Earle J. in R v. Rowton supra ; "If the prisoner, [illegible] character, misleads the Court . . . the false impression should b[illegible] See also Per A [illegible] . . Shrimp[illegible] Cr. C. 322. In [illegible] . by gi[illegible] own character " [illegible] v. Pen[illegible] 333 (339).

Old Section. Before the amendment of the section by Act [illegible] s. 6, the section ran as follows : " In criminal proceedings, the [illegible] accused person has been previously convicted of any offence is releva[illegible] fact that he has a bad character is irrelevant unless evidence has bee[illegible] he has a good character in which case it becomes relevant (Expla[illegible] section does not appl[illegible] a fact in issue)." [illegible] tions are in every [illegible] had been given of good character or not. Queen-Empress v Kart[illegible] Das, 14 C. 721 ; 2 Weir 760 ; Empress v Sukha, A. W. N. 1886, [illegible] Roshun Dosadh v. Empress, 5 C 768=6 C. L R. 219. In framing t[illegible] section the framers of the Act said : " We permit evidence to [illegible] previous convictions against a prisoner for the purpose of prejudicing [illegible] do not see why he should not be prejudiced by such evidence, [illegible] Report of the Select Committee, see also Queen Empress v. Kartick [illegible] [illegible] to rebut such evidence by giving evi[illegible]" Queen-Empress v Hughes, 14 A. 25=A. W. N. 1891, 170.

Scope of the present section As a general rule the badness of th[illegible] [illegible] ed is not a fact in issue, or relevant to [illegible] that he is of bad character or tha[illegible] [illegible] it the same kind of offence as that of [illegible] [illegible] petent for the prosecutor to adduce [illegible] tending to show that the accused has been guilty of criminal acts o[illegible] the o[illegible]

[illegible]

Sir James Fitzjames Stephen in his general view of there [illegible] [illegible] a weak [illegible]

[illegible]

it is an inflexible rule of English Criminal Law [illegible] transaction." Woodroffe's Ev. p. 451. Under this section the [illegible]

...used has a bad character is irrelevant, and cannot be admitted whether ...ited by the prosecution or by the defence. Mi Myin v. King-Emperor, 6 L. ...R. 4=9 Cr. L. J. 576=2 Ind. Cas. 349; see also Emperor v. Wahiduddin, 54

...ore the passing of the Indian Evidence Act. Queen v. Mahima, 6 B. L. R. ...) 131=15 W. R. 37 Cr; Queen v. Behary 7 W. R. 7. Cr.; Queen v. Phoolchand, ...V. R. Cr. 11; Queen v. Gopal Thakoor, 6 W. R. Cr. 72; Queen v. Bykunt, 10 ... R. Cr. 17; Queen v. Kulum Sheikh, 10 W. R. Cr. 39; Reg v. Timmi, 2 B. H.

...) consideration for the ...used was tried, and ...ence for which he was t...

...accused person has not been

...Cr. L. J. 411. Such ...

...it he has a good character or where the bad character of any person is itself a ...t in issue. Wasir v. Empress 7 P. R. 1895 Cr. Except for the purposes of ... of s. 75, ... Act. III of ... as other ... Emperor v. ... L. R. 1034. ...evant fact ...der s. 14 of the Act. R v. Naba Kumar, 1 C. W. N. 146. In a trial for an

...vidence which is required to prove a motive for the crime which is otherwise ...levant. Jagua v. Emperor, 5 Pat. 63=93 Ind. Cas. 884=7 Pat L. T. 396= ...I. R. 1926 Pat. 232. See also Emperor v. Aloomiya, 5 Bom. L. R. 805=28 ...t. 129.

...cular locality. And in regard to this second question the ordinary rules of evidence do not apply or at least are greatly relaxed. The Indian Law has

S. 54. adopted the policy of lea discretion of the Cour no bearing whatever upc tion ; after an accused charged it is relevant for the purpose of enhancing the sentence to b on him. Emperor v Nga Ba, 111 Ind. Cas 453=29 Cr L J 1928 Rang 200 (F. B); see also Emperor v. Ismail 39 B 3 Emperor, A I R 1929 Mad 306. So also records of such convict put at the end of the trial Queen v. Shiboo, 3 W. R Cr 38; Delnr 50 C 367.

Accused person's bad character is relevant The evidence prove that the accused person's character is such that he is likely the act of the cheating
v. Choun, 26 P W R v. Emperor, 48 C L J of the accused in the fi character Felsenthal v State, rule and practice of our law in relation to evidence of character deepest principles of truth and justice The protection of law is the righteous and unrighteous The sun of justice shines alike for for good, the just and the unjust The crime must be proved, not on the contrary, the most vicious is presumed innocent until prov The admission of a contrary rule, even in any degree, would open only to direct oppression of those who are vicious because they are and weak, but even to the operation of prejudices as to religion character, profession, manners, upon the minds of honest and well White, 24 Wend. 574 disposition is not relevant ole, 1 Phil Ev 503 The Peckham J in People v N Y 78 (Am), when he said: "Two antogonistic methods for the investigation of crime and the conduct of criminal trial have many years One of these methods, favours, this kind of evidence that the tribunal which is engaged in the trial of the accused may the whole pa cuces, and
This is which is pursued in France, and it is claimed that course to be done where such course is pursued than where it is omitted. law of England, however, has adopted another, and, so far as the party In order to prove is an exception (which is a peculiarity of precedents ing relevant evidence of a defendant's general and notorious commit such crimes or torts as that with which he is charged evidence is relevant, the law acknowledges by receiving in criminal in some civil cases, evidence of a defendant's good character in allowing such evidence to be rebutted; and by receiving character of witnesses and of other persons. The exclusion is a plain depai material eviden in a usurpation to mitigate the way of its operat given for the purpose of showing that the accused were they were likely to commit the crime charged But own and pro

S. 54.

mperor, A I R 1931 Pat 345=12 Pat L T. 471 But evidence is otherwise levant if it is not rendered inadmissible merely because it shows bad character the admission of offences other than the offence with which the accused is harged. Saroj v Emperor, A I R 1932 Cal 474.

examined R v B 464=90 L J man slaughter, it eed he ran down nd killed a boy, the accused in cross-examination was repeatedly asked and was called by the accused for the sole purpose of producing some letters This was not endeavouring to establish a good character merely because a witness whom he called volunteered a statement as to the appellant's good character not only uninvited but probably also against the appellant's wish, and therefore the of ba put his (Am), incident

that he should have the advantage of a character which in point of fact is undeserved R v Routon, L. & C. 520 (529); Wills' Ev 2nd Ed. 55.

S. 54. prosecution may rebut the evidence of good charracter either by cross
C. & P. 6
App R. 113
only be prevent the accused person from pleading that the act under consideration committed without a dishonest intention. Emperor v. Bakhtawar, L R. 313 = 102 Ind. Cas. 492 = 28 Cr. L. J. 556. The presumption ar. evidence of good character, and of the fact that an accused person is an man of good family connection, which would render it prima facie unl he would be guilty of crimes of violence, cannot be pressed too far in of offences originating in extreme political feeling. In re Lo... 6 M. L T. 17 = 11 Cr. L. J. 30 = 4 Ind. Cas. 700. But in other cases character of an accused person, and the insignificance of the gain whi result from the offence committed by him are circumstances which cases have occasionally great weight, but neither of them can dispo and undisputed facts. Government of Bengal v. Umesh Chunder, 16 C.

must
involv
in which the evidence is offered. Chamberlayne's Ev. § ... other traits is irrelevant. Vide notes under s. 53.

Previous conviction when relevant under other law. Previous c... may also be relevant in cases where the accused is liable to enhanced ment; vide s. 75 of the Indian Penal Code; ss 221, 310, 311, 511 of the Procedure Code.

Explanation I. This section is not applicable in cases when the bad ... Emperor, A. I. R. ... of that section. Sher Zaman v. Empress, 10 P. R. ... 54 of the Evi...

of bad character is admissible. murder to prove that the accused as being evidence of character it is ... prove habit and association. Khulauan v. Emperor, 5 O. ... 1928 Oudh. 430.

Explanation II. Whenever under this section evidence as ... character of an accused is admissible, his previous conviction is also ... as evidence of his bad character. But in other cases evidence of ... conviction is not admissible unless accused produces evidence of ... character. Such evidence of the previous conviction of an ... amounts to evidence of bad character. Teka Ahir v. Emperor, ... 766 = 60 Ind. Cas. 331 = 22 Cr. L. J. 219; see also Bahimuddin ... C. L J. 578; Emperor v. Dunning, 5 Bom. L. R. 1031. The ... conviction may be considered in enhancing the sentence after ... proved. Rahim Bux v. Emperor, 5 O. W. N. 121 = 110 Ind. Cas. ... strict proof must be given of previous conviction. Emperor v. ... Upon the conviction of an accused, the Court has to determine ...

award, and, to do this, should take into consideration, not only the nature and gravity of the offence committed, bu ... The ... d character of the accused then beco ... f bad ... haracter being admissible as affecting ... only general reputation and general disposition and not of particular acts by which ... putation and disposition is shown ... ception to this rule Evidence of d ... r the above purpose Naga Po v ... he object of this section is to lay down ...

... N 851, see also Rahim v

Character of prosecutor when relevant In a prosecution for rape or ... r attempting to ... ross-examine the p ... as a general bad ...

... nay call evidence to rebut it. Wills Ev 2nd Ed 86

S. 55

55. In civil cases the fact that the character of any person is such as to affect the amount of damages which he ought to receive, is relevant.

Character as affecting damages

Explanation.—In sections 52, 53, 54, and 55, the word "character" includes both reputation and disposition, but *[except as provided in section 54,] evidence may be given only of general reputation and general disposition, and not of particular acts by which reputation or disposition were shown.

Principle The possession of a particular trait of character or the contrary by one of the parties to ... tion in that regard must often be ... aw of ... The ... larger

*These words and figures in the Explanation to section 55 were inserted by the Indian Evidence Act (1872) Amendment Act, 1891 (3 of 1891), s 7.

S. 55. amount of damages, while a contrary finding may properly result award of damages or none at all. Reputation rather than actual ch usually investigated as that is commonly the important considera ion it is difficult to always draw a line of demarcation between the two related (in law) intangible subjects Chamberlayne's Ev § 3303.

Scope of the section. In civil cases, good character being pr... not be proved in aggravation of damages; but the party attack... general evidence of bad character by general evidence of good cha... meet evidence of specific acts of impropriety by disproof of su h a... not by evidence of general good character. Jones v Jam s, 15 L... Narracott v Narracott, 33 L J P & M 61, Patp. Ev 7th Ed. ... obvious that, on the principle so generally accepted for an action of de... (vide infra), the plaintiff's reputed character may be considered, in ... of damages, in any other action in which the law of damages rec... harm to reputation as one of the elements of recovery This has al... conceded for the actions of seduction, criminal coversation, malic... breach of promises of marriage, malicious prosecutions, etc ... see also Per Pigot C B in Bell v. Parke, 11 Ir C L 423, 47...

[illegible]

sible an affecting the question of damages, is a point which ... controverted On, the one hand it is urged, that the admission of such ... would be cruelly unjust, as it would throw upon the plaintiff, ...

[illegible]

is not ad...
cannot b...
any man ...
good name, even by means of the very action which he should ... him-elf from the effects of malicious slander" Per Graham B in L... 11 Price 235, 256, 269 In the same case Garrow B said. "If it ... become the law that such evidence should be admissible, the ... become a m...

[illegible]

tion; that every man who demands compensation for ... character ought to be prepared to rebut any evidence of ... character; that the danger of admitting testimony of this kind is ... since the witnesses, on cross-examination, might be compe... grounds of their belief, that, as any failure in the evidence ... much increase the damages, witnesses would scarcely be ... support of a decisive case; that the law will not presume ... criminal conspiracies to ruin reputations, and cannot be moulded to suit the S. 5 best, if not only, arrive at a safe conclusion on this point, by inquiring what opinion was previously entertained respecting him, by those with whom he was person of whom they are made, he had a right of action The damage, however, which he has sustained must depend entirely on the estimation in which he was previously held He complains of an injury to his reputation, and seeks to damages with one of unsullied and unblemished reputation A reputed thief would be placed on the same footing with the most honourable merchant, a virtuous woman with the most abandoned prostitute To enable the jury to estimate the probable quantity previous character is not only mat is said that the admission of suc friends who have known him to prove that his reputation has been good' Wigmore § 70, Wood v

defamation the defendant, in substance and in fact Wood v. Durham, 21 Q. B or of the character of the plaintiff without the leave of the Judge unless seven

If the general issue is pleaded, the amount of damages is properly in issue, and

S. 55. amount award of usually it is dit related (i

Scope of the section. In civil cases, good character being p not be proved in aggravation of damages; but the party a ta ke general evidence of bad character by general evidence of good ch meet evidence of specific acts of impropriety by disproof of such a not by evidence of general good character Jones v James, 18 L Narracott v Narracott, 33 L J P & M 61, Phip Ev 7th Ed obvious that, on the principle so generally accepted for an action of (vide infra), the plaintiff's reputed character may be considered in of damages, in any other action in which the law of damages rec harm to reputation as one of the elements of recovery This has al conceded for the actions of seduction, criminal coversation, and breach of promises of marriage, malicious prosecutions, etc Wig see also Per Pigot C B in Bell v. Parke, 11 Ir C L 423, 475

Character evidence in suits for defamation Whether, in an ntiff's previous general cha , he laboured under a general to him by the defendant,

is not ad
cannot b
any man
good name, even by means of the very action which he sho himself from the effects of malicious slander" Per Graham B in Jones 11 Price 235, 256, 269 In the same case Garrow B said "If ever become the law that such evidence should be admissible, the become a much more protection of his malic Justice to to vindicate their characters in Courts of Justice, and thus a most dangerous impunity. Taylor § 359 To this it is repl force, that, though the arguments on the other side would be ent weight, if the question respected the right of proving partic conduct, they do not apply where evidence is offered of merely ge tion; that every man who demands compensation for the character ought to be prepared to rebut any evidence of character; that the danger of admitting testimony of this kind since the witnesses, on cross-examination, might be compelled grounds of their belief, that, as any failure in the evidence much increase the damages, witnesses would scarcely be support of a decisive case; that the law will not presume

S. 55

riminal conspiracies to ruin reputations, and cannot be moulded to suit the onvenience of irrational timidity; that to estimate the extent of the injury which a plaintiff has sustained, and, consequently, the amount of damages to which he is entitled, the jury must first ascertain what was the real value of his haracter at the time when it was attacked by the defendant, and that they can ecover damages for that injury, and it seems most material that the jury who have to award those damages should know, if the fact is so, that he is a man of no eputation 'To deny this would', as is observed in Starkie on Evidence, be to decide that a man of the worst charac damages with one of unsullied and would be placed on the same footin virtuous woman with the most abandoned prostitute To enable the jury to estimate the probable quantity of injury sustained, a knowledge of the party's previous character is not only material but seems to be absolutely essential It is said that the admission of such evidence will be hardship upon the plaintiff, friends who have known Wigmore § 70, Wood v

defamation the defendant,
in substance and in fact Wood v. Durham, 21 Q. B umours or English-Art 57,

Pen Add
70, Ellershaw v Robinson, 2 St Ev 641; Barber, 2 St. Ev 641, Kirkman v Onley, tens 11 Price 235 Waithman v Weaver, D & R. N. P C 10, Cornwall v Richardson, Ry & M 307, see also notes under s. 12 at p 176 supra. But in England where the defendant does not plead the truth of the libel he cannot give evidence in chief in mitigation of damages, of the circumstances under which the libel or slander was published, or of the character of the plaintiff without the leave of the Judge unless seven

If the general issue is pleaded, the amount of damages is properly in issue, and

S. 55. the result [illegible] pleaded, [illegible]

[illegible] nitting the plaintiff's bad reputation [illegible] l') his general bad reputation alone [illegible] for the particular trait involved in the [illegible] tion, e g. honesty, chastity, etc, or (d''') both may be used' Gre § 14 (d).

Seduction Character evidence of the daughter is admissible in an [illegible] for seduction, for here the disgrace to the father must naturally be [illegible] lacking if the daughter is already of bad reputation for chastity, [illegible] bad reputation may therefore be shown Bamfield v Massey, 1 Ca[illegible] Dodd v Norris, 3 Camp 519, Carpenter v Wall, 11 A & E 804, [illegible] § 75 The father's own reputation is immaterial Ibid In such an [illegible] element of damage is the wounded sensibility of the injured party, [illegible]

[illegible]

shown Smith v Milburn, 17 [illegible] § 3308, Phip Ev 7th Ed p 186. [illegible] character is not admissible under [illegible] supra

Criminal Conversation In an action for criminal conversation the [illegible] previous bad reput[illegible] 305 § 75, Smith [illegible] reputation is immate[illegible] or character, for this [illegible] well serve in mitigation, in as much as the loss of his wife's virtue [illegible], thus the reputation is here rec[illegible] more § 75; Bromley v Wallace, [illegible] [illegible] character is in question [illegible]

[illegible] he can claim [illegible] 362; Jones v [illegible]

T. N. S , Narracott v Narracott, 33 L. J. P. & M 61

[illegible] in an [illegible] repu[illegible] The [illegible] 153 [illegible] from [illegible] assault would be less than that of a modest and virtuous woman [illegible] Work, 13 R. I. 645 , Wigmore § 75

[illegible] The bad character of the [illegible] is clearly [illegible] mitigation of [illegible] such a [illegible] woman [illegible] tions of [illegible] is of [illegible] unchastity a defence the defendant must not only prove [illegible]

S. 55

unchaste, but also that he had no knowledge of such unchastity at the time of making the promise to marry. Foster v. Hanchett, 68 Vt. 319 (Am).

Malicious prosecution In actions for malicious prosecution, the defendant may show the general bad reputation of the plaintiff as known to him when he launched the prosecution Martin v Hardesty, 27 Ala. 458 (Am), Chamberlayne's Ev § 3308

Explanation. racer cannot include ion.
' That actual charac it, nd the latter is merely evidence to prove the former, ought to be a truism" Wigmore § 1608 " The term ' character ' when more strictly applied, refers to the inherent qualities of the person, rather than to any opinion that may be to the
, so that bject, a
, on the
, as we ubject are character' parlance, acter, the n Bucklin Craufords-fuses real s upon a on may be on really re § 1608
rm " cha-55, has been used in the sense of to prove the disposition of a person, e given and to prove his reputation, his English law Under the English law the term 'character' was normally applied to the actual qualities, and not to the community's estimates of these qualities. Wigmore § 1981 In Thomas Hardy's Trial, 24 How St Tr 999, evidence was admissible to the effect ' I have always esteemed him as a man of a mild and peaceful disposition" Trial, 31 How St Tr 186, Lord Ellenborough. as to the general character of the accused, likely to be guilty of § 1981, see also Trial of 1180 ff, Ferrers's Trial, How St Tr 40, Butler's. spoke from personal knowledge alone, and often (though less frequently) from personal knowledge plus reputation, but to speak from reputation alone is regarded in the 1700 S as improper On this point the law in England was afterwards changed and allowed reputation alone Wigmore § 1981 In Jones Trial, 31 How St Tr 310 (1809), Lord Ellenborough C J incidentally said. "It is reputation; it is not what a person knows" But the isolated phrase above in Jone's Trial somehow caught the attention of later

s equally clear when we understand the usage of the term character in this connection Peake Ev 2nd Ed. 8 (1802), McNally Ev 321 (1814) Starkie Ev 1st Ed Vol. II, 366 (1824); Phillips Ev. 1st Ed 72, 105 (1814) That personal belief, estimate, or knowledge—under whatever name—was proper and unquestionable testimony to character seems whole period Cox Cr. 25,
Cockburn C. J

S. 55 that a prisoner is entitled to give evidence as to his gene What does it mean? Does it mean evidence as to his reputa those to whom his conduct and position are known or does it n of disposition? I think it means evidence of reputation only h on put deliberately to a witness called on behalf o a the way, and the only his mind
knowledge in which I find the that text-writers of authority upon the subject d in all the consider the question of what in the strict interpretation of th When limit of such evidence I must say that in my judgment, it must be to this the evidence must be of the man's general reputation and vidual opinion of the witness The witness who acknowledged th nothing of the general character, and had no opportunity of know sense of reputation would not be allowed to give an opinion as t character in more limited sense of his disposition' Pollock C B Blackburn Byles Keating Mellor and Shee J J and Martin, Ch Piggot B B concurred and Earle C J and Willes J dissented same case Earle C J said 'What is the principle on which ev racter is admitted? It seems to me that such evidence is adm purpose of showing the disposition of any party accused and b a presumption that he did not commit the crime imputed to him. D cannot be ascertained directly, it is only to be ascertained by formed concerning the man which must be founded either on p rience or on the expression of opinion by others whose opinion be founded on their personal experience The question between us is the Court is at liberty to receive a statement of the disposition of founded on the personal experience of the witness who attends to g and state that estimate which long personal knowledge of and acqua the prisoner has enabled him to form I think that each so is admissible You may give in evidence the general rumour preva prisoner's neighbourhood and according to my experience you may the personal judgment of those who are capable of forming a more tial guiding opinion than that which is to be gathered from general have never seen a witness examined to character without an made into his personal means of knowledge of the character Th goes to the jury depending entirely upon the personal experience of who has offered his testimony Suppose a witness to chara This man has been in my employ for twenty years I have had of his conduct but I have never heard a human being expre him in my lif I have always regarded him with esteem and that he is worthiest me Chief Ju down would where To my mind personal experience evidence a statement as, I have heard some persons sp ll of h heard general report in favour of the prisoner' has a v comparison Again, to the proposition that general character sible the answer is that it is impossible to get at it. as general character it is the general inference supposed to a a number of separate and disinterested statements in favour of But I think that the notion that general character is alone a accurate It would be wholly inadmissible to a he has ever heard give his opinion of a particular fact I attach considerable weight to this distinction, because in my character is that which is the least talked of The argume upon the branch of the case have commanded my assent confirmed by the case of Rex v Davison, 31 St. Tr. In Ellenborough held that the personal experience of a wi founded upon his personal experience was admissible recollection there were thirteen witnesses to character five or six gave evidence of very considerable personal prisoner, so as to show the means they had had of forming an opinion upon his disposition. The first witness stated the length of time that the prisoner was not

S. 55

Then

ussible.

Each of the witnesses was asked as to his means of knowledge and his opinion of the prisoner's disposition, and Lord Ellenborough says, 'the correct inquiry is to the general character of the accused and whether the witness thinks him likely to be guilty of the offence charged in the information' This is very strong proof that the practice is to stop a witness when he refers to particular gave his answer according to the that experience But the witness a brothers Strictly that specific fact involving a very important question, I cannot rest my decision on the particular cular witness, is superior in quality and value to mere rumour. Numerous character, because the prisoner was charged with an offence which would not only be committed in secret if it were committed at all, but would be likely to be kept secret by the persons who were subjected to it Such being the case,

Davison's fraud?' borough s is the que the time y the whole but of a it is not w
to the po attended to In 1794, in Hardy's Case, 24 How St Tr. 999, there is a passage in the examination of witness, John Carr, which shows what was then regarded as the true rule, and how common it was to disregard it 'How long have you known Mr Hardy? Upwards of twenty years Have you known him well e during that time? The

—From what you know of sturbance, or commit any acts of violence? Never.—Mr Attorney General. That is a question never put,

S. 55. that a prisoner is entitled to give evidence as to his general c What does it mean? Does it mean evidence as to his reputation a those to whom his conduct and position are known, or does it mean of disposition? I think it means evidence of reputation only. No heard of a question put deliberately to a witness called on behalf of a as to the prisoner's disposition of mind; the way, and the only wa his mind i knowledge of ... general conduct. Now, that is t in which I find the the word 'character' used and applied in all the bo text-writers of authority upon the subject of evidence. When we consider the question of what, in the strict interpretation of the l limit of such evidence, I must say that, in my judgment, it must be r to this: the evidence must be of the man's general reputation, and n vidual opinion of the witness. The witness who acknowledged that nothing of the general character sense of reputation, would not be character in more limited sense Blackburn, Byles, Keating, Mellor and Piggot, B B, concurred and Earle C same case Earle C J said: "What ... racter is admitted? It seems to me that such evidence is admi purpose of showing the disposition of any party accused, and b a presumption that he did not commit the crime imputed to him. D cannot be ascertained directly; it is only to be ascertained by the formed concerning the man, which must be founded either on per rience or on the expression of opinion by others whose opinion aga be founded the Court founded on and state that estimate wh the prisoner has enabled is admissible. You ma prisoner's neighbourhood, the personal judgment of those who are capable of forming a mo tial guiding opinion than that which is to be gathered from general r have never seen a witness examined to character without an e ... character. The esteem and respect, and have had abundant experience that he worthiest men in the world.' The principle the Lord Chief Justi down would exclude his evidence, and that is the point where I dist To my mind personal experience gives cogency to the evidence; w a statement as, 'I have heard some persons speak well of him,' or heard general report in favour of the prisoner,' has a very sl comparison. Again, to the proposition that general character is sible the answer is that it is impossible to get at it. There is no as general character, it is the general inference supposed to arise ... statements in favour of ...

upon the branch of the case have commanded my ass ... In confirmed by the case of Rex v. Davison, 31 St. Tr. ...
Ellenborough held that the personal experience of a man ... founded upon his personal experience, was admissible ... recollection there were thirteen witnesses to character call... five or six gave evidence of very considerable personal ...

evidence than that of a witness who testifies to the general repute of this person S. as to this mental characteristic? His testimony is based upon hearsay, and quite likely rumour and gossip If mental characteristic is a fact, there is no valid reason why this fa .
Personal observ than general reput others to which from those who know" Wigmore § 1986 Similarly in State v Lee 22 Minn 409, Berry J said "As it is the fact of disposition which is important and material, there can be no reason why this fact may not be proved by any witness who knows what it is There is certainly no reason why general repute is any

Except as provided in section 54 The character evidence as is contemplated in section 54 is not confined to general disposition or general reputation The character or disposition offered whether for or against him must involve the specific trait related to the act charged Wigmore § 59 "The object and effect of such evidence is to disprove guilt by furnishing a presumption that the defendant could not have committed the offence and hence the character sought to be proved must be such as would make it unlikely that the party would do the controverted act" McClellan J in Morgan v State 88 Ala 224 (Am), Wigmore § 59 char

the but admissi an opin (Am)] t but the assertio
of the
it a fact.
i e as a testimonial assertion It may be a part of the very issue, as where the reputation of a plaintiff is in issue to determine the damages in an action in issue, in respective of concern this ible, (2) the d to testify to regards p accusation may have contributed to colour the reputation and render it untrustworthy Greenl Ev. § 461 (d), Chamberlayne's Ev § 3329

Nature and formation of Reputation In enquiry into the limitations affecting the nature and formation of a reputation, it must be remembered that

55 reputation is used only by way of an exception to the Hear ay rule it must therefore take such a solid and definite shape as to be worthy of . and to justify the exceptional resort to such evidence Mere rumou course not reputation of the community as a but what the community Scott v Sampson, L R 8 Q. B D 491 If the public opinion be d proportion of them, should have been heard to speak on the subject, it the person's veracity or honesty or other quality in question is un deemed to be equivaler and therefore to be be trustworthy only so tunities of ascertainn persons among whom where he has merely sojourned; the form of the question usually runs opinion in the neigl vary Greenl Ev. another aspect A or occurrence, whih

a man's reputation, for example, may declare him honest, and yet a rumour may have circulated that this reputed honest ma has defaulted accounts Wigmore § 1611.

The persons qualified to testify to reputation The witness to must be one who, by evidence in the community, or otherwise, has opportunity to learn the community's estimate, and the preliminary whether he knows the person's reputation, is usually insisted upon v Norris, 103 Mass 566 A person who lives out of the neighbourh therefore not qualified and it has been doubted whether a per on express purpose of learning the 4 Esp 102, Douglass v Tou 236), Greenl. Ev § 461 (d), layne's Ev § 3315.

Cross-examination of a witness to reputation In testing a who speaks of good character, it will expose the untrustworthiness of testimony if he admits that rumours of misconduct are known to him, knowledge of such rumours may well be inconsistent with his ass rtion the person's reputation is good Wood 5 Jur ingly, the propriety of reputation he has support usually been conceded tion may be tested on cross-examination by requiring him to specify of his information, and in particular the persons whose remarks have give rise to his assert because there is no other effective way reputation Weeks v conceded to be proper. defendant's or other persons' reputation as well as of a Greenl Ev § 161 (d), Chamberlayne's Ev s 3311.

said that the st be agreed
If the harmony, the other hand, impossible to exact unanimity; for there are always dissenters. Is precisely that quality of public opinion thus commonly described as therefore a difficult thing Wigmore § 1612. "A reputation, putation at all, must be a general reputation It may be eith r one of two pposites; for instance, either good or partly one and partly the other; ould then be no general reputation en obviously, it does not exist as a fact r a partial, limited, or qualified repute The existence of a diversity of nion is one of the means by which a witness may know there is general utation, but this means of knowledge, apart from the fact that there is or actual commission of the crime In the matter of the petition of Pedda Sur di, 3 M. 238 = 2 Weir 51

General Disposition Here the character is applied to the actual qualities l not to the community's estimate of these qualities The term "general distinguished from the "particular 'character" (i e general disposition showing it) seems to have been original and natural source of the phrase and the orthodox application of In Layers' Trial, 16 How St Tr 246, various discreditable facts being he particular facts to charge the reputation of any witness, but only in general nself" Wigmore § 1981 In R v Cobbit, 2 State Tr. N S 789, 873, Lord nterden C J said. "The proper inquiry for a gentleman who has known Mr. many years is as to his general character, not as to any individual or ticular acts .. you may ask wh rticular witness—such opinion being the result of the witness's personal perience and observation—will also be evidence as to his character But the idence need not show that such general opinion is based on the personal nowledge of the man by his neighbours generally, nor does it show that such neral opinion has been publicly expressed by his neighbours Duma Singh v. ing Emperor, 5 O C 203

PART II.

ON PROOF.

CHAPTER III.

FACTS WHICH NEED NOT BE PROVED

S. 56. Fact judicially noticeable need not be proved

56. No fact of which the C[ourt will] take judicial notice need be proved.

Scope of Part II In part I of the Evidence Act, what fa[cts ...] what facts may not be proved in a civil or criminal case has been [...] After ascertaining that question, the framers of the Act now propo[se in this] part to deal with the question what sort of evidence must be given [...] the contents of a document, must be proved by oral evidence Ora[l ...] must consist of an a[...] the fact to the ex[...]

been reduced to a documentary form, the document in whic[h ...] that transaction, and its contents cannot [...], be varied by oral evidence though [...] tents of the document Step Dig Ev I[ntroduc]tion pp xiii, xiv

Proof The terms "evidence" and "proof" are often used in such a [...] as to include at one time the media by which facts are established, and at a[nother] the effect or conclusions produced by the testimony It is true the attem[pt ...] frequently [...] to distinguish betwe[en ...] terms "e[...] more of [...] viction, [...] accurately, proof [...] of proof Best Ev [...] produces assurance and certainty Evidence, therefore, [...] The words e[vidence ...] cause from effect Wills Cir Ev 2, 3; Greenl Ev 1 however the latt[er ...] and "proof" are often used as synonymous, in strictness, evidence is that w[hich ...] an effect of the former 'Proof' is that which convinces, evidence is that w[hich] tends to convince" Jastrzembski v Marxhausen, 120 Mich 677=79 [...] 935 (Am); Burr Jones § 4

Scope of Chapter III "The second chapter having decided what fa[ct] is relevant we proceed to show how a relevant fact is to be proved In the [first] place, the fact to be proved may be one of so much notoriety that the Court [may] take judicial notice of it, or it may be admitted by the parties In either of th[e] cases no evidence of its existence need be given Chapter III, which relat[es to] judicial notice, disposes of this subject It is taken in part from Act II of 1[...]

part from the Commissioner's Draft Bill, and in part from the Law of gland" Draft Report of the Select Committee—The Gazette of India, July, 1, '1 Part V p 273 "W ...it not all the matt...

...es, needs to be commun...

known already, and ...

ted and reasoned upon without discussion. Often, also, much of which re might, in point of mere theory be a doubt, will, as a matter of established actice, be allowed by the Court, in the first instance, without formal proof, id there is much which belongs to a dubious and arguable region as to which Court may or may not proceed in this manner Thayer Pre Ev 277

In another case proof by evidence may be dispensed with, namely, where e opponent by a solemn infra judicial admission has waived dispute This known as Judicial Admission Wigmore § 2565.

Facts which need not be proved Stephen in his Digest of the Law of vidence (1st and 2nd editions,) Chap VII originally dealt with "judicial tice" under the general head of 'Proof and the special head of Facts hich need not be proved,' as in this Act For this he was taken to task by acute critic (in 20 Solicitors' Journal, 937) who suggested that since Stephen's t 93, ... that whoever desires a judgment to ... e or non existence of facts which asse... not exist,' and since art, 59 bout judicial notice) declares that some facts asserted by a party need not be ... art ... imp ... han otice, of consciously recalling to the mind a fact known, but not for the moment dverted to, is an act of precisely the same kind as listening to the evidence of a ted to the Judge's inspection in Court But the true conception of what is sion

Bent
tribu had
by ...

S. 56. being present [illegible] proof (i.e. othe [illegible] the situation as one where "no proof whatever was offered [illegible] defendant." The Judge was not a witness, and the [illegible] is not ent[illegible] itself [illegible] which the Court take[illegible] notice [illegible] here (granting a[illegible] [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible]

lower tribunal [illegible] place at the trial, or their view that it is impossible to have [illegible] of exceptions when the trial Court avails itself of "real evidence" [illegible] illustration of "proving that it is raining by telling the Judge to [illegible] of the window, is another instance of the use of real evidence—[illegible] 280, 281.

Judicial notice, meaning of The expression "to take notice of a[illegible] in our ordinary popular p[illegible] [illegible] or remark [illegible]

[illegible] knowledge of a thing [illegible] the leg[illegible] [illegible] as indicating the [illegible] without [illegible] to an [illegible] change [illegible] When [illegible] teenth ce[illegible] notice, [illegible] common [illegible] Neither of the o[illegible] terms see [illegible] inapplicable, for common knowledge is by no means an [illegible] judge's function The constant use of this knowledge is equally not [illegible] [illegible] enable the word "notice [illegible]

[illegible]

said the Court will take judicial cognizance [illegible] they will be taken as proved. And the importance of the [illegible] in which there [illegible] notice can hardly [illegible] some matters whic[illegible] which it is tried, [illegible] a subject [illegible] Burr Jones § 105. [illegible] Evidence [illegible]

Pla[illegible]

not, as a part . . . a negative S. 5 sense, in th . . . s not always necessary to . . . case. The fact may be . . . l not require

Thayer Ev pp 278-280

Principle. Judicial notice is based upon very obvious reasons of convenience and expediency; and the wisdom of dispensing with proof of matters tion. There is, however no rule of any practical importance which governs arises must be decided precedents, than the words of Greenleaf,

"Courts will generally take notice of whatever ought to be generally known within the limits of their jurisdiction" Greenl Ev § 8; Burr Jones § 105 (a) "Courts will not pretend to be more ignorant than the rest of mankind" Fisher v. Janson, 30 Ill. App 91.

notoriety, then he would take judicial cognizance of it. It would be absurd to

(2) all public Acts passed or hereafter to be passed by Parliament, and all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed:

S.

(3) Articles of War for Her Majesty's Army, "Navy or air force" :*

(4) the course of proceeding of Parliament and of the Councils for the purposes of making Laws and Regulations established under the Indian Councils Act,† or any other law for the time being relating thereto.

Explanation.—The word "Parliament" in clauses (2) and (4) includes—

(1) the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland ;
(2) the Parliament of Great Britain ;
(3) the Parliament of England ; (4) the Parliament of Scotland ; and (5) the Parliament of Ireland :

(5) the accession and the sign manual of the Sovereign for the time being of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland :

(6) all seals of which English Courts take judicial notice : the seals of all the Courts of British India, and of all Courts out of British India, established by the authority of the Governor-General‡ or any Local Government in Council: the seals of Courts of Admiralty and Maritime Jurisdiction and of Notaries Public, and all seals which any person is authorized to use by any Act of Parliament or other Act or Regulation having the force of law in British India :

(7) the accession to office, names, titles, functions and signatures of the persons filling for the time being any public office in any part of British India, if the fact of their appointment to such office is notified in the Gazette of India or in the official Gazette of any Local Government :

(8) the existence, title and national flag of every State or Sovereign recognized by the British Crown :

(9) the divisions of time, the geographical divisions of the world, and public festivals, fasts, and holidays notified in the official Gazette :

(10) the territories under the dominion of the British Crown :

(11) the commencement, continuance and termination of hostilities between the British Crown and any other State or body of persons :

---

*Substituted by Act X of 1927. †24 & 25 Vict. c. 67.

‡For lists of such Courts, see the notifications printed on pp. 372 to 374 of the Western India Volume of Macpherson's Lists of British Enactments in force in Indian States

S. 57. (12) the names of the members and officers of the Court and of their deputies and subordinate officers and assistants, and also of all officers acting in execution of its process, and of all advocates, attorneys, proctors, vakils, pleaders and other persons authorized by law to appear or act before it:

(13) the rule of the road *[on land or at sea]. In all these cases and also on all matters of public history, literature, science or art, the Court may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference.

If the Court is called upon by any person to take judicial notice of any fact, it may refuse to do so unless and until such person produces any such book or document as it may consider necessary to enable it to do so.

Whether the list is complete. A similar list is also given by Sir J[illegible]es Fitzjames Stephen in art. 58 of his Digest on the Law of Evidence. As regards that list he remarks: "The list of matters judicially noticed in this article is not intended to be quite complete. It is compiled from 1 Ph. Ev. 458—67 and T. E. ss 1—20, where the subject is gone into more minutely. [illegible] the ordinary course of nature, the meaning of English words, and all other matters which they are directed by any Act to notice, such as, in Bengal, list of land holders who have not made road-cess returns (Ben. Act IX of 18[illegible] s. 19[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

cases that which was already and more widely the law, have occasionally furnished ground for the contention that an intention to alter the general law was to be inferred from the partial or limited enactment; resting on the maxim, expressio unius est exclusio alterius. But th[illegible] cases. The only inference which a Court c[illegible] provisions (which generally find a place in [illegible] and idle doubts) is that the Legislature was either ignorant or unmindful of the

*These words in section 57, para. (13), were inserted by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872), s. 5.

S

real state of the law, or that it acted under the influence of excessive caution and if the law be different from what the legislature supposed it to be the implication arising from the statute, it has been said, cannot operate as a negation of its existence; any legislation founded on such a mistake has not the effect of making that law which the legislature erroneously assumed it to be so." Maxwell, 548. Similarly in Krishna Kamini Dasi v. Abdul Jabbar, 73 Ind Cas 312 at p 316 = A I R 1923 Cal 66, Mr Justice Mookerjee said "The only inference which a Court can draw from such superfluous provisions (which often find place in Acts to meet unfounded objections and idle doubts), is that the Legislature was either ignorant or unmindful of the real state of the law or that it acted

that take writers

shall take judicial notice" In the circumstances the proper meaning of the section is that it does not forbid the Court to take judicial notice of any fact which is a proper subject of taking such notice, but the Court must take judicial notice of the facts mentioned in this section and as regards that the Court is not at liberty to exercise any discretion It was pointed out with regard to the corresponding section of Act II of 1855 that the list mentioned therein was not exhaustive and the Court was at liberty to take judicial notice of any fact of which English Courts take judicial notice Queen v. Nabadwip Goswami, 1 B L R O Cr 27 28, Woodroffe's Ev 8th Ed 469 But why should it be confined to facts of which the English Courts ordinarily take judicial notice? The maxim that what is known need not be proved manifesta (or notoria) non indigent probatione, may be traced far back in the civil and canon law, indeed it is coeval with the legal procedure itself We find it a maxim in English law set judici, si notum non sit in forma judicii. Per Coke C J in Crawford v.

future possibility of the doctrine of judicial notice. Courts may judicially notice much which they cannot be required to notice That is well worth emphasising, for it points to a great possible usefulness in this doctrine, in helping to shorten and simplify trials It is an instrument of great capacity, in the hands of a competent Judge, and it is not nearly as much used, in the region of practice and evidence, as daily to smother trials

Thayer Prel Treat Ev 30

by Judges? One reason is that they apparently forget that (as Professor Thayer says) they might notice much that they cannot be required to notice by general rule made in advance, e g, a rule requiring them to notice always the incumbency of a sheriff's office might go too far, but they may in a given case be justified in declaring a specific sheriff to be notorious; and so on, in a thousand

Clause
the force of personal or 451 = 1 Bom Grieves 2 H and adopted Chamberlayn
'that judicial

7. notice given to this branch of the subject is, that diversity of opinion has existed as to whether certain laws of a private nature were entitled to the judicial notice, and it has therefore become the task of the legal chronicler to mark them The law of the jurisdiction is peculiarly a matter of judicial cognizance It is only on the presumption that the law is known to the Court that there can be any proceedings whatever in Courts of Justice ' Burr Jones § 119 The Mahomedan Ecclesiastical law is a law having the force of law in British India and as such will be taken judicial notice of by Courts Whitley Stokes Vol II p 887, Queen Empress v Ramzan 7 A 461 The general rules of Hindu and Mahomedan law do not require proof They can be ascertained by making necessary reference to authoritative text books, judicial decisions as well as from the opinions of the Pandits or Maulvis Bhagwan v Bhagwan, supra The Court can take judicial notice of what the Hindu Law is with regard to Hindu custom, that always must be proved Per Garth C J in Jagat Mohini v Dwarkanath, 8 C 582 (587) But where a custom in judicially recognised it need not be

ham v Zamindar of Pilapur, 23 C alir 93 Ind Cas 321, 78 Ind Cas

. I R 1926 Oudh 352, see also

Ramalinga, 12 M I A customs of any particular community may acquire, by being repeatedly proved in the Court, such a status as to make it unnecessary in any subsequent case for to prove the existence of a body of customs Assuming that a rule of Hijasa ilana hin the term of s 57 of the Evidence Act operation of customs which necessarily

Acts of Legislature In the case of laws enacted by the Legislature, Courts have to take judicial notice not only of the effect of the rules but also of those facts which are necessary for showing that so often pro stated Th

21 Ind Cas

water rates,

But such

Collector of e rules of

, should be judicially noticed

Cl

notice of all Public Acts passed also It was customary

before 1

same s clause was to a sp

but of producing an e a Public Act requirin

Vict. C 12 it was e this Act shall be deemed and taken to be Public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as su h, unl ss the contrary be expressly provi le l and declared by such Act." This provision is now repealed by the Interpretation Act, 1889, 52 and 53 Vict C 63, which provides, by s 8 that every Act passed after 1850 "shall be a Public Act and shall be judicially noticed, as such, unless the contrary is expressly provided by the Act" So now every p rsonal Act or local Act, should also be taken judicial notice of by the Indian Courts

S.

Clause III. The Court will recognize without proof the Articles of War, whether in the naval, the marine, or the land service, as well as the auxiliary forces,—that is the militia, yeomanry, and the volunteers,—and also the reserve force, (Taylor § 5), but not of a book call d the Rules and Regulations for the Government of the Army (Bradley v. Arthur, 4 B & C 304) nor the Regulations of the territorial force (Todd v. Anderson, [1912] S C J 105)

Clause IV The English Courts take judicial notice of the laws of England and Ireland, including the laws and custom of Parliament and the privileges and course of proceedings of each House of Parliament Stockdale v. Hansard, 9 A & E 1=2 P & D 1, Inaurance v. Gosset 12 Q B D 271 The Indian Courts should take judicial notice of debates of Parliament The Englishman v. Lajpat Rai 37 C 760=14 C W N 713 "The proceedings of the Legislature" says Prof Wigmore "as shown in its journal are by some Courts noticed, but this is an artificial theory on principle, the proceedings as contained in the 2577 from 713 (726) of the sovereign ingle, 2 M & Rob l and all matters stated under it. R. v. Gully, 1 Lev 98, Mighell v. Sultan of Jhore, (1894) 1 Q B 149

Clause VI The English Courts take judicial notice of the Great Privy Seal (Lord Melville's Case, 29 How St Tr 707; f royal proclamation, of the signature of the cler Lewinstein, 1 R P C 170), seal of the Corp

Crown Office Act, 1877, the Seal and the Privy Seal of the Duchy of Lancaster, the Seal and the Privy seal of the Duchy of Cornwall, the Seals of the old Superior Courts of Justice, and of the Supreme Court and its several divisions; the old nt office nd, the P of Stanneries, the Seals of Courts constituted by Act of Parliament, if Seals are orce and matters nd of its district Court of nsolvent ency in Ireland, which since the 6th of August, 1877, has been called "The Court of Bankruptcy in Ireland, of the several in Ireland, of the Landed Estate C of that Court, and of the county Court the city of Glasgow is not one of judicial notice In re Henderson, 22 C 491 Where the seal is not distinctly

7. notice given to this branch of the subject is, that diversity of opinion has existed as to whether certain laws of a private nature were entitled to the judicial notice, and it has therefore become the task of the legal chronicler to mark them The law of the jurisdiction is peculiarly a matter of judicial cognizance It is only on the presumption that the law is known to the Court that there can be any proceedings whatever in Courts of Justice ' Burr Jones § 112 The Mahomedan Ecclesiastical law is a law having the force of law in British India, and as such will be taken judicial notice of by Courts Whitley Stokes Vol II p 837, Queen Empress v Ram an, 7 A 161 The general rules of Hindu and Mahomedan law do not require proof They can be ascertained by making necessary reference to authoritative text books, judicial decisions as well as from the opinions of the Pandits or Maulavis Bhaguan v Bhaguan, supra The Court can take judicial notice of what the Hindu Law is with regard to Hindu custom, that always must be proved Per Garth C J in Jagat Mohini v Dwarkanath, 8 C 582 (587) But where a custom in judicially recognised, it need not be proved Jadulal v Janki, 35 C 575 Raja Ram v Zamindar of Pitapur, 23 C W N 173 (P C)=41 M 778 Tulsidas v Takar 93 Ind Cas 321, 78 Ind Cas 161; Bagrudi v Rahim, 93 Ind Cas 332=A I R 1926 Oudh, 352, see also

Bap

v B

2 Cl

(192

Sans

by th

Ram

custo

in th pers

the

book

to prove the existence of a body of customs law is 'a rule having the force of law' within there is one essential feature in the one differentiates them fr enacted by the Legisl effect of the rules, they have the force

stated Th

21 Ind Ca

water rates,

Cawnpore v procedure

judicially noticed

all Public Acts was customary,

aring that the

he effect of this Act specially,

r of the Crown,

By 13 & 14

mmencement of

be judicially formed nation cannot without proof be recognized as such by the judicial tribunals of other nations until it has been acknowledged by the sovereign power under which those tribunals are constituted (City of Berne v. Bank of belonging to the executive to such acknowledgment is a fact by other competent testimony, and the existence of such unacknowledged government or state may, in like manner be proved, the rule being, that if a body of persons assemble together to protect themselves, and support their own independence, make laws and have Courts of justice, this is evidence of their being a State Greenl Ev. § 4 citing Yrisarri v Clement 2 C & P 223 But the rule in U S v Palmer, 3 Wheat 610, 634, seems limited to the case of a defendant denying piratical intent by pleading the authority of a government having colourable existence and engaged in a revolution On the general question, the correct rule seems to be the contrary of the statement in Greenleaf i.e., a Court will look solely to the action of the Executive where the existence of a foreign nation or government is involved U S v Hutchings 2 Wheel Cr Cas 543, Rose v Himely 4 Cranch 241, Gelston v Hoyt, 3 Wheat 246, 324, Nueva v Anna 6 id 193, Williams v Ins Co, 13 Pet 415, 420, Kennett v Chambers 14 How 38 51; Mighell v Sultan of Johore, (1894) 1 Q B 149 In the last mentioned case Kay L J said at p 161 "The status of a foreign sovereign is a matter of which the Courts of this country take judicial cognizance—that is to say a matter which the Court is either assumed to know or to have the means of discovering, without a contentious inquiry as to whether the person cited is or is not in the position of an independent sovereign Of course the Court will take the best means of informing itself on the subject if there is any kind of doubt, and the matter is not as notorious as the status of some great monarch such as the Emperor of Germany Here the person cited was the Sultan of Johore, and the means which the Judge took of informing himself as to his status was by inquiry at the colonial office." Later on the learned Judge said. "The next point is this It is his right to immunity, and may tre agree, but how is that to be dor clear Supposing, by way of illustration, that some well known potentate, such as one of the great European Emperors, were to be sued in a Court of this country, and took no kind of notice of the proceeding; it would be the duty of

in Council See also Lachmi Narain v Protap, 2 A 1 (17), Bhocam v Bombay Baroda, 9 B 244

While the Courts will take judicial notice of the existence of foreign governments, the rule must be taken with the qualification that it relates only to such governments as have been recognized by the Home Government The Courts will not anticipate the action of the government in this respect, and in case of a rebellion or a revolt in a foreign state, they will consider the former state of things as existing until the proper department of the government recognizes the change City of Berne v. Bank, 9 Ves 347, Taylor v Barclay, 2 Sim 213 Who is the sovereign, de jure or de facto, of a territory is not a judicial but a political question, the determination of which by the legislative and executive departments of any government

S. 57. legible, Courts will not take judicial notice of it Jaker Ali v Raj Chandra 10 C L R 169 A registered power of attorney was admitted under this section without proof, the Registering Brown, 11 C 176 But the abo

Court can take judicial not e Radha Mohun v Anjendra
Nath, 105 Ind Cas 422

Clause VII Courts will judicially recognize the political constitution or frame of their own Government; its essential political agents and public office sharing in its regular administration; and its essential and regular political operations, powers and actions Thus, notice is taken, by all tribunals of the accession of the Chief Executive of the nation or state, under whose authority they act; his powers and privileges (Elderton's Case, 2 Ld Raym 980), a d
. Gole's Ex'r, 4 Marten 630
, and principal officers of .31) In America the Court
. senator the appointment, ell, 2 Rob (La) 160) In Dilman v Burrow, 2 Ld be taken judicial no e ir deputies Great Ex
l executive offic rs to ad
.0 Mart. 196 But the English doctrine does not extend to this length Taylor § 11 So also in be taken of the signature of a Deputy Commsr of Police Walchar v Em 53 C 718=30 C W N. 713; see also Tamor v Kahdas, 4 B L R

The
the I docu he is acting as such Rampiban v Ahmed, 5 Ind. Cas 537.

being alike members of the great family d to recognize each other's existence and the usual and appropriate symbols of nationality and sovereignty are the national flag and seal Every sovereign therefore, recognizes, and, of course, the public tribunals and functionaries of sovereign ls of State eceived as , however upon a civil war in any country, one part of the nation shall separate itself from the other, and establish for itself an independent government, the newly public feasts and festivals. Taylor § [illegible] facts in the case of the average man [illegible] the fact itself; he merely knows wh[illegible] the period of limitation for a suit expires on a gazetted holiday and the plaint is presented on the day the Court re-opens it is not necessary for the plaint explicitly to state that on the day on which the period of limitation expired the Court was closed Tek Chand v. Mt Pilo, 16 N. L. R. 193=76 Ind Cas 926 This clause empowers the Court to take judicial notice of any public holidays notified in the official gazette. Ibid

Geographical Divisions Courts, in [illegible] phical features of the country covered [illegible] the country as a whole, and of the entire [illegible] Courts take judicial notice of political subdivisions of the country as it was made by law, and of the state or territory where they hold their sessions, and of the judicial districts within it. Courts will take judicial notice of the local divisions of the state into counties cities and towns and of the facts that certain cities are in such subdivisions State v. Pennington 124 Mo 388, Rogers v Cady 104 Cal. 283 (Am) Dobbs's Case 4 B & Ald 243, R v Fly, 15 Q B D 827, R v. St Maurice 16 Q B D 908 The Court takes judicial notice of the existence, extent, and geographical position of the British dominions and of the territory of the foreign States. Halsbury, Vol 13, p 493 In Cooke v. Wilson, 1 C B N S 153, Crowder J at p 164, held that the Court was bound to take notice of the existence of the colony of Victoria and Cresswell J at p 163, that it must recognise that the colony was out of England In Birrell v Dryer, (1884) 9. App Cas 345 where the question was whether the words "St. Lawrence" in a p[illegible] confined to the r[illegible] that the Court sho[illegible] names applied t[illegible] [illegible]miralty cognizance of the fact that, assuming these tribes to be independent, they do not possess jurisdiction over certain territories. This is a matter which appears to me must necessarily be within the cognizance of Her Majesty, because, for the protection of her lieges in the ordinary way, she should know whether redress should be applied for to the Sultan of Morocco or to the head of the various independent tribes of Suss Sound policy appears to me to require [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

at p 221 said "The judgment proceeded, not on the question whether the Court should give relief or not, or give discovery or not, and withhold relief, but upon the question whether the King's Court should attend to the case [illegible] persons [illegible] Govern[illegible] sound [illegible] governm[illegible]
State is [illegible] Judicial [illegible] ed, and [illegible] from an[illegible]

Case, 1821, 4 B & Al 1 243, per Bayley J and Best J) unless such situation is recognised by statute (R v Holborn Union Guardian, 6 E & B 715) nor of the particular diocese within which any town is situated R v Simpson, 2 Ld Raym 1379, Halsbury Vol 13 p 1 . judicial notice that a certain city referred to and the pleadings do not Wheeler, 162 Mass 429 (Am) In state, without proof of the fact. v Strong, 42 Ill 148 But in an notice of the fact that Ilchester was in the county of Somerset R v Burridge, 3 P Wms 139 196, see also Thorne v Jackson, (1846) 3 C B 661, Brunne v Thompson, (1842) 2 Q B 754, Humphreys v Budd (1841) 9 Dowl 1000, Church v Imp Gas Co, 7 L J Q B 118 In England the Courts will take judicial notice of the different counties palatinate, and counties corporate in that country R v S Maurice, 16 Q B D 908, Deybil s Case, 4 B & A 248 That a particular colony or place in it, is not, in England need not be proved to an English Court Cooke v Wilson 26 L J C P 14 The Courts take judicial notice of the leading geographical features of the country, for example the existence and general location of im-porta chara

40 A
that
that and in R v Isle of I a division of a county 2 B & Ald 301 the Court place named Dublin in the world, and therefore refused to construe an allegation in the declaration that a bill was drawn in Dublin as meaning drawn in Dublin in Ireland Ibid, see also Kearney v King, 2 B E Ald 301 But a statement by the Attorney General on the Instructions of the Home Secretary as to whether a certain spot in the British channel was within the limits of H M's territorial sovereignty was held binding upon the Court (The Farqurness [1927] p 311, cf Engelke v Mursman [1928] A C 433) Phip Ev 7th Ed 22 Judges are aware, with the rest of the community, of the existence of the principal lines of railroad which are wholly or in part within the county The common knowledge includes locality, course and direction of such a railroad What places are on the line of a railroad, have stations in it, or constitute its termini, or railroad centres, through what other localities it must pass in order to connect two places, what is the distance between two points on a railroad, within what county these points ar and similar facts pertaining to judicially know But details, ... must be proved ...
Ev § 741

Clause X ' All Courts of Justice are bound to take judicial notice of the territorial extent of the jurisdiction exercised by the Government whose laws they administer, or if its recognition or denial of the sovereignty of a foreign power as appearing from the public Acts of the legislature and executive although those Acts are not formally put in evidence nor in accord with the pleadings" Jones v United States, 137 U S 214 (Am) In England the Courts notice the territorial extent of the jurisdiction and sovereignty exercised de facto by their own government and the local divisions of the country as arishes, and the like so far as the but not the relative positions of ndaries further than they may be he Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890 any question as to the existence or eign country, arising in proceedings in a Court in the British dominions or held under British authority, is to be submitted to the Secretary of State, whose decisions for the purpose of the proceedings is final 'If it be true said Lord Selborne in Damodhar v Deoram, 1 B 367 at p 404 (P C) " that the Indian Courts might take judicial notice of the territories of the Queen in India, then, if there has been a cession of territory, they must take n tice of that, and they must do so independently of the Gazette, which is no part of the case, but only evidence of it."

Clause XI The Courts take judicial notice of wars with foreign states if a state of war has been declared by the proper authorities. Doller v. Lord Hanim ..., 11 Ves. 292. It is submitted that the law is as stated in the text, although Lord ... said during argument: "You would be obliged upon an indictment for a libel to prove that France is now at war with Austria, not as to the war with this country, the Court taking judicial notice of that with reference to our own country." See also ... Vol II p. 433, Rex v. De Berenger, ... March 5, 1808), ... (1915) 3 K B 643 ..., Re ... (1916) 1 K B 268 ... § 18. But if no such declaration has been made the fact of a state of war is one to be proved. 1 Hale P. C. ... A war between foreign powers is not judicially noticed. ... When it is said, however, that the Courts take judicial notice of wars with foreign states, it must be interpreted that the Courts take judicial notice of the act of their own executive with reference to war with a foreign state. The executive recognition is the warrant for the Court ... 4 Wheat (U. S.) 246. It is the determination of a political question by another department of the government which is binding on the Judges. Jones v. United States 137 U. S. 214 (...), Burr Jones § 107 (a). As regards the commencement of hostilities see The Teutonia Duncan v. Koster, 8 Moo. P. C. (N. S.) 411 = L. R. 4 P. C. 171 = ... L. J. ... Under s. ... and ... of Act II of 1855 the Gazette of India or Calcutta Gazette containing official letters on the subject of hostilities between the British Crown and the ...

Representative v. Peninsular and Oriental Branch Service (1923) A. C. 191 = 92 L. J. K. B. 142 = 128 L. T. 546. The statement by H. M.'s Commissioner and Consul General for Uganda is sufficient for the Court's taking judicial notice, under s. 57 Evidence Act, of the existence of hostilities between Kaberja, the King Unyoro and Her Majesty the Queen and the protected states of Uganda. Imperatrix v. Juma, 22 B. 54.

Clause XII. According to English law under the general principle of recognising domestic officials, notice is taken of the incumbency of other officers ... to the extent to ... ficers, particularly ... Fullerton's Case, ... v. Turner, 6 Q. B. ... Wigmore "It ... ies and authorities to the incumbents, but whether the incumbent at a given time and place is a specific person depen... notorious, but sometim... principl...

...not Wigmore § 2576. But in ... rule is forced and all Courts must take judicial notice of the names of the members and officers of the Court and of their deputies and subordinate officers and assistants, and ... process, and of all advocates, ... ersons authorized by law to ... Act II of 1855, the Court was ... ... Chackerbutty v. Sheo Narain, 8 W. R. 276.

"law of the road,' was not to be considered as inflexible, since, in crowded streets situations and circumstances might frequently arise, where a deviation from what is called the law of the road, would not only be justifiable, but absolutely necessary Where the defendant was driving on the wrong side of the road, which was of considerable breadth, and the plaintiff's servant, who was on horseback, without any reason crossed over to the side on which the defendant was driving, and on endeavouring to pass, his horse was killed Lord [illegible] danger, and that the he plaintiff 685 And f the road, if he kept to v 719 As regards rules of road, vide Leame v Bray, 3 East 593, Turley v Thomas 8 C & P 104

The Court will take judicial notice of the following rules with respect to navigation,—first, that ships and steamboats, on meeting "end on or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collusion' should port their [illegible]

In all cases and also on all matters of public history etc Notorious facts of foreign history will be noticed, whether ancient or contemporaneous The existence of a war in a foreign country, at a given time, will be regarded as a fact of common knowledge But special historical facts of comparatively slight general importance connected with a particular state and the consequen. regarded as commonly known D importance will be considered in determining what facts of foreign history minor Any Court of a nation will know as matters of common knowledge notorious facts in the nation's history Where these are a direct result of legal action the knowledge of the Court may also be judicial,—as in the case of [illegible] im jud im suc of ma state, what was the tenure of office of the succession, chief magistrates state, the date of a general or national election need not be established by evidence Ibid § 798 The general history of the great—national parties is a fact of common knowledge Ibid § 799 When in doubt as to any matter to be judicially noticed the Judge may refer for information to appropriate sources Phip Ev 4th Ed p 17 Taylor Ev 10th Ed § 21 The Judge may resort to such means of reference as may be at hand, and as he may deem worthy of confidence Greenl Ev § 295, Tay Ev § 21 The provision that the Court may resort for its aid to appropriate books' is an advance on the English Law under which though an expert called as a witness, will be allowed to refresh his memory by referring to a professional treatise regarded by him as of authority yet th [illegible] but see Willo judicial cogniz of some matter for his Court's knowledge and notice must frequently [illegible] demand upon him, to which, without some means of reference—or refresh ing h [illegible] ight not be able to respond It does not neces sarily [illegible] when his me whethe resolve happen

S.

r ation concerning t atters wh ch I ave not been referred to in the evidence, in wh che it is l s duty to resort to any s urce of information which in its nature is calculated to be trustw rthy and helpful, always seeking first for that which is most ap ropriate; s m ti es too concerning matters of law, and in other case he r ay use all proper means for satisfying himself in any way that appears to him satisfactory Tar J nes § 152 In a New York case the opinion shows that the Court had referred to various documents and to Pollard s and Greely's histories of the Civil War Scmmet n v Columbia Ins Co, 37 N Y. 174 In the celebrated Dred Scott case Chief Justice Taney evidently had

. . . . ordinances and works of history, ... light upon the social and political . . . . s of the country Dred Scott v Sanford 19 How (U S) 393, Tar J nes § 152 Dr Wharton illustrates the principle thus: "The Judge may consult works on collateral science s or arts, touching the top c on trial. He may draw for instance, on mythology, in order to determine the meaning of similies in an amb guous writing He may refer to almanacs (Page v Fau et, Cro Eliz 227), h may appeal to his own memory for the meaning of a word in the vernacular (Ince v Woodward 1 Moo C C 323, Cowen v Golling 2 Camp 25 M n ey v Cole L R 7 Ex 70); he may, as to the meaning of t r s, refer to dictionaries of science of all classes (Thomas v Golling, 6 C & P 186, Pris Case 1 Leon 242, Att Gen v Drummond 1 C & L 210, Snere v Hetten 9 C l & F 55; Bumer v Ulque Skin 11; In re St Catherine's Hosp l 1 Vent 149 Stainer v Droitwich 1 Salk 281; Cowen v Golling 2 Camp 25 he may determine the meaning of the abbreviations of Christian names and others, and of other common terms, as to a point of . . . . he may consult . . . . 221, Mighell v . . . . 811), he may . . . . Lloyd 1 Man & E 685), and Lord . . . veyancer as to a rule of . . . R 772)" Wharton Ev . . . is called upon to decide as to what particular date in the English calendar a certain date in the Fasli year corresponds with, may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference, and in such a case an almanac containing the British and Fasli calendars may be referred to Oudh Judicial calendar was not compiled expressly for the purpose of showing corresponding dates in the different era, and was not an appropriate document of reference in such a case Raghubar v Sheo Charan 4 O C 182 In all those and the like cases where the memory of the Judge is at fault, he resorts to such documents or other means of reference as may be at hand, and may deem worthy of confidence

. . . .

. . . ces of war which were not produ . . . that they ought to have been produced Cited by Buller J in R v Holt, 5 T R 446 But in many other cases, the English Courts have themselves made the necessary inquiries, and that, too, without strictly confining their researches to the time of the trial Taylor § 21, Taylor v Barclay 2 Sim 221; The Charkieh 42 L J Adm 17 cited in Lachmi Narain v Raja Partap 2 A 17, Chandler v Grieves, 2 H Bl 606 na Dee v Lloyd 1 M & Gr 68, Worseley v Filisler, 2 2 Roll . . .
follow . . .
v Bor . . .
Lachn . . .
516 . . .
"from producing evidence, it . . . make a request for it. Up . . .
said to declare the fact noticed, or at least to make the investigation which it deems necessary No doubt, in most instances, the rule of law has the plain consequence of compelling the Judge to declare the dispensation, not to do so would be to err, precisely as under any other rule of law But it must not be supposed that this is universall numerous topics, near the line Court may but not must, tak nized, erely authorised the Court to notice 2568 As regards the meaning of the and Ali v Zafar Ali, 46 Ind Cas 114. In a suit for declaration that a church and its properties were trusts and the plaintiffs were its trustees and for possession of the same from defendants certain documents consisting of printed letters of the Priests of the dated about 75 years ago were ad of reference to prove the history of Catholic Mission Held, that, though the books were admissible to prove facts of public history, they could not be relied upon to prove where certain particular Missionaries were living or when they died The Court can dispense with evidence only of what may be regarded as notorious facts of public history Ambalam v J M Barthe (1912) M W N 152=13 Ind Cas 99 A document may be referred to in connection with ancient facts of a pulic nature provided it is an approved, public and general history It is provided by this section literature science or art the Court may res books of reference Tira Chainnamal v the question whether a certain property wakf property cannot be deemed to be a matter of public history within the meaning of this section, and historical works cannot be referred to for the purpose of deciding the question Sant Singh v Ralia Ram, 126 Ind Cas 741= A I R 1930 Lah 738 "It is to be observed that the section does not say how any fact histori Court liberty on matters of p Rai 14 C W

before the suit in which the usage of the institution and its history are described, both being matters relevant to the suit. Augustine v Medlycote 15 M 241 Evidence of the sources of common knowledge, if not its extent may perhaps be obtained by reference to a cyclopædia and the list of text books to be found but detailed information supplied from such sources requires usually to be supplied by experts. United States v St Albans, 131 Ind Cas 771=A I R 1931 P. C 189

M
all ma
It can
If so, presently in s ov v 49 But none of principle

on which the matters of scien sections When the Court b art, the opinion upon that point art are relevant facts under s 45 the rule in regard to the admission of expert testimony is thus stated by Earle
'It is not sufficient to warrant the introduction of expert testimony that the witness may know more of the subject of inquiry and may better comprehend and appreciate it, than the jury, but to warrant its introduction, the subject of inquiry must be one relating to some trade, profession, science or art in which persons instructe more skill and generally to have witnesses, and y between the parti such a nature t reference to them, and draw inferences from them, as witnesses, then there is occasion is requir be matt known, cations, will be judicially noticed, but they must be of such universal notoriety and so generally understood that they may be regarded as forming part of the common knowledge of every person Burr Jones § 123 So Mr. Justice Markby is not correct in his interpretation of this section when he says "What perhaps it meant is that, though the parties must obey the law as laid down in ss. 45 and 60, the Judge may resort for his own aid to appropriate books without restriction" This principle of the rule contained in this section . The Corporation of Calcutta, 22 C. W. N. 745, the Court by the prosecution in support of As regards the admissibility of these bo these books I see that one or mo Magistrate's Court. In my opinion did thereby to make these books and all their contents evidence in the case. The use of such books by the Court is regulated by sections 57 and 60 of the Evidence Act ma all or ref ded sup

of
on

dence may be referred to Hatim v Empress, 12 C L R 86 A Court, suo motu, will know whatever every one, as a rule knows about the characteristic properties of material substances, in solid, liqu Regarding solids, the Court will notic familiar,—as that certain substances are the movements of gases The Court w dynamite are dangerous by reason of their liability to create an explosion So also no proof need be offered of the well known qualities of common forms of matter in a liquid state specified conditions, to ex conducted in pipes, and should bring out the expl knowledge Chamberlayn established and notoriou tribunal The conclusions of such inve regarding matters of general interest, are c tions of scientific knowledge, about which opinion, must be proved, if their truth is to layne's Ev § 720 The scientific pri of soft coal in factories mechanical occupations, these and similar facts, so far as popularly known, will be known by the Court upon ordinary principles Chamberlayne's Ev § 765.

7. Facts of Social life No proof need be offered of facts which are well known incidents of the social life of the community "Quicquid agant homines" said Lord Mansfield, "is the business of Courts, and as usages of society alter, the law must adapt itself to the various situations of mankind" Barwell v Brooks, 3 Dougl 371, 373 "It is the duty of Courts judicially to know what is the general course of the transactions of human life." Duncan v Little, 2 Bibb (Ky.) 424, 126; Chamberlayne's Ev § 705

Private Knowledge of the Judge In deciding a case a Judge cannot base his judgment on his own personal knowledge Durga Prosad v Ram Doyal, 38 C 153 There is a real but elusive line between the Judge's personal knowledge as a private man and his knowledge as a Judge The latter does not necessarily include the former, as a Judge indeed, he may have to ignore what he knows as a man, and contra wise Wigmore § 2569; Chamberlayne's Ev § 574 That rule was laid down so far back as the year 1406 In arguing a question as to the duty of the Court not to have rendered a certain judgment, counsel put this case "Sir let us put the case that one man kills another in your presence, ... guilty is indicted before you and is report to the King, to give him this case, before causing those to appear by whose hands the King was paid Gascoigne C J said Once the King himself asked of me the very case that you have put, and asked me what was the law, and I told him just as you say it, and he was well pleased that the law was so" Year Book, 7 H IV, 41, pl 5 cited in Wigmore Cas Ev 751, Wigmore § 2569, Partridge v Strange, Plowd 83; Marriot v Pascal, 1 Leon 159, 161 But Mr Hawles, Solicitor General arguing said, 'It is said, though a Judge do think in his conscience a person at the behavior ... the truth of such incidents is contested between the parties, he should mention

S.

his private knowledge of such incidents to the parties and he should refuse to be the judge in that case unless both the parties, after he so mentions to them his said personal knowledge of that particular incident, state that they have no objection to his continuing as Judge." See also Harjushal v. Sheo Dial, 3 I. A. 259=26 W R. 55 P C. Similarly where a case is to be tried by jurors, "the personal knowledge of any juror concerning any probative fact involved in the case under consideration is not to be considered in deciding the case. Such a juror should communicate his information to the Court, and if he is not excused from service and it is deemed proper to his cognizance of such a fact in the trial, he must be sworn as a witness and examined, subject to … But any … experience … knowledge … good prove fatal. It is common knowledge, also, that a forest tree cut nearly in two at the butt will fall, if a high wind blows against it. If a witness should testify to the contrary to these ordinary phenomena, the common knowledge of the juror derived from his experience in such matters would naturally compel him to discredit that witness. Many illustrations might be given where men are normally and legitimately influenced in considering testimony by their general knowledge and experience. It is utterly impracticable in the administration of Courts of justice to secure a juror whose mind is totally blank as to questions involved in the ordinary transactions of life. Triers of fact cannot, in the nature of things be divested of general knowledge of practical affairs. The Court cannot do otherwise than to direct them to use such experiences as are common to all men in the decision of questions of fact. It is part of the jury system which cannot be dispensed with." Per Burnett C J in Rostad v Portland R L & P. Co, 101 Or. 569 (Am), Wigmore § 2570.

… dicial notice … no standard … O'Donnell, … Ald 303), … Toot, L R. 3 Q B 197); Phip Ev 7th Ed 25. So a Court will take judicial notice of matters of universal notoriety its general knowledge of daily life. But a Judge cannot use from the Bench under the guise of judicial knowledge that which he knows only as an individual observer. He cannot therefore import into a case his knowledge of the previous conduct of the accused. Shamburam v Emperor, 25 S L R 213=132 Ind Cas 176. It would be unfair to the Railway Company to take judicial notice of thefts on the … Lal, 111 Ind Cas 523=A I R … judicial notice of the fact that there is … between the arrival of a registered … from the Post Office or in other words that a registered letter takes 24 hours longer than an ordinary letter. Firm of Chaterbhuj v Secretary of State, 99 Ind Cas 622=A I R 1927 All 215. So also judicial notice can be taken of the course of post, the stamp of post-offices on letters, and the fact that post cards are un… them, and … Huth v Hut… repeatedly … Sano v Pu… community … be taken ju… 186=A I … 2 O W N … Courts are … Bux 93 Ind Cas 332=A I R 1926 Oudh 302. Courts must take judicial notice of provisions of s 24, Paper Currency Act, without defendant having raised the objection in his defence at all. Mirza Hidayat v Nga Kyaing, U B R (1914) 1st Qr 13=24 Ind Cas 721. A registered power of attorney was admitted under s 57 of the Evidence Act without proof as the registering officer is a Court under s 3 of the Act. Kristo Nath v T F Brown, 14 C. 176. In England

7. judicial Denis v Universit
8 E & B domestic animals Nye v Niblett, (1918) have also noticed judicially that boys a Hardwick 32 T L. R 159 H L ; Williams v
Smith, 17 T L. R 235, 423 ; Sullivan v Dublin Co, 39 Tr L T. R. 126); Phip Ev 7th Ed. p. 25.

Judicial notice of facts transpiring in Court A Court can take judicial notice of facts transpiring in Court. Chattra Kumari v. Mohan Bikram, 121 Ind. Cas. 337 = 1931 Pat 114

§ 2567. Since judicial notice is an expedient for hastening the trial and elimina

Books referred to by Courts. The following are some of the books which the Courts often resorted to in order to ascertain the matters of history, literature, science, art, etc.—

(1) Directions for Revenue Officers in the North Western Provinces, promulgated by the Lieutenant Governor and prepared probably by Mr. Thomason ... Rul 29

1 (17)
Forester Ajmodin.

17 B 448
(7) Buchanan's Journey in Mysore, Ibid pp 56, 57 (8) Todd's Rajasthan, Ibid pp. 56, 57 ; Moharana v Vadilal, 20 B. 61 (72) (9) (10) (11)
(12) Ibid 29 (82) (13) (14)
(15) Framji Nanabhai, 7 B H. 443 (444); Ranga- sami v 2 (16) ir, 12 B H C. R 199 (207)

Roman Law. Jotindra Mohun v Ganendro

Dictionary Hormasji v. Peddar, 12 B H C R 199 (207).
(20) Domat, 2413 Jatindra v Ganendra, supra.
(21) Mr. Prinsep's Table Forester v. Secretary of State, 18 W. R 359 (364).
(22) Seaton's letter. Ibid.
(23) Histories, firmans, treatises, and even replies from Foreign office The Charkieh, L R 4 A. & E. 59; Phip. Ev 4th Ed p 17; cited in Lachmi Narain v Rajah Partap, 2 A. 1 (17)

S.

(24) The collection of treatises originally published by Mr Aitchison, the Secretary to the Government of India. Lachmi Narain v. Rajah Partap, 2 A. 1 (17)

(25) Aitchison's Treatises. Lachmi Narain v. Raja Partap, 2 A. 1(15).

(26) New Oxford Dictionary. Dalabhai v. Jamsetji, 24 B. 293.

(27) The work of Grotius, Vattel, Puffendrof, Chalmers, Wheaton, Phillimore and Twiss. Damodar v. Deoram, 1 B 367 (P. C); Lachmi narain v. Raja Partap, 2 A. 1 (23).

(28) Lord Palmerston's speech in the debate on the relinquishment by the British ... r v. Gordhan, 1 B 380.

... House of Lords on the

... p 387

... Munro. Venkatanarasimha v. Dandamudi, 20 M. 302

(32) Dewan Bahadur Srinivasa Ayyanger's "Progress in the Madras Presidency" Ibid.

(33) Richardson's Manuke. Mathen Shwe v Maung Kan Gyi, U. B R. (1897—1900) Vol. II, 112.

(34) Letter's Manual of Buddhist Law Ibid

(35) Kin Wun Mingyi's Digest. Ibid

(36) Wagaru Dhammathat, Dr Forchhammer's, Ibid

(37) Crokes on Caste and Tribes Mariam Bibee v. Sheikh Mahmood, 28 C. L. J. 306

(38) Risley's Tribes and Castes in Bengal Santala v Badasuari, 27 C. W. N 669

(39) Hunter's Imperial Gazetter of India In the matter of the German Steamship Dranchenfels, 27 C 860.

(40) Encyclopaedia Britannica. Anna Kumaru v Muthupayal, 27 M. 551=14 M. L. J. 248.

(41) District Gazetteer of Bengal. Lalu Dome v Bijoy, 13 C. 217=20 C. W. N. 401.

(42) Hunter's Statistical ... Badasuari, 27 C. W N. 669, Secretary of S...

(43) Mandsley's Respon... -Empress v Kader Nath Sha, 28 C 608

(44) Bucknill and Tuke's Psychological Medicine Ibid

(45) Simcox's Primitive Civilization Rama Sami v Nagendra Narain, 19 M 33.

(46) Notes on Buddhist Law by Jardine. Ma Me v Ma Shwe, 16 C W N 529 (P C)

... Anna Kumaru Pillai v Muthupayal, 27 M

... Pearl Fisheries and Marine Fauna of the

... Fisheries Ibid

(50) Rajendra Lal Mitter's Buddha Gaya Jaipala Gir v Dharam Lal, 23 C 60

(51) Martin's edition of Buchhanan Hamilton's Eastern India Ibid

... and Custom Cheru Kuneth v Vengunat,

... of Malabar Agustine v Medlicot, 15 M

... 19 M 31

(54) Dr Lyon's Medical Jurisprudence for India Ikan Singh v Dhan kuar, 24 A 445

(55) Medical Gazette Ibid

(56) Murphy's Obstet Rep. Ibid.

(57) Playfair's Midwifery. Ibid.

(58) Treaty with Nawab of Bhopal by the East India Company Lachmi

... Damodar v Deoram, 1 B 367 (P. C)

... abhan v Bai Hiraabhai, 7 C W. N. 71

... oms and ceremonies." Ramasuami v

S. 58.

(62) Shakespeare's Dictionary Gajraj Puri v Achaibar Puri, 16 A 191 (P C)

(63) Fergusson's History of Architecture Secretary of State v Shunmugaraya 16 M 698 P C = 20 I A 80

(64) Houghton's History of Christianity in India Augustine v Medlicot, 15 M 241

(65) Stephen's History of Criminal Law of England. Queen Empress v Kedar Nasye, 23 C 604 (608)

(66) Geographical, Statistical and Historical Account of Orissa by Stirling Shyamanand v Rama Kanta, 32 C 6, 13

(67) ' India Orientalis Christiana" Augustine v Medlicot, supra.

(68) Wilk's History of Mysore Lakir v Trumala, 1 M 213

(69) Ibbetson's Census Report Ghulam v Secretary of State, 6 Lah 269

(70) Wynyords Settlement Report Byai v Bhupendra, 17 A. 456 (P C).

58. No fact need be proved in any proceeding which the parties thereto or their agents agree to admit at the hearing, or which, before the hearing, they agree to admit by any writing under their hands, or which by any rule of pleading in force at the time they are deemed to have admitted by their pleadings.

Facts admitted need not be proved

Provided that the Court may, in its discretion, require the facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admission.

Principle A Court, in general has to try the question on which the parties are at issue not on those on which they are agreed Burjorji Cursetji v Muncharji, 5 B 143 (152), Mc Gowan v Smith 26 L J Ch 8 An express waiver, made in Court or preparatory to trial, by the party or his attorney, conceding for the purpose of the trial the truth of some alleged fact has the effect of a confessory pleading, in that the effect is thereafter to be taken for granted; so that the one party need offer no evidence to prove it, and the other is not allowed to disprove it. This is what is commonly termed a solemn—i. e, ceremonial or formal—or judicial admission, or stipulation It is, in truth, a substitute for evidence, in that it does away with need for evidence Wigmore § 2588 It waives or dispenses with the production of evidence by conceding for the purposes of litigation that the proposition of fact alleged by the opponent is true. Wigmore § 1058 " Agreements of this character, intelligently and deliberately made,—whether made by the parties in person, or by their attorneys or solicitors of record,—are encouraged and favoured Their purpose generally is to save costs, and to expedite trials, by relieving from rules of practice which in the particular case are deemed mere hindrances, or the dispensation with mere formal proof, or, as in the present case, the admission of uncontroverted facts, of the existence of which the parties are fully cognizant " Per Brickel J in Prestwood v Watson, 111 Ala 604 (Am.); Wigmore § 2588

Scope of the section No evidence is required of matters which are admitted for the purpose of the trial. Admissions for the purpose of dispensing with proof at the trial which are called judicial admissions must be distinguished from those tendered at evidence,—the former not being usually receivable in other proceedings and the latter not being usually conclusive Phip Ev 7th Ed 18 This section includes judicial admissions including admissions made in the pleadings The effect which a judicial admission produces is of course an effect showed in common with certain other legal acts In the first place, a pleading may, by confessing a fact, place it beyond the range either of needing evidence or of permitting dispute, and an omission to plead in denial may have the same consequence The distinction between a pleading and a judicial admission seems to consist in the circumstances that the latter may be made after issues joined or trial begun, and may thus counteract or diminish the effect of a pleading, that it is not a part of the required statements defining the parties' issues; and that it is therefore not subject to the rules of time, form, amendment, and the like, which govern the allegations of pleading. Wigmore § 2589 Under this section no fact need be proved which the parties at the hearing or which by any rule of pleading in force at the time they are deemed to have admitted by their pleadings Where a plaintiff admitted, in a written statement in a former suit and in question, an agreement set up by the defendan took for consideration not to redeem a moi the defend in the face Maung Kot

to civil as well as to criminal cases Bhulan v Emperor, 91 Ind Cas 233, Bansilal v Emperor, 30 Bom L R 646=52 Bom L R 686=A I R. 1928 Bom 641 This section has in general no application to divorce cases Over v Over, 27 Bom L R 251=A I R 1925 Bom 231=49 B 368 This section normally relates to agreed statements of facts made between both parties to save time and expense at a trial But facts, and no pleading has been put in admission has been made in his pleadin, plaint to the contract in suit having n practices of the office is no indication whatsoever to the defendants that the plaintiffs rely on one of the supposed terms of this "office dhara" in support of their claim, or that one of the supposed terms of this 'office dhara" is an implied stipulation ful consideration, with regard not only of , but with regard to the time at which they were made, their use in the action of which they form the basis, their use dehors that action, the change brief by the circumst making them, includin knowledge and those allege matters of fac evidence against such 272. The admission relating to the progr

must be some other proof of authority to make the admission Wagstaff v. Wilson, 4 B & Ad 339

There is another class of judicial admissions, made by the payment of money into Court, upon a rule granted for that purpose. Here, it is obvious, the defendant conclusively admits that he owes the money thus tendered in payment (Blackburn 558); that it is due Bendict, 5 Bing 28; 285, Huntington v to claim it in the character in which he sues Liscombe v. Holmes, 2 Camp. 441); that the Court has jurisdiction in the matter (Miller Williams, 5 Esp. 19 21); that the contract described is rightly set forth, and was duly executed (Gutteridge v. Smith, 2 H Bl. 374, Israel v Benjamin, 3 Camph. 40); that it was broken in the manner and to the extent declared (Dyer v. Ashton, 1 B & C. 3), and if it was a case of goods sold by sample, that they agreed with the sample (Leggeth v money into Court obliged to prove in Stapleton v. Nowell, Walker, 9 Dowl 21,

58. onceded to be any further or contradict ... no evidence Ibid § 2591 A party or his agent may make admissions for the purpose ... by agreement or otherwise, before or at th ... admissions may be made by pleadings ... 226; Burjor. ... the client. ... to a decree ... 6 W. R. 132 ... by reference ... admission of oral evidence contained in the 4th proviso to section 92 of the Evidence Act Ibid. But in the same case Seshagiri Aiyar J said: "The rule of law enunciated in Slatterie v. Pooley, 6 M. & W. 664, which accepted oral admissions of every kind as proving documents, has no doubt been departed from in India [see section 22 of the Evidence Act and sections 59 and 65(b)] ... are in the nature of ...

... proved.

Differ nt kinds of judicial admissions This section deals with admissions ... ion or made voluntarily, or pursuant to a notice ...

... counsels or of shorthand writers, are admissible to controvert the statemen... the Judge. Reg. v. Pestonji, 10 B. H. C. R. 75(81).

... facts admitted at the ... If it means before the ... ready applies to it. If ... then, in a civil case, no ... the

... a plea of not guilty, can ... "At the hearing", mea ... an one, the final hearing. Thus where A ... and B at the first hearing orally asserts payment in full, at the final hearing no evidence of title or tenancy need be given. Whitley Stokes, Vol. II, p. 889. When an

A
that
Cas

810 Where the defendant admits the signature of his father in the mortgage deed, the plaintiff is relieved under this section from any further responsibility of proving the document. Lakhichand v Lalchand, 42 B 352=20 Bom L R 354=15 Ind Cas 351, Arjun Sahu v Kelai, 2 Pat 317=71 Ind Cas 150 Where the fact of a prior partitio parties, the same need not be proved . is not registered will not make th purpose Maung Po Kin v Maung Shwe 1 Rang 405=1924 Rang 155. facts be pro need 1 before the hearing it is as evidence, and for this pu or not Admissions in w under consideration when the Judge is considering what issues are to be tried › be genuine, unless they are admitted on given to the Court by the last isions of the Civil Procedure Code, at issues are to be tried before the to allow a party to withdraw his Markby Ev p 51 Each party he are

s §
, 4 isel
has been held to preclude any evidence on the point Urquhart v Butterfield, 37 Ch D 357, 369, 374 C A, Ellis v Allen, (1914) 1 Ch 904, Phip Ev 7th Ed 18 Admissions made ... action, or by stipulations ... be withdrawn if not true, ... party in which to prepare his case, and provided such party has not been injured by relying on such admissions Wallace v Mathews, 39 Ga 617 (Am) Such admissions will not be allowed to be withdrawn, however if the situation of the parties has been substantially changed, as by the death of a party or of a witness Wilson v Bank of Louisiana, 55 Ga 98 (Am) If a party desires to withdraw admissions of the character under discussion, he should give full and timely notice of his purpose, so that the other party may have reasonable time to supply the proof Hargraves v Redel, 43 Ga 142, Ellons v Larkins, 5 Car & P. 385, Burr Jones § 274

Admission by pleading. "Every allegation of fact in the plaint, if not denied specifically or by necessary implication, or stated to be not admitted in the pleading of the defendant, shall be taken to be admitted except as against a person under disability" Civil Pro Code, Order 8, rule 5 That rule states what amounts to admission defendant must deal not admit the truth if not denied in the written statement or stated to be not admitted, shall be taken to be admitted by the defendant (Vide Mullas' Civil Pro Code, note under rule

tion of his opponent, or he may state he does not admit the allegation But an allegation which is not specifically denied, or stated to be not admitted, is treated as admitted Byrd v Nunn, 5 Ch D 781 aff 7 Ch D 284, Green v. Sevin, (1879) 13 Ch D 589; Collette v Goode, 7 Ch D 842 A refusal to admit must be stated as specifically as a denial. Thorp v. Holdsworth, 3 Ch.

58 D 637, 640; Hall v L & N W Ry Co, 35 L T 849 Leave in a proper case may be given to a party to recall admissions which he has made. Hollis v Burton, (1892) 3 Ch 226 C A Where a document is by reference included in

In revision it was contended that the plaintiffs had not proved the notice Held that the defendants must be deemed to have admitted notice under order VIII, rule 6, C P Code, and proof was dispensed with under s 58 Commissioners fo

a

pr

make the suit triable only by th however, made over the trial of tl who had no jurisdiction to try it,

Neither party raised any objection on the ground of jurisdiction and no issue was raised relating to it The trial proceeded on merits and the subordinate Judge passed a decree for partition in favour of the plaintiffs The defendants in their appeal to the District Court raised for the first time the question of jurisdiction on the strength of the market values stated in the plaint The objection having been overruled, they appealed to the High Court. Held that as neither party raised any question as to want of jurisdiction arising from the allegation in the plaint, and as they by their conduct and silence treated the market value to be the amount sufficient to give jurisdiction to the Court, they dispensed with proof on the question by their tacit admissions, and thus the principle of law laid down in s 58, came into operation and prevented the result of the statement of the market value in the plaint Jose Antonio v Francisco, 12 Bom L R 712 Where the defendants in their written statements admitted that they had executed a deed of mortgage on account of an old the production of the mortgage deed was unnecessary under the provisions of section 58 of the Evidence Act Maung Khan v Maung Myat, 11 Ind Cas 840 Plaintiff sued for redemption alleging that he had sold the land in suit out and out to the defendant for Rs 250 less than 12 years before suit but that at the time of sale a stipulation was made for repurchase by the plaintiff at any time on payment of the purchase money Held that as the plaintiff had admitted in the plaint the factum of an absolute sale in favour of the defendant it was makes solemn admissions against his interest in a pleading, they should be treated as admitted facts, and he will not be heard to question the correctness statements the pleading On this point the case of Mc Gowan v Smith, 26 L J C the other referred to, seem conclusive. A Court, in general, has to try the qsestions on which the parties are at issue, not those on which they are agreed, S. and admissions which have been deliberately suit, whether in pleading or by agreement, mission of any evidence contradicting them that is by reference incorporated Evidence, 457) The point is n ments of the parties a plea or does not directly put in issue st object of what is the

In App at the cause the plaint or in the written statements tendered in the suit which here contain a full assertion and admission of the execution of the document A by the defendant Muncherji But the issues, as they stand, were suggested by the defendant's counsel They waive controversy as to the actual execution of the document, assume it to have been executed, and raise questions only that depend for their plaintiff is not, or to put it in evi-for some purpose on conside effect usua allowed to But an ad exists and that fact subsequent to the date of the admission Lawson's Presumptive Ev 2nd Ed 237, McLeod v Wakeley, 3 C Lord Tenterden C J said 'I do not think, can be extended to a publication after its goes down to its date, but not further" Distinction between evidentiary admissions and admissions by pleadings. There is a distinction between evidentiary admissions and admissions by the pleadings This section governs admissions by pleadings Sadhu v Naa Sigyi, U B R sing with proof evidence, the forn

the fullest sense of the term, is another thing, and involves a totally d the necessity of offer item in the mass of evi with which this sectio need of any evidence course of judicial proce evidence by conceding alleged by the opponent is true Wigmore § 1058 s of husband or wife lose, as a they are to be used in divorce establishes a form of fraudulent her contracts, the contract of and argument of, the parties, and in actions for dissolution of this contract, that is for divorce, admissions are closely scrutinized Although the husband and wife are the parties to the

8. consent of and in the manner pre cribed by the State It necessarily follows that no admissions by either party to the contract, however collusive upon such party, can be conclusive upon the State in a suit for the dissolution of the contract and that such dissolution cannot safely be deemed unless the admission be corroborated by strong proofs Burr Jones § 262 In Williams v Williams, 1 Hagg 299, Lord Stowell says that a confession is a species of evidence which though not inadmissible, is to be regarded with great distrust, while in Mortimer v Mortimer, 2 Hagg 310, the same learned Judge announces that a confession

', though in the upport a charge rris, 2 Hagg ession perfectly s and conduct

ranks among the highest species of evidence The suit for divorce has been called a triangular proceeding sui generis, in which the government occupies the

allow of an accused admittin

In India

there is nothing to prev Criminal Procedure o admissions on matters seems to be no reason his presence at the trial so as to dispense with the attendance of witnesses for the Rat
case

by consent. Per Patteson J in ibid, contra, Phips 11. When the attorneys on both sides had agreed that the formal proofs in perjury should be dispensed with, and that part of the prosecutor's evidence admitted, L Abinger C B said. 'In a criminal case tried on the crown side of the assizes, I can not allow any admission to be made on the part of the defendant unless it is made at the nhill, 8 C & P 575 (1838), Queen v Kazim Mundle, Cr 80; Jeremiah v Vas, 36 ia v Queen Emperor 26 difference Furthermore, I am not convinced that s 58 Evidence Act does not apply to justify the action of the Sessions Judge No doubt in England an admission by an accused, which falls short of his pleading guilty, is not taken into account and is not binding against him But section 58 makes no exception in regard to criminal proceedings and while I do not say that it can be availed of to cure a clear contravention of any directions of the Criminal Procedure Code as to the course of a trial yet I think it can apply in a case like this, which relates only to proceedings of an appellate Court" Bansilal v Emperor, A I R 1928 Bom 241 (24?)=112 Ind Cas 1?0=52 B 686=30 Bom L R 646 But admissions made by a pleader appointed to help the accused in his defence are not binding on him to his prejudice Per Mirza J in ibid This above rule is especially applicable in murder cases Sheo Narain v Emperor, 21 Cr L J 777=58 Ind Cas 457 It is not in accordance with the usual practice to accept a plea of guilty in a case where the natural sequence would be a sentence of death Hasaruddin v Emperor, A I R 1928 Cal 775, see also Emperor v Bhadu, 19 A 119, Laxmaya v Emperor, 19 Bom L R 356, Emperor v China 8 Bom L R 240 The rule is the same in America Vide State v Max 78 Conn 18, where Hamersley J said "It is true that in the trial of capital offences the Court will and should exercise care and discretion in respect to admissions made by the accused or by his Counsel in open Court, and so even a plea of guilty will not ordinarily be accepted" Wigmore § 259?.

Proviso This proviso corresponds to proviso to rule 5 of Order VIII of the Civil Procedure Code Both under section 58 of the Evidence Act and under Order VIII, rule 5 of the Code of Civil Procedure the trial Court has a discretion to require proof of the due attestation of withstanding an admission by the defendant bond had been duly executed Munappa v L W 5=25 M L T 19=19 Ind Cas 278 as the proviso to rule 5 of Order VIII of the Civil Procedure indicates the ht not to be construed Order 19 of the English rder VIII of the Civil Procedure Code does not contain the proviso There the rule of pleading is very stringent According to that rule a defendant who omits to traverse in his defence any allegation of fact in the statement of claim is not allowed to traverse supported by s 58, proviso of the Evidence Act. Bhagwan Das v. Sheoraj, A. I R 1931 Oudh 321=14 O L J 462

59. namely, the case in judgment, without injury to the general administration of justice Gresley on Evid in Equity pp 349, 358, Greenl Ev § 206, Chamberlayne s Ev § 1210

Future of the Doctrine of Judicial Admissions "The doctrine of Judicial Admissions" says Prof Wigmore "has a large future before it, if Judges will but use it adequately In the first place the Judge should apply it to all informal as well as formal admissions by counsel during trial. In the next place the Judge should freely call upon counsel to state whether a fact is in good faith disputed, i e should require admissions to be made, where it seems probable that the fact is not actually disputed By this method, the presentation of evidence will be confined to the dispute It is easy to see how large a m be eliminated how much time would jury would be avoided And this would an existing principle Already in Eng scale in the modern practice of settling issues before masters But it can also be used by the Judge at the trial Wigmore § 2597

Formal Judicial Admissions, conclusive The formal judicial admission party, even in an appellate Court or even on a subsequent trial of the same case, unless formal judicial admission shall have been made for a temporary purpose Chamberlayne's Ev § 1264

CHAPTER IV.

OF ORAL EVIDENCE

Proof of facts by oral evidence

59. All facts, except the contents of documents, may be proved by oral evidence Oral evidence Oral evidence is evidence which is confined to words spoken by the mouth Per Petheram C J in Queen-Empress v Abdulla, 7 A 385 (397) F B It includes all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses in relation to matters of fact under enquiry Vide s 3 It is what the English lawyers call "testimonial evidence" Testimony is a species of evidence by means of witnesses The broader term 'evidence' includes that which is given by witnesses or offered by documents Vide s 3 In People v Kenyon, 5 Park Cr (N Y) 254, 288, Mr Justice Campbell said 'It may be well to bear in mind that there is marked difference between testimony and evidence The latter is much more comprehensive than the former—evidence bei whether by t

produced to a jury from the finding of any issue joined between parties.

S.

"Testimony in legal as well as in common usage, signifies a statement of facts by witnesses, and to disprove the testimony of a witness is to disprove the "facts testified to by him" Burr Jones § 11

Wordings of the section This section is not very happily worded. Contents of documents may be proved by oral evidence under certain circumstances that is to say, when such evidence of their contents is admissible as secondary evidence See section 63 cl 5, section 32, cl 8, Nort Ev 239

Contents of a document cannot be proved by oral evidence It is a cardinal rule of evidence—not one of technicality, but of substance, that, where written documents exist, they shall be produced as being the best evidence of their own contents Pmomoye v Roy Luchmeput 6 C L R 101=7 I A 8 This section is based on the "best eviden . . . enleaf "A fourth rule, which gover . . . which requires the best evidence of . . . This rule does not demand the greatest amount of evidence, which can possibly be given of any fact but its design is to prevent the introduction of any, which, from the nature of the case supposes that better evidence is in the possession of the party It is adopted for the prevention of fraud; for when it is apparent, that the better evidence is withheld it is fair to presume, that the party had some sinister motive for not producing it, and that, if offered, his design would be frustrated The rule thus becomes essential to the pure administration of justice In requiring the production of the best evidence applicable to each particular fact it is meant, that no evidence shall be received, which is merely substitutionary in its nature so long as the original evidence, can be had The rule excludes only that evidence which itself indicates the existence of moral original sources of information But where there is no substitution of evidence, but only a selection of the weaker, instead of stronger proofs, or an omission to supply all the proofs capable of . . . Thus a title by deed must be . . . is within the power of the party, . . . is susceptible, and its non prod . . . tained some matter of apparent de . . . of the deed itself may be prov . . . though the other also is at hand And even the previous examination of a deceased subscribing witness, if admissible on other grounds, may supersede the necessity of calling the survivor. So in proof or disproof of handwriting, it is not necessary to call the supposed writer himself And, even where it is necessary to prove negatively, that an act was done without . . . eneral necessary to call . . . Ev § 82 In the case of . . . held it very dangerous . . . s proved by the testimony of witnesses, the con . . . he Court . . . Similarly in Vincent . . . "I have always (perhaps more . . . rule that what is in writing sl . . . My experience has . . . n of witnesses, how- . . . : they may be so easily . . . strict enforcement of . . . C B 942, Sheridan's . . . st Imam v Hargobind, . . . W R 2 (P C)=2 . . . 1 M I. A 19 (42, 43);

. . . Oral evidence may suffice to pro . . . W R 155; Shee Sahayee v Go . . . 79 Oral evidence, if . . . cription. Meharban v. . . . without documentary . . . v Alima, 8 W R 366. . . . ased relatives will be admitted in the absence of any registers of births and deaths Moheedeen v. Mahomed, 1 Ind Jur O S 132=1 M H C R. 92. It is not valid reason to

9. disbelieve the evidence of a witne

. Rajendur Kishore, 9 W R 125, but see Goluck Chandra v Raja Sreemud Buddhadhar, W R (1864) 136 Oral evidence greement; and, if sufficient, will justify . Nund Mohun, 12 W. R 391 A Judge value, without a pattah and kobuliyat to prove the quantu misdirects himself in Dinoo Singh v Doorg sible to prove an adj Ram, 1 M H of document may adduce oral n v Gueadhur, 20 W R 181 d in ruling that, in the absen is not sufficient to

rabji, 1 B H C writing is admissible

Oral evidence, conflicting and whic decisive conclusion, in the case, and w both sides about the truth of which there can be no doubt. This alone can be the true method of arriving at a correct conclusion Abdul Halim v Rajah Sadat Ali, 108 Ind Cas 817=A I R. 1928 Oudh 155 Statements made by a witness at the trial should be altogether rejected when it is in hopeless conflict with his previous statements P L R. 659=A I R 1925 uncorroborated statement of a 12 years ago and which wa credit This precaution is nowhere more necessary than in this country It is true that there is no precaution of perjury against oral testimony, but it has, I believe been sufficiently confirmed by a long course of experience that anything can be more dangerous than to act upon such testimony, without testing its credibility both intrinsically and extrinsically '. Where there is contradiction of S.

, in order to see
I. A. 103 (107);

of the Judicial facts tending

stan-iction to which they depose, or weakened by the mode in which their speak, it may on, to an extrem it is oral, and un clearly found to exist. It would be very dangerous to exercise the judicial function, as if no credit could necessarily be given to witnesses, deposing viva voce how necessary however it may be always to sift such evidence with great minuteness and care This case was cited with approval in the case of Emperor v Balgangadhar Tilak, 6 Bom L R 324 (330)=28 B 479, see also Wise v. Sandulooniss, 11 M I A 187 (183); Queen v Elahi Bux, B L R (F B) 482. Sittaji v Chinna, 10 M I A. 162, Edu v. Behan 11 W R 345 'But it would be indeed, most dangerous to say that where the probabilities are in favour of the transaction, we conclude against it, solely because of the general fallibility of native evidence. Such an argument would go to an extent which can never be maintained in this or any other Court, for it tends to establish a rule that all oral evidence must be discarded; and it is most manifest that however fallible such evidence may be, however carefully to be watched justice evidence subst be given to not be rejected puted without v Kalanthai, Nachear, 14 M I A 354, 355 Such rejection if sanctioned, would virtually Bunwari v Hitnaram 4 W R 128 (P C) In the words of Baron Parke in Mir Assabullah v Bibi Imaman, 1 M I A 19=5 W R P C 26, 'there is no flicting r, than cases affairs

870=A I R 1927 Sind 20
A
of wou consideration that which he ought to have entered into it consideration, where the evidence but a case should not be decided u which the parties have submitte

9. W. R 438 Evidence of witnesses though not independent, but not shaken in cross-examination and accepted by the Judge who heard them and saw their told by
. 91 (P. C)

test for estimony to the same transaction, and concur in their statement of a series of particular circumstances, and the order in which they occurred, such coincidence exclude all apprehension of mere chance and accident, and can be accounted for only by one or other of two suppositions, either the testimony is true, or the coincidences are the result of concert and conspiracy If, therefore, the independence of the limited, will be c witnesses or Starkie on E

cited in Nort 53.

Test of probability—Sir James F
That
probab lity is the guide of life is an obvio it is probable to whatever extent it generally resembles the common course of human conduct and of physical nature, that it is improbable deviation therefrom, and that it is impossil upon which all language and thought could be in two places at once and that tw four; that it is nonesense unless it can be in some way represented to the mind of this disease or that, and yet to treat with contempt the notion that no one of witchcraft, and to reject all evidence tendered to prove it? Probably no more difficult question can be asked, and I doubt whether there is any which, if fully solved, would be of great practical importance." Stephen's General View of Criminal Law of England pp. 192, 193

Other tests of Probability "Evidence to be believed" said Vice-Chancellor Van Fleet of New Jersey, "must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself—such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable under the circumstances. We have no test of the truth of human [illegible] knowledge, observation and experience. [illegible] to the miraculous, and is outside judicial [illegible] 37 N J Eq 130, 132 But improb [illegible] impossibilities. "A case how unlikely and suspicious so ever, in itself, may be irresistibly proved by the force of testimony," said Sir John Nichol, "Evidence may be such as to substantiate a transaction, however improbable; for it may be such that the falsehood of the evidence would be still more improbable than the fact which it seeks to establish" Saph v Atkinson, 1 Add Eccl 162, 182. In another case the same learned Judge said "It seems hardly possible, on the mere improbability of a statement, to discredit the evidence of a witness of good 59. 213; Maharajah Rajender v Sheopursun, 10 M. I A. 438 So the doctrine "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" in this country affords a test of little or no value, ... a story

at p 29

... if the evidence adduced on both ... the matters in issue The parties using such evidence may have brought himself within the penalties of the criminal law, but the Court should no ...

... by that party, or at least against such portion of that evidence as tends to the same ... It may perhaps also have the further ... ission for the evidence of his opponents ... pressed too far, especially in this country where it happens, not uncommonly, that falsehood and fabrication are employed to support a just cause Goribulla Kazee v Goorodas Roy, 2 W. R (Act X) 99, see also Ramesuar v Bharat, 4 C W N 18 P C, Casperz v Kedarnath, 5 C W N 858 (861) Uncontradicted testimony. I ...

"he who tells nothing exceeding the that they should believe him who ...
Johnson "If witnesses come unimpeached in point of general integrity," said Lord Stowell, "if any depose with character of fairness in their particular narrations the facts must be received, or there is an end of all judicial inquiry Human prudence has done its utmost, has done all that it is capable of doing, in giving every ...
1 Hag Cons 269, judicial proceedin ...

... have no safeguard, and the ... dress of wrongs, if the unim- ... can be overthrown without ... City R Co 50 Misc (N Y) 535. So "if the tribunal is permitted to discredit or disregard such testimony ...

... performed, if it would obtain your ... ve no right arbitrarily, and without ... Harbison, 13 Int Rev 118.

Disinterested witness "A witness of depraved and abandoned character ...

rule that when a disinterested , testifies to in conflict be taken as not be disregarded by Court or jury." Kavanogh v. Wilson, 70 N Y. 177, 179 (Am) testi-Starkie part or of view of the same thing, a single incident, Courts expect minutiæ of their testimonies, basis for discrediting their united testimony to rather to enhance the credit of the witnesses Harenand v Ramgopal, 27 C 639 (P C) = 4 C W "No two witnesses" said Mr Justice Van Buren in In re Lylly 5 N Y Supp 636 nating in the execution of a p agreed in their description of t agreement is all that is required Nana Narain v Huree Pantee, Marshall 436 (P C) It is to be expected that what was will be differently stated by different conversation hear or remember all that wa impressions from what they heard, and of dates or of th Moore on Fact to testify is s contrariety of v Maule, 4 Hag

The Louther C is taken de recenti facto may very well speak with greater certainty and specification as to the facts than other witnesses who testify at a much later time The untruthful nature of the presumption in England here the presumption is, observations of the Privy Indian Courts in Ramar But however true this may are more untrustworthy the fact is to be lamented, score of this difficulty" Nort Ev p 55. Differences are commonly reconciled without resorting to strained and unnatural inferences in aid of either party.

60. Moore on Facts § 839 In a New Jersey Divorce Case, Chief Justice Beasley said "To those who know from experience and reflection the laws which regulate the human memory, it does not seem singular that several persons, in speaking of a past transaction, do not each reproduce it in description with the same fulness of detail; but such is not the vulgar notion. Among the ignorant the strongest proof of the truth of testimony derived from several witnesses is the fact that the statement of each is merely identical with that of others Hence, the exact similarity which we often see in the deposition of corrupt witnesses, whose evidence has been prearranged But in the testimony of these two persons now before me, there are none of the usual marks of collusion No two narrations ... unlike It certainly has every ... currence, observed from different ... 324 (335) (Am); see also Nana v

... Court of New Burns ... pre-concert between ... proves nothing of the ... as manufactured, it ... witness should vary the account in order to avoid suspicion" Corny v Caraquet, R Co, 29 N Burns 425, 436

Sometimes, however, discrepancies are so startling as to make it impossible ... more ... be detected upon some broad collateral fact, than upon the transaction itself Brydges v. King, 1 Hag Ecc 256

Oral evidence must be direct.

60. Oral evidence must, in all cases whatever, be direct; that is to say—if it refers to a fact which could be seen, it must be the evidence of a witness who says he saw it; if it refers to a fact which could be heard, it must be the evidence of a witness who says he heard it; if it refers to a fact which could be perceived by any other sense or in any other manner, it must be the evidence of a witness who says he perceived it by that sense or in that manner;

if it refers to an opinion or to the grounds on which that opinion is held, it must be the evidence of the person who holds that opinion on those grounds:

Provided that the opinions of experts expressed in any treatise commonly offered for sale, and the grounds on which such opinions are held, may be proved by the production of such treatise if the author is dead or cannot be found, or has become incapable of giving evidence, or cannot be called as a witness without an amount of delay or expense which the Court regards as unreasonable:

Provided also that, if oral evidence refers to the existence of S. condition of any material thing other than a document, the Court may, if it thinks fit, require the production of such material thing for its inspection.

Principle The first degree of moral evidence, and that which is most satisfactory to the mind, is afforded by our own senses; this being the direct evidence of the highest nature Where this cannot be had, as is generally the case in the proof of facts by oral testimony, the law requires the next best evidence; namely, the testimony of those who can speak from their own personal knowledge It is not requisite that the witness should have personal knowledge of the main fact in controversy, for this may not be provable by direct testimony, but only by inference from other facts shown to exist But it is requisite that, whatever facts the witness may speak to, he should be confined to those lying in his own knowledge, whether they be things said or done, and should not testify from information given by others, however worthy of credit they may be For it is found indispensable, as a test of truth and to the proper administration of justice, that every living witness should, if possible, be subjected to the ordeal of cross examination, that it may appear what were his known, cannot be subjected to this test, nor is it often possible to ascertain through whom, or how many persons the narrative has been transmitted from original witness of the fact Greenl Ev § 98 "The administration of an oath furnishes some guarantee for the sincerity of the opinion, and the power of value

F 689.

not a party to the suit is not admissible; because such person was not under oath and the opposite party had no opportunity to cross examine" Swift C J. in Chapman v Chapman, 2 Conn 348 Gresham Hotel Co v Manning, Ir. R. 1 C L 125, Vide notes under § 32 pp 464—467 supra.

of any one of ust have received wise received some ent may be given a recollection of called Recollection, or Memory Thirdly, he must communicate this recollection to the tribunal; that is, there must be communication, or Narration, or Relation (for there is no single term entirely appropriate) Now the very notion of taking a human utterance as the basis of belief in the truth of the fact asserted impliedly attributes these three processes to the witness, Perception, Recollection, Narration Whatever principles, therefore, affect the inference from testimonial assertions must have reference to some one or more of these elements

Moreover, in the function fulfilled by each of three elements or processes are to be found in its probative value has in some way o reproduced to us in C perception, or whatever it be called) should adequately represent, or correspond to the fact itself as it objectively existed or exists The strength of the inference depends on the probability of a fairly accurate perception on the part of the witness Again, the function of Recollection is to retain or recall impressions of observation; and the necessary condition of our trust is that Recollection fairly corresponds with or reproduces the original knowledge or Perception Finally, the function of Narration (or, communication) is to reproduce and express, for the apprehension of the tribunal the Recollected results—themselves already retained from Perception Thus, the common aim in the varied

60 problems under this head is to determine whether the story as told represents with fair accuracy the object which the witness once observed and now recollects —Wigmore's Principle of Judicial Proof § 147.

Generic Human Traits affecting Testimony But the individual witness' testimony is affected, not merely by the conditions inherent in these three elements of testimony, but also by certain general traits, common to humanity, on which experience has enabled us to generalize These generalizations affect traits common to large groups of individuals, or to a large classes of situations in which any individual may at times find himself. Hence the conditions ... be studied under two ... Testimonial Capacity ... The principle generic ... ice; (2) Age, (3) Sex; ... erament, (7) Emotion ... ciples of Judicial Proof § 148

Race "In respect to the three elements of testimony, Perception, ... observation have thus ...

... in many sense perceptions than literate peoples having a more compl... of life ...

"(2) Recollection An occasional ... particular race or people is all that ha... the truism that primitive peoples, defe... develop an extra ordinary mnemonic ... sagas, laws, and revelations by the early Greeks, Hebrews, ... and others

"(3) Narration (A) As to relative racial differences in the capacity of expression in words, little or no occasion arises for examining this subject in judicial proceedings (B) As to veracity of aliens in general, and of particular races, considerable knowledge has been made available for us (a) The alien in general, by r... ...round... ings, his racial sentiments, and ... tation both to save himself by ... falsifying in their favour But ... (b) ...

... Basheroonissa, ... ...peror v. Balgangadhar, 28 B. ... ...en v Elahi Bux, B L R (F B) 482, Sitiaji v Chinna, 10 M I A 162, Edu v. Behan, 11 W R 345 But ... the enquiry and ... knowledge of ... luction of his ... ...ma, 4 M. I A ...

Evidence ...

... he may safe... box During ... fruit, and one of its best fruits has been an increasing regard ...

them as the same classes in ...rct their existence among their h El pp XXXI, XXXII.
"Few people, I think, realize are the others Wigmo

that an a particular race of people, is likely to be, in the first place, absolutely incorrect as not founded on facts, in the second place, relatively unjust, as assuming a superiority of honesty which can only be hypothetical; and in the third place, unwise, as tending merely to perpetuate ill feeling and misunderstanding." Wigmore's Principle of Judicial Proof § 155 testimony,

We possess become less keen, and that for recollection the recollection of earlier events becomes more active and that of recent events less active (2) Youthful age, it would seem, is others In recollec-
...n that children below imagination, partly cause of untrained of Judicial Proof § 156 Certain broad rules fined situation I such cases, f age Love and hatred, ambition and hypocrisy considerations of religion and rank, of social position and fortune, are as yet unknown to them, it is impossible that preconceived opinions, nervous irritation, or long experience, should lead them to form erroneous impressions, the mind of the child is but a miror that reflects accurately and clearly what is found before it These are great advantages accompanied by certain corresponding draw backs The greatest is that we can-

, it uses indeed the same ent ideas Further the
...ple The conception of
...uty and ugliness, of dis-from in ours, still more so when facts are in question There is yet another difficulty, the horizon of the child being much narrower than ours, a large number of our perceptions are outside the frame within which alone the child can perceive We are as a rule, too distrustful of the capacity of a child We have rarely found too

60 problems under this head is to determine whether the story as told represents with fair accuracy the object which the witness once observed and now recollects — Wigmore's Principle of Judicial Proof § 147.

Generic .. testimony is separate heads (1) Generic Human in General, (2) The Testimonial Eleme traits can be taken up under the follov (4) Mental Derangement, (5) Moral cl (Bias); (8) Experience (acquired skill § 148.

of life

"(2) Recollection An occasional study of the memory-capacity of a particular race or people is all that has been thus far vouchsafed to us, except the truism that primitive peoples, defending largely upon unaided memory, develop an extra ordinary mnemonic capacity,—as in the oral transmission of sagas, laws, and revelations by the early Greeks, Hebrews, Scandanavians, and others

"(3) Narration (A) As to relative racial differences in the capacity of expression in words, little or no occasion arises for examining this subject in judicial proceedings (B) As to veracity of aliens in general, and of particular races, considerable knowledge has been made available for us (a) The alien in general, by reason of his strangeness to the surroundings, his racial sentiments, and his special dilemmas, has often a temptation both to save himself by falsifying and to save his fellow racials by falsifying in their favour. But this

v Elahi Bux B L R ... Behan, 11 W. R 345 But ... any scientific enquiry and ... are and whose knowledge of ... his

Indian ch
Evidence 106, as reg sufficient predicate o, on the ot he may sa box Dur fruit, and one of its best fruits has been an increasing regard for truth on mere differences of error which is relatively untruthfulness But this All of us know persons probative to us. But we, as knowers of this, must ourselves come before the Court as ordinary witnesses, and how can the tribunal ever be made to believe us and to appreciate the fact as keenly as we do? Moreover, taking as a proved fact this specific trait of veracity or unveracity, is it not the crude abstraction of the layman? Are there not varieties of veracity or unveracity? Can those varieties be discriminated and defined? Can they perhaps be identified in particular persons? If modern psychoanalysis can furnish such data, they will be useful in valuing testimony. Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 159

Temperament But the elements of Recollection and Narration may be affected by other fixed traits than merely that of mendacity or its opposite vera-also is concerned in tracing the variety of temperaments and their influence in impeding correct narration Wigmore's Principle of Judicial Proof § 160 three testimonial elements—Perse some aberration from correct- meant, not merely strong feeling, perception and conscious reasoning Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof. § 161. The physical basis for this effect of emotion or testimony is explained in the following passage "The effect of desire on bel we are to come to a con towards this end on' As to the way count 'This influence of Desire on Belief often operates by simply diverting the attention from counter evidence The mind is so absolutely preoccupied by certain tendencies, that whatever at all, or, if it does, is imme resistance offered by a me dissolve it But the more often they (i e, such beliefs) are acted upon, the more completely they become incorporated with the original conation so as to become an integral part of it, hence the support they receive from it is increased' With l influences Belief that is to say, is by giving pret ideational train sely long for, or especially dread, and by determining the order of ideation to follow, not that of experience, but that which answers to and tends to sustain and prolong the feeling, that its force serves to warp belief, causing it to deviate from the intellectual or reasonable type' Feeling, then, acts in part by warping the intellectual element in Belief

"Emotion is a great source of illusion, because it disturbs intellectual operations It gives a preternatural vividness and persistence to the ideas answering to it, i e the ideas which are its excitants or which are otherwise associated with it; hence when the mind is under the temporary sway of any feelings as, e g, fear, there will be a readiness to interpret objects by help of images r the control of fear will be apt to ever there is any resemblance to " Arnold's Psychology Applied

60. What (2)

Emotion are in general the same as described already in dealing with evidence of human traits generally viz, external circumstances pointing to the simulation of an emotion, conduct or words revealing it interior existence, and a prior or subsequent existence of the emotion The external circumstances are of a great variety—interest in the cause as a party or beneficiary, relationship to a party, occupation, such as banker But no had any rds of the too, no known recepts emotion on a particular witness' testimony (whether in perception recollection or narration) remains also as a problem for the future But under both these heads the books abound with recorded observations of the marked effect of emotion on testimony, and of the various data from which that emotion has been inferred' Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 161

Experience By experience is here meant that succession of mental processes which result in expertness It signifies the frequent repetition of sensations, perceptions, and recognitions of a particular subject so that by concentration the capacity to recognize grows in completeness and accuracy The growth of this experience may take place casually, through one's habit of life, or by deliberate purpose to acquire skill, as in devotion to an occupation, or still further by systematic education in an organised body of knowledge, as with a scientist or an artist Now the influence of experience on capacity to make correct testimonial assertions is double and opposite It may increase the range and accuracy of his perception and narration and it may decrease them Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 162

(1) It may and usually does, increase them because it enables them to perceive details and relations of fact not cognizable without such experience There is literally no limit to the possibilities of enlarging and precisioning the data of judicial proof topics, to develop a bias or fixed idea affecting the perception on certain topics and to induce in narration an obstinate adherence to conclusions already reached on the particular facts This tendency of course varies with the individual and the topic but it is always a latent possibility Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 162

Perception—General Th ception i e, the direct exercis must purport to have existed life and in historical inquiri M because Y told him or a book Z asserted fact

M But in suc assertion by Y or by Z Ir assertion of Y of inference separate the two assertions, i e that of X (testifying to the assertion by Y or by Z, and that of Y or Z (testif ... Hence the element of sense perception by X is ass as entering into all testimony basis of judicial action If in a book the assertion by Y th ...

make the assertion, and our further examination is required for Y's assertion M Y's assertion is hearsay (in both the ut we give testimonial consideration to it is X's —Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 163

Senses – General considerations "The sensation brought to the brain by means of the optic nerve becomes the condition of the representation in consciousness of certain objects distributed in space We make use of the sensation which the light stimulates in the mechanism of the optic nerve to construct representations concerning the existence, form and condition of

of the individual The narrowest, smallest, most particular issuing glance is that of the most foolish; and the broadest, most comprehensive and comparing glance, that of the most wise This is particularly noticeable when the time of observation is short visual sensations are the most numerous and the most important Anybody who has been pushed or beaten, and has felt the blows, will if other circumstances permit and the impulse be strong enough, be convinced that he has seen his assaulter and the manner of the assault Sometimes people who are shot at will claim to have seen the flight of the ball It is fortunate that, as a rule such people try to be just in answering to questions which concern this substitution of one sense perception for another.

"Still more s derable importance, It consists in the noticeable interruption, when the stimulus does not, as a rule, give rise to that perception . In a case in Court, there was a shooting in some house and an old peasant woman, who was busy sewing in the room, asserted that she had just before the have come the person i preceding ones But I am convinced that the witness told the truth The steps of the new arrival were perceived subconsciously, the further disturbance of the perception hindered her occupation and finally, when she was frightened by the shot, the upper levels of conscions were illuminated and the noises which had already reached the subconsciousness passed over the threshold and were consciously perceived

Criminal Psychology, 1911 § 35 p 187

Mistakes of senses, Illusions "As sensation is the basis of knowledge, the sensory process must be the basis of the correctness of legal procedure. The they heard, no harm would be done, but they tell us only what they suppose to be the meaning, and hence we get a good many mistakes. It does seem as if [illegible] are able to shut their ears to all things [illegible] ly sensory perception is organized according [illegible]

"The determination of auditory power is, however, insufficient, for this power varies with the degree any individual can distinguish a single definite tone among many, hear it alone, and retain it. And this varies not only with the individual but also with the time the place, the voice, etc. It is repeatedly asserted, e g by [illegible] ple do not hear high tones [illegible] hearing of such people is not [illegible] distinguish them with difficu [illegible]

[illegible] These data, which are for us q [illegible] to many tests Wundt's statement has [illegible] which have shown that sounds to the right [illegible] and sounds in the front and below, in front to the right and to the left, and [illegible] least easily distinguished Among the [illegible] Kries, Munsterberg All these experiments [illegible] definite mistakes Sounds in front are often mistaken for sounds behind and felt to be higher than their natural head level [illegible] hearing is of great importance [illegible] With one ear this recognition is [illegible] may be verified by the fact that we turn our heads here and there as though to compare directions whenever we want to make sure of the direction of sound In this regard, too, a number of effective [illegible] determine whether the [illegible], it is best to get the [illegible] h ears, and whether he [illegible] who hear excellently [illegible] sound Others again [illegible] skill from practice, sense of locality, etc But in any case, certainty can be obtained only by experimentation

"The differences that age makes in hearing are of importance Bezold has examined a large number of human ears of different ages and indicates that after the fiftieth year there is not only a successive decrease in the number of the approximately normal hearing, but there is a successively growing increase in the degree of auditory limitation which the ear experiences with increasing age The results are more surprising than is supposed . Old women can hear better than old men" Hans Gross Criminal Psychology, Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 168 [illegible] he sense of taste is rarely of [illegible] ince it is regularly very significant [illegible] poisoning. At the same time, it is necessary, when tests are made, to depend upon general, and rarely constant impressions, since very few people mean the same thing by stinging, prickly, metallic, and burning tastes, even though the ordinary terms sweet, sour, bitter, and salty, may be accepted as approximately constant"—Hans Gross Criminal Psychology, Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 170.

[illegible]

know, and that they may learn more by means of them than by means of the [illegible]

60. associations are awakened, they are not ascribed to the sense of smell, but are said to be accidental Ibid; Ibid § 172.

The sense of Touch. "I combine, for the sake of simplicity, the senses of location, pressure, temperature, etc, under the general expression sense of touch The problem this sense raises is no easy one, because many witnesses tell of perceptions made in the dark or when they were otherwise unable to see, and because much is perceived by means of this sense in assaults, wounds, and other contracts In most cases such witnesses have been unable to observe the touched parts of their bodies, so that we have to depend upon this touch sense alone Full certainty is possible only when sight and touch have worked together and rectified one another" Ibid; Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 174

General Theory of Memory and ... here be used to mean the initial proc ...

... Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof ...
... association of ideas is our recollection and memory which are only next to perception in legal importance in the knowledge of the witness Whether the witness wants to tell the truth is, of course, a question which depends upon other matters; but whether he can tell

... variously organized function ... d much more so when every-

... gation. We find little instruction ... vell as our mistakes are thereby in- ... Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 192 Differenc ... men exhibit ... known, this ... promptness o ...

ment of rapid ...
forgetfulness, ... but approxima ...
the field of greatest memory As a rule, it may be presupposed that a memory which has developed with special vigour in one direction has generally done this ...

unreliable . . .
memory and can alarming, and people have bare

al people do, and which the important point they e to describe important

Children

witness in the world We hav the child's mind to wipe out has made a systematic study conclusion that the scope of memory is measured by the child's capacity of concentrating its attention

"That aged persons have, as is well known, a good memory for what is long past, and a poor one for recent occurrence, is not remarkable It is to be explained by the fact that age seems to be accompanied with a decrease of energy in the brain, so that it no longer assimilates influences, and the imagination becomes dark and the judgment of facts incorrect . .

as pointed out i within the limits take in a matter and partly mechanical, and the educated rarely have the latter kind because they have developed the former at its expense; high mental power is seldom combined with good mechanical memory" Hans Gross Criminal Psychology, Wigmore's Principles of Judicial Proof § 193.

Narration—General Principles of. The third element forming an essential part of all testimony is the process of laying before the tribunal the witness's results of his Perception and his Recollection, i e the prosess of Narration or communication In this element, as in the other two, there are many opportunities for errors fatal to testimonial trustworthiness As with the elements of Perception and of Recollection so here also, experience has shown that certain dangers are to be looked for What these dangers and defects are depends upon the specific virtue which this possess Its office is to recollection of the witness, useful or trivial Its pri reproducing and expressing the witness's Recollection then, if his Narration or communication fairly represents and corresponds to his Recollection, and is intelligible by value are complete, but not otherwise in either of these respects, namely, in or in intelligibility, then its value d defects occur in the former respect, i e an absence, actual or probable, of this correspondence between the witness's uttered statement and his conscious recollection which he ought to be stating In the other respect, i e intelligibility to the tribunal of the witness's utterance, comparatively few questions arise Wigmore § 210 ). Hearsay evidence, meaning of—and why it is discarded The term "hearsay" is used with reference to that which is written, as well as that which is spoken; and, in its legal sense, i derive its value solely from the rests also in part on the competen and seeming exceptions, the general rule of law rejects all hearsay reports of transactions witnesses given to a tests enjoined by the law for ascertaining the correctness and completeness of his testimony, namely, that oral testimony should be delivered in the presence heard, or was misunderstood, or is not accurately remembered, or has been perverted It is also to be observed, that the persons communicating such evidence are not exposed to the danger of a prosecution for perjury, in which something more than the testimony of one witness is necessary, in order to a conviction, for where the declaration or statement is sworn to have been made son who is since dead, it is hardly imony is an entire fabrication 6 To these may be added consi-incur in order to rebut or explain it, the occasioned, the multiplication of collateral issues for decision by the jury, and the danger of losing sight of the main question and of the justice of the case if this sort of proof were admitted, are considerations of too grave a character to be overlooked by the Court or the Legislature, in determining the question of changing the rule Mima Queen v, Hepburn, 7 Cranch 290, 296, per Marshall C J; Greenl Ev § 99(a)

Oath One of the objections against Hearsay evidence is that it is not given on oath by the person who has got personal knowledge of a fact. But the utility of oaths in any shape has been strongly questioned Benth Jud Ev Bk 2 ch 6 The good man, it is sometimes said, will speak the truth without an oath, while th T the following answer has bee without an oath, of mankind are cases of importar more solemn en boldly say what which they mak

they promise, and careful what they assert, puts them upon exactness in every circumstances, and circumstances are often very material things Even the good might be too negligent, and the bad would frequently have no concern at all, about their words, if it were not for the solemnity of this religious act.

Archbishop Secker, as cited in Ram on Facts, Best Ev § 59 'Of the two main facts which impair the probative force of an unsworn statement used as hearsay, lack of oath and the absence of cross examination, probably the latter is, at the present time, Indeed the importance of the oath is n cross ex mination than as a valuab Chamberlayne's Ev § 2712

Cross examination and confrontation Another essential requirement of the Hearsay rule, as just examined, is that statements offered testimonially must be subjected to cross-examination But a process commonly spoken of as confrontation is also often referred to as an additional and accompanying test or as the sole test The main purpose of confrontation is for facilitating cross-examination But it also involves a subordinate and incidental advantage, namely, the observation by the tribunal of the demeanour of the witness on the stand, as a minor means of judging the value of his testimony But this minor advantage is not regarded as essential i e it may be dispensed with when it is however the essential object of confrontation, gh to note here that, so far as confrontation is Hearsay Rule, it is merely another name for tion Wigmore § 1365 The policy of the Anglo-Indian system of cross examination as a vita for testing the value of no statements (unless by special it has been proved and supplemented lengthening experience Not even peculiarities which are so often found associated with cross examination have availed to nullify its value It is beyond any doubt the greatest legal engine ever invented for the discovery of truth A lawyer can do anything with a cross examination,—If he is skilful enough not to impale his own cause upon it Wigmore § 1367

Scope of the section The expression "it must be evidence" in paras 2 3 and 4 of the section means "the oral evidence must be evidence" Whitely Stokes Vol II p 889 So also the word "it" after the words 'saw" 'heard' or 'perceived' in paras 2, 3 and 4 to' Neelkanto v Juggobandhu, 12 B L R l II p 889 The first four paragraphs have not direct whether the party against whom it is tendered objects or not Whitely Stokes Vol II p 889 But it was never intended by this section to exclude circumstantial evidence of a thing which could be seen, heard or felt Karali v East India Co 48 C L J 32=111 Ind Cas 792—A I R 1928 Cal 498 So where a crowd has dispersed without taking any action the intention and common object of circumstances and section 45 or of which they are allowed to express their opinion See ante The cogency of this section as to t of the only to which the immediate the exploded technical language hearsay A who saw, heard etc, must be produced The fact cannot be proved through the medium of B who did not see himself etc, but is prepared to swear that A told him that he had seen, heard, etc So with respect to the fourth case, opinion evidence, when such is

60. admissible, this section necessitates the production of the witness who holds the opinion, it excludes the evidence of any witness who can merely say that he has heard another express such opinion. Nort. Ev. p 210. This section says that oral evidence must be direct. Kalmther v. Ma Mi, 3 Bur. L. J. 172=2 Rang. 400. An act of deposing is a physical act which can always be proved by any one who has heard the statement being made, the fact of deposing might be proved by any one who has seen and heard the witness. Ganapathi v. Sakharayappa, A. I. R. 1929 Mad. 187=115 Ind. Cas. 147. Hearsay evidence is inadmissible

Sarup v. Emperor, 7 Lah L J 264=88 Ind. Cas. 22=26 Cr. L. J. 1078=26 P. L R. 566=A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 299.

Evidence of a person who saw it or heard it. "The witness must say what he had 'seen and heard; he was an 'oyant et voyant.'" Thayer. Pre Ev. 524. Thus a favourite passage, found in several works in the last century, is: "It seems agreed that what another has been heard to say, is no evidence, because said . . . . Hearsay testimony is from the very nature of it attended with all such rule, and stands or falls according to such other evidential rules as may affect it. Greenl. Ev § 100 But ... S. facts except the contents must, in all cases be dire ... witness that he perceived by his own senses the fact to which he testified" Steph Intro p 141 If therefore, A, a witness, had been told something by B, and A were asked what B had told him, the evidence of A would refer to a fact which could be heard, and A is a witness who says he heard it, this section, therefore would not exclude it. Markby Ev p 52 A statement made by an accused person immediately after a murder of what the deceased told him is relevant as

Hearsay

Act says that oral evidence must in all cases be direct If a person by merely about it, he is giving hearsay evidence The man who reads out the document to him would certainly be entitled to give evidence of its contents But another person who repeats what is read out to him is giving hearsay evidence, of what would be legitimate secondary evidence were it before the Court Kalenther Ammal v Ma Mi, 81 Ind Cas 175=3 Bur L J 17?=A I R 1924 Rang 363 earsay evidence, Nga v Crown,

Queen v Kali, 7 W R Cr 2; Rajoni v Asan, 2 ... 7 W. R.
Cr 25, Aman Ali v King Emperor, 1 Cr L J 631; Queen Empress v Nga Ta, ... Empress v Viju Bhai, 1 Bom L R 433, In re Vaithilinga, 2 Weir 762 In order to that the comit is necessary ordance with s 60 of the Evidence Act Empress v Arshed Ali, 13 C L R 125

It is admissible evidence for a witness to ...e of a family custom, and to state as grounds
... from deceased persons But, it must be the expression o... tion of hearsay P C A person that except the pe...
Ev p 53 So ... opinion must be produced A witness cannot be allowed to say that he has heard another express such an opinion Nort Ev 240.

this novel section, however, makes any book of science published for sale evidence, if the author be dead, or under any of the circumstances specified in section 32, which render his production impossible or impracticable Nort Ev 240 It must be remembered in regard to foreign law that by s 38, certain books are always admissible. Markby Ev 53 Under the provisions of the penultimate paragraph of s 57 and of the first proviso of s 60 of the Evidence Act, Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence may be referred to Hatim v Empress, 12 C L R 86, Hurry Churn v Empress 10 C 143, see also Howe v Howe, 25 M L J 594 (F B), Granade v Com of Calcutta 29 C W N 745=28 C L J 32=46 Ind Cas 593 But in all c...
Purno, 28 C W N 579 delay or expense Cun Ev 215.

Proviso II. Proviso 2 relates to those cases in which secondary evidence is permitted to be given on account of the great inconvenience or impracticability 60.

ons on walls, monuments, surveyors s or oral testimony Mortimer v Bolton, 2 Camp 108, R v Fursay artholomew v Stephens, 8 C & P ones v Turlton, 9 M & W 65 But written characters exist on some ts removal for production would be removable it ought to be pr Wills Cir Ev 212. In Jo production was required fas . l down the law thus "T the case of things fixed in break up his free-hold So power is given to tl not a physical impossibility Nort Ev 240.

the interpreter must be called to testify to what B aid to him If, however, B is a party, when admissions egarded as B's agent, and the ag nguage understood by the witness)

Telephone communications Evidence as to what a person holding a conversation over the telephone told the witness was said by the person at the

In any case, the doctrine of admissions may be invoked where one of the If B had sent of the requirement of personal knowledge is here out of place, and leads to unpractical quibbles" Wigmore § 669

Market value Testimony as to market value on information derived from daily communications is not objectionable as being based upon hearsay Testimony of witnesses based upon such reports may be received Chamberlayne's Ev § 2708

CHAPTER V.

OF DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Documentary evidence There is practically no controversy as to the meaning of the word document, because a definition of the term is given in this Act (vide s 3 supra) Stephen defines documentary evidence as "documents produced for the inspection of the Court or the Judge". Steph on Ev, Art 1

S.

Documents being inanimate things, necessarily come to the cognizance of the tribunals through the medium of human testimony; for which reason some old authors have denominated them dead proofs (probatio mortua), in contradistinction to witnesses, who are said to be living proofs (probatio viva). Best Ev §
, and in many respects in trustworthiness, been noticed from the earliest times, The false relations of what never took consequenc attainment. Best Ev. § 60 "I er" says Lumpkin J. of Georgia in h than the strongest and most retentive memory ever bestowed on mortal man" "The memory of men as to facts is not satisfying to the mind as a writing, in an investigation involving p Bunwarilal ton observed oral eviden

cases cast upon it, but where the defence is rested upon a written document as a relea e, there is an essential difference, for its genuineness, on the contrary may be shewn by many facts and circumstances very different from mere oral evidence; and, moreover, the witnes

Rep 705, 706 (Am)

Three distinct questions with regard to documentary evidence There are three distinct questions which are dealt with in the Act in regard to that kind of evidence which is called documentary First, there is the question how the s 59 with ss 61 and 64, the result document must, in general, be , 'primary evidence,' but there are otherwise Evidence used to prove the contents of a document which is not 'primary' is called 'secondary' Markby Ev pp 56, 57

Proof of contents of documents

61. The contents of documents may be proved either by primary or by secondary evidence.

63 Primary evidence

62. Primary evidence means the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court.

Explanation 1.—Where a document is executed in several parts, each part is primary evidence of the document.

Where a document is executed in counterpart, each counterpart being executed by one or some of the parties only, each counterpart is primary evidence as against the parties executing it.

Explanation 2.—Where a number of documents are all made by one uniform process, as in the case of printing, lithography, or photography, each is primary evidence of the contents of the rest; but where they are all copies of a common original, they are not primary evidence of the contents of the original

Illustration.

A person printed at one evidence of the co the contents of the original Secondary evidence.

63. Secondary evidence means and includes—

(1) certified copies given under the provisions hereinafter contained,*

(2) copies made from the original by mechanical processes which in themselves insure the accuracy of the copy, and copies compared with such copies;

(3) copies made from or compared with the original;

(4) counterparts of documents as against the parties who did not execute them ;

(5) oral accounts of the contents of a document given by some person who has himself seen it.

Illustrations

vidence of its contents that the thing photo by a copying machine t is shown that the copy evidence of the original, although the compared with the original

(d) Neither an oral account of a copy compared with the original, nor an oral account of a photograph or machine copy of the original, is secondary evidence of the original.

Scope of the section 61. "This section lays down that the contents of documents may be proved either by primary or by secondary evidence, and I understand the rule to mean that there is no other method allowed by law for proving the contents of documents Section 72 defines the meaning of primary evidence; s 63 describes what constitutes secondary evidence within the meaning [illegible] ghunandan Prosad, 7 A 738 [illegible] rule which exacts original [illegible] no evidence shall be received [illegible] from some other which is withheld Per Parke B in Doe d. Welsh v Langfield, 16 M & W 127; Doe d Gilbert v. Ross, 7 M & W 102, 106; Macdonell v. Evans, 11 C. B 930, 942, per Maule J; Best Ev § 89 Melius (or Satius) est petere fontes quam sectari [illegible] hearsay evidence. Best § 89 All private documents must be produced, and the execution of them generally be proved, or their absence must be duly accounted for, and their loss supplied by secondary evidence Greenl Ev. 558.

* See s 76, infra.

[illegible] instrument is to be proved, the primary evidence is the testimony of the subscribing witness, if there be one Until it is shown that the production of the primary evidence is out of the party's power, no other proof of the fact is in general admitted All evidence falling short of this in its degree is termed secondary The question, whether evidence is primary or secondary, has reference to the nature of the case in the abstract, and not to the peculiar circumstances under which the party in the particular cause or trial may be placed It is a distinction of law, and not of fact; referring only to the quality, [illegible] arries on its face no [illegible] out primary And [illegible], yet if there are [illegible] it is not ordinarily [illegible] secondary evidence can be resorted to Greenl Ev § 84 According to the Indian Evidence Act, primary evidence means the document produced for the inspection of the Court (s 62) Where a document is executed in counterpart, each counterpart, being executed by one or [illegible] primary evidence as against [illegible] as against the other parties [illegible] Vol II p 290 The follov[illegible] given by Lord Esher M R [illegible] "'Primary' and 'secondary' [illegible] which the law requires to be given first, [illegible] may be given in the absence of better evidence which the law requires to be given first, when a proper explanation is given of the absence of that better evidence" is that the rule requiring the prod evidence, but a rule preferring the thin which if produced is not primary e term tends to conceal the true nature of the rule's effect The other objection is that, so far the term is understood to group together all rules exacting a certain quality of evidence when it is available, it groups rules which are in the Attesting united On to clarify the independent

Scope of section 62 Primary evidence means the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court The fundamental notion of producing the primary evidence is that the terms of a writing must be proved by producing it and not by offering testimony about them Wigmore § 1232. Where the writing constituting a bilateral transaction is executed by the parties in duplicate or multiplicate, each of these parts is the writing, because by act of the parties each is as much the legal act as another It can make no difference that one party has signed only the document taken red tc re, 2 Camp.
the counterparts of each other, one of which is delivered to the oppc both be considered as originals, one which is preserved may the one which was delivered" See also Doe v Putman, (1842) 3 Q B Colling v Frewick, 6 B & C 398; Roe v Davis, 7 East 363 'The earlier practice seems to have been to treat the counterpart of a deed as a copy or secondary as may be inferred from utterances of Best C J. in Munn v Godbold, 3 Bing 292 There the learned Judge said "Where there are two instruments executed as parts of a deed, one of these parts is more authentic and satisfactory evidence of the contents of the other part than any other draft or copy It is prepared with more care than the other copy, and the party who produces it, and against whom it is used, by taking and keeping it as a part of the deed, admits its accuracy The Courts have therefore always required that if one part of a deed be lost, and another part be in existence, it must be produced, but merely as secondary evidence of the part that was lost" Wigmore § 1233; see also Doe v Wainwright, 1 New & P 8 Burchell v Clarke, 2 C P. D 88, Mathews v Smallwood, (1910) 1 Ch 777 Formerly a deed was written on parchment commencing from the middle, the other part was written in a similar way, up primary evidence of the original document. Thus probate of a will of personalty v Hunt, 6 Ch D 2 Ch 330, and wl contained in a will, only Pl n Ev 7th

, in writing
latterie v. Pooley, e applies where 155 R v Hunt,

3 B & Ald 566, Phip Ev 7th Ed 518.

Explanation I The expressions executed "in parts' and in "counterpart', in section 62, refer to the mode in which documents are sometimes executed It is convenient sometimes that each party to a transaction should have a complete document in his own possession. To effect this, the document is written out as many times over as there are parties, and each document is executed, i e. signed or sealed as the case may be, by all the parties. No one of these is more the original than the other, and any one of them may be produced as primary

Where there are by each party both 3 K B 706, 721; Phip Ev 7th Ed. 516 paper does not differ from a an alike, therefore, only be under such circumstances as e, if the original is shown , notice d copy Watson, r better bine at nber of

in a newspaper, primary evidenc Chandra v Emp But if it were y, but only secondary evidence conditions which render the Ev 242 Where the accused caused 500 placards to be printed and carried away 25 of them for posting, one of the remainder can be admitted to prove the contents of those posted because every one of those worked off are originals, in the nature of duplicate originals The reason me press, they must all be the same R v Ellenborough L C J said, "An order 1 Watson fetched away 25, by the ld be great weight in the obj originals, the manuscript is the same press, they must all carbon copy is no more better signed or executed than a letter-press copy—as a fact, the signature is not always reproduced on the carbon as it is in the press-copy letter which is usually copied after signature But where a document is executed in counterpart, each party signing only the part by which he is bound, each counterpart, is the best evidence against the party signing it and his privies As to the other party it is only secondary evidence. Roe v. Davis, 7 East. 362,

3. Collin

Munn

of the

of a therec

in int

the juc

v Sec

Jaigop

259 for ma

Ind C

(F B

the te same to settle the possession of his father, does not make the docu

Hrishikesh, 49 C L. J 546=A I. I abstracted in a judgment is not even cannot be made use of in lieu of 29 Ind Cas 463=60 M L J. 13=A evidence of a document which is otherwise ument is lost Ma Ague v. Maung San Yank,

A I R 1929 Rang 181 A register containing copies and copied directly from the originals is legally admissible in evidence in proof of them Chandram v Sheonath, A I R 1931 Oudh 1 document, which is not prove ever existed A defamatory l was prosecuted as being the deposed to such a letter ever having been written by the accused copy of the newspaper was not secondary evidence of the original letter Ramlal v King

Ind Cas 852 The question admitted depends largely o

conclusion should not be overruled by the Court of appeal except in a very clear case of miscarriage Visvanatha v Bahibai, A I R 1931 Bom 105=55 B 103

s 76 Copies

sworn copies examined copy,

in the sense that the original and the copy have been examined or compared together by the witness, either in his own act of transcription or by taking some Evidence Act, and are used chiefly to prove corporations and companies, by laws and th copy of a Will is admissible in evidence is proved. Theli Kicherla v

Mad 345 47 M L J. 906; Bo certified copy of a document conditions and contents of it, b

Koeri, 82 Ind Cas 306. A ment, in which there may be references to it, is not the secondary evidence of the contents of the document, especially when it appears that it is itself based on secondary evidence of the document given by a party who had this original with him Hira Lal v Ganesh Prasad, 1 A. 106 P. C = 9 I A 61 = 11 C L R. 109.

Clause (2). ... evidence In re ... Re Stephens, L. R ... ton 30 Ir L T. ... secondary evidence, ... wish to prove w... to the first portion of this clause ... So under this clause a copy ...

13. This clause is applicable to blue prints ...e, 212 Ill 89), as well as to carbon copies as it ...d of copy than that taken in the copying press Burr Jones § 209 All that is required under this clause is that the copies must be made by some mechanical processes which would ensure the accuracy of the ...

Clause (3) A copy merely as a piece of paper, has no standing as evidence ... qualified ...e § 1277 ... ne is not ...mparison, or as sometimes, two witnesses, one of whom read the original, while the other read the copy, or the reverse But it will save trouble to have the comparison made by one and the same perso... Ev 96, Maung Po v Ma Shu ... Kim, 9 C 939 A copy in short, ... of a witness The witness, therefore, must be qualified, and thus the general principle of witness's qualifications have here certain applications A general principle for witness's qualification is that he must speak from personal ... it therefore in ... own personal ... others Upon ...

... copy, is rather in the nature of a rule of preference, requiring first the use of an immediate copy, if one is available Wigmore § 1274 This view was adopted by Justice Story in Winn v Patterson, 9 Pet 663, 677 where he observed "The ...

with it, for then it is second remove from the original; or where it is copy of a copy of a record, the record being still in existence by law deemed as high as the original, for then also it is a second remove from the record But it is quite a different question whether it applies to cases of secondary evidence where the original is lost, or the record of it is not in law deemed as high evidence as the original, or where the copy of a copy is the highest proof in existence. On these points we give no opinion; because this is not in our judgment the case of a mere copy of a copy verified as such, but it is the case of a second copy verified as a true copy of the original" Under section 57 of the Indian Registration Act, (XVI of 1908), all copies of copies given under that section and signed and dmissible for the purpose of proving the r Bhanrao, 78 Ind Cas 865=A I R 2 W R 303, Smart v Williams, Comb ch evidence is thus stated in Stetson v Gulliver, 2 Cush 494, 499 "When the book of the register would be evidence, a certified copy is entitled to have the same effect; there being very little ground to apprehend any mistake from that cause, and upon consideration of the great public inconvenience which would result from having the books of record removed from their proper custody and place of security," Wigmore § 1275

According to the orthodox English rule a copy of a copy is not admissible in evidence in as much as in the words of Alderson B "there would be no limit to the reception of secondary evidence if that were so This is but the shadow of the shade" Everingham v Roundell, 2 Moo & Rob 138; see also Tillard v Shebbe
follows
L T 4
of the 147=2 law la Umora
14 M 1
Field 1 parties
125, A
when which the ap Lochan v Pandit Harinath, 1 Pat 606, Chiminan v Dhinkar, 11 B 320, Lakshman v Fatima, of a pa Madras 1
practice
the printing of the High Court paper, that before giving the final order for striking off, it would
A I R 1929 Mad 18 Sanloki v Rameswar, compared with the ori with the original depo Pat 61=5 Pat 777

Clause (4) Execution in counterpart is a method of execution which is in itself but supplements the other. Baidya Nath v. Kamini Kant, 6 C. L. J. 572; Andrews v. Wirral, R. C. (1916) 1 K. B. 863.

6

Clause (5). The oral account of the contents of a document given by some person who has merely seen it with his own eyes but is unable to read it is not secondary evidence of the document: the word "seen" in section 63(5) of the

l
l

Ghore and others v Chatrapal Singh, 12 A. L. J. 239=23 Ind Cas. 11 So where in order to prove a mortgage the only witness called was an illiterate person he cannot be deemed to within section 63(5) of the Evid 557=A I R 1922 All 232 that under this clause only a witness who has seen the document and who could have read the document in its original state is entitled to give oral evidence of it. Ramji Das v Mohan Lal, 71 Ind Cas 651=1923 A 411 But in Pudai Singh v. Brij Mangal, 73 Ind Cas. 651 it was held that as regards the letting in of secondary evidence the word "seen" in section 63(5) includes also "read over" in the case of a witness who is illiterate and as such cannot himself read it If it is read over to him it will satisfy the requirements of the section. In Mohan Lal v Ramji Das, 80 Ind Cas. 939=22 A L J 861, which was an appeal from

v Chatrapal Singh, supra After hearing the matter very fully argued we have come to the conclusion with great respect to these two Judges, and we are unable to agree The critical words in the section are 'seen it' The result of the decision would be, for example, that a highly educated person knowing noal document in contents and had person who knew that the English nemory, could not although, he had exists The first three sub sections of s 63 refer to copies made from or compared that if a person has only seen a copy of a document, there are two chances altogether, and therefore evidence given by him could be of a different category to the secondary evidence allowed by law and a person who has seen a copy evidence of the contents of the L J 172=84 Ind Cas 175=A I

3.

Kalender Ammal, 31 C W N 621 (P C)=54 I 18=100 Ind Cas 1=29 Bom L R 800 Allahabad High Court reported in 22 A L 13 and 73 Ind Cas 651 are no longer good law the contents of a document by some person clause means oral evidence by some person who has seen those contents, that is who had read the document Evidence that the witness only saw the document and heard it read contents are concerned an oral evidence generally, viz, evidence of a witness who sa fact which can be seen on Raghubir, 112 Ind Cas 310. Statements of persons wh sible in evidence What is required is an oral judgment or decree by some one who had read to a document which is document. Rati Pal v Udai Bhan, 53 Ind Cas 667 A translation of a document is not secondary evidence Ambalavana v Kuppachi, 4 L W. 330=35 Ind Cas 20; 26 Ind Cas 618; see also 70 Ind Cas 107 Where in prior proceedings between the parties one of them admitted the existence and contents of a mortgage deed, such admission constituted a good secondary evidence within the meaning of this clause Bahadur v Madho, 36 Ind Cas 696 An objection to the admission of secondary evidence, if not raised at the time it is admitted, cannot be allowed to be raised in special appeal Where the plaintiff attempted to prove the contents of certain documents by oral evidence, but the evidence fell short of what is requir witness was not properly q the penalty of the dismi of the legal adviser who 24 W R 232 Survey

y evidence of the contents of the 63 or under any other section of the Evidence Act Sale Oral evidence canno of which are dispute is not merely the asked whether certa O Connell, Arm & his account books; the best evidence, must be 24 Bom L R P C 565 have been reduced to wr 66 Ind. Cas 360 evidence "Another gener luction of secondary evide the law recognises no degrees in the various kinds of such evidence. Doe v Ross, 7 M & W. 102; Hall v Ball, 10 L J, C P. 285; Brown v Woodman, 6 C & P 206, Jeans Wheedon, 2 M & Rob 486" Taylor Ev § 550 In Doe v Ross, 7 M & W 102, the question was whether an attested copy of a deed was preferred tion in the

to the jury, from whic . . . S back would be adverse . distinction between one . case Ilerson B said

the nature of the evidence itself If you produce a copy which shows that there was an original or if you give parol evidence of the contents of deed the evidence itself discloses the existence of the deed But reverse the case, the existence of an original does not show the existence of any copy nor does parol evidence of the contents of a deed show the existence of anything except the deed itself If one species of secondary evidence is to exclude another a party tendering parol evidence of a deed must account for all the secondary evidence that has existed He may know nothing but the origin and the other side at any trial may defeat him by showing a copy the existence of which he had no means of ascertaining Fifty copies may be in existence unknown to him, and he would be bound to account for them all Wigmore § 1268 Similarly in Brown v Woolman 6 C & P 206 Parke J said There are no degrees of secondary evidence" See also Sugden v Lord St Leonards L R 1 P D 154, Brown v Brown 27 L J Q B 173, Doe v Cole, 6 C & P 359, Fisher v Samuda 1 Camp 193, Kensington v Inglish 8 East 273 279 But in some of the old English cases the rule laid down was otherwise In Ludlam's Will Loft 362, Lord Mansfield C J said If you cannot prove a deed by producing it, you may produce the counterpart if you cannot produce the counterpart, you may produce a copy, even if you cannot prove it to be true copy if a copy cannot be produced you may go into the parol evidence of the deed" This rule was also adopted by Lord Hardwicke L C in Omichund v Barker, 1 Atk 21 (49) and in Villiers v Villiers 2 Atk 27 The English no preference is But in America

m Prof Leaf's
er the law recog nizes any degrees in the various kinds of secondary evidence and requires the party offering that which is deemed less certain and satisfactory first to show that nothing better is in his power, is a question which is not perfectly settled On the one hand the affirmative is urged as an equitable extension of the principle which postpones all secondary evidence until the primary is accounted for, and it is said that the same reason which requires the production of a writing if within the power of a party also requires that if the writing is lost, its contents shall be proved by a copy if in existence rather than the memory of a witness who has read it, and that the secondary proof of a lost deed ought to be marshalled into first the counterpart secondly a copy, thirdly the abstract, etc, and, last of all the memory of a witness On the other hand it is said ounds all distinc tion betwee that the rule is founded u on its strength or weakness, and that to carry it to the length of establishing degrees in secondary evidence as fixed rules of law, would often tend to the subversion of justice and always be productive of inconvenience If for example proof of the existence of an abstract of a deed will exclude oral evidence of its contents this proof may be withheld by the adverse party until the moment of trial and the other side be defeated or the cause be greatly delayed, and the same mischief may be repeated through all the different degrees of evidence It is therefore insisted that the rule of exclusion ought to be restricted to such evidence only as upon its face discloses the existence of better proof and where the evidence is not of this nature it is to be received notwithstanding it may be shown from other sources that the party might have offered that which was more satisfactory y the jury under all the circum (9) The American doctrine this that if from the nature believed that the rule laid down in Doe v Ross, 7 M & W 102, is more of a document is not ... the contents of the original Kalenther ... Ind Cas 175=A I R. 1924 Rang 363 ... ouncil in Ma Mi v Kalender Ammal, 31 C W N 621 (P C)=54 I A. 61=25 A L J 65=5 Rang 18=100 Ind Cas 1=29 Bom L R 800 So the two later decisions of the Allahabad High Court reported in 22 A. L J 864=80 Ind Cas. 937=47 A 13 and 73 Ind Cas 654 are no longer good law The phrase "oral accounts of the contents of a document by some person who has himself seen it" in this clause means oral evidence by some person who has seen those contents, that is who had read the document Evidence that the witness only saw the ...

S. 63.

fact which can ... Raghubir, 112 I ... Statements of ... sible in evidence ... judgment or decree by some ... v Maung Tha, A I R ... authorized agent in a previo ... against his interest is sec ... Bhan, 53 Ind Cas 667 A translation of a document is not secondary evidence Ambalavana v Kuppachi, 4 L W 330=35 Ind Cas 20; 26 Ind Cas 618; see also 70 Ind Cas 107 Where in prior proceedings between the parties one of them admitted the existence and contents of a mortgage deed, such admission constituted a good secondary evidence within the meaning of this clause Bahadur v Madho, 36 Ind Cas 696 An objection to the admission of secondary evidence, if not ... annot be allowed to be raised in spec...

the penalty of the dismissal ... gh v Hit ... was based on a ... was not exhibited ... of the contents of the ...

is not merely the memorandum of some other fact Thus a witness cannot be asked whether certain reso... ... papers (R. v. O Connell, Arm & T 16 ... his account books; but in ... the best evidence, must be ... 24 Bom L R P C 565 ... have been reduced to wr... 66 Ind Cas 360

No pref... ce "Another general rule' ... of secondary evidence, wh... law recognises no degrees in the various kinds of such evidence. Doe v Ross, 7 M & W 102; Hall v Ball, 10 L J C P. 285, Brown v Woodman 6 C & P 206, Jeans v Wheedon, 2 M & Rob 486" Taylor Ev. § 550 In Doe v Ross, 7 M & W 102, the question was whether an attested copy of a deed was preferred ... question in the

are necessary fficient evidence r that has been the deed, but as
, once existed.
t, or being in his in Whitfield v. rd Loughborough on the general rule, ll admit, I perfectly unded partly on the the registry system n original deed in its can be; that a copy ginal deeds should be nwealth v. Emery, 2 nts of a writing of any out its production, or the prisoner or opposite B. in Regina v. Farr, aper are, according to the aper itself, and by that (per Abbott C J) 2 B & Leyfield's Case, 10 Co Rep elf, and to be proved by the Court in two manners: law, and the Court shall in material points or places; if it was upon conditional And these are the reasons be showed forth to the Court" instrument, the instrument r Coleridge J in R v Francis, not be applied so broadly as is not a document. The rule is be proved by the paper itself and by that The rule was so stated by the Judges on Caroline, 2 Brod & B 286 (1820) The only the following classes (each of which is dealt document is lost or destroyed, (2) Where it is Cr Ev 15th Ed. p. 3.

S 64. philosophical and harmonizes better jurisprudence of the age on the subject to curtail and limit the objections to go to the jury to judge of its weight party kept back a more satisfactory have produced and within his knowledg as he had offered, of less certainty, with the jury" Lewis v St Antonio, 7 Tex 288 (315) (Am) Wigmore § 1268

Proof of documents by primary evidence.

64. Documents must be proved by primary evidence except in the cases hereinafter mentioned.

Principle A writing is the best evidence of its own contents and must be introduced unless it has been lost or destroyed or its absence is otherwise satis
' The reasons are simple long experience They posed literal copy and the the copyist, whether by wilfulness or by inadvertence this contingency wholly disappears when the original is produced M[illegible] d the copy will lack, such features of may afford the opponent valuable means the document" Wigmore § 1179 In C J said that though an original may be [illegible] is liable to the mistake of the transcriber recollection, and the original, the added risk, almost the certainty, exists, of errors of recollection due to the difficulty of carrying in the memory literally the tenor of the document Wigmore § 1179; see also Slatterie v Pooly 6 M & W 664; Doe v Ross, 7 M & W 102, Taylor v Riggs, 1 Pet 591, 596, Vincent v Cole, M & M 257; Macdonnell v Evans, 11 C B 942 were the beginnings, in the endeavour to give consistency to the system of evidence before juries They were never literally enforced,—they were principles and not exact rules, but for a long time they afforded a valuable test As rules

Bliss, 21 N Y p 218, that ' it is a universal rule founded in necessity, that the best evidence of which the nature of the case admits is always receivable ' ciple was the rule about the rule was older than the have been a generalization from the rule, which appears itself, to be traceable to the doctrine of profert That ent which was set up in the jury, that a jury t had been exhibited to hear testimony from o speak to the contents of a deed without the production of the deed itself" Thayer Cas Ev 2nd Ev 778, 779 Scope of the section "The rule is that the best evidence must be used that can be had, first the original; if that cannot be had, you may be let in to prove it any way, and by any circumstances the nature of the case will admit. This extends not only to deeds, but to records, so far I mean as they may be given in evidence to a jury, for in point of profert it is another thing. But for this the law requires a proper foundation to be l u l , and two things are necessary S. First, to prove that such a deed once existed, and there is sufficient evidence that such a deed, to a certain intent, did once exist, by the answer that has been read, which I do not rely on as evidence of all the uses of the deed, but as an admission that such a deed and uses something of that nature once existed. The next step is to show some ground that the deed is lost or being in his adversary's hands cannot be come at." Per Lord Chancellor in Whitfield v Fausset 1 Ves 387 In Grant v Gould 2 H Bl p 101, Lord Loughborough said 'That all Common namely, the best evidence . agree' The rule, as to th) rules of common law, but modified to some extent by the registry system established here by Statute The theory is this that an original deed in its opy

be 2

Gray 30 (1on) 'The general rule was, that the contents of a writing of any document or portable article could not be proved without its production or without showing it to be in the possession or power of the prisoner or opposite party, and on notice to him to produce it' Per Channell B in Regina v Farr 4 F & F 336 So the contents of every written paper are according to the well established rules of evidence, to be proved by the paper itself, and by that alone if the paper be in existence The Queen's Case (per Abbott C J) 2 B & 284 The reason of the rule is thus stated in Dr Leyfield's Case 10 Co Rep 92 (a) And therefore every deed ought to approve itself and to be proved by others—approve itself upon its showing forth to the Court in two manners (1) As to the composition of the words be sufficient in law and the Court shall judge that, (2) that it be not razed or interlined in material points or places, (3) that it may appear to the Court and to the party if it was upon conditional limitation or power of a revocation in the deed And these are the reasons of the law that deeds pleaded in Court shall be showed forth to the Court" So when the question is as to the effect of a written instrument the instrument itself is primary evidence of its contents Per Coleridge J in R v Francis L R 1 C C R 128 (132) But this rule should not be applied so broadly as to require the production of any thing which is not a document The rule is

St Fr 529 5 1196) in som precise cate th though more § 1 well established rules of evidence to be proved by the paper itself and by that alone if the paper be in existence The rule was so stated by the Judges on the occasion of the trial of Queen v Caroline 2 Brod & B 256 (18?) The only exception to with below) in the posse Where it is insists on hi physical gro is of a pul reasons of convenience Roscoe Cr Ev 15th Ed p 3 5

Cases in which secondary evidence relating to documents may be given

65 Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition or contents of a document in the following cases —

(a) when the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power—of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, or of any person legally bound to produce it and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it,

(b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest,

(c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time,

(d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily moveable,

(e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74,

(f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in British India to be given in evidence,

(g) when the originals consist of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection.

In cases (a), (c) and (d) any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible

In case (b), the written admission is admissible

In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible

In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents

Principle The contents of a document must in general be proved by a special kind of evidence, called 'primary evidence but there are exceptional cases in which it may be proved otherwise Markby Ev 57 The exceptional cases in which secondary evidence is admissible are contained in this section,

Ibid. "That rule which is the most universal, namely, that the best evidence the nature of the case will admit, shall be produced, decides this objection, for ... expression for the idea that when you lose ... best in your power The case admits of ... you possess, if the superior proof has been ... not mean that men's rights are to be sacrificed and their property lost because they cannot guard against events beyond their control; it only means that, so long as the higher or superior evidence is within your possession or may be reached by you, you shall give no inferior proof in relation to it" Per Porter J in Thomas v Thomas, 1 La 166, 168; Wigmore § 1192 The various classes of cases with which the following sections d[...] the writin[...] feasible [...] person, pl[...] or otherwi[...] on the gen[...]

Scope of the section Secondary evidence of the contents of a document is inadmissible unless the non production of the original is first accounted for so ... Krishna ... of the ... ounting for of the non production of the original Bhubaneswari v Harisaran 6 C 720 = 8 C L R 337 (P C), Rakhaldas v Indra Monee 1 C L R 155, Imeerunissa v Abedoonissa, 23 W R 208, 209 (P C) = 2 I A 87, Wazeer Ali v Kalee Kumar 11 W R 228, Gour v Huree Kishore, 10 W R 338, Ishan v Bhyrab, 5 W R 21, Ustoorun v Mohun 21 W R 333, Roopmunnoori v, Ramlal 1 W R 145; Mafee Zoodeen v Meher Ali, 1 W R 213, Sheoram v Ramlal 1 W R 248, Muhammad Abdul v Ibrahim, 3 B H C R A C J 160 A writing is the best evid[...] or destroyed [...] Clarke 3 Sall[...] to little more [...] by the intro[...] accounted for [...] entirely differ[...] ing, rather than a narrowing rule It meant that the best evidence of which the nature of the case would permit was receivable It has been pointed out by Prof Thayer that this rule has been the subject of a very peculiar development (Vide the origin of the rule [...] relating to writings only [...] to those which relate to [...] Ev § 272 This section [...] and thus is a relaxation [...] requires stricter proof in criminal than in ci[...] it was decided that, in the former, the original registers of births, deaths marriages, etc, must be produced and that copies will not be sufficient Field's Ev 7th Ed p 218; Whitley Stokes, Vol II p 92 The exceptional cases in which secondary evidence ... opy of a document ... have been used to ... he possession of the ... provides for his ... Where an original pattah relied on cannot be produced, secondary evidence is admissible, but the Court oug[...] the contents of the document [...] Sookram Sookul v Ramlal, [...] document from [...] record must be satisfactorily accounted for before a copy can be looked at and ... before it can be used Rohceelal v ... mbanlal v Nandlal, 2 W R Act X. ... 241, Asman v Doorga, 21 W R 262.

According to this section the loss of the original must be proved not only in a case where the document is being enforced in a suit but also where it is produced

5. merely as a piece of evidence Maqbul v. Brijdeo, 122 Ind Cas 751=1930 A L J 765=A I R 1930 All 539 Where a party relies upon the certified copy of a document before any presumption as to genuineness of the original can be made under s 90 it is incumbent on the party trying to rely upon the document to lay the foundation by leading secondary evidence under s 65 Gaya Prosad v Jaswanti, 1930 A L J 1003=A I. R 1930 All 550=125 Ind Cas 460

A copy of a disputed document can not be taken as evidence without proof that the original is out of the power of the person producing the copy Admitting the ex … the correctness of the copy Mussamat … tbundee cannot be admitted as secondary … absence of … had … stoorun v Mohunlal, 21 W R 33 … of a letter (neither produced nor called … involves the giving of secondary evidenc … satisfying the conditions required to … Pershad v Amanulla 26 C 53=2 C … rents where sought to be proved by entries made by Patwari in his list as the result of his enquiry and inspection of receipts Held that the list would merely … ents of the receipts and that it was inadmissible …

… made out Baduna Ram v Akbar Ali, 103 Ind Cas 752=9 Lah L … executed in Englan … gagee instituted a … only Held that the secondary evidence of the mortgage deed was admissible Herbert Francis v Mahomed Akbar, 105 Ind Cas 532 This section provides an alternative to the bond holder in cases where for various reasons production of the original is impossible, but if a bond is in existence production is not dispensed with by … Ind Ca … tions in … a statem … guardian … to a case … but it … have to … facts n … J 264= … prov d … ondary evidence of a document … vidence cannot, for any reason not …

… should not be overruled except in a clear case of miscarriage of justice Production of secondary evidence does not dispense with proof of the execution of the original document Chuha Mal v Rahem Bakhsh, 71 Ind Cas 568 Where in a suit on bond, loss of bond was alleged and the defendant denied execution …

When no reas ... S. mortgage, a suit on ...
(1922) Nag 119=67 ...
... have been
... Maung Po

... o has been
... however is
... le when the Lower Court has rejected it. Rameswar Lal v. Raj Kumar, 5 Pat. L. W. 316=45 Ind. Cas. 888=(1918) Pat. 156.

When a party in possession of an unregistered deed of sale of property less ... roduce it before the Court and was unable to ... Held, that secondary evidence of the contents ... Domai Bari Medhi v. Kenil Kolita, 62 Ind. Cas. ... a sale proclamation as to the rate ... rtised for sale at his instance in ... the sale proclamation is not forth ... be accepted as secondary evidence ... ation as the rate of rent payable ... 60. But secondary evidence of ... Ilami v. Nambiar 28 M. L. J. 206=28 Ind. Cas. 69, Nataraja v. Ramabhadra, 28 Ind. Cas. 853; Emperor v. Khetal 45 A. 300.

... ans a document admissible in evidence," ... is section deals with the proof of the contents ... Khetter Chunder v. Khetter Paul, 5 C. 886 ... it is inadmissible in consequence of ... stamped, secondary evidence cannot ... , Vol. II p. 892.

Time for objecting to the admission of the secondary evidence. A Court copy of a title deed was filed without objection on behalf of the plaintiff, but objection was taken during the argument that the plaintiff had not shown any of the statutory grounds for the admission of such secondary evidence. It was ... be marked without objection ... The copy should not have ... made it receivable. Kistna ... evidence must be made before ... ulor, 70 P. R. 1866; Uppera v. ... ihed that no objection ... the admissibility of a ... e Court below without any objection. Jiwan v. Jiwan 88 Ind. Cas. 511=29 P. L. R. 455=A. I. R. 1925 Lah. 347. Ma The Nh v. Mg Ni Pa 3 Bur. L. ... awa v. Ramappa 5 B. L. R. 798=28 B. 91; Raj ... Vol. II 382; Akbar Ali v. Bhyenlal 6 C. 666; ... T. 397=67 Ind. Cas. 628; Surat v. Ram, 53 Ind. ... 14 Ind. Cas. 539=216 P. W. R. 912; Madhabi v. ... Chimnaji v. Dinkar, 11 B. 320; Kishori v. Rak ... sanna, 28 C. 143; Sahazadi v. Secy. of State 34 ... Hasmatulla v. Hurimohan, 31 ... Lalla Rai 1 W. R. 1? ... Gour v. Kanhya 2 W. R. 23 ... v. Mahesh 25 W. R. 166; ... P. L. R. 696. When the C ... certain letters which were no ... sibility was taken subsequently held that the objection could be entertained. Prafulla v. Emperor, 57 C. 1071=50 C. L. J. 593.

Unstamped documents—secondary evidence of. Secondary evidence of the contents of a document which was liable to stamp duty but unstamped, cannot be admitted on payment of a penalty. Kopaswa v. Shanmu, 7 M. 440; Baldeo v. Jairam, A. W. N. 1893, 210; Mathoora v. Peary Mohun 1 C. 253=2 C. L. R. 409; Ma Kin U v. Maung Aung Hmine, U. B. R. (1897—1901) Vol. II 365; Sheikh Akbar v. Sheikh Khan, 7 C. 256=8 C. L. R. 528; Maung Net v.

65. Maung Hmo, U B R (1897—1901) Vol II, 367, Sudar Kuar v Chandrauati, 4 A 330 = A W N 1882, 55 Hiralal v Shankar, 45 B 1170 Sumni v Sundard, (1911) 2 M W N 166, Dorasami v D 87 Ind Cas 382, Maung Po v Maung Gui, 101 Ind Cas 198 = A I R 1927 R 109 The provisions made by the Stamp Act for the case of deeds, either unstamped or insufficiently stamped, have no application, when the original deed, which ought to have been stamped has not been produced It is not permissible to pay qenalty or require endorsement by Collector on a copy of unstamped or insufficiently stamped document and to offer the same as secondary evidence of the terms of the original Venkata v Sri Junganti, 4 C W N 117; Aruna Chellum v. Olagappah, 4 M H C R 312, Raghavachai v Rangachai, 4 Mys L J 145 A distinction must be drawn between the admissibility of the evidence and the manner of proof

Section 65 and Registration Act, s 49 The admitted existence of an unregistered written deed of relinquishment of one's interest requiring registration precludes the proof of the fact of the relinquishment by any secondary evidence as the primary evidence is itself inadmissible under s 49 Janardhan v Janardhan 101 Ind Cas 839 = A I R 1927 Nag 214 Where a party comes into Court resting his claim on a written title which the law requires to be to register, and is, in consequence and say, 'I can prove my title by) have a compulsory Registration ors" Monmohinee v Bishen Moyee, Sheikh Shurutoolah, 1 B L R 58 = 10 W R 51 (F B); Gongabisan v Tukaram, 5 N L R 70 = 3 Ind Cas 224; Mahomed v Allah Ditta, 95 Ind Cas 444 = 27 P L R 268, Kallam v Nambiar, 28 M L J 226 Secondary evidence of a document which is not produced but which in a previous suit was found to be inadmissible as being not registered cannot be given in evidence Nataraja v Ramabhadra, 28 Ind Cas 853, see also Kanduru v Adam Saheb, 25 Ind Cas 661

Section 19, Limitation Act—Wheth acknowledgments lost or destroyed Se. to section 20 of the Limitation Act of 1871, writing containing the promise or acknov may be given of the time when it was signe of her R which secondary evidence that amongst the ground ice was the loss or destruc to is the evidence thing was opposite 871 The language of the was necessarily in direct g to the Evidence Act, locument generally, if the f 1871 oral evidence of the ble in such a case. The words used are 'When the writing containing the acknowledgment is undated, oral evidence may be given of the time when it was signed, but oral evidence of its contents shall not be received" One branch of the law of Evidence is that already referred to It is contained in 64 and the following section of the Evidence Act and it determines the cases in which secondary a document not produced. Another bran the following sections. It deals with tl evidence of oral communications, may effect of a document. The first part of the paragraph before us clearly belongs to the latter branch of the law. And, it would seem the object was to remove any question which might otherwise have arisen whether the rules generally excluding oral ... the effect of documents might not exclude oral document, where the date is an essential ...nt oral evidence of the date of the document proceeds 'but oral evidence of its contents shall not be received' These words were introduced with a 'but', and they speak not of secondary evidence but of oral evidence. We do not think they ought to be understood as dealing with an entirely different branch of the law of evidence from the earlier part of the sentence, and as repealing s 65 of the Evidence Act, so far as it relates to acknowledgments. We think the words in question are of the nature of a saving clause, guarding against the supposition ...idence further

S

...owledgment is Wajibun v
Kadir, 13 C 192; see also Chathu v Virarayan, 15 M 191; but see Ziaulnissa v Moludev, 12 B 268 This controversy has been set at rest by Act IX of 1908, detailed record of records, an ent f that statement to be sufficient secondary Nowroz, 5 P. W. R.

1914 = 16 P L R 1915.

CLAUSE (A).

Original in the possession or power of the Adversary When a document is in the possession of the adverse party or of some one bound to give up possession thereof to him (e g his solicitor (Irwin v Lever, 2 F & F 269 R v.
Hunter, 4 C (Taplin v Att, Sinclair v Ste
but not a stake Gow R 1(31)

in this section ar up possession to hi the personal custody of the opponent himself, ... third person on the opponent's behalf and subject to the opponent's demand.

Wigmore § 1200 So wherever it is in the party and he refuses to produce it after n R v Watson, 2 T R 201, Makbul Ali v Greesh Chunder v Ramlal, 1 W R C ... cases equally with civil R v Elworthy, 10 Cox Cr 579 582 The reason why secondary evidence is admissible in such a case is thus given by Buller J. in Att.

65. Gen v Le Merchant, 2 T R. 201 note. "It was likewise said, in support of the motion, that the reason why copies are permitted to be evidence in common does not produce them is in no fault at all, and for that reason a copy is not admitted. But I do not take that to be the rule; it is not produced upon any sion of the opponent. It is enough if it is in his power to produce it Parry v May, 1 Moo & Rob 280 So "the possession of the plaintiff's attorney is the possession of the plaintiff, though they might perhaps be subpoenaed, it is

is a party to the suit, it

J in Irwin v Lever of the jurisdiction of d When a document of the opponent, very recently, the R v Hunter, 4 C & P. 128.

before notice served be an excuse, ent, at the time of notice, that he had transferred it Wigmore § 1200 contra, Wright v Bunyard, 2 F. & F 193, 194 Before a secondary evidence is admissible under this section, the opponent's possession of the document in question must be shown somehow, Knight v Martin, Gow 103, Whitford v Tutin, 10 Bing 395, Shape v Laul, 11 A & E 805 Of this fact very slight evidence will raise a sufficient presumption when the documents exclusively belong to him, or regularly ought to be in his custody according to the course of business Taylor § 440; see also Ajoodha v. Esharee Dyal, 10 W. R. 219; Bhubanesuari v. Harisaran, 6 C 720=8 C L R 337 P C; Henry v. Leigh, 3 Camp 502. So where a bankruptcy certificate was proved to have been obtained for the defendant, the Court presumed that it had come into his possession Henry v. Leigh, 3 Camp 502; Robb v Starkey, 2 C & Kir 143. If papers were last seen in the hands of the defendant, it lies upon him to trace them out of his possession R. v. Thistlewood, 33 How St Tr 757 The rule is the same in criminal cases Perry v May, 1 M & R 276; Langton v Reynolds 18 Jur. 963 The Adversary's possession may also be proved by the admission of his counsel. Duncombe v Duncombe, 8 C & P. 222. A party served with notice cannot evade its effect by subsequently parting with the document. Knight v. Martin, Gow. R. 104; Nort 246 It would seem that when a party has notice to f the evidence is a

Rob, 366

is sufficient proof possession of the opposite party Mt. Salman v. Hakim Mukdam, A. I R 1928 All 304. This section lays down that secondary evidence may be given, of the contents of a document when the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved This section does not require that in all cases it must be definitely proved that the document is in possession of the other side against whom it is sought to be proved ... its contents can be given Dwarka Singh v. Ramanand, 41 A. 592 = 17 A L. J. 711 = 51 Ind. Cas 275; see also Mussamat Saleha Bibi v Oudh Commercial Bank, ...

of a notice to produce, unless the original is shown or appears to be in the possession of the person against whom the presumption is drawn. Per Walsh J. in Mongra v Debi Ram, 35 Ind. Cas. 328.

Of any person out of the reach of, or not subject to, etc This clause ... who is out of ... secondary ... ing notice ... Wiseman, ... L J P. & M 109.

According to English law the mere fact of the non-amenability of the possessor to legal ... process cannot ... possible forms of ... by a Court before excusing for non production If the precise whereabouts of the document is unknown, search may be made; if the possessor be ascertained, he may be requested to appear with the document, or he may be requested to deliver the document for the use at the trial, or his deposition may be taken with a copy furnished by him annexed to it No one or more of these efforts ... to make any such ... In the first group, ... a nature depending more or less on the circumstances of the case Boyle v Wiseman, 10 Exch. 647, Ward v Murray, 1905, Times, Mar 5, cited Phip p 548 In the second ...

v Gan Kim 9 C 939 So also secondary evidence of a document can be admitted without notice to the adverse party, when the person in possession of the document is out of the reach of or not subject to the process of the Court Haranand v Ramgopal, 27 C 639 (P C) = 27 I A. 1 = 4 C W N 429 Section 86, of the Evidence Act, lays down that if a copy of a foreign judicial record ... presume it to be genuine ... other proof, for under ... may be given of public ... person is out of reach

5. of, or not subject to the process of the Court. Haranand v. Ram Gopal, 2 Bom L R 562 A notarial copy of a foreign will is admissible on proof by experts that the original is not allowed to be removed, and that the local Courts regard such copies as equivalent to originals Phip Ev 7th Ed 527; Re Von Lieund, (1896) P 148; Re Lemme, (1892) P 89, Enohin v Wylie 10 H L C 1, but see Re Broun, 80 L T. 360, Permanent Trustee v Fels, (1918) A C 879

As regards the meaning of the expression of "any person not subject to the process of the Court" there is some conflict of opinion According to Mr. Stokes these words are intended to inclu bound to produce the document on accou produce it. Stokes Anglo Indian Code, V C & P 737, Morston v Dawney, 1 H & 31 this clause includes that rule of English s subject is thus briefly "Secondary evidence is a stranger to the proceed- here lawfully refuses to im either in his own right or as agent acting on the of the party who seeks attendance in Court of the of subpoena duces tecum, and should lawfully refu admissible Doe v Clifford, 2 C & K 448, Dwyer v Collins (1852) 7 Ex 632. If on the other hand he attends, but without the document, and a subpoena duces tecum has not been served on him or not been duly served, this is a fatal objection to the admission of secondary evidence as the party has not done all that lay in his power to procure the production of the original (Hibberd v Knight 2 Ex 11) If the person so refusing is merely agent for another by whos principal does so the Court upon a the reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court" So it cannot be said that this clause includes the English rule just mentioned

209; Huntingdon v. Mildman, Cro Jack 217; Wigmore § 1211 So "where a person is an utter stranger to a deed, there in pleading he is not compelled to shew it" Buller Nisi Prius, 252 So if the person possessing the document is by reason of privilege not compellable to produce, there is the same reason for admitting other evidence of its contents as if its production were physically impossible, because the party who stands in need of the evidence which that document affords is not to suffer from its absence at the trial Per Pollock C B in Sayer v Glossop, 2 Exch. 409, 410. Mere disobedience to a notice to produce what is called a subpoena duces tecum i e, a summons to attend the trial as a witness and bring the documents with him (Vide Order 16, rule 1 of Act V of 1908 = s 159 of the Old Code) The person on whom such a subpoena duces

tion, penalty, or forfeiture (Vide s 130 infra) So a party will not be required to produce the muniments of title to his estates (Taylor § 158, 1164, section 130 infra), nor will his solicitor, to whose care they have been entrusted (Hibberd v Knight, 2 Exch 11; Doe de Gilbert v Ross, 7 M & W. 102; Volant v Soyer, 13 C B 231); and in either case independent secondary evidence of their contents may be given Per Hill J in R. v Leatham, 3 E & E 658, 668; Best Ev § 216 So it is "a well established rule of law" that the productions of a privileged document is excused Per Hill J in R v Leatham 3 E & E 658, 668. The principal may of course waive his privilege (Merle v More, Ry & M 390), is apprehended that no secondary evidence is admissible under the Indian Evidence Act, if the party in possession of the document withholds it under §§ 130 and 131 of the Act regards this clause Mr. words 'of any person they stand, there is no of the document, as an hardly believe that this is what was intended I think it probable that the word 'not' has been here omitted by mistake, and that the case intended to be dealt with here is the 911 "We are not entitled" said Lord Loreburn "to read words into an Act

65. Under rules of strict interpretation it appears that this clause intends to make a departure from the English rule, which does not allow secondary evidence of any document improperly withheld It may be that the party calling for the document which has been improperly withheld, has its remedy against the party so withholding the document in separate suit for damage or he may be punished for contempt of Court but such remedy may give very inadequate relief where the party withholding is a pauper and the loss to be suffered for the non production of the document is considerable Moreover that will give rise to multiplicity of suits It is also not desirable to deprive a party to produce secondary evidence of a document, simply because a third person refuses to produce the original of the document wilfully or perhaps fraudulently There may be in addition the dan the party withholding such do some legal right to the doc according to Prof Wigmore, the rules of law laid down by Alderson B. in Jesus College v. Gibbs, 1 Y & C 145 156, where he said "You could not have proved it by secondary evidence unless the document had been in the possession of a party not bound to produce it (The third person refuses) it is true, at his to cover a contigency for which no provison has been made in the Act itself.

Wher
have been secondary 203, Lord
a false copy" But the giving inst the contemplated danger. The the opponent does not produce the Hall, 14 East. 274, 276, Le Blanc J on previous notice to be given . that he may not be taken Dudley 62, 64 "The answer to this is, fi to guard against surprising his opponent by warning

S.

secondly, that if here the purpose were, to give the opponent time to discover evidence impeaching or confirming the document, the notice should allow time for such an investigation, yet the law is clear that only time enough to produce the document need be allowed; and thirdly, that if, in fact he is not surprised, it is in law still no excuse for not giving notice.' Wigmore § 1202 'The true reason is" says Prof. Wigmore "that which is naturally deducible from the proponent's situation He is required to produce the document if he can; he says that he will not bring with the request If we translate ly appreciate the significance of the future production by the opponent; and this notice of demand is necessary, in Baron Parke's words, (in Dwyer v Collins, 7 Exch 639) 'merely to exclude the argument that the party has not shown that by giving notice to that adversary to produce it, he has used every exertion in his power that the best evidence might be given" So where a document of title which is in possession of a party is not produced by him after notice to produce the same, the party giving notice is entitled to give secondary evidence of the document under s 65(b) and section 66 proviso 2 Narsidas v Ravi Sankar, A I R 1931 Bom 33; see also Abdul v Kishan, 11 Lah L J 401, Makhan Lal v Gavinda, 13 R D 718; Subbayulu v. Vengama, A. I. R 1930 Mad 742 = 123 Ind Cas 197; Wigmore § 1202, see also Maungsan

to ere be 90.

ought to be, denies that he has it, secondary evidence is admissible Teju Mal v Zulphakar Sha, 49 P R 1882 The word "produce' only means "procure the production or give it in evidence" Gaya Prosad v Jaswant, 1930 A L J. 1003 = 125 Ind Cas 460 = A I R 1930 All. 550

CLAUSE B

Written admission as to the contents of an original document Section 22 lays down that oral admissions as to the contents of a document are not proof of a document even though the original is in existence, and might be but is not produced Cun Ev 221 The result seems to be this —The written admission may always be proved The oral admission can only be proved in

65. condition mentioned in cl (b) of section 65, be admitted. Safar Ali v Mohesh, 23 C L J 122=34 Ind Cas 956 In a suit for redemption of mortgage, the mortgage deed was not produced Secondary evidence consisted of a document addressed to the mortgagors by the alleged agent of the mortgagee, which proved to liability ortgagee, rting to be his It was It was produced for mortgaged deed under s 65(b), secondly, to save limitation under section 19 of the Limitation Act Held that the document was no secondary evidence of the existence of the mortgage as it did not fall within the category of writings described in clause (b) of section 65 of the Evidence Act Gajraj v Bakar Ali, 20 Ind Cas 62 This clause has no application where the original document is inadmissible for not being registered or properly stamped. Dweltu v. Krishnaswami, 6 M 117; Sambayya v Gangayya, 3 M 308, Damodar v Atmaram Babaji, 12 B 443 (446) Where the reocord of the statement of the accused is not admissible, secondary evidence thereof could not be given Queen Empress v Viram, 9 M 224 In rejecting such evidence, Parker J at p 240 observed: "Reference is made by the Sessions Judge to s 65 of the Evidence Act, the words appearing in cl (b) in that section being quoted; but for the reasons above stated, I am of opinion that it was n writing—if the affixing be held to constitute a contents of the previous statements"

CLAUSE (C).

lost or destroyed. The loss or destruction of , opens the door for the admission of secondary ley's Ev 274 This rule is a very old one. In 1611, in Dr Leyfild's Case, 10 Co Rep 92 (a)=Wig. Cas 235 in admitting secondary evidence in such contingency, the Court observed: "yet in great and notorious extremities, as by casualty to fire, that all his evidences were burnt in his house, there, if that should appear to the Judges, they may, in favour of him who has so great a loss by fire, suffer him upon the general issue to prove the deed in evidence to the jury by witnesses, that affliction be not "The extreme whenever equally y slowly. where

Anon, Jenkins J In th charters have been los

2 Keble 546; Underhill 8; Robinson v Davis, 1 v Mellmish, Ambl 24 Villers, 2 Atk 71, Lord foreseen or Now the y unavail- evidence is destroyed

Wuzeer Ali v Kali Coomar, 11 W R 228; Rajendra v. Behari, A. I. R. 1932 Pat 157; Ablheraj v. Gaya, 8 O. W N 1228 But secondary evidence is admissible where the Court is satisfied that the original is lost or destroyed Hurrish v Prosunna, 22 W R 303, Syed v. Nuseebun 10 W. R 24, Lukhimoni v. Koruna, 3 C L R 509; Khetter Chunder v Khetter Paul, 5 C 886=6 C L R 199; Jaffree Khanum v Imdad, 2 N W. P 314; Woomesh Chunder v Sama Sundari, 7 C. 98=8 C. L. R. 189; Syed Abbas v Yadeem, 3 M I. A 156;

Amerunnisa v. Afadoonnisa, 15 B L R A. 87; Sheo Sarun v Goolbance W R 7

Al Ra
(1 La

C J 160
v Kishori
Hay 581;
Sugden v. Lord St Leonards, 1 P D 154; Ranee v Hardyal, W R (1864) 301; Ranjit v. Chunilal, 1 N. W P 178; Bishambhar v Emperor, 90 Ind Cas 706=2 O

3; Marakarutti v Veerankutti, 16
M 67
Cas 660; Gopi v Mahanandi,
12 M 21 L W 227=97 Ind Cas 785=A I R. 1926 Mad 1003; Tulsi Ram v Ram Saran, 23 A L J 109= l known and that fact may be recognised telegrams are destroyed after three months secondary evidence is admissible Bishambhar Nath v Emperor, 2 O W. N 760=90 Ind. Cas 706 If it is found that a document has been lost evidence may be given and whether proof is sufficient in a case is a question of fact Bibi Sugra v Angad Gir, L R 1 A 201. But a mere assertion in an explanation that a document is lost without any cient ground for admitting secondary 3 A 539 Where the explanation for the is lost, the regular course is to prove the loss before tendering secondary evidence Surat Singh v Ram, 59 Ind Cas 461 In ordinary cases if the witness in whose custody a deed was, should depose to its loss, unless there is some motive suggested for his being untruthful, best evidence should be accepted as sufficient to let in secondary evidence of the deed Chhishan v Jamna 24 O C 272=48 I A 365 P C of such s 1006

insist-power-Dayal,
Ind Cas 399 But the question whether or not sufficient proof of search for, or loss of, an original document, to lay a ground for admission of secondary evidence has been given, is, a point proper to be decided by the Judge of first instance and is treated as depending very much on his discretion and his conclusion should not be overruled, except in a clear case of miscarriage Ma Paik f filed a suit on have been lost and was not lost but suppressed as there was an payment of

A L J 265=18 Ind Cas 878 word "destruc-

" merely that it the two come moment that the destruction becomes questionable at all (i e when not proved by eye witnesses of burning or tearing, the inquiry is raised whether the search for it has been sufficient; and, in the next place, the proof of a loss usually carries the implication that the thing not found has ceased to exist, and thus assimilates the case to one of destruction Thus the great question to which so many Judges have devoted so much pains—the establishment of a test for the sufficiency of proof of loss—includes practically not only the cases, of loss in the narrower

[illegible]

useless paper, [illegible] and important document which the party might have an interest in keeping, and for the non-production of which no satisfactory reason is assigned . . . where the loss or destruction of the paper may almost be presumed very slight evidence of its loss or destruction is sufficient" Per Abott C J in Brewster v Sewell, 3 B [illegible] this,

[illegible]

never likely to be required for any purpose whatever In the former case [illegible] reasonable to exact proof of a very careful search, whereas in the latter very slight evidence tending to show loss or destruction will suffice. Will Ev 2nd Ed p. 208. What is proper search or enquiry must depend on the particular surrounding circumstances of the particular matter before the Court [illegible] jury A paper of considerable importance, which is not likely to be permitted to perish may call for a much more minute and accurate search than that which may be considered as waste paper, which no body would likely take care of. . What inquiry will do? I think, in cases of this sort [there the loss was of a [illegible] after its [illegible] no [illegible] the [illegible] where it ought to be found" Per Poll[illegible] W 319 329 In the same case Alderson [illegible] has been a loss, and whether there has [illegible] much on the nature of the instrument searched for . If we were speaking of envelope, in which a letter has been received, and a person said, 'I have searched for it and [illegible] not So with res[illegible] party wh[illegible] to be [illegible] it has been take[illegible] If he had said, [illegible] ought to go to [illegible] away A [illegible] would be satisf[illegible] itself; and the [illegible] contents of this [illegible] document by [illegible] the original R v Morton, 4 M & S 48, Gully v Exeter, 4 Bing [illegible] C B N S. 747, 750, R v [illegible] W 269; R v Gordon, 25 [illegible] ully as to exclude every [illegible] The question is hypo[illegible] alwa[illegible] of it[illegible] that [illegible] infor[illegible] suggests and which were [illegible]

[illegible]

st. 278; R. v East Farley, 392—1896) Vol II, 347. If circumstances tending to ... most rigid enquiry should be made into the reasons for its non production Johnson v Anume, supra. It follows, properly, that the determination of the sufficiency of the search and in general of the proof of the fact of Court's discretion Wigmore § 1191 evidence of the search of the originals, are admitted Whether or not sufficient proof of search for or loss of, an original document, to lay a ground for the admission of secondary evidence, has been given, is a point proper to be decided by the Judge of the first instance, and is treated as depending very much on his discretion His conclusions should not be overruled except in a clear case of miscarriage Harpria Debi v. Rukmini Debi, 19 C 438=19 I A 79 P C, Choitram v Khem Chand, A I R 1929 Sind 7 In R v Kenilworth, 7 Q B 642, 649, Denman L C J said "I think that we collect from R v Morton, the only rule, namely, that no general rule exists The question in every case is, whether there has been evidence enough to satisfy the Court before which the trial is had, that to us the words of Bayley J in R v Dento, 'a 'bonafide" and diligent seach was made for the instrument where it was likely to be found' But this is a question much fitter for the Court which tries than for us They have to determine whether evidence is satisfactory, whether the search has been made bona fide' where there has been due diligence, and so on It is mere waste of time on our part to listen to special pleading on the subject" Wigmore § 1194, Ma Nyein v. Mayin, U B R (897 proof was given of search, cannot be received as secondary evidence Meer Usudoollah v Beeby Imaman, 5 W R P C 26=10 M I A 19, see also Roopmanjooree v Ramlal, 1 W R 144; Pandu v Bapudas, A. I R 1929 Nag 288

Non production for any other reason The question whether the non-production is due to any other sufficient reason not arising from his own default or neglect is one of fact and depends mainly on the discretion of the Court. Gaya Prosad v Jaswant, 125 Ind Cas 460=A I R 1930 All 550 The certified copy of a document which is already filed in another Court and cannot be produced without unnecessarily delaying the trial of the suit is admissible under s 65(c) Jobeda v Monabali, 130 Ind Cas 865=A. I R 1930 Cal 479

CLAUSE (D)

When the c

6 M & W 68

also be proved be produced in Court Taylor § 438, see also R v Forsey 6 C & P 81 Cobden v Bolton, 2 Camp 108, Doe v C

8 C & P 728, Bruce v Nicolopolo 1 bringing a notice into Court."

A remarkable illustration of this rule was furnished in the case of a man, who wall of the Liverpool goal, on mere Lord Abinger in Martimer v M callan, must show that the writing cannot oduced in Court. Jones v Tarleton, 9 M & W. 675=11 L J. Ex 267. Evidence has been admitted of the inscription

65. on a wall or a tomb stone giving the date of death Smith v Patterson, 95 Mo 525=8 S W 567; Bruce v. Nicolpolo, supra, R v O'connell, 5 St. Tr N S 241. If there ar ... stone itself may have to be produced ... ; ... Davidson, 13 Q B. D 265 There is a ... that the Court may readily as ume that they cannot be produced in Court, and as to which secondary evidence may be allowed, such as inscriptions and addresses on travelling trunks If the producti ... s found is indispensable, it would ... sign were painted on a house, it w ... have to be produced, nor can it be for wagons, boxes, tombstone, and the like, on which one's name may be written Kansas etc Rail v Miller, 2 Colo 440, Burrell v North, 2 Car & K 679 While Courts, in the administration of the law of evidence, should be careful not to open the door to falsehoods, they should be equally careful not to shut out truth They should not encumber the law with rules which will involve labour and expense to the parties, and delay the progress ... without giving any additional safe guard ... ited States, 3 Wall. (U S), 114; Burr ... on a coffin plate, the coffin plate should be produced as it is removeable R v Fine Wills Cir. Ev 5th Am Ed 212 ... says Mr. Taylor "and the ... it its removal, secondary ... that case, as in the case of mural inscriptions, it is not in the power of the party to produce the original" Alton v, Farnual, 1 C M & R 227, 291, 292; Boyle v Wiseman, 10 Ex R. 647 ' Taylor § 438 Mr Whitley Stokes thinks that such a case is not provided for, unless perhaps by the latter part of clause (c) But it can hardly be said that the original cannot be produced in reasonable time when it cannot be produced at all It seems that the case would fall under paragraph (iii) of clause (a), in as much as it is in the power and possession of a person who is out of the reach and not subject to the process of the Court Woodroffe Ev 8th Ed. p 519 Secondary evidence, of the abstract which by section 32 of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901 (Edw 7 C 22) must be affixed in the factory, can be given as the original cannot be removed. Owner v Beehive Spinning Co Ltd, (1914) 1 K B 105=83 L J K B 282, Mortimer v M'Callan, 6 M & W 58. Under this clause any kind of secondary evidence is admissible

CLAUSE (E)

When the ... ble record under se ... this clause In ... Lal, 14 C 491 This excep- ... Mark Ev 57 In Hannel v. ... "The admission of copies ... practice and besides the documents might be wanted at different places at the ... you cannot remove the document in which the writing is made, you are entitled to the next best evidence" Per Abinger L C. B in Mortimer v M'Callan, 6 M. & W 58, 59, Wigmore § 1218.

S.

secon ... r kind of public ... which the
... here it is
... nt has
... iginal
... So
... rtified
... ow v.
... Proce-

(c) In the matter of Adya, 11 Ind Cas 261.

An entry in a public document such as a settlement record can be proved only by the original ... A I R 1923 Lah 150 ... tenant ...

... chmi Das, ... evidence ... Radha Nath v Empe... L J 659.

It is doubtful whether ... rom some record in the Revenue Court is admissible in evidence Bhagwati v Marjad, A I R 1931 Oudh 136=129 Ind Cas 331=7 O W N 1079.

CLAUSE (F).

... ndary evidence of the contents ... a document of which a certified ... er law in force in British India ... given in evidence in the first instance without having been introduced by any other evidence Harish v Prosunno, 22 W R ... of which a certified copy ... in British India to be giver ... Cas 50 Hazari Lal v ... Cas 752 Section 57 of the ... under that section shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the contents of the originals, but that clause was not intended to override the provisions of the Evidence ...

... admissible in evidence Sansa Rao v Ghasi, 13 C P L R 94 The issue of a certified copy of income-tax returns to a person not entitled to inspect is forbidden by s ...

... the deposit thereof ... ys Act, (VII of 1882)

65. This clause only allows certified copies as secondary evidence But when the original is lost or destroyed any secondary evidence is admissible Kunnath v Vayoth, 6 M 80, In re Ava and the Brenhildu, 5 C 588, Chandresuar v Bisheswar A I R 1927 P 61=101 Ind Cas 289=5 P 777, Hiranand v Ram Gopal L R 27 I A 1=27 C 639 P C; Ananda v. Secretary of State, 43 C 973=20 C W. N. 573 Other secondary evidence is also admissible where the document satisfies the condition of the next clause Ram Sundar v Chandresuar, 34 C 293.

CLAUSE (G).

When the original consists of numerous documents This provision is for the saving of public time If the point to be ascertained were, for instance, the balance in a long series of accounts in a merchant's books evidently great inconvenience would arise, and much public time will be wasted, if a witness were and to make his examination Beiling, 3 Camp 310 He is sworn, and then to give the 1 Phil Ev 433 Taylor § 462, where the books and documents are multifarious and voluminous and of a character to render it difficult for the jury to comprehend material facts without the aid of such statements . . In a trial embracing so many details and occupying so great a length of time as the case at bar, during which a great mass of . t was the only mode of attaining the jury" Wigmore § 1230 The is principle is that by which the state of pecuniary accounts or other business transaction is allowed to be shown by a witness's schedule or summary, Meyer v Sefton, 2 Stark, 274, 276; Gardner rshaw, 1 De G & Sim 260, of copyright, the material presented in such a way as to be conveniently compared Lewis v Fullerton, 2 Beav 6, 8; Mawman v Tegg, 2 Russ 385, 398, Wigmore § 1230 A witness may speak as to the insolvency of a party at a particular time from an inspection of his books Meyer v. Sefton, 2 Stark 274 This exception however, will not enable a witness to state the general contents of a number of letters received by him from one of the parties in the cause, object of the examination be they produced on his mind between the writer and a th Taylor § 462 'So a witness' the parties, though he may not allowed to speak to the general Lord Kenyon in Roberts v [illegible] Courts" says Prof Wigmore 'require, as a condition, that the mass thus summarily testified to, shall, if the occasion seems to require it, be placed at hand in Court, or at least be made accessible to the opposing party, in order that the correctness of the evidence may be tested by inspection if desired, or [illegible] § 1230, any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the exami[illegible] of such documents In Ram Sundar v Chandreshuar Prosad, 11 C W N 501=34 C 293, the Court observed "This objection is founded on the fact [illegible] who had examined embodied the results of their examination of the records and registers. The objection made by the learned Counsel for the Appellant is that the Collectorate , under the provi-

e documents are But the learned Judge has found as a matter of fact that those documents could not be conveniently

n
n
e
)
e Evidence Act, then the only secondary evidence which could be admitted was the certified copies of the documents in question We do not agree with the
We think the mitted and for not because the documents were use the fact that documents That being so, general result of the documen skilled in the examination of those documents and the general result was given by the Record keeper and the clerks who gave evidence before the learned Judge" Abstract of mutation records is admissible under the section Sher Mohammed v 78 Ind Cas 451 Evidence may be when they consist of numerous Kanungoes entertained to assist the ue Records, yet it is an abuse of their functions to require them to give oral evidence of the contents of a document such as record of a Muafi enquiry which ought to be examined in original by the Court itself Gilani v Mussamat Hussan, 2 Lah L J 714

Rules as to notice to produce.

66 Secondary evidence of the contents of the documents referred to in section 65, clause (a), shall not be given unless the party proposing to give such secondary evidence has previously given to the party in whose possession or power the document is *[or to his attorney or pleader,] such notice to produce it as is prescribed by law; and if no notice is prescribed by law, then such notice as the Court considers reasonable under the circumstances of the case.

Provided that such notice shall not be required in order to render secondary evidence admissible in any of the following cases, or in any other case in which the Court thinks fit to dispense with it —

(1) when the document to be proved is itself a notice;

(2) when, from the nature of the case, the adverse party must know that he will be required to produce it;

*These words in section 66 were inserted by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872) s 6

(3) when it appears or is proved that the adverse party has obtained possession of the original by fraud or force;

(4) when the adverse party or his agent has the original in Court;

(5) when the adverse party or his agent has admitted the loss of the document;

(6) when the person in possession of the document is out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court.

Princi ... quired if production ... rved on the party ... because ... the original notice to the party in possession ... in ... Per Poter J in Aoot ...

9 ... f notice is satisfied, no notice is necessary ...

... embodies the law of notice, which ... can be received under section 65, ... section 34 of Act II of 1855 which ... section 65 (a), namely, that where the document was out of the reach of the process of the Court Taking this section with clause (a) of section 65, notice must be given where the document is in (a) the possession or (b) the power of the person against whom it is sought ... e possession of a person legally bound to ... y where a person is out of the jurisdiction of, ... cases arising order, cases in which the rule of notice is ... rule is satisfied, cases in which, by exception, ...

§ 1202 Where it is in the hands of the a ... order to lay the foundation for secondary evidence is reasonable ... to produce it Bradford's Case, Case 24 in Clayton's Rep = Thayer Cas Ev. p 780 In Salern v Mehnish Ambler 247, Lord Hardwick in allowing proof by a copy said · "There ... parol may be given of the contents o ... deed is in the hands of ... and does not ... The rul ... of the

... ay be ... The proved is itself a notice to quit, ...

(2) where from the nature of the action the defendant has notice that the p... intends to charge him with possession of the instrument, as for example, in trover of a bill of exchange Jolley v Taylor, 1 Camp. 143; Scott v. Jones,

P. 113 (3) Where the adverse party ... udulently, as where, after service ... had received paper from the witness in fraud of the subpoena. Leeds v. Cook, 4 Esp 256, Neally v Greenough, 25 N. H 325. (4) Proof that the adverse party or his attorney has the instrument in Court, renders notice to produce it unnecessary. Dwyer v Collins, 7 Exch. 639 (5) Similarly no notice is necessary where the adverse party or his agent admits the loss of the original In such a case the party will be admitted to give secondary evidence of its contents (6) Similarly if the writing is in the control of a third person without the jurisdiction of the Court, no resort to legal force is of service Greenl Ev § 563(e) The above rules are applicable both in civil and criminal cases It will comparatively seldom happen that documents are required to be produced at a criminal trial, and ... 1 Nort Ev 251 Where a letter, which was neither ...

... Each partner should be served with the notice contemplated by s 66 of the Evidence Act to produce such accounts and papers as may be in his custody If he omits to produce the books and the books that are proved to be at the time in his custody or under his control the presumption recognized in illustration (8) to s 114 of the Evidence Act may be applied. Pulin Bihary ... y document can ... ung Po v Ma ... contents of a ... section though ... no subsequent dispensing with the notice can operate to make it admissible Prafulla v. Emperor, A I R 1930 Cal 209 = 50 C. L J 598

Secondary evidence of the Contents 'Secondary evidence of the contents" means apparently "not of the existence or condition of the documents" Whitley Stokes, Vol II p 893

Party—Meaning of The word 'party' means not only adversary in the cause, but also a stranger 'legally bound to produce' the document Whitley Stokes, Vol II p 893

Such notice to produce as is prescribed by Law According to English practice an adversay in the cause is given a notice to produce the document in question ... be served with a ... 14 The notice ... on either Att ... C & P 394 But ... Alfalo v Fourdrinier, M & M 334, Byrne v Harvey, 2 Mo & Rob 89 But as to the time and place of the service no precise rule can be laid down, except that it must be such ...

party desiring to use it, until he has by subpoena duces tecum resorted to the

S. 66.

hold that in an action of trover for bonds or notes no notice to produce the ... soug
the
the e instrument These principles apply directly in this case. The form of ... pleading, we must had in his possession, found then to co (N. Y.) 293; see
Cr. 579 (582)
of papers, (Jolley v Taylor 1 Camp. 143); in an action to recover the amount of a forged bank note which has been returned to the defendant. [Luckett v Clark, ...

D 446) In an action in contract it is held that the pleadings imply notice to the orders and letters constituting the contract. Zipp v. Colchester, 12 S D 211 (Am). So the rule is the same where the writing is a proper matter of defence and the adverse party must understand that it will come in question (Kelnor v S ... written contract in possession ... Dana v Conat, 30 V. ... forging, passing, or delivery is of the same kind with the others which he has disposed of or retained in his possession, he had notice in effect that if practicable to procure it, evidence will be given of their counterfeit character and of having passed them as true. It is notice in law, by which a party is as much bound both in civil and in criminal cases as by notice in effect. Notice in fact is notice in form; notice in law is notice in effect, and either is sufficient," Per Baldwin J in U S v Doebler, 1 Bald W 519, 524 (Am). It seems settled therefore, that on a charge of larceny or of forgery no express notice is necessary; and the principle would also extend to other charges; but the nature of the charge will determine the application of the principle Wigmore § 1205 R. v. Haworth, 4 C & P 254, 256 But in an action for arson with intent to defraud the insurer, notice to produce the policy was required. R. v. Kitson, 6 Cox Cr 159, see also R v Elworthy 10 Cox Cr. 579 (582). If the maker of a note or cheque or the acceptor ... an action, deny by his ...

4 Taunt. 865; Bucher v. Jarrat, 3 B & P. 143. (3) Where the adverse party has obtained possession of the document fraudulently, as where, after service of a subpoena duces tecum, the adverse party had received paper from the witness in fraud of the subpoena. Leeds v Cook, 4 Esp 256; Neally v Greenough, 25 N. H 325 (4) Proof that the adverse party or his attorney, has the instrument in Court, renders notice to produce it unnecessary. Dwyer v Collins, 7 Exch. 639 (5) Similarly no notice is necessary where the adverse party or his agent admits the loss of the original. In such a case the party will be admitted to give secondary evidence of its contents (6) Similarly if the writing is in the control of a third person without the jurisdiction of the Court, no resort to legal force is of service Greenl Ev § 563(e) The above rules are applicable both in civil and criminal cases It will comparatively seldom happen that documents are required to be produced at a criminal trial, and notice will consequently have but seldom to be ...

section 65 of the Evidence although no objection was ... la, 26 C 53=2 C W N 649 Each partner should be served with the notice contemplated by s 66 of the Evider... papers as may be in his custody ... books that are proved to be at the ... the presumption recognized in illustration (8) to s 114 of the Evidence Act may be applied Pulin Bihary v Mohendra, 34 C L J 405 Before secondary evidence of any document can be given, a notice to ... v Ma Shwe, 2 Rang 397= ... of a letter neither called ... hough no objection may be taken to the giving of that evidence, and no subsequent dispensing with the notice can operate to make it admissible Prafulla v. Emperor, A I R 1930 Cal 209=50 C. L J 598

Secondary evidence of the Contents "Secondary evidence of the contents" means apparently "not of the existence or condition of the documents" Whitley Stokes Vol II p 893

Party—Meaning of The word "party" means not only adversary in the cause, but also a stranger 'legally bound to produce' the document Whitley Stokes, Vol II p 893

... ding to English ... he document in ... be served with a ... 14 The notice ... l on either Att ... C & P 394 But ... Alfalo v Four- ... s to the time and ... t it must be such as to enable the party, ... with the call Rogers ...

... is ... & P. ... v ... use ... ney ... on ... ally ... owl ... Bat ...

party desiring to use it, until he has by subpoena duces tecum resorted

S. 66. power of the law to obtain it; so that the mere fact of the third person's possession, or of notice to him, or

In India the procedure for [illegible] riminal Procedure Codes (Vide Civil Pro Code, Order XI rules, 15, 16, 17, 18 and Order XVI, rules, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 18, Criminal Procedure Code, ss 94 to 98, 485) In the original side of the High Court where the English practice is followed, a subpoena duces tecum [illegible] offe Ev 8th Ed 523 [illegible] ll be served as the Court

"It may be defficult to lay down any general rule as to what the notice

[illegible] be dangerous to do so since if any material errors were to creep into the parti-

Lawrence v Clark, 14 M & W. 250 Notice to produce 'all letters written to and received by the plaintiff between the years 1837 and 1841, both inclusive, by and from the defendants, or either of them, or any person on their behalf; and also all b [illegible] (Morris v. [illegible] defendant, [illegible] & Rob 33); and also "all accounts relating to the matters in question in this cause" (Rogers v Constance, 2 M & Rob 179) have been held sufficient notice to [illegible] 679 Bes. ent sup thi bo at of wh An [illegible]

Where a [illegible] him instead of on the woman herself would constitute notice as is required by this section Durgawati v Jagannath, A. I R. 1929 All 680

[illegible] the jury [illegible] Doe d Bridges v [illegible] declines to use the [illegible] will not make them [illegible] 10), though it is other- [illegible] g them Wilson v [illegible] 5 Notice to produce [illegible] ine a witness as to their contents. Graham v. Dyster, 2 Stark 23. If a party refuses he cannot o contradict the secondary proof (Doe d. S.

135) or to show that there are attesting ...ckson v Allen, 3 Stark 71; Edmonds v.
Challias, 7 C B 413); or to refresh the memory of a witness (Fill v Ainsworth, Bristol, 1847); or it seems, for any purpose (Collins v Garbon, 2 F. & F. 47. Doe v. Hodgson, 12 A & E 135) He is in effect bound by any legal and satisfactory evidence produced on the other side. Shookram v. Ramlal, 9 W. R. 248; Nort Ev 252 roved is itself a notice. a copy The reason Slaymaker, 14 S & R Pa 153, 156 (Am) "Every written

e

ing" Wigmore § 1206, see also Phillipson v Chase, 2 Camp 111 But this consideration can well be made in th the notice to produce In England, quit Ibid There also this exception in regard to notices to produce, for the aracter of because it re of the document

.54; Taylor
red for a ature of a
to be a mere notice". Grove v Ware, 2 Stark 174 A notice of a bill's dishonour was held to be a notice Ackland v Pearce, 2 Camp 599 But in case of a ice was re-& R 261, See also iso notice n America produce), most Courts from time to time recognize that the case of a notice—notice to quit, notice of dishonour, notice of suit, and the like—is to be governed merely by the general principle namely, where the pleadings by implication give notice to produce the notice, no express notice to produce it is necessary; but otherwise it is required Wigmore § 1209

Proviso—para (2)— required to produce it the form of the pleadings, the possession of an in produce need be served upon him Calling v Frewcek, 6 B & C 398, 399 "Where the nature of the action gives the defendant notice that the plaintiff means to charge him with the possession of such an instrument, there can be no necessity for giving him any other notice" Per Le Blanc J in How v Hall, 14 East, 274, 277 This principle is accepted in a variety of cases Wigmore § 1205 It naturally suggests itself that there are cases in which formal notice to produce would be idle, as in the case of an action for wrongful detention of a document belonging to the plaintiff, although, strictly speaking, such an action would be for the material on which the written character appeared, and it is account that the general 66.

may at once produce

In an old case of trover hold that in an action form of action gives if necessary to falsify instrument pleading w had in his p found then

(Kelnor v Savage, 20 Me 199), or the action is brought on a written contract in possession of the defendant which is fully described in the complaint Dana v Conat, 30 Vt 246; Burr Jones § 223 'If the note, he is charged with forging, passing, or delivery is of the same kind with the others which he has disposed of or retained in his possession, he had notice in effect that if practicable to procure it, evidence will be given of their counterfeit character and of having passed them as true It is notice in law, by which a party is as much bound both in civil and in criminal cases as by notice in effect Notice in fact is notice in form, notice in law is notice in effect, and either is sufficient," Per Baldwin J in U S v Doebler, 1 Bold W 519, 524 (Am) It seems settled therefore, that on a charge of larceny or of forgery no express notice is necessary; and the principle would also extend to other charges; but the nature of the charge will determine the application of the principle Wigmore § 1205 R v Haworthy, 4 C & P 254, 256 But in an action for arson with intent to defraud the of id Armo

is giv Maung Po v Ma Shwe, 84 Ind Cas 373 = A. I. R. 1925 Rang. 7; M Le v Shwe U B R. 1907, 4th Qr Ev 13, but see Dinonath v Rama Rai, 6 P. 102 = 97 Ind Cas 318 = 1926 P. 512 In another case it is held that in a suit for redemption when the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgage deed, and fails to produce it, oral evidence is admissible under s 65 (a) read with proviso (2) to section 66 of the Evidence Act Mt Amin v. Mt Gaih, 9 Bur L T. 52 = 31 Ind. Cas. 892; see also Bahadur Singh v. Mahadeo Singh, 36 Ind. Cas 696; Sahai v. Sheo, A. W N. 1888, 117, Dwarka v. Ramanand, 11 A 592 = 51 Ind. Cas 275 = 17 A. L J. 711.

No notice to defendants to produce the original was necessary to render secondary evidence admissible, where the defendants, from the nature of the ... be required to produce the original Syed ... 0 It is doubtful if a pro forma defendant ... in suit property or in the decision of the case is not an adverse paty within the meaning of proviso (2) Durgabati v Jagannath, A. I R 1929 All 680.

... ined fraudulent possession of a document in his ... third person (who thus ... t from the requirement ...

object of a notice is ... amounts to a refusal ...

Thus in odium spoliatoris, a notice need not be given to the adverse party to produce a paper, of which he has fraudulently or forcibly obtained possession, ... aud of a ... he same ... te party ... as once ... counsel ... r party ... by the adverse ... means of any ... taining a deed ... Mass 284) or ... ly v People, 49 ... A defendant ... signed by the ... he received at ... the plaintiff, ... paper produced did not contain the whole of the letter as written, and that something material had been cut off from the top It was not necessary for the plaintiff to give notice to produce the other letters Robinson v Cutter, 163 Mass 377, Burr Jones § 223.

Proviso,—para (4)—When the adverse party has the original in Court A not ... proof that the adverse party, or ... for the object of the notice ... 1 C M & R 38, Cook v ... Patridge, ibid) ... testimony to ... to produce it ...

it he likes, at the trial, and this to secure th ... Taylor § 456 In Dwyer v Collins, 7 Ex Ch ... indorsee against the acceptor of a bill of ... pleaded, inter alia, that the bill was given ... before the Lord Ch. of Ba ... the defendant proceeded to prove his plea, and ...

Lord Chief Baron, after consulting the Judges ruled ...

66 In that case Lord Chief Baron Parle said "The next que tion is whether, the bill being admitted to be in Court, parol evidence was admissible on its non-production, or whether a previous notice to produce was necessary On principle the answer must depend on the reason why notice to produce is required If it be to give his opponent notice that such a document will be used by a party to the cause, so that he may be enabled to prepare evidence to expl un or confirm it, then no doubt a notice at the trial though the doc ment C t a too late he must do before he can be permitted to make use of secondary evidence the demand for the productor

he true reason, the measure of time necessary to procure the time necessary to procure evidence to explain or support it,—a very complicated one, depending on the nature of the plaintiff's case and the document itself and its bearing on the cause, and in practice such matters have never been inquired into but only the time with reference to the custody of the document and the residence and convenience of the party to whom notice has been given and the like We think the plaintiff's alleged principle is not the true one on which notice to produce is required but that it is merely to give a sufficient opportunity to the opposite party to produce it and thereby secure if he pleases the best evidence of its contents, and a request to produce immediately is quite sufficient for that purpose, if it be in the Court It would be some scandal to the administration of the law if the plaintiff's objection had prevailed" Wigmore Cas Ev 227

Proviso para (5)—When the adverse party or his pleader has admitted loss of the document The rule requiring notice to the opponent proceeds on the assumption that the opponent has possession of the document the object being to show a demand and refusal to produce So the requirement of notice does on the theory that the for the document as notice is unnecessary it follows that where the document is admitted by the opponent to have been destroyed or lost, or even out of his possession, no notice is necessary for it is no longer a case of opponent's possession, but of loss Wigmore § 1203 In such a case the notice could be nugatory R v Haworth, 4 C & P 254 Foster v Pointer, 9 C & P 718, How v Hall 14 East 276, Doe v Spitty, 3 B & Ad 182, Taylor § 455. A party however cannot under this exception call tion of a document that has been traced into the

Where by the proponent's ev hands—as by the presumptior receipt of it, then even takin tice, while if we take the opponent's has in truth received the document, his denial is express refusal to produce, which equally puts the plaintiff in the position of being equally unable to obtain the document so that notice is unnecessary Wigmore § 1203

Proviso, para (6)—When the person in possession of the document is out of the reach of, or not subject to the process of the Court Section 65 lays down that secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition or contents of a document, when the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of any person who is out of the reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, and when after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it "There is therefore a clear legislative enactment that notice or a reasonable notice, must be given, but that is qualified by s. 66, clause (6) which dispenses with notice Mr Jackson argues that there must hoc ... at S ... cr ... ie ... y ... ie ... or him at the last moment at the hearing of the suit, would have been nugatory. Mellus v Vicar Apostolic, 2 M 295 In Haranand v Ram Gopal, 27 C 639 (648) = 3 C W N. 129, Lord Hobhouse said "His proof of the Sithun records ... ions 65 and 66 of the Evidence Act secondary ... documents, which they are under section 74, ... when the person in possession of the document is out of the reach of or not subject to the process of the Court, which is the case here" See also Harnund v Ram Gopal, 2 Bom L R 562

... will be observed that under ... ich notice is not required, the ... nt." This is a relaxation ... 225 An express waiver of ... 207 ... leed ... n of ... can ... tgee ... as 348 = A I R 1926 Pat 512 = 6 Pat 542 ... letters were in the possession of parties inte... claim, but the plaintiff did not take steps ... Held that there being no question of the genuineness of the document these steps should have been waived by the Court and the document admitted in evidence under s 66 of the Evidence Act Habiram v Hemnath, 19 C. W. N 1068

67. If a document is alleged to be signed or to have been written wholly or in part by any person, the signature or the handwriting of so much of the document as is alleged to be in that person's handwriting must be proved to be in his handwriting

Proof of signature and handwriting of person alleged to have signed or written document produced

Principle The introduction in evidence of a writing is not accomplished when the document is produced in Court There is still a preliminary matter to be attended to before the writing can be received This is the authentication of the writing or the proof of its genuineness Mckelvey's Ev §§ 277 279 Most documents bear a signature, or otherwise purport on their face to be of a certain ... and must be supplied by evidence But a document purports in itself to indicate its authorship, and the perception that this element is nevertheless missing, and must still be supplied, is likely not to occur There is a natural tendency to forget it Thus it has constantly to be emphasised by the judicial requirement of evidence to that effect Thus it is that in the tradition of the common law a wise emphasis has been placed upon the necessity of supplying the logical element of authenticity for writings. The general principle has been enforced that a writing purporting to be of a certain authorship cannot go to the jury as possibly genuine, merely on the strength of this purport; there must be some evidence of the genuineness or execution of it. Wigmore § 2130, Horne Tooke's Trial, 25 How St. Tr 78, Pfaal v Vanbatenburg, 2 Camp 139 "In the ordinary affairs of men, it is very often assumed, without proof, that he whose name has been affixed to a written instrument placed it there himself. But

7. when signing becomes a matter of legal controversy, it must be established by proof" Per Bronson C. J in Willson v Betes, 4 Den 201; 213.

General Principle of Authentication The foundation on which rests the necessity of authentication is not any artificial principle of evidence, but an inherent logical necessity Thus if as a part of some facts asserted, Doe's letter is offered, what is involved in the assumption of the offer is (a) a letter written (b) by Doe; thus a letter alone, without the fact that it is Doe's, is not receivable, simply because it is not the thing offered By one of the many rules of Evidence, Doe's letter may be admi of Evidence may be, the element of assumed in all This logical eleme the importance of proving it, exists wherever any personal connection with a corporeal object is assumed in the offer The necessity of authentication, therefore applies equally well to chattels—to a knife, a horse, a coat, etc, whenever it is asserted to be connected with a person This process of authenticating chattels is ordinarily referred to as identifying them, but the two ideas are distinct, and different principles of evidence are applied Identification presupposes that two objects, apparently different, have been referred to and the issue is whether they are in fact one and identical, not separate objects they ntial, (1) eged rnal

man act, i e the presence or absence of M at the time or place (if those are known) when the document was made (b) I in the document itself These wil written), the style of handtyping the ink or other script medium, (3) the paper and other inscribed material, the seal contents, other ma

class of etc (III) The retros-
, to the making or not external. (a) Internal found, e g a deed ged testator's library, yet the document may have been placed there by a falsifier (2) a postal stamp or post mark or other mark indicating that an official has acted upon the document at some time and place, but this mark may have been falsely used.

(3) Sundry marks indicating action by some one subs jn nt to the on᷈in il marking e g burnt elges, indicating an attempt to le troy by fir (b) Extern il evidence will inclu le (1) all sub equent separate con luct by the alleged maker, indic iting a consciousne s of its genuineness or the reverse, (2) All sub equent sep ir ite conduct by thir l persons having a similir import— Wigmore § 2131, Wigmore's Princi les of Judici l Proof § 52

S.

Scope of the section of a document, there is what it purports to be ? I point is dealt with in s Evidence Act govern ca e v Gudarkoeri 82 Ind C is 306 The nature of the evidence will dep nd to a large extent on the nature of the document If it is a mere m morandum such as the entry in a diary mentioned in s 32 (b) it must be prove l that the diary was really that of the person whose statements it is said to contain If it is a letter it must be shown who wrote it, or at any rate who signed it for a signature to a document turns the whole document into a statement by the person who who execute l it Mul Ev necessary under this section This section does not require to be produced Nor does the Act require the writer of a document to be examined as a witness Abdool Ali v Abdoor Rahman 21 W R 429 The proof of hand writ ng and signature under this section must be by any of the recognised mo les of proof and amongst others by statements admissible under s 32 of the Evidence Act Abdulla v Gunnibai, 11 B 690 The execution of a document cannot be deemed proved as it is required by the Evidence Act merely because it is proved in the sense of the definition of ' proved That definition of the word proved must be read along with s 67 of the Act until it is proved that the signature purporting to be that of the executant is in the hand writing of the executant the Court cannot procee l to consider whether the execution is proved In other words section 67 makes proof of execution of a document something more difficult than proof of matter other than the execution of a document Salaik v Mt Ta m~ Bano 107 Ind Cas 564=A I R 1928 A 303 But it was never intended by s 67 of the Evidence Act that direct evidence of hand writing was always necessary but that section merely stated with reference to needs what was the universal rule in all cases th new rule either to or felt the fact of execution of the document was properly proved Karali v The East Indian Railway 48 C L J 32=111 Ind Cas 492=A I R 1928 Cal 498, Bamndia v E, 14 C W N 1209 1210 nd of proof is require l for it must nevertheless be shown signature denoting execution who professed to execute it A Court is not bound to treat the registra ion endorsement as conclusive proof of the fact of execution If there are suspicious circumstances attending the execu tion of the document such endorsement cannot be resorted to for the purpose of holding that the execution has been proved Jogannath v Dhuraj 5 O L J 191=46 Ind Cas 279 Under this section a document can be prove l by any is 390 Where a register d in or ler to prove that eting of the a sociation an l it must be prove l by oral testimony that the register was in fact a regi t r of atten lance kept for th on a iture gh orle J said 'There is no evidence as to who wrote down the names which appear on the page in question It is suggested that the names or signatures were written

S. 67. out by the porsons themselves under the date which appears at the heading of the paper But no witness has been produced to identify these signatures The learned Sessions Judge has considered that the mere fact that a person s name appears on such a document is proof that he signed it It is obvious that when this register was produced it was necessary to show by oral testimony that it was urpose of recording the names of th date anp aring over their names. s gnatures were in fact those of the nost cases by producing were the accu ed persons have been produced who o was acquainted with have proved by compar ry writing proved to the satisfaction of the Judge to be genuine As no witness was cal ed to testify to this document in any way whatsoever, it is obvious that these essential requ re ments were not attempte l to be fulfilled The document accordingly is not admissible in evidence in the absence of oral proof of its nature and authorship and even if it were admitted it does not prove the presence of the pet tioners at of the identity of their signatures A nce if the writer of the certificate is not witness Peter v Mahomed 22 Ind Cas 654 The ordinary method of proving handwritings are (1) by calling as a witness a person who wrote the document or saw it written or who is qual fied to express an opinion as to the handwriting by virtue of section 47 of the Evidence Act, (2) by a comparison of the handwriting as provided in section 73 of the Evidence Act, and (3) by admission of the person against whom the document is tendered A document does not prove itself nor is an unproved signature proof of its having been written by the person whose signature it purports to bear Per Mookerjce J in Sarojini v Hari Das 26 C W N 113 at p 119, see also Gunga Pershad v Inderjit 23 W R 390 P C To prove the execution of a bill of sale executed in their favour by the plaintiff s father the defendant called a Kazi who deposed that the vendor came before him accompanied by was then registered On special appeal was suffic ent direct ary under section 67 a v Manak Chand
27 Ind Cas 866, Lahını v Bala, 77 Ind Cas 798=18 N L R 85 ost universal Some-and sometimes both erally mal es a mark and some other person writes his n me Mark Ev p 60 All that is required is that the signature must be by a person who is conscious of his act a mere mechanical movement of the hand is not sufficient Kalee Tara v Nobi 21 W R C R nl ins v Gainsford 3 Sw & Tr 93 ention of execut ng a document. Re

e or initial may be considerd as In bonis Redding 2
Roberts 339,
58 Ind Cas 134=7
O L J 406, 930 M 770 A mark is a mere symbo who not ces it often ratmoni 2 C W N 642=25 C use of pen and ink is not neces-Tr 93. In that case Sir Cresswell pen or some other instrument ason make a difference that a fac simile of the whole name was impressed on the Will instead of a mere mark or cross The mark made by the instrument or stamp was intended to stand for and represent the signature of the testator In the case where it was held that sealing was not signing, the seals were affixed by way of a signature So execution of a document can be made by affixing a mark on it. Taylor v Dem 3 Nev & P 228, Baker v Denning, 8 Ad & Ell 24, Donelly v Broughton, (1891) A C 435 Where the alleged executant of a deed (who was a marksman) denied execution and all the attesting witnesses are dead or for some other reason not available, proof of the hand writing of the attesting witness and of his identity is sufficient proof of execution This is founded on the rule that on proof of his handwriting every thing must be presumed to have been rightly done, and a fraud must not be imputed without some evidence on that behalf Ponnu Swami Kalyansundara A I R, 1930 Mad 770 = 125 Ind Cas 231

kn
fro que wel had been furnished But as there can seldom be a sole person knowing the
the case) multiple knowing the same facts are often persons hostilely interested who thus have a motive for fabrication ; and if it were once laid down as a general rule of law, that the contents of a letter might be taken as evidencing its authenticity, too many would be found to take fraudulent advantage of this rule Accordingly, it seems generally conceded that the mere contents of a written communication, purporting to be a particular person's are of themselves not sufficient evidence of genuineness Only in special circumstances, where the contents reveal a knowledge or other trait particularly referable to a single person, could the contents alone suffice Il

s of a particular
, (a) an illiterate's tter Ibid.

Illiterate s letter , typewriting It ought to be conceded that where there is no direct testimony to the act of execution or sending by an illiterate, the evidence to be drawn from the contents should in some situations, be allowed to suffice to go to the jury The case of an amanuensis using a type writing machine presents a similar impossibility, whenever the signature (as sometimes happens) is also type written or stamped and it would seem that a similar necessity justifies a resort to evidence from contents If there were a serious possibility of abuse this step would not be advisable But in fact there is also a danger of abuse in the opposite direction for the difficulty of authenticating such a document is sometimes taken advantage of by those who wish to be able to disavow their authorship To day however in view of the scientific development of the study of documents by microscopy and other arts the authorship of type written documents can often be traced with certainty to the specific machine used , so that this mode of authentication does not then in principle differ from that of using the handwriting Wigmore § 2149

Printed matter—news paper Vide notes under s 81 infra

Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested 68 If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence.

"Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a will, which has been registered in accordance with, the provisions of the

68. Indian Registration Act, 1908, unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied"*

The general notion of be called before another of that particular witness to obtain knowledge of the matter more accurately than any other person His opportunities of knowledge, it must be supposed, have been not only better than those of others, but so much better that it would be a palpable risk of injustice to proceed in the trial without endeavouring to obtain him Moreover, such a rule should be applied only where the class of witnesses thus preferred can be designated wit' call him mus

in quest on, he the one thing can contribute by the law by the partisan interests of either side may fail to furnish Wigmore § 1286.

History of the rule "As regards the requirement' says Professor James Bradley Thayer that the proof of the execution of an attested document must be by the witnesses if they can be had, this, also, has a clear and very old origin Such persons belonged to that very ancient class of transaction or business witnesses, running far back into the old Germanic law who were once the only sort of witnesses that could be compelled to come before Court Their allowing themselves to be called in and set down as attesting witnesses was understood Proof by witnesses ly to know the fact ght be, he could not, ss, unless he had It was a part of witnesses formally allowed their names to be written into deeds in large numbers When jury trial, or rather proof by jury, as it originally was, came in, the old proof by witnesses was joined with it, when the execution of the deed was denied, and the same process that summoned the twelve, summoned also these witnesses The phrase of the precept to the sheriff was summone duodecim (etc, etc,) cum aliis The presence of these witnesses was at first as necessary as that of the jury Great delays and embarrassments attended such a requirement where the number of witnesses m Accordingly
necessary,
After anotl longer a nec century, in 1562 63, process against all kinds them to come in, not with the jury or as witnesses could not in one way or the ot... to come in As regards ordinary witnesses to the jury, compulsory process seems not ... Since 1318, the attendance of not be got, long period whether a de denied it Ha

*This pro (XXXI of 19...

any that can be stated in a Court of Justice" Thayer Prel Tr Ev pp. 502, 503 Reason and Policy of the old Rule Strictly speaking there is no sufficient Lord Ellenborough (in R v and ratiocinative system of 1700 S So on this point he great Judges Not being able to make a departure from long tradition, insufficient and inconsistent reasons for enforcing the rule have been laid down in support of it The rule is thus stated by Lord Ellenborough L C J in R v Harringworth, 4 M & S. 350 "In as much as they are plighted witnesses the knowledge they have upon the subject is essential, and if it can be procured must be forthcoming" See also Barnes v Trompowsky, 7 T R 265 In Geropulo v Wheeler 10 C B because 'he is the witness agreed v Garth, 8 Exch 803 Pollock C B to prove the execution of a deed for this reason, that by an imperative rule of law the parties are supposed to have agreed inter se that the deed shall not be given in evidence without his s execution' Relying (of the rule) is not (as is evidence, but that he o speak to the circumed for the purpose of dispensing with proof at the trial, but cannot be broken" But the difficulty about this reason is that no such agreement attestation is required by law Moreover not apply between others than the parties fact Further more this assumes that the opponent charged as obligor or maker is a party to the document —which, if the execution is denied is an assumption of the very point in issue Wigmore § 1288, Transworth v Briggs, 6 N H 561, 565 contra Chamberlayne's Ev § 487 Some of the Judges assigned the reason attesting witness as Porlan, 4 Esp 241, principle that there of what took place reason is reiterated by Le Blanc J in Call v Dunning 4 East 54 where he said 'A fact may be known to the ledge or recollection of the obligor, and knowledge of the subscribing witness rel Ashurst J in Abbot v Plumbe 1 Doug are numerous First it is inconsistent with the rule itself, for the rule applies even where fraud duress and time are not in issue, and even where the maker himself is competent as a witness Again, the attestor is in practice not usually a person who knows anything about the circumstances preceding the document's execution, or knows more than any other person who by being present could be a qualified witness Finally if the witness does possess special knowledge about some affirmative issue, the opponent is the proper person to call the witness, if he desires him So this rule has no justification in its original broad form Wigmore § 1288 'Has the rule, then no justification in policy? It certainly has none in its original broad form But in most jurisdictions it has by statute been limited to documents required by law to be attested, and in this shape it seems to be entirely justifiable In the first place the attestation is in such cases required by law as a special precaution against forgery, thus the attestation itself must in any case be proved as an element in the validity of the document, and there seems to be no special hardship in obtaining the

86. witness rather than in obtaining evidence of his signature In the next place such documents are, in mo t jurisdictions, wills of deceased persons and deeds of illiterate persents, for such documents the maker himself being either deceased or not acquainted with writings, the attestor's testimony is almost inevitably the most desirable and most trustworthy source of information as to the fact of execution, more over it is in such cases that the defences of fraud and undue influence are most likely to be made and here also the attestator s testimony is likely to be of use and ought to be obtained if possible" Wigmore § 1288

Reason of the departure from the old rule and principle underlying the section 'We do not purpose to meddl execution required either by the Legislature, we think it deserving of serious considerat execution of written documents may not in ot

, witness the deed

was executed But it is notorious that in practice the attesting witness in the majority of instances knows nothing of the transaction, the instrument having been prepared a clerk a servant, or a neighbour is called in to attest it A deed to which as parol testimony is not admitted to contradict or vary the terms of a at th of the document is not the real matter in dispute and where there are no concomitant circumstances to be inquired into is often attended with difficulty and expense and sometimes leads to the defeat of justice Cases have occurred where, in tracing a title, numerous witnes es from distant parts have been rendered necessary to prove the formal execution of deeds though their execution was not really in dis by a single witness, which it was thou party alleging title the adversary's cas it was not supposed the party signature

received, and the party requiring it of the document is not really in to be limited to any particular witness to prove the execution When genuineness is in dispute, the party producing it will be sure to call the attesting witness as the absence of the latter would throw the greatest discredit on the instrument We therefore recommend that except in cases where the evidence of attestation is requisite to the validity of the instrument an attesting witness need not be called Common Law Procedure Commission, Second Report (1853) p 23, Wigmore Cas Ev p 246

Attestation of documents—calling of witnesses No document can be used when the genuineness of the document has to be proved Markby Ev 61 sections have no direct bearing on the question as to whether the attestation was according to law Balkrishna v Narain Sha 13 N L R 21 Section 72 lays down that an attested document not required by law to be attested may be proved as if it was unattested Section 68 is applicable to cases where a document is required by law to be attested Kunwar v Ghugi 103 Ind Cas 57 To prove wills required by law to be attested an attesting witness and subject attesting witness alive, of giving evidence. Tuls Singh v Judai, 82 Ind Cas 306 Where all is sufficient to prove the hand writ by other evidence (Ide s 69)

But execution of a document will be sufficiently proved when it is admitted by the party himself who has executed the document (Vide s 70) So also where document is thirty years old, the Court may in its discretion presume the genuineness and due execution as well as attestation of the document (Vide s 90). The Court shall presume also that every document called for and not does not recollect it, its execution may be proved by other evidence Vide s

Scope of section 68 The object of placing more than one attestation upon document whether at any party's voluntary instance or by requirement of law, ordinarily not to demand the combined testimony, of all at the trial, but merely provide by way of caution a number of witnesses, so that the contingencies death, removal of residence and the like, may be guarded against, and one witness at least may be available But a main object in Statutes requiring execution with is a secondary Tindal C J said look primarily ty of the testator t three witnesses

should be in the nature of guards or securities, to protect him in the execution of his Will against force or fraud or undue influence The proof of the Will by the three witnesses supposing it should afterwards come in contest only is an incidental and secondary benefit, derived from the mode of attestation It is well settled that in an action at law it is sufficient to call only one of the subscribing witnesses if he can speak to the observance of all that is required by the statute" Doe v Leves 7 C & P 574 In Bullen v Michel, 4 Dow 297, 331, Lord Eldon said "They usually call one witness leaving it to the other side, if they think proper, to call the other witnesses" According to English

Wigmore § 1304, see also Ogle v Cook 1 Ves Sr 177 Grayson v Atkinson, 2 Ves Sr 454 460, Binfield v Lambert 1 Dick 337, Bird v Butler, 1 Dick 337; Powel v Cleaver, 2 Bro C C 449 501, Fitzherbest v Fitzherbest, 4 Br C C 231 Carrington v Payne 5 Ves Jr 404, 411 Bootle v Blundell 19 Ves Jr 494, Winchelsea v Wanchope 2 Russ 441, Tatham v Wright, 2 Russ & Myl 1 8, 16 According to section 68 of the Evidence Act, to prove the execution of a document required by law to witnesses must be called to prove in the Punjab which requires bahi entry to be attested at all Kanwar Ram v Ghugi 108 Ind Cas 57 = A I R 1928 Lah 148 A mortgage deed signed by the marksman was attested by three witnesses In a suit on mortgage its execution was not specifically denied but the plaintiff sought to prove the same Two of the attesting witnesses having been dead the third was called, but he deposed that he attested the deed in the absence of the executant It appeared however that the Sub Regi

also spoken Held that un
the execution of the mortgage was not specifically denied Yakub Khan v Guljar Khan, 52 B. 219 = 30 Bom L R 565 = 111 Ind Cas. 257 = A I R. 1928

68. Bom 267 An account book is not a document wich is required by law to be attested and this section has no application to a case in which such account book is produced in evidence Emperor v Narboda Prosad A I R 1930 All 38 There is no law which requires the attestation of a sale deed so far as the Punjab is concerned This section has therefore no application to sale deed in that province Maharaja of Faridcot v Anath Ram, A I R 1929 Lah 1 One of the three attesting witnesses being alive the plaintiff called one witness and when he resiled the plaintiff proceeded to prove the document by other evidence Held there was a full compliance with the provisions of s 68 and 71 Hinson Ali v Gurudas Kapali, A I R 1927 Cal 188 = 33 C W N 248 = 49 C J 16 Where no attempt is made to prove a mortgage deed either by calling in an attesting witness or even by putting any question to the scribe of the deed who was examined as a witness, regarding the attesting witnesses or attestation the document cannot be used as evidence Jiwan v Dilip Singh A I R 1929 All 389 – 27 A L J 588 The amendment by Act 31 of 1926, is a provision relating to procedural law and not a substantive law and therefore must be taken to be retrospective in operation Thayammal v Muthu Kumar Swami A I R 1929 Mad 81 Where the executant of a mortgage deed, the writer of the deed and the attesting witnesses have all died, having regard to the new definition of attesting in s 3 T P Act, and to the varied mode of proving registered document as amended by s 68 Evidence Act it is sufficient to satisfy the Court that the execution which was not specifically denied was so probable that a prudent man ought under the circumstances of the case to act upon the supposition that it was so executed Parun [illegible]
To satisfy the requirement of this secti[illegible] put his mark in the mortgage deed [illegible] 12 A L J 1114 Sections 68 to 71 of [illegible] in which the fact of execution may [illegible] and have no direct bearing on the question as to whether the attestation was according to law The sections proceed on the assumption that the attesting witnesses referred to are attesting witnesses within the meaning of the law requiring the document to be attested If the fact that there are any valid attesting witnesses is denied, it has to be proved like any other disputed fact If the execution is admitted no other proof of mere execution is required, and if the document on its face purports to have been attested by the required number of attesting witnesses and if it is not denied that [illegible] the question of valid attestation does not [illegible] arises, then the maxim omnia praesumen[illegible] however it is denied that the attestation [illegible] relying on the deed as an attested deed must [illegible] is not admitted Even if due attestation is not denied, but evidence on the subject is given the Court cannot ignore the evidence There can be no due attestation without execution, an [illegible] or disproved the fact of execution is of no [illegible] the deed as a mortgage deed is concerned" L [illegible] R 21 By the terms of this section when [illegible], a document cannot be used as evidence at all as a document either requiring attestation or in fact attested, but this does not prevent it from being used in evidence as something else or for any other purpose Section 68 is subject to the limitation viz, that if the documents were tendered in some other proceeding for the purpose of proving the handwriting of the scribe, it could not be objected to upon the ground that no attesting witness being called to prove it it could not be used in evidence at all Moti Chand v [illegible] 121 = 44 Ind Cas 906 The law as [illegible] imperative and does not on the face of it [illegible] cases provided in ss 69 70 and 71 of the Evidence Act [illegible] Other Chandra Paul 35 C L J 463 = 27 C W N 134 = 68 Ind Cas 86 Other evidence under s 71 connot be admitted where the provisions of s 61 have not been complied with. Banwari v Gopinath, A I R 1931 All 411, Pedu v Venkata, A. I. R 1932 Mad 148 = 34 L W 663 Where a mortgagor admits having signed the mortgage sought to be enforced but couples it with a denial of the presence of the attestors at the time of signing the mortgage the mortgagee must prove the execution of the mortgage by calling at least one attesting witness to prove the attestation Arjun Chandra v Kailash Chandra, 36 C L J

S.

373=27 C. W. N. 263=70 Ind Cas 352. Where there is no proof of execution of a Will the identification of the handwriting of the attestors does not prove execution by the testator. Maya Chand v. Mt. Jiwani A. I. R. 1923 Lah 171. The direction in section 68 of the Evidence Act is mandatory and there is no distinction drawn by the section between documents which are the basis of a suit and those whose production is required for a collateral purpose so far as their admissibility is in question. Jagath Rai v. Mittal, 79 Ind Cas 725=10 O. L. J. 525=A. I. R. 1924 Oudh 525. Section 68 of the Act applies both to primary and secondary evidence. Sheikh Amiruddin v. Gulzar L. R. 5 A. 666=A. I. R. 1925 All 96. The provisions of s. 68 are mandatory and it is not controlled by s. 69. The mere fact that the only surviving attesting witness is considered hostile by the party does not relieve him from the duty of examining him as a witness, nor is it enough that summonses and warrants had been issued, upon the witness and the witness had failed to appear but the processes of the Court such as are mentioned in Order XVI, rule, 10, Civil Procedure Code have all got to be exhausted. Gobinda Chandra Pal v. Pulin Behari, 31 C. W. N. 215=98 Ind Cas 147=A. I. R. 1927 Cal 102. In a mortgage suit the plaintiff may, to rebut the evidence of the only attesting witness who gives evidence, call the writer to prove that the document was executed by the mortgagor and attested by two attesting witnesses. It is not ... ul l also be an attesting witness ... L. R. 1125. This section ... he legality or validity of the ... , if there has been no proper ... v. Lakshmi, A. I. R. 1930 All ... ere the executant of a document ... l having put his mark to it, and all the attesting witnesses are either dead, or have turned hostile or are not available, there is no rule of law which prevents a Court from holding the execution proved when the signature of the attesting witnesses are proved to its satisfaction having regard to the circumstances of the case. Ponnu Sami v. Kalyansundara, A. I. R. 1930 Mad 770.

... no definition of the word "attes... here was also no definition of the te... as been newly added to the Transfer of Property Act by Act XXVII of 1926. That definition has been taken verbatim from section 63 of the Indian Succession Act (XXXIX of 1925) ... an instrument, means and must be deemed ... two or more witnesses each of whom has ... his mark to the instrument, or has seen some ... n the presence, and by the direction of the ... same time, and no particular form ... 3 of the T. P. Act, Abinash v. Dasarath ... 14 Jur 919=2 Rob Ecc Rep 315, Dr... ... persons shall be present and see what passes, and shall when required, bear witness to the facts." So "attest" means merely to act as a witnesses, which might be done without subscription. Rickets v. Loplus, 4 Y. & C. 919; Freshfield v. Reed, 9 M. & W. 404, Burdett v. Spilsbury, 10 Cl. & F. 340; Hudson v. Parker, 1, Rob 14, Ford v. Kettele, L. R. 9 B. D. 139. But upon the construction of the Act it is clear that no attestation will satisfy the requirements, except throught the outward mark of subscription. Per Sir C. Cresswell in Charlton v. Hindmarsh, 28 L. J. P. 132. "To attest is to bear witness to a fact. Take an example, a notary public attests a protest, he ... nts in that protest, but to the fact of the ... I conceive, the witness in a Will bears ... equires attesting witnesses to attest, namely ... acknowledged in their presence." Hudson v. ... v. Phillips, Lord Campbell Chief Justice. ... the word "attested" that the wi...

S. 68. be present as witnesses and see it signed by the testator. And the principle was given effect to in the House of Lords in Burdett v Spilsbury, 10 Cl & F 340. There the Lord ... se words "The party who sees the ... subscribes as a witness he is an ... mortgage deeds by two witnesses required by section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act is attestation of the actual fact of the execution Shamu Patter v. Abdul Kadir, 16 C.W.N. 1009 P C The witnesses must see and be conscious of the act done and be able to prove it by their own evidence, they must be both mentally and bodily present, for if not, they migl ... mind. Per Dr Lushington in Hudson ... (1864) 3 S & J. 578, Sir Gorell Barn ...

In my view, at the end of the tran action

W. 404; see also Sharp v ... 44=10 Bom. L R 943; Da ... 256; Sashibhusan v Chana ... 364 (P. C) Again in the ca ... Phillips, 4 E & B 450=24 ... ment was not merely to sub ... execution, but included al ... some disinterested person capable of giving evidence as to what took place These cases contemplate as a requisite of a good attestation that the document must have been executed in the presence of an attesting witness, who subscribed his name to the instrument in token of this circumstance Sarungigar Begam v. Borada Kant, 37 C 526=11 C L J 563=14 C W. N 791; see also Ganga Parshad v. Ishri Pershad, 45 C 748=27 C L J 548, Deonarain v. Kakur, 24 A 319 (F. B), Prankrishna v Jadunath, 2 C W. N 603, Girindra v. Bejoy, 26 C 246=3 C W N 81; Dinomoyee v Banbehary, 7 C. W N. 160, Sashibhusan v Chandra Peshkar, 4 C L J 41=33C 861 tion, ... defeat ... case o ...

... soning appears to be based on good sense, ... of justice, equity and good conscience, according to which the Indian Courts are bound to decide Per Mookerjee J in Surungigur Begum v Baroda Kant Mitter, 11 C. L. J. 563 (572)=37 C 526=14 C. W. N. 974.

Presence, meaning of—Signature of a Purdanashin lady—how to be attested. S. Saeed in his Law D presence of B, and B witnessed A's execution Dictionary defines attes a written instrument, to also Bay v. Hale, (1 instrument be deemed to have been executed in the presence of a witness. It may be generally stated as the result of the decisions, that presence involves two ideas, namely, mental cognition of the act, and physical contiguity; in other words, the person in whose presence the act is done must be able mentally to know what is being done and what is done in the presence of a person, must take place in phys inflexible rule as to trated by a referen to what extent judic subject, Casson v. Dade, 1 Bro C C 99, it was held that when the testatrix sat in her carriage, opposite to the window of the attorney's office, in which the Will was attested, the the room the two witnesses who attested the codicil, the curtains at the foot of the bed were however drawn

Sir Herbert Jen hold, if necessary have attested in that the testator, The principle deducible from these c according to the custom of the country, before male witnesses a document w sively proved to have been executed b be deemed to have been attested by purdah, and who before attestation, satisfied themselves that there was no fraud, and that the document had been actually executed by the lady screened off from their gaze Sarrurijigur Begum v Baroda Kant, 37 C 526=11 C L J. 563 This view has also been adopted by Brett J in the case of Harmongal v Ganour Singh, 13 C W. N 40 and by Stephen and Chatterjee JJ in Isri Prosad v. Gunga Prosad, 14 C. W N 165 A mortgage deed was taken for execution behind the purdah to a purdanashin lady Her son came from behind the purda and said that it had been signed by her The witnesses thereupon affixed their signatures to the document, though none of them saw her sign it Held that there was no valid execution of the document as it was not attested as required by section 59 of the Transfer of Property Act Rai Ganga Pershad v Ishri Pershad, 22 C W. N. 697=48 C 718=31 M L J 547 P C; see also Hira Bibi v Ram Hari, 5 Pat 58 (P C)=89 Ind Cas 659=A I R 1925 P C

417=45 Ind Cas 691, Padarnath v ... W N 991 P C=37 A 471; Rai Radh ... It is not necessary that the attesting witne ... lady sign the document. Kasidanbi v. Ga

Requisites of valid attestation The object of attestation is that some person should verify that the deed was signed voluntarily. Sarrurijigur v. Baroda Kant, 37 C 526=11 C. L J. 563=11 C W. N. 974. The attesting

68. witnesses must subscribe with the intention, that the subscription made should be a complete attestation of the Will, and evidence is admissible to show whether such was the intention or not In bonis Wilson, 1 P. & D. 269, In bonis Sharman, 1 P & D 661, Griffiths v Griffiths, 2 P & D 300, In bonis Murphy, I R 8 Eq 300; Robert v Phillips, 4 E & B 450, In the goods of Streatley (1891) P 172 The witnes as an execution of the document nature is to be attested, by which Rob 712; Ewon v Franklin, D , Phiffs v Hale, 3 P & D 166; In bonis Dilles, 3 P & D 164, Leonard, v Leonard, (1902) P 243 Where a witness, put in his signature without any intention of attesting, it is not a valid attestation In bonis Smith, 15 P D 2, In bonis Murphy, I R 8 Eq 300, In bonis Sharman, 1 P & D 661 The attesting Pearson that the of the s Dunn, 1 in any witnesse Hanman (1843) 1 Rob 757, Roberts v Phillips, 4 El & Bl 450, Savitri v F A Savi 19 C P mu R 6 (11 C L R 359 Generally, any competent witness may attest; thus marksmen, (Re-Enyon, 3 P & D 92) and infants if of years of discretion, may be attesting witnesses Phip Ev 7th Ed 501 A party to a deed or his agent cannot attest it Seal v. Calridge, 7 Q B D 516, Peace v Brookes, (1895) 2 Q B 415

Attest his signatu v. Krishna, Ind Cas 145; Dharr Ayyasaime Abinash v 1 attesting witness must be shown or presumed Badri v Abdul 35 A 254, r purpose and in whatever manner, is as a 41 M 535, Dinomoyee v Bonbehary, 48 C 61. Where the name of the under a separate heading styled "scribe" apart from the signature of the only other person who signed as signature of the scribe was not, as as attestation Abinash v Dasa v Ajodhya 20 C W N 699=34 mdas v Ramoomal, A I R 1927 Sind 853=A. I R 1925 Oudh. 734 A behalf of the mortgagor cannot be a campetent attesting Cas 720; Paban Sristidhar v Ra case, the scribe of name at the end c Held, that such

S.

the meaning of this section Bakshar v. Isachand, 5 N. L. R. 3=1 Ind Cas. 173; but see Bari Sahu v. Gauri Shankar, 59 Ind Cas. 153 Where a person who has signed a deed as a scribe subseq [illegible] witness the onus of proving this assertion [illegible] v Lakhu, 4 Pat. L. J 511=53 Ind Cas 73 [illegible] in any case a scribe wherever he wrote [illegible] the document as an attesting witness unless he actually said so in the document [illegible]

[illegible]

B. 405=22 Bom L. R. 1-6=55 Ind Cas. 616 A scribe who executes a document for and on behalf of the executant is not a person who sees what passes" or "sees it executed" when he himself does the very thing to which he subsequently signing as a witness he professes to bear witness Satidhar v. Rakshakay, 63 Ind Cas 507

Attestation by a Sub Registrar The registration of his Will by a testator and his signature to a certificate of admission of execution, testified by the signature of the Sub Registrar, and of a witness is a sufficient attestation to satisfy the requirements of section 63 of the Succession Act. Amarendra v Kashi, [illegible] admits his [illegible], before him [illegible] names on the Will as witnesses to the admission of the testator, such attestation is sufficient to satisfy the requirements of s 63 of the Succession Act Nitya v Nagendra, 11 C 429; Sarada v Triguna, 1 Pat. 300, Rajendra v Menola, 1 Pat L R 267; Horrosundari v Chanlar, 6 C 17=6 C L R 303; In re Roymonee, 1 C. 150, Horendra v Chandra, 16 C 19, Mohammad v Ali Haidar 12 O L J 1= A I R [illegible] Syed v Tayaba, 1 O L J 591=26 Ind Cas. [illegible] =23 Bom L R 3J9 But a Sub Registrar [illegible] ent was admitted cannot be taken to be a good [illegible] proof that he affixed his seal or signature in the presence of the executant Abinash v Dasarath, 32 C W N 1228, but see Radha v Nripendra, 17 C L J 118

Personal acknowledgment "What is the plain meaning" asked Dr Lushington in Hudson v Parker, (1844) 1 Rob 11 at p 25 "of acknowledging [illegible] [illegible] of Blake v. Blake, (1882) 7 P & D 102 at p 107 Jessel M R observed "What is in law a sufficient acknowledgment under the statute? What I take to be the law is cor[illegible] p 113) in the fo[illegible] the witnesses [illegible] testator should [illegible]

[illegible]

68. them to sign their names, that amounts to an acknowledgment of his signature, if the Court is satisfied that the signature of the testator was on the Will at the time' In Blake v Blake, (1882) 7 P. & D 110 Jessel M R considered the cases of Gwillim v Gwillim, and Beckett v Howe, and observed 'I cannot find one word in the judgment of Gwillim v Gwillim, to show that Sir C Cresswell was of opinion that if the witnesses were saying he had signed would be suffici out the interpretation put upon it by new doctrine laid down in that c Parker, supra The existence of any such doctrine rests entirely upon the stateords to that effect, this is my signature Daintreege v Fasalo, (1888) 13 P. D 102 at p 103, Cotton L J took a similar view Similarly in Ilott v Genge (1842) 3 Curt 160 at p 172 Sir H J Fust said: "The production of a will by the testator, it having his name upon it, and a request to witnesses to attest it would be a sufficient acknowledgment" In In the Goods of Thompsc is produc

have an the pape of his signature by the testator". See also Balmukund v Bhagwandas, 15 Bom L. R 209=19 Ind Cas 401; Manicbai v Hormusji, 1 B 457; Harro Sundari v. Chunder Kant, 6 C 17, Nitya Gopal v Nagendra Nath, 11 C 429, Amarendra v Kashi Nath, 27 C 169 Attestation in the presence of a testator on acknowledgment of signature or exec Chand v. Mohanandi, 6 C L J 453, Sobiiri v Sati, 19 C W N 1297=29 In has been added by the Transfer of Pro Since the passing of that Act attestation a personal ackowle passing of that Act, before the attesting sufficient, Vide Sha P C, Saheda v Raj
(P. C)=A. I R 1 263, Ranu v Laxmanrao, 33 B 44,

Act, the law was the sa the acknowledgment of the donor Such attestation was held to be not valid attestation Vide Amarappa v. Raghava, 44 B 231; Saheda v Rajah Ram, 11 A L. J. 757=21 Ind. Cas 83, In re Veluapalatti Peda, 9 M L T 57=8 Ind Cas 887; Baijnath v Biraja, 2 Pat. 52(61). These rulings are also no longer good law.

been duly accounted for. Suamidin Singh v. Kaniz Fatima, 11 Ind. Cas Where only one attestor proved a mortgage bond attested by more than two witnesses and when its due execution was not denied, held that having regard to s. 68, the document may be taken as properly proved. Nand Kishore v. Karee Lam, 29 C 355 = 6 C. W. N 395 It is not correct to apply an Act which was passed subsequent to the trial of a case to the procedure in the case Proviso to s. 68 of the Evidence Act was held inapplicable to a case disposed of before it took effect. [illegible] v [illegible], 131 Ind. Cas 557 = 1931 A. L. J 312 = A I R 1931 All 411 A mortgage bond purported to be executed by three persons who were all dead at the time of the suit. The signature of each of them was represented by an irregular scribble such as might be made by an illiterate person, and against each of these marks there was a statement that it was the mark of one of the executants, the name being given in each case. These statements were proved to have been written by a deceased professional bond-writer who wrote the whole document in the ordinary course of his business The two attesting witnesses also were dead and the signature of each of them was satisfactorily proved to be in his handwriting Held that there was sufficient proof of the execution of the bond, and that the statement in writing of the deceased bond-writer was relevant under s 32 (2) of the Evidence Act [illegible] v. Manakchand, 11 N. L. R. 9 = 27 Ind Cas 866 Where the only living witness of a document was illiterate and on being examined denied its execution Held, that the document could be proved by other evidence [illegible] Proshad v Gandhar, 26

S.

So long as there

ocument which is il one such witness has been called The fact that, when called, he will prove hostile, does not excuse the plaintiff of his duty Tal Singh v Gopal Singh, 1 Pat. L J 369 Sections 68 and 69 read together were intended to lay down how a document it was not the intention of the legislature that an attesting witness or some other witness should have to prove further that the document was in fact signed by the mortgagor in the

Munna Lal, 11 A L J

15 A L J 164 = 39

ignatures of

, and that of ption of its

gh v Hukam Singh, 15 A L J 167 = 39 A 112 = 38 Ind Cas 601 It is not necessary that two attesting witnesses should be called when two are alive nor that even assuming that one only need be called, he should at least be made to prove

Venkata v

Mere proof

f a document

ment is one that the document was executed in the presence of two attesting witnesses Perumal Chattiar v. Raghava Charriar, 11 L W. 563. Where evidence of the

S. execution of a deed is available which, if tendered would satisfy the requirements of s 68 of the Evidence Act, the Court is justified in refusing to draw the presumption under s 90 of that Act nor can such presumption be invoked in favour of the deed nor would such presumption be justified in favour of the authority of a person to sign for an illiterate executant Raghubar v Sanual 8 O L J 23=61 Ind Cas 125 Where the only living attesting witness to a mortgage deed who had to be and was called by the mortgagee to depose to execution and attes [illegible] the mortgage, was got at by the [illegible] ied the clear evidence he gave in [illegible] as attestation Held that the sworn evidence given by the witness in examination in chief can be acted upon by the Court Thannem v Bommadeiara, 11 L W. 344=(1911) M W N 747

The death of attesting witnes [illegible] legal evidence not by hearsay [illegible] found must be proved to the satisf [illegible] diligent and honest search A [illegible] it can be compelled to attend the Court to give his evidence Asoomeah v S R. Chetti, 13 Bur L T 114=61 Ind Cas 637

To prove a deed of gift the production of a witness who identified the donor and also the attesting witnesses when the deed was being registered and who was known personally to the Sub Registrar together with an entry in favour of the donee in the village records in succession to the donor, is sufficient [illegible] Partab Bahadur v Ramdas, 60 Ind [illegible]

[illegible] ment

it is open to the parties to [illegible] as a matter of fact see the [illegible] v Mon Mohini, 67 Ind Cas 87 Tl [illegible] satisfies the requirement of section 68 [illegible]

[illegible] other is, it cannot be inferred that the [illegible] back the other and that there his evidence [illegible] chminarayan v Moulavi Zahirul, A I R [illegible]

[illegible] f of execution of the document [illegible] =101 Ind Cas 277=A I R 1927 [illegible] a mixed question of law and fact cannot be raised for the first time in second appeal Erulandi Thevan v Subramania Iyer, 97 Ind Cas 611=1926 M W. N 559 Evidence of attestors to mortgage deed is, indispensable unless it is impossible to produce them Karimulla v. Gudar Koeri, A I R 1925 All 56.

Required by law to be attested The term "required by law to be attested" means required by law of the country where the property is situate Elizabeth May Toomey v Bhupendra Nath Bose, 7 Pat. 520=111 Ind Cas 57=A I R 1928 Pat. 304 In that case Dawson Miller C J said. "It was next contended that the indenture of 20th June 1926 was not properly proved as neither of the attesting witnesses to M[illegible] signature had been called, nor [illegible]

[illegible] attestation [illegible] in this country. [illegible] signature of [illegible] his signature required [illegible] ited the document in [illegible] Whatever conflicting [illegible] apply to contracts in relation to law where the lex loci contractus and the lex loci rei sitae or, as Professor Dicey calls it, lex sitas differ it seems to be generally agreed by Story, Dicey Westlake and other text-writers that in so far as the formalities of aliena tion or conveyances are concerned the law applicable is that of the country where the land is situated, (see, Dicey, Conflict of Laws, Ch. 21 and Appendix Note 17). S

... been intended to govern. Thus as to conveyances or Wills of land the local nature of the thing requires them to be carried into execution according to the law here." So also in Inglis ... v. ... 5 B & C 451, ... "The rule as to the law of the domicile has never been ... ity that the law of England, ... law of a foreign country." The ... their respects to foreign law, ... oreign country. In Waterhouse ... "When the law of a foreign ... the property of a debtor situate ...

... required to be attested, and s. 68 does not therefore apply. Sanatan v. Dina Nath, 26 C 222=3 C. W. N. 228.

An unattested ... as containing a personal covenant to ... ludes it. Madras Deposit and Benefit Co. ... it is impossible to view the question of the execution with reference to the covenant to pay as severable from the execution of the document in so far as it creates a security. Virappa v. Channa Muthu, 2 M. L. T. 175=17 M. L. J. 213=30 M. 251, but see Venkata v. Venkata, 54 M. 163=A. I. R. 1931 Mad 140=60 M. L. J. 56.

In order to prove a sale deed, it is not necessary, under this section, to examine a marginal ... by law to be attested ... is not a document ... application to a case in which such account book is produced in evidence. Emperor v. Narbada, 51 A. 861=121 Ind. Cas. 819=A. I. R. 1930 All. 38.

This section only applies to cases where a document is required to be attested in the manner provided by law and it can not be admitted in evidence unless one of the attesting witnesses is examined. Mathura Prosad v. Chhedi Lal, 13 A. L. J. 553=29 Ind. Cas. 363.

The provision of this section does not apply to the Will of a Mahomedan, and so an admission by the defendant, in a suit by the testator, was held to be relevant in a later suit to prove the Will. Najban Bibi v. Saiyad Raja, 4 O. C. 468.

Waiver of objection. Where no objection was taken to the admissibility of a mortgage deed in the Court of first instance on the ground that the deed ... at least, as ... considered ... Kaliathira, ... 13 M. L. J. 143.

Effect of document not properly attested. A document which is inoperative ... not being properly attested can not take ... endra ... Kali ... or of ... 164 (F. B.)=11 A. L. J. 141=18 Ind. ... L. J. 133=36 Ind. Cas. 903, Prannath ... undra, 44 C. 388 (P. C.); Official Receiver ... hemchand v. Malloo, 10 N. L. R. 81; ... 18 S. L. R. 282. Narayan v. Lakshmandas, ...

... only one witness is ... amount contained ... Pulaka Veetil v. Thiruthapalli, 32 M. 410 (F. B.) (Madras Deposit and Benefit Co. v. Oonamalai, 18 M. 29, overruled); Sada Kavur v. Tadepally, 30 M. 284, Ram Narain v. ...

8. ; Sonatun v. Dinonath, 26 C. 222; Dhand v afaladdi v. Mohar, 26 C. 78; Dullim v. Behari, M., 43 M. L J. 475; Mathura v Cheddi, 13 A. err v. Clara Ruxton, 4 C. L. J 510; Quah Chang

Transfer of property Amendment Act (XXVII of 1926) whether retrospective The Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act (XXVII of 1926) was and Roy JJ, held, (i) that in view of the definition of the word "attested" in adequate, but it was held by a Full Bench in the Allahabad High Court in Ganga Nandan Kaluar v. Hanuman Das, A. I R. 1927 All 1 = 49 A. 25 (F. B) ct and this was followed by a Sajer Paramanick, A. I. R 1927 e Bombay High Court in Matilal ot decided on the ground that Act decision in that case, made the alone, there would have been no doubt whatever on the question That amendment was, however, inserted in this Act in the middle of a large number of amendments relating to the military and air force and s 4 of that Act was enacted at the same time which prescribes as follows.—

"This Act shall ... nce of ... lready ... thereof, ... from any debt, penalty, obligation, liability, claim or demand or any indemnity already granted, or the proof of any past act or thing"

... retrospective the legislature determined that that should not affect the validity, invalidity, effect or consequences of anything already done or suffered, or any proceeding in respect thereof It would therefore, ...

Act and under which portions of over 100 Acts are repealed, and amongst these are ss 3 and 4 of Act 10 of 1927 By repealing s 4 of Act 10 of 1927 that Act would have its retrospective effect restored, but in Act 12 of 1927, the saving clause contained in Act 10 of 1927 is repeated almost verbatim . This saving clause, therefore, enacts that the repeal of ss. 3 and 4 of Act 10 of 1927, which would have made that Act retrospective, is not to have that effect, for Act 12 of 1927 cannot rev... therefore, of this legislation ... of 'attested' is not to have retr... rights or any act done in the ... not valid when executed for want of proper attestation the subsequent legislation will not make it valid' But the view expressed by their Lordships in this case ... ion in a subsequent Full ... A I R 1929 Mad 1=55 ... ed to the Full Bench for decision was —

"Whether Acts 27 of 1926, 10 of 1927 and 12 of 1927 are retrospective in their nature so as to apply to documents executed on a date prior to their coming into force?"

Coutts-Trotter C J on behalf of the Full Bench answered the question as follows The Acts are retrospective We should have thought that Acts 27 of 1926 and 10 of 1927 showed a clear intention that they were to be regarded ... of 1927 preclude further discussion" ... 772=109 Ind Cas 469=A I R 1928 ... v Swami, 30 L W 677=A I R 1929 Mad 881=57 M L J 588, Dargawati v Jagannath, 27 A L J 1391=118 Ind Cas 662=A I R 1929 A 680

Proviso So far as any rule of pleading requires that the execution of a document named in the declaration must be expressly traversed, the failure to plead in denial must, under such a rule, be equivalent to a confession of the allegation of execution in the declaration, and thus the execution is not an issue on the trial, and the present rule does not apply Wigmore § 1295, Vide also order VIII, r 5, C P Code The words, "specifically denied" mean specifically denied by the party against whom it is sought to be used In Cook v Transuell, 8 Taunt, 450, Gibbs C J said "In cases where 'non est ...

... part of the deed, he must do it by the attesting witness in the common way" See also Gillett v Abbott, 7 A. & E 783 Proper reading of the proviso to s. 68

69. is that if required deed the document
the deed an attesting witness Radha v Deoki, A I R 1932 All 320=1932 A L J 207; but see Ramdayal v Sulab, 14 R D 494 If the validity of a mortgage be specifically denied, in the sense that the document did not effect a mortgage in law, then it must be proved by the mortgagee that the mortgage deed was attested at least by two witnesses. Lachman v Surendra, A I R 1932 All. 527 (F B)=1932 A L J 653

Proof where no attesting witness found

69. If no such attesting witness can be found, or if the document purports to have been executed in the United Kingdom, it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting and that the signature of the person executing the document is in the handwriting, of that person.

Principl ... attestation of an attesting or ... when the attestor is unavailable ... tion; and according to the orthodox form of preferred witness rule, the attestation must even be used in preference to other testimony" Wigmore § 1505 The reason is that the attestation is in effect the extra-judicial statement of the attestor to the fact of due execution, admitted under the hearsay exception and being admissible so far as concerns the H instrument relative to its have subscribed his name in attestation comes in by w Lossee v Lossee, 2 Hill 609 as a written declaration of event of his death, or absence, yields a reluctant credit by way of necessary substitute for his oath Mr. Hill's Note on the case; Wigmore § 1505 So this extra judicial statement, expressed or implied, is always, when the attestor is unavailable, admissible by exception to the Hearsay rule The question there is, not merely whether it is admissible, but whether it is preferred to any other ... attestor is personally ... that extent disposed ... could now be made ... Is it, then further, a part of the rule of preference that, before thus going to other testimony, the attestor' singular na signature

over testimony on the stand under cross-examination is an extraordinary measure, assuming for such a statement a value not at all to be attributed ordinarily to such statements. Nevertheless, such a preference unquestionably existed as a part of orthodox common law rule in England Wigmore § 1310 But this section requires that the signature of the maker also, as well as that of the attestor must be proved. This contention means in effect that another witness to the maker's signature must be called, for (as has just been noted) the attestation is the attestor's testimony to the fact of execution, i e the placing of the signature by the purporting maker. If, then, it is necessary to call a second witness to the maker's signature, this must be on the supposition that the testimony of the attestation, taken alone, does not go far enough in its implied or expressed statements This is indeed the ground upon which in part the above contention has been rested. It argues first, that the attestation, while asserting execution by a person of a certain name, does not sufficiently identify that person with the party in the case. It argues further more, from the point of view of policy, that a person might be bribed to make a false

... feasible
... attestor's
... M 520
..., that that proof
... the defendant with the note what is the effect which, with the greatest degree of latitude can whic deic utmc
A B
step further and show that the defendant is A B of C in the county of York, or in some manner establish that he is the person by whom the note appears to be executed Now what does the subscribing witness in this particular case attest? Why, that this instrument was duly executed by a person of the name of Francis Musgrove There may be many persons of that name and if you do not show
... trument, you
... ve It is not
... e instrument
executed .. why? Because it is an essential part of the issue, which you are bound to prove, that the instrument was executed by the defendant in the suit It seems to me, therefore on principle, that you must give some evidence of the identity of the defendant with the party who has signed the instrument." Wigmore § 1513 But "wher handwriting In this case one is beyond the reach of the proce which could be obtained was ... on-residents,

... lm)] and in
... instrument

Burr Jones § 529

Attestor's Hearsay Statement—How admissible Upon the general prin-... statement cannot be used
... ng testimony in person.

he did not see executed by the
to trustworthiness seem to be four (1) The occasion is a formal one, and the statement requires a writing; and there is commonly a radical disinclination to take part in a false transaction of such a sort (2) The concoction of a false document will either fix an innocent party with a false obligation or will divert legitimate heirs of their rights, and there is a natural repugnance to giving assistance in such a wrong (3) The making of a false attestation, whether or not it is in criminal law a forgery or a perjury, is popularly supposed to be such, and the attestor would probably be at least an accomplice in a forgery, so that substantive sanction deterring from a crime would probably operate to prevent a false attestation (4) The attestor knows that he is liable at any time to be called upon in Court to substantiate his attestation, and not only in his falsity likely there to be exposed by the opponent's witnesses, but he will there be obliged either to commit perjury by swearing to the fact of execution or to ... of recanting and confessing his falseness ... of circumstances which easily accounted for ... to the Hearsay rule. Wigmore § 1508.

Scope of the section By the strict rule of the common law the primary or best evidence to prove the execution of a deed or other writing required by law to be attested is generally the testimony of subscribing witnesses, if available or if not, then proof of his handwri ... the rule under discussion was declared by ... ormal and universal as that can be stated ... gworth, 4 Maule & S 325) yet it has several qualifications and exceptions The rule does not apply if the subscribing witness is dead (Adam v Kerr, 1 Bos & P 360), or can not be found (Falmouth v Roberts 9 M & W. 467=11 L J Ex. 180, Parker v Hoskins, 2 Taunt 223; Birt v Walker, 4 Barn & Ald 697), or is without the jurisdiction of the Court (Prince v Blackburn, 2 East, 250; Glubb v Edward,

... produced at a tri

dead or cannot b
of being produce writing; and tha of the instrumen

it must be proved that "no such attesting witness can be found" In other words, before a party can rely u exhaust all process of the Court 16, rule 10, C P. C for the arre property. Shahzadi Begam v Cas 756=A I R 1928 Pat 356 (who was a marks-man) denie dead or for some other reason no. ... where attesting wi one attesting dispute as charge the
A. I. R 1 writing of o
A mor execution.
he denies execution, ... has been admitted before the Registrar, the Court of fact can consider it Laxman v. Kamalja, 1924 Nag 367. Sections 68 and 69 of the Evidence Act read together were intended to lay down how a document which was required by law to be attested, ... if the provisions of the sections ... ment, in the absence of evidence to ... not the intention of the legislature that an should have to prove further that th mortgagor in the presence of at least Munna Lal, 14 A. L. J. 1041=39 ... comes to a finding as to a document having been legally proved within the meaning of this section, it cannot be legally interefred with by the appellate Court, specially when no objection was taken to the admissibility of the document at the time of the hearing Monch Konda v. Mella Appalaswamy, 32

... witness is ... Chiranji ... ference to proving the attestation of at least one attesting witness when all the attesting witnesses are dead, are sufficiently complied with by proof of the handwriting of the scribe and by the fact that some of the attesting witnesses signed by the pen of the scribe Krishna Jiu v Bishnath, 31 A 615 = 10 A L J 217 All

...

as the document had been admitted by one of the executants in certain other document tendered in evidence and proved Held, that the evidence adduced did not comply with the requirements of s 69 of the Evidence Act and the document could not be taken to have been proved Gobardhan v Hari Lal, 11 A L J. 379 = 19 Ind Cas. 121 = ... A 361 In England, it is recognized that there is a distinction between proof of the handwriting of a person and presumptive and other evidence that a document had been executed The Indian Law does not appear to allow a party to rely on presumptive or other evidence

...

the attesting witnesses had been duly accounted for Suamudin v Kaniz, 11 Ind Cas 225, see also Naraperumal v Kaphara, 14 L W 563 This section no doubt requires proof that the signature of the executant is in his handwriting, but this fact may be proved indirectly by a contemporaneous admission of execution made by an executant or by other relevant facts, such as his subsequent conduct, just as well as by the evidence of a witness who directly swears to his signature Such an admission recorded by the Sub-Registrar in his registration endorsement can be accepted in evidence as proof of execution Ajudhia v Jagannath, 20 O C 18 = 38 Ind Cas 605 In the expression "it must be proved that the attestation of one attesting witness at least is in his handwriting" "handwriting" could probably be held to include, in the case of marksman, his mark Whitley Stokes, Vol II p 894, see also Pran Krishna v Jadunath, 2 C W N 603 absence of the witness beyond the jurisdiction of the Court (Mills v Twist, 8 Johns (N. Y) 121], or his absence in a distant part of the country, are not sufficient Mclord v Johnson, 4 Bibb (Ky) 531 The absence of the witness is sufficiently accounted for if, after diligent enquiry, he cannot be found Clark v Sanderson, 3 Binn, Pa (192); Cunliffe v Sefton, 2 East, 182, Crosby v Percy, 1 Taunt 364, Dudley v Sumner, 5 Mass 438, Morgan v Morgan, 9 Bing 359, Evans v Curtis, 2 Car & P 296, Bright v Doe, A & E 22; Whitelock v Musgrove, 1 C & M 511 What is due diligence must, of course, depend somewhat upon the circumstances of each case The proof should show satisfactorily that a reasonable, honest and diligent inquiry has been made After such proof is given, the decision of the question depends to a considerable extent upon the so ...

...

Burton 11 Johns (N Y) 64 Such ...
Twist, 3 J ... witness, if ...
Jackson v ... treated as p ...
What is sufficient proof of the search for an absent witness, in order to admit secondary evidence of the signature, depends somewhat upon circumstances. Where the witness has a fixed residence within the country the rule should be more strict than where the defendant had no fixed residence, was a labouring ... ment.
... to use
... vs that
... 282
... party,

0. or that suc , the rule will not be enforc es § 529; see al o Thannesa attesting witness must be p d Cas. 637.

Witness' name unknown, through loss or Illegibility of Document. 'It is clear that where the very name of the attestor cannot be ascertained, the attestor is unavailable for the purpose of furnishing his testimony. This situation occurs where the document is lost; here the proponet is exempt from producing the attestor [Keeling v Ball, Peake Add Cas 88; Re Phibbs (1917) p 93)]; unless of course the name has otherwise before trial become known to the proponent, for in that case his t the document before him, might document did or did not once exist exists" Wigmore § 1314 The known but the person cannot Giles, 1 E & B 642.

Causes of unavaility—Illness—Failure of Memory etc When the attester is at the time of trial so ill or so infirm from age that it is impractic able, without ttendance in Court, his production Taunt. 16, contra Harrison v Bh far as it involves a mental disability organic in its nature, and analogous to insanity, should tion purely as to the identity Wigmore § § 1315, 1316.

If the attestor admissible The interest. Suire has since become because it speaks as

70. The admission of a party to an attested document of its execution by himself shall be sufficient proof of its execution as against him, though it be a document required by law to be attested.

Admission of execution by party to attested document

Principle For the purposes of proof, a judicial admission of the opponent —i e an express agreement for the purposes of the trial—has the same effect as a name. Wigmore § 1290

Scope of the relate to admissio p 891. The term party in the course by the a lmission o Budha v. Sewan, evidently distinguished from the execution by witnesses, which is known as "attestation." Jhama v Dedtu, 2 N. L. R 10 (16) "Section 70 of the Indian Evidence Act lays down that the admission of a party to an attested document of its execution by himself shall be sufficient proof of its execution as against ... Now the question ... as to what is meant ... on' there means the ... assent to the contents ... no this, there he admits ... can be taken to mean ... of assent by him, but ... ent have been complied ... arty admits execution ... be taken to admit that ... 59 of the Transfer of Property ... Bom L 1290 = 17 B 137 = 76 Ind, ... 7 C W N 263 So section 70 of the Evi... attestation ... Transfer of P... ... endra v Nitai, 7 C W N. ... Satishchandra Mitra v ... Woodroffe J said "That ... struct on that even when ... of execution or signing ... his be the meaning of that ...

S

... ad to the ... so indica- ... law to be ... 441 = 44 Ind Cas 984, Pabau Khan v Badal, ... mat Nanhi, 64 Ind Cas 11 = 19 A L J 855 ... ath, 3 Pat 317 = 74 Ind Cas 100 = 1923 P ... , 38 C L J 114 = 74 Ind Cas 178, Aung Kin v Ma Aung, 1 Rang 657, Nageswar v Bachu, 4 Pat L J 511 = 53 Ind Cas 79; Priyanath v Bissessuar, 1 C. W N ccxxii, Dhanua Lal v Shambu, 47 Ind Cas 9 But in a recent case the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has held that this section ... J Hira Bibi v Ram Hari, 30 C W ... A L J 815 = 52 I A 362 = 2 O W ... 1144 = 42 C L J 148 = 98 Ind Cas ... R 1925 P C 203 This section applies ... Ma Po Gin v Ma Hin Din 5 Rang ... v Diva, ... an not ... , 45 C ... unless ... Arjun Chandra v Kailash Chandra, 36 C L J 373 The admission by a mortgagor of the execution of a mortgage deed before the Court does away with the necessity of proving its execution but not with the necessity of such attestation as is required by law Pandurang v Balaji, 14 C P L R 42 Under this section, ... sufficient proof as against the ... proposition that the document ...

4 Pat L J 511, Nibaran v Ram Chandra, 22 C W N 445 = 44 Ind Cas 984 ... document cannot be ... ent of its execution ... 178 = 38 C. L J 114,

There was a clear admission of execution in the written statement The attesting witness called stated that the executant did not sign the deed in his presence Held that the document must be taken to have been proved. Ramlal v. Mussi, Septi, 94 Ind Cas 558=A I R 1926 Pat. 295

Admission when to be made The term "admission" in this section relates only to the admission of a party in the course of a trial of a suit Abdul Karim v Salimon, 27 C 190 Such admission can be made by a party in his pleadings or in his examination Rajmangal v Mathura, 30 Ind Cas 576=38 A 1=13 A L J. 881; Musst Sarja v Murlidhar, 13 N L R 197; Budha v Saruan, 7 N [illegible]

[illegible]

pending before a Court of Justice, cannot be supported on principle or authority If authority were needed to refute such a proposition, I think authority may and can be found in the decision of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Kunwar [illegible] C 241, in Hampleton v Wallis, [illegible] Gobordhan Das v Harilal, 19 Ind [illegible] my opinion an admission under [illegible] though it be an admission not made [illegible] before a Court of Justice, but

[illegible]

1924 Rang 139 But in a later Patna case it has been held that this section relates to the admission of the party in the course of the proceedings in which the document is produced made either in the proceedings or in the evidence. Banuari Prosad v Bigni Kuar, 8 Pat L T 7=101 Ind Cas. 277=A I R 1927 Pat 131; see also Deorao v. Dhandirao, 109 Ind Cas. 576=A I R 1928 Nag 244; Harilal v. Thakur Bag, 19 O C 23=34 Ind Cas. 281 An admission can be made in a written statement Ram Lal v Septi, 91 Ind Cas 558=A I R 1926 Pat 295=1926 P H C C 117, Ayerali v Esmail A I R 1929 Cal 449=49 C L J 347 But an adm[illegible] of a document before a Sub Registrar does not amount [illegible] which is the admiss on referred to in section [illegible] [illegible]ibkhan, 93 Ind Cas 660=18 S L R 282= [illegible] [illegible]uan, 7 N L R 85.

[illegible]

the document need not in any manner evidence its execution. Since the p[illegible] tion of the attesting witness is required solely for the purpose of evidencing [illegible] Goodson,

[illegible]

Wigmore § 1294

Execution not disputable—Because of opponent's claim under the same instrument Where the opponent's claim as expressly set forth in the pleadings [illegible]

[illegible]

attitude, he must relinquish the latter one; so long as the document [illegible] for his purposes, it is also (so far as he is concerned) genuine for the proponent's purposes. The execution thus not being disputable, the rule requiring the attesting witness to prove it does not apply Wigmore § 1297

Proof when attesting witness denies the execution

71. If the attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the document, its execution may be proved by other evidence.

Principle The notion of the rule of Preference for the attesting witness is that of the general desirability, in furtherance of truth, of obtaining his knowledge on the subject What may be the tenor of witness's testimony, remains of the sid[illegible] i e by [illegible] evidence the execution, the present rule says nothing about the consequences—whatever any other rule may say The present rule's force is absolutely spent when witness is produced for examination So the attestor's positive denial of the facts of execution, contradicting the statements implied or expressed in his attestation leave the proponent still free to prove by other testimony, if he can, the facts of due execution, a permission demanded not only by principle but also by policy in as much as the proponent might otherwise be defeated of his rights by a corrupt attestor Wigmore § 1302

Scope of the section The party seeking to prove an instrument may examine his witness as to the acts of execution performed, the date, the place,

[illegible]

15 Pick Mass 534 If a party, who calls a witness to prove a particular fact, be disappointed in the result of the testimony, it is competent for him to prove the fact by other testimony 3 Stark Ev 1692 If the subscribing witness fails to establish [illegible] attestation, [illegible] of law, not [illegible] testimony [illegible] 534 In other words, the execution of the instrument, even though it be a Will may be established by competent evidence against the positive testimony of the subscribing witnesses Matter of Gottrel, 95 N Y 329 The party who would establish a deed must lay his ground work by the production of the subscribing witnesses if th[illegible] hey fail to establish the execution of it, [illegible] positive rule of the law, is not to be c[illegible] be permitted to establish attestation or not Nort Ev 254 When in a mortgage suit is was found that one of the attestors was dead and the other either denied or did not recollect the execution of the document, the execution of the same can be proved by other evidence Lakshman v Gokhul, 1 Pat 54=(1922) Pat 415=70 Ind Cas 298 A statement of the attesting witnesses to a mortgage deed that they signed the blank paper and not the completed deed is sufficient to attract the operation of this section and entitles the mortgagee to prove execution by evidence other than that of the attesting witnesses Dinabandhu v Sanatan, 48 Ind Cas 624 "If one of two or more attesting witnesses being called, denies or does not recollect the execution of the document it is not very clear whether other evidence can be given to prove it, if there be another attesting witness alive, subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence, 71. who is not produced " Field Ev 7th Ed 227. It is not intended by enacting this section to depart from the rule of English law that the evidence of the other witnesses should not be introduced unless the absence of the other attesting witness is satisfactorily explained in the case where one of the two attesting witnesses has been called and has denied execution. Ayenanti v Mahammad, 49 C L J 347 = A I R 1929 Cal 44. So other evidence under s. 71 cannot be admitted where provision of s 68 have not been complied with. Banuari v Gopi, A I R 1931 All 411 = 1931 A L J 312.

given false testimony ... ll which was attested by four witnesses, two of whom had died and the other two deposed practically in favour of the objector, Mookerjee v. Breachcraft JJ observed. "This however, does not compel the Court to pronounce against the Will It was ruled in the case of Nubo Kishore Dass v Joy Doorga Dassee, 22 W R 189, that the mere fact that attesting witnesses to a Will have repudiated their signatures, does not invalidate the Will, if it can be proved by evidence of a reliable consideration the circumstances of the case and judge from them collectively whether the requirements of the statute were complied with; in other words, the Court may, (of the case evidence is o' Court and the Will Y also Re Sweet, (1891) P 400; Re Owens, 29 L R Ir 451 So the fate of a document is not necessarily at the n v. Anjumanunnissa, 48 Ind Cas 53 19 Ves. Jr 494, 507, Lord Eldon said namely, that the party did not execute it." Per Lord Kenyon, C J in Ley v Ballord, 3 Esp 173 note "The attesting witness's testimony is not indeed conclusive for the party may go on to prove him untrustworthy and may call other witnesses to prove th v Harringworth, 4 M. & Glascock, Skinn 413; Austin N P 264, Richie v Oalfield, v. Bradbury, Buller N P 26. hands, it was objected he if you call one w he prove against yo him to call other Wigmore § 1302. absence of recolle evidence Sheik K Balram v Kamal 347 = A I R 1929 Cal. 141. See also Coles v Coles, L. R. 1 P. 70; Bowma

S.

v. Hodgson, L. R. 1 P. 362; Dayman v. Dayman, 71 L. T. 699, Pilkington v. Gray, (1899) A. C. 401; Goodison v. Goodison (1913) 1 Ir R 218 Where the attestor denies attestation and the other attestors are dead, what is required under s. 71 is only pro[illegible] he presence of attesting witnesses. Lalla [illegible] ari v. Sankar Dayal, 74 Ind. Cas. 969 [illegible] positive and there is nothing to throw d[illegible] ected. Wyatt v. Berry, (1893) P. 5; Phip. Ev. 502. Where the only living attesting witness of a document was illiterate and on being examined denied execution. Held, that the document could be proved by other evidence Babu Prashad v. Gambhir, 29 Ind. Cas. 500 A [illegible] at the time of its [illegible] Gouri Shankar, 39 I [illegible] witness is considered hostile by the party taking his stand on the document, does not relieve him from the duty of examining him as a witness Gobinda v Pulin 31 C. W. N 215 · Tula Singh v Gopal Singh, 1 P L J 369 If he denies the execution, other oral evidence is admissible to prove execution Basdeo v. Rasbehari, 104 Ind Cas 344; Lakshman v Gokul, 1 Pat 151; Sashi Mukhi v. Monmohi [illegible] n v Krishna Ji, 29 Bom. L R. 1425 = 105 [illegible] er is not bound to call a hostile attesting witness [illegible] Belbin v Skeats, 1 S & T 148; Phip Ev. 502.

[illegible]

obviously cannot excuse, for it cannot be ascertained except after production to testify.—When it appears after such production, other principles come into play, (a) the witness may adopt his attesting signature as record of past recollection, and upon the faith of it verify the facts of execution as thus known to him [illegible] be otherwise [illegible] of execution; [illegible] ay be proved by other qualified persons Wigmore § 1315 The first question is, may not the attestor, though not actually recollecting the circumstances, adopt his [illegible] e his testimony on the faith [illegible] had he not witnessed the [illegible] Recollection Vide s 159 [illegible] circumstances of the execution [illegible] prove the facts of execution by other witnesses Because "it could never have [illegible] xecuted, when- [illegible] attending the [illegible] ill, not because [illegible] e requisites of the law, but because they would most likely prove or disprove them, and [illegible] said [illegible] since th[illegible] they ar[illegible] are circ[illegible] ation al[illegible] praesumuntur rite esse acta. [illegible]

71. Lindley L sion, in a sh of acting on reasonably be when the e consistent with that intention effect in a p all due formalities can only b maxim is not wanted where such such observance is disproved. The maxim only comes into operation there is no proof one way or the other, but where it is more probable that what was intended to be done was done as it ought to have been done to render it valid, rather than that it was done in some other manner which would defeat the intention proved to exist, and would render what is proved to have been done of no effect" See also Cooper v Beckett, 3 Curt 648 = 4 Moo P C 419, Wright v Sanderson, (1884) 9 P & D 149, Lloyd v Roberts (1858) 12 Moo P C 158 The presumption app more or less force according to the circumstances of each case Vennicoi (1890) 15 P. & D 170 (184 probate and if the Will has been duly executed, probate Hemangini, 4 C W N 204, Anna Cholam v Ramaswamy, 30 M L (P C) = 20 Blake v Blake (1882) 7 P & D 102 Hotker L J Will has been in doubt sign, the fact the Court to come to the conclusion that they Blake v Knight, 3 Curt 547, In re the recollection Woolmer v.
Daly, 2 Lah 773 The same other documents required by law to be attested One of the attesting witnesses A to a mortgage bond deposed that he was present, saw the execution and became an attesting witness, the other witness B stated that at the request of the mortgagor, he became an attesting witness but had no recollection of any other circumstances in connection the execution of the document On the same day, when the documen identified, the executant who, in his that the infer laid down in 38 C L J 1
principle applicable to cases of this character Jogendra Nath v Nitai Charan, 7 C W N 384, by the Allahabad 162. in Ram v Munnalal 39 A 109, Uttam Singh v Hukum Singh 39 A. by the Madras High Court in t might
of the

upon the face of the signature of the testator at the foot, as also the subscription It was ruled by Dr Lushington, that, in the absence or death of witness prima facie the presumption is that the testator signed in the joint presence of the two persons and they This principle was applied by the Allahabad Hig where reference was made to Wright followed, as based on sound mentioned before. Reference may in Blake v Blake, 7 P. D. 102; Harris
v. Peverett, (1902) P 205. No doubt (1915) 1 P 211, the que stances, and cases are con inference by reason of were not in contemplation of Proof of document not required by law to be attested.

72. An attested document not required by law to be attested may be proved as if it was unattested.

S. &

Principle and Scope This section embodies section 37 of Act II of 1855. For a long time it was held that when a document was attested, one at least of the attesting witnesses must be produced Doe v Durnford, 2 M & S 62. In Warkel v Ferriour, 2 Camp 282, 284, Lord Ellenborough said that "it did not depend on the nature of the deed to be proved, it must depend upon the possibility of procuring the attendance of the attesting witness, not upon the testimony he is likely to give" See also Higgs v Dixon, 2 Stark 180; Streeter v. Barlett, 5 C B 562 But as this worked great hardships to suitors the Common Law Procedure Act 1854 (17 & 18 Vict C 125, s 26) and the Indian Evidence Act of 1855, introduced the present reform this practice Nort. Ev. 255 Those Acts restricted the rule to documents required by law to be attested. Re Rache, L R 32 Ch D 35. In England the Common Law Procedure Act, has been replaced by Stat 28 & 29 Vict C, Ss 1, 7 So now in England, an attested document, to the validity of which attestation is not by law necessary may be proved by admission or otherwise as if there were no attesting witnesses. This rule is applicable also to Ireland R v Mallon, 12 Ir C L R 55 This [illegible]

Identity of Party and document. In order to prove a document the identity of the writer or marksman with the defendant or other person alleged to have signed the document, may have to be given Phip Ev 7th Ed 504 In Neuson v Luster 13 Ill 175, Trunbell J said "I have no hesitation in holding that proof of the handwriting of the grantor to a deed furnishes altogether more satisfactory evidence of its execution than would proof of the handwriting of the subscribing witness" The identity of the party may be proved by showing that he had spoken of the [illegible] & P 613) or by proof of similar [illegible] n, especially if the name be unc[illegible] C B 861, Simpson v Dismore, 9 M & W 47); Phip Ev 7th Ed p 504 The identity of the document, whether attested or not, may also have to be shown, e g., when the defendant, pursuant to notice, produced a document which the plaintiff denied to be the contract in question, parol evidence was received to determine the point Fraude v Hobbs, 1 F & F. 612; Phip Ed 7th Ev 504

Comparison of signature, writing or seal with others admitted or proved

73. In order to ascertain whether a signature, writing or seal is that of the person by whom it purports to have been written or made, any signature, writing or seal admitted or proved to the satisfaction of the Court to have been written or made by that person, may be compared with the one which is to be proved, although that signature, writing or seal has not been produced or proved for any other purpose.

The Court may direct any person present in Court to write any words or figures for the purpose of enabling the Court to compare the words or figures so written with any words or figures alleged to have been written by such person.

*[This section applies also, with any necessary modifications, to finger impression.]

* This paragraph was added to s. 73 by the Indian Evidence Act, 1899 (5 of 1899).

73 Principle In proving a document o . evidence offer themselves, first testimony b or some circumstance of the kind of hand second mode there is tribunal directly

Wigmore § 1996
to afford a fairly trustworthy inference, must of course be genuine, and they also be numerous and representative enough to serve as an adequate basis for inference to the general style Ibid

Scope of the Section By section 45, handwriting and signature of a person can be proved by an expert Section 47 admits the opinion of any person, acqu ... is supposed to be writt In addition under ss 45 and 47, with an undisputed one in dispute it to be co ... by the party to be genuine comparison is the more satisfactory. If it be proved genuine to the satisfaction of the Judge, with whom the Ridgway, 1 F & F. 270), the comp Times 223) A party may und purpose of comparison (Doe v Wil be less satisfactory, as a person writing with the very view of defeating a comparison. Cobell v. Kilminster, could only be made between the disputed the cause But the present

Nort Ev.
doubted in have decl admission comparison with the standard must be proved
"The difference between letters which have been received in correspondence
... a witness's hand" it was argued in Mudd v Suckermore, 2 P & D
... a witness

in a condition ... selected or even ...
Best Ev § 238 ... in Mudd v Suckermore, (1836) 2 P D O 20, the inconvenience of collateral issues already exists where a witness speaks to the genuineness of handwriting from an impression derived from a letter he has received The correctness of this knowledge depends on the genuineness of that letter, and even where he says he saw the party write, his knowledge depends on the issue whether or not he did see the party write As to the second objection Mr Best says "It is not always easy to obtain fair specimens, and should such be produced, it would be competent to the opposite party to encounter them with true one" Best on Ev § 238. Concerning the third objection, Mr Best says "It does not seem satisfactory logic to protect a jury which can read from availing themselves of that means for the investigation of truth because other juries might, from want of education, be disqualified from so doing; if some men are blind, that is no reason why all others should have their eyes put out." Best on Ev § 238 This last argument against jurors loses all its force in India in as much as no civil cases are tried here by jurors and a few important criminal cases only are tried with the help of ... are literate ... by compa- ... by juxtaposi- ... mind of the witness on the other, it has been pointed out in the latter case the characteristics of the standard are indistinct, shadowy and uncertain, while in the former they appear in ...

paper in ...
ceived, of ...
disputed ... made in h... v Woolfo...
held that ...
cause) "has been that the standard writing must be one used in and connected with the case But how can this be held necessary when we look at the object of the standard It is of no consequence what the writing you compare is; all you want is a genuine handwriting, and it is as respects the nature of the evidence not material what instrument it is, nor whether the paper be blank in all except the signature, nor whether the writing be connected with the case or not."

In England the controversy was set at rest by the enactment of Stat 17 & 18 ... which allow comparison of hands ... y laws as well as under this ... ear, first, that any writings, the ... not of the jury, but of the ...

4 F. & F 490), ...
Muk, 4 C & P ... any one, the J...
Fussell, 3 F & F ... lay witness is c... by putting the ...
parison by wit...
merely opinion ...

3. them, the jury may compare them as well as any body else and any two people may think differently" Per Yates J. in Bqookbond v Woodley, Peake N. P 21 Note Similarly in Doe v. Suckermore, 5 A & E 749, Denman L C J said "If the proved document and the controverted are both in Court, and the witnesses speak to their resemblance or difference from immediate observation, they seem to perform a task for the jury which every one of them, even though illiterate, might well perform for himself" So it is clear that on principle, comparison by a lay witness should not be allowed, even in the presence of the tribunal. But this rule does not apply in the case of an expert witness, because "he does what possibly the jury may be incompetent to do" Ibid; Wigmore § 1997 The question of comparison of signature is distinct from question of admissibility Khyiruddin v Emperor, 53 C 372=92 Ind. Cas 442=27 Cr. L J 266=A I R 1926 Cal 139 The word "purports" in this section does not limit the scope of the section to such documents only as are signed or contain some intrinsic statements of the identity by a party to be in the handwriting of proof be campared with other writing satisfaction of the Court to have been made or written by that person Veera Raghava v. Souri Aiyanger, 35 M L J 608=41 Ind. Cas 688=24 M L. T 477. In delivering the judgment in the case the Court observed "This case turns solely on the r Evidence Act.
Kumar v Empe Batchelor JJ i are inclined to the scope of the statement of th is necessary to writing In used is "allege the two words the two must l ascribed by the prosecution to a particular person, then the regard to the adn

disputed writing,
have been written or made by the accused Emperor v. Ganpat Balkrishna, 14 Bom L R 310=15 Ind Cas 649=13 Cr. L J 505 But in Barindra Kumar v Emperor, 37 C 467=14 C W N. 1114 at p 1138, Jenkins C J. said "In applying the provisions of section 73 of the Evidence Act it is important not to lose sight of its exact terms It does not sanction the comp ... with which the shall be attributed, purport to must stat specifically paragraph of contra son In Sessions with the submissio not an irre learned S section, ha out having think this times as a mode of proof hazardous and inconclusive, and especially when it is made by one not conversant with the subject and without such guidance as might be derived from the arguments of counsel and the evidence of experts. In Sreemutty Phoolee Bibee v. Gobind Chunder Roy, 22 W. R. 272, it was said by the Court that 'a comparison of signature is a mode of ascertaining the truth which ought to be used with very great care and caution.' In this case no expert has been called to assist the Court, and not because no expert was available; there is, it is well known a Government expert as to handwriting and certain of the documents in this case bear a stamp which shows that they have been submitted to him. It is true that the opinions of experts on handwriting meet with their full share of disparagement at times, but at any rate there is this use in their employment that the appearances on which they rely are disclosed, and can thus be supported or criticised, whereas an opinion formed

S.

And distin-
C. 548,
See also 30 Nag. is one o other innot be proof alone.
nd Cas 741;

ne purpose of comparison of handwriting under this section it is his duty, under section 298 of the Criminal Procedure Code to find whether these documents are admitted or proved The record of the case should contain a note of such finding. Queen-Empress v. Tulsaji, Rat. Un Cr C 491; Queen Empress v Lalsing, Rat. Un Cr C 152. But in a trial by jury, where the Judge allowed certain documents to go upon the record, which were not proved under the requirements of s 73 of the Evidence Act, for the purpose of comparison with the disputed handwriting, held that there was no such irregularity of procedure as to warrant an interference in revision Whether the documents were proved or not, it was for the jury to decide Queen-Empres

98. The Court has genuine signature to come to a conclusion Gondu v Tulsiram, A I R 1930 Nag 27.

English law and origin of the ru except when the witness wrote the its nature comparison ;—it being the comparing the writing in question some previous knowledg (Doe v Sukermore, 5 A & E 731, per Patteson J), the law until the year 1854, did not allow the witness, or even the jury except under certain special circumstances, actually to compare two writings with each other, in order to ascertain whether both were written by the same person Taylor ule excluding proof of the hand-writing by The first was the case of a document tent for the Court and jury to compare the in the case for other purposes, and which were admitted or proved to be in the handwriting of the supposed writer Best. Ev § 239, Griffith v. Williams, 1 C & J 47; Doe d Perry v Newton, 5 A & E 514. The case of Perry v Newton, supra, decided by the Court of King's Bench in 1836, is always cited as the leading case to support this exception, although the exception did not arise in the case at all On the trial of an jury, that they might compare them with the signature in the will. The letters were not in evidence for any other purpose. The Judge refused to allow them to be put in, and on appeal the full Court sustained the ruling. Lord Denman

3. C. J. said: "This is a point on which we ought not to raise any doubt... The comparison is unavoidable. There being two documents in the cause, one of which is known to be in the handwriting of a party, the other alleged, but denied to be so, no human power can prevent the jury from comparing them with a view to the question of genuineness; and therefore it is best for the persons acquainted with the handwriting of the supposed writer, either by having seen him write or by having held correspondence with him, the law, acting on the maxim lex non cogit impossibilia, allows other ancient documents, which are proved to have been treated and regularly preserved as authentic, to be compared with the disputed one" Best on Ev. § 240; Roe v. Rawlings, 7 East. 282 (n); Doe v Tarer, R & M. 141; Doe v. Davies, 10 Q. B. 314; Moorewood v. Wood, 14 East. 327; Barr. v. Harpar, 1 Holt 420; Brune v. Rawlings, 7 East. 282; Crauford and Lindsay Peerages, 2 H. L. C 537; Solita v. Yarrow, M & R. 133, Bromage v Rice, 7 C & P. 548. With these exceptions comparison was not allowed in England. Macpherson v. Thoytes, Peake N. P. 29; Brookford v. Woodby, 9 Peak. N P 30; Garrels v. Allexander, 4 Esp. 29; Brookford v. Woodley, 9 Peak N P. 30, Gancols v. Abuandro, 1 Esp. 37. In Engleton v. Kingston, 8 ... I never heard of evidence in ... those who had never seen ... equently received of the jury to prove comparison of ... metropolis the jury are composed ... conclusions from such evidence. For my part, I have always been inclined to admit it, and shall do so in this case." See also Rivett v. Braham, 4 Term. R. 497, King v Cator, 4 Esp 117

The subject at last came before the Court of King's Bench in the well known case of Mudd v. Suckermore, 5 Ad. & E. 703 In that case the Court ... admissibility ... years after ... dissenting ... "Compari- ... ion of the ... ; and such ... submitted

... whose hand- ... calling on ... reception of ... ch comparisons were not allowed in India Annagurubili v. Kristnasawmi, 1 M. H. S. C. R. 457.

In 1865, Stat. 28 & 29 Vict. C. 18, was passed, section 8 of which runs as follows: "comparison of a disputed writing with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the Judge to be genuine, shall be permitted to be made by witnesses; and such writings, and the evidence of witnesses respecting the same may be submitted to the Court and jury as evidence of genuineness, or otherwise, of the writing in dispute" Section 1 of the same Act provides that the above enactment, in common with certain other clauses relating to evidence,—shall apply to all Courts of Judicature, as well criminal as all others, and to all persons having, by law or by consent of parties, authority to hear, receive, and examine evidence, whether in England or in Ireland" Taylor § 1869 The Indian Evidence Act found place on the Statute Book in 1872.

Comparison of writing etc, meaning of All evidence of handwriting, except where t comparison of h.
ness entertains, mind, derived from some previous knowledge of the hand Woodward J in Travis v Brown 43 Pa St 12 (Am) But this is not what is properly known as comparison of handwriting "By comparison is meant," says Starkie "a comparison by the juxtaposition of two writings, in order by such comparison, to ascertain whether both were written by the same person" Stark Ev Part IV p 654 "Comparison of handwriting is where other witnesses prove a paper to mind, as an external visible and tangible object is distinct from a mental impression or memory. It is the distinction between what is objective and what is subjective Woodward J in Travis v Brown, 43 Pa St 12

The genuineness of the standard Wherever proof of handwriting by en that the standard of is obvious Under the of a disputed writing tion of the Court to be as to the genuineness out by the collateral is used as a

e person write the s, 13 S W R 330 certainty, should to a
In a oversy

record, is presumed to be genuine, and may be used as a standard without further proof Saute v Dawson, 2 Mart 202 (Am) "When the identity of anything is fully and certainly established, you may compare other things with it which are doubtful, to ascertain whether they belong to the same class or not, but when both are doubtful and uncertain, comparison is not only useless as to any certain result, but clearly dangerous, and more likely to bewilder than to instruct the jury." Per Coulter J in Depue v Place. 7 Pa St. 428 (Am) A document to be admissible against an accused person should be proved to be a document

3. in the handwriting of an accused person by comparison with an admitted or proved specimen of his handwriting, in the light of the testimony of expert witness Pulinbehari v King Emperor, 16 C. W. N 1105=16 Ind Cas. 257, Queen-Empress v. Tulsaje, Rat. Un Cr. C. 491.

…tographic copies of … admitted signature … 94 C A. Such copies are secondary evidence Ibid But it is held in Massachusetts that magnified photographic copies of the signature in dispute and of admitted genuine signatures of the same person are admissible in evidence when accompanied by competent preliminary proof that the copies are accurate in all respects except as … are capable" said Merrick J. "of affording some …

glass … mark … not … tion … admi … prop … accuracy of the copies produced by the art of the photographer, we are unable to perceive any valid objection to the use of such proposed representations of original and genuine signatures as evidence competent to be considered and weighed by a jury" Marcy v Barney, 16 Gray, 160 Letter press copies might under some circumstances be useful as well as the originals, or in default of them Wigmore § 2019.

… Any person whose handwriting is in … , may be required by the Judge to write in … may be compared with the document in question Doed Devine v Wilson, 10 Moo P C 50?, 503; Cobbett v. Kilminster, 4 F. & F. 490; Taylor § 1871 To prove the handwriting of a person in a particular document a party may ask the Court to have the handwriting of that person to be taken in Court for the purpose of comparison The result of the … of an issue arising in the case and is quite … of the question of admissibility or otherwise of … hin the province of the jury and not of the Judge Khyiruddin v Emperor, 42 C L J 504

J. 79; Basgit v Emperor, 6 P 304=104 Ind. Cas 626, Emperor v. … 46 M. 715=69 Ind Cas 374.

Comparison of handwriting—Value of A comparison of handwriting is at all times as a mode of proof hazardous and inconclusive, and especially when it is made by one not conversant with the subject and without such guidance as might be derived from the arguments of counsel and the evidence of experts. Sarajini v. Hari Das, 26 C W. N 75, Balakram v Md Said, 77 Ind Cas. 872. In Phoode Bibee v. Gobind Chunder Roy, 22 W. R 272, it was said by the Court … the truth which ought … peror, 76 Ind. Cas. 4-5, … comparison of writings has consequently been deemed a mode of ascertaining truth which ought to be used with very great caution (Nalin Krishna v Rasik Lal, 10 C 1047 (1051), and 2)=16 W. R. P C 16), specially comparison. R v. Silverlock, 516; Doe v Suckermore, 5 A & 4 M I A 67=7 B L R 216= 1=20 I A 95; Ambika Charan Galstin v Sonatun, 78 Ind. R 529, Abdulla v Ganni, 11 B ...aran v Girish, 9 W. R 150. ... dissimilarity of signatures, a particular signature is not ... the signature, yet resemblance ... genuine Sarojini v Hari Das, 26 C W. N 113=34 C L J 373, Balahu v Parmesuar, 64 Ind Cas. ..., there is room for suspicion that ... re. ... tu-ally written in the ... The character of a person's signature is generally of uniform appearance, and the ... person is thus ... signature of a ... person is such a facsimile that one is a perfect match to the other in every respect There is generally diversity in the marks of the pen, the size of the letter, the level of the signature and space it occupies, that stands as a guard over the genuine signature and ... Sarojini v Hari Das, supra, see al ... ut as was observed by Coleridge J in ... test of genuineness ought to be ... some other specimen or specimens but to the general character of the writing which is impressed on ... or position, as for instance the writer sitting up or reclining or the paper being placed upon a harder or softer substance, or on a place more or less inclined—nay, the material as pen, ink etc, being different at different times are amply sufficient to account for the letters being made variously at the different times by the same individual Independently, however, of anything of this sort few individuals, it is apprehended, write so uniformly that dissimilar formations of particular letters are grounds for concluding them not to have been made by the same person" Galstaun v Sonatun, 78 Ind Cas 668=A I. R 1925 Cal 485

S.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

Public documents.

74. The following documents are public documents.—

(1) documents forming the acts or records of the acts—

(i) of the sovereign authority,

(ii) of official bodies and tribunals, and

(iii) of public officers, legislative, judicial and executive, whether of British India, or of any other part of Her Majesty's dominions, or of a foreign country,

(2) public records kept in British India of private documents.

74. Scope of the section This is important because certain m documents as distinguished from It is not always easy to deter private document In Sturla v Freccia, 5 App Cas. 623, the question arose as regards the meaning of the word 'public documents". In delivering the in the c 12 Cl & F 641.

Now m which it goes is, that it should o by a public officer I do n f meaning of the whole world. I think an entry in books of a manor is public in the sense that it concerns all the people interested in the manor. And an entry probably in a corporate book concerning a corporate matter, or something in which all the corporation is concerned, would be 'public' within that sense. But it must be a public document, and it must be made by a public officer I understand a public document there to mean a document that is made for the purpose of the public making use of it, and being able to refer to it It is meant to be where there is a judicial or quasi-judicial case with the Bishop acting under the be said to be quasi judicial He is but I think the very object of it m purpose of being kept public, so th acce term
and
the pape
Mun
Royal proclamations, and all other acts of State Powell Ev 248 In this connection it should be borne in mind that the term 'public' as applied to documents is used in English l the statements contained in as a form of testimony, eithe persons, of the facts stated mean that the document is one of those, originals of which are kept in some strangers must be a register abduction document persons of

Evidence
only in the second sense All descriptions of public documents have characteristic, that they are kept in some special custody and provable by means of a copy without production of the original Wills Ev. 2nd Ed 407 A public document is one prepared by a public servant in the discharge of his public official duty. The mere fact that it is kept in a office does not lead to the inference that it is a public document Madhab Din v. Karar Singh, 107 Ind.

Cas 618 = A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 640; see also 105 Ind. Cas. 353 = A. I. R. 1928 Nag. 93. Where a letter received from the Comptroller of the Military Accounts in reply to the warrant of attachment acknowledging the same was relied on to prove knowledge of the judgment-debtor as regards the existence of the decree, held, that the letter was a public document under s. 74 of the Evidence Act and that the same, did not require proof. Sheikh Elu v. Hira Lal, A. I. R. 1928 Oudh. 488. If the law requires that . . . Revenue record, such pedigree in the Revenue . . . A. I. R. 1928 Lah. 211 = 103 Ind. Cas. 182. Da . . . 98 Ind. Cas. 471 = A. I. R. 1927 All 52. C . . . Deputy Collector under s. 40, Bengal Tenancy . . . 1926 Pat. 436 = 95 Ind. Cas 966. Registers . . . Act, . . . gisters . . . 5 Ind. Cas. 955; 69 Ind. Cas. . . . and death nor porcha slips . . . 22 C. W. N. 822; 17 Ind. Cas 82.

Acts or Records of the Acts In . . .

. . . any other officer furnishes for the information of the Public Prosecutor? It is true that the police officer acts in performance of a statutory duty, but section 74 makes no distinction between such acts and other official acts." When a Civil Surgeon reports to a Magistrate as to the age of a person he is merely giving his expert . . . ct in official capacity for the use . . . onsequently such a document . . . Saadat Ali . . . 1 Luck 733 = 108 In . . . mentioned in th . . . om acts of a prep . . . es not make a distinction betw . . . aiya v. Government . . . L J . . . of Posts and Telegraphs . . . notified that stamps . . . be issued to Post Offices for sale to the public was not an 'act' or 'record of act' of a public officer . . . the meaning of this section. Velayudam v Emperor, 1929 M. W. N. . . . Ind. Cas 509 = 30 Cr L. J. 483.

Statutes and state papers. Statements and recitals of public . . . contained in public statutes; Royal proclamations [R. v. Sutton, . . .

74.

Radcliffe v. Union Ins. Co, 7 Jones. 38; Talbot v. Seeman, 1 Cranch. 1, 37, 38); or Parliamentary Journals as to all matters properly before either house are public documents. Phip. Ev. 7th Ed. 324.

...ada Mahomed v. Dame ... and written statement ... certified copy of the ... ocument whereas the whether th... clear that ... was improp... been admi... ness, howe... been for a ... Calcutta H...

... nature, that they can be proved by copies to the same extent as records, and are subject generally to the same rule of evidence. Indeed, henceforth, for the sake of convenience, the general term 're... all the documents just mentioned... record of another Court may be pr... Chief Baron Gilbert: "Records, ... justice, to which every man has a c... transferred from place to place t...

... or accounted for like any other document Bayley v. Wylie, 6 Esp. 85. ... although in strictness of records for all Courts ...rary removal was by

S.

Case, 5 C- D proceedin Writs of be proved by actual production, though after their return, they become matters of record, and are consequently provable by copies B N P. 231 With respect to writs of summons under the Rules of the Supreme Court, they may copies by the
be lost, by se documents
... they relate.
R. v. Scott, L. R 2 Q. B. 415=45 L J. M C. 259. The pleadings in an action forth; and so much so that a party cannot be admitted to plead that the things record, as long solute verity."

by a decision,
m v. Gooroo, the identity of the person who gave the deposition. Brajaballav v. Akhoy, 30 C W N 254=93 Ind Cas 15 Proceedings of a Court of Justice may be

I R. 1931 All. 487=A.

S. 75-76.

Private documents.

75. All other documents are private.

Private documents ... classed as Public i e ... Private i e as to their u... document Phip Ev ... ments are private docun... contract, memorandum, l... of the private document ... must be produce... Jones § 201. An abstract statement prepared by a patwari even though bas... on papers in his possession and filed in a suit is only a private documen... Sheo Das v Sheo Dayal, A I R 1930 All 712 = 128 Ind Cas 770

Certified copies of public documents

76. Every public officer having the custody of a publi... document, which any person has a right t... inspect, shall give that person on demand ... copy of it on payment of the legal fees therefor, together with ... certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy o... such document or part thereof, as the case may be, and such certificates shall be dated and subscribed by such officer with his name and his official title, and shall be sealed, whenever such officer is authorized by law to make use of a seal, and such copies so certified shall be called certified copies.

Explanation. Any officer who, by the ordinary course of official duty, is authorised to deliver such copies, shall be deemed to have the custody of such documents within the meaning of this section.

... document ... has a right ... There is no ... in British ... ular cases ... Field Ev 7th Ed 232. In England, the right to inspect public documents varies ... inspect many ... is section saves ... refuse to show ... l 257, Taylor ... clude all such ... on the ground of state policy ... Bom L R 236 ... of the judgmen... the document" ... looked from ou... a judgment in a criminal case Ladli v Emperor, A I R 1931 All ... A L J. 405 As ... right to inspect and take copies, vide the ... the Criminal Procedure Code (Act ... of 1908), the Administrator Genera... Act (VII of 1913), the Oudh Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1867), etc

It might have been supposed that, for the lawful custodian of documents in official custody, an authority could be im... of his office, to furnish copies that should be ... must be the lawful custodian of the particu... of course exist at the time of certifying ... whose office had expired ... no properly certif... authority test ... this custody, however ena...

him to speak, not merely to the correctness of the copy, but also to the existence and genuineness of the original. The great obstacle, to the use of a register as evidence of a record of private deed, was the registrar's inability to speak to the genuineness of the deed, and special means to qualify him in this respect had to be provided. This obstacle does not exist for an official record, for it is originally prepared and thereafter preserved in the office, and although it may of Bengal is a public document, within the meaning of s 74 of the Indian Evidence Act. Any person is entitled to inspect the same and to obtain certified copies thereof under this section, interest for the protection of Bostab, 8 C. W N. 125 = 31 C R. 38 Ch. D 92; Rex v allows certified copies to a p mar v Fazal, 84 Ind Cas 487; see also Bank of Bombay v inspect public documents is, however, assumed, in s 76 of the Evidence Act It may be inferred that the Legislature intended to recognize the right generally for all persons, who can show that they have an interest for the protection of which it is

S.

Lah 605.

77 Such certified copies may be produced in proof of the contents of the public documents or parts of the public documents of which they purport to be copies

Proof of documents by production of certified copies ace een as for others to use the would be a constant additional wear and tear upon the document Wigmore § 1215 The usual mode of proving the record of another Court is by production of a certified copy But the copy is not produced in such cases because it is better evidence than the original, it is received only on the ground of convenience, as a substitute for the original record The reception of a copy avoids the inconvenience of removing the original record from place to place Bullow v Thomas, 19 Gratt 14, 18 For reasons similar to those applicable to judicial records, documents belonging to any public office need not be proved, but may be otherwise proved Their removal for production in evidence would delay, and hinder the official use of the files, would make it impossible for other persons to consult

7 the absent documents, would subject them to risk of loss, and would injure them by constant wear and tear. Wigmore § 1218; Per Lord Mansfield in Jones v Randall, Cowp 17; Per Lord Ellenborough in Hennel v Lyon 1 B & Ald 182 184, Per Lord Abinger in Mortimer v M'callan, 6 M & W 58, 69; Per Pollock C B in Doe v Roberts, 13 M & W. 523, 530 Now a paper offered as a copy but not supported by any person's testimony in Court is a hearsay—i e., extra-judicial statement—obnoxious to the *Hears*y be called to the stand to verify the paper

A paper offered anonymously as a copy, or offe to verify it, is inadmissible But there are exceptions to the Hearsay rule under which copies made by specific classes of persons may be admitted Under the exception for official statements, copies made by officers lawfully authorized to give copies—i e, examplified, certified, attested, or office copies are receivable Wigmore § 1281 The reason for the exception is thus stated by Buller J "Here a difference is to be taken between trusted for that purpose, for there that copy given out by an officer of the Court w which is not evidence without proving it actually ex difference any purpose, the law must Trial at Nisi Prius by Buller stark 8; Appleton v Braybr his custody of the original; ly to the correctness of the genuineness of the original Wigmore § to the Hearsay rule the principle of isfied The Necessity principle is satisfied by the fact that the certifier cannot be called to testify to the genuineness of the copy without great inconvenience and loss to public departments.

Scope of the section "In this section the term used is 'may' This, then, is one and usually the most convenient, mode of proof of public documents

The

then sho in e orig

Pea

does make copies admissi

Faxel, 84 Ind Cas 487=2

rate It contains particulars of the area and of the land in respect of which the rate is due It is a public document within s 74 of the Evidence Act The porchas distributed to the cultivators are also public documents If produced in original the jamabandis do not require to be further proved The contents of the jamabandi could also be proved by the production of certified copies furnished as provided by ss 76 and 77 of the Evidence Act Umrao Singh v Ram Singh, L R 3 A 356 (Rev) = 1 U P L R (B R) 26, see also Ramlal v, Ghasiram, 71 Ind Cas 825

Proof of other official documents

78 The following public documents may be proved as follows —

(1) Acts, orders or notifications of the Executive Government of British India in any of its departments, or of any Local Government or any department of any Local Government,— by the records of the departments, certified by the heads of those departments respectively, or by any document purporting to be printed by order of any such Government

(2) The proceedings of the Legislatures,— by the journals of those bodies respectively, or by published Acts or abstracts, or by copies purporting to be printed by order of Government

(3) Proclamations, orders or regulations issued by Her Majesty or by the Privy Council, or by any department of Her Majesty's Government,— by copies or extracts contained in the London Gazette, or purporting to be printed by the Queen's Printer

(4) The Acts of the Executive or the proceedings of the Legislature of a foreign country,— by journals published by their authority, or commonly received in that country as such, or by a copy certified under the seal of the country or sovereign, or by a recognition thereof in some public Act of the Governor-General of India Council

(5) The proceedings of a municipal body in British India — by a copy of such proceedings certified by the legal keeper thereof, or by a printed book purporting to be published by the authority of such body

(6) Public documents of any other class in a foreign country,— by the original, or by a copy certified by the legal keeper thereof, with a certificate under the seal of a notary public, or of a British Consul or diplomatic agent, that the copy is duly certified by the officer having the legal custody of the original, and upon proof of the character of the document according to the law of the foreign country

78. 1 Official Printed copies. There is no reason why an officer may not be authorised to give printed copies as well as written copies, nor has there been . . . can not be said of an office. An ie; but the official printer's authority though a general one, is express rather than implied. The objections that have been made in connection with the use of printed copies have chiefly had their source, not so much in a doubt of any of those principles, as in the difficulty o be an official one. printed copies of reason for their correctness is thus stated by Tilgham C. J. in Biddis v. Jones, 6 Binn. 326: "Confidential persons have been selected to compare the copies with the original rolls and superintend the printing." The most frequent application of the principle, however is, to the evidencing of the statute law domestic and foreign. Upon the theory of Judicial Notice, no evidence of domestic law need be offered.

P. L. R. 1909.

Clause (1)
because "such th act of Parliament

far, then, as the proceedings of the Legislature are relevant to be proved, the journal is admissible. If the proceeding, for example, consists in the receipt or acceptance of a report or a petition, the st ... port or petition may be inadmissible; but the fact of its may be relevant, and therefore may be evide 1662. Under this clause, the text of an be taken to be the authorized text of the Act Cas. 316; Subramania v. Shanmugam, A. I Bhagat v. Rupkishore, 77 Ind. Cas 409. As regards the value of Hansad report, Vide The Englishman v Lajpat Rai, 37 C. 700 = 14 C. W. N. 713.

authoritative mea... the same case Buller J. added: "The gazette, which is published by roy... authority is admissible to prove any thing done by his Majesty in his character of King or which has passed through His Majesty's hands." In the same case also Lord Kenyon L. C. J. observed: "That the gazette is evidence of many acts of State is of subjects . . . acts of state, a admitted that the Cockburn, 5 Esp 234; Vanoneson v. Dorwick, 2 Camp. 41; R. v. Gardner, 2 Camp. 513; Att. Gen v. Theakstone, 8 Price 92; Bradley v. Arthur, 4 B. & C. 301.

Clause (4) Depositions in a foreign Court are public documents Harand v. Ramgopal, 4 C. W. N. 429=27 C. 639 P. C.; see also In re Rudolph Stalman, 15 C. W. N. 1053.

Na . Cas. 643.

Clause (6).
such as was in ment, is no suffi existence of an purports to testify. Such evidence can be manufactured without any great difficulty and the Courts must be on their guard against its acceptance unless under proper tests (1897—1901) Vol the Native State o Shamsher v. Moh
this clause are ver is the Political Agent of the Government of India. Krishnabai, 28 Bom. L R. 1225=50 B. 716=A. I. R. 1927 Bom. 11.

PRESUMPTIONS AS TO DOCUMENTS.

Presumption as to genuineness of certified copies.

79. The Court shall presume every document purporting to be a certificate, certified copy or other document, which is by law declared to be admissible as evidence of any particular fact and which purports to be duly certified by any officer in British India or by any officer in any Native State in alliance with her Majesty, who is duly authorized thereto by the Governor General in Council, to be genuine:

Provided that such document is substantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by law in that behalf.

The Court shall also presume that any officer by whom any such document purports to be signed or certified, held, when he signed it, the official character which he claims in such paper.

Presumptions as to documents. Section 79 to 90 deal with certain presumptions as to documents All these presumptions are based on the ancient and well known maxim omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta. (All acts are presumed to have been done rightly and regularly). Co. Litt. 6b: 332. The rule is applicable to public and official acts as well as to ancient deeds and private

9. acts Where the acts are of an official nature or require the concurrence of official persons, a presumption arises in favour of their execution. In these cases the ordinary rule is omnia præsumuntur rite et solemniter esse acta donec probetur in contrarium (Co Litt 232· Van Omeron v. Dowick, 2 Camp 44; Doe v Evans 1 Cr. & M 46)—everything is presumed to be rightly and duly performed until the contrary is shown. Per Story J. in Bank of United States v Dandridge, 12 Wheaton (U. S) R 69, 70; Davies v. Pratt, 17 C B 183; Broom's Legal Maxim 723 Upon the same principle proceeds the rule that deeds, wills and other attested documents which are more than thirty years old, and are produced from the proper custody, prove themselves and the testimony of the subscribing witnesses may be dispensed with, although of course it is of the

Broom's

But in whereas

In the

whichever

Cun,

. 290=

6 Bom L R 750, Raghunath v Hoh Lal 1 A L J 121 (123) The presumption mentioned in this clause is rebuttal, a presumptio juris et de jure

(974)=3 Cr L J 32 The word " construed in more rigorous of th

Muhammad 110 P L R 1902;

Ramien v Verappa, 11 M L T 69 a fact," a presumption is there is no option left to the Court, given to disprove it, and t evidence if he can Sections 79 to 90 contain the principal presum regards documents Of course certain presumptions as regards documents may also be raised under section 114 [Vide s, 114 (ills i)] to do it Harri presumption that his duty Per

Coleridge J in R

ton v Roberts, does not arise official acts and latter deals with former, taking t

the acts until the

to office may be has acted in an official capacity Berryman v Wise, 4 T R, 366; R v Gordon, 1 Leach 515, R v Verelst, 3 Camp 432, Marshall v Lamb, 5 Q. B 115, Plumer v Briscoe 11 Q B 46 suspected that some one personated G, and that his signature is forged send to Chambers for the original examination, otherwise the copy so attested and delivered, must be received and relied on" The same rule is applicable to certificates and other documents as well Certificates and other documents signature and the seal (where a Field Ev 7th Ed 141 So if a duly of a lease in official custody, had have been necessary of the signatures or handwriting of those Commissioners i officers signing it, such a wing an official act done by produced from proper custody having been made competent eviden necessarily dispensed with, such to a copy Com v Richardson, 142 raising this presumption is that su ed by law in that behalf The to prove the certificate of registra ed under this section Muhammad v Sohara 71 Ind Cas 805 But this presumption does not arise where sanction under s 196 Cr Pro Code is signed by the Deputy Secretary instead of by the Chief Secretary as required by that section Md Ozullah v Beni, 36 C L J 180=26 C W N 878=56 C 135 It is doubtful whether this section is applicable to copies given before the passing of the Indian Evidence Act Jubir Ali v Rajchunder, 10 C L R 469 (476)

who s rate and I cannot say ce acting drawn? ryman v f all peace officers justices that they acted in these characters without producing their appointments Similarly in Mc Gohey v Alston 2 M & W 206 Baron Parke said The rule is that all public officers en of most accompani

been made by the proper officer

80. Whenever any document is produced before any Court, purporting to be a record or memorandum of the evidence, or of any part of the evidence, given by a witness in a judicial proceeding or before any officer authorized by law to take

Presumption as to documents produced as records of evidence

80. such evidence or to be a statement or confession by any prisoner or accused person, taken in accordance with law, and purporting to be signed by any Judge or Magistrate, or by any such officer as aforesaid, the Court shall presume—that the document is genuine; that any statements as to the circumstances under which it was taken, purporting to be made by the person signing it, are true, and that such evidence, statement or confession was duly taken.

es sanction to the maxim omnia præ- regular. Lawson Pre. Ev. Rule 10. is a degree presump-

.. Ev 261.

Scope of the section. The statement as to which this section says that certain presumpti accordance with tl kind of evidence.
case of certain operate to render omits to claim so, does not arise copy should als in a specified proceeding.

106 = 33 C. W. N. 1131 = 119 Ind. Cas. 193 = A. I. R. 1929 Cal. 617 (F. B.)

deposition preclude the presumption that the copy is a true copy. Soraoju v. Mata Din, 7 O. L. J. 542 = 60 Ind. Cas. 437.

of recording depositions P. Code and in criminal of Order 18, runs as evidence of each witness the Court, by or in the endence of the Judge, ut in that of a narrative, e of the Judge to the same, and shall sign it" down in a language different from that in which it is given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the evidence as taken down in writing shall be interpreted to him in the language in which it is given." As regards the effect of non compliance of the formalities laid down in these two sections,

S.

5 C 825=
tes to the
the point were not
But it is is not read over to the witness in the presence of the Judge Upon that it is argued that the deposition is not legally a deposition at all and the Judge was wrong in allowing the cases Emperor, interpreted he contention advanced, unless the rule laid for instance, Empress v Jogendra Nath 42 C 240=18 C W N 1242 Speaking for myself, however, with great respect I am not sure that I clearly understand the principle of those decisions Under section 80 of the Indian Evidence malities for these two rules renders the deposition inadmissible in evidence against the deponent on his subsequent trial for perjury Section 91 of the Evidence Act excludes the oral evidence of its contents Emperor v Nawab Ali, 51 C 236=25 Cr L J 1027=81 Ind Cas 803=A I R 1924 Cal 705, See 32, Mohendro v.

461=50 Ind.
91, Kamatchi v. ss understands ce is a sufficient d over by the or 23 C W. N

he appears by his section is to give the witness an opportunity of correcting his statement Ramdhani v

R 393
Amrita
v Sama
W N.
J 811;
3=27 Cr.
Rahaman,
ence Act ce should of them being that the Magistrate shall sign it only after it has been read over to th witness in the presence of the accu and the accused may have an op Emperor, 12 Bur L. T 167=1( 506; see also Ngai Sam v K. E, U the Criminal Pro Code does no shall be taken and attested by the Magistrate in the presence of the accused What it provides is that the deposition, if so taken and attested, may be put in evidence in the Sessions trial Therefore, that the deposition was taken and

Lah 632=125 Ind Cas 892=31 P L R 472=A. I. R 1930 Lah 714

Confession of accused taken in accordance with law A confession by an accused recorded by a Magistrate is admissible under this section, even though the Magistrate who recorded it, ultimately came to the conclusion that he had no jurisdiction to try the case Emperor v Banko Behary, 10 C P L R Cr 16 If, when a document is tendered in evidence at a trial purporting to be a confession of the accused, it is found to contain the memorandum required by s 164(3), a presumption arises under this section that all the necessary formalities purporting to have been performed have in fact been performed and the document is admissible in evidence without further proof If, however the memorandum does not appear or is defective the document is inadmissible such a defect would be curable If the explanation had not in fact been the statement could not be held to have been duly made and s 533 cannot be 1925

Cas 257=23 Cr. L J 673, Queen Empress v Sundar Singh, 12 A R. 261 Confessional state-Section 80 of the Evidence nfession
So far the pre-respect of the document purporting to be a confession of the accused. San Baw v Crown, 1 L B R 340 (F. B.), see also Magistrate during the course red by s 164, cannot be made. Emperor v Radhe, 7 C. W. N. 9
be made under the section in which it w A Magistrat
whether a co

Section 80 of the Evidence Act, expressly provides for proof of the document, distinguishing it from a record of evidence as well as s. 533 Criminal Procedure Code. Lalu v Empress, 2 P. R. 1894 Cr.

S.

Dying declarations. A dying declration is not admissible in evidence without proof that the deceased actually made the declaration Even if it bears a Magistrate's attestation it is not admissible under s. 80 where the Magistrate was not the committing Magistrate The person who took the statement should be subject to cross-examination as to the dying man's state of mind when he made it, and as to other circumstances. Reg v. Fata Adaji, 11 B H C 247, see also Hasim v. Empress, 9 P R 1900 Cr. = P L. R 1900 p. 49 When a dying declaration has appended to it a [illegible] deponent and declared to be [illegible] recorded the statement, s. 80 of [illegible] circumstances under which it is stated to have been taken are true, the investigation by the Magistrate being a judicial proceeding In re Karrupan Samban, 16 Cr. L. J. 759 = 31 Ind Cas 359

Previous admission Before a previous admission can be used against a party it must be put to him and an opportunity afforded to him to explain it if it is capable of explanation Mariyam v Nagina, 12 Lah L J 161

Presumption as to Gazettes, newspapers, private Acts of Parliament and other documents

81. The Court shall presume the genuineness of every document purporting to be the London Gazette or the Gazette of India, or the Government Gazette of any Local Government, or of any colony, dependency or possession of the British Crown, or to be a newspaper or journal, or to be a copy of a private Act of Parliament printed by the Queen's Printer, and of every document purporting to be a document directed by any law to be kept by any person, if such document is kept substantially in the form required by law and is produced from proper custody.

Principle The intolerable inconvenience of having to prove the genuineness of printed matter purporting to be published by the Government has led to [illegible] porting pub- [illegible] constantly [illegible]

[illegible] concerned [illegible] superintend the printing The object of this provision was to furnish the people with authentic copies; and from their nature, printed copies of this kind, either of public, or private laws, are as much to be depended on as the exemplification verified by an officer who is the keeper of the record I am for admitting the printed copies authorized by the Legislature, either of this or any other state, whether the law be public or private" But the question whether the copy of a Government Gazette or any other publication can be treated as evidence of the contents of the original is not one relating to proof of documents but to the

81. admissibility of the secondary evidence Jeremiah v. Vas, 36 M 457 = 12 Ind Cas 961.

Gazette s an authoritative m In the same case B ority is admissible to g or which has passe rial, burn, 5 Esp 234; Att-Gen v Theakstone, 493, R v McCarthey, (1903) 2 Ir R 146 nce Act, 1868, s. 2 amended by the Documentary Evidence Act, 1882, s 2, the Gazette any proclamation, order, or regulation issued by or any principal department of State See also L Exparte French, 52 L J Ch 48; Exparte Learoyd, 10 Ch D 3; Exparte Geisel, 22 Ch D 436; Boaler v Power, (1910) 2 K B 229 C. A Van Omeron v Dowick, 2 Camp 44, Stat 31 & 32 Vict C 37, ss 2, 5 But the entire gazette must be produced Rex v Lowe, 15 Cox 286. Under the provisions of this must be presumed, though it is not p v Emperor, 7 Lah L J 264 = 88 1078 — A I R 1925 Lah 299 In v Emperor, A I R 1931 Lah 273 = 32 Cr L J 1227.

Gazette print

Newspaper Printed matte marks of authors resting upon s substan of writ printin copy and the one read by the same press i e. the defen 15 M & W. 319, 336, A whether there is reasonable for genera in one or have no same type Such provi ration of Books Act (XXV of 1 British Ind ment may,

to the publish 506=12 the new presum purport.
"It is contended that under section 81 of the Evidence Act, the Court is bound include a presumption document purport-to public documents, but it is very doubtful whether the language of the section supports it. If the punctuation may be taken to throw any light on the . the word 'journal' is against the 'newspaper or journal' question further, as I am of opinion that the presumption of the genuineness of a newspaper does not inclu published by the person by w the English Law According tion of a d of was publ the accused t In Gathercole v. Miall, 15 M & W 319' Parke B was of opinion that as the defendant had been proved by t publisher of the paper, to the one produced in defendant According to section 7 of Act XXV of 1867, the production of an prove ial to quire urnal

Act
7 of cular upra paper mous statement Beua Sarup v Emperor, 88 Ind Cas 22=7 Lah L J 264=26 P L R 566=26 Cr L J 1078, but see Ram Chandra v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah 371=31 Cr L J 168

Presumption as to document admissible in England without proof of seal or signature

82 When any document is produced before any Court, purporting to be a document which by the law in force for the time being in England and Ireland, would be admissible in proof of any particular in any Court of Justice in England or Ireland, without proof of the seal or stamp or signature authenticating it, or of the judicial or official character claimed by the person by whom it purports to be signed, the Court shall presume that such seal, stamp or signature,

2. is genuine, and that the person signing it held, at the time when he signed it, the judicial or official character which he claims, and the document shall be admissible for the same purpose for which it would be admissible in England or Ireland

Origin of this section. This section consolidates ss 9, 10, 11 of Stat 14 & ... ute runs ... fter to be ... Court of ... signature extent and for the same purposes in any Cour... any person having in Ireland by law and ... receive and examine evidence, without proof o... authenticating the same, or of the judicial ... appearing to have signed the same." Section 10 runs as follows "Every shall be admitted in evidence to the same extent and for the same purposes in any Court of Justice in England or Wales or before any person having in ...

in any Court of Justice of any of the British Colonies, or before any person having in any such colonies, by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive, and examine evi... authenticating the same, Ibid) So British Colony included British India But section 11 of Lord Brougham's Act was repealed in India by the Indian Evidence Act section 2 and schedule and from the Statute Book by Statute Law Revision Act of 1874 The Indian Evidence Act has repealed section 11 above but has given effect to the object of that section by enacting this section

Scope of the English law There are many instances where records are kept by persons occupying public office, or engaged in occupations of a public nature. These records, though somewhat similar in kind to those of which the Court may take judicial notice, do not usually have a sufficient degree of publicity to bring them within the limits of that class of matters. They are however, deem... admissible if ... a person having ... readily discove... of duty also enters into the case Usually the person keeping the record is under some obligation, official or otherwise to keep them, and this brings them close to those entries in account books which are admitted because made in the regular course of business, pursuant to duty The application of this exception to the hearsay rule in the early cases caused the admission of acknowledgment of deeds made before a Court of record, enrolments of deeds, fines and recoveries, and many records of similar nature Smart v Williams 1 Salk. 280 Lynch v Clerk, 3 Salk. 154 It is necessary conditions to the admissibility of a public record or document that it shall have been intended to this exception. He says at page 214: "What a public document is within that rule, is of course, the great point which we have now to consider.... I do not think that 'public' is to be taken there as meaning the whole world. I think an entry in the books of a manor is public, in the sense ntry in a

all the must be a think that d be made for the purpose of being it may have access to it afterwards."

nt even by the Common Law of England was by means of examined copy, that is, a copy taken on behalf of the party, generallly by some clerk or other private persons, who produces it in the witness box and proves that he has copied it accurately from, or examined it parties authority to hear, receive and examine evidence, provided it be proved to and burials which have been kept in pursuance of canon and statute law answer his description, [Re Hall's Estate (1852) 22 L J Ch 177; Re Porter's Trusts, (1856) 25 L. J. Ch 688]; but it seems doubtful whether it could be held to beneficial effect of the enactments was much diminished In order to remove d that—ce any certi-

joint stock

or othe. ... of any document, bye law, entry in any reg... proceeding, shall be receivable in evidence of any p... or either house of ... judicial proceeding, ... they respectively ... and signed, as signed, or signed ... without any proof directed by the ... the signature or ... n appearing to have signed the same, and ... every case in which the original record coul... d in evidence." The general result of these two Statutes seer ... and ... tion ... the ... doc ... the ... Ev ... 14 ... L. R 2 C C 85 The re... of parliamentary ... poll books were provable unde ... 75 The bye-laws of a rai ... 8 & 9 Vict. C 20, ss 108-111, ... the secretary of the company in whose custody they are ... Counties, 7 C B N S 58 = 29 L J M C 57 As to proof of bye-laws of a municipal corporation under Stat 45 & 46 Vict C 50, s 24, vide Robinson v Gregory, (1905) 1 K B 531 For a complete list of Statutes which contain provision making certified copies evidence, vide Roscoe's Digest of the Law of Evidence, Eighteenth Ed Vol. I pp 98 100 For an exhaustive list of documents which are provable in England by means of certified copies under particular Acts of Parliament Vide §§ 1602-1609 of Taylor on the Law of Evidence, Wills on Evidence, 2nd Ed Appendix A pp. 422-465.

Scope of the Section The object of this section is to give currency in the Courts of India to the presumptions which, with regard to certain classes of documents, are recognised in the English Courts Such documents are declared by the section to be admissible in India as they would be in England, and it is no more necessary in Indian Court, than it would be in an English Court to prove the seal or signature or to prove that the person signing held the office which he claims Cun Ev 11th Ed 175 The chief magistrate of the city of Glasgow being a person lawfully authorized to administer oaths, a declaration as to the execution of a power of attorney taken before him and authenticated by his certificate and the common seal of the city of Glasgow and by a Notorial certificate is sufficient proof of the execution In the goods of Hend ... the declarations purport to have been made under ... Will IV C ... 62); se... 67; In the goods ... In the goods ... s of William ... of Hen... nina Hinde, Cornell ... a deceased, Ibid ... n appointed ...

application must be refused In the goods of ... delivering the judgment Norris J said 'Section 85 of the Evidence Act provides that the Court shall presume that every document purporting to be a power of attorney, and to have been executed before and authenticated by a Nortary Public or any Court, or Judge, Magistrate, British Consul of Viceconsul, or Representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India, was so executed and authenticated. This power of attorney is not executed before or authenticated by any of the persons mentioned in the section, and in order to comply with the provisions of the section, the power of attorney of those persons Therefore It is submitted that Norris Section 85 of the Evidence acilities to prove powers of attorne than that allowed by that section

Court

to have been executed in been held in Calcutta that, in as much as the execution is not proved in the manner indicated in section 85 of the Evidence Act, the application for letters of administration ought to be refused (In the goods A J Primorse, 16 C 776) In arriving at this decision, Mr Justice Norris seems to have assumed that the provisions contained in section 85 is of an exhaustive character and no other mode of proving the execution of a power of attorney is admissible That assumption however, is, in my opinion, not w not to apply to affidavits prescribed by the statute of oath I am of opinion that I am told to receive But certi-

and section 35(5)
N 355=13 M L
T 385=24 M L J 517=19 Ind Cas 452

83 The Court shall presume that maps or plans purporting to be made by the authority of Government were so made, and are accurate, but maps or plans made for the purposes of any cause must be proved to be accurate.

Presumption as to maps or plans made by authority of Government

Principle The general ground of reception is that such documents contain the results of inquiries made under competent public authority and concerning matters in which the public are interested Phipson, 313 The very office of a surveyor is to run lines and establish boundaries for the purpose of applying the terms of grants and patents and thus of perpetuating the settlement of boundaries, it is therefore a nat authority to make a written maps are admissible in evidence be so. The fact does not of itself prove any title, but only that the person fills the office."

3. Per Patteson J in Bouley v. Barness, 8 Q B. 1037. The well-known maxim of omnia præsumuntur rite esse acta applies

Scope of the section purporting to be prepared 9 M L T. 415 This section of a private map If such depend upon the relevancy of the map in relation to the question in controversy Shib Charan v Nil Kantha Mahato, 16 Ind Cas. 747=17 C. L J 612. In the absence of evidence to the ... may be properly judicially received in ... Gyua v Ma Nque, 2 L B R 56 A ... in the ... the silted bed of a
... 83; but it is a
... before it can be
... 23 C 385 In a
... valuable evidence which should be conside Ranee v Gireedharee, 20 W ment, while in charge of only that of a private prop a presumption of the accu 574; Ram v Bansidhar, 9 making a thak bust map what lands were debutter, but only to lay down and to map boundaries, held that this map could not be treated as raising a presumption of correctness within this section, on the question as to the amount of debutter land in one of the villages mapped Where statements as to what lands were debutter appeared on the face of the map to have been made as pointed out by agent on behalf of the proprietor of the mouzah and the principal tenants, in the presence of the agent of the holders of section has not the v Lalon Moni, 18 C 2 accuracy of drawings and measurement It has no reference ... W R 179.

must be presumed to be accurate under this section. Rahimatullah ... of State, 113 P L. R 1913=112 P W R ... 1913=18 Ind. Cas. 799 No presumption of accuracy can within this section Madhabai v Gagan section a thakbust map must be presumed 22 W. R 519, see also Photal v Ranee, 19 W R 301 ...
Government survey map having been prepared does not affect the presumption of accuracy, under this Act of an earlier superseded map. Joggessur Singh v. Bycunt Nath, 5 C. 823=6 C L R 519 A copy of a map prepared by an Amin employed by Government, for possession It was adm ultimately rejected by him, was made by the High C as correct when made Gopal Lal v Mariamunnissa, 84 Ind. Cas. 435=A... 1924 Pat. 719 The signature of a revenue-surveyor on a thakbust map signifies, not that the thakbust map is correct, but that the demarcation boundaries laid down in the course of thakbust survey have been correctly picked up on the e survey map Sashibhusan v.

=83 Ind Cas 205 There is to preference over a Thak map. agree, where they differ, the one that more nearly agrees with the ... land marks is the one which should incumbent upon the may, if it considers the rvey map Maharaja of Cooch Behar v Raja Mohendra Ranjan, 66 Ind Cas 923; see also Abed Hossein v. Doucauy, 6 C W N 620, Burn v Ichambut, 20 W R 14, Kanab v. Gopinath, 13 C L J 625 (632), Amrita v Sheraudhin, 19 C W N 565 (576) But where the Thak proceedings and the decision of a dispute took place in the presence of the predecessors of the parties to a suit, that map must be treated as valuable evidence in the suit between the successors of the persons who were present Maharaja of Cooch Behar v Raja Mohendra Ranjan, 66 Ind Cas 923; see also Surja Kanta v Sarat Chandra, 18 C W N 1281 P C, Dunne v Dhavan a Sudan 2 W R 210; Gunga v
W R 179, Nobo v Gobind, 9 C L lal v Kuan, 7 C W N 819 The tha
the state of things at the time th they show conclusively what was the state of things at the time of permanent settlement Secretary of State v Hazed Ali 65 Ind Cas 867, Jagadindra v Secretary of State, 7 C W N 193 P C, see also 20 C W N 1028; 35 Ind Cas 132 Presumption both as to physical features and to statements as to possession may be made from kistwari map 64 Ind. Cas 326

The question whether a map is a public document within s 74, Evidence Ac.
in
the state, is a ion has no
3=10 Ind ortion of a
, and the

the Government, acting not in its sovereign capacity, but as the landlord of certain holding is admissible in evidence, if not under this section, under section 13 of the Act Upendra v Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation, 16 C W N 116 received in evidence as correct when made Jagadindra Nath v Secretary of State, 30 C 291=7 C W N 193=5 Bom L R 1; see also Satcouri v Secretary of State, 22 C 252, Maung Than v Maxan, 44 Ind Cas 247, Syama Sunderi 784;

n v.
V.

s. 13 when it is not known whether they were acted on for the pur of re tion proceeding or if in fact reliance was placed upon them by & 5.

the purpose of Ind Cas. 85 = A without enquir be placed on it
C L. J. 319
ment on which evidence, there such matters as to which it is admissible in evidence Secretary of State for India v. Ananda Mohan, 31 C L J 205; see also Naresh Narayan v Secretary of State, 71 Ind Cas 1048 = 32 M L T 162 = 50 C 446 = 45 M L J 444 = 28 C W N. 453 P. C, Haridas Acharyya v Secretary of State, 43 Ind. Cas 361 = 26 C L J 590 = 22 M L T 438 = 20 Bom L R 49 (P. C), Secretary of State v Kalika, 15 C L. J. 281.

84. The Court shall presume the genuineness of every book purporting to be printed or published under the authority of the Government of any country, and to contain any of the laws of that country, Presumption as to collections of laws and reports of decisions.

and of every book purporting to contain reports of decisions of the Courts of such country.

Principl
ness of print to a general c publications stantly issued however, are to be printed original, and secondly, the presumption of genuineness of a particular printed document purporting to be of such official origin The two questions are seldom separated, either in decisions or in statute; a sanction of the former principle has usually been regarded as carrying with it a sanction of the latter also" Wigmore § 2151

Scope of the section The words "any country" are wide enough to as section 38 reports of cases recognised by the Courts of a country will be evidence; and be relevant and receivable Nort Ev 202; see also notes under section 38.

85. The Court shall presume that every document purporting to be a power-of-attorney, and to have been executed before, and authenticated by, a notary public, or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul, or representative of Her Majesty, or of the Government of India, was so executed and authenticated.

Presumption as to powers-of-attorney

Principle. The genuineness of certain purporting official seal impressions need not be evidence otherwise than by the production for inspection of the document bearing them. What is the significance of this rule? What is it that Courts actually do, evidentially, when they accept such seals with no further evidence? When a document bearing a purporting official seal—a notary's certificate to a power of attorney, for example—is offered in Court the accept- S ocument purports to be iet result of the first three ry, did make this written and the document was merge (i e the purporting J S' ly in the case of a seal that and yet another person n third elements are always judicially united, i e any presumption of genuineness, whenever made covers both elements Hence, in effect, the situation, for seal or signature alike, is reducible to the following elements and is so in practice treated (1) that there is an official of that name (2) (3) that this document was genuinely executed by him Now the remaining element (4) that this hearsay statement of his is admissible, is obviously concerned with the Hearsay rule

Of these, the elements (2) and (3) are obviously pure questions of authentication, i e, the acceptance of the document signifies that we have somehow assumed that this document was genuinely executed by one J S What is the true nature of the process? Is it the process of Judicial Notice? It is some-soon as the party alleged by counsel that J S had executed an alleged document, the Court must notice that as a fact, and no production of a purporting seal or signature would be necessary; but this is obviously not the practice Further more it is conceivable that a Court might judicially know what the design of a certain public seal was but this would not of itself enable the Judge to declare that the specific impression offered in Court was genuine or forged It would seem, then, that what is actually done is not done by virtue of any doctrine of jud cient

The
of an
this may well serve as sufficient evidence because the forgery of the seal or signature would be a crime, and detection would be fairly easy and certain On the other hand the element (1) noted above, namely that J S who has thus genuinely executed this document is the official that he purports to be, is a real result of the principle of Judicial Notice This element is wholly separable from that of the authenticity of the paper Wigmore § 2161 and authentication of a power-of attorney when such execution was done before and authentication was done by any of the officials mentioned in this section. The section is an extension of the provisions contained in the Registration Act, with reference to powers of-attorney executed for the purpose of procuring the registration of conveyance or other such instruments Cun Ev 11th Ed 178 Where a power of-attorney was neither executed before nor authenticated by any persons mentioned in this section, letters of administration to the estate of a deceased the goods of execution a not exhausti

16 C 776

5. been executed before, and authenticated by, a Notary Public, is produced before the Court, an affidavit of identification as to the person, purporting to make the

. the goods is admis
genuine-for, the
III, rule
Ind. Cas
England
ed by his signature alone without ds of Bridoon, Nov 19th 1899, per e term "power of attorney' is given the Indian Stamp Act, "power-of-attorney" includes any instrument (not chargeable with a fee under the law relating to Court fees for the time being in force) empowering a specified person to act for and in the name of the person executing it So a power or letter of attorney is a in such case is called the attorney of a t, in the stead of another; as to person; transfer stock or give possession upon a deed of feoffment It is either general or special, i e, general in respect of the conduct of all affairs of a person, as where he leaves the country; special in respect of any one or more named matters, as to receive money This instrument gives the attorney authority to act in his name exactly as the party giving it would himself do until revocation Bank of Bengal v Ramanatham, 43 C 527, Venkataramana v Narasinha, 38 M 134–24 M L J 180=1913 M W N 72=18 Ind Cas 137; Permanand v Sat Prasad, 33 A 487=19 Ind Cas 617 (F B), Reference under the Stamp Act, s 46, 15 M 386, Raghu v Ramchunder, 10 W. R 39=11 B L R 55 (F. B), Jogi v Mohammad, 80 Ind Cas 467, Bryant v Banque du Peuple, the power of attorney was a proper power under s 33 of the Registration Act. Section 34 of the Registration Act imposes upon the registering officer the duty of enquiring as to the due execution of the document, and by s. 35, he registers the document on being satisfied as to the various particulars mentioned, so that when th tion of omnia in his procedu

v. The National
v Jamal, 28
375=27 C W N 437 P C ; Kristonath v Brown 14 C 176; Jambu v Muhamad, 42 I A. 22=37 A 49=19 C W N 282 As regards deposit of original instruments creating powers-of-attorney; Vide section 4 of the Powers-of-Attorney s Act (VII of 1882) Powers of attorney should be strictly construed. Krishna v Tribhuban, 114 Ind Cas 305=A I R 1929 Oudh 12, Bank of Bengal v. Ramanathan, 43 C 527=13 I A. 48

Notary Public In the interests of commerce the rules of evidence have been so extended that the acts of notaries public in the discharge of their duties under the law merchant are judicially noticed in all Courts, and their proper official acts under the law merchant are prima facie sufficiently authenticated ooke v Brooke, n of a notary to d l not affect

S.

Ineff, 24 L J Ch 120, under s 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act (XXVI of 1881) the Governor General in Council is authorized to appoint notaries public within any local area and by s 139 of the same Act power is given to the same authority to make rules for notaries public

86. The Court may presume that any document purporting to be a certified copy of any judicial record of any country not forming part of Her Majesty's dominions is genuine and accurate, if the document purports to be certified in any manner which is certified by any representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India *[in or for] such country, to be the manner, commonly in use in that country for the certification of copies of judicial records Presumption as to certified copies of foreign judicial records.

†[An officer who, with respect to any territory or place not forming part of Her Majesty's dominions, is a Political Agent therefore, as defined is section 3, clause (40), of the General Clauses Act, 1897,‡ shall for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be a representative of the Government of India in and for the country comprising that territory or place.

Principle The theory of judicial records is that the judgment roll, as finally made up embodies in itself alone the entirety of the controversy as adjudicated, and thus supersedes the miscellaneous mass of oral and written pleadings, motions, and orders, which have gone to make up the proceedings Wigmore § 2450 The doctrine about producing the original of a document, or ... d when the original is not ... of the original judicial under the Great Seal of a State in as m ... proof than inspection, the seals of state of other nations which have been recognized by their own sovereign Greenleaf Ev 479) They may be authenticated by a copy, proved to be a true copy by a witness who has compared it with the original, ... roperly authorized by law to give a copy, ... ly authenticated Buttrick v Allen, 8 ... er 152, Church v Hubbort, 2 Cranch 228, ... subject is thus stated by Marshall C. ... The sanction of an oath is required for their establishment unless they can be verified by some other

So this section authorises the representatives of his Majesty or the Government

* These words in s 86 were substituted for the words "resident in," by the Indian Evidence Act (1872) Amendment Act, 1891 (3 of 1891), s. 8

† This paragraph was added to s 86 by s 4 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1899 (5 of 1899), in substitution for the paragraph added by s 8 of the Indian Evidence Act (1872) Amendment Act, 1891 (3 of 1891)

‡ X of 1897.

86. of India in or for such country to give such certificate. So if the copy is merely certified by an officer of the Court, without other proof it is inadmissible. Appleton v Lord Braybrook, 2 Stark 7, Thompson v. Stewart, 3 Conn 171.

Scope of the section This section does not exclude other proof Vallabdas v Pra So a c Court i being
If the cker, 1 Campb proved, even avin v Start, 1 Stark. 525, Findt v Atkins, 3 Camph 215 n And if it is clearly proved that the Court has no seal, entitle it to credit Black v Cowen 434 If the copy is mer other proof, it is inadmissible section says that if a copy of a a given way, the Court, may pr exclude other proof The as and that she gave evidence bef evidence of those matters His and by ss 65 and 66 of the I public documents, which they a party, when the person in po not subject to the process of the Court, which is the case here" Per Lord Hobhouse i
L R 562, this sectior
1924 Lah
86 of the I are not dul
Cas 929
with merely because it can be ol of depositions of a Court of due course does not make them Achut Das, supra. So also authenticated in accordance with the prescribed by the English Extradi the records were admissible under it C W. N 1053=14 C L J 375 instance of documents to which s 65 cl (f) seems to refer. Hurish v Prosonno, 22 W R 303

Section 14 of the Civil Procedure runs as follows "The Court shall presume, upon the production of any document purporting to be a certified copy of a s pronounced by a Court of competent the record; but such presumption jurisdiction" The presumption is a Hadjee Isup, 6 C W N 829=29 C 31, Udhe v Puran, 41 P. L R 1910; Ramanthan v Lakshmanan 24 M L J 343, Sita Devi v Gopal Saran, 9 Pat. L. T. 397=111 Ind Cas 762=A I R. 1928 Pat 375, Ishri Prasad v Sri Ram, 25 A L J 887=105 Ind Cas 186=A I R 1927 All 510

546 In th
of the 8th regarding the Governor General in Council had, under s. 434 of the Civil Procedure Code, notified that decrees of Coach Behar Courts might be executed as if they were decrees of British Indian Courts, was a compliance with the provisions of s 86 of the Evidence Act, when there was a representative of the Government of India resident in Coach Behar. The notification referred to above is of no use when ... ent of India in Coach Behar, so that ... oach Behar cannot then be received in ... 86 of the Evidence Act

S.
S.

87 The Court may presume that any book to which it may refer for information on matters of public or general interest, and that any published map or chart, the statements of which are relevant facts and which is produced for inspection, was written and published by the person and at the time and place, by whom or at which it purports to have been written or published

Presumption as to books, maps and charts

Scope of the section In proving matters of public or general interest the declarations will not be confined to those which are merely oral Thus in England ancient maps showing public roads and the boundaries between counties, towns, parishes and manors are admissible, when it is proved that they have been made or recognized by persons having knowledge of the subject who are since deceased Hammond v Bradstreet 10 Ex 390 Pipe v Fulcher 28 L J Q B 12, Reg v Milton 1 C & K 58 But this section authorises a Court to presume that book on matters of public or general interest and any published map or chart, was written or published by the person and at the time and place, by whom or at which it purports to have been written or published A Court is

28 C L J 306 = 48
legitimately be made to the work of Mr Crokes on Castes and Tribes on the North western Provinces and Oudh as an authoritative custom prevalent among the Eraki sect of Mahomedans Great weight attaches to the accuracy of survey maps but they are not conclusive In the absence of evidence to the contrary, however they should be presumed to be accurate Secretary of State v Radha Kishore, 38 Ind Cas 379 P C = 21 C W N 291 = 44 C 328

88 The Court may presume that a message, forwarded from a telegraph office to the person to whom such message purports to be addressed, corresponds with a message delivered for transmission at the office from which the message purports to be sent, but the Court shall not make any presumption as to the person by whom such message was delivered for transmission

Presumption as to telegraphic messages

Scope of the section To prove a telegram sent by the accused the writing handed to the telegraph office not the copy received is the original R. v Regan 16 Cox Cr 203, Hinkel v Pape L R 6 Ex 7, Godwin v Francis, L R 5 C P 295 Whether in proving the terms of a telegram the despatch sent or the despatch delivered and received is the one to be accounted or depends upon the substantive law involved Wigmore § 1230 In Durlee v Ro. Co, 29 Vt 127, 140 (a Vermont Case) Redfield C J said 'It depends upon which party is responsible for the transmission across the line, or in other words whose agent the telegraph is ' Where the received despatch is the legally material document, it must be accounted for, a recorded copy of it would ordinarily ' be preferable to mere recollection, and the message as handed in by the sender perhaps might also serve as a copy, but where the party to whom the communication is made is to take the risk of transmission the message delivered to the operator is the original ' Wigmore § 1236 This section allows the

9. Courts to treat telegraph messages received as if they were the originals sent, addressed In the absence of such evidence, the telegram cannot be held to have been proved Thackin Singh v Emperor, 4 Ind. Cas 240. The Court is forbidden by the express provisions of this section to make any presumption as telegram to ask the Court to presume that it was sent by a supposed sender But there is nothing in the section to prevent the telegram once admitted from being considered along with the rest of the evidence Emperor v Abdul Gani, 49 B 878 = 27 Bom L R 1373 = 91 Ind Cas 690 = A I R 1926 Bom 71

Presumption as to due execution, etc, of documents not produced.

89. The Court shall presume that every document, called for and not produced after notice to produce, was attested, stamped and executed in the manner required by law.

Principle A circumstance sometimes treated as an extra judicial admisthe paper) Everything is to be presumed in odium spoliatoris'; and had it certainly appeared that the destroyed paper purported to be an agreement such as is attempted to be established, it would have sufficed for the admission it he can be fixed with the must be proved to have been who have not papers which it would be not only innocent but prudent to destroy If the paper destroyed were shown to have been an agreement for the land, it would raise a presumption of identity, sufficient to dispense with the ordinary proof of execution, and let in the contents of the paper (as proved by another witness) (But the witness identity and consequent execution." Wigmore § 2132. So this section proceeds on the maxim, omnia praesumentur contra spoliatorem (Every presumption is made against a wrong doer)

Scope of the section. There is a presumption also in favour of innocence, the law esumed, produce Vort Ev nature of his case would be manifested, every presumption to his disadvantage will be adopted" 1 Smith L C 10th Ed 353; 1 Vern 19. According to the same principle, if a man withhold an agreement under which he is chargeable, after a notice to produce, it is presumed as against him, to have been properly stamped Anderson, 1 Stark N P C 35, Marine, 625 This section is restricted to cases, party It does not extend to cases, where a summons to produce is delivered to a stranger to the suit Mark Ev p. 68 See also Ahmad Raza v Saiyad Abid, 38 A 494=21 C W. N 265 So where any document is not produced after due notice to produce, and after being called for, it is presumed to have been duly stamped, (Closmadence v. Carrel, 18 C B 44), unless it be shown to have remained unstamped for some R 5 E & The Act sumed to nents In case (a) they are presumed to have been made after the execution of the Will Simons v Rudall, 1 Sim N S 136 In case (b) they are presumed to have been so made that the making would not be an offence Gordon's Case Dear Sl & P 592 per Jervis C J, Stoke's Anglo Indian Code, Vol II p 909 Where the gagee and where the mortgagor failed to produce the deed before the Court though called upon to do so Held that the execution of the mortgage deed was in view of s 89 of the Evidence Act satisfactorily established, irrespective of the provision of s 68 Jang Bahadur v Chandraj Singh, 41 Ind Cas 171

Presumption as to documents thirty years old

90. Where any document, purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested Exlpanation —Documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be, but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable.

This explanation applies also to section 81

Illustrations.

(a) A has been in possession of landed property for a long time He produces from his custody deeds relating to the land, showing his titles to it The custody is proper

(b) A produces deeds relating to landed property of which he is the mortgagee The mortgagor is in possession The custody is proper

(c) A, a connection of B, produces deeds relating to lands in B's possession which were deposited with him by B for safe custody The custody is proper.

Principle The First, after a long saw the document's ex

90. exists for resorting to circumstantial evidence Secondly, the circumstance of been found amongst deeds and evidences of land may be given in evidence, although the execution of them can not be proved ; and the reason given is, 'that it is hard to prove ancient things, and the finding them in such a place is a presumption that they were fairly and honestly obtained and reserved for use, and are free from suspicion of dishonesty" Wigmore § 2137; Wynne v. Tyrwhitt, 4 B & Ad 376 ; Andrews v Motley, 32 L J C P 128, 131. So as a rule of procedure, the witnesses in provin procedure or practice of convenience may to writings thirty years old are conclusively presumed to be dead,—so that execution of such a deed, will or other document need not be proved Chamberlayne's Ev § 1165 As the question is one of procedure and not of logic, this presumption is not allowed to be rebutted by proof that such witnesses are alive and actually in Court Doe v Wooley, 8 B & C 22, Doe v Burdhet, 4 A. & E 19, Marsh v Collnett, 2 Esp. 655 ; Phip Ev 7th Ed p 504 the case may be, by persons, ... state or otherwise identify the means or characters of the parties to it, some sort of evidence will be necessary before it will be admissible Wills Ev, 2nd Ed 381 The rule is ... T.

R 466 ; Chel ... sp 665) but als ... ns, 6 Dow 149, ... 12, Doe v Bu presumed to witness nee
E 1, 19 V cated and gestae, yet ... purporting to be ancient is not likely to escape exposure, when subjected to the ... 18 The in-
... documents
... he general rule and to admit, under proper restrictions, ancient documents purporting to constitute part of a transfer of title or 3 App Cas 653 "The proof of difficulty Time has removed the witn nection with many different kinds of docu-Doe v Samples, 8 A. & E 151), Wills , bonds (Chelsa v Couper, 1 Esp 275) memo-28 L R. 144), leases (Plaxton v. Dare, 10 . Thornbury, 29 L J M. C. 109), cases stated for counsel's opinion (Meath v . . . S. containing entries of the receipt years old, they need not be proved, provided they have been so acted upon or brought from such a place as to offer a reasonable presumption that they were title which such documents profess to create Luleeffunnissa v Goor Sarun, 18 W R 485 The rule regarding the proof of documents more than thirty years old is that they need not be proved provided they have been so acted upon or brought from such a place as to offer a reasonable presumption that they were honestly and fairly obtained and preserved for use, and are free from suspicion of dishonesty Hari Dhangonr v Biru Dasee, 5 B H A C 135 In order to establish the authenticity of an ancient document it is not necessary to show that it was accompanied by possession Bisheshur Bhattacherji v George Henry Lamb, than 30 years old and that it was produced from proper custody, yet before ce, it must be shown that it is Evidence Act Mathura Pershad

thirty years old and is produced from proper custody, the Court may under this section presume its genuineness and more particularly that of the signature appearing on it Bhupati Sigh v Khetal Singh 21 Ind Cas 274, Nur Muhamad v Allah Wasal, 5 P W R 1915=35 P L R 1915=27 Ind Cas 562, Gulab v Mahomad, 35 Ind Cas 598, Dwarka v Maka, 49 Ind Cas 419 The Will in dispute having been duly registered and the document being over thirty years old, it must under this section, be presumed that it was a genuine document, and the fact that it was registered raised the presumption that the testator was of sound mind at the time of the execution of the Will Babu Badri Prasad v Anupurna Kuer, 6 O L J 311=52 Ind Cas 837 A Will of 1873 the attesting witnesses except one were dead and the surviving attesting witness of the law may not have been given to the purchaser, there is no reason why the Court should presume that no possession was given Pandurang v Basappa, 0. A. I. R 1923 Bom 364. rently from proper custod show that it was not acted nature to be acted upon, the presumption as to the title created by such document falls down Mahadeo v Ragotrai, 1923 Bom 293 In the case of a document more than 30 years old executed by an illiterate person but registered, there is from this two circumstances a presumption of its being genuine Bhim Sankar v Mani Ram, 9 O & A L R 893 A deed more than 30 years old and executed before the Transfer of Property Act, even if not signed by the executant but only by some scribe at his instance will be presumed to be genuine Gaya Singh v Surnjbali A I R 1924 All 832 If one is dealing with a document some thirty years old the main fact that the proof of consideration is not at all satisfactory, is by itself a slender ground for holding that the document known to have come into existence was entirely unreal Sailaja Nath v Raja Resheecase 51 C 135=39 C L J 380=81 Ind Cas 493 The document was more than 30 years old and was produced from proper custody and all the witnesses were dead Held that the presumption must be made under s 90 of the Evidence Act that the attestation ... der, 12 O L J ore than 30 years that the Record Held, the presump-was no proof that it proof establish that the )0 Purna Chandra v.

Radhakamohan, 90 Ind Cas 722 Where all the executants are dead, the scribe is dead the persons who purport to have been the attesting witnesses are dead, receipt of consi-
)o is also dead, d by this section udh 510=4 O
a document was executed by the person who purported to be the executant, but the Court cannot presume the correctness or genuineness of every statement appearing in the document Kshetra Mohan v Bhairab Chandra, 98 Ind Cas 1021=A. I R 1927 Cal 229; Abdul Ghani v Faquir Mahomed, 111 Ind Cas 361 Genuineness of jama wasil baki papers more than seventy years old, can be presumed under this section Nirod Krishna v Prodyat Coomar, 45 C L J 129 The presumption of execution of the document extends to the marks man Shailendra v Girija, 58 C 686=A I R 1931 Cal 896 This section does not contain any restrictions that a presumption should not be drawn thereunder if the person claiming under the document in question is out of possession or has not actually signed or thumb marked the document itself Iman v Natha, A I R 1932 Lah 43=32 P L R. 626.

Purporting Section 90 of the Evidence Act, does not enable a Court to presume that unsigned accounts, which do not purport to be in the handwriting of fact prepa

document pared or s does not m Charitar 422=(1918 unsigned person T
By 'Purpo... would be excluded were it not for this section, which contains an excellent provision, if it is not misunderstood Mark Ev p 68

Thirty years—Mode of reckoning Since the chief reason for the rule is the impossibility of obtaining living testimony to the signing or to the handwriting, the necessity does not arise until time has made such testimony unavailable At first under the English Common law, this requirement was satisfied by the simple and indefinite notion that the deed must be ancient In some of the old books the average age of a man was computed to be sixty years, that an

. ars old
. enson v.
Olive, Bunbury 280, Clarkson v Woodhouse, 3 Doug 169 But this reckoning was too strict, because the witness were more persons and therefore at least thirty years of age, suffice to bring them near the end of the span 1700 S, the period of thirty years has sufficed to constitute an ancient document.
I v Baker, 1 Atk 21, 49, R.
252, Chelsea Water Works v Wigmore § 2138 The period have forged the written date years ago must be somehow shown Forbes v Wale, 1 W. Bl 532 In the above named case Lord Mansfield said; 'If the length of the date is alone sufficient to establish it a man has nothing to do but to forge a bond with a very ancient date" Wigmore § 2138 But it seems that this section does not require any such extra evidence Hence in the case of a Will the period of thirty years is reckoned not from the testator's death, but from the date of execution of the instrument Doe v Wolley, 8 B & C 22 In applying the presumption allowed by s 90 of the Evidence Act, the period of thirty years is to be reckoned not from the date upon which the document is filed in Court, but from the date, or otherwise becom R 135 But in an years old when it was produced, there is no presumption as to its genuineness thirty years old on the date when arguments were heard Mahadeo v Nasiban, 54 Ind Cas 368 The period of thirty years mentioned in this section is to be reckoned from the date when

233=75 Ind C
Thirty years should be counted from the date of its genuineness being subjected to proof Konda Reddi v Pichi Reddi, A I R 1925 Mad 184

Proper custody The mere production of an ancient document by a party affords no proof of proper custody and it is for the party producing it to explain how the document came to be in his custody Trimbak Das v Mattabai, 27 N L R. 75=124 Ind Cas 609=A I R 1930 Nag 225, Ramnaresh v Chukut, A I R 1932 Oudh 227=9 O W N 379 The Court added that it was only necessary to show the age of over thirty years, and that they came from a natural and reasonable cu found 1901
the cus or any other custody which in the circumstances of the case appear to the Court to be consistent with its genuineness Doe v Philips, 8 Q B 158, Doe v. Keeling, 11 Q B 884, Wills Ev 2nd Ed 385 In Meath v Winchester, 3 Being. N C 183, 200, Tindal C J said: "It is not necessary that they should be found in the best and most proper place of deposit. If documents continue in such custody, there never would be any question as to their authenticity But it is when documents are found in other than the proper place of deposit that the investigation commences whether it was reasonable and natural under the circumstances in the particular case to expect that they should have been in the place where they are actually found. For it is obvious that whilst there can be only one place of deposit strictly and absolutely proper, there may be various and many that are reasonable and probable though differing in degree, some

S. 90. A. I. R 1923 Bom. 364. rently from proper custo show that it was not acte created by such document the case of a document son but registered, there is being genuine. Bhim Sankar than 30 years old and executed signed by the executant but med to be genuine Gaya Singh v Sumybali, A. I R 1924 All 832 If one is dealing with a document some thirty years old the main factory, is by itself a custody and all the witnesses were dead Held that the presumption must be made under s 90 of the Evidence Act that the attestation was duly made Mahomed Hasan v Ali Hider, 12 O L J 1=85 Ind Cas 509 A partition chitta purporting to be more than 30 years deposed that the Record Court Held, the presumption was no proof that it nor did the proof establish that the collectorate custody was proper custody within section 90 Purna Chandra v.

Radhamohan, 90 Ind Cas 722 Where all the executants are dead, the scribe is dead, the persons who purport to have been the attesting witnesses are dead, and receipt of consi-who is also dead, mitted by this section 7 Oudh 510=4 O section is that a document was executed by the person who purported to be the executant, but the Court cannot presume the correctness or genuineness of every statement appearing in the document Kshetra Mohan v Bhairab Chandra, 98 Ind Cas 1021=A. I R 1927 Cal 229; Abdul Ghani v Fuqair Mahomed, 111 Ind Cas 361 Genuineness of jama wasil baki papers more than seventy years old, can be presumed under this section Nirod Krishna v Prodyat Coomar, 45 C L J 129 The presump tion of execution of the document extends to the marks man Shailendra v Gaya, 58 C 686=A I R 1931 Cal 896 This section does not contain any restrictions that a presumption should not be drawn thereunder if the person claiming under the document in question is out of possession or has not actually signed or thumb marked the document itself Iman v Natha, A I R 1932 Lah 43=32 P L R 626

Purporting Section 90 of the Evidence Act, does not enable a Court to presume that unsigned accounts, which do not purport to be in the handwriting of any particular person or the temple to which the does not make it admissible without proof under s 90 of the Evidence Act would be excluded were it not for this section, which contains an excellent provision, if it is not misunderstood Mark Ev p 68

Thirty years—Mode of reckoning Since the chief reason for the rule is the impossibility of obtaining living testimony to the signing or to the hand-

S

Horner, (1913) 2 Ch . thereof so far as t which, judging from tances of the case, it would naturally be expected to reside, then the document ought to be treated as authentic to such extent as to become admissible in evidence between the parties Chundra Kant v. Brojonath, 13 W R 109. Whether the custody of a document is a proper one under section 90 of the s of each case.
documents sixty custody of the the presumption uld be admitted Pat L T. 474=5
than 30 years old comes from custody of the mortgagee, the presumption of proper execution readily arises and it is proof of the mortgage Ramachari v Sadho Saran, A. I. R 1924 All 869 The mere fact of a certain document having been produced from a Court where it had been filed does not necessarily bring that document within the requirements of this section Rajendra v Gopal 4 Pat 66=A I R. 1925 Pat 442

May presume It is in the discretion of a Court whether it will raise the presumption, in favour of a document for which s 90 provides But this discretion is not to be exercised arbitrarily but must be governed by principles which are consonant with law and justice And while, on the one hand, great care is requisite in applying the presumption, on the other hand, it is clear that very grave injustice may be perpetrated, if an ancient document coming from proper custody is rejected by a Court capriciously or for inadequate reasons Govinda Hazara v. Protap Narain, 29 C 740; Ram v Chhkut, A I R 1932 Oudh R 227=9 O W. N 379 When a document, which is over thirty years old, has b which is a mentioned
ment, stating its reasons in the latter event and, in the former, whether the presumption has been rebutted or not Srinath Patra v Kuloda, 2 C L J. 592 The effect of the presumption is weakened by circumstances which tended to raise doubts as to its authenticity Madan Mohan v Kumar Rameswar, 7 C. L J 615 The presumption allowed by this section is not a presumption which the Court is bound to make Honuman v Ramchuntra, A W N 1901, 28. As to the presumption which a Court may make under s 90 of the Evidence Act, the power thereby given must be exercised with great discretion in a country where documents are written on such material as parabick and palm leaf, and where in Burmese time neither parties nor witnesses were ever in the habit of attaching their signatures, so that the term execution is rather a convenient it be more than thirty years old and purports to come from proper custody and that under the circumstances of the present case the discretion was rightly exercised Safiq unnissa v Shaban Ali Khan, 7 O C 290 The words "may presume" in this section, ought generally to be construed in the more rigorous of the sense allowed by s 4 and in view of danger of a blind acceptance of a document as genuine for all purposes, merely because it purports to be a

before
the pre
found v Lakh previou
at the time, and as to whether it has ever been acted on previously to its production in Court Mehar Amir v Nur Muhammed, 110 P. L. R, 1902. So it

90. is not obligatory, under this section, upon a Court to assume that the document produced is genuine merely because it purports to be thirty years old and is produced from proper custody. The Court has a discretion in the matter, but the di
15 C Whetl
upon
L J certai Mahabir Prasad, ... presumption with regard to the genuineness of a document under this section is one in which the Court has to exercise its discretion and when that discretion has been exercised with due care and the presumption allowed by law has been made an appellate Court should be slow to interfere with such discretion Mahomed v Rahim, 57 P W R 1918 = 44 Ind Cas 559 The presumption ... applied to a deed executed by an illiterate in refusing to draw the presumption under s 90 ... of the deed nor would such presumption be ... to prove the genuineness of a document but such evidence ...

age of the document ...
R 1930 Bom 39.

in my opinion, lays down more a rule of expediency than a ... of law" Unsuspicious appearance. A third requirement is that the document must in appearance be unsuspicious Wigmore § 2140 'On inspection it must is suspicious, on the face of it, and when the very place of importance has been erased and re-written, presumption under this section does not arise Baldeo Misir v. Bharos Kunbi, 95 Ind Cas. 261 = A I 1926 A. 537 Where a document more than 30 years old purporting to come from proper custody, is required by the Court before which it is produced to be proved and is left unproved, and there are circumstances, both external and internal, which throw great doubts upon the genuineness of the document the Court can, in the exercise of the discretion vested in it under s 90 of the Evidence Act, decline to admit it to evidence without formal proof and their Lordships of the Privy Council will be always slow to overrule the discretion exercised by a Judge under s 90. Shafiqq-un nissa v Shafan Ali, 6 Bom. L R. 750

Old Copies The use of raises two or three questions ficance, moreover, of the circums but this rule does not enable one to use an unauthorized record Thus, when the record is unauthorized, some other mode of proving the deed must be resorted to. Keeping these principles in mind, the various situations may be distin-cular mode of proof has been prescribed by the Act Krishnasuami v Ananthachar 4 Mys L J 264, Sarju Dey v Ram Buxakh, 18 Ind Cas 250 This section of the Evidence Act does not make it incompetent for the Court to draw any presumption a copy of the sa which section id was 94 = A 218, Nanu Nair v Kantan Ashta, 2 L W 509 = 29 Ind Cas 386 But this section

M W N 454 = 73 Ind Cas 66

Where the alleged ancient original is lost, and proof of its contents (including the purporting signatures) is offered to be made by one who having seen it before its loss, recollects its contents or took a copy, the difficulty in any witness and the presumption in section 90 cannot apply, for that only relates to documents which purport or are proved to be thirty years old, and . . . This is not one of such documents, and, section 90 can not apply. One of the . . . agent for admitting Exhibit E is Ponnam Taleth Porapmaran v Karoth Sankaran, 12 Ind. Cas 153, but from the brief judgment of . . . the contrary, . . . the copy." . . . copy is offered, made by a private hand, and the purporting maker being unknown a . . . and the co . . . 2113. The . . . an alleged official record copy offered, though . . . Ibid. When a copy of a document is exhibited in a suit and the original document is not produced, though the original purports to be more than thirty years old, the presumption which, under s 90 of the Evidence Act, may be made where a document over thirty years . . . not to be made Appathura v. Gopala, . . . cases in which the document is actually produced in Court, . . . secondary evidence of an . . . document is admissible, without proof of execution of t . . . have been last . . . P. R 1910 = 1 . . . case of a copy . . . Court to presume that the copy is in the hand-writing of the person in whose . . . Though this section does not refer to stamps, . . .

Evidence Act regarding the same on the production of certified copy . . . Bahadur v . . . The presumption mentioned i . . . Banwarilal v. Dwarkanath, . . . v. Subramania Aiyar, 16 L . . . 2 = (1922) M W. N 611 = 46 M . . . authenticating, a copy Seethaya . . . Bom L R 756 = 4 . . . this section with . . . as well as originals . . . be made in favou . . . Prosad, 6 O W N 880 = A I R 1929 Oudh 483 The Court may presume the genuineness even of an unregistered document thirty years old from a copy of such document, if the original is proved to have been duly executed, and further it is also proved that the original is since lost But such a presumption can only be made after a careful consideration of all the circumstances of the . . .

. . . competent to execu . . . The words 'duly . . . according to law . . .

S.

whether she has fully understood question of execution The term only an abbreviated form of expression intended to connote the necessity of bringing home the transaction to the executant and of proving that it was fully explained to and understood by the pardanashin lady Afsar Begam v Mahomed, 5 Luck 526=8 O W N. 55=130 Ind Cas 861=A I. R. 1931 Oudh 103

Presumption of genuineness whether presumption of executant's authority to sign or grant Where the executant of a document purports to sign it on behalf of others, the fact that it is more than thirty years old, though it would, under the provisions of section 90 of the Evidence Act, raise a presumption in favour of the genuineness of the document, would not dispense with proof of the authority of the executant to sign it on behalf of others so as to bind them or those claiming under them Llulack Rai v Dallial Roi, 3 C 557. Where it is not shown that the executant of an ancient document was entitled to grant such a document, mere production of it would be no proof of title Uggar Kant v Hurro Chunder, 6 C 209 The provisions of s 90 of the Evidence Act merely establish that the document was executed by the persons whose signatures it purports to bear, but that can not and does not rim v Lagan, Ganga,
79 So
power sumed only the execution of the deed, but not, in the absence of the power or evidence thereof, the authority of the solicitor to execute it Re Airey, (1897) 1 Ch 164, Phip Ev 7th Ed 505

This section does not prove the authority of the person who has made the grant, the genuineness whereof is presumed by the Court under the provisions of that section. Kashi Nath v Jagat Kishore, 20 C W N 643=23 C L J. 583=35 Ind Cas 298 The presumption that arises under s 90 of the Evidence Act only extends to the genuineness of old documents coming from proper custody, it does not further go to the extent of holding that the document was in fact executed by persons possessed of the requisite authority Tarakesuar Pal v Sush Chandra, 27 C W N 964 Although in the case of sale deeds more than 50 years old the presumption of law was that they were executed by the persons who purported to execute them, there was no presumption that the scribe who signed these documents executants to do it Haji Shaikh Ind Cas 989, Ramani Kant v Bhu
Cas 220

Full Bench case has held that the e Act in the case of a document executed by the party by whom it purported to be executed includes the presumption that when the signature of the executant purports to have been made by the pen of the scribe, the latter was duly authorized to sign for him Haji v Sulhiam, A L J 837=1925 All. 1=47 A 31 (F B), Balloran v Mt Dulai, 24 A L J 920=97 Ind Cas 292

7 O C 299=31 I A Cas 773 When the applicability of the pro the High Court can 7 In Parankura Zatei said. "The presumptio

Act as to the genuineness of a document 30 years old, is one of fact and stands that the District Munsiff had drawn the presumption under this section in

Vayya Dayan, 108 Ind Cas 112

Ancient document—Corroborative evidence It is well settled that mere production of an ancient doc evidence of acting under it is nc. be corroborated by evidence by other equivalent or explanatory proof, it is then presumed to have constituted part of the actual transfer of property mentioned, because this is the usual gh absence of proof of possession does tedly affects the weight to be attached to a, 12 C L J 14=89 Ind Cas 747=A I R 1925 Cal 1189

later when even that attesting witness was dead There was no reasonable explanation about the delay after 1910 in making the application for probate There was no evidence as to the custody of the Will before 1907, held that the applicant cannot get the benefit of s 90 Channulal v Mt Puna, 75 Ind Cas 660=1923 Nag 169 Where circumstances of suspicion surround the genuine character of a document thirty years old, the question of applying to it the present rule is one largely of administration Should the evidence in the case explain and account for these circumstances to the satisfaction of the presiding judge, he may admit the writing to the benefit of the rule of procedure Chamberlayne's Ev § 1165

Rule should be applied with proper care and caution The rule laid down in s 90 of the Evidence Act as to proof of execution of documents thirty years old ought to be applied with special care and caution Trailokia Nath v this must
Cas e is a ution Allah
Din, 241 P. L R 1913=19 Ind. Cas. 964 Before a Court is justified in making goo

in
be

presumption contained in this section Gobinda v Pulin Behary, 31 C W N 215 = 98 Ind Cas 147 = A I R 1927 Cal 102

Explanation This is to provide for cases in which the custody is not, perhaps, that where it might most reasonably be expected, but yet sufficiently reasonable to constitute such custody not improper Thus in the two first illustrations, (a) and (b), the documents are produced from their natural place of custody; in (c) the documents ordinarily would be with the owner B, but

v The Bishop's

the see laxton v

Date, 10 B & C 17, or of the lessee Hall v Ball 3 M & G 242

CHAPTER VI

OF THE EXCLUSION OF ORAL BY DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Evidence of terms of contracts grants and other dispositions of property reduced to form of document.

91 When the terms of a contract, or of a grant, or of any other disposition of property, have been reduced to the form of a document, and in all cases in which any matter is required by law to be reduced to the form of a document, no evidence shall be given in proof of the terms of such contract, grant or other disposition of property, or of such matter except the document itself, or secondary evidence of its contents in cases in which secondary evidence is admissible under the provisions hereinbefore contained

Exception 1—When a public officer is required by law to be appointed in writing, and when it is shown that any particular person has acted as such officer, the writing by which he is appointed need not be proved

Exception 2—Will *[admitted to probate in British India] may be proved by the probate

Explanation 1—This section applies equally to cases in which the contracts grants, or dispositions of property referred to are contained in one document and to cases in which they are contained in more documents than one

Explanation 2—Where there are more originals than one, one original only need be proved Explanation 3—This statement in any document whatever, of a fact other than the facts referred to in this section, shall not preclude the admission of oral evidence as to the same fact.

---

* These words in s 91, Exception 2 were substituted for the words under the Indian Succession Act" by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act 1872 (18 of 1872), s 7 91.

Illustrations

(a) If a contract be contained in several letters, all the letters in which it is contained must be proved.

(b) If a contract is contained in a bill of exchange, the bill of exchange must be proved

(c) If a bill of exchange is drawn in a set of three, one only need be proved

(d) A contracts, in writing, with B, for the delivery of indigo upon certain terms The contract mentions the fact that B had paid A the price of other indigo contracted for verbally on another occasion

Oral evidence is offered that no payment was made for the other indigo The evidence is admissible.

by B it.

of a

e of

, but

r as

the

judgment, the contract, the devise, etc, it is in reality declaring a doctrine of the substantive law of these subjects, namely in the case of a written contract, that rule of substantive law. It does not exclude certain data because they are for one or another reason untrustworthy or undesirable means of evidencing some fact to be proved It does not concern a probative mental process,—the process of believing one fact on the faith of another What the rule does is to declare that certain kinds antive law; and this of course (like when desired, (c) its cribed forms, if any, and (d), the Int external objects affected by it. Of these four, the first and the fourth are necessarily involved in every jural act, the second and the thi important, but are always possible elen deemed by law to be the sole n document was intended by the parti between them and therefore to Wigmore § 2401 The practical parts, in their former and inchoate shape, have no longer any jural effect, they are replaced by a single embodiment of the act, in other words: When a jural act is embodied in a single memorial, all other utterances of the parties on the topic are legally immaterial for the purpose of determining what are the terms of their act Wigmore § 242) This rule is based upon an assumed intention on the part contract, disinclina agreemen niteness, and to put their ideas in such shape that there can be no misunderstanding, which so often occurs where reliance is placed upon oral statements Written contracts presume deliberation upon the part of the contracting parties, on by the s embodied st common on that the hich the phrase best when the contents of a ed before the tribunal, mitted "

Ev §§ substi
it into

cited with approval by Lord Carson in M Subramoniam v Lutchman, 50 C 338=38 C L J 41=28 C W N 1=44 M L J 602=50 I A 77 P C instruments, or to contradict or alter them This is a matter both of principle and policy of principle, because such instruments are, in their own nature and origin, entitled to a much higher degree of credit than parol evidence of policy because it would be attended with great mischief if those instruments, upon which me by loose collateral evidence . Charan, 5 W R 68 (69) 'which requires the

Statute of Frauds In all these cases, the law having required that the evidence of the transactions should be in writing no other proof can be substituted for that, as long as the writing exists, and is in the power of the party Greenl Ev § 86 In the second place oral proof cannot be substituted for the written evidence of any contract which the parties have put in writing Here the written instrument may be regarded in some measure, as the ultimate fact to be proved especially in cases of negotiable securities and in all cases of written contracts, the writing is tacitly agreed upon by the parties themselves, as the only repository and the appropriate evidence of their agreements The written contract is not collateral, but is of the very essence of the transaction If for example, an action is brought for the use and occupation of real estate, and it appears by the plaintiff s own showing that there was a written contract of tenancy, he must produce it, or account for its absence, if he were to make out a prima facie case, without any appearance of a written contract, the burden of producing it, or at least of proving its existence, would be developed on the defendant. Brewer v Palmer, 3 Esp 213, confirmed in Ramsbottam v Tunbridge 2 M & S 434, R v Rauden 8 B & C 708 Strother v Boor, 5 Bing 136, Per Parke J But if the fact of the occupation of land is alone in issue without respect to the terms of the tenancy, this fact may be proved by any competent [illegible] clarations of the tenant, notwith- [illegible] an agreement in writing; for [illegible] n question R v Inhabitants of [illegible] ing 239, 241. The same rule applies to every other species of written contract Greenl Ev § 87. Save and [illegible] itings, there is a third class of document [illegible] existence of which is disputed, and which is [illegible] the parties, or to the credit of witnesses [illegible] be proved in accordance with the provisions of section 64 supra, "I have always" says Lord Tenterden, in Vincent v. Cole, 1 M & M 258, 'acted most strictly on [illegible] only be proved by the writing itself [illegible] danger of relying on the recollection [illegible] contents of written instruments; the [illegible] the purposes of justice r [illegible] the writing does not [illegible] there is no ground fo [illegible] written communication [illegible] latter may [illegible] of the writing [illegible] may be pro [illegible] 4 Esp 213; [illegible] Vide [illegible] 3 to this section In stating that oral testimony cannot be substi- [illegible]

[illegible] although they relate to the [illegible], which are directly in issue in the cause [illegible] Parke B, Newhall v. Holt, 6 M & W [illegible]; Bethell v Blencowe, 3 M & Gr 119, Howard v Smith, 3 M & Gr 254 "The reason" [illegible] Baron Parke "why such statements or acts are admissible, without [illegible] [illegible] may reasonably be presumed to be" Taylor § 410 But in illus- [illegible]

[illegible] the genuineness of a document produced is in question (Vide s 22) When [illegible] to be [illegible]

[illegible] limitation it must be taken that even a third party if he wants to establish a [illegible]

[illegible] made orally there being no docu- [illegible] is in fact reduced to the [illegible] be determined on a [illegible] and the circumstances [illegible] e terms are not reduced to the form of a document registration is not necessary and while the writing cannot be used as a document of title it can be used as a piece of evidence, e g

S

the
to
the settlement made Any antecedent documents and maps can be used solely in the plaint, to the effect that he would make good any loss the (plaintiff) purchaser might incur in respect of the property sold, is not excluded by section 91 of the Evidence Act, and renders proof of the agreement unnecessary Sadhu v. Nga Si, U B R 1907, Evidence 1' When men agree to preserve by writing the remembrance of past event of which they wish to create a memorial either with a view to lay down a rule for their own guidance, or in order to have in the instrument a lasting proof of the truth of what is written, the truth of the written act must be established by the acts themselves, that is, by the inspection of the originals Upendra v Umesh Chandra 12 C L J 25=6 Ind Cas 346 The consent in writing by the landlord to the division of a tenure has the effect of substituting a new contract for the old It should terms of the new cont section 91 of the E the terms of the co application Ganoda v Girish, 4 Ind Cas 400 As required by ss 250 and 251, of the Code of the Civil Procedure, the warrant must have been in writing and therefore, under s 91 of the Evidence Act, the fact, that the warrant gave admissible Sheo Ko v King-Emperor, 3 L B R 128 Previous conviction should, regard being had to the provisions of this section, and section 511 Cr Pro Code, be proved by copies of judgments or extracts from judgments or by any other documentary evidence of the fact of such previous conviction, of those convictions is, having warrant or justification Jasin 70 When a dying declaration not evidence, but the precise by the Magistrate who recorded the statement or some one who heard it This section does not apply to such a document Gowindas v Emperor, 36 C 659=13 C W N 680=10 Cr L J 186=2 Ind Cas 841 Section 91 of the Evidence Act has no application to matters embodied in the special diary under s 172 of the Criminal Pro. Code, 1\. Ind Cas 766 An agreement within the meaning of section e record of Court, i e., reduced to th

Civil

ing th and i

110 =

found

gift has been validly made in accordance with Muhammadan law Ali Baksh v Ghurai, 28 Ind Cas 180 = 18 O C 122 Where the terms of a compromise are found to be set out in a petition, the petitioner is to prove the terms of the compromise and oral evidence would not be admissible to vary or alter its terms Bharora v Sikhdar, 12 A L J 998 There is no rule of law that the only evidence of an agent's authority admissible in evidence is a written power of attorney The fact can be proved by evidence, aliunde, and so far as third parties are concerned, non the-less so because the agent was appointed under a written document executed by the principal. There is nothing in section 91 or section 92 of the Evidence Act to preclude such third party from proving the existence of a particular relationship between the persons who respectively executed and accepted the power of attorney, though the terms which govern such relationship appear to be in writing Lala Nanakchand v. Mahammad Abzal, 279 P W R 1912 The object of s 10 A of the Dekkan Agriculturists' the parties but embodies only some of the conditions, oral evidence to prove judicial determination of the meaning of the language of parties to an agreement though the parties may not testify as to their intention. Morris v David Jones, 125 Ind Cas 867 = Ind Rul (1930) P C 231 It is not necessary to get a family settlement reduced into writing and get the writing registered Oral evidence on the point of the alleged settlement is therefore admissible Rangu v. Lakshman, A I R 1930 Bom 438

When the terms of a contract or of a grant, or of any other disposition of property have been reduced to the form of a writing Where a transaction

memorial may be terme l the Integration of the act i e, its formation from S. scattered parts into a integral documentary unity. The practical consequence of this is that its scattered parts, in their material for the purpose of determining what are the terms of their act Wigmore § 2425. It is for this reason that whenever the parties to any contract or grant or other disposition of property have set out its terms and conditions in a writing, which they presumably intend to be a record of the transaction, the law forbids any attempt to establish any other terms by means of oral evidence. Powell Ev p 181. The moment an oral contract is reduced to writing, it is not open to any of the parties thereafter to seek to prove the term of contract referring to the original oral agreement and this section applies not only to cases where the contract is brought about or concluded by the writing, but also where the contract having been originally made by parol is subsequently reduced to writing Where the parties reduce the terms of a contract into writing, it clearly indicates the contemplation of the parties that the terms would be reduced to a form where there could be no question at all as to what the terms were and the undoubted policy of the law is that whichever parties have taken such precaution it is the document itself that must be produced and proved as evidence of the contract subject of course, to any rules as to secondary evidence Kappu Swami v China Swami, 28 L W 234 - 111 Ind Cas 671 = A I R 1923 Mad 546 Thus, where a contract of agency had been orally made between the parties, but had subsequently been put into writing and signed by them, it was held that the document was only admissible evidence of the agreement Morris v Delobbel Flipo, (1892) 2 Ch 352; Phip Ev 7th Ed p 547 Having regard to the terms of this section, what the Court has got to do is to find out the real contract between the parties Meenakshisundaram v. Chenchu, 109 Ind. Cas 18 = A. I R 1928 Mad 459 The fact of partition may be proved by oral evidence although the deed embodying the terms of partition cannot be proved because of the inadmissibility of the document Maung Tan v Ko Tu, 111 Ind Cas 472 = A I R 1928 Rang 196 But where an award in writing which effected a partition of joint family properties, plainly and unambiguously effected an out-and out partition among all the members of the joint family, held that extrinsic evidence was admissible to explain or control its terms, to show for instance that there was no separation between two of the members inter se Babu v Gakuldass, A I R 1928 Mad. 1064 = 55 M L J 132 = 112 Ind Cas 184 The agrement to refer to ar other disposition of property and so th Ram v Lala Ram, 116 Ind Cas 853 = A walf may be created by word of mouth, been put in writing the document itself or secondary evidence of the same should be tendered Mahomed v Bibi Marian, 8 Pat 484 = 117 Ind Cas 638 = A I. R 1929 Pat 410 When a plaint alleges that possession of immoveable property has been given to the defendant as security for a loan of hundred rupees or upwards, but without the execution of a registered instrument, oral evidence is not admissible to prove the transaction. Maung Sa v Maung have been reduced to the form of a document, except the document itself or secondary evidence of its contents in cases in which secondary evidence is admissible Maung Pan v. Ma Bwe, U. B. R (1892 1896) Vol. II, 347.

1. Terms of a contract. The general rule laid down in section 91 of the Act is, that when the terms of a contract have been reduced to writing, no evidence shall be given in proof of terms of the contract except the documents itself, or, in certain cases, secondary evidence of its contents Sri Dunji v Bodri, 15 R. D 309, Nasir v. Ram Mohan, 53 A 114=1931 A L J 61=A I

From the mere fact that a bill of exchange or hundi has been executed, it does not necessarily follow that the whole of the contract between the parties dence of an agreement as well as of what took place when the agreement was made to prove the agreement if the written instrument is not produced Iyankatesh v Ganesh, 61 Ind Cas whenever the terms of a contr inadmissible in evidence the Ishar Das, 3 Lah. L J 157=60 .

23 Bom L R 767=63 Ind parties been reduced to writing and the of the contract of loan but if the hundies then it is the oral terms proved and this section is 180=57 Ind Cas 394 If contract contemplate the e it is a question of constr is a condition or term of desire of the parties as to will in fact go through either because the condit a contract to enter into and the reference to the mere formal document may be ignored 4 Pat L J. 580=(1919) Pat 305=53 Ind Cas 832 When it was admitted that the terms of the contract were reduced to writing and as no oral evidence was admissible to prove the said terms, the suit should have been brought within three years of the date of the transaction if it could be maintained on the original consideration. Gobinda v Ram Chandra, 29 C L J 508=51 Ind Cas 945 Oral evidence to prove admissible under tl

22 C W N 416=4

controlled by final expression of obligation his own language Maung Po Thet v irna Vol II,
into at a . in the writ . W N 147 (P C)=32 C. 96=31 I A 188 A question as to who the contracting parties are is not a question as to the terms of the contract, within the meaning of this section Venkata Subbiah v Gobindarajulu, 18 M L J. 1=3 M L T 259=31 M 15 Where an agreement is inadmissible, oral evidence is barred.

S.

Samsam v Ram rocedure does not eed to the form the suit or in roceedings The agreement or compromise itself, that is made out of Court may be in writing or by word of mouth If the Court did not record the terms of it, this section is no bar to the suit being brought on the terms of the compromise Bija v On Gaing, 3 L B R 243 Ordinarily when the terms of a contract preceded by proposals, negotiations conditional acceptances, counter proposals and so on are reduced finally to the form of a document signed by one or both of the parties the strong presumption is not that there are two independent contracts (the first an oral contract the second written contract) but that the written contract is the only final contract between the parties and when a contract is once reduced to writing no other evidence can be given of its terms Kotam Reddi v Vennalakant, 20 M L T 41—(1916) 2 M W N 33—31 M L J 240=35 Ind Cas 18 When the terms of contract for payment of interests were was excluded from evidence by Court of Waras Act oral evidence idence Act to prove the terms of contract Ram Bahadur v Dassuri 17 C L J 399=19 Ind Cas 818 The rule of evidence, which excludes evidence of the terms of a contract which has been reduced to the form of a document has nothing to do with an action for money had and received the basis of which action is not the contract reduced to the form of a document but the doctrine of equity that a person who has received a sum of money from another for a consideration which has wholly failed must return the money to the payer Baij Nath v Sahj Ram 16 Ind Cas 33

Promissory note—Proof of oral contract of loan Apart from the promissory note there is always a contract to repay a loan and such contract can be proved independently of the instrument It is only the other contract relating to the rate of interest which can only be proved on reference to the instrument itself So even in cases where the lending of the money and the execution of the promissory note are contemporaneous the plaintiff is entitled to maintain a suit for recovery of the money lent and to adduce evidence other than the instrument or the promissory note itself in order to prove the loan Dhanesuar v Ramrup Gir 7 Pat 845=111 Ind Cas 482=9 Pat L T 471=A I R 1928 Pat bserved "It is a well a contract to repay ransaction, cannot be ing in law to prevent and if he can satisfy o reason why a decree Mahamad A I R
1931 Pat 293=133 Ind Cas 685, see also Iwaj v Ram 130 Ind Cas 347, T 506 But a Full Khan v Ram Mohan question differently between cases where the transaction is separable from the promissory note and cases where the execution of the promissory note and the payment of the money are part and parcel of the same transaction, it being held that in the former case the debt could be held proved, although the promissory note was not admissible in evidence, while in the latter cases it could not and the suit must fail if the promissory note itself be inadmissible in evidence In that case the cases of Sima 34 A 153=13 Ind overruled see also Khan 7 C 256= The case of Sheik int v Bhoj
Chan Ind Cas 646
But the case in Sheikh Akbar v Sheikh Khan, supra was sought to be explained away in a later case in the same Court in Promotha Nath v Dwarkanath, 23 C 851 In the Madras High Court in Yarlagadda v Govantala, 29 M 111=15 M L

L. J. 484 and in Muthu v Vishuanatha, 38M 660=21 Ind Cas 864, s 91 of the Evidence Act was relied upon and it was held that in circumstances similar to the Allahabad Full Bench Case, oral evidence could not be given in proof of the loan; see also Alimam v. Kohsetti, A I R 1932 Mad 693=63 M L J 303. In Chandra . , A I R 1922 Lah 307=66 Ind Cas 201=2 . also took the same view The point of vie whether the fact of payment of a sum of money can be regarded as a term of the contract does not seem to have been considered by the learned Judges who decided the case In a recent full Bench case of the Oudh Chief Court, it has been held that inspite of the provisions of s 91, it is open to the party who has lent money on terms recorded in a promissory note which terms ought to be inadmissible in evidence for want of proper stamp duty to recover his money by proving orally the advance of the loan Kunuar Bahadur v Suraj Bikh, A. I R 1932 Oudh 235, see also Krishnan v Rajmal, 24 B 360=2 Bom L R 25; Duarla v Idu, 74 Ind Cas 813=26 O C 361, Narlu v Gaja, A I R 1929 Oudh 349, Maung Kyi v. Ma Ma, 10 L B R 51=54 Ind Cas 81 (F B) For further discussion on the subject vide pp 1007—1009 infra

Terms of a grant Under this sect ... grant when it has been reduced to the form of ... secondary evidence of its contents is ad... admissible only under the terms of section ... is not proved to have been lost, (1 (C) of s 65 cannot be invoked Mahomed Khan v. Sheo Bhikh, A I R 1929 Oudh 447=6 O W N 550 Under section 85, sub section (2) of the B n ...

... Oral evidence of such grant is also excluded by section 91 of the Evidence Act Jarip Khan v Durfa Bewa, 16 C L J. 144=15 Ind Cas 116=17 C W N 59

... want of registration—whether secondary ... he ... n, ... contract can be received Nga Sheic ... The combined operation of s 49 of ... the Evidence Act is to completely ... partition In other words it would prevent the plaintiff from proving that in th ... n ... d ...

... intention of ... 927 Nag 113 ... property can ... to determine ... van 103 Ind Cas. 153, see ... R 276=103 Ind Cas 281=A. ... I Cas 47=1923 Rang 57; ... ngdas v Uttamchand, A I R ... deed can be used as evidence ...

terms of a partition deed. Mg Po Leen v. Ma E Mai, 1 Bur. L J 111. Secondary evidence of a lost unregistered document affecting an interest in an immovable S.

oral agreement to lease made before the execution of the document, in order to support a claim Kashiram 71 In 1923 P 111 W tered, the tenant formance Damodar v Masoodan Singh, 105 Ind Cas 172: Tilaram v Sukka, 111 Ind Cas 358 = A I R 1928 Nag 338 Though a lease for agricultural purposes for more than a year ca fact reduced to writing, it cannot be recei Act unless registered The document shuts out other evidence of the transaction Pat. 349 = 79 Ind Cas 26 = 5 Pat L T 541, Ram Chandra v Tama, 11 Bom L R. 390 = 36 B 500 = 15 Ind Cas 830, Jasoda Kaulan v Ram Kuar, L R 34 537, Budhan Teli v Madanmohan, 3 Pat L T 155 = 68 Ind. Cas 653 An unregistered deed of lease is not admissible to prove that the property to which it relates was let for a term of three years nor can oral evidence of the terms of the lease be tendered in such a case Madar v Ranl, 63 Ind Cas 90 The plaintiffs having agreed to convey a house to P received the purchase money, executed a sale deed, suit for possession of deed, secondary evide
Held, on second appeal, that under s the deed was compulsorily registrable, and prove the sale Section 91 of the Evidence secondary evidence of sale deed Gangabisan Cas 244. Section 49 of the Registration Act prohibits unregistered lease from being given in evidence whether the suit be for specific performance or for damages, and section 91 of the Evidence Act forbids any other evidence from being given of the agreement Sreeramulu v Ramaswami 33 M L J 596 Where the tenant wrote to the landlord to grant a lease in pursuance of an oral conversation and the landlord sent a reply which in law amounted to an agreement to lease but which was rendered inadmissible for want of registration and the tenant thereupon sought to fall back on prior oral agreement, held that if there was a prior oral agreement, it was either the same as that in interest or it was modified by the letters and that in neither case did s 91 of the Evidence Act admit oral Bakam Chand, 125 Ind C 1930 Lah 675

Docu her evidence —A pro note payable otherwise than on demand, bearing an one anna stamp is an insufficiently stamped document and is, under section 34 Stamp Act, inadmissible in evidence for any purpose even on payment of penalty In such a case a person is not entitled to fall back upon the original consideration of the contract as no other evidence of the terms of the document which is the best evidence in the case is admissible under this section O Gorman v Mahtab Singh, 92 P R 1898, Chandan Singh v Amritsar Banking Co, 2 Lah 330 = 1923 Lah 307 = 66 Ind Cas 201.

Where a plaintiff is able to prove the loan independently of and without the assistance of a promissory note, which cannot be admitted in evidence for some reason, he can fall back upon a claim for money lent Ram Sawrup v Jasodah 9 A L J 72 = 34 A 153 = 13 Ind Cas 138 [Since over ruled by 53 A 114 (F B)] So a creditor can fall back on the original transaction and recover his money on its basis when it is found or conceded that the document or instrument which he had obtained from the debtor was ineffective to establish any contractual relation of debtor and creditor between them so as to serve as a basis for a suit in a Court of law. Udaram v. Laxman, 104 Ind. Cas 470 = A. I. R, 1927 Nag 241. Where a person

91. sued to recover money on the duly stamped but the said hat appeared to be a held, that if the plaintiff was able to prove ... ndant had the money he was entitled to a decree Launjari Chaube v Parsotom Chaube, 25 A L J 567=103 Ind Cas 631=A I R 1927 All 503

The mere existence of an unstamped receipt which is inadmissible in evidence does not prevent other ... payment Ram prosad v Nathu Rai ...

If a creditor has a cause ... or has executed a promissory note separate from and independent of the note he can recover upon such cause in case the note for any reason as for want of being properly stamped cannot be put in evidence Kashi Prosad v Panna Lal, 74 Ind Cas 379=L R 4 A 377=1923 A 729 A promissory note which is insufficiently stamped if sued upon may give rise to three kinds of transactions Either the contract may be considered as contained wholly in the promissory note or bill of exchange as in ... to s 91 of the Indian Evidence Act, in which case the plaintiff cannot sue on the promissory note,—he can not sue at all, or secondly the promissory note may be regarded as a conditional payment of the amount of the loan in which case, of course, if the promissory note is insufficiently stamped it is only the plaintiff may sue on the loan; or the passed as security for the loan, in which case plaintiff to sue on the promissory note at all a or not, he can bring a suit on the loan Jacob 132=102 Ind Cas 138=A I R 1927 Bom note there is always a contract to repay a loan independently of the instrument It is only the other contract relating to the rate of interest which can only be proved on reference to the instrument itself Dhaneshwar v Ramrup 7 Pat 845=111 Ind Cas 482=9 Pat L T 171=A I R 1928 Pat 426, Chedu Singh v Jagannath, 26 A L J 416=108 Ind Cas 912=A I R 1928 All 297, Nanhu Singh v Girja Bux, 6 O W N 649=119 Ind Cas 865=A I R 1929 Sind 399, Ram Sarup v Jasodha Kunwar, 9 A L J 72=13 Ind Cas 138–31 A 158 But where the money was borrowed simultaneously with the execution of a promissory note by the borower and it appeared that the note was unstamped Held that the promissory note could not be sued upon and that it was not a case in which the suit was maintainable on the basis of the original contract either as there was none Venkata v Munammal 6 Mys L J 157 If a hundi is an embodiment of the whole of the contract between the evidence and cannot be looked at for the the contract, other evidence to prove the allowed But where the hundi embodies ... form

... 57 Ind Cas 709 ...

the original consideration, even when a pro note has been executed and when for any reason the document is excluled The reasonings of the several decisions apply not merely to unstamped documents, but to any case in which reliance cannot be place of,
or a collateral G White, U B ione

under section 34 of the Stamp Act, cannot according to ss 65, 91 of the Evidence Act, be given Bakshi Ram v Kokka Ram, 42 P R 1895 A person who takes a promissory note on account of a pre existing debt, may, if the document becomes inadmissible in evidence sue upon the original consideration, disregarding the instrument, provided he has not endorsed, lost or parted with the same But if the original cause of action is the promissory note itself and does not exist independently of it, he cannot succeed without the instrument, according to s 91 of the Evidence Act, as the instrument is the only contract between the parties Sheo Das v Kanhaya Lal 61 P. R 1898 Where a promissory note itself is the agreement of loan a plaintiff cannot sue on the original consideration and the promissory note must be proved Ram Singh v Perumal, 9 S L R 150=32 Ind Cas 582, Ballj Singh v Bhugwan, 7 Bur L T 95=23 Ind Cas 975=7 L B R 101

When it is proved that certain hundis were renewed from time to time and the suit, but the r and could not be upon the hundis that were given prior to the last renewals and secondary evidence could be admitted to prove them Jagan Prasad v India Mal, 12 A L J 361=36 A. 259=23 Ind Cas 589 Where the contract in case of a loan and a simultaneous promissory note has been reduced to writing in the form of the note which contains the definite terms of the contract, Courts cannot resort to inconsistent or consistent implied contracts in such cases, simply because the contract as entered in the promissory note cannot be admitted in evidence Muthu Sastrigal v Viswanath Pandara, 14 M L T 520=(1914) M W N 58=26 M L J 19.

Any matter is required by law to be reduced to the form of a document Oral Evidence can not be substituted for any instrument which the law requires to be in writing, such as records public and judicial documents, official information or examinations, deeds of conveyance of lands, Wills, other than nuncupative, promises to pay the debt of another person, etc, Taylor § 399 In all these cases the law having required that the evidence of the transaction should be in writing no other proof can be substituted for that, so long as the writing exists, and is in the power of the party Ibid Instances of this class in India are —

(1) Judgments and decrees in civil cases Vide Or XX, and Or XXXI, of the Civil Procedure Code

(2) Depositions of witnesses in civil cases, Vide Order XVIII of the Civil Procedure Code

(3) Judgments and orders in criminal cases Vide §§ 367, 424 of the Criminal Procedure Code

(4) Deposition of witnesses in criminal cases Cr Procedure Code, sections 354—362

(5) Examination of an accused person Cr Pro Code s 364

(6) Confessions of an accused person Cr Pro Code s 364

(7) Lease of immovable property from year to year or for any term exceeding one year Vide s 107 of T P Act But this does not include an agreement to lease Nanda v Sarat, 5 Ind Cas 562

(8) Deed of mortgage when the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, other than a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds Vide s 59 of the T P Act

(9) Gift of immovable property Vide s 124 of the T P Act

(10) Sale of immovable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards Vide s 54 of the T P. Act

S. 91. (11) ... ndred rupees and upwar...

(12) ... Vide s. 511 of the Criminal Pro. Code

(13) Acknowledgment of debt under s. 19 of the Limitation Act.

(14) Acknowledgment of debt by part payment of debt under s. 20 of the Limitation Act

(15) Assignment of copy right. Vide s. 5 of the Copy Right Act.

(16) Agreement without consideration (Vide s. 25 of the Contract Act)

... Pitumal v ... nderlying s. 360 ... n the grounds of ... on oath if the accuracy of the record of such examination is to be vouchsafed, particularly when it is to be utilised as a basis for a possible perjury in future for it would be unsafe to use against a complainant what on face of it purports to be only a substance and not the full version of his examination But under the present state of the law, it cannot be contended that the substance of the oral examination is inadmissible in evidence under s. 91 of the Evidence Act in proof of the statement therein contained Bhagirathi Bai v Emperor, 89 Ind. Cas. 713=26 ... able. Queen v Nga, L B R (1872—1892), 572

Mortgage When in a suit for redemption of a mortgage the existence of the mortgage ... ossession on the strength ... ground of a contract of sal... evidence to rebut the existence of such a contract Held also that a pyat paing which reported an actual sale could not be considered as a document recording the terms of a contract for the purpose of section 91 of the Evidence Act. Maung Kin v Maung Sun, 5 Rang 679 Where on the back of a mortgage deed an endorsement of the payment was made and it was also added that the mortgages were extinguished, the endorsement requires registration But oral evidence is admissible to prove the payment of mortgage amount, apart from the endorsement Labhu Ram v Sazawar, 100 Ind. Cas 129=A I R 1927 Lah 237. If ...

transfer and have an account taken as to what was due on the mortgages ...)=A. I. R 1926 ... ontract relating to ... ment, no evidence ... document itself ... Where a mortgage ... stantial evidence such as recitals in deeds referring to the mortgage, extracts from account books and by a transfer of a share of the mortgage Held that the written per mensem compoundable yearly and the defendant alleged in a suit on the ble interest agreement al v Abdul a mortgage s produced.

transaction.
Maung Po v. Ma Le, 3 Bur L J 238=84 Ind. Cas 468=A I. R. 1923 Rang. 102 A mortgage which ought to have been by a registered instrument cannot be so proved by other forms of evidence Maung Tun v Maung Khan, 2 Rang 441=A I R 1925 title deed, in the open to the plaint document was depo
But as the defendant executed a document in writing the Court must refer to it in order to ascertain what the contract was Chunilal Lal v Vital Das, 24 Bom. L R 502=68 Ind Cas. 1005=A I R 1922 Bom 440 According to section 91 of the Evidence Act, the terms of a mortgage can only be proved by the production of the mortgage deed or of secondary evidence of its contents, in case it is shown to be lost or destroyed, ment fails to produce it after notice 1907, 4th Qr Evidence 13, Fateh Sing v Samandar, 276 P L R 1913=20 In of transaction completed independently of them and not embodying terms of evidence ut where it nature of the transaction Holka v Nanupan, A I R 1932 All 259=1932 A L J 101.

Sale Where propety is the document cannot be relied up be referred to for the purpose ween the parties and to prove delivery of possession To such a case this section does not apply Keshwar Mahton v Sheonandan, 10 Pat L T 449=A I R 1929 Pat 620 An unregistered sale deed can not be made basis for suit for specific performance as if it were merely document creating right to obtain another document Diwan v Guba Chan, A 227 Section 49 of the Registration Act 17 of that Act and s 91 of the Evidence Act an unregistered document, which is being given in evidence as to the Pe v Maung Sein, 7 R 411=A I R evidence of the terms of a dispositi applicable to both classes of documents mentioned in section 91 Consequently

91. to take effect for want of registered conveyance Mg Myat v Ma Dun, 3 Bur. L J 78-81 Ind Cas 857=A I R 19'4 Rang 214 Where unregistered deed of sale is inadmissible in evidence other evidence of the contract of sale is inadmissible Parmeshri v Autar Singh, 3 Lah L J 173; Baggu v Tara Singh, 5 P L R 1919 So also where an agreement to relinquish ex proprietary rights which should be in writing and registered was not executed, held that oral evidence was not admissible regarding the agreement Ram Nath v Special Manager, 12 L R 1 Rev The plaintiff can rely upon an oral sale accompanied by delivery of possession in a case where a sale deed was executed in evidence

Ma Nuai Paul, 34 property under a re the production of evidence with regard section 91 of the Evidence Act Safar Ali v Mohesh, 23 C. L J. 122=34 Ind Cas 956 After acknowledging the receipt of consideration in the deed of sale, a vendor is not estopped from showing that he had not actually received the consideration stated in the deed Puthi v Nand Kishore, 25 Ind Cas. 27.

Deposition Since the act of deposing is a physical act which can always be proved by any one who has heard the statement being made, the fact of deposing might be proved by any one who has seen and heard the witness Ganapathe v Sakharayappa, 115 Ind Cas 140=A I R 1929 Mad 187. But under Order 18 rule 5, C P Code, it is necessary that the deposition of a witness in an appealable case, in order to bind him to the statement recorded therein, should be read over to him This provision is mandatory and not directory. The omission to do so renders the deposition inadmissible in evidence against him on his subsequent trial for perjury Section 91 of the Evidence Act excludes or 10 Ir
Si 37
a record thus made is the only admissible proof of what was said, but in a ... trial, the Magistrate need not generally record the evidence, and where no obligation is laid upon the Judge or presiding officer by law to reduce depositions or statements to writing, they may be proved by the presiding officer or by persons who heard them, in order to establish the fact that they were made Howard v Rustamji, Rat Un Cr C 334 The accused was charged in the constable in Held, that the writing, was as to such sta the present be his memory

the oral evidence of the contents of the accused's deposition at the trial before the Magistrate was inadmissible under this section Queen Empress v Bapu Narain, Rat Un Cr C 401 Under section 91 of the Evidence Act the document embodying the deposition is the only evidence of the statement charged having been made under section 80 of the same Act, it is admissible only when it was taken in accordance with law Kadir Pakiri v. Emperor, 18 Cr L J. 966=42 Ind Cas 326.

cused before S, a Bom. L R.
10 compromise a s nine, seven of nd admitted having received rupees five from S, but when he was prosecuted he denied the and proved the but a confession e been recorded ar being recorded when departmental enquiry was going on was not a matter required by law to be in writing, and section 91 of the Evidence Act had no application The Magistrate therefore was competent to prove the confession. Haidar Raza v. King Emperor, 12 A. L J 306 – 36 A 222 = 15 Cr L J 569 = 25 Ind. Cas 321. Where statements made by an accused person are inadmissible in evidence, secondary evidence of the contents of those statements are inadmissible also under this section Queen Empress v Viran, 9 M 224 = 2 Weir 125; Reg. v. Bai Ratan, 10 B H C 166 The confession of an accused person made to a Magistrate holding an enquiry is a matter required by law to be reduced to the form of a document within the meaning of section 91 of the Evidence Act, and no evidence can be given of the terms of such a confession, except the record, if any, made under s 364 of the Code of Criminal Procedure King Emperor v. Gulabu, 11 A L J 286 = 14 Cr L J 211 = 19 Ind Cas 507 = 35 A 260

Acknowledgment of debt. Secondary evidence of the contents of an acknowledgment, used to keep alive a cause of action beyond the ordinary period of limitation, can be given, where the original is proved to have been lost or destroyed, the effect of paragraph 2 of section 19 of the Limitation Act of 1877 not being absolutely and always to exclude secondary evidence in such a case Para 2 of the above section belongs to that branch of the law of evidence contained in section 91 of the Evidence Act Shambu Nath v Ram Chandra Saha, 12 C 267 Section 19 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) says clearly that oral evidence of the contents of an acknowledgment may not be received; nor has the Act made any saving of acknowledgments received or given back before the Act came into operation Zaiulnissa v Motidev, 12 B 268.

Search list A search list is not evidence of the facts stated therein and this section, therefore has no application to it It is simply a declaration, not on oath or affirmation or subject to cross examination, made by a police officer and the person's presence at the search that certain formalities were observed and certain events took place Oral evidence may, therefore, be given as to what took place at the time of the search Public Prosecutor v Saralu Chennaya, 2 Weir 776 This section, presupposes that, where a certain matter is required by law to be reduced to writing the writing is itself evidence of the matter so reduced, and the section does not apply if the writing is not evidence of the matter A search list is not evidence of the matter stated therein and it does not therefore exclude oral evidence of such matter Public Prosecutor v Sarabu, 33 M 413 = 8 Ind Cas 608 = 11 Cr L J 716 The search list prepared under s 103 Criminal Pro Code, is proper evidence of the matters which it should contain, viz the properties found and the place where they were found In re Mammadi, 2 Weir 47 = 2 Weir 515 The provisions of this section do not apply to the case of search list prepared under s 103 of the Criminal Procedure Code, In re Solai Naick, 8 Ind Cas 178 = 21 M L J 281 = 11 Cr L J 576

Application of section 91 to an oral statement made by a witness to a Police officer "In discussing the non applicability of section 91 of the Evidence Act to an oral statement made by a witness to a police officer and entered by him in his special diary I shall show that the distinction between the oral to an investigating police officer, for it is not a matter, which is required by law to be reduced to the form of document (see Reg v Uttam Chand, 11 B H C R 120 and Empress v Kali Churn, 8 C 151). In the third place the entry in the diary of the police officer, correctly speaking, is not the statement either oral or written by the witness for any legal purpose It is by habit of thought with the depositions of witnesses statement made by a witness by the try in ordinary parlance This calls t speech and writing are two distinct objective entities perceptible by two different senses Speech is heard by the ear and writing is seen by the eye A deaf person is not a possible witness to a speech nor a blind person to a writing Both are means for expressing ideas A may state orally that a certain event happened or may write that it happened, but in order to constitute the oral or the written statement of A to be his act in the eye of the law it must have been made with a consenting mind as his own juristic act A making an oral statement within the hearing of B C and D The oral statement of it under section 8, illustration (c) of the Evidence direc. ev and so writing made by A, ... cannot be allowed to

Procedure prohibits the use of oral statements made by a witness to ... gating officer and that is the point in question In the ... 91 of the Indian Evidence Act has no application to an oral ...

... deemed to represent his own oral statement and his own juristic act' Per Karamat Husain J in Rustam v King Emperor, 7 A L J 168 (481)

Exception 1 ... fice is raised by showing that the p ... er This strictly involves two element ... or openness of such action, or, as ... officer But often the first element alone is mentioned as essential Greenl Ev § 38(a) This presumption is based on the maxim omnia præsumuntur rite esse acta, that is that will be presumed to have been done which ought to have been done The general rule is that where the contents of a writing are desired to be proved, the writing itself must be produced, or its absence is sufficiently accounted for before other evidence of its contents can be admitted Greenl Ev § 563 (a)
For sin turbed general, are pro the offic arises party to 366, M
Cross v
Campb 131, R v Verelst, 3 Campb 432, Greenl Ev § 563 (g)

Will annexed when no executor is therein appointed or the appointment of executor fails), or other proof tantamount thereto of the admission of the Will in the Probate Division is legal evidence of the Will in any question respecting personalty. William on Executor, 11th Ed. 206. It can only be granted to an executor. Behary Lall v. Jaggo Mohan, 4 C. 1. Probate of a Will can not be refused on the ground simply that it is what lawyers in ancient time called "inofficious" Rammal v Kalalkoli, 22

S.

Under this exception the contents of a Will may be proved by the probate. Section (XXXIX of 1925) lays down that probate of Will from the death of the testator, and renc the executor as such madans as well as to the do not belong to the P do not live within the loc the High Courts of Ju the executor by virtue of the Will, not of the probate The Will gives property to the executor; the grant of probate is the method which the law specially provides for establishing the Will So long as the probate exists it is effectual for that purpose Kamal Lochun v Nilruttun, 4 C 560 (562) The law on the subject is the same as in England In re Ezekiel Joshua Abraham, 21 B 139. Probate is an evidential ceremony Smith v Miller, 1 T R 480, Ganapathi Iyer v. Sivamali, 36 M 375, Mathuradas v Gokuldas, 10 B 468; Jehanger v Kukibai, 27 B 281; Bai Harkar v Manicklal, 12 B 621 The probate is only conclusive as to the appointment of executors and the validity of the contents of the Will Hormusjee v Bai Dhanabai, 12 B 161, Whicker v Hume, 7 H L C 124, Brajnath v Anandamoyee, 8 B L R O C 208, Balgangadhar v Sakwarbai, 26 B 762, Chintaman v Ram Chandra, 34 B 589. The probate shows that it was duly executed by the executor Bhabangana v Harendra, 17 C. W. N. 445=16 Ind Cas 48 Explanation I. "The learning on this head" says Mr Norton "must be sought for in work grant, or disposition Take the familiar i from a series of letters passing between the parties" Allen v. Bennett, 3 Taunt. 169; Jackson v Lowe 1 Bing 9. Phillimore v Barry 1 Camp 513 Warner v Wellington, 25 L J suffice if the contr party, provided su together Spardlow

a letter in which the with the letter Pearce v Gardner, (1897) 1 Q B 688, Taylor § 1026 It is sufficient if the contract can be plainly made out in all its terms from any writings of the party, or even from his correspondence But it shall be collected from the writings, verbal testimony not being admissible to supply any defects or omissions in the written evidence Boydell v Drummond, 11 East 142, Greenl Ev § 268; Cox v Middleton, 23 L J Ch 628, Ridgway v Whorton, 21 L J Ch 46, Caddick v Skidmore, 3 Jur N S 1185

Telegrams "Telegraphic messages are instruments of evidence for various purposes and are governed by the same general rules which are applied to other writings If there be any difference, it results from the fact that messages are first written by the sender, and are again written by the operator at the other end of the line, thus causing the inquiry which is the original The original message, whatever it may be, must be produced, it being the best evidence, and in case of its loss, next best evidence the ork from which message, and the party sending

91. returned, are what would govern in construing the contract, provided both parties voluntarily and of their own accord sent their messages by the telegraph and thus adopted the company as their agent So when a contract is made by telegraph, which must be in writing by the Statute of Frauds, if the parties authorize their agents, either in writing or by parol, to make a proposition on one side and the other party accepts it through the telegraph, that constitutes a contract in writing under the Statute or Frauds; because each party authorizes rite for him; and it makes r the acceptance in the

, with a steel pen an inch long attached to an ordinary penholder, or whether h s pen be a copper wire a thousand miles long In either case the thought is communicated to the paper by use of the finger resting upon the pen, nor do s it make any difference that in one case common record ink is used, while in the other case a more subtle fluid, known as electricity, performs the office . We know that by the admirable system regulating the government of the telegraphic companies, the original despatch is preserved and may be at all times procured for the proper purposes The paper filed at the office from which the message is sent is of course the original, and that which is received by the person to whom it was sent purports to be a copy If the despatch is sought to be used in evidence the original must be proved and its execution proved precisely as any other instrument, ie same mode, before the copy can be receive H 488, Lurr Jones § 53 By the decided weight r the communication sent in or the one received is to be deemed the original depends upon which party is responsible for its transmission, in other words, upon the question for whom the telegraph company is agent. If there is but a single communication, the despatch as delivered at the place of destination is the best evidence In such case the telegraph company is the sender's agent, but if the message were sent in response to a request by letter to telegraph a reply, it appears to us that the company would be the receiver's agent and the despatch as handed for transmission the original And generally in controversies arising between sender and the receiver, when the the messa Durkee v by telegr
the point for transmission Burr Jones § 210.

Broker's negotiation, as t ness books and of the transact and that which Sales § 276 A two parties (Sto frequently acts a proxy, a factor agent, but with this difference that the broker being employed by persons who have opposite interests to manage, he is as it were agent for both the one and the other to negotiate the commerce or affair in which he concerns himself Thus his agreement is twofold and consists in being faithful to all the parties in execution of what every one of them entrusts him with' (Domat, Bk. I, tit 17, cited in story on Agency, p 28, in notes) But primarily he is deemed merely the agent of the party by whom he is originally employed To make the other side liable to pay him brokerage, it must, we think, be shown that he has been employed by such party to act for no parol evidence is admissible, but if they intend only to reduce into writing ract, then I think they are entitled to give S did not intend to reduce into writing exchanged, is it usually intended that these notes should constitute the whole of the contract? I think not. Mr. Benjamin in his work on the law of 'sales" lays down as the result of the authorities that the bought and sold notes do not constitute the contract I think this proposition is clearly borne out by the case of Sievwright v Archibold, 20 L J Q B 529=17 Q B 115 [See especially the decision of Mr Justice Erle in that case] and also by the case of Pitton v Crofts, 33 L J C P 189 In both these case the distinction between making a contract and a memorandum showing that the contract has been made is pointed out The result of those cases is that broker's notes as a memorandum may satisfy the Statute of Frauds but not exclude parol evidence In Clarton v Shaw, 9 B L R 252, Sir Richard have been falsified the plaintiff Durga Prosad v Bhajan Ali, iscussion as regards the evi defen

as having been made between a third person and the defendant In a suit

Court as to whether the mistake in the sold note was a bar to the plaintiff's suit for damages on the contract. Held that there was a contract between the parties for breach of which the plaintiff could sue for damages Mahomed Bhoy v Chutterput, 20 C 854 In Ali Shain Shol e v Moothia Chetty 4 C W N 453—27 C 403 (P C), a contract was made through a broker for the purchase of a quantity of paddy at a settled price The bought and sold notes were in taken with the wrote thereon ot if wet The ion until after of yellow rice ondent sued for

Explanation II Where a document is executed in several parts, each part is primary evidence of the document Where a document is executed in terms (a) of re a document s for instance, tten contract, etc., (Sreequlty v. Loharam, 7 W. R C R 384), it relates to some other indepen-money [Illustration ceipt

Nort Ev 269

Smith
& J. ntract or a grant or tion and it does not l Narain, 80 Ind Cas which is inadmissible in prove discharge by pay-a document relied on, eds is held to constitute a inadmissible in evidence is admissible to prove of the Evidence Act is no

41 M L J 297

ed by this section to g, or by action, and so dmissible in evidence, Vansittart, A. W N, require to be n for a contract at Chandra v ere a receipt for amount can be proved aliundi by virtue of section 91 of the Evidence Act Chhutan v Mul Chand 8 P R 1917=28 P W R 1917, see also Sharaf Ali v Jogandar 98 P R 1916

Existence as distinguished from terms of contracts, or of a grant or any other disposition of property Extrinsic evidence is sometimes admissible to reduced to the form of a document, no evidence shall be given in proof of the terms of such a contract, grant or disposition of property except the document itself This however refers only to the method of proof of the terms of contract, grant or disposition of property, and this being so, the lduced in proof of the I R. 1922 P 222 The oral evidence, although be proved for want of ah) 43=61 Ind Cas.

ender, where there has been a writing is not produced, section 91 of the Evidence Act unlike as in the case of documents required to be in writing only bars proof of the terms of the

if there be any. Nago v. Tukaram, 49 Ind Cas. 843 Where the plaint in a suit for rent showed that the suit was not based exclusively on a Kabuliyat executed by the defendant, but also on the collection of rent, and the plaintiff did not produce the Kabuliyat, but filed collection papers to prove that the defendant was holding at the rate claimed by the plaintiff in the year, collection papers were admissible in evidence, as they were not put in proof of the terms of the Kabuliyat, and section 91 of the Evidence Act did not apply. A raiyat g year Gouri S d deed cannot properties claim joint properties

Ind. Cas 83
of the contract.
the parties sign case must be decided upon its own facts, and the real question is whether a document in question is a true award of arbitrators, or merely a deed of partition by the parties themselves disguised in the form of an award in order to escape the only evidence document itself, m proving ahundi
, plaintiffs could i partition Sukh Dial v Mani Ram, 29 P R 1915=27 Ind Cas 489=29 P. R. R 1916.

432; R v Langton, 2 Q B D 296) Phip Ev. p 509 The fact of birth, baptism, marriage, death, or burial, may be proved by parol testimony, "though a narrative or memorandum of these events may have been entered in registers which the law required to be kept" The reason for the above is that the existence or contents of these registers form no part of the fact to be proved, and the entry is no more than a collateral or subsequent memorial of the fact, which may furnish a satisfactory and convenient mode of proof, but can not exclude other evidence, though its non-production may afford ground for scrutinizing such evidence with more than ordinary care Jivandas v Framji, 7 B H C R 45 p 63, Evan v Morgan, 2 C & J 453, R v Alison, R & R. 190; Lady Limerick v Lord Limerick, 32 L J P & M 22; Taylor Vol I 5th Ed. 413.

Exclusion of evidence of oral agreement

92. When the terms of any such contract, grant or other disposition of property, or any matter required by law to be reduced to the form of a document, have been proved according to the last section, no evidence of any oral agreement or statement shall be admitted, as between the parties to any such instrument or their representatives in interest, for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, or subtacting from, its terms·

Proviso (1).—Any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document, or which would entitle any person to any decree or order relating thereto such as fraud, intimidation, illegality, want of due execution, want of capacity in any contracting party, *[want or failure] of consideration, or mistake in fact or law.

Proviso (2) —The existence of any separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a document is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved. In considering

* The words "want or failure" were substituted for the words ", want of failure" by s 8 of the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act, 1872 (18 of 1872).

2. whether or not this proviso applies, the Court shall have regard to the degree of formality of the document.

Proviso (3).—The existence of any separate oral agreement, constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved.

Proviso (4).—The existence of any distinct subsequent oral agreement to rescind or modify any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved, except in cases in which such contract, grant or disposition of property is by law required to be in writing, or has been registered according to the law in force for the time being as to the registration of documents.

Proviso (5).—Any usage or custom by which incidents not expressly mentioned in any contract are usually annexed to contracts of that description, may be proved.

Provided that the annexing of such incident would not be repugnant to, or inconsistent with, the express terms of the contract.

Proviso (6).—Any fact may be proved which shows in what manner the language of a document is related to existing facts.

Illustrations

(a) A policy of insurance is effected on goods "in ships from Calcutta to London" The goods are shipped in a particular ship which is lost. The fact that that particular ship was orally excepted from the policy cannot be proved had always been regarded as part of the estate and was meant to pass by the deed cannot be proved

(d) A enters into a written contract with B to work certain mines, the property of B upon certain terms A was induced to do so by a misrepresentation of B's as to their value This fact may be proved

(e) A institutes a suit against B for the specific performance of a contract, and also prays that the contract may be reformed as to one of its provisions, as that provision was inserted in it by mistake A may prove that such a mistake was made as would by law entitle him to have the contract reformed

(f) A orders goods of B by a letter in which nothing is said as to the time of payment, and accepts the goods on delivery B sues A for the price A may show that the goods were supplied on credit for a term still unexpired

(g) A sells B a horse and verbally warrants him sound A gives B a paper in these words "Bought of A a horse for Rs 500" B may prove the verbal warranty

(h) A hires lodgings of B, and gives B a card on which is written—"Rooms, Rs 200 a month" A may prove a verbal agreement that these terms were to include partial board

A hires lodgings up by an attorney, A may not prove that

(i) A applies to B for a debt due to A by sending a receipt for the money B keeps the receipt and does not send the money In a suit for the amount A may prove this

(j) A and B make a contract in writing to take effect upon the happening of a certain contingency The writing is left with B, who sues A upon it A may show the circumstances under which it was delivered

Principle The principle underlying this section is the same as that underlyi single m from sca
quence of this is that its scattered parts, in their former and inchoate shape, have no longer any jural effect, they are replaced by a single embodiment of the act In other words, when a jural act is embodied in a single memorial, all other utterances of the parties on that topic are legally immaterial for the purpose of determining what are the terms of their act Wigmore § 2425 So there is a general rule sometimes spoken of as the "oral evidence rule," which declares evidence, the effect of which is to vary the terms of a written instrument, or to change cut down or alter the effect thereof to be inadmissible Mc the Courts to defeat this object When persons express the agreements, in indefiniteness, and to understanding, which so nts Written contracts disinclination to disturb the condition of act of the parties The general rule, therefore, precludes the introduction of testimony to show that the parties meant other than they have said in the writing itself But it sometimes happens that writings are procured to be executed by fraud, or do not contain all the agreements between the parties, having been used only to cover certain matters, while others are left to oral understanding or there may be other circumstances which make it unjust to These cases are usually rictly such Mc Kelvey's

the writing, it is conclusively presumed between themselves and their privies that they intended the writing to form a full and final statement of their intentions and one which should be placed beyond the reach of future controversy bad faith or treacherous memory Phip L Lord Bacon said "The law will not cou which is of the higher account, with account in law" (Bacon's Maxims, Reg matters in writing made by advice a import the certain truth of the agreement

1 P & D 117, Davis v Symond 1 Cox Cc 403), sometimes on the doctrine of estoppel, for "in each the party is precluded by his acknowledgment in writing ... so acknowledged—in estoppel however it is a matter of another ...

where and in what sources and materials are to be found the terms of jural act.

92. Wigmore § 2425 Gulson also remarks that the rule is one of substantive law directed not against parol evidence as an improper mode of proving the contract, etc, but (1) against such evidence as an improper mode of making it and (2) against extrinsic facts (however proved) being received to affect the meaning of written instrument Gulson §§ 418 54; see also Thayers' Pre Tr Ev. 401, 17 Harv L Rev 240

Scope of the section When the terms of a contract, grant or other disposition of property have been reduced to writing by the parties, it is to be considered as containing all those terms, and therefore there can be between the parties and their representat .

of the contract, grant of the writing The

to be reduced to the fo

In Pickering v Dowson, 4 Taunt 779, 786, Gibbs J said . 'I hold that if a man brings me a horse and makes any representation whatever of his quality and soundness, and afterwards we agree in writing for the purchase of the horse, that shortens or corrects the representations, and whatever terms are not contained in the (written) contract do not bind the seller, and must be struck out of the case" So 'where the whole matter passes n be taken together as forming part and p be

can

2 B Abbott C J in Kain v Old, secti Knight v Barber, 16 M & W 66, says Lord Blackburn in Angell Dale, 3 L T Rep N S 320, "that, where there is a contract in writing, it should not be added to, if the written contract is intended to be the record of all the terms agreed upon between the parties Where there a collateral contract, Wigmore § 2425

d on that that writing

ell 4 H & N. 1, 7

writing, it will admit ere is a deed in Child, 1 Bro C C 92 leed" Inham v contract, and put it argain." Per Martin

en v Blake, 13 M a written document, etc., is not governed that oral evidence provisions of this sec

'The language of this section is" says Mr Field 'not quite free from ambiguity, the words No evidence of any oral agreement or statement shall be admitted as between the parties to any such instrument, etc, correspond with and have clear reference to the words 'contract, grant, or other disposition of property' in the beginning of the section; but their application to any matter required by law to be reduced to the form of a document quired by law to be reduced to writing be a d an oral statement appears to be admissible the writing in cases other than those inc

Field Ev 8th Ed 501 But according to Mr contradiction Section 91 deals with three contract, grant, or any other disposition been reduced to the form of a document (2) contract grant or any other disposition of by law to be reduced to the form such as deposition of witness, co reduced to the form of a docu , so as to bring it under section 91, e an act involving a single pa parties)

contracts, been reduced to the form of a document by the parties, as well as those bilateral acts which the law requires to be reduced to the form of a contract Therefore these acts or matters must be contracts, grants or other disposition of property. So this section does not include such matters which the law requires to be reduced to the form of a document which are not contracts, grants or other disposition of property. Woodroffe Ev 8th Ed 611. The deposition of a witness does not fall within this section and oral evidence is admissible to contradict raised by section 80 is only a Ev p 611 Section 92 is also
s ict that a in fact r portion of the transaction Cockle Cas Ev 340 In Allen v Pink, 4 M & M 140, Lord Abinger, C B said "The general principle is quite true that if there has terwards reduced by the parties into writing, ed to ascertain the terms of the contract, but , there was no evidence of any agreement by should be reduced into writing by the defendant, the contract is first concluded by parol and afterwards the paper is drawn up, which appears to have been meant merely as a memorandum of the tran-

the om ced
of the document I R 1929 Rang 240 While or written document by virtue of sec law for the time being in force, of Act applies that bar ceases to operate and the Court can make enquiries, that bar of statutory prohibition no longer existing because of section 10 A of that Act Dada v Bhanu, 29 Bom L R 1419=105 Ind Cas 754=A I R 1927 Bom 627 This section merely prescribes a rule of evidence It does not better the Court's power to arrive at the true meaning and effect of a transaction in the light of all the surrounding circumstances Munna v Narain, 107 Ind Cas 658 See also Baijnath v Haju Valley, 26 Bom L R 787=48 M L J 339 (P C) In a suit on promissory note, the defendant can prove a condition precedent to the attaching of any obl by the promissory note was that there should under it unless there was a final balance against the defendant which he failed to pay. Bhogi v Kishori, 50 A 754=26 A L J 696 A lessee under a registered lease wanted to prove an oral agreement regarding his preferential right to purchase the leased property if it was brought to sale The lease was silent on the point Held that under s 92, evidence of s ble to show

Cas 897=
of showing that one of the parties to the contract had acted as agent is admissible Lachomal neous oral evidence is r The parties must terest and compound interest and if they deliberatly have chosen to use one expression they cannot be u v Ganpati, A I. R 1931 Act it is immaterial whether subsequent to the dispos-

92. tion Gopala v Sankara, 1930 M W. N. 240=125 Ind. Cas 545 In the case of a covenant for title which is presumed to go with a sale under s. 55 (27 of the T P Act a contract to the contrary cannot take the shape of an oral agreement since it would be inadmissible in evidence under s. 92 of the Evidence Act Mahammed Siddq v Ind. Cas 185=A I R 1930 . duced to writing no evidence between the parties to show that the document was not to take effect forthwith as mentioned in the document but after the expiry of a certain period Parmeshwari v Lachman, 129 Ind Cas 439=A I R 1930 All. 824=1930 A L J 1066 In case of a deed of gift by husband to wife the husband can prove that the same is of a fictitious nature Mahommed v Sayed, A I R. 1931 Oudh 177=8 O W N 349 any the re

consi derati

agree contract and such an agreement can be proved Irpan Ali v Jogendra, A. I R 1932 Cal 708=36 C W N 645=59 C 111. Oral evidence is not admissible to prove an agreement between mortgagor and mortgagee whereby a contract in the registered mortgaged bond was split up Ram Barman v Sanat Kumar, 25 C L J 24=44 C 162=21 C W N 740 Oral evidence is admissible to show that a mortgagee's possession of a certain plot was terminated by the payment of a certain amount of money Baid Ram v Tila Ram, 15 A L J s to certain paddy be divided Held, section 92, cl (2) of d not been divided ala, 4 L W 329=34 and so far as the adjective law is concerned, the code to be followed but also as to the extent en the

England; and Courts of India are not justified statute law in the same way, as Courts of Equity of common law The effect of section 92 is it, by proof of an entirely different contemporaneous oral agreement, is not sound Gujarmal v Sitaram, 3 N L R 19 An acknowledgment is not a document contemplated in section 92 Chhedilal v Monohari, A I R 1930 Nag 298=26 N L R 320.

circumstance that some collection of the terms of sole memorial of the There may have been attempt to make the merely to furnish an aid other party's satisfaction. The essential idea remains for it, that the writing is something distinct from the transaction itself. Wigmore § 2429; Dalison v. Stark, 4 Esp. 163; S.

Parsons v. N. Zealand Co. (1901) 1 K. B 548; Phip. Ev. 555 When the parties during their negotiations reach a final agreement, but provide therein that the terms shall be reduced to a single memorial, the failure to execute such an agreed memorial does not preclude resort to the prior negotiations to ascertain memorial was a until supplanted.

referring to an

for the parties. McKelvey's Ev. § 297.

Partial integration; General test for applying the Rule; Collateral agreement. The most usual controversy arises in case of partial integration, i e, where a certain part of a transaction has been embodied in a single writing, but another part has been left in some other form. Here obviously the rule against disputing the terms of the document will be applicable to so much of the transaction as is so embodied, but not to the remainder. It is of course may within the same half-hour sign articles of incorporation, authorize an overdraft, assign a mortgage and join in a committee's report to stockholders. Or a purchaser of land, negotiating with a broker, may at the same sitting accept a deed of grant of one piece of land and appoint the broker his agent clearly distinct,

g wholly distinct

duced to writing

istances in which a negotiation concerns one general subject—such as the purchase of a single

"parts" of the same transaction, and therefore, if reduced to writing at all, must be governed by the same writing. In searching for a general test

92, in the co

The doc

be known till we know what there was to cover the negotiation. Wigmore § 2430 In Webb v Balyby J said "Where there is a written agre naturally to be expected that it will contain al if it is entirely silent as to the terms of quitting.

the country as to that particular If, however, it specifies any of those terms we must then go by the lease alone" Dickson v Zizinia, 10 C. B 602, 610 Where the writing covers only part of the transactions between the parties and there are oral agreements relating to the same subject, such agreements may be shown If it appears that the parties did not intend the writing to embody all the transactions between them, the rule is that such transactions as do not purport to be covered by the document, but which supplement or complete it, may be proved Here, again, there is no varying of the terms of a written instrument to cover

exceptior

subseque cinding,

v. Hobby

Lord Au

inference for the purpose of adding to a deed a stipulation to which the parties did not intend by that deed to knowing the terms of a deed an satisfied by those means but the part to the terms which, though not plied in it, there is no reason why he that where no colla-

N. Y. 216.

It is also held that the collateral oral agreement must have an independent consideration in order to be admissible Coe v. Hobbey, 72 N. Y. 141. As a principle of the law of contracts, it would seem that no collateral agreement would be of any effect in modifying the original unless there was a consideration to support it, and these decisions are therefore strictly logical Mc Kelvey's Ev § 296.

Parol evidence rule—Nature of. Notwithstanding the phraseology generally employed in the cases relating to what is called the "Parol Evidence of them illustrate anything in the law cerned with questions about the legal effect ive law, of requiring or agreeing upon a writing, or with the principles governing the construction of documents or the like; and not with merely evidential quality or operation of extrinsic facts, or any rules of law relating to these. As when it is said that parol evidence is not admissi anythir reason is of r in the other. Thayer Cas. Ev. 2nd Ed. 820.

S.

As between the parties t to the suit were not the parties to the cludes parol testimony for the purpose of contract, is of others Greenl Ev § 279. Holt v. Collyer, L R. 16 Ch. D 718; Chemical E.

stranger to it, either party may show that the instrument does not speak the truth, and that the general rule does not apply as it does in cases where the controversy arise between the parties to an instrument which they have made the written memorial of their agreement Venable v. Thompson, 11 Ala. 147; Pawel v. Young, 51 Ala 518, Burr Jones § 449 by the statutory restrictions" 22 C W N. 257 (262) = 45 C. 320; A. I. R 1929 R. 86; Annada v.

4 N. L R. 115; see also Jagat
v. Panchoo, 28 A. 473 = 3 A. L. J. mzundar v. Collector of Gorakh- 1930

2. the terms of a contract which have been reduced to the form of a document "as between the parties to any such instrument or their representatives in interest." In the case of 10 A 421 the words quoted above were construed as meaning between the parties to the instrument on both sides and not on one side only as between t 92; but it the instrum Pokai Gun
Madho, 10 A Srinivasa, 1
the parties t not prevent the proof of a fraudulent dealing with a third person's property or proof of notice that the property purporting to be absolutely conveyed in fact belonged to a third person, who was not a party to the conveyance Maung Kyin v Ma Shwe La, (1911) 2 M W N 30=14 C L J 276 (P. C)=13 Bom L R 797=1 A L J 1181 Sale deeds and mortgage deeds are essentially transactions mortgagee transaction
settlement b that they agree to make provisions for certain relations or dependants does not make such persons parties to the instrument and oral evidence given by a person concerning maintenance allowance to cannot be excluded by reason of section 92, ) Kua partie
ve" documents between the contracting parties Vodiah v Voiada, 9 Mys L J 203

Section 92 limits its operation to cases where the issue as to the real nature of the written transaction arises between the parties thereto or their privies. It leaves out cases of strangers to the instrument wishing to adduce extrinsic evidence in order to prove that the real transaction was different form what it purports to be Saboji v Naual Sing, 104 Ind Cas 736; Mahomed Sultan Mohideen v Amthal, 101 Ind Cas 603=52 M L J 557, Ma Mi v Maung Aung, 111 Ind Cas 832=A I R 1928 Rang 244, Mahomed Ishaq v. Fahemunnessa, A I R 1928 Oudh 472=5 O W N 825, Maung Thein v. Maung Pyu 5 Rang 836=108 Ind Cas 734=A I R 1928 Rang 61, Narra v. Koganti, (1925) M W N 214=87 Ind Cas 246=A I R 1925 Mad 775=48 M L J 280; Hiraji v Vishnu, 1923 Bom 429, Bhullan v Kushi, 21 A L J 932; Jairam v. Rajnarain, 20 A L J 777, Sukumari v Kalipada, 45 Ind Cas 13 If a father be between the nominal purchaser and the vendor, and in cases of dispute between the nominal and the real purchaser, there being no writing between them, no difficulty can arise, under this section, in proving oral agreement. Laxmibai v Keshav, 18 Bom L R 134=33 Ind. Cas 396; see also Pathammal statement is admissible in such proceeding for the purpose of contradicting mortgagor was placed in possession of a part of the mortgaged premises, the income whereof was sufficient to wipe out the annual debt Held that as the arrangement was not in supersession or even variation of the mortgage, oral evidence was admissible to prove the transaction Ramavatar v Tulsi Prosad, 14 C L J. 507. The liability undertaken by the drawer and the acceptor of a bill of exchange is in different ways and are of section 132 of the preclude the acceptor of a bill from proving that he never received any consideration for the bill but that he accepted it only for accommodating the drawer or some other party. Pagose v The Bank of Bengal, 3 C. 174.

Extrinsic evidence to control document is inadmissible Evidence of oral agreement between the parties to a written and registered document, distinctly adding to its terms, another term which had been antecedently agreed the defendants sought to show that the written contract was varied by adducing parol evidence as to the matter on which the document was silent Held that such evidence was not admissible under section 92 of the Evidence Act Jadu Rai v Bhubotaran, 17 C 173 The executants of bond as principals, are not competent t Saing v Nga Lu Aun bond are clear and it was an assignment oral evidence of intention is not inadmi deed or ascertaining the intention of the pa L R 523=22 A 149=4 C W N 153 a sure

Cas
inval as to the consent of the donee of the life estate to such an arrangement Held, that such oral evidence was clearly inadmissible Nabooma v Khedar Hussain, 108 Ind Cas 637=A I R 1928 Mad 613 Contemporaneous oral agreement not to charge compound interest though bond may stipulate therefor and the fact of simple interest only being realised cannot entitle a party to vary effect of written contract Abdul Aziz v Amanmul A I R 1925 Cal 276 Evidence of conduct of parties is inadmissible to contradict an unambiguous grant, Gopal v Ramadhar Singh, A I R 1925 Pat 228, see also Kesho v Thakur, A I R 192 person under deed and or this section oral agreeme till he got possession of the entire property is inconsistent with the terms of the deed it is not open to the executants to set up and prove an agreement that the rate of interest to be charged was lower than that agreed upon. Sukh Lal v.

2, Murari, 95 Ind Cas 1019=A. I. R 1926 Oudh. 273 Evidence of subsequent oral agreement not to charge compound interest is inadmissible to vary the original contract which is a registered one Jogendra Nath v. Khoda Baksh, 1924 Cal 280, Abdul Aziz v Amanmal, 78 Ind Cas 742=1925 Cal 276 An entry in certain account books evidenced a contract to sell goods and they were described as arriving by a certain ship Held that oral evidence cannot be let in to show that there was an agreement to deliver goods within a fixed time Firm of Jicanjo v Firm of Mathabari, A I R 1924 Sind 127

In a suit on a joint and several promissory note payable on demand executed by A and B A cr as security for B oral agreement wi under the note in th
A d
B 1 t
I I
r 7 formed the foundation of the suit formed a completed contract, whilst the defendant vendor urged that it was only a provisional arrangement conditional to the preparation by a vakil of a formal document evidencing the contract held oral evidence to show what actually took place on the occasion when the parties entered into the agreement relied upon by the plaintiff is irrelevant and inadmissible Harichand v Govind 44 M L J 608=47 B 335=28 C W N. 73=50 I A 25=37 C L J 440=(1923) P C 47. Where the terms of an was to prove
the
s 19

Evidence of an oral agreement substituting a new executory contract in lieu of a decree is inadmissible Lachmi Das v Babalali, 44 A 258=20 A L J 65=69 Ind Cas 990 It is not permissible to a person who wishes to impeach a
to 1-e 1 L R 239=66 Ind Cas 865 Where a pro note is sought to be enforced according to its tenor, it is not open to the defendants, to let in evidence an alleged apprehended tain m of Oral into
M ient arat
of a ira, suit eed nd
two iole
the

it by way of security for others cannot be tried or determined except so far as it affects the question of consideration Durgacharan v Lakhi Narain, 47 Ind Cas 917 In a suit to recover possession of the properties conveyed under a sale deed, evidence was adduced to show that the parties to the document intended to give simple mortgage rights to the alleged purchaser for the sums which one had promised to pay to the creditors of the other party Held that such oral evidence is clearly inadmissible to prove that a different mode of operatation was

e a docu ction no note was tent with the express terms of the promissory note be proved Muthu Erulappa v e and it was sought to recited held that such tion Narra Reddiar v =3 L W 589=35 Ind.

Cas 301

Where the terms of the mortgage contract are reduced as required by law to writing, an oral agreement varying those terms can not be admitted in evidence Muthu Kumar v Govinda, A I R 1932 Mad 218=35 M L W 145 where according to the terms of the registered mortgage deed the whole of the mortgage money is payable on demand with interest, evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement between the parties that the amount would not be payable on demand but shall be accepted on instalments, is inadmissible under the express provisions of s 92 Mohammad v Kishori, A I R 1932 All 375=1932 A L J 414 But when a mortgage bond is silent as to how the money due on it is to be paid and the mortgagee executes a kist bandi which merely provides that mortgagor is to pay the amount then due in certain instalments spread over a certain member of years with a proviso that in default of any kist the entire amount under the mortgage bond would become due, the kist bandi, shows the arrangement between the parties and does not alter or vary the terms of the mortgage bond and it Ram, A I R 1932 Ca provided that each one of being one Section 92 an v Sanat

be rent, it t, has been raised, and any length of payment of a lesser rent will not help the tenant, Maharaja of Bobbili v Appala Naidu, (1916) M W. N 139=32 Ind Cas 703. Where in a suit by the payee of a Hundi against the drawer and the acceptor, the Hundi is silent as to interest, the plaintiff is entitled only to 6 per cent

2. Evidence of a contem not admissible under Pat L J. 71=35 Ind ot one for satisfaction of the term of the deed Muhammad
party to a written contract to prove a contract the terms of which are clearly inconsistent with terms of the written contract Baranashi v Lulla Mal, 29 Ind Cas 950

Where a promissory note executed by defendants 1 and 2 contained an uncond is not admis sible to be conditional on the ariation of the contrac clearly forbids eviden ble exceptions to the Narasimma v Ra 336=18 Ind Cas 696 Where the subject matter of an appeal is compromised by the parties by means of a written agreement, which recited that "all matters in dispute" was adjusted, it is not open to any of the parties to tender oral evidence of a separate agreement not on the therein as 400 bighas was not the stated area within the specified boundaries Extrinsic evidence as to the negotiations which led up to construction of the lease Raja Durga N 66=19 C L J 95=11 A L J sale deed recites as consideration a cash contract that the amount was really of the sale price is a term of the contract within the meaning of section 92 of the Evidence Act Evidence cannot be admitted to vary the provisions of the ition fixed for the same Adityam Ayar M W N 847=25 M L J 632=21 to contradict or vary the express and unambiguous terms of a written instrument by reference to preliminary negotiations or previous conversations Saiyid Abdulla v Saiyid Basharat, 17 C W N 233=13 M L T 182=(1913) M W N 131=35 A 48=17 C L J 312=25 M L J 91 (P C) Oral evidence is not admissible to prove that a document which in terms is an out an out gift was really meant to be donatio mortis causa Benode Kishore v Ashutosh Mukhapadhya 16 C W N 666=14 Ind Cas 720 Oral evidence to prove that parties to a sale deed, which was duly executed and registered, subsequently rescinded it by mutual consent, is inadmissible under section 92 of the Evidence Act Bijulallu v. Yeddula 15 Ind Cas 282 Oral evidence to show that one of the executants of a note of hand signed it only as a security and that his liability was only to the extent of standing as surety for a month is inadmissible under this section Harek v Bishnu 8 C W N. 101 Neither a contemporaneous oral agreement nor the subsequent acts and conduct of the parties can be proved under this section to show that the rent Padla mortgage, it is only agreed b to be made by the mortgagee to the season's crop such agreem as such, would be inadmissible

Act. Moran v. Mittu Bibee, 2 C 58 Under this section no oral evidence is admissible to show that certain deeds of sale are not deeds of sale, but deeds of gift Rahiman v. Elahi Baksh, 28 C 70 Where the plaint in a suit for specific performance of a contract to sell a certain share of a house, set out a written contract, and alleged that, on its having been subsequently discovered that the share was less than it was originally believed to be, the price was reduced by verbal agreement, held that the written contract must be taken as intact save as to the price, and that no evidence could be given by the defendants in contradiction of the other terms of the document Brown v. Cutts, 5 C L R 487 Where a written instrument provides for a joint tenancy and joint contract by all the parties executing it to pay the whole rent of a village without any reference to the quantity of land in the holding of each, oral evidence is not admissible to show that separate specific contracts have been entered into by each of the parties, and it makes no difference that the evidence is put forward as evidence of a custom Mr G Lee v Panchananda, 5 M H C R 135 Defendant was lessee under a joint lease by K and P. co owners of the premises Plaintiff having purchased an undivided moiety from P gave defendant notice to quit the moiety from the termination of the lease and sued for possession The defendant set up an oral agreement giving him an option of renewal of the lease, but it could not be proved as being instrument whose terms are in themselves clear and undoubted Rambuddin v Ranee Sree Koonwar, W R 1864 Act X Rul 22 Bought and sold notes together may form the contract in accordance with the custom of merchants in Calcutta So, parol evidence was not admissible to vary or add to the terms of rent of a holding held under a registered lease, nor is the conduct of the issible to prove the Kabuliyat was granted partly in cash, and in kind was not duly um Held that oral had agreed to pay the price of the paddy at the current market rate, and not at the rate specified in the Kabuliyat, upon failure to deliver it duly Godai v Sarju, 12 C L J 649=7 Ind Cas 842

The Writing is really not the con paper in writing, which purports to contract, may be produced, it is still

92. Cas 929, see also Woodroffe's Evidence 8th Ed p 613 But in a recent Allahabad cases Ashworth J said · "The Appellant's counsel has referred to the following dictum in Woodroffe and Amir Ali's well known commentary, the Indian Evidence Act 'Though evidence to vary the terms of an agreement in writing is not admis ib ... ement at all is admissible' In suppo ... are relied upon namely, Harris v. Rich. ... ym v. Campbell, 6 El & Bl 370=25 L ... no authority for the dictum as stated ... the whole of a ...

92 of Evidence Act There is no authority for holding that evidence in any shape can be admitted for the purpose of showing that there was agreement at all or in other words, that a deed was meant to be inoperative" Lachmandas v. Ramprasad, 49 A 680=A I R 1927 All 422 (424)=100 Ind Cas 1029=25 A L J 349, see also Gujar Mal v Sitaran, 3 N L R 19.

Cases where the oral evidence is admissible "The cases in which parol evidence when objected to is apart from fraud or mistake receivable to correct written instruments are cases where, for example, the evidence supplements but does not contradict the terms of the deed; or where the provisions of the deed leave the question doubtful whether merely a mortgage and not out and out sale was intended, or where the language sought to be explained in evidence s language in an ordinary conveyancing form not exhaustively accurate but ... Instances of each of these will be found ... Burton v ... Personal ... urgh in Tsang Chuen v Li Po Kwai, A I R 19 ... Where there was a mortgage by which a fixed rate of interest wa agreed to be paid, and there was a contemporaneous oral agreement that the mortgagee should go into ... he was ... reement, ... was not ... s of the written agreement, that it was merely a provision as to how the interest should be paid and that therefore the oral agreement was valid Brindaban v Umrao, A W N 1887, 61 In a suit for money due on a promissory note payable on demand the defendant pleaded a contemporaneous agreement in writing allowing ...

agreed not to be executed against the judgment-debtors is not inadmissible by reason of the section Ganga v Ram Oudh, 113 Ind Cas 760=A. I R 1921 ... persons jointly, a ... the joint ... e 56 I A ... C) Oral ... which the ... under the ... settle- ... h and ... future ... idence which shows that two documents executed and registered on the same day are

... ount to leading evidence so as ... v Ramlal, 25 A L J 723 = 103 ... oral agreement providing for repayment of a mortgage debt from the usufruct of the mortgaged property may be proved Such an arrangement does not amount to a lease nor does it constitute an usufructuary mortgage. It is only a means of discharging the debt by putting the simple mortgagee in possession of the mortgaged property. Nookamma v Dharmayya 53 M. L J 863 This section prohibits only the proof of any contemporaneous oral agreement between the parties in variance of the terms of the document Where the father purchased certain properties and took a sale deed in joint names of his two minor sons and subsequently the individual share of each of the vendees was sought to be proved by evidence relating to the intention of the father Held that section 92 of the evidence Act was not a bar to the admissibility of such evidence as the sale-deed was silent regarding the share of two vendees Mohammed v Amthal, 101 Ind Cas 653 = 52 M L J 557 = 38 M L T (H C 247) In the case of an outright sale by registered deed, an independent contract to re-sell either orally by unregistered deed can be proved, but where the contract is not an independent transaction but froms part and parcel of the original transaction and together constitutes a mortgage, such contract cannot be proved If the facts p ... of each other, b ... oved for want o ... endent of each ... leed is one of an outright ... Ma Nan v U Yaing, 6 Bur. ... 314 There is nothing to prevent the parties from entering into an oral agreement for the settlement of decrees for money They have the same freedom to do so as to make narrative of contract by an oral agreement modifying the previous written contract so long as the contract is not required to be in writing and registered It cannot be said that the judgment debtor selling upon a verbal agreement by the decree-holder to accept some variations is ... Evidence Act Ma Shwe v Maung San, ... Oral evidence to prove that the def ... plaintiff on the understanding that it sl ... when the liability arise upon his part to restore to the plaintiff his share of the capital is inadmissible Sheo Prosad v Gobind 49 A 464 = 100 Ind Cas 332 = 25 A L J 305 A I R 1927 All 292 This section is no bar to the admission of oral evidence of circumstances to show the relation of the written language ...

... out of the rents for a certain charity, to pay also the cist and credit the balance of the rents towards the mortgage debt The plaintiffs alleged that the defendant failed to pay the said sum of Rs 200 and the cist and that the mortgage debt had bee ... admissible and that section ... case because it was not oral ... mortgage deed at all Ram ... 85 = 107 Ind Cas 808 = A I ... that the amount of Rs 50 ... mensem" The question was whether interest should be at one rupee per mensem or only one rupee for Rs 500 per mensem Held that oral evidence was admissible to prove that the parties intended that interest should be paid at 1 rupee per cent per mensem, under proviso 1 to section 92 of the Evidence Act. Venkataramappa v Rama Setty, 3 Mys L W 146 Oral evidence is admis-

2. sible to prove a discharge and satisfaction of a mortgage bond Krishnaji v Kashirao, 90 Ind Cas 450 A recital on a sale deed that there is no incumbrance or that the vendor has a good title to convey is not one of the terms of succeeded to the estate of their father made an oral partition of the same and also arranged orally to extinguish their mutual rights of survivorship It appeared from the evidence that two lists had been drawn up of the properties as divided and mention was made in those of the right of survivorship having been extinguished The lists were not produced but oral evidence was let in regarding the same Held section 92 of the Evidence Act did not apply and the oral evidence was admissible Nelakanta v Sundarasiva Row, 48 M 933=22 L W 398=(1925) M W N 643=A I R 1925 Mad 1267=49 M L J 266

Even where an agreement is silent as to the consideration under this section oral evidence is admissible to determine what the consideration was Pameshwar das v Neu Jooria, 94 Ind Cas 371=A I R 1926 Sind 202 This section has no application where evidence of the conduct of the parties and their rights of the various members is let in to prove partition by the defendant in a suit Ramuchetti v Panchammal 92 Ind Cas 1028=A I R 1926 Mad 409 Where a promissory note is executed by two persons, oral evidence is admissible rety for the other Moolji v This section does not prohibit ischarge of a debt secured by a 710=96 Ind Cas 11=A I R 1926 Cal 906 by payment and partly by the release to roved by oral evidence Mahim v Ram Cal 170 In a mortgage suit it is open to the mortgagor to prove that the mortgagee had been satisfied not merely by payment in full of the amount which was due thereon but by part payment and remission of the balance Bhaba Sundari v Ramkamal 44 C L J 269=A I R 1927 Cal 27 See also Ramchandra v Kailash, 1931 Cal 667=58 C 532 An oral agreement between the lessor and the lessee that the lessor should give credit for certain sums for having cut certain trees is admissible as the transaction is a mode of payment or a discharge or waiver of a portion rao, 94 Ind Cas 169=24 A L J of Lading evidences a contract varying its terms is admissible Where in a suit on a bond the nd evidence is offered to show that the money due under the bond was meant to be the premium for a lease agreed to be executed by the creditor but which in fact was never executed, held that the evidence was excluded by section 92 of the Evidence Act Baldeo v Ram Autor, 22 A L J 850=82 Ind Cas 347 Where all the terms of a contract have not dence is admissible to prove the terms not Coalfields of Burma v H H Johnson Rang 128 Where a date is fixed in the oral evidence to extend the period is terms of the contract so as to make it 76 Ind Cas 62 Where a promissory note is endorsed on the back by a person who is neither the maker nor the holder, oral evidence can be let in to prove a contract of guarantee Thakersay v Kishendas, 76 Ind Cas 282=1925 Sind 9 agreement between the mortgagee and of redemption as regards the terms on assign his interest Sailesh Chander v arol evidence is admissible to prove a debt acknowledged in writing by the debtors when such acknowledged writing being unstamped is inadmissible in evidence Thakan Ram v Lall, 74 Ind Cas 939=1923 Lah wrongly ent real intentic 301 (Rev) evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement to the effect that the agreed to treat it as a mortgage is admissible Talak Chand v Atmaram, 25 Bom L R 818 = A I. R 1924 Bom 58 Oral evidence is admissible as to negotiations antecedent to execution of the mortgage instrument, showing that what was intended to be offered and accepted as security was a certain ancestral share was p

S. 9

34 C
ment
16 N. a secu cured by a promissory note does purpose for which the advance was 239 = 64 Ind Cas 33 Where an oral agreement is made, which in respect of the manner of payment rescinds or required by law to be in payment if made in accord-partial satisfaction of the not exclude evidence of the payment or the oral agreement that explains it It does, however, exclude evidence of the agreement in respect of future payments not in accordance

L J 387 = 18 A L J 359 = 55 Ind. Cas 522 = 47 I A 17 (P. C) Where in agreement for the sale of land, it was impossible to reconcile the statement in the body of the agreement with the recital in the schedule as to the extent of the land to be conveyed, extrinsic parol evidence is admissible to explain the facts that led to the execution of the agreement, in order to reconcile the different statements regarding the property sold Hussonally v Mangoldas, (1920) M W N 726 (P C) There is nothing in this section to exclude evidence of an oral agreement which contradicts varies, adds to, or subtracts from not the terms of the contract, but some recitals in the contract itself, Mukhi Singh v Kishun, 51 Ind Cas 320 Where there is an oral agreement to grant a lease section 92 of the Evidence Act does not stand in the way of proof that there has been an agr the circumstances as to the time of the Chandra v Bijoy Kanta, 23 C W Kabuliyat executed and registered by a tenant is proved by the tenant in a suit there is nothing in the Evidence Act to prohibit the landlord from showing that he never assented to or accepted the Kabuliyat Hemanta v Birendra, 47 Ind Cas 1003 Oral evidence of a sale by the mortgagor to the mortgagee agreement made out of Court between the parties as a ground of adjournment does not purport to be and is not a record of the terms of the compromise: and additional evidence to add to the terms of the compromise is not inadmissible under section 92 of the Evidence Act Sambanda v Chinnasuami, 29 Ind Cas 860 Where the ostensible consideration shown in a document was the payment of a certain sum of money said to have been made by the defendant, oral evidence is admissible to show the real nature of the transaction Narayan v Vithoba, 11 N L R 34=28 Ind Cas 355 A receipt which says 'I release you from the liability to pay compound interest as written in the said mortgage bond' is admissible in evidence Registration is not necessary and the receipt operates as a full acquittance for the money already paid Kailash Chandra v. Sheikh Chennu, 42 C 546 A executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of B in respect of one property Subsequent to this mortgage, there was an arrangement between A and B whereby the mortgagee was put into possession of another property, on the understanding that the profits derived from the latter were to be applied to payment of the princip evidence to prove subsequent arrange v Shib Sahai, 18 Ind Cas 324 P one of the contracting parties was acting for himself or on behalf of a principal; for such a question under section 92 of the Evidence Act M L J 501.

In a suit for m on demand, the defendant pleaded a contemporaneous agreement in writing allowing the repayment by instalments Held that the contract was as contained in the two documents, and the defendant was entitled to prove the contract by showing that between the lence Act age rights, nption by
I W N er written contemporaneously with a sale deed can be admitted in evidence to prove that Neither ection 92 of the t, would apply so as to Mutha Venkata v Pyanda, ecution of a mortgage bond, the mortgagor placed the mortgagee in possession of the mortgaged premises under an agreement by which the mortgagee was to continue in possession for seven years and to receive the profits in full satisfaction of his dues under the
to alter, merely to l by oral v Babu
ral assurance given by the grantor of the lease, that it was intended to last, for ever, is admissible Narsingh Dyal v Ram Narain, 30 C 883 Where a document records the terms agreed to at the time of the execution of another document, the parties being the same, there is no objection, under s 92 of the Evidence Act, to the varies ta v ular n of n to
It is h v on
the tain
that t no oth does app
of consideration that has passed, by showing that the actual consideration was something different to that alleged Vashudeva v Narasamma, 5 M 6; Dookha v Ramlal, 7 W. R Indarjit v. Lalchand, 1 Bomaya Naik v. Vir rent is admitted by the lessor, the lessees can rely on it This section does not affect the case Satyesh Chunder v. Dhunpul, 24 C 20 Where the plaintiff executed a mortgage instrument to the defendant and the consideration recited therein was that the defendant was to pay certain debts, and the instrument was not signed by the defendant nor was there any promise by the defendant to pay the debts, the ment, does not c may be tendered which Ranga-sami, 7 M 19 greement entered into between the parties, when some others have been reduced into writing in letters exchanged between the parties Ambika v Gaullstaun, 13 C W N 326 and not a sale—the question being regarded as purely one of intention Ismail v Hafiz, 10 C W N 570 (P C) = 3 A L J 353 = 33 C 773 Section 92 of the Evidence Act, only enacts that oral evidence cannot be given to vary or contradict the express terms of a document and does not prevent a party from giving evidence to prove that certain persons caused the document to be executed in favour of certain others mentioned in the document Shaikh Muhammad v Ram Dutt, 5 P R 1896, see also Tani Mahesha v Secretary of State, 67 P. R 1894 Liabili

person
upon rescind a case 1903 and re able from any oral agreement to vary the terms of mortgage contract and can be proved without the evidence of such agreement Suppanchetti v. Yegnarayan, A I R 1932 Mad 141

Evidence of conduct or intention for varying, contradicting etc The acts and conduct of the parties can only be proof either (1) of a contemporaneous oral agreement varying the terms of the registered contract, or (2) of a subsequent oral agreement having the same effect In the former case the evidence tional sales, which it has always been permitted to be shown to be mortgages As pointed out in Rahiman v Elahi Baksh, 28 C 70 such cases are admitted idence Act But eption to the rule f the plea of the question wa Banerjee, 5

Full Bench
was really varied by a verbal promise to reconvey on repayment of money, making it in fact a mortgage" In answering the question in the negative

2. Peacock C J representing the views of the majority of the Full Bench said "I am of opinion that verbal evidence is not admissible to vary or alter the terms of a written contract in cases in which there is no fraud or mistake, and in which the parties intend to express in writing what their words import. If a e executes to , he cannot both parties
intended that their contract should not be such as their written words express but that which they expressed by their words to be an absolute sale should be a mortgage It is said that there is no Statute of Frauds, and therefore parties may enter into verbal contracts for the sale of lands in the Mofussil without writing But admitting that the law allows sales of land or other contracts relating to land to be made verbally, it does not follow that, if the parties choose to reduce their contract into writing, they can bring forward mere verbal evidence to contradict the writing, and to show that they intended something different from that which the writing expresses and was intended to express That would be contrary to a well (see Starkie on Evidence, pages 648, 65 holding that every rule of the Eng transactions in the Mofussil, I have no hesitation in saying that a rule of evidence allowing a contract expressed in writing in words which the parties intended to use, and of which they knew the import could be varied by mere verbal evidence that the parties did not intend that which they expressed in writing but something very different, would lead to grossest fraud, and would open the widest door to perjury in support of fraud . If mere verbal evidence is admssible in this case to contradict a written contract, it would apply to every other case, and a man who writes 'one thousand' intending to write 'one thousand' might prove that by verbal agreement the words 'one and that he was never possibly ous or follow the absolute bill of sale, . the transaction therefore, becomes material to try whet , and forcibly dispossessed as alleged by h the amount of the alleged purchase money advanced, and to the value of the interest alleged to be sold, and the acts and conduct of the parties, they intended to act upon the deed for I am

parties, ersuance ssession, as never ink that ain and t before us is consonant to equity, good conscience, and public policy It is not equitable or right that parties should be allowed by a formal instrument to There can in no case be written instrument, could as between the parties ly is any understanding or

Nath, 23 W R. 167; see also Madhab Chandra v Gangadhar, 11 W R 450= 3 B L R A C 83 ... 300=4 C L R 419 it was held that ... by Peacock C J in Kashi Nath v Chan ... Ram Dayal v Heera Lall, 3 C L R ... What is the effect of this section on the Full Bench case was again considered in Hem Chandra v Kali Charan Das, 9 C 528 There Garth C J for the Court consisting of Garth C J and Miller J observed: "It has now been argued ... to established the la... was passed in 1872, ... so altered the law If I could see any ground for supposing, that the Full Bench case is not law at the present day, ... made, or intended to make, any ... prevailed here before the Act was ... in the Full Bench case, I should consider that our proper course was to refer the question to another Full Bench; but whe... seems ... rule as ... which the judgment in the Full Bench case proceeded is one which, in my opinion, is perfectly consistent with that rule It is a principle which has constantly been ... England, as well as by the C... the present ... Wright had brought an action of ejectment against Lincoln to recover certain land, which the latter had conveyed to him by a deed, which appeared on the face of it to be an absolute conveyance Lincoln then brought a suit in equity to restrain the ejectment, on the ground that the transaction was in reality a mortgage, and he relied in support of that contention, partly upon a parol agreement, and partly upon the acts and conduct of parties Turner L J says "The principle of the Court is that the Statute of Frauds ...

9 C 898

So although parol evidence will not be admitted to prove directly that simultaneously with the execution of a bill of sale there was an oral agreement by way of defeasance, yet the Court will look to the subsequent conduct of the parties, and if it clearly appears from such conduct that the apparent vendee ...

2. real intention and purpose of the parties at the time The exercise of this remedial jurisdic ... raud The Courts of I ... exercising a simil ... 115, covers the who ... That section does not say that, in order to constitute an estoppel, the acts which a s action was one of ... ce of what the English Cour call 'past perform ... n the Indian rule of estoppel But the ground upo ... Courts in India may most safely be rested, ... them to prevent fraud The Courts will not allow a rule or even a statute, which was passed to suppress fraud, to be the most effectual encouragement to it and accordingly in England the Courts for ... t aside the common law ... rts in India have the same ... terposed by the Indian Ev ... sections 91 and 92 of the Act, ... of the Legislature, Specific Relief Ac

Indian Evidence Act so as to bring them into conformity with the practice of the English Courts of Chancery Bakshu Lalsman v Govinda, 4 B 594 So the principle of law laid down in the ... ndy Churn, 5 W R 68 was approved or ... ises Pheloo v Geerish, 8 W R 515; Ha ... n Sheikh Parabal v Sheikh Mohammed, 1 B L R A C 87; Behary v Tejnarain, 10 C 764, Nundo v Prosunno, 19 W R 333, Bholanath v Kaliprashad, 8 B L R 89, Venkataratnam v. Reddiah 13 M 494 Rakken v Alageppudayan, 16 M 80, Kader v Nepean, 21 I A 96=21 C 882 (P. C) see also Balkishen Das v Legge, 19 A 434, Holmes v Mathews, 9 Moo P C 413, Mutty v Annundo, 5 M I A 72, Barton v Bank of New South Wales, L R 15 App Cas 379 The question was again considered by a Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court in Pranath Sha v Madhusudan Bhuiya, 2 C W N 562=25 C 603 (F B) There Banerjee and Wilkins JJ, in their order of reference reviewed all the previous cases on the subject Maclean C J in delivering the judgment of the Full Bench observed "In regard to the question of law, which was the main ground for this reference, namely, whether oral evidence as to acts and conduct of the parties was admissible to prove that the deed in this case was intended to operate as a mortgage and not as an out and out sale, the learned vakil who appeared for the Appellant stated that having regard to the authorities he could not successfully contend that such evidence was not ...

... oda Baksh, 26 In Cas 717
... v Legge, 4 C W N 153 (P C)= ... y Council In that case the question was whether certain deeds executed by the respondent in favour of the appellants constituted a mortgage transaction or an out and out sale with a contract of repurchase Lord Davy in holding that oral evidence of intention was not admissible for the purpose of construing the deeds or ascertaining the intention of the parties, said. "By section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act (I of 1872) no evidence of any oral agreement or statement can be admitted, as between the parties to such instrument or their representatives in interest, for the purpose of varying, or adding to, or subtracting from, its terms, subject to the exceptions contained in several provisos It was conceded that this case could not be brought within any of them The cases in the English Court of Chancery which were referred to by the learned Judges in the High Court have not in the opinion of their Lordships any application to the law of India as laid down in

S. 92

of the parties, that is, evidence of the repayment of the money, the return of the deed and the exercise of the acts of possession by the vendor, and not ... s by the parties . If that was ... ction 92 of the Evidence Act does ... the parties The view we take is supported by a Full Bench decision of this Court in the cas of Preo Nath v Madhu Sudan, 2 C W N 562=25 C 603 It was contended by the learned vakil for the appellant that the decison must be taken to have been in effect overruled by the decision of the Privy Council in the case of Balkishen v Legge, 27 I A. 58=4 C W N 153 We do not consider the argument sound The evidence that their Lordships considered inadmissible in the case just referred to was certain oral evidence of intention which had been admitted in the Courts below and the ground upon which their decision is based is that ...

evidence of the acts and conduct of the parties not being in the nature of an oral agreement or statement" See also Mahomed Ali v Mir Nazar Ali, 5 C. W N 326=28 C 289; Ali Sheikh v Imam Ali, 35 Ind Cas 102; Miriam v Ibrahim, 28 C L J 306=48 Ind Cas 561; Kamala v Nandan, 11 C L J. 39, Ramauatar v Tulsi, 16 C W N 137, Sharadi v Jamal, 17 C W N. 1053 In the last named case B executed in favour of A a deed of out and out sale with a condition of re-purchase of a house but no date was fixed for the repurchase On the same date B executed a kabuliyat in favour of A by which he acceped a lease of the housesold The Court took into consideration how the language of the document was related to the existing facts such as that the vendor continued in possession, paid rent at the usual rate of interest, etc, and further that the value of the property was much more than the consideration paid In delivering the judgment Jenkins C J said "The argument before us has been that it was not open to the Appellate Court to regard the transaction as a mortgage I designedly use the word 'transaction' because that with which we have to deal is not contained in one document but in two, and what we have to consider, in the circumstances is, whether there is anything in section 92 of the Evidence Act or in Balkishen v Legge, 22 A 149—which is in opposition to that section—that would compel us to hold that the decision of Mr Justice Chatterjee is erroneous We would certainly ...

in Calcutta But it appears to me that all these authorities to which allusion has been made are beside the point in this case, for I cannot find that the learned Judge of this Court has relied on any evidence of oral agreement or statement or of intention, with a view to coming to the conclusion at which he arrived He took the transaction as it is expressed in the documents He also took into consideration those facts which may legitimately be proved with a ... principal document is expressed in qualified terms, and it is only open to the suggestion that it is an out and out sale, if and so far as it can be said that the express terms of the deed must be disregard ...

In Narendra Lal v Bhola Nath, 27 C W N 336=77 Ind Cas 154, ... cases of Preonath Shaha v Madhu Sudan, 25 C 603=2 C W. N 562; Khankar Abdur v Ali Hafez, 28 C 256 and Mahomed Ali v Najar Ali, 28 C 289=5 C W N 306 were followed, see also Kailash Chandra v Darbaria, 20 C W N 347; Manindra v Durga Sundari, 20 C W. N 680; Arjad Ali v Sheikh, 50 Ind Cas 12; M ... Priyabarta, 26 C W ... an instrument, only ... of showing that the transaction is not what it purports to be Krishna Lal Singh v Sri Raj Kuar, 104 Ind Cas 299=1 Luck C 97=A I R 1927 Oudh 278, Mariam Bibi v Ibrahim, 28 C L J 306=48 Ind Cas 561 The rule, that the conduct of the parties in respect to an instrument may be looked to in construing a document, is subject to this reservation that it can be admitted only after every other means to construe a deed have been exhausted Devjee Trikamjee v Dayamoy, 108 Ind Cas 418=A I R 1928 Pat 225 Subsequent conduct of ... Lal Ghose ... terms of ... not an ... Court to ... le if the ... 30 Ind ... s to the ... of the contract were never in the deed to be acted upon from the very beginning Narendra v Bholanath, 77 Ind Cas 154=27 C W. N 336, see also Ali Sheikh v Iman Ali, 35 Ind Cas 102

A different view has been taken by the Bombay High Court in Dalloo v Ramchandra, 30 B 119=7 Bom L R 669, where Jenkins C. J said "The plaintiffs sue to recover possession of land alleging that the document passed by his father, though in form an absolute conveyance was intended to operate as a mortgage The grounds on which their contention is based, are that the consideration was a debt and not money paid at the time; that the plaintiff's father, notwithstanding the execution of the deed, remained in possession until his death, and that after his death his widow remained in possession for ... of the trans ... nder- ... eous ... he-e ... il in ... is of ... Act; ... enable the ... ule, 2 Deg ... ples We ... within the ... we should ... g on us" ... dmissible, ... 92 of the ... L R 239 ... ning the intention of the parties in interpreting languages used in a written document S.

case is that there was no agreement enforceable by law to sell the property, but that there was a mortgage agreement, it should be specifically determined [illegible] parties as shown by evidence, is a mortgage

Bom L R 764 The plaintiff sued to is not open to misrepresentation void Sangira ma v Godigeya, om L R 684 mortgage dated 1899 The mortgage having been expressed in the form of a sale deed, he words which refer to s 12 of the Evidence Act, and does not point to any

Gopal v Morar, 15 Bom L R

aua, 31 Bom L R 1266, Gopal

The object of s 10 A of the

Bom L R 1266

the case of Balkishen Das v inference that there was a contemporaneous oral agreement or statement between

2 from, the terms of any contract, grant or disposition of property which has been reduced to writing, and no exception is made in any of the provisos to sect on 92 or elsewhere in the Act, in favour of evidence which consists of the acts and conduct of parties from which an inference might be drawn that there was such an oral agreement to vary the terms of the contract or grant The question before us is really concluded by the recent decision of the Privy Council in Balkishen Das v Legge, 27 I A. 58=22 A. 149 In this connection we may also draw attention to the distinction which is drawn by the same tribunal between admissibility of evidence to show that a recital of a fact in a contract or grant is erroneous, and evidence to vary the terms of a contract or grant (Sri Lal Chand v Indrajit, 27 I A 93=22 A. 370), and also to the decision in the House of Lords in North Eastern Railway v Lord Hastings, (1900) A C 260 in which it was held that when the words of a deed were plain and unambiguous, the fact that the parties understood it otherwise and acted on such understanding for a period of more than forty years, could not affect the construction of the instrument and the effect to be given to it.' See also Venkata v Subramania (1917) M W N 674, Chall Venkata v Devaj hakshmi, 1912 M W. N. 164. Where the contemporaneous agreement though in writing is not registered, it is not open to the party to show that what is apparently a sale was really a mortgage Meenakshesundaram v Chenchu, 109 Ind. Cas 18=A. I R. 1928 Mad 409 Evidence of subsequent conduct to prove contemporaneous agreement is not admitted Fit. Holmes v The Bank of Upper India, 77 Ind Cas 523=5 Lah L J 439 In delivering the judgment the Court observed "On the question of whether he can be allowed to produce evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement varying the terms of the written document, the learned senior ... very clearly and we find ... which he comes that this ... n which the High Courts ... Ma Shwe, 44 I. A 236 (P C) It was contended ... ouncil has not definitely ... =114 P L R 1901 As ... wed Preonath ... ankar Abdur ... the Calcutta ... g conduct as ... ly the same way in ... Holms v The Bank of ... anhya Mal, 15 P W ... g Bin v. Ma Baliy, 3 ... J. B R. (1902-1903) ... 14 O. C. 321; Ramesh ... 3 R 1908, 3rd Qr ... Cas. 644, Sookna v ... B L. R Sup Vol 399=5 W. R 76, Jugobundhoo v Rukee, W R. (1869) 388; Mahomed v Raesoodeen, 6 W. R 117, Radha v Ram, 9 W R 251; Bulaki v Flad, 27 P. R 1911=118 P W R. 1911=10 Ind Cas 1004

In Maung Kyin v Ma Shwe, 15 C W N 958=38 I A 146 P. C=21 M L J 1105, the appellants who ... of certain properties unde ... absolute conve ... subsequently p ... gagor In thi ... conveyance sou ... parties (as distinguished from evidence of oral statements and conversations constituting in themselves an agreement to contradict or vary the written instrument) to prove that the transact ... on this appeal is whether or not that evidence was properly rejected .. . Its object was to show that whatever the terms of the document may have been, none of the parties had acted on them as effecting an absolute sale, but that through a long course of mutual dealings materially affecting their respective positions claim disclosed anteceden certainly opinion on the construction or application of section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act in relation to the deeds of the 4th March, 1903 That case again went up to the Privy Council (Vide Maung Kyin v Ma Shwe La, 22 C W N.

Lordships are now in possession of the facts and of concurrent findings upon the most important of them Upon the non admissibility of the evidence reliance is placed by the respondents upon section 92 of the Indian Evidence the respondents maintain that the ed On the contrary, the Appellants the section, they are entitled to set the parties as inconsistent with the transfer of property and only consistent with the true nature of the transaction having been one of mortgage or transfer of mortgage They found upon a considerable body of authority to that effect, the cases cited being, Bakshu Lakshman v Govinda Kanji 4 B 594; Hem Chander v Kally Charan, 9 C 528, Rakken v Algappudayan, 16 M 80, Preonath v Madhusudan, 25 C 603=2 C W N 591, Khankar v Ali Hafez, 28 C 256 and Mahomed Ali v Nazar Ali, 28 C 289=5 C W N 326 The judgment of Mr Justice Melville in the first of these cases is repeatedly founded upon in the course of the series, in which the learned Judges expressly followed the English equity doctrine as expressed in Lincoln v Wright, 4 Deg & J 16 by Lord Justice Turner thus 'The principle of the Court is that the Statute of Frauds was not made to cover fraud If the real agreement in this case was that as between plaintiff and Wright, the transaction should be a mortgage transaction, it is, in the eye of this Court, fraud to insist on the conveyance as being absolute, and parol evidence must be admissible to prove the fraud' In the opinion of their Lordships, this series of cases definitely ceased to be of binding authority after the judgment of this Board pronounced by Lord Davey in the case of Balkishen Das v Legg, 27 I A 58=4 C W N 153 It was there held that oral evidence was not admissible for the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties to written documents Lord Davey cites section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, and adds —The cases in the English Court of Chancery which were referred to by the learned Judges in the High Court have not in the opinion of their he Acts of the consideration of isic evidence of what manner the ithstanding the the subject still remains in India But the respondents rightly refer to Achuta Ramaraju v Subbaraju, 25 M 7, Maung Bin v Ma Hlaing 3 L B R 100 and Datloo Valad v Ram Chandra, 30 B 119, and in particular to the judgment of Jenkins C J in the last case In this the Lord Davey, has been rightly followed Annada Chandra, 71 Ind Cas
W. N 336=77 Ind Cas 151 In
=17 M.

729 (P C) the question was whether documents executed between the parties constituted a mortgage ... ith an agreement to reconvey I ... ostensibly as a sale with a r ... a mortgage, Lord ... has ... now ... sent ... um- ... 58= 22 A 149=4 C W. N 153, are clearly required to show in what manner the language of the docume ...

In Baijnath Singh ... R. 787, the suits were instituted by ... the Natu Singh Oil Co on the footing that certain transactions entered into between the plaintiff and defendant, Hajee Mahomed Jamal, were mortgages The defendant contended that the transactions were, as they purported to be, absolute sale to the original defendant followed by contracts for the resale of the shares to the plaintiff, that time was ... chase had been extingu ... of the transactions Sir ... in Balkishen Das v Legge, 27 I A 58=22 A 149=4 C W N. 153, that under section 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, as between the parties to an instrument, oral evidence of intention ... 92 merely pres- cribes a rule of ...

PROVISO (1).

Scope of the provisos The admissibility of extrinsic parol testimony to ...

or variation or contradiction of, a written transaction

... concern- ... orandum,

(2) Fraud, mistake, illegality, incapacity, failure of consideration, or other matter showing that the writing is not the valid transaction it purports to be

(3) Any collateral verbal agreement on the same subject-matter, consistent ... the written ... g is not a ... the written statement of ... S. of an agreer agreement n provisos 1

49 A. 680—

Scope of proviso (1)—Parol evidence is admissible to show that a writing is not really the valid transaction which it purports to be. Such evidence may therefore be given to prove fraud mistake, illegality, incapacity, failure of consideration, or other matter affecting the validity of a writing as a document Cockle Cas 341. In Henkle v Royal Ex Ass. Co, 1 Ves 317, Lord Hardwicke said. "No doubt, but this Court has jurisdiction to relieve in respect of a plain which they put down is final as to what they mean; it is the binding record of the agreement. But they are always at liberty to show whether it is the binding record of the agreement Suppose that the signature were made in the course of a dramatic representation, or suppose a printed form of agreement were used ... his name in the space meant for the p... be at liberty to show the real s... in Wake v Harrop, 7 Jur 710; C... Platt, (1900) 1 Ch 616, Dobell v Stephens, 3 L J K B 89, Cockle Cas 341 So the first proviso in no way ... Mark Ev 73 So the rule is ... nce, under the proper pleading, ... that it never had any legal ... of forgery or fraud, or for the ... due execution and delivery, ... m, 9 East 421, 422, Taylor § ... stive Benimadhab ... 3) In delivering

... defence to point ... nt and to claim protection from enquiry ... tradiction and variance of the terms ... of which is not in question In such cases, the Court is not bound by what has been described as a mere paper expressions of the parties and is not precluded from enquiring into the real nature of the transaction between them The first proviso to that section, therefore, declares that any fact may be proved which would invalidate any ...

want of due execution or cap...
But in my opinion, this is not so, as the instances given are not exhaustive but, as appears from the use of the words 'such as' are set out by way of illustration ... come ... the ... that ... the ... the

2. did not wish to put in writing Mollayabhan v Palani (1913) M W N 650=25 M L J 290=20 jointly and severally he signed only as a s his signature that he in the evidence Maung Sein v Ma Saw 3 Bur L J 112=82 Ind Cas 816 When a document can be shown to come within proviso (1), evidence of contemporaneous oral agreement contradicting the document is admissible Mahomed v Abdul, 63 Ind Cas 368 Under proviso (1) to s 92 any fact may be proved ... wn that there was never any ... was altogether dropped ... cannot be given effect to ... to the defendant in a redemption suit to plead that the mortgage is a fictitious document intended to cover a previously ... the first proviso to sec ... invalidate the deed ... purporting to be a ... standing of both parties that it is not to be treated as the real contract between them, is not an agreement enforceable by law, and there is not a contract at all and does not acquire pre ... Ma ... aiah v Cassim Ali L ... property in suit to defend ... a conveyance in consideration of services rendered or to be rendered by defendant No 2 in inducing his master L to sell certain property to the plaintiff Held that the defendant No 2 was entitled to prove the real transaction by oral evidence Nabi Khan v Mussamat Sewal 9 Ind Cas 161=15 C W N 408 Where a party deliberately and with eyes open executes a deed of sale he can not be allowed to set up against it an oral agreement that the sale is a mortgage He may prove that a mortgage was intended but that by fraud, mistake or otherwise ... tended to execute a sale deed ... at that the sale was to be ... C P L R 12 Parties can show that they never came to an agreement or that written contract having ... e uncertain date Radhakissen v D ... admissible for the purpose of invalidating a written agreement Dholan Das v Ralya Singh, 85 P R 1898 Under this proviso any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document ... Therefore in a suit on a bond, a defendant ...

... Haji ...

... of a conveyance in an apparent sale deed formed only part of the real agreement between the parties, and the oral agreement to re convey to the vendors which gave them a claim to equitable relief formed another part of the same transaction, it is in the eye of law a fraud to insist on the conveyance as ... as for proving ... dence of the oral ... it would invalidate the document as a deed of absolute sale within the meaning of the first proviso to the section and constitute a ground for a Court of equity and good conscience giving effect to it only as a mortgage Rakken v Alagappudayam 15 M 80 This proviso seems to apply to cases where evidence is admitted to show that a contract is void or voidable, or subject to reformation upon the ground of fraud ... s where the ... f that kind, ... at the other ... 20 B 636

It may always be shown that the document in question never had any legal existence On this ground rests the very important exception that duress or fraud in the inception of the contract may be proved, although accompanied by the

e case, to Waddel Blantirn,
'8; Phip

Ev 4th Ed pp 537, 538 If the fraud is clearly proved, one of the essential elements of contract—consent—is wanting Thus it may be proved by parol evidence that any material part of the contract was fraudulently omitted or inserted by the other party, (Heter v Glassgow, 79 Pa 79) or that it was fraudulently misread to one not able to read and that he was thus induced to give his signature; (Mc Messon v Sherman, 51 Wis 303) or that a part of the contract was not reduced to writing because of the fraud of one of the parties, in which case the whole transaction is open to explanation by parol evidence Phyfe v Wardell, 2 Edw Ch (N Y) 47 In brief, if one person fraudulently

35=3 En
which ar
with the negotiati Russ, 16 alleged, in such motives and intentions that prompted the parties to execute the same Such evidence is permissible to show fraud in a transaction which, if shown, annuls the contract, and prevents its enforcement It is not admitted for the purpose of varying the terms of a contract but merely to ascertain whether it is a bonafide transaction or sham If there is no fraud, the contract will stand, conversely, if there is fraud, the purpose of the admission of parol testimony is served Fairbanks v Simpson, 28 S W 128 (Am) In such cases any secret agreement radicting the face of the nto (Gray v Hankinson, entire transaction may be investigated brought by one of the contracting pa contract should not be impeached or changed, unless it appears that one of the parties was fraudulently misled or deceived Without enumerating them then, cient to warrant the

The foundation

2. of the actual agreement of fraud other than that rol and written terms.
It is not enough that there are parol stipulations contradictory to the written agreement Vansant v. Runyon, 19 Ky Law Rep. 1981 The rule which prefers written to unwritten evidence does not so apply as to exclude the latter ...lently obtained, and mnity to the party year provided tha at 75 per cent suit for rent on the kabuliyat was executed payment of interest at ound to be true Held that under the circumstances the kabuliyat was not the real agreement between the parties, having been induced by fraudulent misrepresentation, and the tenant was not liable to pay interest claimed on the basis of the kabuliat Nadia v Birendra, 20 C W N 1067

The fraud, which under proviso 1 of section 92, may be proved must be fraud which would invalidate the document and therefore subsequent fraud in respect of the document not such as to invalidate it, could not be a ground for admitting extraneous oral evidence under proviso 1 of section 92 Kesharrao v. Raya, 8 Bom L R 287 When there is a duly signed receipt for the payment of rent oral evidence could not be admitted in supersession of the recitals in the receipts ... the receipts there is a question ... his proviso Kunwar Behari v ... in the proviso is wide enough to include a fraud on the registration law Thus a party can show that an item was fictitiously put in Gopi Nath v Rup Ram, 1930 A L J 926 = A. I R 1930 All 786

Where the transaction beginning with a sale deed amounted to a mortgage between the plaintiffs and defendands Held if s 92 be applied the proviso, to that section would admit the evidence, because it would be fraud to insist upon a claim made by the appellants to property arising out of such transaction, when the appellants must have known that the plaintiffs were the true owners. Mahadeo v Tukaram, A I R 1922 Bom 256

Where an assignment is impeached on the ground that it is colourable and has the effect of defeating the rights of third parties, the provisions of section 92 of the Evidence Act are no bar to the production of oral evidence by such third parties Parumal v Mahomed Ali, 6 S L R 107 In a suit to recover rent under a kabuliyat held that evidence of an oral agreement set up by the defendant, while admitting execution of the kabuliyat, was admissible for the purpose of proving the fraudulent character of the transaction between the parties. Kashinath v Brindaban, 10 C 649, Kasim Noor v Bebee, 1 W R. 76.

Coercion or intimidation Coercion is defined by section 15 of the Indian Contract Act When consent to an agreement is caused by coercion, the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused. (Vide section 19 of the ... instrument obtained by illegal duress is an instrument, ... be, by food or its may ress or d not a mere Abdul 14 M
M 214 On this ground rests the very important exception that duress or fraud, in the ... by the most avoid a Id 490, operty, amount
on, the ay him a certain sum and deliver up a note of the lessee then held by the lessor. The evidence established the facts stated, and the Court said it would be difficult to

Undue influence U

'Influence, in order to would make it sufficient to by coercion or fraud" at p 45 Similarly Parl observed: "Undue influ in a state of l, in Williams v destroying free

Illegality The c it is forbidden by law, c the provisions of any person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral, or opposed to public policy In each of these cases, the consideration or object of an agreement is said to be un in which it is intended to Budge Budge Mill, 33 C 70[illegible], Cun Contract Act p 10[illegible] The legality of a contract has to be determined by the law of the place of performance, or if no particular place is designated by the law of the place where the contract is made But the lex fori det be recognised Although ther the law applicable to it, it laws expressly prohibit such an agreement Nor will the lex fori suffer the foreign law to be applied, if the agreement is contrary to the interests of the state or to common principles of justice and morality Santos v Illidge, 28 L J C P 317 Accordingly, the Court will not enforce an agreement obtained by threats of a criminal prosecution although the agreement is valid according to the law of the country where it was made and where the parties to it were domiciled Kaufman v Gerson (1904) 1 K B 591; Cun Contract Act p 103 Illegality covers instruments or transactions against public policy, such as

Dickenson, Ev § 1137 So oral evidence bject or consideration of an agreement in writing is unlawful and that therefore the agreement is void Kashi Nath v Brindaban, 10 C. 649, Anup Chand v Chanbsi, 12 B 585; Beni Midhab v Sadasook, 32 C 437 Moreover, when it appears that the transaction is thus unlawful, it is the right and may be the duty of the Court to take cognizance of the fact although it may not have been pleaded Fischer v Kamali Naicker, 8 M. I A 187; Scott v Brown, (1892) Q B 724; Hill v Clarke, 27 A 267, Cun Contract Act p 104 Oral evidence is admissible to show that an agreement in writing to sell Government pro notes is really an agreement made by way of wager on its market price on a future day Eshoor Das v. Venkata Subba Ram, 17 M 480

Want of due execution "Execution" when applied to a document, is the last act or series of acts completion Bhowanji v De to the act of completing a by the testator, yet in ordinar the testator and the attestation of his signature Per Sir Syed Ali, 12 O L J 1=A I. R with executing a signed document, legal consequences, the act which h he adopts and makes his own the neral, immaterial whether he has ned it It is even acknowledged, or Wigmore § 2134
st be in writing, ion, Seal, Attesta These formalities some of the Acts as an inherent element of form in the validity of the transaction Like all other may be suffi ty be they ding certain general dange the sake of this policy. r the was entitled to produce oral evidence to prove that the gal The fact that the an unlawful object, is n the suit is brought rumengada v Maung

Want of capacity of the contracting parties Parol evidence may also under the proper pleading, be offered to show that the party was incapable of contracting by reason of some legal impediment, such as infancy, coverture, idiocy, insanity, or intoxication Barret v Buxton, 2 Atk 167. Besides the two classes of persons non compotes mentis, viz idiots and lunatics Lord Coke mentions two more classes viz, those who were of good and sound memory, but by the visitation of God has lost it, and those who have become non compotes by their own act, as drunkards (Will Exor 25) In the former of these two latter classes must be reckoned those who from sickness, grief, accident or old age who are not like those classed by Lord Coke, as lunatics those under has assigned rte Cranmer, 13; Rigway v without considera ount of each pay a 1872) d into where siderafrom

L J.

183 Golshede v Su ... S. of N. S. W. 15 App v Harcharan, 32 P L
... ent but it is the recital of a fact
... oviso (1) to section 92 Nabin v.
... to prove want of consideration ... to him to prove a variation in the ... Mahomed, A I R. 1930 Mad.
... M L J 414 Expl) If the state-
... al of a fact section 92 is not ... ght come under
... If one party to
... , the receipt of
... alls within the
... rty is at liberty
... given to prove
... 537=24 Ind.
... C W N 158
... sory note was
... in the meaning
... can be given to prove that the consideration represented gambling losses Balgobind v Bhaugg Mal, 11 A L J 854=35 A 558 Notwithstanding an admission in a sale deed that the consideration had been received, it is open to the vendor to prove that no consideration had been actually paid Le Hen v Elahi Bux, U B R (1897—1901) Vol II, 400, see also Sahdat v Dulogir, A W N. 1886, 58 Pre emptor can show that transaction which is ostensibly a mortgage is really a sale 157 P W R 1909 Under this proviso, a party to a contr...

to adduce ... that recited ... standing a ...
it is open to ...
The provis... will contrac... of sale me...
received by the vendor it is competent to the vendor, under the provisions of the Evidence Act, to prove a collateral agreement that the purchase money should remain in the hands of ... alleged by him Sahpa. ...
93=2 Bom L R 553 ...
proviso is a complete ...

L J 721 When there is a recital in a document of the payment of a certain sum of money as consideration, oral evidence is admissible to prove that the recital is incor... of fact, s 92 of ... it to be wrong ...
oral evidence to ...
in and for the purpose of proving it, he must be allowed to prove what the real consideration was Section 92 does not in any way bar such proof, for the proof is adduced not for the purpose of varying or altering any term of the written contract, but only to show ...

2. C L J 552=75 Ind Cas 537=1923 Cal 570 In the case of a deed of sale actually paid and ry to the recitals in Singara Charlu v
A 612=A W N

it from that contained in recital Although this purpose of contradicting of the parties to the contract from showing either that there was no consideration or that the consideration was different from that stated in a conveyance Gopal Singh v Laloo Lal 10 C L J 27=2 Ind Cas 953 Evidence is admissible to show that consideration, mentioned in a deed as having been paid never passed and also to shew that the consideration specified in the deed was satisfied in a different way from that mentioned in the document itself Muhammad v Muhammad 4 A L J 441=A W N 1907, 181

Mistake of fact With regard to deeds or f agreement at all and may resumption Tay § 1150

, Jayne v Hughes
, (1910) 1 Ir R 167), may be 5 Q B 574, Phip Ev 7th the Indian Court sits as a Court the principles which prevail in equity vide illustration (e) evidence is often admitted to vary or even contradict a writing, where by some mistake surprise, or the like, it does not represent the party s true intention, but it requires a very clear case to induce the Court to interfere The mistake must be most satisfactorily made out and the error be shown to be one which ought to be corrected If this be done by the plaintiff, the Court will reform the instrument so as to make it in conformity with the true intent A defendant, against whom specific performance is sought may insist on the mistake in his defence, and establish it by parol evidence Nort Ev 2(5 Section 20 of the Contract Act enacts "where both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement, the agreer Act lays down "A contract is not voidabl one of the parties to it being under a section is not a bar to plead the mistake of Sanjua 6 Mys L J 103 Where on property was mis lescrib that description belonging to the mor rtgage is permis sible to establish iden Ram Gopal 44 A 246=20 A L J 53= al mistake made deed can be proved by d Cas 671 Where a deed property was handed over to the mortgagee, provided that there was to be no accounting between the parties at the time of redemption and it appeared that a portion of the mortgage consideration was set down in the deed as being due to the mortgagee from the mortgagor, merely by way of guess without any accounting having been really taken at the time. Held that the mortgagor should show that there was entitled to Cas 550
hat there at the real take may ght under agreement
v Maung
f interest a clerical

S. 92

mistake the words "per cent" had been omitted from the mortgage deed Held that it was a case of mutual mistake for which provision was to be found in the nce Act Ram Bharosay v Janki Prosad, Oudh 95 Under this section, mistake of the

be proved Sukdeo v Ram Narain, A I R may be adduced to show that owing to the ignorance of the draftsman, a deed of sale did not truly express the real intention of the parties Thakur Rohini v Vishwanath, 13 C P L R 33 It is open to the Court, having regard to this proviso to allow oral evidence of mutual mistake

260, see

Ch 530,

Ch. 285;

ilding v.

, contra

ctification instrument, the proviso, iguous unreformed and mistake a term has been one would found a claim

Venkata, A. I R 1931 Mad

Mistake of law A contract is not voidable because it was caused by a with a knowle practicable in th

note to § 126

against mista circumstance

money or oth

Mohendranath, 17 C 602 The maxim e g, 'Ignoratia juris nemi nem excusat' refers to ignorance of ordinary law of the land and not to mistakes regarding constructions of documents Beauchamp v Winn, L R 6 H. L 223, Cun Ev 99 in a suit brought for the purposes under section 31 of the Specific Relief Act, subject to the faith and for value s kantu, 31 Ind Cas

in the description of the mistake is so proved the document can be construed by the Courts as if the mistake had been rectified, and a separate suit for rectification of the instrument under section 31 of the Specific Relief Act is not necessary, provided that the rights of third persons acquired in good faith and for consideration are not prejudicially affected thereby Kotla China v Cannekanti, 3 L W. 551. The combined effect of section 92 of the Evidence Act and section 31 of the Specific Relief Act is to entitle either party to a contract, whether plaintiff or defendant, to protect his right by proving a mistake in contract, as a mistake same.

2. been wrongly entered Therefore the combined effect of section 92 (1) of the Evidence Act and section 31 of the Specific Relief Act, is to entitle either party to the contract to protect his rights by proving the mistake in the written contract Rai I R 1930 Oudh 95 see also Rungasami v M L J 229=29 Ind Cas 588; Abdur Hakim .2=44 A 246; see also Pratap Chandra v Mahomed Ali, 41 C. 342=19 C. L J 66=20 Ind. Cas 443=18 C W N 592

PROVISO (2).

Scope of Proviso (2) Parol evidence is admissible to prove any collateral verbal agreement as to any matter on which a document is silent, which is separate from it and not inconsistent with its terms, and which might naturally be omitted from the writing Cockle Cas 343, Kaladeen v Jogat Pathal, A I R 1930 All 400 Vide illustration (f) The plaintiff took a lease of land from the defendant, reserving to the latter the sporting rights Evidence was admitted of a collater destroy the rabbits nt on the point verbal agreement good consideration been given would have on the terms of the defendant performing his v Griffith L R 6 Ex 70; Cockle Cas Ev 343 "The verbal agreement in the case, although it does not affect the mode of enjoyment of land demised, is, I think, purely collateral to the lease It was on the basis of its being performed that the lease was signed by the plaintiff, and it does not appear to me to contain any terms which conflict with the written document" There is no rule that there shall only be one agreement upon any matter There may be two (or more) as in the above case, if they can consistently stand together and one may be written and the other oral If proceedings are may be given of the oral agreement agreement, although at first sight, it may above case was cited with approval K B 215=70 L J K B 53 ading case on the matter There r the lease of a house by the latter the plaintiff refused to hand over the counterpart that he had signed unless he received an assurance that the drains were in order The defendant verbally represented that they were in good order, and the counterpart was thereupon were not tutes a warranty in law, or a mere representation? To create a warranty no forming ins are in itisfy you? emphatic which led The next question is, was the warranty collateral to the lease so that it might be given in evidence and given effect to? It appears to me in this case clear that the lease did not cover the whole ground, and that it did not contain the whole of the contract between the parties. The lease is entirely silent about the drains, though there is a covenant that the lessee during the term should do the inside repairs, and the lessor the outside repairs which would I suppose include the drains which happened to be inside or outside the house. There is nothing in the lease as to the then condition of the drains, i.e. at the time of taking of the lease, which was the vital point in law. Then why is not the warranty collateral to anything which is to be found in the lease? The present contract or warranty by the defendant was entirely independent of what was to happen during the tenancy. It was what induced the tenancy, and it in no way affected the terms of the tenancy during the three years which was all the lease dealt with. The warranty in no way contradicts the lease, and without the warranty the lease never would have been executed. Three cases were cited in which parol collateral agreements outside leases had been allowed in evidence and given effect to by the Court namely Morgan v. Griffith, L. R. 6 Ex 70; Erskine v. Adeane, L. R. 8 Ch. 756 in this Court, and Angell v. Duke, L. R. 10 Q. B. 174. The first two cases relate to parol agreement collateral to leases as to keeping down rabbits and ... to send in a ... were held collateral ... It was argued by ... agreements in the rabbit ... after the lease was taken ... warranty is that ... both these cases the subject matter of the verbal undertaking was temporary and immediate, a matter which did not require to be dealt with amongst those permanent or continuous matters which are the subject of the covenants in the lease. ... matters to be periodically attended ... be far more difficult to induce the ... concerning such matters, as it ... to a collateral verbal arrangement where there is formal written transaction between the parties; on the other hand, it is most natural to omit from a lease an arrangement as to the immediate destruction of rabbits, or the condition of drains at the commencement of the tenancy. Cockle Cas. Ev. 311

But in order that parol evidence may be admissible to prove collateral agreement, it must ...
ment, the evidenc... writing Angell v. ...
In that case the ...
and furniture there...
made at the ... furniture. It ... with the writ... judgment said ...
allow a parol ag... into I agree wi... be instances of ...
is not the case he...
of the negotiati...

in writing it should not be added to it the written contract is intended to be the record of all the terms agreed upon between the parties; where there is a collateral contract the written contract does not contain the whole of terms Here the lease expresses the whole terms, the defendant agrees to let, and the plaintiff to take, the house and furniture at a certain rent, there is said to have ... he negotiation, that the defendant for the same ren , how is this

But the general rule under discussion is not violated by allowing parol evidence to be given of the contents of a distinct valid, contemporaneous agreement between the parties which was not reduced to writing when the same is not in conflict with the written agreement Burr Jones § 439 Undoubtedly ... natter on which a written terms may be proved case it may be properly inferred that the parties did not intend the written paper to be a complete and final statement of the whole of the transaction between them But such an agreement must not only be collateral, but must relate to a subject distinct from that to which the ... connected with the ... where the writing ... complete legal obligation, without any uncertainty as to the object or extent of the agreement of t ... was reduced to writi ... ' where a writing, and is not intended by the partie ... define some of its terms, the ... uch parts of the actual contract a ... be established by parol' Wood Ev ... only criterion of the completeness ... the agreement of the parties in the writing itself ... complete expression of the whole agreement,—that is contains such language ... ligation,—it is to be presumed that the parties ... ial item and ter the agreement to which the

Jones § 440

Where a promissory note is silent as to interests this proviso does not preclude a party from setting up and proving a subsequent oral agreement to pay interest Saudamonce v Spalding, 12 C L R 163 But where a bond declares that money is to be repaid with interest at a certain rate, an oral contract to the effect that no interest is to be paid but the person is to be in possession of a certain piece of land and to pay himself the interest out of the usufruct cannot be proved Kalee Deen v Jogdat 1?2 Ind Cas 894—1930 A L J 1008=A I R 1930 All 440 Where there is a contract with a partnership and a promissory note signed by a partner in his own name and not in the name of the partnership, on evidence of such contract, all the partners will be liable The principle that only the maker of the promissory note can be held liable ... contract is alleged evidence as to the 168

In considering whether or not this proviso applies etc The principal rule applies only to formally complete contracts, for in such it is reasonable to suppose that the parties have set down all they intended, and omitted nothing This presumption becomes weaker and weaker as the document is found to be less and less formal Beharee v Kaminee, 11 W R C R 319 And in the ... that

S

v. B[illegible] 1 Strange 207. On this ground the section directs the Courts in considering whether parol testimony is admitted or not, to have regard to the formality of the documents. Vide illustrations (g) and (h). Note P. 276. Where a suit is based on a negotiable instrument which is a document of a formal character, the existence of a separate oral agreement as to any matter on which the instrument is silent cannot be proved under s. 92 of the Evidence Act, as proviso 2 to the section would not apply to the case. A Shahjog Hundi is an instrument of a formal character and where it is silent as to interest, a separate oral agreement for payment of interest cannot be proved by virtue of proviso 2 to section 92 of the Evidence Act. [illegible] Chand v. Gurditta, 165 P. L. R. 1911; [illegible] v. Hem[illegible], 1 M. L. J. 2[illegible], Lachmi v. Hemendra, 18 C. W. N. 12[illegible], [illegible] v. [illegible]lal, [illegible] Ind. Cas. 242, but see Govern[illegible] Sri Chandra [illegible] v. [illegible], 11 C. W. N. 105=29 A. 33=17 M. L. J. 35=1 A. L. J. 29=9 Bom. L. R. 1. Defendant mortgaged certain shops and their stock in trade to the plaintiff. The plaintiff alleged in the plaint that it was agreed that the mortgage should include the goods which might be brought into the shop subsequent to the date of the mortgage as well. It was found that the mortgage deed though registered was drawn up not by a lawyer, but by a petition writer. Held that in considering the degree of formality of the document the fact that it was not drawn up by a skilled lawyer was of much more importance than the fact that it was registered and that evidence of the alleged oral agreement was admissible under section 92, proviso, (2), of the Evidence Act. Neelsh[illegible] v. Cha[illegible], 4 L. B. R. 240=11 Bur. L. T. 231.

When the informal and incomplete document is silent. Where the plaintiff's evidence proved that the written agreement about supply of consignments by defendant [illegible] agreement. Held that [illegible] that there should be [illegible] sent when the plaint[illegible] the defendant was [illegible] Seth Laxmi Chand v. [illegible]
Where a deed of lease does not mention the place fixed for payment of rent, it is open to the plaintiff lessee to show that it was subsequently agreed between the parties that rent was to be paid at a particular place. Onkar Prasad v. Badri Das, 8 N. L. J. 61=89 Ind. Cas. 273=A. I. R. 1925 Nag. 281. Under this proviso the existence of any separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a document is silent and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved. This proviso applies where the document is of an informal character. Jodhraj v. [illegible]ram, 7 N. L. J. 25=83 Ind. Cas. 309. Following on a contract for sale of goods, the vendee gave a Varthanaman reciting the payment of a sum of money, and the varying terms of the contract, i. e., the quantity of goods, its price and the term of performance. It was signed only by one of the parties [illegible] evidence of the real meaning of the words used. Jumma v. Abu, 93 Ind. Cas. 193=A. I. R. 1926 Nag. 301.

[illegible]

Document is silent—and terms not inconsistent with the terms of the [illegible]

2. Where a sale deed was executed for a consideration of Rs 35,000 but in fact settled by oral contract to be Rs 35,000 and the discharge or a mortgage for Rs 1,000, held that the oral contract is inadmissible in a suit for cancellation of the mortgage or for damages for breach of the oral contract under proviso 2 or 3 of section 92 of the Evidence Act Ramakrishna v Adityam Iyer, 14 M L T 385=(1913) M W N 850=21 Ind Cas 463 A partition suit between two brothers was compromised and decree drawn up accordingly. The property was thereby divided between them in certain proportions The plaintiff alleged that part of the terms of the compromise was that he should receive a certain sum of money from his brother in order to equalize the lo s The compromi e to pay the money was not a separate agreement, but part and parcel of the contract th ... under proviso (2) to section ... J 770=21 Ind Cas 305 ... with H) of the promissory ... ly agreed that his liability on ... evidence of such an agreem ... of the Act—being a separate agreement on a matter on which the promissory note was silent and not inconsistent with its terms Motabhoy v Mulji, 19 C W. N 713=28 M L J 589=13 A L J 529=39 B 399 Where a hatchita, on which a suit was brought, was virtually a memorandum of the loan without any mention of the rate of interest, section 92 sub section (2) of the Evidence Act did not ... the rate of interest agreed ... Chandra v Debendra, ... ment entered in a bahi to ... on 92 of the Evidence Act, and the existence of such an agreement is a question of fact which cannot be considered in second appeal Bhan Singh v Gokul, 53 Ind Cas 137 A mortgage bond contained the following stipulation for interest ' I have borrowed from you Rs 300 I shall pay ... for the aforesaid sum every year

... of the Evidence Act ... to pay a ... Instru ... -56 Ind ... payable ... If it is ... it does ... a Mower ... writing ... it was stated therein that whatever award was made by the arbitrators would be binding on the parties to the reference The award was made only by a majority of the arbitrators and it was sought to be proved that there was a separate contemporaneous oral agreement between the parties to the effect that the ... be binding on the parties Held ... section 92 proviso (2) of the ... O L J. 471=47 Ind Cas 960 The holder of a certain ... executed a registered deed by which ... not fit for ... here was ... dlord was ... dmissible ... to which ... orcement

Balal Ram v. Jhalo, 19 A. L. J. 810=63 Ind. Cas. 801. The interlineated words and figures in an ekrarnama were written after it had been signed by the defendant. The plaintiff's allegation was that there was an agreement made before the execution of the ekrarnama which justified the additions to the document which do not alter it in the least but merely explain it. Held the effect on the document would be as if no alteration had been made, and the plaintiff would be entitled to produce oral evidence of the oral agreement. Ganga Prasad v. Mt. ..., 68 Ind. Cas. 208=(1922) Nag. 191. It is open to a party to a partition to prove that a "share list" of properties is not the final partition but that it was orally agreed between them that a formal partition deed should be executed later on. If such agreement is proved the share list would be admissible without registration. Sundaram v. Gundapanam, 16 L. W. 784. A reference in a partition suit related to the matters in dispute in the suit. At that time there was no dispute whatever as to the method of division of the property. The only dispute was whether the family was joint and whether the several valuable properties held by the defendant first party were liable to be partitioned. When the actual method of partition came to be discussed, it was suggested that certain people who were already parties to the suit might be brought in for the purpose of division of the property and an arrangement was made to this effect by the consent of all parties. Held, that oral evidence was not inadmissible to prove the fact of this separate arrangement as to the method of division of the property. Tulsi Ram v. Basdeo, 21 A. L. J. 705=96 Ind. Cas. 731=A. I. R. 1923 All 567. Oral evidence is permissible under this proviso, to prove a separate oral agreement as regards interest where the bond is silent as to payment of interest. Rozario v. Harballabh, 103 Ind. Cas. 791=A. I. R. 1927 Nag. 195. An oral agreement between the endorsee and the endorser of a negotiable instrument that the endorsee will recover the amount of the instrument for the drawer only is admissible under proviso 2 to section 92 of the Evidence Act. Sunderji v. Abigail, 22 S. L. R. 249=105 Ind. Cas. [illegible] between two brothers was com[illegible] The property was thereby divi[illegible] plaintiff alleged that part of the [illegible] receive a certain sum of mone[illegible] The compromise was however, for [illegible] the defendant for that sum of [illegible] oral evidence of the agreement, [illegible] the property between the brothers was one of considerable importance and the alleged oral agreement to pay the money was not a separate agreement, but [illegible] ng, and the case did [illegible] Abdul Hamid v. [illegible]

PROVISO (3).

Scope of the proviso (3). This proviso is based on the English rule which does not exclude evidence of oral agreement, which constitutes a condition on [illegible]

[illegible] defendants could not [illegible] m, it was expressly [illegible]

Abernethy's approval being obtained, and th[illegible] the machine. It was held that such evidence w[illegible] written document was not operative. Pym [illegible]

2. Cas 318 Tayer Cas Ev 831. In delivering his judgment, Erle J said "The the face of it, and that had been so it would have been forg. idence showed that in fact there was never any agreement at all The production of the paper at by a party with his signature attached, affords that a jury should if it be proved that in fact the paper was signed with the express intention . . . should not be an ree

an iow of no rule of law to estop parties from showing that a paper, purporting to be a signed agreement, was in fact signed by mistake, or that it was signed on the terms that it should not be an agreement till money paid, or something else done agreement at all, and that the the agreement;
does not vary an agreement and is admissible" Lord Campbell . . . gree No addition to or variation from the terms of a written contract can be made by parol; but in this case the defence . . . entered into Evidence to that effect was . . . case was overwhelming" Another . . . S 369, in which evidence was allowed of a verbal arrangement that a written agreement for the sale . . . the consent of the landlord The Court said . . . an escrow; it never ncement of the obligaits opera-parol was riod oviso aw of
and ben, ween until agree-
and ill be
17 C.
370, until it all But had not only rtion of its stipulation was intended words 'any ict, and not he contracts nent signed ies to operate as a present e happening of an event L J Q B 277; Wallis v ain conduct or writing is put forward against a party as his purporting act, no principle prevents him from showing that there never was a consummation of the act Wigmore § 2408 "The truth is that the rules excluding parol evidence have no place in any inquiry in which the Court has not got before it some ascertained paper binding and of full effect." Per Wilde P J in Guardhouse v Blackburn L R 1 P & D 109; Wigmore § 2408

"On the one hand", says Prof Wigmore, "it is well accepted that the handing of the deed to a third person is not necessarily final, the document may still be withdrawn, or (less correctly) 'revoked' On the other hand, the maker's retention of the document does not necessarily negative the act's finality, this too, may be deemed unquestionable law since Mr Justice Blackburn's masterly exposition Doe v Knight, 5 B & C 671" Wigmore § 2408. In Zenos v Wickham, 2 H L C. 296, Blackburn J said. "No particular technical form of words or acts is necessary to render an instrument the deed of the party sealing it; the mere affixing the seal does not render it a deed, but as soon as there are acts or words sufficient to show that it is intended by the party to be executed as his deed presently binding on him, it is sufficient" See also Gudgen v Besset, 6 E & B, 986 The true construction to be placed on this proviso is that the provisions thereof are inapplicable in a case in which any obligation under the written contract has attached and if the effect of the alleged contemporaneous oral agreement is merely to suspend the performance of the obligations contained in the written contract, evidence of such oral agreement cannot be admitted. On the other hand, it is permissible to adduce evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement under which the parties to the written contract agreed that until the happening of a certain event no obligation whatever under the [illegible]

[illegible] agreed to postpone the enforcement of a promissory note. Subramania v Narayan, 90 Ind Cas 1020 = (1925) M W N 601 = A I R 1925 Mad 1240

[illegible] written contract to be varied by a contemporaneous oral agreement, but having regard to illustrations (b) and (f), the proper meaning of that proviso is that a contemporaneous oral agreement to the effect that a written contract was to be of no force or effect at all, and that it was to impose no obligation at all until the happening of a certain event, may be proved Where an oral agreement purports to provide that the promise to pay on demand in a promissory note, though absolute in its terms, is not to be enforceable by a suit, until the happening of a certain event, or, in other words, that the legal objection to perform the promise is to be postponed, such an agreement does not fall within the proviso 3 of the Indian Evidence Act Ramjibun v Oghore, 25 C 401 = 2 C W N. 188, see also also Jaimal v Nandlal, A I R 1932 Lah 549 = 33 P L R 712

Where a certain property was sold by the defendant to the plaintiff for Rs 480 and it appeared that there was a separate arrangement between the parties for the payment of a certain amount to the defendant which would be a condition precedent to the sale taking effect, held, that proof of such an agreement was not barred by section 92 Maung Mon v Ma Kin Oh, 5 Rang 636 See also Lal Hia v Bharaduaja 4 Bur L J 38 = 88 Ind Cas 336 = A I R 1925 Rang 256 Failure of condition precedent to written agreement as fixed by oral agreement can be proved but oral agreement as to getting off amount due to the executant of the promissory note on a separate account can not be proved Ram Singh v Ibrahim 18 S L R 39 = A I R 1925 Sind 136 The admissibility of an oral agreement contemporaneous with a written document will depend to some extent upon the way in which the case is presented Anderson v. Walter, 29 C W N 670 = 88 Ind Cas 435 = A I R 1925 Cal 860

Any obligation The true meaning of the words "any obligation" in this proviso is any obligation whatever under the contract and not some 'particular obligation" which the contract may contain Irfan v Jogendra, A I R 1932 Cal 708 = 36 C W N 451 = 59 C 1111, Radhakishen v Durga Prosad, 59 C 106 = A I R 1932 Cal 328

Escrow That specific variety of delivery to a third person which consists in naming a condition precedent to be performed and making the act final except for the happening of the condition—the usual meaning of escrow—, has

will be received to show that a deed was delivered in escrow, and when an agreement was without consideration and was delivered on conditions such conditions may be proved Pym v Campbell, 6 E & B 370, Pattle v Hornibrook, (1897) 1 Ch 25 'The manual delivery of an instrument may always be proved to have been on a condition which has not been fulfilled in order to avoid its effect This is not to show any modification or alteration of the written agreement, but to show that it never became operative and that its obligation never' commenced ' Wilson v Powers, 131 Mass 537, Burr Jones § 971 It is not necessary that the restrictive delivery should be express all the circumstances of the [illegible] Besset 6 E & [illegible] Ev 7th Ed 561 [illegible] riding power [illegible] grantor's death [illegible] Hospital v C[illegible] in whose favou[illegible] intended to o[illegible] 576, but see Bell v Ingestre, 12 Q B 317, Watkins v Nash, L R 20 Eq p 266; London v Subfield, (1897) 2 Ch 608, Johnson v Clark, (1908) 1 Ch 303, 319)

Parol proof as to execution and delivery and suspension of operation On the principle so often referred to that parol evidence is admissible to show that there never was any actual agreement it may, of course be shown that there was no proper execution or delivery of the apparent agreement (Vide proviso 1) When the execution of a deed is in issue, what was said and done at the time and by whom done are the very vital facts Burr Jones § 471 If a deed has never been delivered, or if a party to an instrument obtains possession thereof by fraud or in any improper manner this of necessity must be shown by parol; and such evidence is no cnotradiction of the writing The act and fact of delivery is independent of the language of the instrument Delivery consists of an act of the hand joined with a purpose of the mind It comes after the scrivener has done his work, and after signing of the paper Whether or not a deed was delivered is an issue frequently made in the Courts and has been [illegible] refute delivery [illegible] delivery rest[illegible] [illegible] shown that the [illegible]ll of the other party, or that by mistake of both parties a wrong paper was delivered Burr Jones § 471 A and B enter into a written agreement for the sale of an interest in a patent, and at the same time agree verbally that the agreement shall not come into force unless C approves of it C does not approve The party interested may ... writing to tra ... agreed that ... transferring the farm A may prove the condition as to C's consent, and the fact that he does not consent Wallis v Littell, 11 Com B N S 369 = 31 L J C P 100 In a suit on a promissory note the defendant pleaded an oral agreement that plaintiff should discharge a mortgage that was subsisting on the property sold to him by the plaintiff before he could enforce payment of the amount due on the promissory note. Held that the agreement pleaded is not admissible in evidence under s 92, proviso (3) The proviso will apply to the case of a non attachment of an obligation under the written contract until the event provided for in the oral agreement happens and not to the case of a mere postponement of the performance of the legal obligation until the happening of the event. Muniammma v Surappa, 1 Mys L J 71 Where in a suit on a promissory note, the defendant pleads an oral agreement at the time to set off moneys due to the executant under some other account, the agreement is contrary to the nature of the document and is not admissible in suit on a pronote, executed by P N in respect of which P H stood surety without mentioning the terms of the contract in the plaint P H contended that he was not a ... on the pronote could only be determ ... the executant, which was upheld ... Evidence Act, the oral evidence as to the surety's part in the transaction is admissible to ... the written and the oral agree- ... nt to the attaching of any liability ... curity and that it is not open to the plaintiff to treat the pronote as a separate contract and to enforce it without taking the whole contract into account Maneckjee v Maung Po Han, 2 Rang ... An attempt to show that the agreement reduced 135 It is open to a person who admits the execution of a promissory note to plead want of consideration therefor Lallu Mal v Reoti Ram, 45 A 679 = 21 A L J 669 = 71 Ind Cas 353 (1) In a suit on a promissory note the defence was that the promissory note in the suit was passed to secure the plaintiff mort-

... which the ... hich it was ... be proved ... Ubhaya, Proviso 3 is intended to embod ... written contract being entered into it is ... that the written agreement shall not be of a ... ondition precedent has been performed, paro ... sible to show that the condition has not ... the written contr ct has not become binc ... there is in fact no written agreement ... 9 O L J 273 = 4 U P L R (O C ... 270 The proviso cannot help a defendant who wishes to prove a separate oral agreement, as to the rate of interest between him and the plaintiff, when the document provides for interest at a specific rate Ibid A person is not permitted to vary the terms of a written contract by proof of a contemporaneous oral agreement under this proviso; a contemporaneous oral agreement to the effect that a written contract was to be of no force at all and that it was to impose no obligation at all, until the happening of a certain event may be proved It may be shown that the instrument was not meant to operate until the happening of a given condition; but it cannot be shown by parol evidence that the agreement is to be defeated on the happening of a given event Ali Jauad v Kulanjan, 44 A 421=20 A L J 247=66 Ind Cas 131

Under this proviso, a party is entitled to prove the existence of a separate oral agreement constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under the contract and consequently, to show that the contract is to be considered as binding only when confirmed by the principals them elves Dinanath v Metharam, 33 C L J 577 In a suit on a promi sory note payable on demand, it is not open to the defendant to plead by way of defence a contemporaneous oral agreement where the plaintiff has agreed that he will not present the note although it is payable on demand until he has di charged certain incumbrances on the property he has sold to a stranger Vishnu v Ganesh, 45 B 1135–23 Bom L R 488=63 Ind Cas 673

478=50 Ind Cas 918

In a suit on two pro-notes, which contained the words "I promi e to pay you hereafter', the defendant pleaded that there existed a separate oral agreement constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of the obligation and that the word "hereafter in the two notes referred to that agreement Held that the alleged oral agreement was admissible in evidence under proviso 3 of section 92 Kinlock v Asa Ram, 51 P R 1877 Where the plaintiff purported to sell certain land to the defendants under a deed of sale, and there was an arrangement that the deed should take effect only if the defendants succeeded the defendant tendered upon the understanding ondition precedent was is admissible Kishen v Chandi, A W N 1882, 93

PROVISO (4).

Scope of the proviso (4) Parol evidence is admissible to prove any subse-document, enfoce of such B 127= ing the judgment of the Court, which consisted of Taunton, Littledale, Parke and Patteson JJ) said 'By the general rule of common law, if there be a contract which has been reduced into writing verbal evidence is not allowed to be given of what passed between the parties, either before the written instrument was made, or during the time that it was in a state of preparation so as to add to or subtract from, or in any manner to vary or qualify the written contract, but after the agreement has been reduced into writing, it is comp tent to the parties, at any time before breach of it, by a new contract not in writing, either partly by the subsequent verbal terms engrafted upon what will be thus left of the written agreement. And if the present contract was not subject to the control of any Act of Parliament, we think that it would have been competent for the parties, by word of mouth, to dispense with requiring a good title to be made to the lot in question, and that the action might be maintained But the Statute of Frauds has made certain regulations as to contracts for the sale of lands (So) we think the object of the Statute of Frauds was to exclude all oral evidence as to contracts of the sale of lands, and that any contract which is sought to be enforced must be proved by the writing only" This proviso deals with two points In the first place, it lays down that if a transaction has been reduced into writing, not because the law requires but because the parties find it convenient, then since there is nothing in general law, which prevents them from subsequently modifying it or rescinding it altogether by oral agreement, so there is nothing in the rules of evidence, which prevents them from proving the alteration or rescission But a matter which the law requires to be in writing can no more be altered by a subsequent than by a contemporaneous oral agreement, because the rule of law prohibits it Markby Ev 73 It was contended in a case that the word 'or' should be interpreted as "and" and as such oral evidence should be admissible in cases of documents which are not compulsorily registrable but which have been registered This contention however was negatived Nocoor v Ashutosh, 9 C W N ccxiv Under this proviso evidence of a subsequent oral agreement rescinding or modifying a contract, etc. in writing is not admissible but the proviso does not exclude a distinct subsequent new oral agreement superseding the old contract in toto Lakhon Ram v Amir Khan, 14 P R 1889 Under proviso 4 in certain cases a subsequent oral agreement to modify previous contract may be proved but this is not permitted where the law required that the terms of the contract should be [illegible] terms of the contract [illegible] evidence is entirely [illegible] Collector of Estate [illegible] 1193 But where the mortgagor pleaded a subsequent oral agreement whereby the mortgagee

[illegible]

proviso 4 to section [illegible] whether executed or executory [illegible] M 368 The provisions of this [illegible] evidence to prove the discharge and satisfaction of a mortgage bond [illegible] v Gobinda 4 C W N 301

Parol proof of subsequent agreement. The general rule under discussion however does not prevent the proof of the existence of any distinct subsequent oral agreement to rescind or modify any such contract grant or disposition of property, provided that such agreement is not invalid under the Statute of Frauds or otherwise Steph Ev Art 90, Goss v Nugent, 4 Barn & Ad 58 The general rule does not purport to exclude negotiations respecting written [illegible]

[illegible]

changed, that performance has been prevented or waived by the other party,

[illegible]

portion of the rent renewed under a Kabuliat by means of an agreement subsequent to the date of the instrument Held, that the acts and conduct of the parties were not admissible in evidence to prove that the terms of the agreement have been varied Lakshmi v Kabaduip, 116 Ind Cas 733=56 C 201=A I R 1929 Cal 437 So an agreement by conduct, or an equity arising from the circumstances though not amounting to an agreement, will

s. 92. have the same effect Hughes v Metropolitan Ry Co, 2 App Cas 439; Morell v Studd, (1913) 2 Ch 648; Phip Ev 7th Ed 564; Roscoe Cr. Ev 267; Taylor §§ 1141—1146 The expression "oral agreement" as used in this proviso is wide enough to include all written agreements whether they are oral or they are implied from acts and conduct of the parties Kumau v Radhika, 10 Pat L T 669=A I R 1929 Pat 717, Mayandi v Oliver, 22 M 261; Radha Raman v Bhabani, 12 C L J 439=6 C 12 C L J 646, see also Morell v Studd, (1904) 1 Ch 305 (312), Hughes v Metro R Sundari, 20 C W N 680=32 Ind Cas is used in the sense of "not committed to agreements whether come to by word conduct of the parties Mayandi v Olive regards the alternati ... not only claiming the property whereby she alleged plaintiffs under thei Evidence Act was no bar to an enquiry into the merits of the latter defence based on the agreement, for the object of the alleged oral agreement was not to rescind the original transaction, as affected between the plaintiffs and their vendor, but to transfer any right acquired by the plaintiffs to the defendant Rakhmabai v Tukaram, 11 B 47.

Parol proof of subsequent agreement, in case where the document has been reduced into writing The exclusion of evidence by section 92, is itself excluded by proviso 4, and a notification of a written agreement to submit matters in dispute to arbitration can be proved by oral evidence Pyarilal v Ghanaram, 83 Ind Cas 22=A I R 1925 Nag 203 In a written lease for a period of 5 years there was a condition that if the lessee desired a renewal he should give a written notice three monts before the expiration of the term of the lease The lessee alleged that one of the lessors had told his wife that there was no need to give a written notice as provided for by the lease ... alleged ... ssi ... h a ... or rescission of the contract of lease within s 92 proviso 4 of the Evidence Act Marz D' Cruz v Jitendra Nath, 46 C 1079=30 C L J 94=53 Ind Cas 681 Under proviso 4, a party is entitled to prove the existence of any distinct subsequent oral is neither req
the law in parties, who have bound themselves by a written agreement, depart from what has been so agreed on in writing and adopt some other line of conduct, it is incumbent on the party insisting on and endeavouring to enforce a substituted ... terms on

5 Prior to the due ... 100 with interest, the ... an oral agreement whereby ... priate l towards the discharge of the bond debt In a suit by obligor, to recover the ... lieu, held that there was ... Act or in any provision of ... ty that he satisfied and ... Thakur Rai v Gulan ... gee) sold the mortgaged property to the second defendant under the power of sale contained in the mortgage deed The plaintiff mortgagor sued for a declaration that the sale was void and for redemption contending that, on the day before the sale took place, the first defendant orally agreed to give him four days' time within which to pay off his mortgage debt and to postpone the sale, and that the second defendant [illegible] a purchase Held that oral evid nce of [illegible] it did not fall within proviso 4 of section [illegible] being an agreement to modify any of the [illegible] hagu in Das, 26 B 318 Oral evidence of an agreement subsequent to the execution of a promissory note payable on demand varying its terms as regards its exigibility on demand is precluded under this section Sheikh Jamu v. Muhammad, 90 Ind Cas 378 Where a partnership is formed in 1921 between P and D to carry on certain business and under the terms of the contract which are reduced to writing and registered, the partnership is to continue for five years, an oral evidence to prove that the partnership had inspite of the terms in the contract, been dissolved in June 1922 and P was paid his share of the assets is admissible Nurul Hasan v Imambux, A. I R 1932 Nag 12

Parol proof of subsequent agreement in cases of transaction which is required by law to be in writing and registered Where the parties enter into a contract, they can substitute another in its place and the substituted contract is the one to be looked to, not the one which was first entered into If the law requires that the substituted contract shall be made only in a certain way and in compliance with certain formalities such as writing and registration then unless it is so made, it cannot take effect and the old contract subsists U Kyo v Mg Pan Yo, 74 Ind Cas 151=1923 Rang 102 So when an agreement modifying [illegible] registered, it is not open to the defendant to prove by oral evidence that the lease was surrendered under a later oral agreement of the parties Doda v Muttayya, 2 Mys L J 124 An oral agreement to receive lesser amount than was due on a registered mortgage deed in full discharge of it cannot be proved under s 92 (4) of the Evidence Act and section 17 (b) of the Registration Act. In [illegible] ayan v Supham, [illegible] evidence of an [illegible] Maung Myat v [illegible] ang 322 Even though a tenancy has been created by a registered instrument the termination [illegible] existence of a subsequent oral agreement is excluded not only in cases in which the original contract, grant or disposition of property is by law required to be in writing, but also in [illegible] has been registered C [illegible] nothing to prevent or [illegible] of a claim Maung Pa [illegible] A I R 1928 Rang 141 A contract of simple money debt is not required by [illegible]

merely an agreement as regards the mode of payment but an alteration of the character of mortgage itself such as changing the original mortgage which was without possession into a usufructuary mortgage, it is not admissible Chandra v Akbar, 110 Ind Cas 261 One of several mortgagors can enter into an oral

2. agreement with the mortgagee for the redemption of his share only of the mortgage and proof of the oral agreement under which money is paid for redemption is not precluded by section 92, proviso 4 of the Evidence Act The proof of oral agreement and payment does not amount to a rescission of the contract of mortgage bu ntract is discharged to that extent 537=A I R 1928 Mad 1050. age oral evidence is inadmissible R 1928 Bom 522, Mahomed v Nanhe Mal, 27 A L J 924=119 Ind Cas 197=A I R 1929 A 615 An oral agreement, between the mortgagor and the mortgagee where ie payment of the p in evidence a subsequent tered mortgage it has to be ction 92 of the =48 Ind Cas 158 In a led oral evid a lesser sur Held, that the evidence was inadmissible under section 92, proviso 4 of the Evidence Act, the defendant's or lesser sum given in full satisfactior on the mortgage. Jagannath v Ind Cas 689 Eve raiyat can orally surrender h y Act if it was not for a fixed v India Seni, 47 C 129 less than Rs 100 is created by a registered instrument it will not preclude the admission in evidence of an unregistered instrument to show that the interest has been relinquished A relinquishment for consideration may be recorded as a conveyance and in the view of a document by which an interest to immoveable property of the value of less than Rs 100 is relinquished does not require registration Sorman v Molla, 37 Ind Cas 949.

Under this proviso any variation of rent reserved by a registered lease must be made by a registered instrument, and oral evidence is inadmissible to prove such variation and an agreement is nonetheless oral because it is inferred from the conduct of the parties Manindra v Durga, 20 C W N 680=32 Ind Cas 185 Evidence that since the execution of the Kabuliyat, the tenant paid rent at a lower rate than that stated in the Kabuliyat is admissible to show that the intention of the parties was that the Kabuliat from the been a waiver of the tri, 20 C W N 680=32 mortgage or sale-deeds because at that time there was no law which required a sale deed of immoveable property to be in writing Jangi Ram v Sheoraj Singh 30 Ind Cas 234 This proviso precludes evidence of an oral agreement Srinivasa, 27 Ind Cas 269 mortgagee orally agreed to a by the deed The conduct of th ks at such reduced rate is in s 436=A I R 1930 Nag 235 Although a mortgage deed has been duly executed and attested and no obligation attaches thereunder till certain conditions have been fulfilled, upon fulfilment of the conditions, the obligation attaches from the date of its execution and not from the date of registration or delivery of the deed Jadunandan v Kalyan Singh, 15 C L J. 61=16 C W N 612=13 Ind Cas 653 Section 92 (4) does not exclude evidence of oral agreement substituting a new contract for a previous one in writing and registered That clause refers only to an oral agreement to rescind or modify such contract Jagat Sing v Devi Ditta Mall 169 P. R. 1883 In a suit for redemption of the mortgage, the defendant pleaded a sale of the mortgaged property Held that section 92, clause (4) does not exclude evidence of sale; for the new contract does not rescind or modify the former one which is merely merged in the new one Balkishen v Hira, 30 P. R 1881 Evidence of conduct S.

... showing cancelment of a registered mortgage ... Srinivas Swami v Athmaram, 5 M L T.

A parol agreement between a mortgagee and the assignee of his interest, whereby the latter was to pay the consideration for the sale to a third party to the credit of the mortgagee, is a ... law to be in writing, by a subseq...
(4) of the Evidence Act and ...
9 Ind Cas 310; see also Kalika ...
Where the lessee under a registered lease-deed contend that they were cultivating an additional area by virtue of an oral agreement. Held that evidence of a simultaneous oral agreement was barred by s 92 and that evidence about subsequ...
Man...
plaintif...
from th...
evidence...
tion of...
12 C L...
due for...
... sport
... a
... 4
... ble
and the defendant was not bound to pay at the rate stipulated in the lease
... ge
... it
... nt
arrangement does not in any way affect the mortgage or where it does not modify or vary the terms of the mortgage, it is not inadmissible under this proviso Kedar Singh v Sumer Singh, 10 Ind Cas 196 An oral agreement to take less than what is due under a registered mortgage bond would be inadmissible ... But a discharge extin-
...
... to a party to a registered sale deed to prove an oral agreement by evidence either oral or documentary contemporaneous with the sale-deed, that inspite of a certain property, belonging to the vendor, being entered in the sale deed, title to it would not pass to the vendee Kunwar Ram v Ananda Krishna, 118 Ind Cas 589= A I R 1929 A 578, Umedmal v Davu, 2 B. 547; Dwarka v Bhogaban, 7 C L R 577

English law—'A contract required by law to be in writing, may whether before or after breach, be wholly rescinded by an oral agreement, even though the latter be not itself enforceable Morris v Baron, (1918) A C 1 (disapproving Williams v Moss's Empires (1915) 3 K B 242), British and Benbingtons N. W Cachar Tea Co, (1923) A C 48, Goss v Nugent, 5 B & Ad 58, 65, Noble v Ward L R 2 ... ioned or varied thereby (Ibid, Stead ... Graves, L. R 10 En 234, Vezey v Ras... be attempted, the original contract ... v Ward, sup, Stowell v Robinson, 3 ... t common law contracts by deed could neither be rescinded nor varied by parol (West v Blakeway 2 M & Gr 729; Steeds v Steeds, 22 Q B D 539) Now however following the equitable rule, (Webb ... cannot technically be released, may ...
Ambegate Ry Co 17 Q B D 127, ...
Whether they can also be varied seem ...
Contracts 7th Ed p 599 and Kelle...
Ed 565

2

PROVISO (5)

Scope of proviso (5) Parol evidence of u age or custom i always adm sible where the object is to render intelligible to the Court the meaning in wh h partie have used language Nort Ev 277 So parol evidence may be g ven to prove in order that it may be a plied to the written transaction, unles it is Dalliso n 1 Sm L C 5?0= in th ca e which wa a case of an agricul of a cu tom whereby, contrary to the general law the tenant, on leaving at the en l of his term, was allowed to take away his 'way going crop that is to say, all the corn growing upon the said lard which hath before the expirat on of such term been own by su h tenant upon any part of such lands,' although the lea e was in writing and no ment on was therein made of such cu Lord Mansfield C J said The r contradict the agreement hough not mentio ed v Magnine, (1801) utting of timber wa being taken to have Cas 352 So it to show that thing are by usage or custom in particular ca es treated as incidental and acce sorial to the principal thing Nort Ev 277 Thu , it may be shown that days of that a contract of hiring is hat the out going tenant shall always admi sible to prove er as to the obligation of the parties in such transactions as that in question, or as to the meaning of words or terms used, in order that it may be applied to the subject matter and bind the parties to a written transact on unle it is inconsistent with the writing Cockle Cas Ev 352 In Brown v Byrne 3 E & B 703=23 L J Q B 313—Cockle Cas Ev 352=Thayer Cas Ev 941 a bill of lading specified a certain amount as payable for freight Parol evidence was offered of a custom whereby three months' credit of discount was allowed for freight The evidence was held Court, Coleridge J said "The are perfectly clear, the d fficulty s Mercantile contracts are very merchants, the intention of the defeated if the world d in order as to the oceed with the tacit assumption of these usage , they commonly reduce into writing the special particulars of their agreement but omit to specify these known usages ev dence or the dinary words lar in during idence only freight

on delivery at a certain rate per pound is it inconsistent with this to allege that, by the custom the ship-owner, on payment is bound to allow three months' discount? We think not. Webb v Plummer, 2 B & Ald 746, and Hutton v. Warren, 1 M. & W. 466, are cases which illustrate this principle In the first of these, by the custom of the country the outgoing tenant was bound to do certain acts, and entitled to receive certain compensation, but the lease which formed the written contract bound him to do the same acts in substance, and specially provided for his payment as to some of them, omitting the others and the Court held that the expression as to some excluded the implication as to the remainder, and the language of the lease was equivalent to a stipulation that the lessor should pay for the things mentioned and no more The custom therefore would have been repugnant to the contract But in the latter case, in which the former was expressly recognized, the Court held that a specific provision, as to a matter de hors the custom, left the custom untouched and in full force. [illegible] the contract [illegible] owed on the [illegible] have been well summarized by an eminent author, thus —(1) To annex incidents to contracts and Wills (2) To explain the meaning of peculiar or technical terms (3) To furnish standard of comparisons on questions of negligence, etc (4) To fix a party with knowledge or notice of this subject matter of the usage (5) To rebut a fraudulent intent Cockle Cas 351.

To annex incidents to written instruments Extrinsic evidence is admissible to annex incidents to a written instrument, where the inclusion of such incidents is consistent with the writing, and carries out the intention of the parties In such cases the notoriety of the usage makes it probable and reasonable that the parties intended it to be a term of their contract Thus, where a written contract contained a stipulation that a party should ' lose no time on his own account, and do his work well and behave himself in all respects as a good servant," extrinsic evidence was received to show that, by the custom of his trade such a party was entitled to certain holidays R v Stoke Upon Trent, 5 Q B 803, Powell Ev 190 In Hutton v Warren, 1 M & W 475, Parke B said, ' It has long been well settled that in commercial transactions extrinsic evidence of custom or usage is admissible to annex incidents to written of presumption that in such transactions the parties did not mean to express in writing the whole of the contract by which they intended to be bound, but to contract with reference to those known usages' So in the case of mercantile contracts, the evidence is not confined to the explanation of the written terms Provided they are not inconsistent with the contract, it is allowed to supply their pr[illegible] [illegible]ding the brokers [illegible] "Now, neither [illegible] [illegible]ivable to prove ar[illegible] [illegible]ubject to this condition, both may be received for certain purposes To use the language of Mr Phillips, (in Vol II, p 416, 10th Ed) —' Evidence of usage has been admitted as to contracts relating to transactions of commerce and trade, farming, or other business, for the purpose of defining what would otherwise be indefinite, or to interpret a [illegible] what was equivoca[illegible] mentioned in the co[illegible] out of them, and [illegible]

2. effect, as far as can be done, to the present intention of the parties' Now here the plaintiff did not seek by the evidence of usage to contradict what the tenor of the note primarily imports, namely, that this was a contract which the defendants made as brokers The evidence is based on this the usage can have no operation except on the assumption of their having acted as broker, and of there having been a contract made with their principal But the plaintiff by the evidence seeks to show that according to the usages of the trade and as those concerned in the trade understand the words used, they imported something more, namely, if the buying broker did not disclose the name of his principal, it might become a contract with the broker as principal, if the seller pleased Whether this evide[illegible] ... end of adding a tacitly implied inc[illegible] ... expressed, is not material ... it labours under the objection of introducing something repugnant to, or incon sistent with, the tenor of the written instrument; and, upon consideration of the sense in which that objection must be understood with reference to this question, ... material incident which is added tc ... what it appeared to be, and ... written contract without, y[illegible] ... two would seem to import ... Take a familiar instance by way of illustration On the face of a bill of exchange, at three months after date, the acceptor will be taken to bind himself to the payment ... bound to do so at ... ntry in which the ..., that the principle ... not set down on ... which were ... necessary to be dertermined in the particu[illegible] ... which of course might vary infinitely, ... standing all those general and unvarying ... would annex, and according to which they must in reason be understood to contract unless they expressly exclude them To fall within the exception ... ed on the written ... rrant bacon to ... Yates v Pym 6 ... to say, all not ... surance Company ... ugh the books ... expires ... the other ... reasoning ... usage ... on them, and moving in a narrow circle, and meeting each other daily, desire to write little and leave unwritten what they take for granted in every contract. In spite of the lamentations of Judges they still continue to do so; and, in a vast majority of cases of which Courts of law hear nothing, they do so without loss or inconvenience; and upon the whole they find ... ntageous ... of the ... grow out ... considered t ... contract is ... Goodeve Ev p [illegible].

So the true and appropriate office of a usage or custom is to interpret the otherwise indeterminate intention of the parties, and to ascertain the nature and extent of their contracts, arising not from expplications and presumptions, and acts of a dou Jones § 457 Hence it is that in respect must be understood to contract, unless they expressly exclude them It is on this principle that, in a great number and variety of cases in England and in this country, parol evidence has been admitted of local or general usages of trade and commerce to ascertain the true meaning of written contracts Southwell v Bowditch, 1 C P, Div 374; Fleet v Murton, L R 7 Q B 126, Humphrey v Dale, 7 El & B 266; Imperial Bank ... Smith v Wilson, 3 B & Ald 728, Brown ... epeyster, Starkie, 210, Bowes v Shand, 2 App ... C W N 365, K M P R Firm v Som ... 299, Parker v Ibbetson, 26 L J C P 236; Hutton v Warren 5 L J Ex 234, Gibson v Small, 4 H L C 396 In a doul kabuliyat creating a tenancy for a term of years there was an express statement that the tenant had no right of sale, gift or transfer without the landlord's consent and the only right shown was an option in the tenant to take a renewal of the lease within one year after the expiry of the term at the rate of rent prevalent in the pergannah failing which the tenancy would pass into the landlord's possession Held, that the tenancy created by it was neither heritable nor transferable and that no evidence of custom was admissible on those heads Mahomed v Prodyot, 18 C 359=25 C W N 13=61 Ind Cas.

A L J 29=9 Bom L R 1

To explain the meaning of Peculiar or technical terms Peculiar expressions or terms are to be given the meaning which they have acquired in such business by common usage, unless, by the express terms of contract, such usage is excluded, or is inconsistent with the contract Burr Jones § 457 Proof of usage, say Dr Greenleaf, is admitted either to interpret the meaning of the

R v Aewstead Burr 669, R v Sayer, 10 B & C 486, Myer v Sarl, 3 E & E 306 Where in a mortgage deed, it was stipulated that the mortgage should not be redeemed "from 1287 to 1298 Fasli, for 12 years' alluded to was not the Fasli year as commonly understood, but agricultural year Sheoboran v Bisheshar, A W N 1892, 236 The question whether a specification of a

The usage must be known Closely allied to the requisite of long establishment of a usage, that of its being known is of equal and far reaching importance Judicial notice is taken of the general custom of the country and there are certain commercial customs and usages of which every person in the community is deemed to be cognizant such, for example, as those belonging to the law merchant But the usages of special trades and those local usages which may be limited to certain communities cannot, of course, be presumed to be known to all Sleght v Hartshore, 2 Johns (N Y) 531 These have been called usages, as contradistinguished from the generally recognized customs of business Clark v Baker, 52 Mass, 186 In respect to these usages there should be either proof of actual knowledge on the part of the person to be affected, or proof of circumstances from which such knowledge may be fairly implied Byrd v Beall, 150 Ala 122, 124 If a usage is special, and confined to a particular business, or has reference to a particular place only, there is no such presumption and it is manifest that it would be unjust to admit it ... proof in order that both by it E particular places there is a presumption that parties who are engaged in ... trade contract in reference to the particular custom this presumption is at best but a prima facie one liable to be rebutted by proof that it was unknown to the party against whom it is set up, and, on that being proved, no weight ought to be given to it Isaksson v Williams, 26 Fed 642 The customs of an individual in his private business are not binding upon others unless known Burr Jones § 464, see also Mana Vikaram v Pattar, 2 M 275 The ... of trade applicable to the contract which the parties making ... admissible for the ... the instrument ... N 365 = 35 Ind

Cas 3

Custom ... contract Since evidence of usage is ... ing the true meaning of the contract, ... into their contract with reference to such usage it is clear that proof of the usage should not be received if it contradicts expressly or by implication the language of the contract A... ... may be admissible to explain what is ... what is plain" Blackett v Royal ... Tyr 266, see also Indar Chandar v ... Nandalal v Gurupada 51 C 558 ... ones v Shand, 46 L J Q B 561 ... Mohan v Kaisri, 9 M I A 260, ... Cas 268, Macfarlane v Cun, 8 B, ... App 1, Morris v Panchanandi ... r is expressed to be subject to cond... or custom which is repugnant or ... the documents Khoo v Nanigram

'The way and ... Salk 283 In ... had to turn to ... ing Turley v ... the land law in England, and those customs, which have been universally and notoriously prevalent amongst merchants, and have been found by experience to be of public use, have been adopted as a part of it, upon a principle of convenience and for the benefit of trade and commerce, and when so adopted it is unnecessary to plead or prove them' Barnett v Branduo 6 M & E 630 But the usages of special trades, and those local usages which may be limited to certain communities cannot of course, be presumed to be known to all Such customs or usages, must be proved, either (a) by direct evidence of witnesses (which must be positive and not amount to mere opinion), (b) by a series of particular instances in which it has been acted upon (c) by proof of similar customs in the same or analogous trades in other localities Cockle Cas Ex 354

PROVISO (6).

Scope of proviso (6). "Th... have decided in an unreported case (Privy ... ecided on 5th May, 1924), Venkata Sudhadrayy ... 1924 P. C 162=80 Ind Cas 807=52 I A. 1=48 M ... that where a written contract was doubtful in its meaning, the surrounding circumstances existing at the creation of the contract and the subsequent matter to which it was designed and intended to apply could be looked into Again their Lordships held in another unreported case (Privy Council Appeal No. 10 of 1923, decided on 18th December, 1923) Ma Thaung v Ma Than, A I R 1924 P. C. 88=80 Ind Cas 1031=51 I A 1=51 Cal 374=5 Rang 173 (P C) that where a written contract was of doubtful import the conduct of the parties might be looked into to help the Court to obtain an explanation of the true meaning of the contract" Per Mukherjee J in Nand Kishore v Behari Lal, A I. R 1932 All 600=1932 A L J. 329. Upto a certain point, and apart from any question of ambiguity, extrinsic evidence would be necessary to point the operation of the simplest instrument Thus, were it the case of a deed conveying all the lands at A in the grantor's occupation until it was defined by proof what lands were in his occupation, the operation of the deed could not be known So, were it a case of a Will, and a bequest to the children, of a party, or even to the testator's own children, to give effect to the bequest it would be necessary to define who the children were Goodeve Ev p 385 "Some evidence" says V C Wood in In the matter of Feltham; 1 Kay & John 528, "is necessary in any case of a Will, that is to say evidence to show the subject and objects of the gift" Vide also section 75 of the Indian Succession Act (XXXIX of 1925) "The law" says ...

things to whic... requisite in cons... covered, which ... natural construction, but exhaust the whole of those words then the investigation must stop, you are bound to take the interpretation which entirely exhausts the whole of ... to go any furt... interpreting ... testator, with ... I am not, ... what were the intentions of the testator, as contrasted with, or extending or contracting the language which he has used" Webb v Byng, (1855) 1 K & J 580 (585) So in construing a written statement the situation of the parties must be looked at, and the deed must be construed with reference to the situation of ... ted Rabutty Dassi v ... rvations are only cited ... imperfection of the ... as to determining its meaning usually arises, and nothing is more settled than that evidence is receivable of all the circumstances surrounding the instrument, for the purpose of throwing their light on its interpretation It is indeed by these, as by a lamp, that the Court reads the document Goodeve Ev 386 This proviso applies whether a writing is required by law or not It proceeds upon a principle, which has been stated thus —that a person who has to interpret a document, ought to 24 B 510, 515 525 "As it is a leading rule," says Dr Greenleaf "in regard to written instruments, that they are to be interpreted according to their subject, it is obvious that parol or verbal testimony must be resorted to, in order to a certain the nature and qualities of the subject, to which the instrument refers Evidence which is calculated to explain the subject of an instrument is essentially different in its character from evidence of verbal communications respecting it Whatever, therefore, indicates the nature of the subject, is a just medium of interpretation of the language and m just foundation for giving th relatively, different from that Thus, where certain premis s and bounds, and the question was, whether a cellar under the yard, was or not included in the lease, verbal evidence was held admissible to show that, at the time of the lease, the cellar was in the occupancy of another tenant, and, therefore, that it could not have been intended by the parties that it should pass by the lease Doe d Freeland mill, or a factory is conveyed, eo and parcel thereof, and so pas admitted" Greenl Ev § 286

So it is clear that extrinsic evidence of every material fact which will enable the Court to ascertain t the instrument, or in other donald v Longbottom, 1 E & E 9.., Mumford v Getting, 29 L J C P 105, Chambers v Kelly, I R 7 C L 231, Mc Collin, v Gilpin, L R 6 Q B D 516, Bank of New Zealand v Simpson (1900) A C 182 Whatever be the nature of the document under review, the object is to discover the intention of the writer as evidenced by the words he

... ters ject rey
ble
..ee, 67;
be lli
If
be admitted to show what property is known by that name (Ricketts v Turquard, 1 H L Cas 472) Taylor § 1191 'But it is well settled that the terms of an unambiguous document cannot be controlled by the conduct of the parties As Lord Halsbury said in North Eastern Railway v. Hastings (1900) A C 290 no amount of acting by the parties can alter or qualify words which are plain and unambiguous, but it is otherwise when we have to determine the true construction of an obscurely framed document Herbert v Purchas, L R 3 P C 305" Per Mookerjee J in Kiransashi v Ananda, 32 C L J (18), Nirod Chandra v different from what it appears to be Otherwise there could be no certainty as to the proper construction to be placed on a document which to all appearance is unambiguous Motiland v Amrit Rao, 19 B 662 = 27 Bom L R 951 = A

I R 192 ... v. Maung Tun 6 Bur L J. 195=105. S. Ind Cas ... ajassa, 107 Ind Cas 201=A I R 1928 ... , 117 Ind Cas 907 (2)=A I R 1929 Lah. 875 ... where the terms are unambiguous and clear, there can be no question that the evidence to prove that the terms of the contract were used in a different sense must be excluded under section 92; nor is the Court in such a case entitled to speculate as to the meaning of words in the contract But where the wording of the contract is capable of different interpretations the Court is justified to put a proper construction upon the terms of the contract and is justified in finding with what intention a particular expression was used as a matter of pure construction Juran v Ram Mondal, 55 C 808=A I R 1928 Cal 137. Parol evidence is admissible to prove that the name of the creditor was through mistake put down as K instead of R in a deed containing acknowledgment of liability Ajfaz v Ram, A I R 1931 Oudh 51=130 Ind Cas 317. Importation of extraneous matter is forbidden unless required to show relation of language to existing facts Irfan Ali v Official Receiver, A I R 1930 All. 837=1930 A L J 978 Oral agreement showing the nature of document is not admissible but the Court can take into consideration circumstances if document is of doubtful tenor Lakshmaya v Murahari, A I R 1930 Mad 517=31 M L W 516.

Application of the rule in Will cases The question has more often arisen upon Wills than upon other documents, and it is from cases on these, accordingly, that the law has mainly to be taken The law on the subject as regards Wills is contained in section 75 of the Indian Succession Act (XXXIX of 1925) That section is based upon the first paragraph of Justice Wigram's proposition V which is as follows "For the purpose of determining the objects of a testator's bounty, or subject of disposition, or the quantity of interest intended to be given by the Will, a Court may enquire into every material fact relating ... rty which ... testator, ... identify ... antity of ... K 602, Wigram s 10; Dhanapala v Ananda, 24 M L J 418, Sher Bahadur v Ganga Baksh, 36 A 101, Kulasani v Khembai, 13 L W 657 (P C); Bhagobutty v Gooroo, 25 C 112; Indubala v Manmatha, 41 C L J 258 "In considering questions of this nature, it must always be remembered, that the words of a testator, like those of every other person, tacitly refer to the circumstances by which at the time of expressing himself, he is surrounded If, therefore, when the circumstances under which the testator made his Will are known, the words of the Will do sufficiently express the intention ascribed to him The strict limit of exposition cannot be transgressed, because the Court, in aid of the construction of the Will refers to those extrinsic collateral circumstances, to which it is certain that the language of Will refers It may be true, that, without such evidence, the precise meaning of the words could not be determined; but it is still the Will which expresses and ascertains the intention ascribed to the testator A page of history (to use a familiar illustration) may not be intelligible till some collateral extrinsic circumstances are known to the reader No one, however, would imagine that he was acquiring a knowledge of the writer's meaning from any other source than the page he was reading, because, in order to make that page intelligible, he required to be informed to what ... about ... betwee ... in his Will and the introduction of extr ... of the testator as an independent fact ... only to a right understanding of the words used by the testator in his Will and as such it is explanatory only of the words themselves But the evidence which is introduced to prove the intention of the testator is quite a different sort of evidence In this section we are concerned with the former kind of evidence "It does not per se approach the question of intention It is wholly collateral to it It explains the words only by removing the cause of apparent ambiguity, where, in truth, there is no real ambiguity It places

2. the Court which expounds the Will in the situation of the testator who made it

111, Lowell v Wall, 104 L T 85; Great Eastern Ry Co v Bristol Corporation, 87 L J Ch (H L) 417, 424, 428, Samuel v Ofner, (1909) 1 Ch. 61; Selwood v Mildmay, 3 Ves 306 "The general rule is that, in construing a Will the Court is entitled to put himself in the position of the testator and to consider all material facts and circumstances known to the testator with reference to which he is to be taken to have used now in the Will, and then to declare what is the intention evidenced by the words used with reference to those facts and circumstances which were (or ought to have been) in the mind of the testator when he used those words" Per Blackburn J in Allgood v. Blake, L R 8 Ex 160, Re Skillen (1916) 1 Ch 518, River Wear Commissioners v Adamson, 47 L J Q B 193, Harrison v Higson, (1894) 1 Ch 561 In Boyes v Cook, 14 Ch D 53 (56) James L J used the following expression 'You may place yourself, so to speak in his (testator's) arm chair" Charter v Charter, L R 7 H L 364 (377) The object in all cases is to discover the intention of the testator The first and most obvious mode of doing this is to read his Will as he has written it and collect his intention from his words But as the words refer to facts and circumstances respecting his property and his family, and others whom he names or describes in his Will, it is evident that the meaning and application of his words cannot be ascertained without all those facts and circumstances" Per Lord Abinger in Doe d Hiscocks v Hiscocks, 5 M & W. 363 (367), see also Bernasconi v [illegible] 100, 25 C 112 (124), Paton v [illegible] 2 Ch 314; Bhagabutty v [illegible] akram, 14 B L R 226=2 I [illegible] : Sher Bahadur v. Ganga Buks [illegible] v Hemangini, 36 C 1, Mathur [illegible] 7 A 198; Sukram v Ka [illegible] s 973=24 M L J 418, Meka [illegible] a testator's, knowledge or acquaintance is also important In the words of Lord Cairns L C in Craven v Errington, 3 L T 338 (339), "In construing the Will of the testator we should put ourselves as far as we can in the position of the testator and interpret his expressions as to persons and things with reference to that degree of knowledge of those persons and things which so far as we can discover, the testator possessed' See also In re Vaughan, (1901) 17 T L R 278; Martain v Harding, (1907) 1 Ch 465 But this proposition must be accepted with severa[illegible] the Will The meanin[illegible] cannot [illegible] ill was [illegible]

but where a testator has left no uncertainty as to the person to be benefited or the property by which the benefit is to be conferred, then the Courts are precluded from going outside the actual words used by the testator. Judges should not, ... ambiguity in its ... enquiry into those ... 30; Lakshmibai v. ... R 71, Kulsambai ... v. Bamasundari, 12 M I A 11;

... Sheuakram, 14 B L R 26, Radha v Ram, 85 ... 19 C L J 563 (P. C.)

...

the parties enjoyed when the contract was executed, and in that view, they are entitled to place themselves in the same situation as the parties who made the contract, so as to view the circumstances as they viewed them, and so to judge the meaning of th... the language to the things described ... d States, 107 U S 437 (Am); Burr J ... Tindal C J in Att Gen v Shore, 11 Sim 592, 616, "The General rule I take it to be, is that where words of any written instrument are free from ambiguity in themselves, and ...

... elves; and that, in such case evidence dehors the instrument, for the purpose of explaining it according to the surmised or alleged intention of the parties to the instrument, is utterly inadmissible If it were otherwise, no lawyer would be ... nor any party in ... the clearest title ... rticular meaning ... in making the instrument or of the objects he meant to take benefit under it, might be set up to contradict or vary the plain language of the instrument itself. The true interpretation, however of every instrument being manifestly that which will make the instrument speak the intention of the party at the time it was made, it has always been considered as an exception, or perhaps, to speak more precisely, not so much an exception from, as a corollary to, the general rule above stated, that, where any doubt arises upon the true sense and meaning of the words themselves, or any difficulty as to their application under the surrounding circumstances, the sense and meaning or the language may be investigated and ascertained by evidence dehors the instrument itself, for both reason and common sense agree, that by no other means can the language of the instrument be made to speak the real mind of the party Such investigation does, of necessity, take place in the interpretation of instruments written in fore... se of time ... a different ... ses where ... instances ...

common meaning, ha... idiomatic meaning, ... dwelling, or in the pa... he passed his life ... cases of the descrip... detailed" Wigmore § 2461 So in order to construe a term in a written instrument where it is used in a sense differing from its ordinary meaning, evidence is admissible to prove the peculiar sense in which the parties understood the word; but it is not admissible to contradict or vary what is plain" Per Lord Chelmsford, in Beacon, L. & F, Ass Co 1 Moore P. C 73, 98

2, It is frequently neces ary, in order to construe written instrument to receive evidence of other accompanying facts than those which serve to apply the instrument to the subject matter or the person intended Under some ... of the parties, but their acts, ... facts it other terms than those are to ... e not only the relations of the ... property, but also the acts of the ... means of showing their ... d Worsted Co, 2 Cush ... under a lease as to ... or lessee, parol evidence of the subsequent dealings of the parties ... The purpose for which such evidence is received must always be borne in mind—to elucidate the meaning of the words used and not to import into the writing an unexpressed intention and in its admission, the line, which separates evidence which aids the ... from direct evidence of intention ... in view,—the duty of the ... ritten in the instrument not ... 3; 2 Phill Ev 277 : Greenl ... not admissible for the purpose of ... the parties Balkishen Das ... this section that ... iven in evidence, ... still a mortgage ... section excludes ... ence of conduct ... turn was due to ... v Hiras Mollah, ... d by s 92 of the Evidence Act (with which the provisions ... Act might be considered) from relying upon the evidence furnished by their conduct, which ... neraneous agreement, for the purpose of varying ... and out sale ... dar, 5 C ... missible ... note of ... ither per ... nsactions ... 864, 879 ... is really ... gomastah in favour of B ... ta Subia of B Suboodra v Ram Ruttan, Marsh 3=1 Hay ... ; ... 21 M 45=18 M L J 1 Parol evidence is admissible to prove ... transaction between the parties to a written ... R 515 An obscure pottah can be elucidated ... Urpoopoorna, 9 W R 566 But this proviso ... importing into a letter an acknowledgment which is not contained in it even by implication ... 84 Where the document is silent as to interest ... subsequent conduct is not barred as between ... 1929 Mad 590

... efendant ... gage of a ... mortgage ... two garhs of the taluka were ... m for decision was whether ... rhs were also mortgaged to ... the plaintiffs ... ble under section 92(6) and section 98 of the Evidence Act, because it showed how the plaint document was related to existing facts and because the nature of the land tenures was a special matter which could not be stated off hand but required to be elucidated by a reference to the particular fact. Raja Gour Chandra v. Rajah Muhunda Deb, 9 C. W. N 710 Where a mortgage-bond

L R 768

The short exposition of the whole matter is, that the knowledge of the external circumstances of which their proof puts the Courts in possession, places the Judge in the position of the donor settler, or other party to the instrument, and it is upon the survey which that position affords him, that he exercises the office of an expositor Goodeve Ev 389 But contemporaranea expositio as a guide to the interpretation with danger and great care must be taken

Lakshmairao, 16 C W N 1058 (P C) =

17 C L J 17=36 B 639 (P C) In Macdon

(Eng) the question arose on a c the subject of purchase, was no

'Your wool" The contract was to purchase—"Your wool, 16 per another letter of the offer, and evidence was received to fix the quantity, the subject of the bargain "I am quite clear" said Lord Cambell, C J, "from the letters which were put in at the trial that there was a contract between the parties An offer was made, and was accepted, and the only question is as to the subject matter of the contract I am clearly of opinion that when a specific thing is the subject of a contract and it is doubtful upon the contract what the

The defendant says, I will buy your wool Now it is the universal practice t-matter of a contract, as no Judge defendant had been employed by the plaintiffs, who were tradesmen, as a traveller to solicit custom for them, over certain districts in which their commercial connection lay, and he having afterwards left their service, and travelled for other parties, contrary to his agreement with them they sued him on his agreement, which was in writing, to recover damages The agreement, however, was imperfect on its face, and it becoming necessary to explain the meaning of its expressions "your employ" and "the ground that defendant was to travel" parol evidence in explanation, though objected to was admitted Earle C J said "I am of opinion that the parol evidence is admissible in order to apply the contract to the matter in question It is not to alter or vary it The paroll evidence is admissible to show the circumstances under which the words were used" In the same case Byles J said "It does not appear from the face of the document what the employment was It does not appear what the 'ground' was The subject therefore, requires to be identified The contract is to be

2. is not admissible for the purpose of contradicting the terms of a document, but they may ... only for the ... of ascertaining and giving effect to the ... document itself Narasingeerji ... han Rai v Chalown Singh, ... plain, straightforward docume... in what manner the language of the document related to existing facts There may be cases where such extrinsic evidence is required and it will therefore be admitted But it can only be in such cases where the terms of the documents themselves require explanation and then evidence can be led within the restrictions laid down by proviso 6 to section 92 of the Evidence Act. Where a document has stood more than fifty years it is extremely undesirable to allow evidence to be led to show that the document is not what it appears to be on the face of it Ganpatrao v Tukaram 44 B 710=22 Bom L R 831=58 Ind Cas 576 Where a vend... agrees to sell land to several named persons and in drawing up the agreeme... of sale the name of one person is mentioned and without naming the rest th... word 'others' is used, there is nothing in the Evidence Act to prevent th... evidence from being let in a ... conveyance to be executed Veda Murthi ... W... 185=(1922) Mad 100 Whe... ...tity an... extent of the land leased, the Court cannot look at the correspondence th... preceded the lease Sital Prosad v Badri Prosad, 20 A L J 907=L R 3 A... 623 Where a promissory note recited that interest at the rate of 1¼ p c w... payable but it was not mentioned there as to whether the rate of intere... aforesaid will be per mensem or per annum Held, the document was therefor... ambiguous and under this proviso, no evidence could be given to clear up th... ambiguity Sarju v Sukhi 4 Pat L T 577 In an action for a declaratio... that certain alluvial accretions formed part of settled land antecedent document... are admissible under this proviso for the purpose of identifying the propert... demised but not for contracting the terms of the settlement Tilakdhari v Kesho 88 Ind Cas 103=27 Bom L R 819=48 M L J 611 (P C)=41 C L J 386 (P C) If in a deed of mortgage, the boundaries of the land mortgage... they should generall... the deed Nga Clo v ... A contract reduced t... ument itself, with onl... such extrinsic evidence of the circumstances as may be required to show th... relation of the written language to existing fact Ebrahim Goolam v A M Chetty 36 Ind Cas 597 Where the question is whether certain properties ar... indeed in the trust deed the conduct of the parties can be looked into i... construing the meanings of the expressions used therein Subramania v Rajeswar, 40 M 1016=38 Ind Cas 627 Where a deed of transfer raises a... ambiguity as to the nature of interest in the property it purports to convey extrinsic evidence (including evidence as to the course of dealing with th... proper... Mannulal ... 52 In ... Vol II ... 359 ... unde... this p... ...lati v Venka... I R 1925 P C 75 foll... ...ing circum... stances which will sho... relate... to existing facts is ... 101 Ind Cas 736 In the case of a registered mortgage deed, oral evidence cannot be let in that the property really meant as security is other than what appears in th... deed Musi Karim v Haji Mutasaddi, 90 Ind Cas 841 Oral evidence to show that one of the executants of a bond was to be regarded only as a surety is inadmissible in view of section 92 Radha v Durga, A I R 1932 Cal. 323=59 C... 106 Where at the time of the sale by the Government of a certain estate some ... ...fication the ... the lat... ...ming any ... 16...–... ...ntify the thing referred to in a written agreement, as for instance, in a contract to deliver a quantity or grain (galla) at particular time, parol evidence is admissible under certain restrictions to show what kind of grain the contracting parties had in their view at the time the contract was made Valla v. Sidoji, 5 B H A C 87. Where a mortgage deed does not indicate by name the property mortgaged, evidence may be adduced to prove what property was mortgaged Ramlal v Harrison, 2 A 832.

Illustrations Illustration (a)—This illustration is based on Western v. Fines, 1 Taunt 115.

Illustration (b)—This illustration relates to proviso (3); vide also Ramjiban v Ojhur Nath, 2 C W N 188

Illustration (c)—"So where a deed conveyed the messuage and land called Gotton farm, consisting of particulars specified in a schedule, and delineated in a map drawn thereon, evidence that a close, not included in the map and schedule had always been occupied and treated as part of Gotton farm rejected' Taylor § 1152 citing, Barton v Dawes, 10 Com B 261; Llewellyn v Ld Jersay, 11 M & W. 183

Illustration (d)—Vide proviso (1)

Illustration (e)—Vide proviso (1)

Illustration (f)—Vide proviso (2)

Illustration (g)—Vide proviso (2)

Illustration (h)—Vide proviso (2)

Illustration (i)—Vide proviso (3); Srimal v Naresh A I R 1932 P. 332 = 13 P. L T 545.

Illustration (j)—Vide proviso (3)

93 When the language used in a document is, on its face, ambiguous or defective, evidence may not be given of facts which would show its meaning or supply its defects.

Exclusion of evidence to explain or amend ambiguous document

Illustrations

(a) A agrees, in writing, to sell a horse to B for Rs 1 000 or Rs 1,500 Evidence cannot be given to show which price was to be given

(b) A deed contains blanks Evidence cannot be given of facts which would show how they were meant to be filled

Two sorts of ambiguities according to Lord Bacon 'There be two sorts of ambiguities of [illegible] latens, patens is t[illegible] ment; latens is [illegible] that appeareth up[illegible] out [illegible] tas patens is never holpen by [illegible] not couple and mingle ma[illegible] with matter of averment, which is of inferior account in law, for that were to make all deeds hollow and subject to averments and so, in effect, that to pass without deed, which the law appointeth shall not pass but by deed Therefore if a man give land to I D et I S hæredibus,' and do not limit to whether of their heirs, it shall not be supplied by averment to whether of them the intention was the inheritance should be limited But if it [illegible] my manor of S to I F [illegible] upon the deed, but if [illegible] North S, this ambiguity [illegible] averment, whether of t[illegible] Another sort of ambiguit[illegible] spoken of before is, when one name and appellation doth denominate [illegible] things; and the second is, when the same thing is called by divers [illegible] As, if I give lands to Christ Church in Oxford, and the name of the [illegible] is Ecclesia Christi in Universitate Oxford, this shall be holpen by [illegible]

because there appears no ambiguity in the words for the variance is matter in fact But the averment shall not be of the intention, because it does not stand with the words For in the case of equivocation the general intent includes both the special, and therefore stands with the words, but so it is not in variance and therefore the averment must be a matter that doth induce a certainty, and not of intention as to say that the precinct of Oxford and of the University of Oxford is one and the same, and not to say that the intention of the parties was that the grant should be to Christ Church in the University of Oxford Sir Francis Bacon's Maxim, rule XXV (Works, Speding's edition 1861, Vol XIV p 273) Much has been said ' says Dr Schouler of latent and patent ambiguities in this connection, an expression borrowed from Lord Bacon, whose oft quoted cannon, though Wigram and Jarman has disputed it (Wigram Wills p 196, 1 Jar Wills, 429, 430) the Courts do not seem quite ready to discard This cannon regards ambiguities of words as of two sorts—patent and latent, the one where the instrument appears ambiguous, the oth[illegible] breed the ambiguity, since the [illegible] In a patent ambiguity the wr[illegible] in proof with the lower or [illegible] latent ambiguity (which in tr[illegible] to facts and circumstances) [illegible] removed by the same means [illegible] presently find that writings [illegible] rather uncertain) on their face with [illegible] such explanatory proof to make their [illegible] as we have just seen the latent ambigu[illegible] alike by merely explanatory proof, or [illegible]tter And again by ambiguity the idea is conveyed that words are capable of more senses than one but the use of extrinsic evidence must be taken in a broader sense and applied [illegible] all where it is insens[illegible] The argument mor[illegible] or equal quality [illegible] antedating as it doe[illegible] modern policy of [illegible] were good but practice carried the force of his rule beyond his own examples and his distinction of patent and latent though convenient in some respects can hardly serve as a criterion For in every case, as Mr Jarman has truly [illegible] entitled to be placed, [illegible] as possible in the [illegible] Our Courts to day [illegible] are patent where the uncertainty arises upon the words of the Will before any attempt is made to apply them to the object which they describe and parol evidence is not admissible to explain such ambiguities, but is admissible in case of a latent ambiguity whereon supplying the Will to the subject matter it is uncertain what is its meaning So extrinsic evidence may be admissible to determine the existence of latent ambiguities in the Will Schouler's Law of Wills § 925

[illegible] 's rule as to [illegible]ing, although [illegible] by Ballurst [illegible] present day [illegible] the general [illegible] not [illegible] the [illegible] to [illegible] been quoted in this [illegible] that "We sho[illegible] [illegible] philosopher if [illegible] be a complete disse[illegible] [illegible]pre-tation of legal [illegible]ame-diate subject both of the maxim and the commentary, is not evidence but pleading and although no doubt, the pleadings would guide the judge as to the issue upon which evidence would be received, they would not necessarily determine the nature of the evidence admissible upon each issue" (F M Nichols Extrinsic Evidence in the Interpretation of Wills 2 Jurl Soc Pap 35, 376, December, 1860) Phe Treat Ev pp 425—126 So this rule cannot be relied on as a test of admissibility of evidence, for it is still commonly said that parol evidence may not be given to explain a patent ambiguity, yet this is not generally true Watchman v Att Gen (1919) A C 533, Re May (1912) 56 S J 111, Phip Ev 7th Ed p 590

Difference between patent and latent ambiguities A good test of the difference is to put the instrument in the hands of an ordinary intelligent, educated perso ... e is nevertheless an uncertaint ... but if he detects the ambiguity ... Thus in illus tration (b), the ... ould not be filled by parol testimony as to the intention of the parties, etc In the illustration to section 95 no one could detect any ambiguity from merely reading the instrument The ambiguity does not consist in the language, but is introduced by extrinsic evidence Nort Ev 279

Similar law Vide s 81 of the Indian Succession Act, (XXXIX of 19 5)

Principle The province of the Court is to interpret —not to make It is to construe ... others For ... from the na ... of construction, to insert in the blank the property or thing omitted, which of the sons was meant by the gift to one or who was the Lady—this would be to ... mits evidence to explain, it ... ice it is laid down that in case ... Goodeve Ev 392

... ain or unintelligible that they are incapabl ... hell ... to ... deed ... exampl ... Papers ... word ... impossible to comprehend and therefore to enforce cannot be deemed a jural act Wigmore § 2407 But even the above proposition sometimes too broadly advanced must be understood with a certain qualification So far as extrinsic ... r to bring out the ... was framed, there is ... ambiguity is called ... d Abinger in Doe d ...

language may be not only inartistic composition, and that in which it is one of omission of subject ma ... be not only inartistic but confused ... sible, or it may exhibit a capacity ... olution as to ... terms of art or terms otherwise not ordinary rules of legal construction In a medium of total darkness the eye could not exercise its powers of vision and the mind would not be allowed to speculate on what he could not see In the latter case, the instrument may omit the very essence of its intended operation Thus blank may have been left for the subject or person to be dealt with or to take, say—in a deed the property intended to be passed —in a Will the legatee —in a contract the thing bought or if not a total blank what is tantamount to it as in a devise to one of the sons of J S a Lady—without saying what Lady He So parol evidence is in admissible in cas of these two classifications, indeed as beyond that of individual expressions admitting interpretation On the first, beyond assigning a meaning to expression extrinsic evidence could have no bearing, and it is unnecessary to discuss its admissibility From the second it would be excluded Goodeve Ev 391—392 ting is required by law If no writing is requir incomplete that its meaning cannot be asce case contemplated—it may be disregarded or used as an admi ion, and oral evidence given Markby Ev p 747b A mortgage document was very inartistically drawn up It was ungrammatical and could not be read literally so as to give any clear meaning In order to give the construction contended for by one party or the other some words had either to be supplied or removed Held that there was patent ambiguity in the document and no evidence could be given to supply the defect Ram Ganesh v Rup Narain, 80 Ind Cas 944=L R 5 A 542 Section 93 of the Evidence Act does not prevent evidence being given that the municipal number given in rent receip which is different from the present number of the holding was in fact the old number of the same holding Golstaun v Profulla 36 C W N 583

Rule as laid down in Colpoys v Colpoys In Colpoys v Colpoys, Jacob, 465 Sir William Grant says In the case of a patent ambiguity, that is one appearing on the face of the instrument, as a general rule a reference to matter dehors the instrument is forbidden It must if possible be removed by construction and not by averment. But in many cases this is impracticable where the terms used are wholly indefinite and equivocal and carry on the face of them no certain or explicit meaning, and the instrument furnishes no materials by which the ambiguity thus arising can be removed If in such cases the Court were to reject the only mode by which the meaning could be ascertained viz, the resort to extrinsic circumstances, the instrument must become inoperative and void As a minor evil therefore common sense and the law of England (which are seldom at variance) warrant the departure from the general rule and call in the light of extrinsic evidence The books are full of instances sanctioned by the highest authorities both in Law and Equity Where the person and the thing are designated on the face of the instrument by terms imperfect and equivocal admitting either or no meaning at all by themselves, or of a variety of different meanings referring tacitly or expressly for the ascertainment and completion of the meanings, to extrinsic circumstances it has never been considered an objection to the reception of the evidence of those circumstances th t the ambiguity was patent ... of the instrument ... istian name is ... that evidence ... t is ambiguous it has different meanings when used by a farmer and a merchant So, with a bequest of jewels, if by a nobleman, it would pass all; but if by jeweller, it would not pass those that he had in his shop Thus the same expressions may vary in meaning according to the circumstances of the testator ' See also G W Ry Co v Bristol Cor 87 L J Ch H L 414, 429 So not only in the case of an ancient deed or other document but also in the case of a modern document in which there is a latent ambiguity evidence may be given of user under it to show the sense in which the parties to it used the language which they have employed and their intention in executing the instrument as revealed by their language interpreted in this sense Such evidence can also be adduced for the same or a similar purpose where the ambiguities in the language of the instrument is patent and not latent as for instance where the description by boundaries, of the property granted by the instrument conflicts with the description by acreage Watcham v A G, (1919) A. C. 533=(1918) 87 L J Pr Cr 150 S. 9.

Mr Starkie's classification of patent ambiguities "By patent ambiguity ... principle on which the rule is founded is, that the intention of the parties should be construed, not by vague evidence of their intentions, independently of the expressions which they have thought fit to use, but by the expressions themselves Now those expressions which are incapable of any legal construction and interpretation by the rules of art, are either so because they are in themselves unintelligible, or because being unintelligible, they exhibit a plain and obvious uncertainty In the first instance the case admits of two varieties; the terms, though at first sight unintelligible, may yet be capable of having a meaning annexed to them by extrinsic evidence, just as if they were written in a foreign language, as when mercantile terms are used, which amongst mercantile men bear a distinct and definite meaning, although others do not comprehend them: the term used may on the other hand, be capable of no distinct and definite interpretation Now, it is evident that to give effect to an instrument, the terms of which though apparently ambiguous are capable of having a distinct and definite meaning annexed to them, is no violation of the general principle, for in such a case effect is given, not to any loose conjecture as to the intent and meaning of ... where either ... or being in ... are equally ... sic evidence ... d intention ... By patent ambiguity, therefore must be understood an inherent ambiguity, which cannot be removed either by the ordinary rules of legal construction or by the application of extrinsic and explanatory evidence, showing that expressions prima facie unintelligible are yet capable of conveying a certain and definite meaning." Starkie on Evidence p 653

Blanks and ambiguities "A document may be void for intrinsic indefiniteness of terms, or it may be, though definite impossible to enforce extrinsically, because there are no objects existing upon which its terms can operate These are simple principles, well established in their sphere; but in concrete application both of them require discrimination from the foregoing principle concerning equivocations Is a blank space an equivocation? It certainly fits two or more objects equally, and where it represents merely an insufficient term in an attempted description it may be treated as an equivocation, because the writer has fixed upon an object, but his words do not carry the description far enough On the other hand, where a blank space represents a failure to make a final expression of will, the act is incomplete, to supply declarations of intention would be to set up a rival Will; there can be no interpretation, for there is nothing to interpret It therefore depends on the particular do u... In Bayl... "to th... ... st, 'by month... was held to be ... Mourmand v ...

' this is only that th...
Page, 4 Ves Jr. 6 ...

93. L R 2 P D 66 (69) where an executor named as Percival of Brighton Esq the father" applied to William Percival Boxall who ...
Wigmore § 2473
legatee or devise and the principle
or thing being be ... to give to—£1 000 leaves therefore no one who can claim the legacy, and to give to A B— leaves nothing to be claimed as a legacy, and in either case the testator likely enough had never resolved upon a gift definitely, though turning it over in his mind as to the subject or object Miller v Traverse 2 Atk 239 ...
1 Jarm Wills 441 But partial blanks may construction not perhaps by direct parol

... be identified, and so too ... was given to A and other of £700 to B a third legacy of 600 to C might well be supposed to mean six hundred pounds Upon partial blanks on the other hand which leave the sense defective, no valid gift can be based Mason v Bateson 26 Beav 404 And if besides a blank there is an uncertain description the Will becomes doubly inoperative Gill v C (1909) P 157, Hubbuck s Estate (1905) P 129, Harby v Wall 1 B & All 103 Moreover a devise or bequest, wholly omitted by mistake is not to be inserted in a Will (Newbough's Case 5 Madd 364) yet some partial omission might not exclude a sensible constr... extr...

... as Re 1 per cent per month and that it was due to a clerical mistake that the words per cent had been omitted from the mortgage deed Held that it was not a case of patent ambiguity as is contemplated by s 93 of the Evidence Act Pari Bhorosay v Janki A I R 193 Oudh 95=125 Ind Cas 175 This rule is not applicable where the amount of legacy is expressed by ...

Extrinsic evidence Mr Wigram lays down the following proposition Where the words of a Will aided by evidence of material facts of the case are insufficient to determine the testator s meaning no evidence will be admissible to prove what the testator intended and the Will (except in certain special cases See Prop VII) will be void for uncertainty (Proposition VI—Vide Wigram p 91) This proposition has been quoted by Lord Russell C J in Re Stephens (1897) 1 Ch 79 and is there well founded It establishes the right of every claimant under a Will to bring under the view of the Court, which is to expound it every material fact to which the Will expressly or tacitly refers, it establishes that Courts of law recognise that natural dependence which exists between language and the circumstances necessary to a right interpretation of the language, and consequently that a reference to such circumstances in expounding a Will is strictly consistent with the office simply of determining the meaning of the testator s words But if the testator s words aided by the light derived from the circumstances with reference to which they are used do not express the intention ascribed to him evidence to prove the sense in which he intended to use them is, as a general proposition inadmissible—in other words— that the judgment of a Court ...

S.

by ... e private instructions given to hi... a v Haridas, 17 Bom. L R 116 ... Choudhury v Nalin Chandra, 14 ... sued on a handnote executed by him in favour of the respondent for the sum of Rs 380 ' with interest at 2½ per cent', the stipulation as to interest stopping short at the rate and there being nothing expressly stated in the document as to whether the interest should be calculated annually or monthly or otherw... that the words used meant that the intere... Court observed 'In Mahomed Samsoodeen ... 379, it was held by this Court that where a note of hand promised repayment of a loan with interest at 5 per cent, without stating either per mensem or per annum, the construction that interest must be calculated without reference to time was contrary to all practice and the ambiguity was one which might fairly be explained by previous transactions between the parties and by custom This case, if it is any authority at all, is obviously in point, but, as the learned vakil for the Appellant has pointed out it was decided before the enactment of the Indian Evidence Act We believe however, that the Evidence Act made no change whatever in the law on the subject and we are of opinion that there is no sufficient reason for coming to a different decision in this case In our view the words 2½ per cent in the bond before us clearly means 2½ per cent per mensem.' See also Mohamed v Zafar 62 Ind Cas 702, Indro Deb v Asgar, 16 C W N 957, Bissessur v. Bhagban 5 A W N 41 In Protal Chandra Sha v Mohammad Ali Sircar, 19 C L J 67 = 41 C 312, a kabuliyat recited that interest would be paid by the tenant upon rent in arrears at the rate of one anna per rupee It did not expressly state whether interest at the rate was payable monthly or annually The only point in that case was whether evidence could be given as to what was intended In holding that under sections 92 and 93 of the Evidence Act oral evidence is not admissible to show the intention of the

before the Indian Evidence Act was placed in the Statute book . . It may be pointed out, however, that evidence of previous transactions between the parties or of the custom of the country may be admissible for a limited purpose, Thus to take one illustration—it has been held that evidence may be allowed to be given in anticipation of some obvious defence, for instance, evidence of prior parties entered into this contract of tenancy they agreed that the interest would blanks Evidence cannot be given of facts which would show how they were dant denies his liability on the ground that he signed the document as an attesting witness, oral evidence to prove that the defendant was executant and hence liable under the terms of the contract was held to be admissible Muhammad v Jaichand, A. I. R 1930 All 700.

val of Brighton Esq nswered the description ill for the name of a competent to fill it up relates to the subject )00" leaves therefore no one who can claim the legacy; and to give "to A. B—" leaves nothing to be claimed as a legacy; and in either case the testator likely enough had never resolved upon a gift definitely, though turning it over in his mind, as to the subject or object Miller v Tra ... Drew 19 1 Jarm Wills 441 But partia construction, not, perhaps by but at all events, where the co ... Will sensible ...
d so too legacy of six hundred pounds Upon parti sense defective, no valid gift can be based Mason v Bateson 26 Beav 404 And if, besides a blank, there is an uncertain description, the Will becomes doubly inoperative Gill v Gill (1909) P 157, Hubbucl s Estate (1905) P 129, Harby v Wall 1 B & All 103 Moreover, a devise or bequest, wholly omitted by mistake is not to be inserted in a Will (Newboogh's Case, 5 Madd 364), yet some partial omission might not exclude a sensible construction of the gift with the aid of term indicating the identity employs an uncertain term Ky 80 The Court may go further and where a person is partially described as beneficiary, but the the description
5) P 129=92 L. was found that the rate of interest agreed upon was Re 1 per cent per month and that it was due to a clerical mistake that the words "per cent" had been omitted from the mortgage deed Held that it was not a case of patent ambiguity as is contemplated by s 93 of the Evidence Act Ram Bhorosay v Janki, A I R 1930 Oudh 95=125 Ind Cas 175 This rule is not applicable where the amount of legacy is expressed by cypher (Kell v Charmer, 23 Beav. 195), nor when property is conveyed by inconsistent description (Both v Ratte, 15 App Cas 183) Where there is a discrepancy between sums expressed in words and figures the former will prevail Saundessar v Piper, 5 Bing N 525, Phip Ev 591

Extrinsic evidence Mr Wigram lays down the following proposition "Where the words of a Will aided by evidence of material facts of the case, are insufficient to determine the testator's meaning no evidence will be admissible to prove what the testator intended and the Will (except in certain special case See Prop VII) will be void for uncertainty (Proposition VI—Vide Wigram
... In Re Stephenson
ht of every to expound establishe that Courts of law recognise that natural dependence which exists between language and the circumstances necessary to a right interpretation of the language ... in expound ing a W ... ermining the meaning ... y the light derived ... used, do not express t ... n which he ... er words—larators of his Will private to trustee no 1, out of the trustees, appointed by me, my trustees should entrust to Haridas Rs 5 000 that may be received from my life policy and the shares of Tata & Co also should be transferred to the person whose name will be disclosed by Hardas." The evidence of Hardas as to the private instructions given to him by the testator was held admissible Bagibai v Hardas, 17 Bom. L R 115 =27 Ind Cas 916=40 B 1 In Manmotha Nath Choudhury v Nabin Chandra, 14 C W N 1100=14 C L J 97, the appellant sued on a handnote executed by him in favour of the respondent for the sum of Rs 350 with interest at

379, it was held by this Court that where a note of hand promised repayment of a loan with interest at 5 per cent without stating either per mensem or per annum, the construction that interest must be calculated without reference to time was contrary to all practice and the ambiguity was one which might fairly be explained by previous transactions between the parties and by custom This case, if it is any authority at all, is obviously in point; but, as the learned vakil for the Appellant has pointed out it was decided before the enactment of the Indian Evidence Act We believe however, that the Evidence Act made no change whatever in the law on the subject and we are of opinion that there is no sufficient reason for coming to a different decision in this case In our view the words 2½ per cent' in the bond before us clearly means 2½ per cent per mensem ' See also Mohamed v. Zafar, 62 Ind Cas 702, Indro Deb v Asutur, 16 C W N 957, Bissessur v. Bhagban 5 A W N 41 In Protab Chandra Sha v. Mohammad Ali Sircar, 19 C L J 67=41 C 312, a kabuliyat recited that interest would be paid by the tenant upon rent in arrears at the rate of one anna per rupee It did not expressly state whether interest at the rate was payable monthly or annually The only point in that case was whether evidence could be given as to what was intended In holding that under sections 92 and 93 of the Evidence Act oral evidence is not admissible to show the intention of the parties Mr Justice Mookerjee said "In view of the provisions of sections 92 and 93 of the Indian Evidence Act, it is plain that oral evidence was not admissible to show what was intended by be payable at the rate of 1 anna per rupee per month blanks Evidence cannot be given of facts which would show how they were meant to be filled" See also Ram Ganesh v Rup Narain, A I R 1925 All. 34=80 Ind Cas 944, Sorju v Sukhu, 4 P L T 577

Where a lease is ambiguous, evidence of user under it may be given in order to show the sense in which the parties used the language and their intention in executing

Prasanna v Ma

Watcham v Att

dant denies his attesting witness

hence liable unde mad v Jaichand, A I R 1930 All 100.

L R 2 P D 66 (69), ... Percival of Brighton E... the father" applied ... ho answered the de... he Will for the name of a ... Wigmore § 2473 The resolved upon a gift definitely, though turning it over in his mind, as to subject or object Miller v Traverse, 2 Atk 239, Taylor v Richardson 2 Drew 19 1 Jarm Wills 441 But partial blanks may in a suitable case, be supplied construction, not, perhaps by direct parol evidence of what the testator intend but at all events where the context, with or without the aid of extrinsic cir stances, supplies a definite thing or per ... a legacy to "Mr B , or to 'John or to ... where one legacy of ... "600' to C, might ... unds Upon ... blanks on the other ... no valid gift can be based Mason ... sides a blank there is ... operative Gill v G ... y v Wall 1 B & Ald ... by mistake is not ... 361), yet some partial ... he gift with the ... of ... uncertain term of the devisee extrinsic ... The Court may such evidence is admiss ... due to a clerical mistake that the words "per cent" had been omitted ... mortgage deed ... as is contem plated by s 93 ... A I R 193 Oudh 95 = 125 ... re the amount of legacy is exp ... 19... nor when property ... 15 App Ca ... 183) ... nd figures the forr ... 91

Extrinsic evidence Mr Wigram lays down the following proposition "Where the words of a Will aided by evidence of material facts of the case, are insufficient to determine the testator's meaning no evidence will be admiss... to prove what the testator intended and the Will (except in certain special case See Prop VII) will be void for uncertainty (Proposition VI—Wigram p 91) This proposition has been ... In Re Stephen (1897) 1 Ch 79 and is there we ... every claimant under a Will to bring ... expound it every material fact to which th ... between that Courts of law recognise t ... of the language and the circumstances necessary to a right interpretation ... language ... in expound ing a ... determining the meaning ... by the ... derived ... are ... express ... in which ... words— ... laratory of ... his Will ... entrust ... shares of ... & Co al o should be transferred to the person whose name will be ...

e private instructions given to S. ar v Harilas, 17 Bom. L R 115 Choudhury v Nabin Chandra, sued on a handnote executed by him in favour of the respondent for the sum of Rs 350 with interest at 2½ per cent the stipulation as to interest stopping short at the rate and there being nothing expressly stated in the document as to whether the interest should be calculated annually or monthly or otherw that the words used meant that the intere Court observed In Mahomed Samsoodeen 379 it was held by this Court that where a note of hand promised repayment of a loan with intertest at 5 per cent without stating either per mensem or per annum the construction that interest must be calculated without reference to time was contrary to all practice and the ambiguity was one which might fairly be explained by previous transactions between the parties and by custom This case, if it is any authority at all, is obviously in point, but, as the learned vakil for the Appellant has pointed out it was decided before the enactment of the Indian Evidence Act We believe however, that the Evidence Act made no change whatever in the law on the subject and we are of opinion that there is no sufficient reason for coming to a different decision in this case In our view the words 2½ per cent in the bond before us clearly means 2½ per cent per mensem See also Mohamed v Zafar 62 Ind Cas 702, Indro Deb v Asmar, 16 C W N 957, Bissessur v. Bhagban 5 A W N 41 In Protal Chandra Sha v Mohammad Ali Sircar, 19 C L J 67=41 C 31? a kabuliyat recited that interest would be paid by the tenant upon rent in arrears at the rate of one anna per rupee It did not expressly state whether interest at the rate was payable monthly or annually The only point in that case was whether evidence could be given as to what was intended In holding that under sections 92 and 93 of the Evidence Act oral evidence is not admissible to show the intention of the parties Mr Justice Mookerjee said "In view of the provisions of sections 92 and 93 of the Indian Evidence Act, it is plain that oral evidence was not admissible to show what was intended by from the language used by them in Nath v Nabin Chandra, (supra) is re who decided the case did not specify t interpret the instrument, they relie Samsoodeen v Moonshee Abdool (1864 before the Indian Evidence Act was placed in the Statute book It may case before us no such consideration arises because the only evidence upon Extrinsic Evidence when not admissible A district Judge held, that a contract, compensation for breach of which was sued for, was ambiguous on the face of it But he held that evidence was admissible to show the intention of the parties, and he acted upon such evidence Held this was in contravention of section 93 of the Evidence Act and illegal within the meaning of s 622 of the Civil Procedure Code Joman v. Ah Yu, 14 Bur L R 58 Under section 29 of the Contract Act, an agreement is void if its meaning is not certain or capable of being made certain, and under section 93 of the Evidence Act, where the language of a deed is, on its face, ambiguous or defective, no evidence can be given to make it certain Deogil v Pitamber, 1 A 275 Where the terms of a document are ambiguous on the fac ... to prove the intention of the executant A ... ambiguities according to its own not to enforce a contract made by the parties but to make a new contract for them Berket Ram v Ananti Ram, 31 Ind Cas 632; see also Maharastraya v Byjulal 71 Ind Cas 436, Collector of Etwah v Beti Maharani, 14 A 169, Norsingerji v Penanganti, (1921) M N W 819

94. When language used in a document is plain in itself, and when it applies accurately to existing facts, evidence may not be given to show that it was not meant to apply to such facts.

Exclusion of evidence against application of document to existing facts

Illustration

A sells to B by deed, "my estate at Rampur containing 100 bighas' A has an estate at Rampur containing 100 bighas Evidence may not be given of the fact that the estate meant to be sold was one situated at a different place and of a different size Scope of the section "The words of a written instrument must be construed according to ... acting by the ... So far as I ... insisted upon that ... must be construe ... of the instrument itself' ... Hastings, (1900) ... in an instrument ... of the language the parties have deliberately chosen to employ Per Lord Macnaghten in ibid So it is a rule of law that extrinsic evidence is not admissible to alter a written contract, or to show that its meaning is different from what it imports Ram Lochun v Unno Poorna, 7 W R 144 This section embodies the rule of law laid down by Tindal C J in Shore v Wilson, 9 Cl & F 565, where he said 'The general rule I take it to be, is that where the words of any instrument are free from ambiguity in themselves, and where external circumstances do not create any doubt or difficulty as to proper application of these words to claimants under the instrument, or as to the subject matter to which the instrument relates, such instrument is always to be construed according to the the strict, plain, common ... such case, evidence dehors the ... according to the surmised or ... is utterly inadmissible. If it were otherwise, no lawyer would be safe in advising upon the construction of a written instrument, nor any party taking under it, for ablest advice might be co ... at some future period, parol e ... affixed to his words, or of his se ... the objects he meant to take ... vary the plain language of the instrument itself' See also ... La Po Kuai, A I R 1932 P. C 525=63 M L J 418, where it was approved.

In Webb v. Byng, 1 Kay & John. 580 Vice Chancellor Wood said, "The law has become so settled by numerous decisions, as to how far external evidence is admissible, and what that species of evidence must be, that I need only sum up what appears to be the result of the authorities Of course in interpreting any instrument which purports to deal with property, some extrinsic information is necessary, in order to make the words, which are but signs, fit the external things to which those signs are appropriate In reality, external information is requisite in construing every instrument; but when any subject is thus discovered, which not only is within the words of the instrument, according to their natural construction, but exhausts the whole of those words, then the investigation must stop and you are bound to take the interpretation which entirely exhausts the whole of the series of expressions used by the testator, and are not permitted to go any further" So where are the words which your Lordships have to construe, and I confess that it is to my mind absolutely amazing that any one can entertain the smallest doubt as to what those words mean I have read the words by themselves because in my view of the meaning of this instrument, they are to be read by themselves One does not doubt that, where you are construing either a Will or any other instrument, it is perfectly legitimate to look at the whole instrument—and indeed, you must look at the whole instrument—to see the meaning of the whole instrument, and you cannot rely upon one particular passage in it to the exclusion of what is relevant to the explanation of the particular clause that you are expounding" "The true construction of the agreement depends upon the ordinary meaning of the words used, and if those words are plain and

rently understood by the parties themselves and that the omission by the plaintiff and his predecessor for upwards of forty years to claim the rents now sought to be recovered is cogent evidence that such was the case I grant that if the clause were capable of this construction, one of which supports, and the other of which would defeat the claim, the omission would afford irresistible proof that the latter was the interpretation intended by the parties No such ambiguity, however, exists, and it seems therefore to me that, in the absence of any proof to the contrary it must be assumed that the parties knew and understood the language they were using and that in executing the agreement containing that clause they were truly expressing their intentions, and are bound by the writing they have signed Why the agreement was so framed—what were the considerations which induced it—and why the claim was so long allowed to sleep are mere matters of speculation, but one has no right to act upon speculation to set aside a deed or agreement which is on the face of it clear and definite" So a Court must construe a deed according to the plain, ordinary meaning of its terms, and must not import words into it from any conjectural view of its intention, which would have the effect of materially changing the nature of the estate thereby created Mussamat Bhagubutti v Choudhry Bholanath, 2 I A 256=1 C 101, Millard v Bailey, 1 Eq 378; Gibson v Minet, 1 H Bl 615 In cases contemplated by this section there is intention of the makers of instrument, which must be gathered from the words they have used where those words are definite and unambiguous, and the Court must not travel outside the words used to found or confirm speculations as to their having in fact intended something other than what they have said" See also Shambhuset v Sitaram 3 Bom L R 768 Rahim Baksh v Shajad 19 C W N 1311 Midnapore Zamindary v Jogendra, 33 C L J 186 Evidence of the conduct of parties to a document subsequent to its execution is not admissible for the purpose of explaining its meaning Chandra v Seualat A W N 1882, 54

In cases of misdescription oral evidence is admissible Mahabir v Muhommad, 38 A 103=14 A L J 15=32 Ind Cas 174, see also Saboji v Kaicab, 104 Ind Cas 736 Where the dispute is not as to the existing facts but is as to what is intended by the parties to be done by them in future, s 94 does not apply and mutual mistake of fact can be proved Dalip v Dalip, A I R 1930 Lah 446=122 Ind Cas 493 Evidence to prove plaintiff's adoption by the deceased is not inadmissible in evidence under this section on the ground that the language of a document, on which the plaintiff has partly relied but to which he is no party, [illegible] of the fact of such adc[illegible] 57 P L R 1915=27 Inc[illegible] in cases where the words are ambiguous or capable of more than one interpretation that oral evi[illegible] sho Ram v Thakur Das 78 Ind Ca[illegible] given under s 97 proviso (6) where [illegible] applies accurately to existing facts G[illegible] Mahabir v Marsiat ulla 38 A 103

Document is plain in itself A written instrument is not ambiguous because an ignorant and uninformed person is unable to interpret it. It is ambiguous only, if found to be of uncertain meaning when persons of competent [illegible] 189 It must [illegible] "that a Will [illegible] If it is finally [illegible] meaning not [illegible] ng judicially at [illegible] deration, it is determined judicially that no interpretation can be given to it This dictum was quoted with approval by Lord Davy in Higgins v Dawson (1902) A C 1 at p 10

Intention Two opposing theories are maintained as to the object of interpretation The first and by far the most widely held asserts that the question is not what the writer meant but simply what is the meaning of his words Phip Ev [illegible] p 683 It is not the duty of a Court of Justice to search for the testator's meaning otherwise than by fairly interpreting the words he has used' Per Lord Cranworth in Abbot v Middleton, 7 H L C 68. In Doe d Brodlett v Thomson 12 Moo P C 116, Turner L J observed 'It is upon intention either expressly declared or collected by just reasoning upon the terms of the instrument or evidenced by [illegible] circumstances can be called in [illegible] Lordships feel bound to proceed' [illegible] instruments must be to ascertain the e[illegible] writer, the expressed meaning being equiva[illegible] in Shore v Wilson 9 Cl & F 575 [illegible] construction of written instruments, is not what was the intention of the parties, but what is the meaning of the words they have used' Per Lord Denham in Hickman v Cartairs, 5 B & Ald 663 see also Doe d Templeman v Marten, 4 B & Ad 783, Grant v Grant L R 5 C P 731, Grey v Pearson, 6 H L C 106, G W Ry Co, v Bristol, 87 L J Ch H L 419 424, 428, Lovell v Wall 104 L T 85, C A, per Holmes in 12 Harv L Rev 417 418 Smith v Lucas 18 Ch D 531, Ingham v Taynor, (1891) 2 Ch. 83, Sanatun v Joggut, 8 M I A 66, Scale v Rawlings, (1892) A C 342, Srinibas v Monmohini, 3 C L J 224, Aghore v Kamini, 11 C L J 461, Mary Wilson v George Lakes, 31 M 283, Dinabai v Nusserwanji 22 C W N 199=49 I A 323=49 C 1060 (P C), Okeymonee v Nilmony, 15 C 282, Advocate

General of Bombay v Hormusji 29 B 375; Babu v Sitaram, 3 Bom L R 768; S. President v Chilakaman, (1911) 2 M W N 238; Velappa v Palani, (1915) M. W. N 325=29 Ind Cas 201; Manmatha v. Probodh, 37 C L J 52 "As
...us to say
..., for the rule laid ordinary
...id to have
...e Courts,
...gal minds
...ained are accustomed to jump at a conclusion as to what a person means by considering what they, under similar circumstances, think they would have done This is conjecture only, and conjecture on the imperfect knowledge of the circumstances of the case, because the facts known to the testator may not all be before them, and the testator's mind, as regards the attention to be paid to the claims of different parties dependent upon him, may not have been constituted as their minds are constituted, so that it cannot be concluded that he would have acted in the same way as they We therefore must construe the Will as we should construe any other document, subject to this, that in Wills, if the intention is shown it is not necessary that the technical words which are necessary in some instruments should be used for the purpose of giving effect to it' Per Cotton L J. in Ralph v Carrick, 11 Ch D 873 (878)=48 L J Ch 801 The second regards the intention of the writer as the chief object of concern, and the mere grammatical and lexicographical meaning of the words as not strictly interpretation at all, since it is only (it is said) after the meaning of the words has been ascertained as has failed to explain the meaning of the writer, that interpretation properly so called begins,—i e, that the gap left by the partial failure of language to express the intention has to be filled by an inquiry into other indications thereof Phip Ev 7th Ed 583. Indeed, that the object cannot be to 7th Ed 583 See also Doe v Hiscocks 5 M & W 363, River Wear Commrs v Adamson, 2 App Cas 743, 763 In the last mentioned case Lord Blackburn said: "In all cases the object is to see what is the intention expressed by the words used But, from the imperfection of language it is impossible to know what that intention is without enquiring further, and seeing what the circumstances were with reference to which the words were used, and what was the object appearing from these circumstances which the person using them had in view, for the meaning of the ...

they were used'
as follows "...
meaning of the put in this or the other meaning of t...
It is not the meaning of the words in the abstract, for the meaning of the words varies according to the circumstances under which they were used, and not the meaning of the writer apart from his words, for the question is one of interpretation, and what he meant to
We must seek, the meaning of the
we must seek the meaning of the as he used them, the meaning which L Rev p 323 cited in Phip Ev 7th Ed 586.

Meaning to be ascertained from the whole document. In Boston v Fitzgerald, (1815) 15 East 530, Lord Ellenborough said "It is a true rule of construction that the sense and meaning of the parties in any part of an instrument may be collected ex antecedentibus et consequentibus every part of it may be brought into action in order to collect from the whole an uniform and consistent sense, if that may be done" See also Damodar Das v. Dayabhai, 23 B 833=25 I A 126=2 C W N 417; Gray v Minnethrope, 3 Ves 105; Re Venn (1904) 2 Ch 52, Kandarpa ... Lakshman v Tarangini, 8 C L J 20; Tagore v ... 359; Kalidas v. Kanhaya Lal, 11 C 121 ... (69); Shookmany ... Lal, 24 C 834=24 I A 76; Mahomed v Shei ... George, 31 M 283, Inderwick v Satchell, (1906), 1 Ir R 649; Brocklebank v Johnson, 20 Beav 213, Key v Key 4 De J M & G 73, Pande v Surja, 25 C W N. 961 (P. C); Grey v Pearson 6 H L Cas 61

Evidence as to document unmeaning in reference to existing facts

95. When language used in a document is plain in itself, but is unmeaning in reference to existing facts, evidence may be given to show that it was used in a peculiar sense.

Illustration.

A sells to B by deed, "my house in Calcutta"

A had no house in Calcutta, but it appears that he had a house at Howrah, of which B had been in possession since the execution of the deed

These facts may be proved to show that the deed related to the house at Howrah Latent ambiguity Sections 95 96 and 97 deal with latent ambiguity These sections correspond ... of 1925) In interpreting a ... the thus laid down by Wigra ... in subject of his disposition ... terms which are applicable indifferently to more than one person or thing evidence is admissible to prove which of the persons or things so described was intended by the testator" Latent ambiguity, in the more ordinary application of the term arises from the existence of facts external to the instrument; and the creation, by those facts, of a question not solved by the document itself ... may afford ... instances of ... open to the ... wever, to this class of cases we now advert, but to those in which the ambiguity is rather that of description, either equivocal itself from the existence of two subject-matters ... ought to bear ... Blackacre, may ... ing two sons ... all would be ... doubt (vide ... could be more ... a gift to my son John" The embarrassment is raised when it is sought to apply to the gift, and then the discovery is made which did not occur to the testator namely, that there are two estates Blackacre, or two sons John In either case accordingly, ... there ... ing ... ns, ... ct- ... ter subject or object in exact correspondence with it, so that it would be uncertain ... Thus, in ... had a ... title v ...)—C. ... red to ... cases which created the uncertainty, and the question which extrinsic circumstances created, extrinsic evidence was admitted to clear up The distinction will be obviously between clearing up an ambiguity, and creating a subject Goodeve Ev pp 395-96

Principle The process of interpretation is a part of the procedure of the completion al must remain empty manifestoes, must be enforced They must be applied to external objects Somewhere possession must be yielded, or goods delivered or money transferred; and in order that the law may enforce these changes in external objects the relation between the terms of the jural act and certain external objects must be determined, as an indispensible part of the process In short, the interpretation of the term of jural act is an essential part of the act considered as capable of legal realization and enforcement The only difference is that the actor alone creates the terms of his act, while the interpretation of it, being a part of the enforcement, comes into the hands of the law Wigmore § 2458 Every agreement must receive its construction from its own terms, without the introduction of any evidence dehors the instrument, unless there be some latent ambiguity" Per Rooke J in Coler v Guy 2 B & P 565, 569, see also the remarks of Lord Eldon in Smith v Doe, 2 B & B 473 (602) But where the words stand in equilibrio, ier there it is ouper in Strode
) "If you go to explain such
C C 335, 341

This section has its origin in the maxim "falsa demonstratio non nocet cum de

1265—66

constr the V out of Salk 234, Lord Holt said depart from the Will to Goodinge v Goodinge, 1 down much too large by Holt, for in several cases it is admitted it must be allowed,—namely, where the description or thing is uncertain, it must be nued by Lord Thurlow, whose ruling in Fonneren v Poyntz, 1 Bro C C 492 was considered a dangerous innovation As late as the beginning of the 1800 s there were Judges who still thought that the only proper exception was an equivocation In Doe v Chichester, 4 Dow 65 93, Gibbs C J said "The Courts of law have been jealous of the admission of extrinsic evidence to explain the intention of a testator; and I know of only one case in which it is permitted that is, where an ambiguity is introduced by extrinsic circumstances" Wigmore § 9470

Application of the Section "The admission of extrinsic circumstances" says Plumber M R cases an exception the instrument wise be removed, a explained" In the sa a latent ambiguity same manner," Th

where the terms of a contract has been reduced to writing, no evidence shall be given in proof of the terms of the contract except the document itself, or, in certain cases, secondary evidence of its contents But this rule is subject to the ... nd 97. Karuppa Gounden v Peria ... 397 Parol evidence is admissible to ... son to whom, a written instrument applies or refers; and for such purpose to explain the latent ambiguities Such parol evidence may be of the surrounding circumstances, or apparently, of statements of intention made by parties to a document. Doe v Needs, 6 L J Ex 59 = Cockle Cas 355 In Doe v Martin, 4 B & Ad 770, 785 Parke J said: "It may be laid down as a general rule that all facts relating to the ... aid in ascertaining ... Court is at liberty to ... ed upon the mind of the persons by whom the deed or will (it matters not whether it was one or the other) was executed The Court therefore has not merely a right, but it is its duty to inquire into the surrounding circumstances, before it can approach the construction of the instrument itself" Sugden L C in Att Gen v Drummond ... nature of the claim ... prove that the claim ... under section 63 of the Contract Act, even though it is conditional and is not supported by consideration Mathew v Lodge, (1910) M W N 191 = 20 M L J 383 A compromise decree provided for interests at 2 per cent and the question arose whether the interest was payable at the rate monthly or annually Held that it was open ... as to the ... Mahamud v ... tract have to ... to be taken ... opolitan Fi ... 305 Where the plaintiff sued for a declaration that he was a mortgagee in possession of certain plots and alleged that the numbers entered in the mortgage deed were incorrect, held, that oral evidence was admissible under ss 95 and 96 of the Evidence Act to prove how the description given in the mortgage deed was relevant to the existing facts Radha Lal v Augue, 16 P C 230 = 21 Ind Cas 429 Where the description of property sold is such that one portion of it applies ... y to a portion ... to the whole ... sic evidence ... e description of the property taken as a whole ... hole house or only a portion of it Abdul Gh ... Ind Cas 442 But where a desc ... and the former part is sufficient to ... the ... the ... bject ... d by ... Where a mortg ... 6607 but it ... bearing Tauzi No 6607 but it was found that the mortgagor owned Tauzi No 9907, held that it was open to the mortgagee to prove by evidence what the property actually mortgaged was and that the mortgagor could not claim any exoneration on the ground of ... 1 Pat L R ... xtrinsic evidence ... transferred the ... nly the mortgage ... mentioned in the deed that the property stood in the Khata of the mortgagor and that there is an indemnity clause cannot justify the contention that only mortgage rights were intended; and if the absence of any assertion in the deed of absolute ownership on the part of the vendor mortgagee makes it possible to hold that the mortgagee's rights were sold, there is a latent ambiguity to remove which evidence can be given, Daulat v Baliram 118 Ind Cas 682 = A I R. 1929 Nag 267. Suit was brought by plaintiff as Receiver appointed under an order of Court with authority to sue defendant for money due to a third party. The money was due under an agreement, dated 26th August, but by mistake the order referred to the money as being due under an agreement of the 25th October Held that the intention of the parties is immaterial in construing the order, and section 95 of the Evidence Act does not apply. Binode Behary v Raj Narain, 30 C. 699 = 7 C W. N 651 Where land with certain boundaries is sold and is wrongly described as containing a certain area, the error is regarded as a mere misdescription and does not vitiate the deed. The maxim demonstratio falsa non nocet applies Where in a sale-deed the land sold is sufficiently identified by the descriptions of its extent and assignment and the name of the registered pattadar, the addition of a wrong survey number may be disregarded and does not render it useless as a document of title Karuppa Gounden v Peria Thambi, 2 M L T 556 = 30 M 397. Under

A. I R 1930 Lah 414

General principle and scope of the section It is not necessary and it is not humanely possible, for the symbols of description which we call words, to describe in every detail the objects designated by the symbols The notion that description is a complete enumeration is an instinctive fallacy which must be got rid of before interpretation can be properly attempted For example, a devise of "the house owned by me at No 19, Theatre Road Calcutta" is obviously a mere shorthand indication of some simple but essential attributes of the house How many stories, rooms, doors, windows, closets, has it ? What is the colour of paper on the respective walls, the kind of carpet on the floors, it with fair certainty from others Certainty in other words, is a relative term, it signifies that the few terms employed are the essential ones for the purpose Had they not been in themselves sufficient, we might even have looked at term, we are to apply the devise to that house Just as we found that the omitted terms were not essential to applying the description, so we may find that some of the inserted terms are not essential We are doing it no violence by ignoring the non essential terms, for neither the omission nor the insertion of non essential terms alters its essence as a whole By conceiving clearly the appreciate that its character as e come to the

The practical is the essential
the description,
Wigmore § 247
n, so far as lies to one only y, 11 H L le of good

y itself would have been correct , 19 W R 276, Tarak v Joy e of falsa demonstratio non nocet it is in lse demonstration appears It is , and qualify what has gone before that case Lindley M R observed 'I must protest against the way in which the doctrine was stated by the applicant's counsel—that the maxim falsa demonstratio non nocet only applies where there is some correct description at the end of the sentence That is whittling away the doctrine and making it ridiculous; it is a misapprehension'

Intention 'As soon as there is an adequate and sufficient definition with convenient certainty of what is intended to pass by a deed, any subsequent erroneous addition will not vitiate it" Per Parke B in Llewellyn v Earl of Jersey, (1843) 11 M & W 183 at p 189 description is treated as mere surplusage utile per inutile non vitiatur (Interpret in the description of legacies, like those be rectified by reference to the terms circumstances taken together William's

Application of the maxim in different classes of cases According to Mr s (1) where an plication to any inning v Crans toun 7 M & W 1; (2) where there is a complete description, but the testator goes on to add words for the purpose of identifying or elaborating the previous description, these words, if inconsistent with the previous description may be rejected Armstrong v Buckland, 18 Beav 204, Sligsby v Grainger, 7 H L 273; Travers v Blundell 6 Ch D 436; (3) where there is no continuous description, and there is something answering to part of it, and something answering to other part, but two together are inconsistent, the question is which are the leading words of description? In the first class of cases under the head there is no repugnancy between the general terms and the particular superadded description, in the second and third class there is a repugnancy between the two parts of a description Theobold, 7th Ed 140

Illustrative cases If a testator devise his black horse, having only a white one (Door v Geary 1 Ves Sen, 255) or devise his freehold houses, having only leasehold houses (Day v Trig, 18 P Wms 286; Doe d Bunning v Cranstoun, 7 M & houses in the other w subject intended is added description though false, introduces no ambiguity; and as, by the to any subject, the Court does by rejecting them. To such cases, with propriety be applied Gynes ns, 1 Ves Jun 266; Dowsett v Sweet, Amb 175; Garth v Meybrick, 1 Bro C C 30, Stockdale v Bushley 19 Ves 381; Smith v Campbell, 19 Ves 403; Welby v Welby, 2 Ves & B 191, Richardson v Watson 4 B & Adol 733, Miller v Travers, 8 Bing 244, Doe d Smith v Gallaway, 5 B & Adol 43, and this is the proper limit of that Maxim Wigram 5th Ed 61

Extension of the rule In the application of the principle in question the Courts have not confined themselves to cases which are strictly within its terms It is often found, on a disclosure of the facts of the case that of two

"house" in a particular place, or his "B estate", or the like, then although he adds a clause to the effect that the property is in the occupation of a particular tenant, or is situate in a particular country, street or other locality, and it turns out that such clause is true only of a part of the property, the entire subject may well pass, unrestricted by additional clause, if such a construction be in accordance with general interest of the testator Jarman 6th Ed 126, citing Roe v Vernon, 5 East 80, per Lord Ellenborough In West v Lawday, 11 H L C 381 Lord Westbury explains the maxim falsa demonstratio non nocet in the following terms 'where some subject-matter is devised as a whole inaccurate enumeration of the particulars' In the case of Travers v Blundell, 6 Ch D 436, the testator was exercising a power given him by his father's Will over an estate called the Rigbby's Estate which his father had purchased, and Sir G Jessel after saying that the real question in cases of this description was which is the leading description, held that the words in the Will that part of Rigbby's Estate purchased by my father was the leading description although the enumeration of the closes, of which the Will said the estate consisted made no mention of the two clauses Tribhovandas v Krishnaram 18 B 283 (288)

Inaccurate description The testator made a bequest of my "portrait of X" to the National Gallery and the executors sent it on there being no doubt as to the identity of the thing, bequeathed The trustees of the National Gallery expressed doubts as to whether it was a portrait of X whereupon the executors claimed it back for the residuary legatee Held even assuming the description was wrong, the gift was valid and the portrait passed to the trustees of the Gallery In re Milner, Gibson Cullum Cust v Attorney General, (1924) 1 Ch 456, a testator specifically devised 'all my messuage farm lands and hereditaments in Bently and Bombay in Essex now in occupation of Thomas Girling purchased by him of Alderman Thrope' It was found that the testator had a farm in Bentley and Bombay called 'Welham's farms compounded of two small farms purchased by him of Alderman Thrope in 1881, and of another adjoining small farm and a field both purchased by him from Mr Carrington At the date of the Will and death of the testator the whole of the lands so purchased were in the occupation of Thomas Girling who found them as one holding Held that the whole of Welham's farm passed to the specific devisee Norman v Norman (1919) 1 Ch 297

Evidence as to application of language which can apply to one only of several persons

96. When the facts are such that the language used might have been meant to apply to any one, and could not have been meant to apply to more than one, of several persons or things, evidence may be given of facts which show which of those persons or things it was intended to apply to.

Illustrations.

(a) A agrees to sell to B for Rs 1,000, "my white horse" A has two white horses Evidence may be given of facts which show which of them was meant

(b) A agrees to accompany B to Haidarabad Evidence may be given of facts showing whether Haidarabad in the Dekkhan or Haidarabad in Sind was meant Principle "If you go to parol evidence to raise the ambiguity you cannot well refuse it, to explain such ambiguity Per Lord Thurlow in Shelborne v. Inchiquin, 1 Bro C C 338 341

Similar law Vide s 89 of the Succession Act (XXXIX of 1925)

Scope When there are two or more persons or things, and each of them exactly answers to the description in the Will, then all manner of parol evidence is admissible, (Charter v Charter, L. R, 7 H. L 364), for the language of the Will is complied wit' ... ' ever thing passes under the beque ... Bing 244 Tindal C J said; "... Verborum latens verificatione suppletur) applies will be found to range themselves into two separate classes The first class is where the description of the thing devised, or of the devisee, is clear upon the face of the Will; but upon the death of the testator it is found, that there are more than one estate or subject matter of devise, or more than one person whose description follows out and fills the words used in the Will As where the testator devises his manor Dale, and at his death it is found that he has two manors of that name, South Dale and North Dale, or where a man devises to his son John, and he has two sons of that name In each of these cases respectively parol evidence is admissible to show which manor was intended to pass and which son was intended to take. The other class of cases is that in which the description contained in the Will of the thing intended to be devised, or of the person who is intended to take, is true in part, but not true in every particular As where an estate is devised called A, and is described as in the occupation of B, and it is found, that though there is an estate called A, yet the whole is not in B's occupation; or where an estate is devised to a person whose sur name or Christian name is mistaken; or whose description is imperfect or inaccurate; in which latter class of cases parol evidence is admissible to show what estate ... pass and who was the devisee intended to take, provided there ... ntion appearing on the face of the Will to justif ... ence" "Where the object of testator's bounty or ... (i e the person or thing intended) is described in terms which are applicable indifferently to more than one person or thing, evidence is admissible to prove which of the persons or things so described was intended by the testator" Wigram Proposition VII at p 110 See also In re Stephenson, (1897) 1 Ch 80, ... W. 129; Umesh ... e given of every ... ment in which ... the language of ... more objects ... the case and of statements made by any parties to the document, and as to the intentions in reference to the matter to which the document relates" Steph Dig Ev art 91 This rule is applicable where two persons have got the same name as mentioned in the document, but one of them has got an additional name Bennet v Marshall, 2 K & J 740; Doe v Allen, 12 A & E 451; Fleming v Fleming 31 L J. Ex 419; Webber v Corbet, L R 16 Eq 515 In order to ascertain the intention of the parties to any instrument evidence of the conduct of the parties is admissible Watson v Mohesh, 24 W R 176 (177), Cheetun v Chutterdhoree, 19 W R 432

When an instrument appears, on the face of it, to be free from ambiguity, ... ted, ... two ... ... 09, ... ent comes to ... nality v The ... ase, as Lord ... and extrinsic ... of Lords in ... 87 L J. Ch ... purpose of ... he words are applicable was intended to be denoted Reference may in this connection be ... v Jeffryes, 15 M & W. 561 ... C. J in Shore v. Wilson, ... v. Tennel, 7 H L C 650 ... Co v Marine Board of ... Cape, ... A. C. 32, and of Lord Atkinson in Watchhan v. Attorney General, (1919) A. C 533=87 L J P. C. 150 The decision of the judicial committee in the last mentioned case shows that the principle that when an

Co Ltd, 36 C L J 212=72 Ind directly describes two sets apply to both, evidence may Ngacho v Mi Se Mi, 10 B provides for the payment of whether the parties meant the revenue as assessed at the date of deed or as it might be re-assessed from time to time evidence may be given under this section to show what was meant. Farrand v Kanu, 22 O. C 270=59 Ind. Cas 264.

Application of the rule T Bovill C. J in Grant v Grant, L R 5 nd of parol evidence is not admissib ng, or altering the Will of the testator, but is admitted simply for purpose of enabling the Court to understand it, and to declare the intention of the testator according to the words in which the intention is expressed If such evidence establishes that the description in the Will may apply to each of two or more persons, and there appeared by extrinsic evidence to be two persons answering such d testator's state-m Doe v Needs, 6 dgment of the Court in the above-mentioned case observ it is uncertain whether a devisor had selected no evidence would have been admissible certain individual such would have been a the meaning of Lord Bacon's rule, which ambiguity could not be holpen by averment; for to allow such evidence would be, with respect to that subject, to cause a parol Will to operate as a written one; or adopting the language of Lord Bacon, 'to make that pass without writing which the law appointeth shall not pass but by writing' But here, on the face of the devise, no such doubt arises There is no blank before the name of Gord the father, which might have occasioned a doubt whether the devisor had finally fixed on any certain person in his mind The devisor has clearly selected a particular individual as the devisee law, in certain special cases, admit extrinsic evidence of intention to make certain person or thing intended, where the description in the Will is insufficient for the purp

Doe v. Hiscocks, 5 M. & W. 363 (367) "which is by evidence of his declarations, of the instructions given for his Will, and other circumstances of the like nature, which are not adduced for explaining the words or meaning of the Will, but either to supply some deficiency, or remove some obscurity, or to give some effect to expressions that are unmeaning or ambiguous Now, there is but one case in which it appears to us that this sort of evidence of intention can properly be admitted, and that is, where the meaning of the testator's words is neither ambiguous nor obscure, and when the devise is, on the face of it, perfect and intelligible but, from some of the circumstances admitted in proof, an ambiguity arises as to which of the two or more things, or which of the two or more persons (each answering the words in the Will), the testator intended to express Thus if a testator devise his mannor of S to A B, and has two manors of North S and South S it being clear he means to devise one only, whereas both are equally denoted by the words he used in that case there is what Lord Bacon calls 'an equivocation' i e words equally apply to either manor, and the evidence of previous intention may be received to solve this latent ambiguity" So "where one person accurately fulfils the description, and no one else does you cannot admit parol evidence to show that such person was not intended" Per Mullins V C in Re Wolverton Mortgaged Estates, 7 Ch D 199; Re Raven (1915) 1 Ch 673; see also Doe v Westlake, 4 B & Ald 57; Webber v Corbett, L R 6 Eq 515; Horwood v. Griffith, 4 D M & G 700 But the rule contained in this section is applicable where the gift is "to the four children of my cousin E B" and where in fact E B had six children, two by one husband P. and four by another husband B Hampshire v Pierce, 2 Weg 216; see also Jones v Newman 1 W. Bl 60; Doe v Allen, 12 A & E 451, Grant v Grant, L R 5 C P 727, Nassey v Jeffry, (1914) 1 Ch 375; Bunderson v Bunderson, (1905) 1 I R 353; Re Baltic Wrighton, (1920) 2 Ch. 330 This rule is also applicable to deeds and contracts Wigmore § 2472.

Ambiguity—Evidence of intention It is commonly said that extrinsic evidence is admissible in cases of latent ambiguities whereas such evidence is inadmissible in cases of patent ambiguities. "But upon examination the maxim proves not to be a universal guide; for, on the one hand, there are many recognised authorities for the admission of parol evidence to explain ambiguities [illegible] of the words he has used It is to the admissibility of this species of evidence that attention is now to be turned To say that such evidence is admissible, [illegible]

[illegible]

family, or other circumstances, that ambiguity may be removed by further evidence of the same nature But in admitting this interpretation of the rule, all distinction between patent and latent ambiguities is lost, for in every case the Judge by whom a Will is to be expounded is entitled to be placed, by a knowledge of all the material facts of the case, as nearly as possible in the situation of the testator when he wrote it. A patent ambiguity it is true, may not be explained by any other kind of evidence and so far the first branch of the cannon is undoubtedly true But by our hypothesis to this precise extent, and no further, is the latter branch true also We come, therefore, to the conclusion either that the distinction taken by the cannon between latent and patent ambiguities is an unsubstantial one, or that the proposition does, in its second branch, assert the admissibility of evidence to show the testator's intention (as [illegible] words); and that, consequently [illegible] special class of cases It remains [illegible] is admissible. Suppose, then, that evidence has been given of all the ... S. 9 case, and that these have ult... existence of more than one object ... applicable. The uncertainty as to which of these was in the testator's contemplation would if the investigation stopped here, necessarily be fatal to the gift. Under these peculiar circumstances, however, declarations of the testator or other direct evidence of his intention are admissible to clear up the ambiguity, pointing out (if they can) the actual subject or object of gift, among the several properties or persons answering to the description. Of this nature are the examples given by Lord Bacon, in illustration of the maxim, "Ambiguitas verborum latens verificatione suppletur; nam quod ex facto oritur ambiguum verificatione facit tollitur"; and are styled by him as cases of equivocation." Jarman 6th Ed. 516 518.

Evidence as to application of language to one of two sets of facts, to neither of which the whole correctly applies.

97. When the language used applies partly to one set of existing facts, and partly to another set of existing facts, but the whole of it does not apply correctly to either, evidence may be given to show to which of the two it was meant to apply.

Illustration.

A agrees to sell to B "my ... and at X, but not in the occupati... Y, but it is not at X. Evidence m... ant to sell.

Principle. "The characteristic of all these cases is that the words of the Will do describe the object or ...
tions of the testator has not t... whatever; it only enables ... which the description in the ... devisor understood to be sign...
Parke B in Doe v. Needs, 2 M. & W. 129.

Scope of the section. This section is the converse of the preceding one; in that there is language partially applicable to two sets of facts, but wholly applicable to neither. In this ...
admissible for discovering the ... in section 95. Can. Ev. 286 ... of the person or thing be p... of the several subjects though ... stances may be received for ... subjects the language applies, ... inadmissible. Doe v. Hiscock ...
... is found that ... exactly answers ... error appears ... evidence of the ... But according to Prof. Wigmore there is no danger in receiving declarations of intention, because the precise words of the document cannot be literally applied in any event, and there is thus no ... utteran... part of ...
said: '...
be pre...
wish to ...
recollec... permits ... give ef... strictly logical course, I think, would be either to admit declarations of intention both in cases falling under paragraph 7 (= ss. 95, 97) and in cases falling under

Doe v. Hiscocks, 5 M. & W. 363 (367) "which is by evidence of his declarations, of the instructions given for his Will, and other circumstances of the like nature, which are not adduced for explaining the words or meaning of the Will, but either to supply some deficiency, or remove some obscurity, or to give some effect to expressions that are unmeaning or ambiguous Now, there is but one case in which it appears to us that this sort of evidence of intention can properly be admitted, and that is, where the meaning of the testator's words is neither ambiguous nor obscure, and when the devise is, on the face of it, perfect and intelligible but, from some of the circumstances admitted in proof, an ambiguity arises, as to which of the two or more things, or which of the two or more persons (each answering the words in the Will), the testator intended to express Thus ... manors of North S ... equally ... calls 'an equivocation' i e words equally apply to either ... nce of previous intention may be received ... So "where one person accurately fulfils the ... nnot ... Cb ... 515, ... 4 D M & G 700 But the rule contained in this section is applica... children of my cousin E B" and where in fact ... ne husband P and four by another husban... eg 216, see also Jones v Newman 1 W. Bl 60; ... v Grant, L R 5 C P 727, Nassey v Jeff ... v Hunderson, (1905) 1 I R 353; Re Baltic ... rule is also applicable to deeds and contrac...

Ambiguity—Evidence of intention. It is commonly said that extrinsic ... whereas such evidence is ... in the maxim ... many recognised authorities for the admission of parol evidence to explain ambiguities appearing on the face of the Will, while, on the other hand, the existence of a latent ambiguity will certainly not, as appears sometimes to have been supposed, warrant the admission in all cases indiscriminately of parol evidence to show what the testator meant to have written as distinguished from what is the meaning of the words he has used It is to the admissibility of this species of evidence that attention is now to be turned To say that such evidence is admissible, ... the extrinsic facts, is to ... the evidence ... or the former is confined to developments of facts with reference to which the Will was written, and to which the language of the Will expressly or tacitly refers; and therefore, it lies within the strict limits of exposition ... denied that the latter transgresses T... support the proposition only ... ced, into an otherwise unambig... testator's family, or other circumstances, that ambiguity may be removed by further ... retation of the rule, all ... for in every case the ... placed, by a knowledge of all the material facts ... possible in the situation of the testator when he wrote it A patent ambiguity it is true, may not be explained by any other kind of evidence and so far the first branch of the cannon is undoubtedly true But by our hypothesis to this precise extent, and no further, is the latter branch true also We come, therefore, to the conclusion either that the distinction taken by the cannon between latent and patent ambiguities is an unsubstantial one, or that the proposition does, in its second branch, assert the admissibility of evidence to show the testator's intention (as distinguished ... uently ... emains ... them, that evidence has been given of all the material facts and circumstances of the case, and that these have ultimately raised an ambiguity by disclosing the existence of more than one object or subject to which the words are equally applicable The uncertainty as to which of these was in the testator's contemexamples given by Lord Bacon, in illustration of the maxim 'Ambiguitas verborum latens verificatione suppletur, nam quod ex facto oritur ambiguum verificatione facit tollitur"; and are styled by him as cases of equivocation." Jarman 6th Ed 516 518.

Evidence as to application of language to one of two sets of facts, to neither of which the whole correctly applies.

97. When the language used applies partly to one set of existing facts, and partly to another set of existing facts, but the whole of it does not apply correctly to either, evidence may be given to show to which of the two it was meant to apply.

Illustration.

A agrees to sell to B "my ... and at X, but not in the occupati ... Y, but it is not at X. Evidence m ... ant to sell.

Principle "The characteristic of all these cases is that the words of the Will do describe the object or subject intended; and the evidence of the declarations of the testator has not the effect of varying the instrument in any way whatever; it only enables the Court, to reject one of the subjects or objects to which the description in the Will applies, and to determine which of the two the devisor understood to be signified by the description which he used in the Will." Parke B in Doe v Needs, 2 M & W 129.

Scope of the section. This section is the converse of the preceding one; in that there is language partially applicable to two sets of facts but wholly applicable to neither In th ... admissible for discovering the ... in section 95 Cun Ev 286 ... of the person or thing be p ... of the several subjects though ... stances may be received for ... subjects the language applies, ... inadmissible Doe v Hiscock ... of the California Civil Code sa ... there is an imperfect, description or that no person or property exactly answers the description, mistakes and omissions must be corrected, if the error appears from the context of the Will or from extrinsic evidence; but evidence of the declarations of the testator as to his intention cannot be received" But according to Prof Wigmore there is no danger ... because the precise words of the documen ... event, and there is thus no competit ... utterance, it is simply a question which ... part of the description. Wigmore § 2 ... said. 'Conclusive as the authorities upon ... be presumptuous to express a doubt whether the conflict between a natural wish to fulfil the intention which the testator would have formed if he had recollected all the circumstances of the case, the wish to avoid the evil of permitting written instruments to be varied by oral evidence, and the wish to give effect to Wills, has not produced in practice an illogical compromise. The strictly logical course, I think, would be either to admit declarations of intention both in cases falling under paragraph 7 (= ss. 95, 97) and in cases falling under and to

to be t also dence,
under sections 95 and 97 or section 96, ... its ible Woodroffe Ev. p 663; Field Ev 6th ... law on the subject is thus laid down by ... 168 Mo ... correct and partly not apply precisely legally certain that it was intended to apply to one ... rule established by the second cla... evidence, including expressions ...

Will from peri hing, is not to establish Will, but let in light
... by outside circumstances, may be more stator, in its entire scope, effectuated eaning." Wigmore § 2474 In Ryall v rty to Elizabeth, the natural daughter of B B has a natural son John, and a legitimate daughter Elizabeth The Court may infer from the circumstances under which the natural child was born, and from the testator's relationship to the putative father, that he meant to provide for ... A leaves a legacy to his niece Elizabeth Stringer. At niece named hat Eli abe h given by the
for a niece Elizabeth Stringer, who had died before the date of the Will and that it was put into the Will by a mistake on the part of the solicitor. Stringer v Gardiner, 27 Beav 35=4 Deg & J 468. Critising on that decision Sir James Fitz-james Stephen said "Such a decision as that in Stringer v Gardiner, the result of which was to give a legacy to a person whom the testator had no wish to benefit, and who was not either named or described in his Will, appears to me to be a practical refutation of the principle or rule on which it is based Of course every document whatever must to some extent be interpreted by circumstances However accurate and detailed a description of things and persons may be, oral evidence is always wanted to show that persons and things answering the description exist; and therefore in every case whatever, every fact must be allowed to prove to which the document does, or properly may refer; but if more evidence than this is admitted, if the Court may look at circumstances which affect the probability that the testator would form this intention or that why should declaration of intention be excluded? If the question is, 'what did the testator say?' why should the Court look at the circumstances that he lived with Charles, and was on bad terms with William? How can any amount of evidence to show that the testator intended to write "Charles" show that what he did write means "Charles"? To say that 'Foster' means 'Charles,' is like saying ... why nd what
'What
words'
I would Dig Ev
pp. 186, 187.

... A agree to sell to B I at X but not in the it is not at X, evidence Another common case is wrongly described as containing a certain area, the error in area is regarded as a mere misdescription and does not vitiate the deed The maxim demonstratio falsa non nocet applies Karuppa v Periathambi Goundan, 30 M 397 (399) So where land is described in a document by boundaries and area is wrongly specified, the land within the boundaries will pass whether it be less or more than the quantity specified Bhayalal v Dwarka, 15 C P L R 163. In such a case the maxim falsa demonstratio non nocet applies, ar v Sandes, 12 W R 439, Eslim v 18 W R 25, Kazee Abdul v. Buroda tam, 18 B 283; Subhoya v Mut Harimohan v Rimesuar, 64 Ind C 751; Narain v Jawahar, 50 P, I L T. 245.

Wh

to the
of the house is adm of the property taken as a whole the intention was to convey the whole house or only a portion of it Abdul Ghani v Ashiq Husain, 66 Ind Cas 442=(1922) O of an ambiguity in the description of land in a mortgage deed it is open to a party to show by other evidence what land was actually covered by the deed. Ramchandra v Arshad Ali, 43 Ind Cas 721

Whole of it does not apply correctly to either This section has application when the whole of the language used in a document does not apply correctly to either Because "if I have some land wherein all these demonstrations are true, and some wherein part of them are true and part false, then shall they be, intended words of true limitation to pass only those lands where all those circumstances are true' This rule is based upon the 13th maxim of Lord Bacon which is as follows, trationem quae competunt in limitatio is devised, and there are found t and precisely corresponding to th so completely answering thereto, the latter will be excluded, though had there been no other property on which the devise could have operated, it might have been held to comprise the less appropriate subject', Jarman 6th Ed 1276 A devise of lands described in a particular place and in the occupation of a particular per the occupation of that person l, 26 Beav. 202; see also Tulsa Ind Cas 791 'Where a testator has devised all his lands at any particular place, extrinsic evidence is not admissible f other lands not situated lands having been enjoyed period of time, or of th of his having been in the h under one distinguishing name' Per Baggally L J. in Homer v. Homer, 8 Ch. 758 at p 774.

Evidence as to meaning of illegible characters, etc.

98. Evidence may be given to show the meaning of illegible or not commonly intelligible characters of foreign, obsolete, technical, local and provincial expressions, of abbreviations and of words used in a peculiar sense.

S.

Illustration.

A, a sculptor agrees to sell to B, "all my mode" A has both models and modelling tools. Evidence may be given to show which he meant to sell.

Principle "Where any doubt arises upon the true sense and meaning of the words themselves, or any difficulty as to their application under the surrounding circumstances, the sense and meaning of the language may be investigated and ascertained by evidence dehors the instrument itself; for reason and common sense agree, that by no other means can the language of the instrument be made to speak the real mind of the party. Such investigation does of necessity take place in the interpretation of instruments written in foreign language, in the case of ancient instruments, where, by the lapse of time and change of manners, the words have acquired in the present age a different meaning from that which they bore when originally employed; in cases where terms of art occur;—in mercantile contracts, which, in many instances, use a peculiar language, employed by those only who are conversant in trade or commerce;— and in other instances in which the words besides their general common meaning have ac... culiar idiomatic meanin... m was dwelling, or in th... which he passed his life... the real meaning of th... language used in the instrument, in order to enable the Court or Judge to construe the instrument" In ... Baron Parke) said: "I apprehend ... two which bear upon the subj... admissible in every case for the purpose of enabling a Court to constr... written instrument, and to apply it practically. In the first place, there is no doubt that not only where the language of the instrument is such as the Court does not understand, it is competent to receive evidence of the proper meaning of that language as when it is written in a foreign tongue; but it is also competent, where technical words or peculiar terms, or indeed any expressions are used, which, at the time the instrument was written, have acquired an appropriate meaning either generally or by local usage, or amongst particular class. This description of evidence is admissible, in order to enable the Court to understand the meaning of the words contained in the instrument itself, by themselves and without reference to extrinsic facts on which the instrument is intended to operate."

Scope of the section. In order to interpret or ascertain the meaning of a written document, parol evidence may be given of the meaning or sense in which not only words, but also signs, symbols, private marks, or nicknames, have been used. Such ev... ...ning of which is in ques... by the person... class of persons... Ev 362 So in order to ascertain the meaning of the signs and words ma... upon a document, oral evidence may be given of the meaning of illegible or not commonly intelligible characters, of foreign, obsolete, technical, local, and provincial expressions, of abbreviations, and of common words which, from the context, appear to have been used in a peculiar sense; but evidence may not be given to show that common words th... which do not appear from the ... fact so used Stephen Dig ... ible said Lord Thurlow in S... no instance where parol evidence has been ... into a more vulgar sense... have no idea of its ... have obtained a preci... that would, as ... In Beacon L. & F. Ins. Co., 1 Moore P. C. N. S. 79, 98, Lord Chelmsford said: "In order to construe a term in a written instrument where it is used in a sense differing from its ordinary meaning evidence is admissible to prove the peculiar sense in which the parties understood the word; but it is not admissible to contradict or vary what is plain." See also Per Malins V. C in Aslver's Trusts L. R. 12 Eq 183, 186. Prof. Wigmore in his Law of Evidence in considering both the theory and policy of the above rule said "That the theory of it is unsound, ought not to be doubted There can be in the nature of things, no absoluteness of standard in interpretation An advanced communism might conceivably bring men to such a level of intellectual uniformity that their thoughts would be expressed in invariably identical symbols But till that day comes the varieties of individual expression and sense must be unquenchable So long as men are allowed to grant and contract freely and so long as the law undertakes to carry out those acts by enforcement, just so long must the standard of interpretation continue to be mobile, subjective, and individual . The fallacy consists in assuming that there is or can be one real or absolute Justice Bowen it is not so much a cannon of construction as a counsel of caution' (Re Jodrell L R 41 Ch D 590) The distinguished Master of the ... to counsel that 'no body could ... , and yet the Court of Appeals ... ter all convinced of that precise ... D 181) To say that it would ... vidence to fail to be convinced, ... that is very different from an ... idicial mind is legally not open ... eory nor in policy any basis for an absolute rule declaring that when a word has a plain meaning, i e by the popular standard neither the local nor the mutual nor the individual standard can be substituted, such a rule is still maintained by many utterances like those above quoted But its vogue is disappearing; . . " Wigmore § 2462

In Brown v Byrne, 3 E & B 703, Lord Coleridge J said "Neither, in the ... ll the ... linary

... orking ... lo not ... there ... ed. ... s own

Illegible Where the writing is that in ordinary use, but illegible, the ... t Li 281 So it is ... assist in deciphering ... Masters v Masters, ... § 2025 Illegibility ... peculiarity of character, ... riting Referring to a case of cypher, Baron Alderson observed "Words on paper are but the means by which a person expresses his meaning, and shorthand is in this respect, like long hand, and equally admits interpretation' Clayton v Nugent, 13 M & W. 206 of a foreign rule of law in general (Vide s 45). The question that involve the present ... the Court, may any ... doubts that the aid ... if necessary, ... in the text ... any time be ... Cl & F. 115; ... H. L. C. 640.

Wigmore § 1953 The translation of native documents in the High Courts will afford a familiar illustration on the point of language to that of the Court. Goodeve Ev 376 As regards construing a foreign document, Lord Esher M. R. said "Now, this writing was a business document, written in Brazil in the Brazilian law and custom, by a man of business carrying on business in Brazil. An English Court has to construe it, and the first thing, therefore, that the ... guage used in the docu... of trying to find out in ... the words of the docu-ment, a true translation is the putting into English that which is the exact effect of the language used under the circumstances. To get at this in the present case you must get the words in English which in business have the equivalent meaning of the words in Brazilian, as used in Brazil, under the circumstan... translator competent to translate ... ular ... say meaning ... what is that meaning Among those experts you might want a Brazilian lawyer—and a Brazilian lawyer for that purpose would be an expert. This is the first thing the Court has to do Then, when the Court has got a correct translation into English it has to do what it always has to do in the case of any such document—either a contract, or such an authority as this—that is to say, determine what is to be ... In wrote it, and what is to be ... urt ... our e ... had ... al, or ... translation ... veyed to ... Ganga- ... at these ... renders ... y verbal ... translations have ... other a ... advise ... transla... ded by ... trans... " As ... Janga-dhar Lal, 22 B 142, Harris v Brown, 28 C 621; Queen Empress v Kali Prasanna, 1 C W N 465, 479; Mahalalu v Hakeem, 10 C L R 293, 300 301

Obsolete expressions ... the case of Walker ... lern times to ... s to who were ... Holy Gospel', evidence was given from history, contemporaneous with the deed, of the existence of a particular sect assuming to themselves that denomination, and of the founder's connection with them Goodeve Ev. 376

Technical expressions It is obvious that the interpretation of the meaning of the document in respect to ordinary words, being a part of the function of the Court, is not for a witness to speak to But so far as the words are technical, and the witness speaks to technical usage or meaning, there is no prohibi-

S.

in each instance whether it needs any
-d or phrase in dispute Wigmore § 1955 be received, . but you cannot ask a witness what is the meaning of a written document' Kirkland v Nisbet, 3 Macq Sc App C 766 In most of the cases in this section the word or words may be unless from other words it is very clear that the Lord Redesdale in Jesson v Wright, 5 M & S testimony to ascertain the technical and popular use of the word Burr Jones § 455

In mercantile contracts the question has often arisen on expressions denoting ti 1 Esp turn t
which
and e was understood to mean a package of ockburn C J said "If the term 'bale' as particular trade a signification differing ence must be received on the subject, ontract" So a bale of cotton may mean a or locality, no matter how plain the apparent reader. In Smith v Wilson, 3 B & Ad 728 prove that by the customary meaning of tl applied to rabbits, meant '100 dozen In ssels are named with 'and elivered from either at seller's "Yes, if you read it strictly Lord Abinger, said "The Court must look at each contract, and say whether in its whole spirit and meaning and did not mean or in the understanding of the parties" "Days" in a bill of lading, was held to mean "working days" Cochran v Retberg, 3 Esp 121 In Grant v Maddox, 15 M & W 737, interpreting the word 'year' evidence was admitted of the professional usage that actors were never paid during the time of vacation In Myers v Sarl, 3 E & E 306, which was a building contract,

'dark gray or black mohair," the goods had a dark appearance, and Jessel M R. declaring "that is a black selvedge and not a white selvedge," and that "no evidence would convince them that black was white", declined to give effect to the plaintiff's testimony that the plaintiff's selvedge "was what was ... ppeal, this was ... r the selvage is ... vage" Wigmore ... " was interpreted ... accordance wit ... Parol evidence was admissible to show that the term 'in the month of October' according to the mercantile usage, means a particular part of the month Chat ontext quali ming Whe re any and s and quabi-jindad held that the ladies obtained an absolute estate Thakur ... Jamna Kuar, 6 A L J 420, Chunilal v Bai Muli, 2 Bom L R 47=24 B 420 Surjomoni v Rabinath 30 A 84 Kandarpa v Jogendra, 12 C L J 391 Lalitmohan v Chakl anlal 23 C 834 ... N 458, Raidas v Bargolap 26 C 26 C W N 425 (P C); Sulochana Ashutosh, 27 C 44, Sibnarayan v Tarangini, 8 C L J 20

Local and Provincial expressions Of local usage a striking illustration is afforded by the case of a lease of a rabbit warren, where the lessee covenanted to leave on the warren at the expiration of the term 10,000 rabbits, the lessor paying for them ... that according to the loc meant 1,200 Smit usage of a trade the ordinary or popular sense of words, it remains merely a question for the particular case whether the parties have in fact spoken according to that standard Where all the parties are members of the same trade or other circle of persons, little difficulty can arise, the only requirement is that the special sense alleged should be in fact a usage, or settled habit of expression, and not merely the expression of a few persons or of casual occasions Russian Steam Nav v Silva, 13 C B N S 610 617 Where the usage is not that of a trade but of a locality, the form of it may be common reputation or commonly used documents Wigmore § 2464 Where in a deed words in use in a particular locality in a peculiar sense are employed, oral evidence is admissible under section 98 of the Evidence Act to explain the meaning of the words in question Chiddu v Cheu, 63 Ind Cas 138

Abbreviations Where initials or other abbreviation are to be interpreted the local usage or repute is of course receivable Wigmore § 2464 A wager contract to run one grey hound against another, concluded with the initials P P Evidence was received to show that it meant— Play or Pay, —that is to say,—win the match, or forfeit the stakes Alderson B said ' standing by themselves those letters are insensible, but the evidence confers a real meaning upon and that they were inse also Baron Parke said 'T It is like the case of a of a celebrated sculptor, 'mod—tools for carving ' is a familiar illustration on the part of terms of art The word ' mod was there contended on the one hand to mean modelling tools and on the other models, which latter were of great value, and evidence of sculptors and others was received in interpretation of the word mod ' Goblet v Beechey, 3 Sim 24, Goodeve Ev 377 On this case the illustration is based Put the case of shorthand writers' notes, which a Court unskilled in the art of stenography must have explained or interpreted before it can attach any meaning to the arbitrary signs Kell v Charmer, 23 Beav 195

Words used in a peculiar sense There is no reason in the nature of things, why th words in a particular sense, use what we are seek ng standard is merely taken in theory only a question of fact in each case whether the parties were using a special mutual sense The application of the principle has long been seen in the interpretation of descriptions in deeds, because there is there always some concrete and local object, fully known to the parties but unknown to the Court and in every such case it is obvious that the words used must be translated into things and facts, the parties to the deed almost always use terms of description which are peculiar to themselves Wigmore § 2465 Doe v Burt, 1 T R 701, 704, Van Diemen's Land Co v. Marine Board, (1906) App. Cas. 92; Squire v. Campbell, 1 My1 & C 159 "The purpose of all such evidence is, to ascertain in what sense the parties themselves used the ambiguous terms in the writing which sets forth it manifest in what sense the best definition to be app The effect must be limited the subject matter If so lim the negotiations relates to the future, and consists in positive engagements on the part of the other party to the contract Their effect depends, not upon their promissory obligation, but upon the aid they afford in the interpretation of the contract in suit They are not the less effective for the purpose of explanation and definition because they purport to carry the force of obligation Per Wells J in Stoops v Smith, 100 Mass 63 In Doe v Benjamin, 9 A. & E 644, 652, Coleridge J said "The Courts have come to some inconsistent conclusions in cases of this kind, out from the main body of them at the time, in order to see in what sense the words were used" Wigmore §§ 2465, 2467. In Kell v. Charmer, 23 Beav 195, a bequest was "to my son W the sum of ixx; to my son R C the sum of oxx, the testator having in the course of his business used certain private marks or symbols to denote prices or sums of money," this usage was resorted to, and showed that the sums of £100 and £200 were signified In Re Ofner, Samuel v Ofner, (1909) 2 Ch 60, a bequest was to "my grand nephew Robert O' There was no 'Robert O' but there was a "Richard O' Evidence of the memorandum of the testator showing that the testator called Richard "Robert" was admitted; see also Erven (v Halston, (1912) 1 Ch 135, Wigmore § 2467 Where a Hindu testator uses technical terms of English law in his Will and those terms have no accepted meaning in Hindu law the rule is that effect of the intention of such terms cannot be given Jatindr ... 317 P C = 18 W R 359, Kristoromone ... F O B means Free Bombay Harbour ... (519), see also Jadu Rai v Bhabataran ... Jackeriah, 2 Ind Jur 311

Who may give evidence of agreement varying terms of document.

99 Persons who are not parties to a document or their representatives in interest, may give evidence of any facts tending to show a contemporaneous agreement varying the terms of the document.

Illustration

... otton, to be ... that three ... ween A and Principle "The rule under consideration is applied only (in suits) between the parties to the instrument; as they alone are to blame if the writing contains ... contained It cannot ... prejudiced by things ... gnorance, carelessness, ... to be precluded from proving the truth, however contradictory to the written statement of others Greenl Ev § 279, cited in Taylor § 1149, Holt v Collyer, L R 16 Ch D 718 Strangers have not assented to the compact nor can they be heard in a procee ing to set aside or reform it Hence they are at liberty to show that the written instrument does not disclose the true character of the transaction Burr Jones Ev § 449 To hold strangers bou which were behind their backs, cessat lex the rule therefore doe

Scope of the section This section being an enabling provision cannot be held to prohibit the reception of evidence as to a fact in issue or a relevant fact admissible independently thereof Pathammal v Syed Kalai Rautar 27 M 329, Krishna Swami v Mangala Thammal 53 Ind Cas 243 It is well settled that the word varying' in section 99 covers the same ground as the words or subtracting from' in section 92 (Ide 9) No construction of section 92 can modify which provides that persons not parties to the document or their representatives in interest may give evidence to show a contemporaneous agreement' Krishna Swami v Mangala Thammal 53 Ind Cas 243 see also Maung Kyin v Ma Shwe 15 C 320=22 C W N 257 P C So extrinsic evidence is admissible to show the real nature of the transaction, both as against and as in favo evidencing the transaction irresp be clothed Baldeo v Puttu La evidence provided by section 92 itself, one to be used only as between the parties to the instrument or by th representative in interest This section expressly gives a free hand to persons necessary implication when read with ecutants of documents against such R 115 Under sections 92 and 99 of ven by the pre emptor to show the real nature of the transaction he being no party to the instrument Chhutko v Jugga 8 Ind Cas 501, Khoidad v Nasar, 127 P L R 1902 Parmanand v Atrabat 20 P R 1899 Usman v Md Shafi 1927 A 204=98 Ind Cas 99 Where A purported to make a gift of his lands to his daughter B it was open vidence that the transacwas, consequently liable ined against him Jugal plaintiff is not a party to purported to be a t a sale Bageshri 473, Ishfaq v event Syed 53 Ind Cas 961 The excepti a fraudulent operation of the instrumen of one of the parties may introduce the fraudulent intent which accompanied and characterized the giving of instrument Similarly a person who is suing one of the parties to a sealed instrument upon a cause of action not arising out of the instrument may show that the instrument was in fact a mere device concocted to mislead outsiders dealing with one or the other parties to it and that it did not truly represent the relation between those parties It is to be observed however that the right of a stranger to vary a written contract by parol is limited to rights which are independent of the instrument Brown Parol Ev § 28 So when one, although not a party to the instrument has his claim upon it and seeks to render it effective in his favour as against the other party to the action, by enforcing a right originating in the relation established by it or which is founded upon it, the parol evidence rule applies Burr Jones Ev § 449 A person who does not claim through the settler is entitled to challenge the n never 5 Cal will be hat they Ram
L 711

Saving of provisions of Indian Succession Act relating to wills

100. Nothing in this Chapter contained shall be taken to affect any of the provisions of the Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), as to the construction of Wills.

S. 10
& S.

and limits so far as relates to immoveable property situate within those territories rules
ence
the itary eans 771 reversed in 22 C 788 (P C)

PART III.

PRODUCTION AND EFFECT ON EVIDENCE

CHAPTER VII

OF THE BURDEN OF PROOF.

Burden of proof

101 Whoever desires any Court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts must prove that those facts exist.

When a person is bound to prove the existence of any fact, it is said that the burden of proof lies on that person

Illustrations

(a) A desires a Court to give judgment that B shall be punished for a crime in the

to be true

A must prove the existence of those facts

Burden of Proof—its origin and place in the law of Evidence "Whoever enters in a legal controversy needs to know with precision what is in dispute, in point of substantive law in point of fact, and in point of form All this he must know before he reaches the trial. The ascertaining of it belongs, properly, to the period when you state your case, the period of pleading It matters not what be the purpose of pleading, whether, as in the Roman system, it

1. be "to give notice to the parties respecting the facts intended to be proved or as at common law, ' to separate the law fro-down to a single issue, with a view to a trial Pl s 34)—the rules of correct pleading inv preliminaries At any rate, they are not to which has no precepts at all on these subjects concerned with a later stage of the proceedings, the trial, and with the presen tation to the tribunal of evidential matter for enabling it to answer questions which should have been previously r to be known The term burden of part, belongs to this preliminary st the duty of ultimately establishing any propo ition the principles which govern it belong wholly to that stage But the phrase is an ambiguous one, and its uncertainty runs into and perplexes the subject of evidence, so that the student of that subject needs to reflect carefully on these ambiguities to perceive the bearing on them and to have a clear mind about two or three familiar questions relating to the burden of proof, and two or three fallacies about it which are constantly pre enting themselves in the proper region of evidence He would do a great service to our law who should thoroughly di criminate and set forth the whole legal doctrine of the burden of proof The leading an During and pecul r he jury came rom tho e of and strange development of the jury system, and the irregular working of our common law pleading there has come into pro that in other times and remained hidden among the working of our double tribunal of Judge and jury, and the constant neces ty of marking their respective boundaries and of reviewing in a higher Court not merely the instructions given by the trial Judge to the jury, but the whole conduct of the trial,—comes out into the region of judicial rules and precedents Thayer Pre Treat Ev 353, 354

Burden of proof—meaning of the term The expression ' burden of proof' has been used several ways (1) as meaning the duty of the person alleging he one party or the other to There is an undiscriminated use of the two, in which it may Treat Ev 355, Chamberlayne's

Burden of proof—whether it belongs to Law of Evidence—"Burden of Proof or nat
of led
of we scharging its ce of arts in akes it determine the point to which evidence is to be directed, and who shall have the duty of producing it This is a very ancient function of procedure The precise reason why it is necessary to determine which one of two litigants in a forensic contest has the burden of proof must be conducted Science, therefore, acknowledges no burden of proof S. In the same way, in legal proceedings in rem, where the personal element of litigation is in a measure subordinated to the social interest in the ascertainment of the truth regarding the status of persons, the legal relations of property and the like, the assignment of the position of a burden of proof is deemed of much less importance than in personal actions In the latter class of proceedings, however, both the mentally untrained nature of the jury and the limits of time which should be devoted to the trial of any particular case have united with the fact that the tribunal must sit, as a rule, at a particular place whither iry that before the trial should ue upon the truth of some definite known as in the trial by battle, which a defensive combat This knowledge it was the appropriate and characteristic mission of pleading to furnish and upon the issue raised by the pleadings one of the parties had the burden of proof and the other had not. Chamberlayne's Ev §§ 930, 931

Duty of the person alleging the case to prove it The burden of proof in this sense means "the burden of establishing a case whether by a preponderence of the evidence or beyond a reasonable doubt (Best Ev p 268) or as Prof it is a profitable object and not otherwise Here it is seen that the advantage is with B, and the disadvantage with A, for unless A succeeds in persuading M, upon the point of action A will fail and B, will remain victorious the burden of proof, or, in other words the risk of non persuasion, is upon A This does not mean that B is absolutely safe though he does nothing, for he cannot tell how much it will require to persuade M, a very little argument from A might suffice, or if M is of a rashly speculative tendency the mere mention of the proposition by A might without more effect M s action so that it may be safer in any case for B to say what he can on his side of the question, and thus in fact he as well as A, has more or less risk in the sense that there are always chances of A s persuading M no matter how trifling his evidence and argument and constitute rights and duties of pleading and procedure, which ips of data and assign one or requisites of the tribunal s action the total facts that can in any event be involved, and in the second place the law of pleading will further sub divide and apportion these facts Ibid If the pleadings consist of the allegation of certain facts by the plaintiff, and their denial by the defendant, the burden of proving the facts be they negative or affirmative, is upon plaintiff has given prima facie evidence which, unless it be answered, will entitle him to have the question decided in his favour, the burden of proof is shifted on to the defendant as to the decision of the question itself. This con that the jury, after considering the evidence, are left in real doubt as to which way they are to answer the question put to them on behalf of the plaintiff, in that case also the ... the defendant has been able, ... the minds of the whole jury ... satisfy the burden of proof

Burden of proof as meaning the duty of the one party or the other to introduce evidence. The party having the risk of non persuasion (under the pleadings or other rules) is naturally the one upon whom first falls this duty of going for ... act for him, and since wit ... no action; there is no ... ity thus falls first upon the proponent (a term convenient for designating the party having the risk of non persuasion). This duty, however, though determined in the first instance by the burden of proof in the sense of the risk of non persuasion, is a distinct one, for it is a duty tow ... it is the party if it is not satisfied ... found in an opinion of Lord Justic ... W R 50, 53. 'In order to make my opinion clear I should like to say shortly how I ... somebody must go on ... If he ...

... uccessful if no evidence at all was given at this particular point ...

... presumption of ... ther in every ... y person the ... calling ... hat in every

S.

which are rebuttable; by presumptions of fact of the stronger kind, and by

Muthura, 7 C 225

Burden of proof whether shifts "After all the evidence is in whether introduced by the plaintiff or by the defendant, it must appear that the person who had the burden of proof has a preponderance of the evidence in his favour, if he would win the case The burden of proof fixes upon the party who has the duty of first going forward with the case If he fails to introduce any

duced that he has proved his case If, however, he has introduced sufficient evidence to make out what is known as a prima facie case, then, in the absence of evidence to controvert such case, the jury would find—for the Judge would so instruct them—in his favour Right here we run up against that other sort of burden of proof noticed above, which is not really burden of proof at all, but only

Phip Ev 7th Ed p 30. Burden of proof means the burden of establishing a case as well as the duty or necessity of introducing evidence The burden of establishing remains throughout the entire case exactly where the pleadings originally place it It never shifts The burden of proof in the sense of introducing evidence may shift constantly as evidence is introduced by one side or the other, as the one scale or the other preponderates Bhola v Bhagwant Rao 13 C P L R 159, Robins v National Trust & Co, 101 Ind Cas 903=1927 P C 515; R v Stoddard, 25 T L R 612, Radha Kishan v Jagahu 80 Ind Cas 791 P C =47 M L J 329, Yellappa v Tippana, 33 C W N 238 P C, Man Mohan v Mathura 7 C 225.

Scope of the section Before the Court can proceed to hear a case, it is obviously necessary to determine which party shall begin, or upon whom the burden of proof of the whole case lies The general rule is that the party who alleges any matter in issue must prove it were only one fact in issue, but there is of proof of some one being on one party position is practically this, that the l against whom judgment would be given Cockle Ev 123 This section is based on the general rule that the burden of proof lies on the party who asserts the affirmation of the issue, or question in dispute, according to the maxim, Ei incumbit probatio qui dicit non qui negat (The burden of proof lies upon him who asserts not upon him who denies)—a rule which the common sense of mankind at once asserts, and which, however occasionally violated in practice has ever been recognised in jurisprudence Best § 269 So it is often said that the burden is upon the party having informed the affirmation of the allegation But this is not an invariable test nor even always a significant circumstance, the burden is often on one who has a negative assertion to prove, a common instance is that of a promisee alleging non performance of a contract It is sometimes said that it is upon the party to whose case the fact is essential This is correct enough, but it merely advances the inquiry one step, we must then ask whether there is any general principle which determines to what party's case a fact is essential The truth ... all the cases all the burden order claim, ... leaves ... the burden of proof upon the plaintiff If the defendant pleads ... fession and avoidance, admitting the plaintiff's allegation, but alleging further facts by way of defence, the matter ... but that of the defendant, if denied ... it is therefore upon the latter But if th... burden of proof of some is on one party and of others on the other party, i e, a distribution ... so even if question general p 121 ule that W N burden lence in , 11 Q , C A, ... uld Ind ... by n, upon serts the ie party ven if no ...

Supra; Wakelin v London and South Western Railway Co (1896) 1 Q B. 189 n, 196 n

102. The burden of proof in a suit or proceeding lies on that person who would fail if no evidence at all were given on either side.

On whom burden of proof lies

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for land of which B is in possession and which, as A asserts, was left to A by the will of C, B's father

If no evidence were given on either side, B would be entitled to retain his possession.

Therefore the burden of proof is on A (b) A sues C for money due on a bond

The execution of the bond is admitted, but B says that it was obtained by fraud which A denies

If no evidence were given on either side, A would succeed as the bond is not disputed and the fraud is not proved

Therefore the burden of proof is on B

Scope of the section The general burden of proof is upon the party who would be unsuccessful in the case if no evidence at all were given, and such party ... 465 In that case Alderson B ... by simply ascertaining on ... the proper test is, which party ... Now here, supposing no ... uld be entitled to the verdict, what particular p... from the defend... former and so on continues to be

... hich section 101 casts upon ... n v Sahebulla Paramanik, ... in the sense of the burden ... Lale Daulata v Ganesh, ... Kali Parshad, 23 W R.

owing to particular circumstances, the ... very slight evidence may suffice to dischar... side—"slight evidence" means evidence which does not go the whole length of proving a particular fact, but merely suggests it Har Dyal v Raj Kristo, 21 W R 107 The burden of proving the nature of the transfer is on the person whose success depends upon the substantiation of the case set up by him Kashibai v Laduram, S N L R 18... evidence of either side, that side must l... laid Ghasi v Manga, A I R 1930 ... 710, see also Badri v Baijnath, A I ...

103. The burden of proof as to any particular fact lies on that person who wishes the Court to believe in its existence, unless it is provided by any law that the proof of that fact shall lie on any particular person.

Burden of proof as to particular fact 3.

Illustration

(a) A prosecutes B for theft, and wishes the Court to believe that B admitted the theft to C A must prove the admission

B wishes the Court to believe that, at the time in question, he was elsewhere He must prove it

Scope of the section The difference between this section and section 101, consists in this By section 101 the party has to prove the whole of the facts which he alleges, to entitle him to judgment when the burden of the proof is on him The present section provides for the proof of some one particular fact The illustration sufficiently points to the meaning The whole of the fact however numerous and complicated, which go to make up the prisoner's guilt must be proved by the prosecution If the prisoner wishes to prove a particular fact his alibi, for instance, he must prove it If the prosecutor wishes to prove the case, not by independent oral testimony, but by the isolated fact of the prisoner's admission, or if he wishes to throw that in as an additional fact, he must prove it Nort Ev 290 So the burden of proof of any particular fact is upon the party who alleges the affirmative of such fact It is only nece ary to add, and t ... the pleading is to be ... the Court be misled by ... o the burden of proof ... eason of their complexity or difficulty of proof, or by virtue of some statutory provision, the burden is cast upon the person denying the allegation Cockle Cas Ev 125 In Soward v Leggatt, 7 C & P 613, Lord Abinger C B said "Looking at these things according to common sense, we should consider what is the substantive ... not so much the ... e and effect of t ... if his pleading ... The plaintiff here says, 'you did not repair', he might have said 'you let the house become dilapidated' I shall endeavour by my own view to arrive at the substance of the issue and I think in the present case that the plaintiff's counsel should begin" Where the plaintiffs wished the Court to believe that there was wilful neglect or theft by railway servants, it lay on the plaintiffs under s 103 to give proof of the act B B and C I Railway v Ramlal, 43 B 769=21 Bom L R 779=52 Ind Cas 516 The plaintiff who comes into Court alleging that on the ... property accrued to ... ce of ... efore ... 1925) ... his ... tate ... his statement To cast the burden on the defendants would run counter the provisions of ss 101 and 102 Subbarayalu v Venamma, A I R 1930 Mad 712=123 Ind Cas 197

... le to make ... it affirm ... perly," the ... The proof ... e question, ... nce" He ... stated ... proof ... e fact ... state ... o th ... matter ... North ... The cases are somewhat co ... ting ... application of ... eight ... sorts ... ought to be established, and which must be specially alleged in the pleading (2) Those which are merely implied from the allegation of affirmative facts, since the existence of such affirmative facts, precludes the negative thereof". McKelvey's Ev § 33 In an action for malicious prosecution, the plaintiff made two main allegations (1) that the defendant prosecuted him (2) that he had no reasonable cause f The bu

is an e fact by fore th through not aff Cast
for that reas
tion of a negative, and we have been pressed with the proposition that, when a negative is to be made out, the onus of proof shifts. That is not so If the assertion of a negative is an essential part of the plaintiff's case, the proof of the assertion still rests upon the plaintiff The terms 'negative' and 'affirmative' are, after all, relative, and not absolute In dealing with a question of negligence, that term may be according to the definition adopte Whenever a person asserts affirmativ facts is present or absent, or that ular purpose, that is an averment which he is bound to prove positively As to the burden of proceeding —i e of introducing evidence—that at the start is with the plaintiff He must make a prima facie case on his negative proposition before the defendant need go forward with any evidence Of the second class of negative propositions, perhaps as good an illustration as any is found in a case where the plaintiff seeks to recover upon an express contract In his complaint he sets contract—is upon him, the burden of proof still remains with the plaintiff He where what is really being talked of is burden of proceeding McKelvey's Ev 33 The general rule of evidence is that if in order to make out a title, it is necessary to prove a negative the party who avers a title cannot be absolved from proving it Moshiq Ali v Husunnissa 114 Ind Cas 113 = A I R 1929 Oudh 20), Pulin Behari v Watson 9 W R 190 = B L R Sup Vol 901 (F B)

Burden of proving fact to be proved to make evidence admissible 104 The burden of proving any fact necessary to be proved in order to enable any person to give evidence of any other fact is on the person who wishes to give such evidence.

Illustrations

(a) A wishes to prove a dying declaration by B A must prove B's death

(b) A wishes to prove, by secondary evidence, the contents of a lost document

A must prove that the document has been lost

Scope of the section The burden of proof in the sense of adducing evidence, applies not only to matters which are the subject of express allegation in the pleadings, but also to those that relate merely to the admissibility of evidence or to the construction of documents Thus a party desiring to adduce a hearsay statement (R v Thompson, [1893] 2 Q B 12) or secondary evidence of lost deed, must first establish the conditions necessary to its reception, and if a document be ambiguous, the party tendering it has the burden of showing that his interpretation thereof is correct Falck v Williams, (1900) A C 176 181 (P C), Halsbury Vol 13, p 435 "The illustrations point the section which is but a rather verbose way of stating, that no person shall be allowed to give evidence before he has shown that he is in a legal position to do so Norl Ev 290

General principles as regards burden of proof The doctrine of onus probandi, only applies to a case when the mind of the Judge is in doubt as to the point on which side the balance should fall in coming to a conclusion As a case proceeds the onus ... appa v Tippala 56 I A 13 = 53 B 213 = 114 ... 8 = 33 C W N 238 The question on wh... is of very little importance when evidence has been given by both side Sati Prosad v Gobinda Chander, 33 C W N 227 = A I R 1929 Cal 325, Meair v Abdul Bari 119 Ind Cas 222 = A I R 1929 R 183, Gopal Rao v Hiralal, 83 Ind Cas 246 = A I R 1925 Nag 225, Minabai v Yadro, 103 Ind Cas 166, Fez Din v Nawab Khan 9 Lah 224 = 112 Ind Cas 89 = A I R 1928 Lah 432 Sime Darby v Official Assignee 30 Bom L R 290 = 107 Ind Cas 233 = 47 C L J 339 = A I R 1928 (P C) 77, Sunder Mull v Satya Kinkar, 55 I A 8 = 47 C L J 403 = 32 C W N 657 = A I R 1928 (P C) 64 = 54 M L J 127 (P C), Jeoralhan v Mt Goura, 95 Ind Cas 826, Jnanendra Nath v Nalini 87 Ind Cas 565 = A I R 1925 Cal 1269; Gopal Rao v Hiralal, 83 Ind Cas 246 = A I R 1925 Nag 225, Paliram v Kamalji, 78 Ind Cas 330 = 1924 Nag 363, Saraswati v Yadorao 78 Ind Cas 887, Sonaji v Daulat 75 Ind Cas 782, Goverdan Das v Hari Lal, 69 Ind Cas 541; Mahomed v Mujubali 27 C W N 328, Nihal Chand v Gurditta 1923 Lah 641, Muhammad v Johanat 9 O L J 404 = 1922 Oudh 774, Sri Chidambara v Veerarama, 45 M 586 = 43 M L J 640, Almas v Majub, 36 C L J 196 = (1922) Cal 461; Bonamali v Lalu 1 P L T 102 = 5 P L J 151 = 55 Ind Cas 841 Sukan Sao v Ram Mahton, 5 P L J 87 = (1920) P 131 = 54 Ind Cas 652; Jharu Singh v Tolkaram, 52 Ind Cas 860 Burden of proof depends on circumstances of each case Dwarka Prosad v Nasir Ahmed, A I R. 1925 Oudh 16 The placing of burden of proof wrongly is immaterial provided no party is prejudiced Hem Chandra De v Amiyobala, 52 C 121 = 84 Ind Cas 693 = A I R 1925 Cal 61 The question upon which party the onus of proving any particular point ... Mahomed Taiz, ... material ... ommat when ... Ali, 3 Lah L J 415 The term onus probandi, in its proper use, merely means, that, if a fact has to be proved, the person whose interest it is to prove such ... slight, upon which a Court could ... that he shall call all ... he lays ... e basis of a judgment and decree upon that ... Girdhari Lal, A W N 1898, 107 Mis-placement of the burden of proof is only a ground for remanding the case if the circumstances had been such that by placing the burden of proof on the wrong party, somebody has been misled or taken by surprise, or had no opportunity of adducing evidence Hulal v Ramgati 11 C L R 581 Where the onus is upon the defendant to prove a certain fact, but the plaintiff, without waiting for the defendant's evidence took upon himself to prove it, he cannot subsequently say that the defendant did not discharge onus Sajan Kunwar v Joti Prosad, 10 Ind. Cas 223 The burden of proof must be placed according to the pleadings and any preliminary examination of the parties, and, for the final decision of the case, the burden remains upon the same party When the party who has to discharge the burden of proof, has made out a ... of proof ... the shifts on to the other part ... fav... point at issue would be ... case When, however, the Judge has heard the whole case, he must weigh the evidence for both parties, placing the burden of proof as it was originally placed. S.

Supposing the party upon whom the burden of proof lies makes out a prima facie nec

to at t whc a p bur
Inn
imp him Cou hav bee
cas
the person that the fact
v. Mun M
prove that th such proof, the law her Varjuandas, 8 Bom L R 025=30 B 018 Where the relevant facts are before the Court and all that remains for decision is what inference is to be drawn from them, the question of burden of proof is not pertinent and this is more so at the appellate stage Trimbakdas v Mathabaj, 27 N L R 75=A I. R 1930 Nag 225 [47 I. A 76=43 M 567 and 49 I A 286=43 M L J. 640 (P. C) and A I R 1922 Cal 160 Fol]; see also Muhammad v Feroze, A I R 1932 P C 228 In a case of two rival claimants to properties in the hands of stake holder, there is equal burden of proof upon both Kallari v Karuppa, 120 Ind. Cas 379=A. I R 1930 Mad 341

BURDEN OF PROOF—ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.

Abadi—stranger in possession Where a stranger is found to be in pc
pc
cj
in license were such as disentitled the proprietor from re-entry on the site Bhagwan v Raghular, 86 Ind. Cas 763=A I R. 1925 Nag 396 nt of account sum to be due but the prima

, 24 W. R 202

certain sum, which had been exceeded, the suit is not liable to be dismissed unless the defendants show that they were neither servants nor contractors for profit and l as between had receive
C. L J 245=A I R 1925 Cal 418 Where the accounts between the parties were settled and a balance struck, the burden is on the defendant to prove payment of the amount due Indraj Mal v. Laje Ram, 6 Lah L J 593=86 Ind Cas 383=A I R 1925 Lah 278 Every presumption is made against a person suppressing account books and on proof of a prima facie case the party suppressing has the burden of proving the contrary. Venkataramayya v. Pitchammo, A. I R 1925 Mad 164 Where a plaintiff sues for a specific sum of money due on a balance Rutton
ken and settled and a party alleges error in the accounts, the onus of proving it rests on that party Kakoo v Nutha, 47 P R 1866 The onus is not on the defendant to prove the contrary, but on the plaintiff to prove his allegation that he has in the account, dant, credited the defendant the plaintiff to have been made fact of payments by a banking firm being distinctly put in issue, the mere general statements of the banker to the effect that his books were correctly kept was held not sufficient to discharge the burden of proof that lies upon him, the books of the firm being at most corroborative evidence, particularly, if he has the means of producing much better evidence. Boboo Gunga v Baboo Indrajit, 23 W R 390 P C. be taken as a settleme en the parties at the time C W N 309 Where consideration is pleaded, the burden of proving that there was no consideration rests on N Nihal v Dol Singh, A. I. R 1932 Lah 135

Acknowledgment Where som

Acquiescence In case of acquiescence the onus is on the defendants to show (1) that they made a mistake as to their legal rights, (2) that they had expended money on the faith of that belief, (3) that the plaintiff knew of the laimed by the n belief in his lants in their his legal right.

Admission of liability Where a defendant admits a debt but pleads that it is barred, he has to prove his plea Where however there is no such admission, the plaintiff has to prove everything required to entitle him to a decree Subbarayalu v Vengaua, 123 Ind Cas 197=A. I R 1930 Mad 742

Adverse possession It is for prove possession prior to the alleged dis raja Jagadindra Nath, 10 C W N A 23=16 C 473 A co-parcener holding an item of property left undivided at a family partition is a mere co o property he must prove that to their knowledge Vaiyapuri v 929 Mad 27. The burden a proving title by adverse possession lies upon the person claiming to have acquired title by such possession Kanhaiya Lal v. Girwar, 27 A L J. 1106=119 Ind Cas 6=A. I R 1929 A 753; Radha v English, 7 C. L R 364 P. C.; Jano v. Narasingh Das, 117 Ind. Cas 803=A. I R. 1929 Lah. 549 Nawab v. Gopinath, 13 C L J 625, Nayamtulla v Nana, 13 B 424. If in a suit by a landlord, the tenant proves continuous possession for more than 12 years the zemindar has to prove which portion of the period did not count for the accrual of rights Foria v. Kumar, L R 4 A 185 In a suit for possession of lands which have re-formed upon the old site after diluvion, the defendant set up adverse possession for twelve years Held that the burden lay in possession of this suit R

Agent. The burden of proof is on the person dealing with any one as an agent, through whom he seeks to charge another as principal He must show that agency did exist, and that the agent had the authority he assumed to exercise, or otherwise Assaram Bridican v Mathura Das, L a suit to recover advances alleged who pleads acquittance, plaintiff is to prove the payment to and receipts from the Gomastha Robert Watson v Sridhar, 10 W R. 421. Agents entrusted to collect money on account of an insolvent estate are each of them, bound to prove to the ounts charged den of proof a suit against ius lies on the agent of the Hathe Ram

Agriculturists Law does not recognize the principle of giving benefit of doubt to a party on whom the burden of proof lies Burden of proving that ribe is on him, especially when entries in Thacker Das v. Ghulam Mohammed, 94 Ind

Alluvion and diluvion Where in a suit by plaintiffs to recover possession of alluvial lands on the allegation of dispossession, the defendants denied the plaintiffs' title and possession, held that the burden of proof, as to possession and dispossession, within twelve years prior to suit, lay on the plaintiffs James v Dinanath, 11 W R 566

Ante-dating The onus of showing that a document duly executed and registered was ante dated lies on the person who alleges it Krishnamurti v Krishnamurti, A I R 1925 Mad 933=49 M L J 252=(1925) M W. N 632=85 Ind Cas 882

Appeal In appeals the burden of showing that the judgment appealed from is wrong lies upon the appellant Nabakishore v Upendrakishore, 26 C. W N 322=20 A L J 22=35 C L J 116=42 M L J 253=24 Bom L R 346; Taramani v Gopal Das, 65 Ind Cas 182, Firm of Probhu Dial v Dina Nath, 65 Ind Cas 464, Mustafa Husain v Saidul, 99 Ind Cas. 255=A I R 1927 Oudh 66, Lal Shah v Hiralal, 106 P R 1917

Appropriation Payments of rent cannot be credited to arrears of previous years beyond the term of limitation Payments for rents are presumed to be for current years and surplus payments for past year Taramonee v Kally Churn, W R 1864 Act X Rul 14 Moneys paid by a tenant as rent without any specification may be credited by the landlord as he thinks fit. Shurno Moyee v Kashee Kant, 7 W R 511 Where transactions between two firms of bankers were renewed after an interval without any account of outstanding debts being drawn up, and in a suit for the old debts the defendants set up the plea that those were barred by limitation in as much as payments made after the interval were appropriated, by a special agreement, to the discharge of loans advanced thereafter Held that the onus of proving such special appropriation lies on the defendant. Radha Kishun v Hiralal, 31 C. W. N. 566=45 C L J 318 (P. C.)

Arbitration When a Court is affirmed that a suit has been instituted in contravention of an arbitration-agreement, it has a discretion to stay the suit, but the burden lies on the plaintiff to show that some sufficient reason exists why the matter should not be referred to arbitration, and not on the

4. defendant to show that no such reason exists Vollart v Fateh, 61 Ind Ca 322; Ganesh Das v Durga Das, 60 Ind. Cas 776.

Attachment claim Although where the assignee of a decree wishes to execute it, it is incumbent on him to apply under s 232 Civil Procedure Code 1882, yet, if at the date of the assignment, the judgment debtor's property is already under attachment, it is not necessary for the assignee to apply for a fresh attachment Hafiz v Abdullah, 16 A. 133 = A W. N 1894, 13

Auction purchaser The right of a purchaser at a revenue sale in getting rid of encumbrances is such that he is in many cases allowed to have the benefit of a certain presumption, and by virtue thereof to throw the burden of proof on his opponent, the presumption being founded mainly upon the principle that every bigha of land is bound to pay and contribute to the public revenue, unless it can be brought within certain known and specified exceptions Nityanund v Banshi, 3 C W N 341; Forbes v Meer Mahamed, 20 W. R 45

Avoidance of encumbrance A person seeking to obtain the benefit of s 12, Bengal Act VII of 1868 must give some prima facie evidence to show that the incumbrance which he seeks to avoid is an encumbrance falling within the terms of the section—that ... tenure by some one who previously held it ... 230 In a suit by the purchaser of a ... the Rent Act (Ben Act VIII of 1869), to ... the defendant on the gro ... by an autho ... plaintiff to ... plaintiff is ... Reily, 13 C 1

Award Any party wishing to set aside an award on the ground that the arbitrators in arriving at an unfair award either refused to hear somebody or heard the n ... e hearing undertakes the burden of satisfying ... happened Gobind Sing v Bhirgu nath, 82 In Bailment ... the burden of proof l ... would have exer ... Byau, 74 Ind Ca ... by the plaintiff, it lies on the defendants to show that they took as much care of the goods as a man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances ... t the loss occurred notwith ... d Co, 22 M 524, Kashi ... v E I Ry, 82 Ind Cas ... N 1887, 44

... n transaction is ... whose name the ...

... Suleman v Meni 25 C W N ...

Rati ... (P ... Rad ... Ana ... pro ... Sar ... Pat ... but ... him ... Po ... mar ... Ma ... lan ... is not the true owner, the plaintiff can only rely on his claim as purchaser in good faith for value from a person who, by the act of the true owners had become the plaintiff. Rullo S. 1 posses a receipt in proving that the ly on the debtor

Bill of exchange T of a hundi to prove th to non presentment of the h ep-tional circumstances that the drawer could not have suffered any damage owing to non-presentment Bhikhi Mal v Raghubar, 88 Ind Cas 915=23 A L J 861

Bond Where the consideration for a bond is disputed the burden of proving repayment is Manik v Narbassan, 88 Ind Cas 251=A ontains stipulation as to interest onus found its way into the bond without his c I R 1925 Lah 64 Where an unregistered document, such as a bond or a receipt or an entry in an account book the execution of which is admitted or proved contains an admis sion or recital of the payment of consideration the onus lies on the person who Chand
Lah
n of
the
I R
1930 Mad 476

Boundary disputes The onus lies on the person setting up the plan to

of a boundary removed by one of the parties general direction proved by the other party lies on the party who removes it Judoonath v Ranee Kristo Leelanund v Mohesuar Singh, 3 W R 19 P C=10 M I A 81 Where a decision of the High Court fixing Council would not interfere with the s boundary was of the vague and the allega-
It
rds, esur sion loo held that plaintiff should prove that lands are within his talook Ganga Mala v Madhub Chunder, 10 W R 413 In a question of boundary between a lakheraj tenure and in favour of one or o his case Beerchun parcels of land alleged to have been comprehended in one plot, where the one held by burden of part of the land held by Nath, 12 W R 79 khas pos alleging that the land by the tenant beyond his proper bo lies on the landlord Rhiday recover a quantity of land by rectification of certain survey awards, which he averred demarcated erroneously the boundary between his zemindary and the zemindaries of the defendants, it was held, on a consideration of the evidence that his suit was rightly dismissed, because he failed to prove the position or existence of a stream, which he stated was the true boundary between the zem 13 W. R. P. C. 7 In ah, but situated in failed to prove the rights, were not entitled to recover possession of any land which the drying up of the water way lay bare Monohur Choudhury v Nursingh Choudhury, 11 W. R 272

Carrier A common carrier in this country is liable as a carrier, that is he is responsible for the safety of the goods entrusted to him in all events except when loss or injury arises from the act of God or King's enemies But his liability may be raised by contract common carrier, on proof of negligence 565=29
Ind Cas 716=17
C L J 639.

suit is barred under Order Abdul Qadir v Imamdin the plaintiff in a suit under ablish the right which he 190=A I R 1929 Pat 579

In a suit instituted under Order 21, rule 63, the onus of establishing that the good faith lies on the to the rule 121 Where of 1859, held under s 235 by s 239 3 Plaintiff nt made by dant having he plaintiff
who impugned that order by the present suit, to prove title under the purchase alleged by her by proving both the payment of the purchase-money and her possession since the purchase and the lower Court was therefore held to have been wrong in having thrown the burden of proof in the suit on the defendant Govind Atmaram v Santal, 12 B 270 On a claim being denied the ordinary tests of ain business
Vol. II, 230
to establish having failed in of proving that he acquired property in good faith and for consideration lies on him Narayan v. Bhisraj, 2 N. L R 87. In a suit to set aside an order dismissing a claim petition, the burden will be on the plaintiff to show that he was entitled to the property. Nachaippa v Chinnian, 4 L W 362=36 Ind. Cas. 794

... den of proving ... d. Cas. 1055=11 ... L J. ...

Confession In a cor... tion is that the confessic... confession recorded under ... v Emperor, A. I. R 1932 Sind 201.

Consideration Where it has been admitted or proved that an admission of consideration has been made or executed in a document, the onus of proving want of consideration rest ... Paras Das v Suraj Bhan, ... the execution of which ... of payment of consideration, the onus is upon the person executing the document to prove that he did not receive the consideration Firm of Ganda Singh, v Nur Ahmed, 96 Ind Cas 820=A I R 1926 Lah 653; see also Ma Tin v Ramaswami Chetty, 5 Bur L J 49=95 Ind Cas 384, Pannun Ram v Ghulam 27 P L R 463=7 Lah 297=96 Ind Cas 630=A I R 1926 Lah 494 Where a document was concluded in the following terms —The 'undersigned promised to pay to A the sum of Rs 1,000 payable during the period of one year without ...

it would have been if the suit had been brought against the mortgagor alone ...

Cas 732 ...

from the recital therein drew an inference that the bond was supported by consideration Held, that there was no error of law committed by the lower Court. Jadu Mondal v Jogendra Nath, 68 Ind Cas 303. Where a person

104. executes and delivers a conveyance of his property and also gets it registered and the sale deed contains a recital of receipt of consideration, the burden of proving want of consideration for the sale is on the vendors J H Power v Dau Shue, 1 Bur L J 22 In a case of a formally registered document in which the receipt of consideration has been recited, the onus of proving that consideration did not actually pass is on the party who alleges non payment. In the case of an entry in an account book, however, the onus is on the party alleging payment to prove it Rulla Singh v Tunia Mal, 60 Ind Cas 7?? Either party to a document may show that there was in fact no consideration though consideration was recited therein or that the consideration was in reality different from what was stated in the deed Krishna Kishore De v Narendra Bala, 34 C L J. 333 In a suit for redemption brought by the purchasers of the equity of redemption, the sale deed was a registered document and contained an admission of the executant that full consideration had been paid but the mortgagee contended that the sale was a sham and without consideration Held, that the burden was on the executant of the deed and on people claiming under him to prove that what apparently happened did not happen Chhishane Ali v Jamna Parsad, 48 Ind Cas 365 (P C) = 24 O C 272 It is the established practice of the Courts in India in cases of contract to require proof that consideration has been actually received, according to the terms of ... import that ... , however ... ke out a ... onsidera ... A 28? ... or er, the ... his plai ... on by the assignees of the equity of redemption, the onus of proving that the mortgagor did not in fact receive the moneys which he acknowledged by his execution of the mortgaged deed to have received, is prima facie on the plaintiff Muhammad Ahahyar v Muhammad Samiuddin, A. W N. 1887 245

Contract. The party who alleged that a contract is conditional on the happening of a certain contingency must prove the existence of such a condition by clear and unequivocal evidence. Firm of Ganesh Lal v Firm of Debi 10? Ind Cas 265 = A I R 1927 Lah 481 The ordinary presumption is in favour of the legality of a contract and it is for those who assert that it was not intended to perform the contract in the manner recited therein, to prove their assertion The Firm Kanaai v Firm Ganpat Rai Ram Jiwan, 7 Lah 442 = 94 Ind Cas 304 = A I R 1926 Lah 318 The burden of proving that there was an act which rendered a contract impossible of performance lies on the party to the contract who alleges it Wuzeera v Mooroodeen, 77 P R 1866

Contention. Where on the decree as passed, several defendants were made jointly and severally liable, in the subsequent suit for contribution by one of them, it was for any defendant ... able to pay the full share, to plead and prove it ... ing partner did not shift the onus from whe ... v Karim Bakhsh, 95 Ind Cas 1007 = A ... contribution for money admittedly paid by ... reasury, on account of defendant's share of the revenue, where the defendants plead previous payment to the plaintiff, the onus of proving such payment lay upon the defendants Mahadeo v Laboree Misser, 24 W R 250 Where in a suit between two judgment debtors to recover money alleged to have been paid in satisfaction of decrees obtained against them by J, who had been wrongfully ... that he entered into ... ains that the right of ... rden was held to l... v Bahadur Singh, 19 ... r recovery of excess ... co-sharers to share ... their shares ... Jolu Si...

S. 1

tion i stand onus evider
36 C L J 64 P C

Copy right—Infringement of Where in a case of infringement of copy right the complainant produces his certificate of registration and the book published at that time, and he further testifies that the book is not the same as that produced by his father the onus lies on the defence to show that matter contained in the complainant's book was also contained in the previous book Emperor v Sheo Charan, 131 Ind Cas 865=A I R 1931 All. 353=1931 A. L. J 304

Criminal cases Where the accused gave the deceased a beating the previous day and were seen by various persons on the occasion, it was highly impossible that they would murder the person the next day Sheo Ram v Emperor, 1923 Lah 430 It is the first principle of criminal law, that where a statute creates a criminal offence, the ingredients of that offence must be strictly proved, and that where the doing of an act without authority or without consent is made a criminal offence, and the statute does not expressly put upon the accused the proof of such consent or authority it is a necessary part of the case for the prosecution to negative by evidence such consent or authority Brij Basi v. Queen Empress, 19 A 74=A W N 1896, 178 In a criminal case the burden

Courts should presume the absence of such circumstances Queen Empress v Prag Dutt, 20 A 459=A W N 1898, 117, see also Queen-Empress v Bai Mahakai, Rat Un Cr C 820 involving a departure from the o by the person setting it up Guru 27 I A 238=23 A 37 P C must be proved by those who asser 318, Latti Begam v Nawab Mo Mohanlal, 9 C P L R 47

Damages In a suit for damages for malicious prosecution the plaintiff no
him 534; 332
193,

Debt and Debtor The burden of proving that a certain payment was made in full satisfaction of a debt is on the person alleging it Barada Kanta v Jitendra Nath, 49 C L J 560 It is elementary law that when a creditor sues the debtor for the payment of a debt and the defence is that the debtor paid

4. the debt to another person it is for the debtor to prove that the other person had or had been held out to the debtor by the creditor as having had the authority of the creditor to receive payment of the debt on behalf of the creditor Muhammad v Les Taneries Lyonnaises, 49 M 435 = A I, R 1926 P. C 34 = 31 C W N 1 When a debtor pleads tender of payment as a ground for not being ... Ranee Shurut Soonduree ... 69 If a debt is proved or ... debtor Mobarik v Seca ... against the son of a deceased ... proving the ... son Mamraj ... ndant pleaded ... f establishing his case by the fact of an admission of the plaintiff that the actual consideration was different from that described in the bond Lal Singh v Chaitram, 15 C P L R 24 The burden of proof that a creditor by agreeing to an arrangement whereby a firm indebted to him conveyed to two of the partners thereof certain property in trust to pay off his and certain other debts and thereby released the remaining members of the partnership lies upon the parties who were originally liable to such creditor Kalaikhan v Madho, 3 N W. P 129

Declatatory title In a suit for a declaration of title by plaintiff who had ... to establish ... fails to do so ... obligation to ... tory Abdul ... or immovable ... advantage of ... Mega v ... roprietor ... arana, 2 ... his own ... hammed ... as heir to his uncle's property and for the reversal of a deed of sale from that uncle set ... Nath v ... luce the ... to it ... ssion of ... to the ... ould be ... on the defendants the burden of proving the document by primary evidence or by secondary evidence on properly accounting for its non-production Ram v Raghu, 7 A 738

Dedication In a suit for a declaration that a certain property is waqf the onus is on the plaintiff, to prove that the property has been dedicated as waqf Rahim v Channan, 55 Ind Cas 210

Deeds In a suit to set aside an order of the Small Cause Court in which that Court had held that a certain kobala was mala fide, the onus is on the plaintiff that it has been executed bona fide Ishan Chandra v Rakimuddin, 2 B L R A C 326 N = 10 W R 412 Where it is found on the face of a deed creating a trust that the transaction is bona fide, it is for the creditors who impugn the bona fide nature of the trust to prove their plea Kasheshurree v Krishna Kamini 2 Hay 557 Where certain deeds are duly executed and ... ons lies ... C) ... 3 A ... ation towards another every ... ciary character towards ano... ... ntly, and bona fide, without influencing the donor, who has acted independently of him Wajid Khan v. Ewaz Ali, 18 C 545 = 18 I A. 144 (P C) The genuineness and due execution of a bond does not dispense with the necessity of proof of consideration therefor Baboo Ghansham v. Chulouree, W R 1864, 197 S.

Where the executant of a mortgage deed denies receipt of consideration in a the executant of the receipt of the whole sum in cash, where it is proved that onus is on the Lala Lakshmi

Easement Where in a suit for possession, the defendant claims a right of easement the onus is on him to establish it Duni Chand v Nizamuddin, 26 P. L R 301 Where in a suit for injunction, the defendant sets up that he had acquired a right of easement, the onus is on him to prove that he had acquired an easement Bya Ram v Brij Lal, 26 P L R 42 = A I R 1925 Lah 297. Where the right to have a way of water course over certain land is disputed by the owner thereof and an order under s 532 of the Criminal Procedure Code, has been passed by the Magistrate in favour of the person claiming the right, the fact of such an order having been made will not be sufficient to relieve the latter from the onus of proving the claim in a subsequent suit by the owner to establish his right to the exclusive use of the land Obhoy Churn v Lukhy Monee, 2 C L R 555 In an ejectment suit, the defendant in possession though a tresspasser, is entitled to require the plaintiff to prove that he has superior title Kalu v Barsu, 19 B 803 In a case where an easement is claimed over defendant that he acquired it by grant or use W R 281. In a suit to remove allegation that plaintiff is entitled plaintiff was bound to make good the R 83

...nd sought
d that the
...ords, how
... virtue of after that
...mstances
32 C W
...ent, even proof of he relies valid one

Kumar, 91 Ind Cas 761 = A I R 1926 Cal 559 In a suit by the recorded relation
...urden is Isicar

Held that

to eject the defendant the latter sets up the existence of a tenancy entitling him to retain possession, the burden is upon him to prove the nature of his tenancy and his rights to remain in possession Probodh Chandra v Birsinha, 71 Ind Cas 319 Where the recorded tenant of a holding who has been paying rent sets up a claim them Tulsi v prior possession is primarily upon period Khedon suit in ejectment where the ownership of the plaintiff is proved and the defendant sets up a right of permanent occupancy, the burden of proving such a right is on the defendant Rangasami v Gnana Sambandu, 22 M 264

Enhancement of rent In cases of enhancement of rent, onus lies on the landlord to show that he is entitled to such enhancement Birendra v Ali 33 C L J 605; Hem v Kali, 26 C 832; Raj Krishna v Kali, 6 B L R App 122 Rama Nath v Jote Kumar, 11 C. L J 1; Surja v. Daneswar, 24 C 251 But when in such a suit the tenant pleads that no enhancement should be granted on the ground that he is a tenant at fixed rate, the onus is on the defendant to prove that he is such a tenant Gudar v Brijnandan, 5 C W N 880 Execution Under section 102 of the Evidence Act when once the execu... is admitted, the onus is on the ...

its terms, even if he is an illiterate ...
27 P. L R 641=97 Ind Cas 71=A I R 1926 Lah 692 Where in a suit on a mortgage bond alleged to be lost, the defendant denies execution ...

Ind Cas 803 A person to whom a decree is transferred must prove his title to execute it if his title be disputed Ganesh v Chundee, 6 W R Mis 126 Where, in execution of a decree, a share of an estate is sold, and the representatives of the purchaser absorb more land than belonged to that share and bring a suit to declare their rights, held that there should have been a clear finding as to what was the extent of the share originally purchased and that, in determining the claim of the representatives to the increase, the burden of a very distinct nature should be laid on them Urnopoorna v Rajbullu, W. R (1864) 151 Where a person denies to have signed a particular document the burden of proving that the document signed was not intended to be what it was expressed to be is initially on him Ghasi v Rup, A. I R 1937 Lah 602 that it was not registrable in the place where it was done and proves that there ... did not belong to ... fraud on the ... The person ... should prove ... suit against a purchaser to set aside a sale in execution of a decree on the ground of fraud, the onus lies upon the plaintiff to make out that the sale was fradulent Ramjati v Imitari, 1 B. L R S N 20 Where the defendant alleged that plaintiff's assignment was fraudulent, the onus was on him to prove that the transaction was not bona fide Lalbehari v Srinath 3 B L R A C 73 Note Where a decree holder in a suit to establish his claim to certain property as that of his judgment debtor, al ... the defendant was fraudulently execut ... to prove the fraud ... c) = 10 W R 321 property thereby, it is for ... nd suing to recover the ... hose facts which constitute ... to bring the suit The mere fact ... vigorously ... the fraud ... it Rahim ... by a Court of Justice in finding out whether or not a transfer is fraudulent can only be furthered with propriety by the testimony of the vendor who personally knowing the whole circumstances of the case can dispel the suspicions attaching to it The story can then be subjected in all its particulars to cross-examination It is an error to rely on the abstract doctrine of burden of proof Mohideen v Mahomed, A I R 1930 Mad 665 (44 I A 98 P C and 57 M L J 566 P C rel)

Fraud. The burden ... ordinarily on the person ... Nazafur ... Fatima, 94 Ind Cas ...

Good Faith The burden of proving the good faith and fairness of a transaction is on the person who claims benefit thereunder Gunabai v Matilal 89 Ind Cas 625 – A I R 1925 Nag 398

Government revenue In a suit for contribution for money admittedly paid by the plaintiff into the Government treasury on account of the defendants' share of the revenue, where the defendants plead previous payment to the plaintiff, held, that the burden of proving such payment was upon the defendants Mahadeo v Lahore, 21 W R 250

Guardian and Ward Where an alienation by a guardian is questioned by a minor after attaining majority, the onus of proving that the transaction was for necessity is not always and necessarily very heavy on the defence and if it is established that the consideration for the alienation impugned went in discharge of previous debts and there is evidence that some of such debts were contracted to save the minor's estate, the burden of proof, though in the first instance it lay upon the defence, is shifted on to the minor and it is he who must show that the alienation attacked by him was not for a purpose binding upon him Krishna Rao v Arjasami Pantay 21 Ind Cas 426, see also Hanuman Pershad Pandey's Case, 6 M I A 393, Syad Lootf Hosseins Case 23 W R 424, Oomed Rai v Hira Lal 6 S D R N W P 611, Sardar Kirpal v Balwant Singh, 17 Ind Cas 666 = 1 C W N 309 P C

Hindu Law—Adoption Where the plaintiff wants to have the adoption by the widow set aside as being without authority, the onus lies upon him Hurdyal v Roy Kristo Bhoomick, 24 W R 107 In a suit for possession of land by ... he fac ... as acq ... a me ... D s adoption because the case of a Hindu long recognized as an adopted son, there is a very strong presumption in favour of the validity of his adoption Ramkrishna v Tiru Narayan A I R 1932 Mad 198 = 62 M L J 116 But in ordinary cases grave and serious onus rests on persons seeking to displace natural succession by act of adoption Balak Ram v Nanu Mal A I R 1930 Lah 579

Hindu law—Alienation by Hindu widow ... validity of alienation ...

Nabakishore v Upendra, 26 C W. N. 222 (P. C); Hari v. Kasi, 19 C W N 370 (P. C); Radhakishore v. Mirtoomoy, 7 W R 23; Debi Prosad v Golap Bhagat, 40 C 721 (F B)

... to have been ... s upon the ... Rimtaran ... by a Hindu ... the charge ... t so charge ... was a competent act of the widow Cavaly Veneata v Collector of Musulipatam 10 W. R. 47 P C = 11 M I A 619 So in a suit by heir of a mortgagee against a Hindu proprietor's heirs, in possession after the death of his widow to enforce a mortgage by her, the burden of proving the money to have been advanced to ... Maheshar ... ham ... B ... ath ... on ... uch ... the ... Rao v Ram Chunder, 11 A 256

... Where a person after ...

... tly in a case of need or for the benefit of the estate (2) But where, in the particular instance, the charge is ... it the estate, the bona fide ... of the estate (3) The ... serted, or the benefit to be ... ng to be regarded. (4) The lender is bound to enquire into the necessities for the loan, and satisfy himself as well as he can, with reference to the parties with whom he is dealing that the manager is acting, in the particular instance, for the benefit of the ... stance of an ... ecedent ... bound ... e in the ... v

... The authority of the shebait of an ... to that of the manager of an infant ... 14 B L R 450 = 23 W R 253, ... C)

Hindu Law—Inheritance ... property by right of inheritance, in the ... must establish his descent and legi... Cas 220

... the onus clearly depends ... ot an invariable obligation ... It ... y rules of evidence ... pleadings but it frequently ... is true that the normal ... there is a presumption to ... ether in certain circum... ry weak and again it may ... party and be fixed on the shoulders of another Sarjoo Prosad v. Deadat Lal, 1 O W. N. 958=105 Ind Cas. 410=A I. R. 1927 Oudh 499

Hindu Law—Partition Where in a suit for possession on the ground of a prior partition the plaintiff proves severance of interest, it will be on the defendant, who sets up a case of some of the brothers remaining joint to prove that plea Challa Lakshnakka v. Bala Rangappa, 91 Ind Cas 285=A I R 1926

57=38 M L J 521=22 Bom L R 59

Hardat v Dhandhu, 84 Ind Cas 1011; Harnarayan v Suresh, 1925 P 161; Sircar's Hindu Law, 312

Hindu Law—Stridhan A Hindu wife seeking to exempt property from responsibility for her husband's debts, must clearly prove that she had stridhan, and that she purchased the property with her self-acquired funds Brojomohan v Radha Kumaree, W R 1864, 60

1925 All 811

Husband an wife Where a deed of gift by husband to wife is attached as being colourable, person attaching the same must prove the allegation Nabab Mirza v Nabab Fakar, A I R 1932 P C. 13

Income tax When an assessee states that he has no income from a

In re Bishnu Priya Chaudhury 73 Ind Cas 303=50 C 907=A I. R 1924 Cal 337

Insolvency In a suit against an insolvent and the Official Assignee for Insurance A claimant under a life-policy must prove that the age of the insured is correctly given Oriental Government Assurance Co. v. Narasinha, 25 M 201 But no such onus is cast upon the claimant where the age has been proved and admitted by the company in writing Ibid

Inventions It is for the person who claims an exclusive privilege under the Inventions Act to prove that the facts exist which entitle him to the privilege claimed Elgin Mills Co v Muir Mills Company, 17 A 490

Jurisdiction It is for the party, who seeks to oust the jurisdiction of the ordinary Civ ... do so District Board of Tanjore v Konnuswami ... Ali Md v Halim, 1928 L 121 (F B), Rang ... Cas 206

Lakhraj and rent free l... whether the land in question is within ... to ... the Zemindari of which patni ... that ... the lands are really within ... its ... claim those lands as Ashkar Pirattar, the onus rests on the defendants ... Bari v Hrishikesh 49 C L J 516 = A I R 1929 Cal 409

Land Acquisition Where a public body seeks to acquire, under the Land Acquisition Act, any portion of a block, which is structurally connected with the mai... show that the portion is not reasonably ... use of the house Venkataratnam, v Coll

Landlord and tenant In an ejectment suit the landholder came into Court with the allegation that the tenants had cut his rabi crops The tenants alleged that the c... ...ion of proof on the defendant ... the rabi crop was shown l... ...grown on ... in suc... cases the ... 562 In the case of ... is closed Malo ... praisement of crops ... larger amount for himself, the onus is on him to show what the actual yield is Bhuneshwari v Sukhdeo 6 Pat L T 419 = 85 Ind Cas 566 = A I R 1925 P 505 When a tenant of lands in India in a suit by his landlord to eject him from them, sets up a defence that he has a right of permanent tenancy in the lands, the onus of proving that he has such a right is upon the tenant, and proof of long ... Nainapillai v, Ramanatham ... A L J 130, see also Gopala v ... 69 Where a tenant sets up ... the Revenue Records show hi... ... fact that the rent which he ... the cesses Ram Das v Char...

Legitimacy Where a person claims under section 112 of the Evidence ... born within 280 days ... the non access of the ... macy Narendra v ... days after the death ... his father lies on those who contest his legitimacy Trilok v Luchmia, 5 Bom L R 477 It is ... wants to bring ... cases no ... relations ... J 1=1 ... M L J 56 Limitation The burden of proving that a payment was made which would ... upon the plaintiff who claims ... Jatindra Nath, 49 C L J ... where limitation is pleaded, ... prior to suit Bhiloo v Motu ... 327; Dinobandhu v James ... R 67 In all actions for ejectment where the defendants are admittedly in possession, and a fortiori where they had been in possession for a great number of years, and un... claim of title, it lies upon the plaintiff to prove his own title. Mohima v. Mohesh, 16 C 573=16 I A. 23 (P. C) iarriage took place to bring marriage, when there is un inference can be drawn riends, the oral evidence . Nabab Ali, 5 C L J.

W R P. C 283

1 (P C)

Mercantile Usage Where a contract is alleged to be an "office dhara" and where the "office dhara" refers to the practice of certain firms as seen in printed forms used by them, a plaintiff relying on the term "office dhara" must produce and prove the printed forms above mentioned Dassomal v Ram Chand, 83 Ind Cas 364=A I. R 1925 Sind 80

Mesne profits Where mesne profits are claimed by a person out of posses-

20 N L R 52=75 Ind Cas 826=1924 Nag. 117

Minor. Where a deed is executed by a person who alleges himself to be a major at the time of execution, a heavey burden rests upon him or his representatives when they set up the defence of minority Sadiq Lal v Joykishore, 47 C L J. 628=32 C W N 874=A I R 1928 (P C) 152 The burden of proving that a particular deed is bad on the ground that its executant was a minor at the time of its execution lies on the person who makes the allegation Munna Lal v Kameshor Dutta, 114 Ind Cas 801=A I R 1929 Oudh 113 The burden of proving that the executant of a document is a minor lies on the person alleging it Surja Prosad v Joti Prosad, 87 Ind Cas, 445=L R 6 All 283=47 A 493=A I R 1925 All 681 In a suit brought on the basis of a contract, the burden of proof lies on the party who asserts that he was a minor at the time of contract Khanhailal v Debi Prasad, L R 6 All 219=87 Ind Cas 778=A I R 1925 All 99, Suraj v Joti Prosad, L R 6 A 283=87 Ind Cas 445=47 A 493=A I R 1925 All 681, Narain Singh v Chiranji, 22 A L J 161=79 Ind Cas 945 When the validity of a contract is questioned on the ground that the executant is a minor, it is for the plaintiff to establish by prima facie evidence that the contract was valid and entered into by a person who was cempetent to do so Dachcha Lal v Hosan King, 66 Ind Cas 811=(1922) All 210 It is on the executant of a deed, who pleads that he was a minor on the date of the execution of the deed to prove his plea Kandhai v Mohammad, 63 Ind Cas 525; Niamutullah v Gopaj 53 Ind Cas. 136=6 O L J 376

Mortgage Where a mortgage deed contains an admission of receipt of consideration before the Sub-Registrar, the onus is upon the mortgagor to disprove his admission Govindappa v Sontal, 109 Ind Cas 149 Where land is mortgaged without possession and possession is subsequently given to the

Cas 679 In a suit for redemption the onus is on the plaintiff to prove the mortgage he set up i e, that it was still subsisting Binda v Sankata Prosad, 95 Ind Cas 915 Where a mortgagor admits execution of a mortgage deed, it is for him to prove that he has not received the consideration recited in the deed Jiwa Ram v Jhanda Singh, 92 Ind Cas 316. Where land is mortgaged without possession and subsequently possession passes to the mortgagee, the burden of proving that the transfer in which possession was given was an outright sale lies on the person alleging it A T Chetty Firm v. Mahomed Kasim, 3 Rang 277=90 Ind. Cas. 1011=A. I. R. 1925 Rang 277 Where the rate of interest is usually high the burden lies on the mortgagee to prove that there was necessity to borrow at so high a rate Sagar Singh v. Mathura, 87 Ind Cas 1035=A. I. R. 1925 Oudh 5 Ordinarily the onus is on the quondam mortgagee to prove the validity of the foreclosure proceedings It does not cease to be so simply because there was an entry in the register that mutation had been effected in favour of the mortgagee Kullu v. Suran, 26 P. L. R. 734. Where the execution of the ... a fictitious and merely a ... to it up Chhidu v. D... ... of proving a mortgage ... upon the mortgagor Pamji v. Mohan Lal 71 Ind Cas. 654=1923 All. 441 Where once a mortgage has been admitted the onus is on the mortgagee to show that the mortgage has been extinguished by subsequent sale Wali Mahomed v. Mahomed 57 I. A. 86=A. I. R. 1930 P. C. 91=51 C. L. J. 371 P. C.

Notice Where the defendant led evidence on the issue as to notice they cannot be said to have held back their evidence because of the imposition of the onus on the other side Ladha Ram v. Jinda Ram 1923 Lah 339 The burden of proving a purchase without notice of a prior mortgage or contract is on the subsequent purchaser and the rule is the same for moveable as well as immoveable property Maung v. Bansi, 75 Ind Cas. 325=2 Bur L. J. 63=1923 Rang 153 The burden of proof of the giving of notice of the inquiry into the conduct of a person lies on the authority holding such enquiry Rangaswami v. Secretary, 4 L. W. 611 Where there is an affidavit of the peon serving the notice of proper service thereof, the party who impugns the fact ought to prove that there was no service Krishna v. Bhandar, A. I. R. 1928 Cal. 722

Partition Where in a suit for partition defendants resist by setting up acquiescence in their permanent right of occupancy in a part of the land the burden of proving existence of those rights is on them Subramanya v. Subramanya 56 I. A. 243=52 M. 549=31 Bom L. R. 830=A. I. R. 1929 (P. C) 156 The onus is heavy on the person who desires to show that certain partition lists were not acted upon and the parties continued to be joint in spite of those lists Venkata Krishnayya v. Rangayya, A. I. R. 1925 M 865 In a partition suit among Muhammadans burden is on plaintiff to show that it was acquired by the help of joint fund. Yusuf Mahomed v. Abubucker, A. I. R. 1925 Sind 26

... on a document purporting to ... rdanashin woman, based upon a ... to give satisfactory evidence that the ... the lady Aisha Bibi v. Muhfu... Cas. 180=46 A. 310 Ramanan...

Partnership Where the title of a deceased person to certain properties is disputed and it is shown that those properties belonged to the partnership firm the onus lies on persons claiming through the deceased person to prove that those properties belonged to him at the time of his death Ismail v. Tayabali, A. I. R. 1929 Sind 182

Perpetual and permanent settlements If a person sets up as against the Government a permanent or perpetual settlement it is incumbent on him to make out that case Prosunno v. Secretary of State, 26 C. 792=3 C. W. N. 695

Possession In a suit for possession of land the plaintiff has to prove that the land lay within his holding and not for the defendants to prove that it lay outside Sati Prosad v. Gobinda, 56 C. 805=33 C. W. N. 297=A. I. R. 1929 Cal 395 The burden of proving a subsisting title to a land lies on the party out of possession and the fact that the party in possession is forced to institute a suit under Order 21 rule 103 C. P. Code, does not shift the burden of proof on to him Rahman v. Fakir Mahomed 82 Ind Cas 861=A. I. R. 1925 Sind 201 Where in a suit for recovery of possession of land or declaration of title the defendant in possession does not admit the title of the plaintiff but says that the plaintiff is his benamidar, it is for the plaintiff to prove that the defendant is not the owner Lal Muhammad v. Ajudhia

Sheikh, 57 Ind Cas 972. Where the plaintiffs who are in possession of a property before the institution of the suit ask for a declaration of their title and confirmation of their possession as against the defendant, who seeks to disturb the possession, it is for the defendant to show that he has a better title than the plaintiffs Mahomed Husain Mia v Abdul Hamid, 50 Ind Cas 131

Posting of letter The presumption is that if a letter properly directed is proved to have been posted, it reached its destination and was received by the person to whom it was addressed. Kamkhya v. Khalil 8 Pat L T 633=102 Ind Cas 821=A. I. R 1927 Pat 305

Pre emption It is a settled rule of law that a very slight proof will shift the burden to the vendees to prove the actual payment of the price entered in the deed. Abid Ali v. Har Prosad, 119 Ind. Cas 459=A I R 1929 Oudh is on the vendee to prove that the consideration stated in the sale deed was really paid and there was an actual payment Ahmadjekhan v Gulmir, 75 Ind Cas 271.

[illegible]

Promissory note [illegible] the burden of proving [illegible] Harihar Prosad v Mahab[illegible] 632=A I. R 1931 Pa[illegible]

[illegible]

on the defence to explain how document bearing defendant's thumb impression came into existence Sahdeo v. Pulesar, A I. R 1930 Pat 598

Railway Cases Where a Railway Company was sued for compensation [illegible] t prove loss of goods [illegible] prove wilful neglect [illegible] to the terms of risk-

Recital in a deed or other instrument Where a mortgage document was executed by the father of the defendant and contained a recital that the consideration had been received by the executant, the burden lay upon the executant or his representative to prove that the recital was untrue and to satisfy the Court how he became a party to a document which contained untrue recital of this description Benoybhusan v. Dhirendra, 38 C L J. 114=74 Ind Cas 178 The onus of proving that a document to which a person has affixed his signature does not contain a correct statement of the facts and of the intention of the parties is on the person who makes the allegation Ramdas v Chandrabali, 4 Pat. L W 237=44 Ind Cas 399 When a party to a contract alleges that it is different from what on the face of it, it purports to be, the burden of proving his case lies on him, since there is a presumption that a transaction is in substance what it is in form. Eshoor Doss v Venkata, 17 M 180 Where the vendor admits receipt of full consideration in the sale deed, the burden lies heavily on him to explain the admission and prove non receipt of considertion. Johnstone v. Gopal, 12 Lah. 516=A. I R. 1931 Lah. 419

Record of rights There being a presumption of the correctness of the entries in a rec[illegible] challenging the same to prove it Parm[illegible] T. 605=A I. R.[illegible] 87 Ind. Cas 741=[illegible] an entry showing a person as possessing occupancy rights, the person who wants to challenge it ought to show it is wrong The mere fact that he was holding that the transfer in which possession was given was an outright sale lies on the person alleging it A T Chetty Firm v Mahomed Kasim, 3 Rang 367=90 Ind Cas 1011=A I R 1 the burden lies on so high a rate Saga 750 Ordinarily the onus is on the quondam mortgagee to prove the val of the forec' because there was an entry favour of the mortgagee xecution of the aded it was fictitious and merely a arty who sets it up Chhidu v Desraj the burden of proving a mortgage is al, 71 Ind Cas 654=1923 All 441 Where once a mortgage has been admitted the onus is on the mortgagee to show that the mortgage has been extinguished by subsequent sale Wali Mahomed v Mahomed, 57 I A 86=A I R 1930 P C 91=51 C L J 391 P C

Notice Where the defendants to notice they cannot be said to have held back their e of the onus on the other side Ladha Ram v burden of proving a purchase without notice of a prior mortgage or contract is on the subsequent purchaser and the rule is the same for moveable as well as immoveable property Maung v Bansi, 75 Ind Cas 328=2 Bur L J 63=1923 Rang 153 The burden of proof of the to the conduct of a person lies on the authority v Sesha 4 L W 611 Where there is ar notice of proper service thereof, the party who impugns the fact ought to prove that there was no service Krishna v Bhandar, A I R 1928 Cal 722

Partition Where in a suit for partition defendants resist by setting up acquiescence in their permanent right of occupancy in a part of the land the burden of proving existence of those rights is on them Subramanya v Subramanya 56 I A 248=52 M 549=31 Bom L R 830=A I R 1929 (P C) 156 The onus is heavy on the person who desires to show that certain partition lists were not acted upon and the parties continued to be joint inspite of those lists Venkata Krishnayya v Rangayya, A I R 1928 M 865 In a partition suit among Muhammadans, burden is on plaintiff to show that it was acquired by the help of joint fund Yusuf Mahomed v Abubucker, A I R 1930 Sind 26

on a document purporting to rdanashin woman, based upon a to give satisfactory evidence that the document has been explained and understood by the lady Aisha Bibi v Muhfuzunnissa 22 A L J 205=L R 5 A 97=78 Ind Cas 180=46 A 310, Ramanamma v Virana 54 C L J 183=35 C W N 633

Partnership Where the title of a deceased person to certain properties is disputed and it is shown that those properties belonged to the partnership firm the onus lies on persons claiming through the deceased person to prove that those properties belonged to him at the time of his death Ismail v Tayaballi A I R 1929 Sind 182

Perpetual and permanent settlements If a person sets up as against the Government a permanent or perpetual settlement it is incumbent on him to make out that case Prosunno v Secretary of State, 26 C 792=3 C W N 695

Possession In a suit for possession of land the plaintiff has to prove that the land lay within his holding and not for the defendants to prove that it lay outside Sati Prosad v Gobinda 56 C 805=33 C W N 227=A I R 1929 Cal 325 The burden of proving a subsisting title to a land lies on the party out of possession and the fact that the party in possession is forced to institute a suit under Order 21, rule 103 C P Code, does not shift the burden of proof on to him Raman v Fakir Mahomed, 82 Ind Cas 861=A I R 1925 Sind 201 Where in a suit for recovery of possession of land or declaration of title the defendant in possession does not admit the title of the plaintiff, but says that the plaintiff is his benamidar, it is for the plaintiff to prove that the defendant is not the owner. Lal Mahomed v Ajudhia

Sheikh, 57 Ind Cas 972 Where the plaintiffs who are in possession of a property before the institution of the suit ask for a declaration of their title and confirmation of their possession as against the defendant, who seeks to disturb the possession, it is for the defendant to show that he has a better title than the plaintiffs Mahomed Husain Mia v Abdul Hamid, 50 Ind Cas 431

S.

Posting of letter The presumption is that if a letter properly directed is proved to have been posted, it reached its destination and was received by the person to whom it was addressed Kamkhya v Khalik 8 Pat L T 633=102 Ind Cas 821=A I. R 1927 Pat 305

Pre emption It is a settled rule of law that a very slight proof will shift to show that the property is sold for a price less than what is stated in the sale-deed Even slight evidence may be sufficient to shift the onus on to the defendant Shiwaji v. Rotiram 89 Ind Cas 768 In a suit for pre emption the onus is on the vendee to prove that the consideration stated in the sale deed was really paid and there was an actual payment Ahmadjekhan v Gulmir, 75 Ind Cas 271

Promissory note

the burden of proving

Harihar Prosad v Mahab

632=A I R 1931 Pa

the shape of promissory notes, the burden of proof of payment is on the person

Rang 22 When ous rests upon

Singh, 12 Pat

he had made thumb mark upon any hand note but admitted that he had put his thumb mark on blank paper which might have been utilized for hand note the burden is on the defence to explain how document bearing defendant's thumb impression came into existence Sahdeo v Pulesar, A I R 1930 Pat 598

Railway Cases Where a Railway Company was sued for compensation for non-delivery of goods, held that the Railway must first prove loss of goods and on such proof the onus will shift to the plaintiff to prove wilful neglect on the part of the Railway or its servants, etc, according to the terms of risk-note E I Ry Co v Piyara Lal, A I R 1928 Lah 774

Recital in a deed or other instrument Where a mortgage document was executed by the father of the defendant and contained a recital that the consideration had been received by the executant, the burden lay upon the executant or his representative to prove that the recital was untrue and to satisfy the Court does not contain a correct statement of the facts and of the intention of the parties is on the person who makes the allegation Ramdas v Chandrabali, 4 Pat L W 237=44 Ind Cas 399 When a party to a contract alleges that it is different from what on the face of it, it purports to be, the burden of proving his case lies on him, since there is a presumption that a transaction is in substance what it is in form Eshoor Doss v Venkata, 17 M 180 Where the vendor admits receipt of full consideration in the sale deed, the burden lies heavily on him to explain the admission and prove non receipt of consideration. Johnstone v Gopal, 12 Lah. 516=A I R. 1931 Lah 119

Record of rights There being a presumption of the correctness of the entries in a record of rights ... the party alleging the same to prove it Parmesr ... L T. 805=A I R 19... 87=67 Ind Cas 741= ... ntain an entry showing a person as possessing occupancy rights, the person who wants to challenge it ought to show it is wrong The mere fact that he was holding

4. without rent is not sufficient Gouri v Jhanda, L R 4 A. 372 The entry in a record ... of the tenant ... 31 Ind Cas 56 ... favour of the ... recovery of possession of that land, and that ... holding, havi ... plot was part ... A I R 1930 ...

Registered deed Burden of proving that a registered deed was sham is on the person alleging when he was party to deed Nagaraja v Vendathanni, A I R 1933 Mad 18

Release In a suit to set aside a release deed on the ground that it was obtained by misrepresentation, and that there was no consent, when the defendant pleads that there was consideration and that the arrangement come to was reasonable, the onus is on him to prove it Hem Singh v Bagaboto Singh, 83 Ind Cas 67

Rent Where the rent has never been paid the burden of proof that rent was agreed to must surely lie on the person who asserts it, and that in this case lies on the defendant in the suit for ejectment Sukdeo v Abdul, L R 4 A 239

Sale Mere denial by the vendor of the receipt of the consideration acknowledge ... upon the v ... Where the plaintiff ... perfor mance and under which the defendant was in possession and enjoyment of the subject-matter, and in possession of the title deeds he must establish at least a good prima facie title to the relief he seeks Rampal Ram v Subha Singh, 4 Pat L J 17=53 Ind Cas 83

Sale for arrears of revenue In a suit by a ryot against an auction purchaser, claiming protection from ejectment under the proviso of section 37, Act XI of 1859, the onus of proving the character of the holding is on the ryot Donmu v Pudnun W R 1864, Act X 128 Where a taluk is sold at a revenue sale under Act XI of 1859, the burden of proving that under tenures in the taluk fall under any of the exceptions to s 37 of that Act, lies on him who alleges the under tenures to be within those exceptions Rash Behari v Hara Monee 15 C 555 The right ... incum brances is such that he ... proving the burden of proof on ... 1

Specific performance In a suit for specific performance of a contract if the plaintiff proves his prior contract, the burden of proving a subsequent bonafide transfer for value without notice under section 27(b) of the Spec fic Relief Act lies on the party alleging it Ramdeni v Gumani, 10 Pat L T 307 =119 Ind Cas 70=A I R 1929 Pat 300

... lading ... entered ... along ... value unknown, etc ... specification in the margin is co ... were according to specification ...

Vendor and purchaser ... agreement to sell his property ... is for the vendee to ... ice of the original ... I R ... person ... e had ... id an ... Cas

1— A person who derives his title through a purchase must prove that his vendor had a title in the property sold Gulab Din v. Monji Ram, 38 P. L R 1919=51 Ind. Cas 575

Wills 'In the Court of Probate" says Baron Parke in Baker v Batt 2 Moo P C 317 at pp 319, 320 "Where the onus probandi most undoubtedly the deceased, he is bound to pronounce his opinion that the instrument is not entitled to probate For if the party upon whom the burden of proof of any fact proved that a Will has been duly executed by a person of competent under propounding the Will, and he must satisfy the conscience of the Court that the instrument so propounded is the last Will of a free and capable testator In all cases the onus is imposed on the party propounding a Will, it is in general discharged by proof of capacity and the fact of execution for which the knowledge of and assent to the contents of the instruments are assumed' Barry v Butlin 2 Moo P C 482 (484) Brojesuari v Rasil 85 Ind Cas 581, Woomesh v Rashmoni 21 C 279 Surendra v Ramdasi 47 C 1043=24 C W N 860, Rajindar v Ramjaial 5 Lah 263 Mullabai v Waman 69 Ind Cas 572, Lala Singh v Kumar Bijoy Protap 41 C L J 360 Raj Bachan v Shabanni, 5 O L J 519=47 Ind Cas 963 Murad v Khalim 12 Ind Cas 49=114 P W R 1911 Prasannomoyi v Baikuntha 25 C W N 779 Rajdulari v Krishna, A I R (1926) Pat 269, Bindesuari v Ali Baisalha 24 C W N 674, Sorojini v Haridas, 26 C W N 113 Robins v National Trust Co Ltd 101 Ind Cas 903 (P C)—A I R 1927 P C 515 Rangayya v Sheshapppa 101 Ind Cas 416 The onus of proving capacity to execute a Will lies on the person who wants to propound the Will Mrtibai v Jamsetji, 26 Bom L R 479=29 C W N 45—1924 (P C) 28 The burden of proving a Will lies on those by whom it was propounded Bhagbhari v Khatun 80 Ind Cas 118 The qualified admission of a party regarding the signature of a testator does not shift the burden of proving the non execution of the Will to him Kesho v Vithal 8 N L J 123=89 Ind Cas 468—A I R 1925 Nag 427

105 When a person is accused of any offence, the burden of proving the existence of circumstances bringing the case within any of the General Exceptions in the Indian Penal Code, or within any special exception or proviso contained in any other part of the same Code, or in any law defining the offence, is upon him, and the Court shall presume the absence of such circumstances

Burden of proving that case of accused comes within exceptions

Illustrations

(a) A accused of murder alleges that, by reason of unsoundness of mind he did not know the nature of the act

The burden of proof is on A by grave and sudden provocation,

Code provides that whoever except in the case provided for by section 335 voluntarily causes grievous hurt, shall be subject to certain punishments

A is charged with voluntarily causing grievous hurt under section 325

The burden of proving the circumstances bringing the case under section 335 lies on A

Scope of the section The rule that every one is presumed to be innocent till he is proved to be guilty, is sometimes spoken of as if it was peculiar to the administration of criminal law In the Indian Evidence Act, s 101 illustration

(a) it is given as a particular instance of the general principle equally applicable to a suit for ejectment and to a trial of murder The rule merely means that a person who is accused of a crime is not bound to make any statement or to offer any explanation of circumstances which throw suspic on upon him He stands before the Court as an innocent man till he is prov d to be guilty It is the business of the Crown to prove him to be guilty, and he need do nothing but stand by and see what case has been ma le out agam t him As far as the case of the crown is concerned he cannot be called upon to take part in the proceeding except in so far, for his own protection the Court may question him under s 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code If there is a piece of evidence against the prisoner which might be cleare l up one way or the other by a word from him he is not bound to say that word He is entitled to rely on the defence that the evidence as it stands is incon clusive and that the Crown is bound to make it conclusive without any help from him Further in making out their case the prosecution have to get rid of every presumption against it, and to a certain extent there is a presumption in favour of innocence When the case for the Crown has clo ed it is for the prisoner or his adviser, to consider whether any case which he need answer has been made out against him This will depend on the nature of the charge The definition of every offence must be satisfied by proof and if th s proof fails as regards any necessary item the whole fails Assuming tl e min mum of proof to be supplied the Crown has offered evidence which may be sufficient for a conviction The question is whether it is sufficient It may be that the evidence is unworthy of belief, or that, if believed it is consistent with

he acqu tted
, and then When the innocence

has vanished There is no presumption in favour of the existe ce of any particular fact which is necessary to make out innocence If it is necessary f r a man s defence to establish an alibi he must prove it [Vide section 103 illus

... but wh ch o supply ies on the xcept ons contained t equally s offered 39 240 ng such isoner sfied by lfc B in

Reg v Stokes 3 C & K 185 So under the provisions of this sec ion an answer setting up the right of private defence must be supported by evidence giving a full account of the transaction from which the charge against the accu ed person arises In re Jamshear Sirdar, 1 C L R 62 Unless a plea that the acts with which an accused person is charged as constituting an offence came within one of the exceptions named in the Penal Code is distinctly taken by the accused the Court is not competent to infer from the evidence in the case that any such exception exists in favour of the accused Queen Empress v Chakhauri A W N 1893 209, Queen Empress v Sulha A W N 1893 210 So this section is an important qualification of the general rule that, in criminal trials, the onus of proving everything essential to the establishment of the charge against the accused lies on the prosecution King Emperor v Nga Ch U B R 1906, Excise 7

This section is at variance with what was formerly the law in regard to those exceptions which are called special Mark Ev 81 General exceptions are those applicable to all crimes and are stated in Chapter IV of the Penal Cod Special exceptions are exceptions restricted to a particular crime Formerly ... of special except ons ccuse l when hich is really ssing of the

Indian Evidence Act (I of 1872) was thus stated by Prinsep J in, In the matter of the Petition of Shib Prosad Pandey, 1 C 121 (130) "The Penal Code contained a chapter of general exceptions to offences (Chapter IV), and for certain offences special exceptions were provided The Code of Criminal Procedure made especial provisions for these exceptions and the burden of proof to establish any of them The effect of ss 235 and 236, was that it was for an accused person to establish the existence of any of the general exceptions; while s 237 provided that if the charge denied the existence of any of the especial exceptions to an offence, the absence of circumstances constituting such exception was to be assumed This was the state of the law without Presidency towns until the Evidence Act I of 1872 and the Code of Criminal Procedure of 1872 were passed, when ss 235 and 237 were repealed with the rest of that Code, and in their place s 105 of the Evidence Act was enacted, which threw the burden of proof on the accused to prove the existence of any general or special exception" So far, then, as the Special Exceptions are concerned, an important alteration has been made in the law Field I'v 350 But in Emperor v Wajid Husain, 32 A 451 at p 456, the Court observed: The Evidence Act in laying down the principle set forth in section 105 has at times been said to have introduced something new and to have put the law regarding criminal cases upon a different basis than the one upon which it stood before it was enacted We are unable to take this view Undoubtedly, in criminal trials, the onus of proving every particular element, if we may use the term, which goes to the making of an offence lies upon the prosecution, and if the prosecution do not prove all such elements and room is left for doubt, [illegible] accused But there [illegible] ich satisfy us that [illegible] w principle, but put [illegible] ted upon King v. [illegible] ll on Crimes, Vol 3, p 407, Reg v James Johnson, (1902) 1 Q B 510 In the case of most general exceptions the circumstances which bring the case within a general exception are circumstances within the special knowledge of the accused person and lie within the rule that when any fact is specially within the knowledge of any person the burden of proving that fact is upon him" In R v. Tuner, 5 M & S 206, Lord Ellenborough said: "The question is upon whom the onus probandi lies; whether it lies upon the person who affirms a qualification, to prove the affirmative, or upon the informer who denies any qualification, to prove the negative There are, I think, about ten different heads of qualification enu- [illegible]

[illegible]

& P 468, Heath J in R v Stone, 1 East 639, the Judges were equally divided on the point So even in England there has been some doubt whether if a statute creating a crime contains exemptions, exceptions, or provisos, the indictment should negative then [illegible] under a plea of not guilty [illegible]

1 K B 510, an indictmer [illegible] and chattels of her husband, [illegible] nor that she had taken them when leaving or deserting, or about to leave or desert the husband It was contended that in as much as a wife cannot at [illegible]

105 was whether the exception was part of the enacting clause, or tacked on as a proviso or included in another clause of the statute Russell on Crimes p 10 In R ... 1907 ... the rule laid down in R v ... gamy by a British subj... at Gib ... ish subject, nor contain any reference to exemptions contained in 24 & 25 Vict C 100 ... negative any of them And it was held that the rule above stated applied equally to negative and ... 431, Russel on Crimes p 1 ... support the defence of an ... dence is believed and the jury have their ordinary duty of deciding a question of fact on the evidence before them Mahomed v Emperor 30 C 318 - 1903 ...

General exceptions Under this section the burden of proving the ex... of circumstances bringing the case of an accused person within any of the general exceptions in the Penal Code is on the accused and the Court shall presume the absence of such circumstances But this does not mean that the accused must lead evidence If it is apparent from the evidence on the record whether produced by the prosecution or by defence that a general exception would apply then the presumption is removed and it is open to the Court to consider whether the evidence proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the accused comes within the exception Anandi v Emperor, 71 Ind Cas 6 9=... A 329 In a defence of insanity, the onus lies on the person alleging it ... the person charged King Emperor v Sheodin, A W N 1901 1 ... It is for the party setting up the right of private defence, to prove that he was within the exceptions stated in the Code Veerananadan v Emperor 1912 M W N 391= 11 M L T 251=15 Ind Cas 310, see also Emperor v Gullu, A W N 1904 113=1 Cr L J 497 Although this section places on the accused the burden of proving in a criminal trial that they have acted within their legal rights in exercise of the right of private defence of property, still this burden can be discharged by the evidence of witnesses for the prosecution as well as for the evidence for the defence on such plea being set up In the matter of Kalachand Mukherjee 11 C L R 232 Where an accused person has raised pleas ... sistent with the defence which would bring his case within one of the general ... exception ... within any ... be proved from the evidence given for the prosecution or to be found elsewhere in the record King Emperor v Wajid Hasan, 7 A L J 138 32 A 101=11 Cr L J 374=6 Ind Cas 559 ... circumstance bringing the case of ... thrown upon the accused Aung Myat v ... 207, see also Emperor v Ali Raja 26 Cr L J 310 When one man takes away the life of ... ng so If the ... him to show ... C W N 741 ... J 169=11 ... as 8 ... R 1930 Oudh 408 ... the burden of proof in certain ... ution has already performed ... ces from which such a plea necessarily follows it is the duty of the Court to give him the benefit of it Mangal Ganda v Emperor, 25 Cr L J 107=81 Ind Cas 901=1925 Nag 37

Special exceptions Under the Criminal Procedure Code 1861, it was necessary, in a charge upon a section of the Penal Code containing special exemptions to aver the absence of any special exception In re ... Persad 1 Cal 1... or general excepti... tence of circums... contained in any ... shall presume ... of such circumstances Emperor v ... Ind Cas 259=11 Cr L 612 The onus to show that any offence falls within a ...

S. 10

a general exception of the Gambling Act, is upon the accused and it is for him to show, in order to bring the case under s 10 of the Gambling Act, that the game played is a game of mere skill Ram Newaz v Emperor, 15 Cr. L. J. 276=23 Ind. Cas. 181 The burden of proving the exception of good faith is on the accused. A mistake of law does not make an exception under s. 79 of the

[illegible]

the last part of section 11 of ... proceedings before Magistrate ... on or complaint in any such case shall negative any exemption, exception, proviso or condition in the statute on which the same shall be founded, it shall not be necessary for the prosecutor or complainant in that bel ... prove the affirmative thereof ... same" Emperor v. A J ... L T. 187=7 L B. R. 319 ... Penal Code means no more and no less than 'unless authorized, or not having

[illegible]

Harbuston, 2 B. & Ald 40.

[illegible]

itself. So in a defamation case, when once the complainant has proved that the ... putation, it rests with the accused ... Abdul Razak v Gauri Nath, 4 P. W. ... Gowramma v. Veranna, 6 Mys. ... has to regard the absence of grave ... ntrary is proved by the accused ... , 19 C W N 653=21 C L J. 377 =16 Cr. L J 561=30 Ind Cas 113 (F B)

Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge.

106. When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Illustrations

(a) When a person does an act with some intention other than that which the character and circumstances of the act suggest, the burden of proving that intention is upon him

(b) A is charged with travelling on a railway without a ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him to injustice at least be production of expense and delay In order to prevent this, it has been established as a general rule of evidence that the burden of proof lies on the person [illegible] fact which lies more peculiarly [illegible] to be cognisant Ph & An [illegible] 6 T R 57; Calder v Rotherford, 3 B & B 302, Sunderland Marine Insurance Company v Kearney, 16 Q B 925; Best Ev § 274'

[illegible]

Not a general rule The characteristic, then, of the burden of proof (in the sense of a risk of non persuasion) in legal controversies is that the law divides the process into stages and apportions definitely to each party the specific facts which will in turn fall to him as the pre requisites of obtaining action [illegible]

or rule wh[illegible] neral test for ascertaining the incidence [illegible] ten said that the burden is upon the party [illegible] this is not an invariable test nor even [illegible] den is often on one who has a negative assertion to prove; a common instance is that of a promisee alleging non performance [illegible] the party to whose case th[illegible] y advances the enquiry [illegible] The truth [illegible] careful or careless, in part on the fairness of putting the burden on one or the other, and this in part on the consideration which of the parties has the means of proof more available This last consideration has often been advanced as a special test for [illegible] proving a [illegible] to be kept in mind in [illegible] proof in a specific case There is then, no one [illegible]

Scope of the section This is an exception to the general rule Where the subject matter of a party's allegation (whether affirmative or negative) is peculiarly within the knowledge of his opponent it lies upon the latter to rebut such allegation Phip Ev 36, Abrath v N E Ry Co, 11 Q B D 440; Powell v McGlynn, (1902) 2 Ir R 154; Hebbe v Ross, L R 11 Q B 531, 541, 543. In R v Turner, 5 M & S 206 211, Bayley J said "I have always understood it to be a general rule that if a negative averment be made by one party, which is peculiarly within the knowledge of the other the party within whose knowledge it lies, and who asserts the affirmative, is to prove it, and not he who avers the negative" This rule is applicable, whether it be affirmative or negative, and in civil or criminal cases Dickson v Evans, 6 T R. 60 It is only reasonable that where one party can easily produce what holds him harmless and the other party have great difficulty in equally within the control of each party, then the burden of proof is upon the party averring the negative, but when the opposite party must, from the nature of the case, himself be in possession of full and plenary proof to disprove the negative averment and the other party is not in possession of such proof, then it is manifestly just and reasonable that the party which is in possession of the proof should be required to adduce it, or upon his failure to do so, it must be presumed it does not exist, which of itself establishes a negative Burr Jones § 181 For instance where a carrier has undertaken to carry goods safely, fire [illegible] sound, except as to [illegible] of insurance, when [illegible] in contingencies It [illegible] within the knowledge of the defendant or prisoner, a general sense of convenience shifts the burden of proof; as for instance where a hawker or pedlar stands charged with trading, without a license it is easy for him to produce his license, and so end the discussion, whereas it might throw the most serious impediment in the way of the prosecutor [illegible] Ev 291 [illegible] is an impor[illegible] to be proc[illegible] fact lies on [illegible] it is provided by [illegible] particular person, [illegible] one side to the ot[illegible] shift the burden of [illegible] with respect to the[illegible] respectively" Steph Ev Art 96 Where the goods are solely under the control of the bailee the fact as to when loss, destruction or deterioration occurred is a

[illegible]

[illegible]

of great difficulty, upon which there are conflicting authorities Ca es may be suggested of great difficulty on either side of the general question Suppo e under the English game laws an unqualified person is prosecuted for shoot ng game without the license of the lord of the manor, and after the alleged offence and before the trial, the lord dies and no proof of license, which may have been by parol can be given? Shall he be convicted for want of such affirmative proof or shall the prosecution fail for want of proof to negative it? Aga n suppose under the law of this commonwealth it was made penal for any person to sell goods as a hawker and pedlar without a license from the select men of some town in ' — ' ' ' ' - the penalty, and the indictment ne was not duly licensed To ' n of more than three hundred towns must be called It may be said, if the difficulty of obtaining proof is not to supersede the necessity of it, and enable a party hav ng the burden to succeed without proof This is true, but when the proceedings are upon statute an extreme difficulty of obtaining proof on one side amounting nearly to impracticability, and great facility of furnishing it on the other s de if it exists leads to a strong inference, that such course was not intended by the legislature to be required It would no doubt be competent for the legislature so to frame a statute provision, as to hold a party liable to the penalty who should not produce a license Besides, the common-law rules of evidence are ' and to them to be considered as they ari e In the present case the Courts are o opinion that the pro ecutor was bound to produce prima facie evidence, that the defendant was not licensed, and that no evidence of that averment having been given, the verdict ought to be set aside The general rule is that all averments necessary to constitute the substantive offence must be proved If amounting y could not the affirma which there is a material or suspicious alteration, it lies on him to explain it, as a general rule though circumstances may arise which will exempt him, or even shift the burthen of proof on to the other side, as for instance if the facts concerning the alterations are more especially within his knowledge Nort Ev pp 29? 293 In Elkin v Janson Alderson B on the dictum of Bayley J in R. v Turner 5 M & S 206, 211 (supra) being quoted said 'I doubt, as a general rule whether those expres ions are not too strong They are right as to the weight of the evidence, but there should be some evidence to start it in order to cast the onus on the other s de' And in R v Burdett 4 B & A 95 140 Holroyd J. states in the most explicit terms that the rule in question 'is not allowed to supply the want of necessary proof, whether direct or presumptive, against a defendant of the crime with which he is charged, but when such proof has been given, it is a rule to be applied in considering the weight of the evidence against him whether direct or presumptive, when it is unopposed, unrebutted or not weakened by contrary evidence which it would be in the defendant s power to produce, if the fact directly or presumptively proved were not true' Best Ev § 275

In R v H [illegible] on by ... stired ... this at the ... was ... ort of that both ... negat ve the point convict on Turner party who is to sustain it The prosecutor, in general, is not called upon to prove negatively all that is stated in the information as matter of disqualification In R v. Turner all the learned Judges concur in that principle I concur in all the observations upon which the judgment of the Court in that case was founded; and I think every one of them is applicable in principle to this The general principle and the justice of the case are here against the defendant It is urged, that if we decide against the defendant we shall open the door to a great deal of inconvenience, that by no means follows, this man might have produced his license without any possible inconvenience, which would at once have relieved him from all liabilities to penalties Probably the whole enquiry before the Magistrate was as to the fact of selling the ale, and that nothing was said about the license, but however, I think by the general rule, the informer was not bound to sustain in evidence the negative averment that the defendant negative, whether a book should be produced, or an examined copy, and many other questions of that sort whereas none can arise when the defendant himself produces his license This therefore, not being one of the excepted cases, but a case falling directly within the general rule I am of opinion that judgment must be given for the crown' Apothecaries' Company v Bentley, Ry & M 159=1 C & P 538, was decided upon the same principle. That was an action for a penalty, under the Apothecaries Act, 1815 (55 Geo III C 194), for practising as an apothecary without having obtained the certificate required by the Act. All the counts in the declaration contained the allegation that the defendant did act and practise as an apothecary, etc, "without having obtained such certificate as by the said Act is directed' No evidence was offered by the plaintiffs to show that the defendant had not obtained his certificate The plaintiffs having closed their case, counsel for the defendant submitted that there must be a non suit Abbott C J said "I am of opinion that the affirmative must be proved by the defendant I think that it being a negative the plaintiffs are not bound to prove it but that it rests with the defendant to establish his having a certificate' Cf R v Harris, 10 Cox 511, Magdalan Hosp v Knotts 8 Ch D 709 724 (C A) This section cannot be utilised to help persons who are representatives of other parties and who step into their shoes Raghavendra Rao v Venkatasuami, 1929 M W N, 752–30 L W 966=A I R 1930 Mad 251 Where a person is charged with having been a member of an association delared unlawful by the Government the burden of proof is not on the accused to prove that he discontinued his membership It is for the prosecution, to prove that he continued to be a member even subsequently to the notification by Government Emperor v Sripad, 55 B 484=33 Bom L R 90=A I R 1931 Bom 129.

suit was illed at an onus of proof of late upon General against a VIII of s bound, Doorga

kherajdar present a former

S. ... plaintiff to prove that the land was lakheraj village in putnee Nubo Krishna v Pronotha ... holding lands of considerable extent under a zemindar, it is a matter peculiarly within his own knowledge of what that holding consists, and if he alleges that one or two plots occupied by him are held under a different title, it is for him to show it Ram Coomar Ray v Teejoj Gobind, 7 W R 535 In a suit for pre-emption, where the pre emptor claims the ... that ... mentioned in the sale deed it prima facie ... se But very ... proof upon the ... ho mu t be n ... gran Singh v ... Sheoporgash ... ak, 29 A 613, v Dhamraj 9 A ... Malkham v Jahan, 16 A L J 533 But the date of the child's birth or death is not a fact specially within the knowledge of its father It is a fact which ...

A's wife that the purchase money ... 17 M L J 339 Where the defendant company intentionally ... perm ... respect of the goods to which ... and the plaintiff acted on such ... to deny that such cash ... as against ... prove that ... held that ... ment of goods, because it was a fact ... Mills v Omademull ... under this ... n a suit by a ... ncumbrance ... t sought to ... e onus shift ... be annulled is an incumbrance ... which being a ... on to the incumbrancer ... protected interest Th ... occupancy is a matter s ... and the onus under s ... 16 C W N 779 = 15 Ind Cas 30, see also Jogesh v Roham ...

... a tax imposed upon the ... averred that the tax had ... the plaintiff within the ... on the defendant Munici ... airman of the Baruipur ... order to apply this section ... in the nature of some... porations and individuals ... in v Chairman, Ranchi ... mortgage is contested by ... that the bond was executed and also asserted that the ... ff to prove his ... a contract if a ... it Jodi Dhi ... ailee the limits ... tract Act, for ... loss of fire, the ... the Contract ... ime of the loss ... f from proving ... ne part of the ... tion Co Ltd ...) = 1913 M W ...

In a case where the question is whether a particular act was or was not within the scope of an agent's employment the burden of proving the limit of the agent's authority is on the principal, in as much as the character of the authority is a matter specially within the knowledge of the latter David M Bruce v Mg Kyaw Zin 45 Ind Cas 822, see also Sultan an v Behari, 16 C W. N. 953; Srikishen v Jodhari, 45 Ind Cas 291; [illegible] 35 Ind Cas 81 Madan v Pramnath, 61 Ind [illegible] 64 Ind Cas 883, but see Jinki v Thaker, 2 I [illegible] sicar, 55 Cal 355=32 C W N 181, Ishurmal [illegible] 196

An accused person is always entitled to hold his tongue, but where the only alternative theory to his guilt is a remote possibility, which, if correct, he is in a position to explain, the absence of any explanation must be considered in determining whether possibility should be disregarded or taken into account Smith v Emperor, 43 Ind. Cas 605=19 Cr L J 189 The fact that a Muhammadan girl below the age of 15 years has attained puberty is a fact within her special [illegible] v Khondakar, [illegible] P Code lies [illegible] is mentioned [illegible] ircumstances Where all the circumstances go to show that the intention of the accused was to employ a girl as a prostitute as soon as she was physically ready for the purpose, the burden of proving that she intended to wait until the age of majority had been reached is on the accused Khetramoni v Emperor, 35 C L J 451=(1922) Cal 539 Where property is entrusted to a servant and such servant fails to return the property or to account for it or gives an account which is shown to be false and incredible it is ordinarily a reasonable inference that he has criminally misappropriated the property so entrusted to him and dishonestly converted it to his own use In such cases the Courts are entitled to draw hostile inferences and presumptions from the action and statement of the servant. The provisions of ss 106, 114 of the Indian Evidence Act, can be [illegible] Sonameah v. King Emperor, 2 [illegible] appraisement of crops, when the [illegible] arger amount for himself, the [illegible] If he is not able to show what it is, he can get only such amount as is admitted by the tenant But in cases where the landlord has never made an estimate or is prevented by the tenants [illegible]

[illegible]

received it at one time only, in a case where the accused is charged separately of

[illegible]

offering ... he be called upon to do so by th ... Parke B), and if the n ... ice (Freeman v Steggal ... e of a written instrument renders it suspicious it is only reasonable that the party claiming under it should remove the suspicion Henman v Dickinson, 5 Bing 183 Clifford v Parker, 2 M & Gr 910, Lord Falmouth v Roberts, 9 M & W 471 Lord & Bright Ry Co v Fairclough, 2 M & Gr 705, Tay § 1819

107 When the question is whether a man is alive or dead, and it is shown that he was alive within thirty years, the burden of proving that he is dead is on the person who affirms it

Burden of proving death of person known to have been alive within thirty years

Principle Where there is proof of the existence of a state of things and no evidence of its cessation, the presumption is that such state of things continues for a reasonable length of time Hence, if the question is as to the life or death of a person who has been once shown to be living, the burden of proving him dead lies at first on the party who asserts the fact Wilson v Hodges, 2 East 312, Kekewich J however denied this in In re Aldersey (1905) 2 Ch 186, Powell Ev 411 The presumption of continuance is often not so much an inference of fact as an administrative statement of the inertia of the Court Chamberlayne's Ev § 1090 Presumptions as to continuance of life are not legal presumptions, but presumptions of fact only, depending on the circumstances of each case R v Willshire 6 Q B D 336, R v Lumeley 11 Cox C C 274, Lapsley v Grierson, 1 H L C 498

Scope of the section In Wilson v Hodges 2 East 312 Lord Ellenborough C J referred to ... 461 where it was decided that ... n once shown to be living the p ... ts the death for the presumption is that the party continues alive until the contrary be shown This presumption of continuance is clearly one of the most practical importance It is frequently impossible to prove, for instance, the existence of a certain thing in a certain state or condition at the particular moment in question It is sufficient with the aid of this presumption, to prove such existence and state at such an earlier time that, according to the nature, it may fairly be presumed to have lasted to the moment in question Cockle Cas Ev 29 A person proved to have been alive at a former time is presumed to be alive during the probable period of life's duration, until his death is proved or a presumption of death arises Lawson's Presumptive Evidence, Rule 30 The Mahomedan law presumed the death of a missing person ninety years ... ut the Hindu law ... d for 12 years, ... efore the passing ... "Presumptions ... or immutability ... absence of proof ... d corresponding ... ve been heard of ... sumption would be reversed, and death would be presumed What is the period which the ... as that of the duration of life has never been arbitrarily ... presumption might be affected by the particular case, such as state of health and so forth ... ive certainly been prescribed by high authority ... life Still even the attainment of a hundred ... is of occasional, and not over rare occurrence, while instances have been stated

S.

extending life to almost half a century further All ordinary experience, however certainly pointing to a period so rarely exceeding an age of ... indeed it would seem that this might be would be only a presumption, decision Indeed, the period app all A presumption of death at the expiration of a hundred years is recognized, however, in both the civil and Scotch Law, and in a case so long ago as the time of Lord Hale, there is a dictum of his, that if feoffment be made to the use of one for ninety nine years if he shall so long live, and after the death to the use of another, this shall not be contingent, for it would be presumed that his life would not exceed ninety nine years Weall v Lomer, Poll 67" Goodeve Ev 628 "The life of a person once shown to exist" says Justice Baldwin in an American case, "is intended to continue till the contrary is proved, or is to be presumed from the nature of the case.... The witness, if alive is eighty years old; an age that we may admit is an advanced one,
The
it ninet
man, Hutt
consi
case have on t his being dead the presumption disappears, and the question has to be determined on the balance of proof Mark Ev p 83 Ss 107 and 108 of the Evidence Act should be read together, because the latter is only a proviso of the rule contained in the former, and both constitute one rule when so read together. Dharup v Gobind, 8 A 614

Inference of continuance of life is rebuttable The fact of life at a ...

death may fairly be based, the Court will not assume, in an administrative way, that the person in question is actually dead, i e, its inertia will not be overcome so as to enable it to act upon the basis of death until no further possibility of 07 offering it in evidence must explain its appearance, if he be called upon to do so by the issue raised (Parry v. Nicholson, 13 M & W 779, per Parke B), and if the instrument be not admitted by his opponent under notice (Freeman v. Steggal 14 Q B D 202), because, as every alteration on the face of a written instrument renders it suspicious, it is only reasonable that the party claiming under it should remove the suspicion Henman v Dickinson, 5 Bing 183 ... Lord Falmouth v. Roberts, 9 M & W 471 ... Bright ... 2 M & Gr 705, ... Planter v. Mutchand 4 M I A 121 (129) ... Lamasuami v. Blaram, 3 M H C R 2 ... 847 This rule is not applicable in cases of ... tion of a plaintiff's claim Atmaram v. Umedram, ...

107 When the question is whether a man is alive or dead, and it is shown that he was alive within thirty years, the burden of proving that he is dead is on the person who affirms it.

Burden of proving death of person known to have been alive within thirty years

Principle Where there is proof of the existence of a state of things and no evidence of its cessation, the presumption is that such state of things continues for a reasonable length of time Hence, if the question is as to the life or death of a person who has been once shown to be living, the burden of proving him dead lies, at first on the party who asserts the fact. Wilson v. Hodges, 2 East 312, Kekewich J however denied this in In re Aldersey, (1905) 2 Ch 181, Powell Ev. 111 The presumption of continuance is often not so much an inference of fact as an administrative statement of the inertia of the Court Chamberlayne's Ev. § 1090 Presumptions as to continuance of life are not legal presumptions, but presumptions of fact only, depending on the circumstances of each case R v Willshire, 6 Q B D 366, R v Lumeley, 11 Cox C C 2..., Lapsley v Grierson, 1 H L C 498.

Scope of the section In Wilson v Hodges, 2 East 312, Lord Ellenborough ... Rep 461 where it ... son once shown ... erts the death for the ... until the contrary be shown ... e of the most practical importar ... stance, the existence of a cet ... particular moment in question ... ption, to prove such existence and state at such an earlier time that, according to the nature, it may fairly be presumed to have lasted to the moment in question Cockle Cas Ev 29 A person proved to have been alive at a former time is presumed to be alive during the probable period of life's duration, until his death is proved or a presumption of death arises Lawson's Presumptive Evidence, Rule 39 ... ssing person ninety years ... years But the Hindu law ... been heard for 12 years ... before the passing of the Indian Evidence Act is th ... mptions ... utability ... of proof ... r a period corresponding ... not to have been heard of ... the presumption would ... is the period which the ... is never been arbitrarily ... affected by the particular ... of health, and so forth Three score years and ten have certainly been prescribed by high authority as an average limit of human life Still even the attainment of a hundred is of occasional, and not over-rare occurrence, while instances have been stated evident proof of the life,' and that the Judge should 'direct the jury to give their verdict as if the person were dead'. But if the absent party should not really have died, provisio... effect of this statute, then ... into evidence, by a certain ...

The rule fixes, for the p... facts, absence for seven ye... particular inquiry, the same thing as death, it is its legal equivalent

'Now very likely, in practice, similar cases may have been brought within 'the equity' of the statute, as Chief Justice Holt, in 1692, is reported to have 'held that a remainder man was within the equity of that law'; but we hear of no suggestion of a general seven-year rule, such as we have now, before 1805. In the case Doe d George v Jesson, 6 East 80, there was a rule for a new trial, in an action of ejectment, which turned on the question whether the plaintiff's lessor had entered within the time allowed by the statute of limitations, which presumption ...

ends at the exp...
to be living ...
was living at a later period, there was fair ground for the jury to presume that he was dead at the end of seven years from the time when he went to sea on his second voyage which seems to be the last account of him. This was supporting what ... justified, on the anal... even years; and more ... questioned upon this ... It was not laid dow... that they must; nor was any rule of presumption put forward; nor, as I say, was it on any such point that the ruling below was questioned in the Full Bench.

'In 1809, at Nisi Prius (Hopewell v De Pinna, 2 Camp 113) in an action against a woman on a promissory note, she pleaded coverture, and proved her that it knows is that the party has been absent and unheard from for more than seven years. Upon ... on evidence for t... issue is upon the lif... this presumption (...

constant change Hyde Park v Canton, supra; In re Lewis Trusts, L R 6 Ch 356, In re Benjamin, (1902) 1 Ch 723, In re Waller, L R 7, Ch 120 When the inference from experience as to the continuance of life has waned in probative force and even after it has departed the continuance of life remaining merely as an administrative assumption, additional facts may so strongly tend to establish an inference of death that the inertia of the Court will be overcome and affirmative action taken Chamberlayne's Ev § 1001 108 *[Provided that when] the question is whether a man is alive or dead, and it is proved that he has not been heard of for seven years by those who would naturally have heard of him if he had been alive, the burden of proving that he is alive is *(shifted to) the person who affirms it.

Burden of proving that person is alive who has not been heard of for seven years

Principle Where certain results would have followed if an act or an event had occurred (or not occurred) the absence of those results is some indication that the act or event has not occurred (or occurred) A common class of evidence of this sort is that of lack of news to show probable death of a person or the probable loss of a ship, for as it is usual for living persons to be heard from directly or indirectly, by persons having an interest in knowing, and for ship officers to leave word of their journey at the ports they touch or with the other ships they pass the lack of any such news indicates their non-existence Wigmore Ev § 158 This is a genuine presumption of universal acceptance, to aid proof of death It is generally said to arise from the person's continued absence from home for seven years, unheard of by the persons who would naturally have received news from the absentee Wigmore Ev § 2531 In ... There are several ... ought to take ... After what ... that a man is ... length of a ... pose Obviously ... dead? The ... have a distinct ... six or eight ... James Stephen on ... rule is a ... the 12th March, 187...

Origin and growth of the rule "It is a rule of presumption that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, a person shall be taken to be dead when he has been absent seven years and not heard from That is a modern rule It is not at all modern to infer death from a long absence; the recent thing is the fixing of this time of seven years, and putting it into a rule The faint beginning of it as a common law rule, of general application in all questions of life and death, is found, so far as recorded English cases show in Doe d George v Jesso ... 1805 Long before this in 1604 the "Bigamy Act" ... exempted from the scope of its provision ... punishment of a felon (1) those who had married ... spouse had been beyond the seas for seven years, and (2) those whose spouse had been absent for seven years, although not beyond the seas,—'the one of them not knowing the other to be living within that time" This statute, it may be noticed, did not absolutely treat the absent party as dead, for it did not validate the second marriage in ... penalty Again, in ... inconvenience by want of ... themselves, upon ... and leases depend ... otherwise absent ... or or reversioner ... absenting himself ... 'sufficient and

* These words in s 108 were substituted for the original words 'when" and "on' respectively by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872), s 2.

evident proof of the life,' and that the Judge should 'direct the jury to give their verdict as if the person ... were dead' But if the absent party should not really have died, provision was made for a subsequent recovery by him The effect of this statute then was to end in a specific class of cases, all enquiry into evidence, by a certain assumption, or, as it is otherwise called, presumption The rule fixes for the purpose of a particular inquiry, the effect of specified facts, absence for seven years, unheard of, is to be accounted, as regards this particular inquiry, the same thing as death, it is its legal equivalent

Now very likely, in practice, similar cases may have been brought within 'the equity' of the statute, as Chief Justice Holt, in 1692, is reported to have 'held that a remainder man was within the equity of that law'; but we hear of no suggestion of a general seven-year rule, such as we have now, before 1805 In the case Doe d George v Jesson, 6 East 80, there was a rule for a new trial, in an action of ejectment, which turned on the question whether the plaintiff's lessor had entered within the time allowed by the statute of limitations which

As to the period ... the Statute 19 ... also according to ...
the duration of life, with respect to persons of whom no account can be given, ends at the expiration of seven years from the time when they were last known to be living Therefore, in the absence of all other evidence to show that he was living at a later period, there was fair ground for the jury to presume that ... on his ... pporting ... on the ... ars, and ... ed upon ... not laid ... ey must; nor was any rule of presumption put forward; nor, as I say, was it on any such point that the ruling below was questioned in the Full Bench

'In 1809, at Nisi Prius (Hopewell v De Pinna, 2 Camp 113) in an action against a woman on a promissory ... marriage, but the husband had gone ...

... ars This was given, and the ... was to prove death; here, ... not assume life now, when all ... unheard from for more than seven years Upon the basis of these cases, there soon appeared in the text books on evidence for the first time in 1815, a general proposition that 'where the issue is upon the life or death ... this presumption (namely, that a ...

S. which he thinks should find a place in the law of evidence Stephen published his Digest in 1876 Here, then, in seventy years, we find the rule about a seven years' absence (1) coming into existence in the form of a judicial declaration about what may or may not fairly be inferred by a jury in the exercise of their logical faculty; the particular period being fixed by reference to two legislative determinations in specific cases of a like question; (2) passing into the form of an affirmative rule of law requiring that death be assumed under the given circumstances This is a process of judicial legislation, advancing from what is a mere recognition of a legitimate step in legal reasoning to a declaration of the legal effect of certain facts" Thayer Pre Treat Ev pp 319-321 But the Indian Evidence Act, which found place in the Statute Book in 1872 went further and by s 107 it allowed presumption to be made of the continuance of life for a period of 30 years from the period when a person is last heard of But this presumption is not free from criticism

Scope of the section This section provides in effect that if it appears that a person has not been heard of for seven ... usually have heard of him if he had been alive, and ... probability of his being alive, the presumpt ... large Marl Ev 83 But sections 107 and 108 should be read together, ... latter is only a proviso of the rule contained in the former and both constitute one rule when so read together Dharup Nath v Gobind Saran, 8 A 614=6 A W N 239 The two presumptions are conflicting and the circumstances might be such that both presumptions were raised What is to prevail? It was in order to solve this question that the language of section 108 was changed ... of death would ... pon this ... e a er ... If the ... to find ... or seven ... cour e ... red and twenty years ago, so that according to the common course of natural events he could not be alive now (Vide section 114 infra); or he may prove that two years ago X went to sea in a ship which has not since been heard of But, in all this there is no shifting ... Mark Ev p 84 So also this presu ... left his home under circumstan ... mmuni cate with his friends P ... that he died at any particular ti ... & W 894, Lord Denman C J ... Bench, that the presumption of Law relates only to the fact of death, and that the time of death, whenever it is material, must be subject of distinct proof" The ... dings ... g he ... It ... It is quite clear, therefore, that when no such probability exists, the presumption cannot arise" Per Sir John Stuart V C in Bowden v Henderson, 2 Sm & G 360 ... the Evidence Act is a presump ... was raised, that is, at the date of ... v Phekia, 14 C W N 311= ... case Stephen J ... 1862 ten ... ince been ... een alive ... ase must ... evidence; and the question ... on 108 of the Evidence Ac ... f would shift, and instea ... ad at a given time, the de ... But we are constraine ... Surya

Kanta Ray Choudhury 35 C 25, it is expressely laid down by Geidt J that the presumption that arises on a man not having been heard of for seven years is a presumption that he is dead at the time when the question is raised, that is, in this case at the date of the suit and not at some antecedent date that is at the time of Hilkari's death in 1872 The judgment of Maclean C J seems on the facts mentioned in the judgment of Geidt J to be to the same effect A similar view was expressed by the Burma Chief Court in Molla Cassim v Molla Abdul Rahim and was accepted by the Privy Council (33 C 173) This is not the English law as may be seen in the judgment in the leading case of In re Phene's Trust (1869) 5 Ch App 139 and the cases therein quoted, and were the matter res integra we are not sure that we should attribute to the words of section 108 the effect that is given to them in the cases we have mentioned" Mohammad Sharif v Pande Ili 8 A L J 1052 (F B) This section of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, according to its terms, does not require that the Court should hold the person dead at the expiration of the seven years therein indicated, but merely provides that the burden of proving that he is alive at the time of the suit is shifted to the person wh[illegible] The presumption is in [illegible] the death of a person he[illegible] L J 181 = 56 Ind C [illegible] showed that a person was unheard of and there was no other evidence to show that the person had not been heard of for 40 years the presumption as to death could be drawn Tirapathi v Rangit, A I R 1931 Oudh 40 = 130 Ind Cas 124 = 2 O W N 712 Where the nearer relations deposed that they had not heard of the person in question for seven years the presumption under the section should be drawn Khan Chand v Mt Jawandi, 1923 Lah 174 This section [illegible] sion [illegible] oper [illegible] the [illegible] L [illegible] Re [illegible] was presumed for probate as a matter of fact and not of law, before seven years Phip Ed 7th Ed p 653.

Circumstances may create presumptions at earlier period The legal [illegible] ven years, but the fixing this [illegible] would in no way preclude the [illegible] presumption of fact as the [illegible] n short of the seven years [illegible] Neville, Manning, 344, "that nothing could be more absurd than that there should be a presumption of life or death without reference to the age, circumstances, situation of life, and common habits of the party Can there be the same presumption as to a party who is one hundred, and one who is thirty five ? As to a party who was in good health [illegible] upon h[illegible] Hubbock [illegible] country [illegible] or other similar calamity, or again, the sudden unexplained cessation of his [illegible] tent with the supposition of his continuing existence' Hubbock page 174; Goodeve Ev. 631. So death may be proved by reputation, by hearsay, or by

8. evidence of facts inconsistent with the theory of the existence of life The presumption will arise that the death of the absent e has occurred before the expiration of seven years where any of the following circumstances are shown to —(1) That within that time he was in a desperate state of health Westoer v Birchmore 13 Ves 362 In the above mentioned case "the health was very bad—the chancellor speaks of it as desperate" (2) That within that time he embarked on a vessel which has not since been heard of and is long overdue inquiries having been made at her ports of departure and destination Lawson Presumptive Evidence, rule 50, Merritt v Thompson Helt, 550 In the above case the Court, observed "The presumption of his death does not rest upon the fact that he has not been heard of for seventeen months, but upon the weightier circumstance that the vessel has not been heard of for seventeen months" In Re Smyth 28 L J (P & M) 1, Sir Creswell Creswell said "I do not find in the affidavit any statement that enquiries have been made at Barcelona or elsewhere about the crew The affidavits only state that neither the vessel G S, nor any of the crew have been heard of I should undoubtedly presume that the vessel has been lost, but it does not follow that the crew or some of them may not have been saved The case had better stand over until you have written to the agent of the ship at Barcelona and ascertained whether any of the crew have survived" Similarly in Re Bishop, 1 Sw & Tr 30?, the same learned Judge said "I think probably the vessel is lost, but it does not appear that any inquiries have been made at Demerara as to whether any of the crew have arrived there or have been heard of" (3) That at sometime within that period he has encountered a 'specific peril,' which includes not the ordinary dangers of travel or navigation, but some unusual or extraordinary danger Eagle's Case, 3 App Pr 220, Lawson Presumptive Ev rule 51 (4) That his habits, character, dom[illegible] ances other than those showing ex[illegible] within that period he [illegible] home or domicile or [illegible] rule 52 A son, after the death of his father and knowing of a provision to him in his Will, to take effect on the death of his mother, leaves home He is not heard of for many years He will be presumed to be dead Karsten v Karsten 15 N Y (S) 966 On March 25 1866, S left her home and was never heard of again She depended on an income payable in quarterly instalments She did not appear to claim the amount due in June, 1866 In a proceeding in 1875 the presumption is that she was dead after June, 1866 Re Beasney L R 7 Eq 498

[illegible] death at the ex[illegible] re it is improbable [illegible] ard of at or would [illegible] icile or where in [illegible] g been alive subsequently to the end of seven years Lawson Pre Ev Rule 53 In 1829 R. left her family in England and went to Paris where she took a situation as governess She continued to correspond with her relatives In 1835 she wrote to her sister from Paris, saying that she was about to accept another situation and stating, that she had become a Catholic On receipt of this letter her sister replied in a letter of remonstrance reproaching her for her abandonment of the Protestant religion No reply was received to this letter, and she was not subsequently heard of There is no presumption that she died in 1842 Bowen v Henderson 2 Sim & G 360 In this case it was said that the principle on which the [illegible] dead based [illegible] im for seven years is [illegible] with some [illegible] have communicated [illegible] draw from [illegible] lusion which Courts [illegible] clear therefore, that when no such probability exists the presumption can not arise In this case all the circumstances tend to show that after what had taken place between L and her friends it was extremely improbable she would have entered into further communication with them She had abandoned her religion and her friends wrote to her a letter of remonstrance and reproach for doing so The reproaches were not calculated to encourage further communications I think this circumstance, taken in connection with the rather eccentric course of life which it appears from her letters she could have view it follows of informathe lady were Eq 1, it was said "The circumstances of the present cases are not such as to render it safe to make that presumption at present Hugh Morgan left Ireland for America some time before the year 1859, resided there for some years, married there, came back to Ireland with his wife in 1859 for a temporary purpose only, he sold all his property in Ireland and after a few months returned to America, whither his wife and son followed him It is contended, however, that because he has not since been heard of by his sister, the only member of his family who remains in Ireland, I am therefore to presume that he is dead But suppose that an alien comes into this country and stays for a few months, or that a person who is not an alien, but has his residence abroad, comes here and, stays for a little time, and then leaves having—to put an extreme case—no relatives here, and not heard of for seven years, is the presumption, therefore, to be made of his death?

I [illegible] leaves h [illegible] nding t [illegible] that in [illegible] ndwell
V C said "Here a girl of about sixteen or seventeen years of age, whose father was a farmer, chose, for some reason which does not appear, to leave her father's house and to go no one knew whither But it seems that in August 1814, she was at Portsmouth, and that she then intended to go abroad Therefore it is but reasonable to presume that all along she has been concealing herself, and that she never intended to return home The mere fact of her

1834 for seven years for a crime He last n that year The records showed that he resumption that he was dead in the year 507, Lawson Pre Ev Rule 53, see also Re Ocean Co, 2 I R 1.

Law Accord-would appear rooke's Digest oo Lal, 2 Hay.
10 W R 484;
C 137 Note, Bawnuddur v Ram W R 891, Ghasee v Jasouddee, H C 1 It is only when the

S. 108 provisions of section 108 of Act I of 1872 will apply Parameshwar Rai v Bisseswar Singh, 1 A 53 (F B) Where a person claims another's property on the allegation that the latter was missing and has not been heard of for more than seven years, the question whether such person is to be presumed to be dead is one ... ance In such a case ... Dhondo Bhik ... 11 B 1 ... W N 1889, 239 Balaya v Kistnappa, 11 M 118, Hari Chintaman v Moro Lakshman 11 B 89; Jayawant v Ramchandrao 18 Bom L R 11=40 B 239=33 Ind Cas 181, Ponduri v Jalaiah, 71 Ind Cas 305=32 M L T (H C) 6 Under the Mahomedan ... share of a missing person cannot open, ... ty years have elapsed since his birth, ... Ali v Maharban 2 A 625; Rahim Bibi v Rahat Bibi 7 N W P 149 Girdhari v Lado, A W N 1882, 105 Doulat v Khiya, 2 Agra 59 But in a later Full Bench case of the same High Court those cases were overruled In that case Mahmood J said "The rule of Mahomedan Law that a missing person is to be regarded as alive till the expiry of 90 years from the date of his birth, is a rule of evidence, and not of succession or inheritance etc, within the meaning of section 24 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act" Mirlar Ali v Buth Singh, 7 A 297 (F B)=A W N 1884, 333 So the rule contained in section 108 of the Indian Evidence Act, applies to the case of a Mahomedan, who has been missing for more than seven years when the question of his death arises in cases to which under the provisions of section 24 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act (VI of 1871) the Mahomedan Law is applicable Ibid, see also Imdad Ali Ghulam v Jilani, 12 P R 1892; Moolla Cassim v Moolla Abdul, 2 C L J 236=15 M L J 317=7 Bom L R 892=2 A L J 798=10 C W N 33=33 C 173=32 I A 177; Yusuf Ali Beg v Ayub Beg 11 A L J 355=18 Ind Cas 920, Miraj v Abdul, 43 A. 673

Time of death Though under ss 107 and 108 of the Indian Evidence ... of seven years, ... he has ... n died ... on the presumption of death, nor on the other upon the presumption of the continuance of life Rango v Mudi Yeppa, 23 B 296 Whenever the question as to the exact time of death arises, it must be dealt with according to the evidence and circumstances of each case, when the death is alleged to have occurred at any time not affected by the presumption of law as to seven years Dharup Nath v Gobind Saran 8 A 614=A W N 1886, 239, see also Guru v Larchmma, 14 M L J 464 The law on the subject is thus stated by Richards C J in Mohammad Sharif v Bande Ali, 34 A 36=8 A. L J 1052 (F B) "They contended that it must be presumed that Madad Ali died sometime during the first seven years during which according to the evidence he was not heard of, and that upon the expiry of the first seven years it must be presumed that he was dead In my opinion this contention is not correct The mere fact that the evidence adduced by the plaintiffs went to show that Madad Ali had not been heard of for more than seven years raises no greater presumption than that Madad Ali is dead There is no presumption that he died in the first seven years or in the last seven years The presumption merely is that he was dead at the time ... dead arose, the burden ... if it was necessar ... Nath v Gobind ... on which the plain ... judge who delivered the judgment in the case, I think that he misinterpreted and misunderstood the passage from Taylor on Evidence, which he quotes The period of seven years which the learned author there speaks of is in my opinion the minimum period during which it is necessary for the plaintiff to show that the person whose life or death is in question has not been heard of and that if the evidence shows the person had not been heard of for 14 or 15 years instead of seven, the presumption would not be carried one bit further There would be merely the presumption that the man is dead; but there would be no presumption that he died at any particular moment of the period during which he has not been heard of. In the last edition of Taylor on Evidence the passage is as follows· 'although, however, a person who has not been heard of for 7 years is presumed to be dead, the law raises no presumption as to the time of his death, and if any one who seeks to establish the precise period during these seven years at

that the time, he
It seems to me that this argument proceeds upon the assumption that if Dillar had sued during his life time, the evidence as to the disappearance of Mudal Ali would have been exactly the same This would be a very rash assumption Seven or eight years ago there must have been many persons who might have heard of the existence of Mudal Ali who are now dead and gone Reliance was also placed upon the case In re Phene's Trusts, L R 5 Ch App 139 In that case the question was whether or not Nicholas Phene Mill had survived his uncle who died on the 5th January, 18(1, leaving certain property by Will to his nephews in equal shares Nicholas Phene Mill was one of his nephews Sir G. M. Gifford L J examined the authorities upon the question of presumption and finally decided that it lay upon the administrator of Nicholas Phene Mill to show by affirmative evidence that the latter had survived his uncle At page 151 the Lord Justice says "It is a general well founded rule that a person seeking to recover property must establish his title by affirmative proof This was one of the grounds of decision in Doe v Nepean and to assert as an exception to the general rule that the onus of proving death at any particular period, either within the seven years or otherwise, should be with the party alleging d not of presumption but of proof, or with the real substance of the actual decisions, or the sound parts of the reasoning in Doe v Nepean or with the principles to be deduced from the judgment in Underwood v Wing The true proposition is, that those who found a right upon a person having survived a particular perio will necessarily the person asse equal force to the case when it is essential for the plaintiff's claim that he should establish the death of an individual at a particular period Lastly, the appellants relied upon the judgment of Karamat Husain J, in the case of Mussammat Akbari unnissa v Sayed Bashir Ali S A No 486 of 1909 With great respect I think the learned Judge fell into the same error as the Judges who decided the ca stood of Nc

Bhusl was c 11 C is enacted by se time of the suit, but there is no presumption as to the precise time of his death' until the seven the whole of th presumed dead from the moment the seven years commenced But the contention was overruled, and Lord Denman Chief Justice, in delivering the judgment of the Court stated thus —"The absence of Mathew Knight abroad for seven years, without having been heard of, is evidence from which a jury might reasonably presume, and in this case have properly presumed, his death This period has been adopted as the ground for such presumption in analogy to the Statutes of 1 Jac I C II relating to bigamy, and 19 Car 2 C 6, as to the continuance of lives on which leases were held, and the lessor of the plaintiff clearly proved the first of the points necessary to maintain the case But such absence abroad for seven years, though it naturally leads the mind to believe that the party is dead, and therefore is sufficient evidence to warrant a presumption of fact that the party was dead at the end of seven years, clearly raises no inference as to the exact time of the death; and still less that such death took place at the end of seven years Absence for the period has no tendency to induce the belief that life has ceased at that precise time; and no case has been cited, nor do we know of any, in which it has been laid down as a rule of law ... of fact, ... the other ... though the loss of a vessel in which a person sailed might be presumed, after having sailed on a foreign ... and so it might be ... the tim... ...ircum... ...time case on appeal in the Exchequer Chamber ... 'Now, when nothing is heard of a person for seven years, it is obviously a matter of complete uncertainty at what point of time in those ... last day is most improbable, ar... of death That pr... has been heard of; ... he should not be heard of In other words it is presumed that his not being heard of has been occasioned by his death, which presumption arises from the considerable time that has elapsed If you assume that he was alive on the last day but one of the seven years, then there is nothing extra ordinary in his not having been heard of on the last day, and the previous extraordinary lapse of ... reason of the ... of death ... ne con... ... when a question is raised before a Court as to whether a person is alive or dead These sections do not lay down any presumption as to how long a man was alive or at what time he died Band Veeramma v Gangala, 16 Ind Cas 43; Poomaloori v Chelakapatai, 33 M L J 295=(1917) M W N 722=6 L W 633, Mairaj Fatima v Abdul 19 A L J 713=63 Ind Cas 286; see also Re Phene's Trusts, L R 5 Ch 139, Re Lewe's Trusts, L R 6 Ch 356; Re Rhodes, 36 Ch D 586, R. v Lumley, L R 1 C C R 196, Lalchand v. Mahant, 42 T L R 159; Punjab v Natha, A I R 1931 Lah 582 (F B)=133 Ind Cas 889, Meher Khan v Salhi, A I R 1932 Lah 45=134 Ind Cas 97, Gudri v Jangi, 124 Ind Cas 25; Jangi v Gudri A I R 1932 All 365=1932 A L J 175, Jewan v Kuar Redti, A I R 1930 All 427=1930 A L J 469 The earliest date to which the death can be ... the date when the suit was filed Jeshankar ... Ind Cas 525; see also Basharat v Naje ... 0; Faquir v Dan Bahadur, 21 O C 143=46 Ind Cas 803, Mohonar Lal v Chuni, L R 3 A 393, Muhammad v. Abdul, 64 Ind Cas 468, Rekhab Das v Mt Sheobai, 45 A 466=21 A L J 393=7... Fateh Ali v Ahmad Din, 100 ... 00 Ind Cas 446; Mahadeo ... h 13, Jagannath Singh v ... r v Mahadeo, 115 Ind Cas 626 If a person has not been heard of for seven years that is a presumption of law that he is dead but at what time within that period he died ... g that the ... es upon the ... s essential ... A. 24=30 ... 289 (P. C), see also Ganesh Das Awora, In the goods of, 13 C L J. 578=97 Ind. Cas. 247= A I R 1926 Cal 1056

By persons who would naturally have heard of him "Persons who would naturally have heard of him" is not confined to a particular class; they may be relations or strangers Lawson's Pre Ev Rule 15; Doe v. Deakin, 4 B. & Ald 433 A wife, who left her husband and is in keeping of another is not one of the persons who would naturally hear from him if he were alive Kantabai v Umabai, 117 Ind Cas 209=A I R 1929 Nag 127.

Not been heard of "Not been heard of" means that none of the "persons' an action was brought on the policy in 1874 and the question was whether N was then dead He had left his home in England for Australia in 1867, and as follows: A niece of man on the street e passing crowd o her mother and all thought her d been 'heard of'

ble grounds, then Assurance Co v.
Edmonds, 2 App that not being thing about him was dead, added 'you cannot say that a man has never been heard of, when in the first place one of his nearest relations comes and says she saw him alive and well within three years; still less can you say that he has never been heard of when every member of the family states that they heard that which is now stated" On appeal this was held to be an error "The direction," said Lord Chancellor Hatherley, "seems to me to come to this In the first place, if the jurymen believed Mrs C's assertion to be correct, and thought she had seen him alive and well, of course that ends the case But then he adds:

member of the n, as far as that for the jury-them whatever t on as arising
when every member of the family had heard what she said, because, be it true or be it not true, the fact of their having heard it would prevent the assumption arising I think that would be the reasonable inference from that language,

other hand
presumption that he is dead,—that is, that he has never been heard of by any of his relations for the space of seven years,—when you find that every one of the relatives has come forward, and every one of the relatives heard that he was alive" Therefore it appears to me that the Lord Chief Baron plainly and distinctly directed the jurymen that they had no evidence before them at all came to the conclusion that Mrs C's story was not to be believed On the contrary, it seems to have been laid down in clear and precise terms, that if every member of the family has heard of him, whether by a credible story or not, then there is a probability of his being a[illegible] ment on of death would not arise And Lord Blackburn in [illegible] had failed in proving the actual death of [illegible] n the rule of law which is generally laid down [illegible] man has not been heard of for seven year[illegible] it he is dead It is generally so enunciated I [illegible] orrect way of enunciating it, but I think it may be fairly enough put in those words for this purpose I think, having regard both to the reason of the thing and the decisions we must take 'not being heard of' in a certain sense There was seldom or never a man who had reached the age of forty with regard to whom it would not be easy to call scores of people to say, 'I was at school with him, I knew him perfectly well, and I have not heard of him for the last seven years' But that would not be enough to raise a presumption that he was dead because if ever so much alive, those people might not have heard of him My lords, it appears from the case of Doe v. Andrew (15 Q B 751), that it [illegible] a presumption that there should have been an [illegible] he was alive, would [illegible] nalogy, but it is something like the case of a search for documents; before you are allowed to give secondary evidence of a document, you must search the places where the document would in the natural course of things be, if it were still in existence, and having proved that you have done that, you may then give your secondary evidence In like manner, in order to raise the presumption that a man is dead from his not having been heard of for seven years, you [illegible] amongst those who if he was a[illegible] of him [illegible] ld [illegible] een such [illegible] k [illegible] is dead [illegible] ie [illegible] who said so, but afterwards said [illegible] [illegible] that Mrs [illegible] had seen him' in Australia, but that he did not [illegible] a report would hardly [illegible] witness saying he had not [illegible] posing the jurymen had [illegible] n, would or would not the [illegible] a seven years' absence [illegible] I think certainly they would It seems to me that when she said, 'I have seen the man in the streets [illegible] arising from the relative, including [illegible] and it turned the onus the other [illegible] might have been proved that the man [illegible] but somebody else If that had been proved it [illegible] had never made that statement. When [illegible] d all the others had heard it from her, [illegible] statement affected the onus, yet [illegible]

[illegible] think many lawyers themselves,—would be under the [illegible] seven years, commonly enunciated rule about a man's not being heard of for seven years, [illegible] that there has not been a physical hearing of him, and that if the [illegible] seven years [illegible] and [illegible] it the [illegible] think [illegible] was [illegible] hat it [illegible] hat in [illegible] that [illegible] ot see]

S 10

.thin
that no bout him which might raise a een no more' I do not because I think, though shift the presumption, yet the facts might be m reasonable doubt was not able person came and s

be said, after it was proved that the man who told them that had been cheated into the belief that he had seen the brother, could it be said that evidence, so explained, put an end to the presumption arising at the end of seven years? I apprehend not, yet the wording of the Lord Chief Baron in the first line might have led the jury to think so; and I must acknowledge that when I read the whole through, I think it did lead the jury to think so, whether so meant or

Robert Nutt has been heard of, no matter how or where, and even you are satisfied that the hearing was founded upon a mistake, that mere fact of hearing is enough That I think would be misdirection"

Presumption of survivorship When two persons, and especially when two relatives, have perist conflagration, it often of succession to estate Greenl § 29 Direct proof, however, can seldom be procured in these cases, Law and in several other codes, recourse is er the particular circumstances connected n These presumptions are based on the from strength age and sex Ibid The common law however does not attempt to ascertain, in the absence of any evidence on which to go the survivor of a common catastrophe Strictly it may be said that the common law presumes neither that one survived nor that all perished at the same moment Lawson Pre Ev p 298 But by leaving the matter as one unascertainable, "the practical consequence", as has been said ' is nearly the same as if the law presumed all to have perished together at the same moment It, is, in fact, exactly the same where two persons (whether of the same or different ages, sexes or physical conditions) perish in an accident ship wreck or battle, and there is no evidence to show which one of the several survived, the law will not raise any presumption from the fact that one was younger or stronger, or of the more hardy sex, that he survived an older or a weaker or a less hardy victim The party alleging that one survived the other must prove it, the onus is on him the survivorship of one to prove 1 Meriv 307; Wollaston v Berke Re Wheeler, 37 L J (P & M) 40, Wing v Argrave, 8 H L C 183; In re Benyon, (1901) P 141, In re Fisher, (1915) General,
1 Hag im Wynne
said fair and reasonable in these unhappy cases to cons same instant of time than to resort to any f on account of the degree of robustness" I Court said "Instances have occurred wher question has been, which of the two survived it has generally been taken that both died at the same moment" Re Murray 1 Curt 596 In Taylor v Deplock, 1 Phill 261, Sir John Nicholl said "There is no evidence direct as to this point; some inferences have been deduced It is stated that the two bodies were found together This tends to show that they were in the same situation at the time of death Upon the whole I am not satisfied that proof is adduced that the wife survived I assume both perished at the same moment " See also Sutherthwaite v Powell, 1 Curt 703; Underwood v Wing 4 Deg M & G 657; Re Wainright 1 Sw & Tr 257, Re Ewart 1 Sw & Tr 257, Durrant v Friend 5 De G & Sm 315, Scutton v Patullo, L R 19 Eq 375 R v Hay, 1 W Black 616, contra Sillick v Booth, 1 Y & C C C 117 "Where two persons" said Lord Chelmsford in Wing v Angrave 6 H L Cas 183, "are at one and the same instant washed into the sea, and disappear together and are never seen any more, it is not possible for any tribunal called upon judicially to determine the question of survivorship to form any judgment upon the subject which can be founded upon anything but mere conjecture derived from age sex, constitution or strength of body or mind of each individual, and as our law has not established any rules of presumption for these rare and extraordinary occasions, the uncertainty in which they are involved leaves no greater weight on one side or the other to incline the balance of evidence either way If, therefore, it is necessary for W W to establish his claim under the Will of Mrs U, that he should prove that she survived her husband he must altogether fail" There is no presumption of law arising from age or sex as to survivorship among persons whose death is occasioned by the one and the same cause nor is there any presumption of law that all of them died at the same time But the question is one of fact, depending wholly on evidence and if the evidence does not establish the survivorship of any one the law ... probable is ... 341 = 3 C ... (1907) 1 Ch ... L R 7 Ch ... 3 Beav 3... namely (1) ... succes... d each likely ... of exposure ... survivorship ... to all who

(2) And the one of several in a common danger which prove ... was last seen or heard alive within the operation of the cause of death, is presumed to have survived the others Lawson's Presumptive Evidence Rule 55, 56

Cause of death With regard to the cause of death, accident rather than suicide will be presumed Harvey v Ocean Co (1905) 2 Ir R 1 C A, Phip Ev 7th Ed p 654

Death without issue There is no presumption of law that a person died without issue (Re Jackson [1907] 2 Ch 351), but where the deceased, when last heard of, was unmarried, he may be presumed as a matter of fact though not of law to have died unmarried and without issue Re Callan 39 Ir L T Jo 372, Phip Ev 7th Ed 651

109 When the question is whether persons are partners, landlord and tenant, or principal and agent and it has been shown that they have been acting as such, the burden of proving that they do not stand, or have ceased to stand to each other in those relationships respectively, is on the person who affirms it

Burden of proof as to relationship in the cases of partners, landlord and tenant, principle and agent

Principle Here the presumption arises from the probability of the continuance of things once shown to exist Price v Price 16 M & W 232 Nort Ev 295 The presumption of continuance is clearly one of the most practical importance It is frequently quite impossible to prove for instance, the existence of . . . moment such exis may fair Ev 29 generally thought it . . . presuming, that a tenancy or a . . . until the contrary is proved . . . C 72 (79).

Scope of the section When the existence of a person, or personal relation, or a state of things, is once established by proof the law presumes that the person, relation, or state of things continues to exist as before, till the contrary is shown, or t . . . in question . . . shown to exis . . . Taylor Ev § . . . or object, or relation, or state of things, is shown to have existed at a given . . . d In reality, however, a genuine rule of . . . e rulings usually declare merely that certain . . . sufficient evidence for the jury's finding" . . . of s 109 of the Evidence Act cannot be over- . . . Mi Keyan v Mi Ein, 8 Bur L T 292=33 . . . umption that the several persons mentioned in naforgats are predecessors in interest within the meaning of s 223, Berar Land Revenue Code Ramchand v Ratnanath, 98 Ind Cas 674=A I R 1927 Nag 99

Partners This section . . . presumed to continue until the c . . . partnership brings an action . . . not partners It is proved that . . . presumption is that they continue to be so Anderson v Clay, 1 Stark 405, . . . Clarke v Alexander, 8 Scott N R 161; Clarke . . . sumption finds legislative sanction in section . . . gards that section Cunningham said. "By . . . burden of proving that persons who are shown to have been acting as partners have ceased to stand in that relation to each other is thrown on the person who affirms it, and by this section the further presumption is created, that the relations of such persons continue to be governed by the terms of the original contract which has expired, so far as they may be applicable to a partnership determinable at will The same rule within the same limitation, obtains in the case of a tenancy which is continued after the expiration of the term limited by the lease" Cun Contract Act Notes under s 256 'The evidence of a joint interest in the plaintiffs was sufficient prima facie It was shown that they were partners in business two or three years previous The witness stated that he had frequently done business with held that the partnership could be dissolved only by a special notice, and that,

. . .

. . .

Bursh, 11 1 R 1837.

0. Principal and Agent An authority to do an act, once shown to exist is presumed to continue until the contrary is proved Pratler v Palmer, 1 Ark 456, Law on Pre. Fi Rule 3 ... case of principal and agent Rayan v La ... agency is terminated in any of the way ... Act the agent or the third person concerned is affected by the termination only from the date when it becomes known to him The same rule applies where it is by notice by death, or by insanity that the agency is terminat Cun Fi p 41 see also Contract Act ss 182 238 If a man were on several occasions to author... his mistress to order goods from a tradesman on his credit, the jury would be amply justified in finding him liable for articles supplied after the termina... of the connection in the absence of any proof that the trade man had rece... notice of such termination Ryan v Lambe, 12 Q B 460

Landlords and tenants When once the relation of landlord and ten... is admitted or proved to exist it will be presumed to continue until it is sh... by affirmative proof that it has ceased to exist. Mohun Mahto v Mar Shem 21 W R 5, Maung San v Maung Tiru, U B R (1897 1901) Vol. II, 114, Tiru v Sangudien 3 M 118, Iameshar v Dilpun, 7 C L J 202, Dattatraya v Sridhar, 17 B 736 Mere non-payment of rent though for many year, would not affect the landlord's right to ... of landlord and tenant once existed Rama Charan ... L J 72, Bungo Lal v Abdool, 4 C 314 ... Premsukh v Bhujia, 22 A 517 (F B); Ivaneshwar v Gobordhan, 7 C L J 202 Dadaja v Krishna, 7 B 34 Failure of payment of rent by the tenant to the landlord does not alone operate to create in favour of a tenant a title by adverse possession Reajuddi v Chand, 24 C L J. 453, Maung Lin v Maung Shue, U B R (1892-96), vol II 363; Troylukho v Mohima, 7 C L R 400; Tiru Charna v Sangudien, 3 M 118; Madan v Kumar, 7 C L J ... So where a tenant holds over after the expiration of the term, he impliedly holds subject to all the covenants in the lease which are applicable to his new situation Tomiano v Young 2 Camp 50, Thomas v Parker, 1 H & N 6... Tay § 197, Chatur v Mukund, 7 Cal 710, Baij Nath v Raghu Nath, 16 C W N 496, Kishori Lal v Administrator General, 2 C W N 503, Jamal v Chatterdhari, 16 W R 185; Beni v Raj Kumar, 6 C W N. 589 See also section 116 of the Transfer of Property Act and section 51 of the Bengal Tenancy Act The rel... is proved to have ceased Dealra ... Ind Cas 555 Where it is proved ... ant was a tenant of the plaintiff at one time, it is for the defendant, under s 110, Evidence Act, to show when the relationship of landlord and tenant ceased and possession became adverse Charali v Tullusee, 28 M L J 361=27 Ind Cas 84

110. When the question is whether any person is owner of anything of which he is shown to be in possession, the burden of proving that he is not the owner is on the person who affirms that he is not the owner.

Burden of proof as to ownership

Principle Where title to land becomes material, the fact of present possession alone may serve to create a presumption of ownership, the emphasis ... on the document ... to the opponent the ... contrary Wigmore ... so, because it is ... obviously applies ... Hari v Dhanh ... in some lawful ... only made in order to support possessory ... is forthcoming ... is resorted to ... Sumner in Syed ... C L J 340 ... most common muniments of title to real estate is the presumption, from long possession, that such possession is lawful rather than unlawful,—in other words, that it is supported by a grant It has become a well established rule that the peaceable possession of real estate is presumptive evidence of title until the contrary is shown The title which adverse possession gives is one in fee simple, and consequently its acquisition must be safeguarded and all the avenues of approach to it watched with the argus-eye of the law that no one is wronged Theoretically, at least possession is the primitive mode of acquisition of all property, and constitutes the ultimate foundation upon which every title rests It constitutes also the only means of enjoyment of property Hence it is necessarily the conspicuous badge or sign of ownership This is a principle firmly imbedded in all common law jurisprudence Burr Jones § 75 It is held that the presumption arising from possession is a presumption of seisin in fee Bull N P 103, 109, Asher v Whitlock, L R 1 Q B 1=35 L J Q B 17; see also Jayne v Price, 5 Taunt 346; Dainty v Brocklehurst, 3 Ex 207

S.

Scope of the section The fact of possession, in the eye of law, suggests always ownership, and whether it is put in Latin as potior est conditio possidentis, or in colloquel Anglo-Saxon that "possession is nine points of the law" it goes without saying that proof of the possession of property is prima facie evidence of title to it both with regard to moveable and immoveable property Indeed it may be said that the presumption has attained its full growth Pollock says "It has been said that there is no doctrine of possession in our law The reason of this appearance, an appearance capable of deceiving even learned persons, is that possession has all but swallowed up ownership, and the rights of a possessor, or one entitled to possess, have all but monopolized the very name of property" Webbe's Pollock on Torts 417. The same learned Judge, in comparing the status of owners in olden time and now, says that the "owner in possession was protected against disturbance, but the rights of owner out of po session were obscure and weak To this day it continues so with regard to chattels For many purposes, the true owner of goods is the person and only the person, entitled to immediate possession" Ibid 416 This presumption of owner theory that such possession is rightful assigned for this presumption are the principles of law to suppose until the contrary is shown, that possession is lawful rather than u lawful that since the rightful owners of property are not likely to consent that their property remain in the continued possession of others (U S) 109 Burr Jones § 74 Possession affords prima facie presumption of ownership, for men generally own what they possess Webb v Fox 7 T R 397 Thus it is sufficient to maintain trespass on real property against a wrong doer Elliot v Kemp, 7 M & W 312 Nort Ev 295 "If a person is in actual possessio show that at least

C & P 5
to the first point made in this case on the part of the defendant ,, that the ownership alleged was not sufficiently proved, it was proved by the captain in the ordinary way, that the owners by whom as such, he was appointed and employed, were the persons in whom the ownership is by the declaration averred to be And though it afterwards appeared by his answers on cross examination, that the ownership was devised to those persons under a bill of sale executed by himself as attorney to one Laurence Williams the former owner, it did not on that account become necessary for the plaintiffs to produce that bill of sale, or the ship's register, or to give any further proof of such of their property, the prima facie evidence of roof or title deeds on the necessary in support of de, in consequence of the adduction of some contrary proof on the other side" Robertson v French, 4 East, 130. In Jones v Williams, 2 M & W 326, Parke B, said. "Ownership may be proved by proof of possession, and that can be shown only by acts of enjoyment of the law itself" Possession, therefore, has a twofold value: it is evidence of ownership and is itself the foundation of a right to possession Hori v Dhondi, 8 Bom L R 96 Under this section, possession when long and continued upto a recent date, leads to a presumption of title This section refers to the presumption to be made of ownership based on the circumstance of such possession, and allows the plaintiff with such prima facie title to claim a decree where no superior title is proved on the other side. Per Ranade J in Hanmantrao v Secretary of State, 2 Bom L R 1111 = 25 B 287; see also Ma In Lun v Ma ... Hla, L B R (1893 1900), 85 Where there has been continued possession in assertion of a right, the right should be presumed to have lent a legal origin, if such a legal origin was possible and this presumption applies even if the alleged right in its inception rests on a foundation invalid in point of law and the Court will presume that the performance of all acts and the existence of all circumstances necessar ... shown to be more consistent with the ill ... v Venkatagin A I R 1930 M ... es is in possession under an ... pul only registrable, a subsequent mortgagee under a registered instrument must be presumed to have had notice of such possession, and could not claim any priority over the unregistered instrument Bhikhi Rai v Udit Narain, 25 A 366 = A W N 1903, 81 Under this section, possession short of the statutory period which may give a title by presumption, ... presumption of ownership, and shift the burden of proving t ... iere neither side can show title, the possessio ... i of ... r ... acie right ... enamidar cannot maintain a ... ius of proving that he is ... mada, 24 Ind Cas 801 A ... Specific Relief Act when first dispossessed, can, after the summary relief under that section is proved by limitation, rely in a regular suit for ejectment on s 110 of the Evidence Act Haradhan v Isuar Das, 2 Pat L J 61 = 38 Ind Cas 797 Where nothing else ... to be the owner ... ir L T ... be user ... W 245, ... s ess on ... us oppo ... umption ... Madon ... ed that ... icts, the ... some ... erpool different object the ... (1900) 1 Ch 19, ... Times, June 30, Phip Ev 7th Ed 108 Though section 110 of the Evidence Act recognizes a presumption that the person in possession also has a good title there is no corresponding section saying that the person with the title should be presumed to be in possession Kashi Nath v Ganesh, 1923 Bom 361 = 77 Ind Cas 506 ... presumption of ownership ... tered lease is ... 110 Evidence ... 199 Where ... he owner, the ... Nizam Din v ... esumption is that ... possession at the ... N 1179 Where a person is in possession of property and he uses it for four months of every year for tethering his cattle, such possession is prima facie evidence of title, but Court should not say that the person's ownership is established Kashichand v.

S.

Atmaram, 119 Ind Cas 701 = A I R 1929 Nag 318 Prior peaceful possession is prima facie evidence of ownership under this section and is a good title against all persons except the true owner and can be relied on in successfully st another who has no title to the land in Cas 680 Possession acquired tortuously can show no better right 2 Greenl Ev

Possession, meaning of The word "possession" contemplated by this section is to be understood as opposed to juridical possession and to denote actual present possession Mi Ein Kin v Nga La, U B R 1905, Evidence, 7 Where the possession of a person is peaceable and obtained without ousting any property law Hanmantrao v Secretary of State, 2 Bom L R 1111 = 25 B 287 The mere length of possession by a mortgagee is not in all cases of itself sufficient to justify the Kuar v Pir Baksh, A W present possession, and be prima facie evidence of This section means that Sambhasheo v Mahadeo, 10 N L R 188 the burden of proof will be shifted to the defendant to prove title to himself and his right to oust the plaintiff Mi Ein Kin v Nga La, U B R 1905, Evidence 7 There is no presumption that the property left by a person long deceased is part of undivided estate When land has been in the exclusive possession of others for a long period, the person asserting that it forms part of an undivided estate should be required to prove the fact Maung Lee Pe v Maung Lee Gale, U B R (1897 1901) Vol II, 418 Where in a suit to eject the defendant from a house which had been in his possession for 5 years without interruption, on the ground that he first entered the premises temporararily with the permission of the plaintiff's father and the defendant in reply alleged a sale, the burden of proving permissive occupation clearly lay on the plaintiff e out a title of his own.

6) Vol II, 371 Where the wrongful dispossession of ion by defendant, and the held that the burden of proof lies on the plaintiff Maung Tun v Maung Pu U, U B R (1902 1903) Vol II, Evidence, 7 Where the question is whether any person is owner of any thing of which he is shown to be in possession, the burden of proving that he is not the owner is on the person who affirms that he is not the owner Ma Hla v Ma Thait U B R (1892 1896) Vol II, 377 There is a clear distinction as to the onus of proof between a case in which a plaintiff sues to obtain possession of land by redemption of a mortgage, and that in which the defence to a suit for possession of land is twelve years' adverse possession by the defendant In each case it is for the plaintiff to plead his title, and if that title is put in issue, he must make it out by at least prima facie evidence before the defendant can be put to proof of his defence In the second case, where the defence is twelve years' adverse possession the defendant must plead and make out the title he alleges, and thus show that the title of the plaintiff which otherwise had been proved or admitted was lost. Parmanand v Sahib Ali, 11 A 438.

Where plaintiff who averred that defendant had been in possession for over 20 years of certain land, and had regularly paid the government revenue thereon during that period as the registered holder of the land in the thugyi's books, however, stated that during this period defendant had only been in permissive occupation, having rented the land from plaintiff without paying rent for it, the defendant on the other hand, while admitting that the land was originally owned by plaintiff asserted that plaintiff had sold the land out and out to him, and that he had been in adverse possession ever since for over 20 years, held that the burden of proof lay on plaintiff to establish her title and to show that defer ... not adverse Ma Ba v Maung K ... it is in the possession of the ... rtgaged to ... hich ... sant ... ion ... ther ... ent person seeking to oust another out of the possession of the landed property to which the latter has already succeeded and in whose favour mutation of names has also been effected, after regular enquiry by a Revenue Officer, is bound in the first instance, to prove that his right is superior to that of his adversary Nasibulnissa v Mansor Ali 120 P W R 1909=4 Ind Cas 965 Possession in prima facie evidence of title agi ... the person in possession Krishna Iyer v Secr ... Ind Cas 121=33 M 173 This section ... proof lies on the party who is out of possess ... R (1872 1892), 102 In a suit for pos ... and previous possession are both denied, the plaintiff should start ... Walker v Atma Ram, 14 W R 478 Possession is prima facie evidence of title and is primarily exclusive, and it is for him, who impugns this exclusive title, to show ... his own right Krishna Cheryc ... ler v Goluck Chunder, 1 W ... 5 W R 218, Adjodhya v S ... Ye, U B R (1892 1896) Vo ... 458, Laldas v Kashiram, 4 B H C A C 60, Pir Baksh v Jhanda, 157 P R 1882; Hassan v Fazal, 121 P. R 1882; Lachho v Har Sahai, 12 A. 46=A W. N 1889, 43 Maung Ya Baing v Ma Khyin U B R (1892-1896) Vol II 234; Nga Shwe Yon v Nga Kaing, L B R (1872 1892), 133, Ma Kyin v Ram Persad, 6 Bur L T 185=21 Ind Cas 333, Aslum v The Crown, 8 S L R, 141=16 Cr L J 138=27 Ind Cas 202.

... Possession or owner ship ... continue ... was seized ... the burden

S.

is on him who alleged a disseisin Brown v King 5 Metc 173 Where a person is proved to be the owner of personal property with the present right of possession, the presumption is that he continues to be owner with the right of possession, until there is evidence that he has parted with that ownership or right of possession and the mere fact that the property is in the possession of another, with his consent shift the burden of right of property of one person is she will not be adju proof of its having distinctly become so, for every presumption is in favour of the possession continuing in the same subordination of title Lawson Pre Ev 210

What constitutes possession The acts of enjoyment from which the ownership of real property may be inferred are various, as for instance, the cutting of timber, the repairing of fences and banks, the perambulation of boundaries of a manor or parish, the taking of wreck on the foreshore and the granting to other of licenses or leases under which possession is taken and held, also the receipts of rents from tenants of the property, for all these acts are fractions of that sum total of enjoyment which characterises dominium Wills Ev 60, see also Kirbey v Cowderoy (1912) A C 599 Doe v Arkwright, 5 C & P 575 St Leonards v Ashburner, 21 L T 595, Woolway v Rowe, 1 A & E 114 In cases of possession every act of enjoyment or possession is a relevant fact, since the right claimed is instituted by an indefinite number of acts of user exercised animo domini But inasmuch as such acts are more or less discontinuous in their character—and in the case of ancient rights the evidence of them is by lapse of time rendered even more so—the question for the tribunal is whether the acts proved are so numerous and so connected that the right of possession may be inferred from them If they are so frequent and of such a charac nuous open claim it to exercise it, the the mere discontin
Ibid Acts of possession and enjoyment of land as cutting timber, repairing hedges, granting leases etc may be evidence of ownership, not only of the particular piece or quantity of land with reference to which such acts are done ...cality or similarity of the other piece of rent constitutes
...s of jungle lands possession is presumed with the rightful owner Leelanund v Basheeroonissa 16 W R 102, Moochee Ram v Bissambher Roy, 24 W R 410, see also Munshi Mazahar v Bepari Singh A W N 234=3 A L J 567, Basanta Kumar Ray v Secretary of State 44 C 858

111. Where there is a question as to the good faith of a transaction between parties, one of whom stands to the other in a position of active confidence, the burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is on the party who is in a position of active confidence.

Proof of good faith in transactions where one party is in relation of active confidence

Illustrations

(a) The good faith of a sale by a client to an attorney is in question in a suit brought by the client The burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is on the attorney

(b) The good faith of a sale by a son just come of age to a father is in question in a suit brought by the son The burden of proving the good faith of the transaction is on the father

Principle In the ordinary transactions of life, fairness and honesty are presumed and conveyances, sales and contracts generally are presumed to have been made in good faith until the contrary appears Burr Jones Ev § 13 The allegation of bad faith is one which the plaintiff according to section 101 is bound to prove in contradi on to that section ndant is this if it were not The plaintiff having been entirely in the hands of the defendant, would b destitute of the means of proving affirmatively the mala fides of the transaction whilst the defendant, in such a transaction, may fairly be subjected to the duty not only of dealing honestly but of preserving clear evidence that he has done so Ib Ev 86 ' The broad principle on which the Court acts in cases of this de cripti n is that, wherever there exists such a confidence, of whatever character that confidence may be a repo d to exert influence in any transaction between t and fairest explanation and communication of every particular re ting m been of the one who seeks to establish a contract with the person so trusting him" Per Pagewood L C in Tate v Williamson, 1 Eq at p 536

Scope of the section The rule is that the burden of proof is always upon the party alleging a fraud but there is one large class of cases which forms an important exception When a question arises between a trustee and a beneficiary or between other parties who are in a fiduciary relation as to the good faith of transaction between them, a peculiar burden is imposed upon the one in whom the trust is reposed When the complaining party proves such relation, the burden of proof is cast upon the trustee or other persons holding the relation of trust to show that the transaction is fair and reasonable and that o other party To state the rule ist between two persons resulting a business transaction takes pla the person holding the influential position, the law presumes everything against the transaction and casts the burden of proof upon the person benefited to show that the confidential relation has been, as to that transaction at least suspended and that it was as fairly conducted as if between strangers In equity, persons standing in certain relations to one another—such as parent and child, man and wife attorney and client confessor and penitent, guardian and ward—are subject to certain presumption when transactions between them are brought in question and if a gift or contract, made in favour of him who holds the position of influence, is impeached by him who is subject to that influence the Courts of equity cast upon the former the burden of proving that the transaction was fairly conducted as if between strangers, that the weaker was not unduly impressed by the natural influences of the stronger or the inexperienced over reached by him of mature intelligence Per Lord Penzance in Parfitt v Lawless L R 2 P & D 462 One of the most important requisites of the validity of these transactions between persons acting under the influence of these confidential relation is that the party presumably under the influence of the other should have had independent advice for a lawyer who is devoted entirely to the interest of the party he is called upon to advise, and in whom that party has entire confidence Burr Jones § 180 In Rhodes v Bate L R 1 Ch App 257 Lord Justice Turner said ' I take it to be a well established principle of this Court, that persons standing in a confidential relation towards others cannot entitle themselves to hold benefits which others may have conferred upon them unless they can show, to the satisfaction of the Court, that the person by whom the benefits have been conferred had competent and independent advice in conferring them" In other words every contract entered into by persons standing in such a relation is treated as being uberrimae fidei and may be vitiated by silence as to matters which one of two independent parties making a similar contract would be in no way bound to communicate to the other nor does it matter whether the omission is deliberate, or proceeds from mere error of judgment or inadvertence Malony v Kernan, 2 Dr & Wat p 29 The mere fact that the mortgagee was a money lender and that the mortgage was executed for funds advanced during a litigation on behalf of the mortgagor, is not sufficient to create such a relation of active confidence between the mortgagor and mortagagee as to throw the burden of proof good faith under section 111 of the Evidence Act, on the mortgagee Thakurdas v Jairaj Singh, 26 A 130 (P C)=31 I A 46=8 C W N 569 Persons taking a benefit from another over whom they stand in a position of commanding influence, must take upon themse Portab Bahadur v Sheoraj, 1 O C W N 1903 70 To prove stands, in a fiduciary relationship to the other, it is certainly not necessary to prove that all the accounts on which the contract is based are correct Shamulthone Dutt v Susila Bala 12 C W N 1102=36 C 493

Position of active confidence The words "active confidence" indicate that the relationship between the parties must be such that one is bound to protect the interests of the other This is the case between father and son, where the son is just come of age, and between legal practitioner and his client Markby Ev p 86 Sub-sections (2) & (3) of section 16 of the Indian Contract Act, run as follows '(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing principle a person is deemed to be in a position to dominate the will of another—(a) where he holds a real or apparent authority over the other, or where he stands in a fiduciary relation to other, or where he makes a contract with a person whose mental capacity is temporarily or permanently affected by reason of age, illness or mental or bodily distress. (3) Where a person who is in a position to dominate the will of another its exercise in the particular case is presumed But again, this habitual influence may itself be presumed any of these suspected relations, as they may be called, to be in a position of commanding influence over those from whom they take a benefit In either case they are called upon to rebut the presumption that the particular benefit was procured by the exertion of that influence and was not given with due freedom and deliberation They must take upon themselves the whole proof that the thing is righteous (Gibson v Jesyes (1801) 6 Ves 266 276) A stringent rule law" (1866) in suc

by one and the influence which naturally grows out of that confidence is possessed by the other and this confidence is abused or the influence is exerted to obtain an advantage at the expense of the confiding party the person so availing himself of his position will not be permitted to retain the advantage, although the trans relation had existed long asserted and who are placed in have influence over them by which acts the person having such influence obtains any benefit ... ed the transaction L R 7 Ch 399 ((Hatch
v Hatch 9

'Position implies lawful relation See Horgreave v Everard 6 Ir Eq

111. Ves 285 and adopted by Lord Cottenham in Dent v Bennett, 4 My & Cr 269 (277); Billage v Southee, 2 Ha 534, 540; Pollock's Contract p 583 In Parfitt v Lawless, L R 2 P. & D 462 Lord Penzance, laid down that such position includes the positions of a parent and child, man and wife, doctor and patient, attorney and client, confessor and penitent, and guardian and ward But the list is by no means exhaustive. His lordship added to the list of suspected relations that of promoters of a company to the company which is their creature Erlanger v. New Sombrero Phosphate Co 3 App Cas at p 1230 But the soundness of this decision is doubted by Sir Fredrick Pollock. He says. " ... present doctrine applicable? ... in a promoter the burden of ... between them and the company was a fair one ... Railway Lamp and Lighting Co, (1889) 23 Q B D. 568=58 L J Q B 519, where the duty is put on the ground of agency" So this section refers to transactions between attorney and client, doctor and patient, guardian and ward, trustee and ces que trust, spiritual advisers and those whom they advise, wherever in fact a real or apparent authority is calculated to give one party to the transaction the means of dictating terms to and robbing the other party of perfect freedom of will Huguenin v Basely, 2 W & T L C 597, Cun Contract, 6 ... indeed the Court is not bound by author ... which the Court judges to be ... uence founded on the confidence exists, or to require such proof thereof ... t may think fit In the absence of any special relation from which such influence is presumed, the burden of proof is on the person impeaching the transaction and he must show affirmatively that pressure or undue influence was employed Blackie v Clerk, 15 Beav 595, Toker v Toker, 31 Beav 629; Pollock on Contract, 581 To treat undue influence as having been established by proof of the relations of the parties having been such that the one naturally relied upon the other for advice and the oth ... the will of the first in giving it, is erroneous ... t must be further established that a person in a ... sed the position to obtain unfair advantage for himself and so as to cause injury to the person relying upon his authority or aid Fayyaz uddin v Kutabuddin, 10 Lah 761=30 P L R 288=116 Ind Cas 899=A I R 1927 Lah 369 Where the donee is in active confidence burden of proof of good faith of the gift is on the donee even if the doner is not a purdanashin lady Vithal v. Narayan, 34 L W 471=61 M L J 878

Relation of confidence is presumed to continue "Where a relation of confidence is once established, either some positive act or some complete case of abandonment must be shown in order to determine it" it will not be considered as determined whilst the influence derived from it can reasonably be supposed to remain Per Turner L J in Rhodes v Bate, (1866) 1 Ch 252, 257, 260=35 L J. 267; Holman v Loynes, 4 D M G 270 Where the influence has its inception in the legal authority of a parent or guardian, it is presumed to continue for sometime after the termination of the legal authority, until there is what may be called a complete emancipation, so that a free and unfettered judgment may be formed independant of any sort of control Archer v Hudson ... vious that without ... s said that as a ... e authority before ... of course does not ... at time Pollock's Contract p 587.

Agent It is possible for an agent dealing directly with his principal to make a contract which the Courts will uphold, but such transactions, to be maintained, must be characterised by the utmost good faith There must be no misrepresentation, and an entire absence of concealment or suppression of any fact within the knowledge of the agent, which might influence the principal, and the burden of establishing the perfect fairness of the contract, in such cases rests upon the agent Such transactions are never upheld, unless it is clearly shown that there has been, on the part of the person trusted, that most marked integrity, that ubberrime fides, which removes all doubts respecting the fairness of the contract. Condit v. Blackwell, 92 N. J Eq 481 (Am); Exparte Lacey, 6 Ves 625; Brookman v. Rothschild, 3 Sim 153; Rothschild v Brookman, 2 D & C ... Phul Chand v. Lalla, 25 A 358 = 23 A ... 3 B L R 127 = 21 W R 340 = 1 I A 1 ... L R O C 31, Wajed Khan v E ... Pushong v Mooma, 10 W R 128

Paren ... with his c ... naturally ... when the circumstances are such that the former assumes a fiduciary relation In the case of a child's gift of its property to a parent, the circumstances attending the transaction should be vigilantly and carefully scrutinized by the Court, in order to assertain whether there has been undue influence in procuring it; but it cannot be deemed prima facie void; the presumption is in favour of its validity; and, in order to set it aside the Court must be satisfied that it was not the voluntary act of the donor Burr Jones § 190 In the case of a conveyance by a child to its parent, just after attaining majority the burden is upon the parent to show, in the clearest, and most satisfactory manner that it is in every particular worthy of receiving the sanction of a Court of Equity Burr. Jones § 190, Branbridge v Brown, L R 18 Ch D 188; Wright v Vanderplank, 25 L J. Ch 753; Hartopp v Hartopp, 25 L J Ch 471, Densdale v Densdale, 25 L J Ch 806, Bury v Oppenheim, 26 Beav 591; Potts v S ... applicable in cases of persons in loco parentis such as uncle in loco parentis and niece (Vide Archer v Hodson, 7 Beav 551; Maitland v Irving, 15 Sim 437) step-father in loco parentis and step-daughter (Kempson v Ashbee, 10 Ch ... between ... , 15 Sim ... hich the ... of the donee (e g) father, to advice the donor (son), or even to manage his property ... n of proving ... ma le to him ... Lakshmi v ...

Husband and wife From the confidential relations which exist between husband and wife, a presumption of undue influence arises in relation to any transfer of property between them, and in order to sustain a conveyance or gift by the wife to the husband, the burden of proof is upon him to show that the ... fair and proper ... omissa, 11 M I A. ... Najiban, 20 A 447, ... k, 20 Beav 521, ... relation between ... see also Coulson ... ood in a position of ... saction under his guidance, the burden of proving good faith is on him To uphold the transaction, it must be shown she was given that care and advice which was due to her in her situation Dwarka Prosad v Nasir Ahmed, 11 O L J 219 = 78 Ind Cas 850 = 1925 Oudh 16 Where the vendor had been living separately and was not under the vendee's influence the rule as to burden of proof in section 111, does not apply Jai Lal v Sheo Chand, 6 Lah L J 408 = 85 Ind Cas 293 = A. I R 1925 Lah 123

Spiritual adviser According to the English law spiritual influence would be presumed between a clergyman and any person placing confidence in him Dent v. Bennett, 7 Sim at p. 561, see also Nottidge v. Prince, 29 L J Ch 857;

1. Ves 287 and adopted by Lord Cottenham in Dent v Bennett, 4 My & Cr (277), Billage v Southee, 2 Ha 531, 540; Pollock's Contract p 583 In Parfitt v Lawless, L R 2 P & D 462 I includes the positions of a parent and attorney and client, confessor and list is by no means exhaustive. H ed relations that of promoters of a company to the company their creature. Erlanger v New Sombrero Phosphate Co 3 App Cas at p 1230 But the soundness of this decision is doubted by Sir Fredrick P.
He says "But is not personal confidence essential to make the present doctrine applicable? And has any case gone the length of casting in a promoter the burden of proving in the first instance that a contract between them and the company was a fair one? Cf. Eden v. Ridsdale's Railway La and Lighting Co, (1889) 23 Q B D. 368=58 L J. Q B the duty is put on the ground of agency". So this section refers to transactions between attorney and client, doctor and patient, guardian and ward, trustee and ces que trust, spiritual advisers and those whom they advise, wherever in fact a real or apparent authority is calculated to give one party to the transaction the means of dictating terms to and rob the other party of perfect freedom of will Huguenin v Basely, 2 W & T L C 597, Cun Contract, 68 As to certain well known relations, indeed, the Court . an influence eof as it may think fit In the absence of any special relation from which such influence is presumed, the burden of proof is on the person impeaching the transaction and he must show affirmatively that pressure or undue influence was employed Blackie v Clerk, 15 Beav 595, Toker v Toker, 31 Beav 629; Pollock on Contract, 581 To treat undue influence as having been established by proof of the relations of the parties having been such that the one naturally relied upon the other for advice and the other was in a position to dominate the will of the first in giving it, is erroneous That merely proves influence It must be further established that a person in a position of domination has used the position to obtain unfair advantage for himself and so as to cause injury to the person relying upon his authority or aid Fayyaz uddin v Kutabuddin, 10 Lah 761=30 P L R 288=116 Ind Cas 899=A I R 1927 Lah 369 Where the donee is in active confidence burden of proof of good faith of the gift is on the donee even if the doner is not a purdanashin lady Vithal v. Narayan, 34 L W 424=61 M L J 878

Relation of confidence is presumed to continue "Where a relation of confidence is once established either some positive act or some complete case of t will not be considered asonably be supposed 1 Ch 252, 257, 260=3
the influence has its inception in the legal authority of a parent or guardian, it is presumed to continue for sometime after the termination of the legal authority, until there is what may be called a complete emancipation, so that a free and unfettered Archer v Hudson ious that without said that as a
, authority before f course does not t time Pollock's

Agent It is possible for a principal to make a contract which the Courts ns, to be maintained, must be characterised re must be no misrepresentation, and an entire absence of concealment or suppression of any fact within the knowledge of the agent, which might influence the principal and the burden of establishing the perfect fairness of the contract, in such cases rests upon the agent Such transactions are never upheld, unless it is clearly shown that there has been, on the part of the person trusted, that most marked question and section 111 of the Evidence Act applies Suraj Singh v Baldeo, 8 N. L R 150.

S.

Medical attendant and patients The rule applicable to a transaction 603, Pratt v Barker, 1 Sim 1.

gift sued the son the deceased donor could be seen that was very intimate with him and had lent money, that he not only disinherited his son and his wife but he stripped himself of all the property he was possessed Held that the donor's son had merely to prove that the donee was in a position to dominate the will of the aged donor and that the gift was unconscionable and by so doing he was able to shift the onus of proving good faith on to the shoulders of the donee Safdar Ali v Nur Mahomed, A. I R 1930 Sind 25 underlying this section hich undue influence indson v Weatherill,

, Parfit v Lawless,
C 349 In Venkata-
99=99 Ind
Wills and of proof aving been use of gifts might be mei

the to s
the its inc inf other matters or transactions But the principle must not be carried too far When a jury sees that, at and near the time when the Will sought to be impeached was executed, the alleged testator was, in other important transactions so under the influence of the persons benefited by the Will, as to them, he was not a f such as directly influenc
H L. C 6

influence is presumed to have been exerted unless the contrary is shown It is therefore, in all dealings with those persons who are so situated, always incumbent on the person who is interested in upholding the transactions to show that its terms are fair and equitable The most usual mode of discharging this onus is to show that the lady had good independent advice in the matter, and acted therein altogether at arm's length from the other contracting party and in the absence of such proof, the transaction would be set aside Bibee [illegible] v Shaikh Ahmed 22 W R 443, Kanailal v Kamini 1 B L R O C 31 [illegible], Joy narain v Gangadhar 9 W R 297 Thakoor Din v Nawab Syed, 21 W R 340 P C 13 B L R P C 427 Where a person seeks to bind a purdah lady by a document alleged to have been executed by her on her behalf by a third person clear and strict proof of the agents authority must be given It is incumbent on the Court, when dealing with the disposition of her property by a purdanashin woman to be satisfied that the transaction was explained to her and that she knew what she was doing and especially in a case where for no consideration and without any [illegible] which deprived her of all her property [illegible] 1857 81 see also Tirthanuns [illegible] v [illegible] Buttoor v Shamsoona sa 11 M I A 551 Panna Lal v Bamasundari [illegible] B L R 73[illegible], Ram Jerbel v Ranee Hoolpattee 7 W R 99; Hasanalli v Popatla 27 Bom L R 181=86 Ind Cas 880 Deo Kuer v Man Kuor, 17 A 1, Akhtar Kuar v Thakur Das 17 A 125=A W N 1895 21

To charge a purdanashin woman upon an instrument alleged to have been executed by her it is necessary that satisfactory evidence should be given that the document was explained to and understood by her Sudhalal v Sheolora 8 C 215=8 I A 39 (P C) Annada v Bhuban 28 C 546 (P C)=28 I A 71=5 C W N 489=11 M L J 161=9 Bom L R 386; Shanbati v Jogo Bibi 29 C 749 (P C)=29 I A 127=6 C W N 682=4 Bom L R 444, Kubra v Ajodhia 7 A L J 115=6 Ind Cas 689, Muhammad Ali v Ramzan 24 C W N 977 (P C) Hasanalli v Rupulla 27 Bom L R 181=86 Ind. Cas 880 Bhagwati v Chobi 2 Lah L J 689 Annada v Bhuban 3 Bom L R 3[illegible]6 Amirbai v Abdul 3 Bom L R 658, Man Singh v Nawal Ibati, 2 Pat 604=73 Ind Cas 892, Muhammad Shafi v Kalsum Bi, 4 Lah 467, Bholanath v Bhutnath 40 C L J 393

The Court when dealing with a deed alleged to have been executed by a purdanashin lady must before it gives effect to it satisfy itself first that the deed was actually executed by her or by some person duly authorized by her [illegible] that she had [illegible] that he [illegible] [illegible] that those who rely upon documents executed by purdanashin ladies should satisfy the Court that they had been explained to and understood by those who executed them Bindibasini v Girdhari, 3 Ind Cas 330=12 C L J 115, Samsuddin v Abdul 8 Bom L R 781-31 B 165 Debroos Banoo v Nurib Syed, 15 B L R 167=23 W R 453 Sinthri v Vasudevan, 3 M 215, Phundo v Bhisuca A W N 1883 246, Manan Bibi v Sakina, 14 A 8=A W N 1891, 213 Where it is proved that the lady was of business habits was literate and of considerable intellectual capacity the Court will be less inclined to interfere with the deeds which have been prima facie properly executed or to interfere with transactions to which her consent had been deliberately given Bindubasini v Girdhari, 12 C L J 115=3 Ind Cas 330 see also Thirathman v Gunjiswari 96 Ind Cas 571=1926 P 529 Transactions with a purdanashin widow should not be enforced unless they are strictly fair and equitable Attakour v Bhoiraj 3 C P L R 118 In a transaction with a Mahomedan purda lady it is the duty of the plaintiffs to show that they were free agents in the matter, and having a clear knowledge of what they were doing accorded their consent to it Behari Lal v Habiba Bibi 8 A 267=A W N 1886 91 see also Ram Chunder Dutt v Dwarkanath 16 C 330, Sunder Koomaree v Keshoree Lal 5 W R 246 Where a person claims under a deed of sale alleged to have been executed by a purdanashin lady living apart from her relations without those natural advisers who would under ordinary circumstances help her with their counsel and especially where the person profiting by the transaction occupied a position of confidence he ought to give [illegible] evidence to show that the lady [illegible] B L R [illegible]=29 I [illegible] v Tte [illegible] puttee 7 [illegible] mukhtear, at an exhorbitant rate of interest, the security being ample, appears to be a hard and unconscionable bargain on which the contract for such rate of interest would not be enforced Kamini Sundari v Kali Prosanna, 12 C 225=12 I A. 215 (P C) Party relying on a deed executed by a purdanashin lady must prove that it was th[illegible] or that she adopted it with full knowled[illegible] Ali v Rabia Begum, 95 Ind Cas 506=A I R. [illegible] always be careful to see that deeds taken [illegible] fairly taken that the party [illegible] that she was about [illegible] the purdanashin [illegible] V N 1133 The protection which the law throws around a purdanashin lady in respect of deeds executed by her demands that the burden of proof shall rest, not with those who attack, but with those who found upon the deed, and the proof must go so far as to show affirmatively and conclusively and that the deed was not only executed by, but was explained to and was really understood by the grantor It must also be established that the deed was not signed under duress but also from the free and independent will of the grantor Kali Baksh v Ramgopal, 18 C W N 282=(1914) M W N 112=16 O C 371=19 C L J 172 (P C), see also Keshub v. Radha, 17 C W N 991=20 Ind Cas 717, Kaminee v Krishna, 16 C W N 649=39 C 933=16 Ind Cas 110, Sharukh v Sheo Prasad 41 Ind. Cas 435, Mariam Bibi v Shaikh Mahommed Ibrahim, 28 C L J 306=48 Ind Cas 561, Kailash Chandra v Latifannessa, 51 Ind Cas 556 In order to enforce a document executed by a purdanashin lady all that is necessary is to convince the Court that the transaction was a fair one and that the lady understood the act to which she was subscribing Bhagwati v Choli, 2 Lah L J 659=55 Ind. Cas 698; see also Motilal Das v The Eastern Mortgage and Agency Co Ltd, 25 C W N 265=47 I A 265 (P C), Kamawati v Digbijai Singh, 43 A 525=15 L W 1=48 I A 381 (P C) The Court when called upon to deal with a deed executed by a pardanashin lady, must satisfy itself upon the evidence, first that the deed was actually executed by her or by some person duly aut[illegible] was about to do; secondly [illegible] f the transaction into whic[illegible] had independent and disin[illegible] be found to fall broadly into two groups, namely, first, cases when the person who seeks to hold the lady to the terms of her deed is one who stood towards her in a fiduciary character or in some relation of personal confidence and secondly cases where the person who seeks to enforce the deed was an absolute stranger and dealt with her at arm's length In the former class of cases the Court will act with great caution and will presume confidence put and influence exerted, in the latter class of cases, the Court will require the confidence and influence to be proved intrinsically Independent and competent advice does not mean independent and competent approval, it simply means that the advice shall be removed entirely from the suspected atmosphere and conveyed from the clear language of an independent mind, free from that taint of interest, and the party acting should know precisely the nature and consequences of the transaction It is not an inflexible rule that a purdanashin lady must have independent legal [illegible]

[illegible]

declaration by the transferor, a purdanashin lady subsequently made, that she had not understood what she was doing obviously is not in itself conclusive It must be a question whether, having regard to the proved personality of the [illegible] ch it has been [illegible] blished that the [illegible] If the answer [illegible] e onus which rests on them Of course [illegible] matters Barkat Unnessa L [illegible] 693=25 A L J 311=8 Pat [illegible] who takes a document from a purdanashin lady is bound to prove the validity of the document from every possible angle of attack, when the bonafides of the document is challenged Kalaman Bibi v Sahajan Bibi, [illegible] v Hossain Ali, 32 C W. N 929=A I R 192[illegible] M L J 84 (P C), see also Beni Das v [illegible] 799=A [illegible] 117 Ind [illegible] Ind Cas [illegible] 571=A I R 1926 Pat 529; Ram Sumran v. Gobinda Das, 5 P 616=A I R 1926 P 582

Birth during marriage conclusive proof of legitimacy

112 The fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten.

Principle "The legal presumption that he is the father whom the nuptials show to be so, is the foundation of every man's birth and status It is a plain and sensible maxim which is the corner stone, the very foundation on which rests the whole fabric of human society; and if you allow it once to be shaken there is no saying what consequence may follow" Rutledge v Carruthers Nicholas Adlt Bart. 161, Lawson Pre Ev 141, "Maternity admits of positive proof, but paternity is a matter of inference because the connection of a child with its father is secret, but it may be established [illegible] by a subsisting firash (bed) that is, a legally constituted relation between him and the mother of the [illegible] underlying [illegible] down in [illegible] ited

Origin and growth of the rule In accordance with the maxim pater est quem nuptiæ demonstrat (he is the father whom the marriage indicate) the rule is the same where the child is born in wedlock, whether begotten before or after the [illegible] the marriage the [illegible] o marries a w[illegible] acknow ledg[illegible], 109, see also [illegible] ardner v Gardner, 2 App Cas 723, 728 By the ancient common law, if the husband was within the four seas at any time during the pregnancy of the wife, the presumption was conclusive that her children were legitimate R v Murray 1 Salk 122; R v Allerton, 1 Ld Ray 122, Lawson Pre Ev 141 In the case of Alien de Wartone v Simon, the son of Gillan (1301) Y. B 32 & 33 Edw 1 p [illegible] the husband [illegible] hild born [illegible] ertheless [illegible] he may [illegible] a woman upon his [illegible] conclusive [illegible] n motives of [illegible] n the peril [illegible] rried that in [illegible] e, although [illegible] l during the [illegible] ; while in bastard, because ertheless, strictness and refused—except in the case of natural impossibility—to make any enquiry into the paternity of a child whose mother's husband was within the realm In Fletherham v Julian, Year. Book, 7 Hn IV 9, decided in the seventh year of the rei fuil mi

in the !! upon a of its a
v. Pei decided that the presumption could be rebutted by other proof. In 1807, Lord Ellenborough laid it down that the illegitimacy of the child might be shown where the legitimacy was impossible, in the five cases, (1) where the impossibility arose from the husband being under the age of puberty In a case in the Year Books it was held that the issue was a bastard where the husband was under fourteer the impossibility aro e from the husband by natural infirmity In Foxcraft's Ca man was married in that state twelve weel child was adjudged illegitimate (3) W length of time elapsed since the death of sibility arose from the absence of the husband—as where he was outside the realm at the time the child was begotten (R v Allerton, 1 Ld Roy, 395; R. v Maidstone, 12 East 550) (5) Where the impossibility was based on the laws of nature In Pe necessary to show and wife, after l and he going to St born The evidence being strong that the husband had not visited the wife during that time, the presumption of the legitimacy of the child was held to be overthrown, and he was declared to be illegitimate Goodright v Saul, 4 Term Rep 358

In Horgrave v Horgrave, 9 Beav 255, Lord Longdale laid it down that the presumption that a child born of a married woman is legitimate may be rebutted by showing that the husband was (1) incompetent; (2) entirely absent, so as to have no intercourse or communication of any kind with the mother, (3) entirely absent at the period during which the child must in the course of nature have been begotten, (4) only present under circumstances affording clear and satisfactory House of I Case, 1 Sim husband no intercourse

itisfacot take to the

ip the modern English law in concise language The ancient policy of the law of doubt may be excluded from other circumstances, although the husband be within the four seas, the modern practice permits the introduction of every

2. States at the present times Bosville v Att Gen, L R 12 P. D. 177; Morris v Davis, 5 Cl & F 163, Plowes v Birry, 8 Jur (N. S) 352=31 L J (N S) Ch 681, Anon v Anon, 22 Beav. 481; Blackburn v Crawford, 70 U S 175 "If sexual intercourse is proved" said the Chancellor in Morris v Davis 5 Cl. & F 163 (213), "that is, if the Judge or the jury trying the question of fact be satisfied that sexual intercourse took place between the husband and wife at the time of the child being conceived, the law will not permit an enquiry whether the husband or some other man was more likely to be the father of the child" If once you are satisfied that the husband had sexual intercourse with his wife, the presumption of legitimacy is not to be rebutted by its being shown that other men also had sexual intercourse with the woman The law will not, under such circumstances, allow a balance of the evidence as to who is most likely to have been the father Per Alderson B in Cope v Cope, 1 M & R 275 So, where the husband has had inter ... of the wife either before or after the ... Phillips v Allen, 2 Allen, 153 ... dultery Cross v. Cross, 3 Paige ...

Scope of the section Evidence that a child is born during wedlock is ... the burden of proceeding to the ... This rule was formerly stated as ... a rule of law which absolutely and ... ther question, but it ... is competent, and ... § 44 So ... or a child born of a married woman ... by ... may only be rebut... ... when the child might have ... sexual intercourse with ... existed, nevertheless ... ol 13 § 694; Morris ... & St 153, H L ... tants) 1 Q B 441 ... Sm 149; Atchley ... T. 701, Gardner v ... 83) 23 Ch D 173, ... n, (1903) P 141, ... n, (1903) P 495, Yool v Ewing, (1904) 1 Ir R 431, Gaskill v Gaskill, (1921) P 61, Burnaby v. Baillie, 42 Ch D. 282, Evans v. Evans, 23 T L R 615 In Banbury Peerage Case, Sim & St 153, Lord Mansfield thus stated the unanimous opinion of the Court: 'That the presumption of legitimacy arising from the birth of a child during wedlock, the husband and wife not being proved to be impotent, and having opportunities of access to each other, during the period in which a child could be begotten and born in the course of nature, may be rebutted by circumstances including a contrary presumption ... That ... according to ... eceived

... it being ... esumed ... otion is ... those who were ... at any ... law of ... n such ... f such ... father ... be of ... on of a ... wife at ... nature, ... 5, Lord ... se every other question of fact, when you answering a presumption it may be answered by any evidence that is appropriate to the issue"

Under this section, there is conclusive presumption that a child born during the continuance of a valid marriage is a legitimate issue of parents no matter how soon the birth be after the marriage Umra v Muhummad Hayat, 79 P R 1907 Under this section, the onus is on the claimants to prove that he was born within 280 days after the death of his father and the burden of proving non-access between his mother and father is upon those who deny his legitimacy Narendra Nath v Ram Gobind 29 C 111 P C = 29 I A 17 = 6 C W N 146 = 4 Bom L R 213 It is a peculiarity of the English law that it does not concern itself with the conception, but considers a child legitimate, who is born of parents married before the time of his birth, though they were unmarried, when he was begotton That peculiarity of the English law has been imported into India by this section Muhammad v Muhammad, 10 A 289 The legal presumption as to paternity raised by the section of the Evidence Act is applicable only to the off-pring of a married couple Gopalasuami v Arunachelam, 27 M 32 Where the husband charged his wife with having committed adultery and prayed for dissolution of marriage and where the charge of adultery rested on the bare fact that she gave birth to a child 330 days or 333 days after the date when petitioner had last access to her Held that, though, under the circumstances, very considerable doubt is thrown upon the honesty and truth of the wife's assertion that the petitioner was the father of the child, Courts are not justified in the absence of any other evidence, v Gatham, 27 M L J 580 = 16 M L T 50 According to English law a child and Hethe nine months Bhavon v Gopi, A I R (P C) = 123

consider and act upon the opinion of experts contained in treatises to which it is referred John Howe v Charlotte Howe, 25 M L J 544 = 14 M L T 417 = 1913 M W N 983 (F B) Where a boy was born about seven months after his father and mother were lawfully married and it was not disputed that they

, Lal Singh v Jadir Lah v Palani 49 M 533 = A I 1923 and the wife was living 1924 held that this section uced, to disprove legitimacy,

2 Had no access to each other now proved. In this section it should be remembered that the words "access" and "non access" mean the existence or non existence of opportunities for sexual intercourse Banbury Peerage, 1 Sim & Stu 179, 5 Cl. & F 250 In the above case Lord Eldon said: "Lord Hale in Hosgell v Collins, decided that the issue for the jury was as to the fact of access, or as I ur [illegible] For the access in question is of a [illegible] acceptation of the word but [illegible] erence to the result, namely, the procreation of children " By access I mean opportunity of having sexual intercourse" Per Alderson B in Cope v Cope, 1 M & R 275 "Access is such access as affords an opportunity of sexual intercourse" Bury v Philpot, 2 Myl & K 349 Lord Langdale in one case calls it "generating access" saying 'The absence of sexual intercourse, where there has been some society intercourse, or access has been called 'non generating access.' Hargrave v Hargrave, 9 Beav 225 In R v. Inhabitants of Mansfield, 1 Q B 444 it appeared that a wife was deserted by her husband, who went to live with another woman, that the wife at the end of three or four years married another man and had two children, that eleven years after the second marriage she again co-habited with her husband It not appearing where the husband was between the time of his deserting and returning to his wife, it was held that the evidence was insufficient to show non access when the children were begotten "The question is" said Lord Denman, "whether in this case there be any evidence of illegitimacy, and to establish that it is necessary to show non access of the husband That may be proved by circumstances, one of which certainly is an adulterous intercourse between the husband or wife and another party But here the whole proof consists only of that fact. We are not told what the husband was doing or where residing at the time the children were begotten" In Bury v Philpot, 2 Myl K 349, the wife of P left him and went to live with her father Shortly after, her father dying, she formed a connection with one H, with whom she went to live P took a house opposite where they resided and had frequent interviews with her She had two children during this time It was held that they must be declared legitimate "Access" said the Master, "if it is such access as affords an opportunity of sexual intercourse, and where the fact of such access between a husband and wife within a period capable of raising the legal inference as to the legitimacy of an after born child is not disputed, [illegible] t to a jury [illegible] he adulterous [illegible] ence; for if it were proved that she slept every night with her paramour from the period of her separation from her husband, I must still declare the children to be legitimate The interest of the public depends upon a strict adherence to the rule of law" In Van Aernam v Van Aernam, 1 Barb Ch 375, the wife of the plaintiff was [illegible] ance of another [illegible] The [illegible] ull be [illegible] at time [illegible] on—the presumption of sexual intercourse is very strong Plowes v Berry, 31 L J Ch 680 In that case B was married in 1829, became a lunatic in 1833, and was confined in a lunatic asylum until his death His wife, who lived twenty five miles away, occasionally visited her husband, but the keepers of the asylum had strict orders not to allow them at any time to remain alone together He was [illegible] ent it was [illegible] she visited [illegible] was born [illegible] living in [illegible] See the [illegible] ast 207, it [illegible] the whole [illegible] ossible (as [illegible] the father [illegible] rresistible [illegible] 5 see also

Russel v Russel, (1924) P 1 ... S the fact of sexual intercourse
...
... ties of meeting, and, therefore, of sexual
...

But proof of access is not conclusive R v Inhabitants of Mansfield, 1 Q B 444, Cope v Cope 1 M & Rob 275, R v Shepherd, 6 Bing 283, Pandaya v Pali, 1 M H C 478 ... for sexual intercourse had existed— ... house—and the fact itself not bein... the presumption that it did take place ... four walls, and the fact of sexual ... testimony, but by circumstantial evidence raising a strong presumption against the fact. To state this principle briefly—the proof of sexual intercourse being conclusive, the presumption cannot be attacked, but the evidence by which such fact is to be established may be contradicted The law is not so unreasonable ... minute ... If such ... founded ... Pre Ev ...

that the suit was governed by s 112 Evidence Act, and the burden of proof was on the plaintiff Tirlok Nath v Lachmin, 25 A 403 (P C) = 7 C W N 617 = 5 Bom L R 474 = 30 I A 142

A sues B, his father, and C the adopted son of B, for partition B disowned ... a long ...
been co... no son ...
tenance, and B met it by bringing one for restitution of conjugal rights, and became reconciled to each other Though she lived in her mother's house ... the first wife ... settlement in ... held, that (1) in ... the meaning of s 112 of the E... fidelity and produc...
legitimacy must in...
(1911) 1 M W N ... of a person born ...
and any man, it ... marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten Delipa v Rela, 49 P L R 1914 = 22 Ind Cas 409 The pre-

2. Conduct of supposed father and mother On the question of acce s the conduct of the supposed father or mother towards the child is relevant. Cope v Cope 1 M & Rob 275 .. In the case of Morris v Davis 5 Cl & F 163 the wife concealed the birth of a child from her husband, and declared to him that she never had such a child; the husband disclaimed all knowledge of it, and acted up to his death a ... ; the wife's paramour aided in concealing the c ... and left it all his property by Will ... child was legit mate Any evidence of the conduc ... to each other is relevant Goss v Froman, 89 K ... , 1 Sim & S 153 Lord Redesdale said "I ... of the wife of A, born when A might have had sexual intercourse with her, or in due time after, to be the legitimate child of A; but this was merely considered a ground of presumption, and might be met by opposing circumstances The fact indeed that any child is the child of any man is not capable of direct proof and can only be the result of presumption, drawn from facts, either certain or proved by credible testimony, by which may be determined the proof of a fact alleged but of which there was no direct proof .. It is, therefore, of high importance to consider in a question of legitimacy whether the fact of such knowledge as would demonstrate the legitimacy did take place; or whether by circumstances such acknowledgment was rendered impossible, as by the child being a posthumous child If, on the contrary, it appears that the supposed father was ignorant of the birth of a child, and that the fact of his birth was concealed from him, such concealment is strong presumptive proof that there had existed no sexual intercourse which could have made him the father of such a child" When a father brings ... amounts as has well been said to a daily assertion ... erage Ca 4 Camp 40) So, the fact of the ... with other facts, e g that the husband had only on one single occasion an opportunity for access and that the wife concealed the birth of the child from her husband is sufficient to rebut the presumption of intercourse Cope v Cope, 1 M & ... establi hed ... ie time it ... try which ... Gurt'y v ... parties are living apart from each other by mutual consent (St George v St Margranes 1 Salk 123, Sidney v Sidney 3 P Wms 275, Morris v Davies, 5 Cl & F 163), but it is otherwise where they are separated by a decree of the Court, for in such a case the presumption is that they obey the decree But the presumption, in the first case, is, of course, rebuttable by proof of non access Law Fle Ev p 150

There is, of course, a presumption that children born of a married woman during the life time of her husband are the legitimate offsprings of that woman ... rebuttable ... nother ... born ... letely ... he was ... into p ... ession ... intenance to the ... Singh v ... the plaintiff is challenged, though the burden is initially on him to show that he was the son of his parents, it is shifted on to the defendants as soon as he showed that he has been acknowledged by his parents to be their son ... by repute and habit for the last, say, 40 ... r and stronger and more reliable evide ... finding against the plaintiffs' paternity ... d Cas. 713= A I R 1927 Mad, 733 Declarations of husband and wife Neither the declarations of the wife, nor her testimony that the child was the child of a man other than her husband are admissible (Stegall v Stegall, 2 Brock 237; Pendrell v Pendrell, 2 Strange, 925.

Cope v Cope, 1 M. & Rob 275; Atchley v Sprigg, 33 L. J. Ch 345; Stevens v Moss, 2 Cowp 591); nor of tl tunities for access (R. v A Cross v Cross, 3 Paige, 139), or had not access or opportun King v Inhabitants of Sonton, 5 Ad & E ll 180, Russell v Russell, (1924) A C 687. Sir James Fitzjames Stephen says 'Neither the mother nor the husband is a competent course with to be relev whether the mother or her husband in applications for affiliation orders wh of the husband at any time when l the wife may give evidence as to the person by whom it was begotten Steph Dig Ev Art 98 see also R v Luffe, 8 East 207; Cope v Cope, 1 M & R 272 4, Legge v Edmonds, 25 L J Eq 125 (135), R v Mansfield, 1 Q B 444; Morris v Davies, 3 C & F 215, Hawes v Draeger, L R 23 Ch D 173 But a deposition of the husband is admissible to prove that he had never sexual intercourse with his wife before the marriage The Poulett Peerage, C said "I shall submit to properly admissible There was and and wife were within the four seas you must presume that there was intercourse, and that you could not possibly contradict it I think that idea is completely exploded The question is to be treated as a question of fact, and, like every other question of fact when you are answering a presumption it may be answered by any evidence that is appropriate to the issue My lords that is not exactly the question which arises upon the objection taken here The question is whether it is possible for a husband to be asked whether he had intercourse before marriage with the woman who afterwards became his wife I confess I shall be startled if I thought that that which appears to have been in the mind of Sir John Romilly (Vide Anon v Anon, 22 Beav 481; 23 Beav 273) at the time he gave the decision referred to could be held to be the law of England Is it conceivable that a man taking to wife a person whom he imagined to be a pure virgin, and finding out that he had been deceived and that the woman was pregnant when he married her should not be at liberty to say afterwards that, so far as he was concerned, he had every reason to believe that she was not a virgin, having spurious issues put upon him he should not be at liberty to say, "I never had intercourse with my wife before marriage'? The testimony of the parents that they have or have not had connection has on the same grounds of decency, morality, and policy—been, until recent times, uniformly rejected by the Judges Taylor § 950 But the rule is otherwise under this section So in India a married woman can be examined as to non access of her husband during her married life, without independent evidence being first offered to prove the legitimacy of her children Rozario v Ingles 18 B 468, see also John Hawe v Charlotte Hawe, 38 M 466; Bai Kamala v Babu Bhai 95 Ind Cas 834=28 Bom L R 607; Parbati v Maharaj, 10 Ind Cas 188 In Premchand "Having re laid down by effect that intercourse divorce suit Chari v Ma
10 Ind Ca
(F B) The law of England is that the declarations of a father or mother cannot be admitted to bastardise the issue born after the marriage The Evidence Act does not contain any such rule Bai Kamala v Babu Bhai 28 Bom L R 607=A I R 1926 Bom 348

Proof of marriage It is upon the person who claims to be the legitimate issue of his parents to bring forward satisfactory evidence in support of their marriage In such case no certain inference can be drawn from the evidence as to the conduct of relations and friends Thakur Amjal v Nawab Ali Khan,

2. 9 Bom L R 264=5 C L J 1=17 M L J 56 It is a well recognised rule of law that when a particular relationship is shown to exist, such as marriage . . . For the purpose of s 112 . . . divorce of the plaintiffs from relying on the section . . . o show when the divorce took place If the defendants are unable to show that the divorce took place at a time which excludes the plaintiff from the operation of s 112 then the conclusive proof in favour of the plaintiff arises and can only be displaced by its being shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when the plaintiff could have been begotten by the husband of his mother Bhima v Dhulapp . . . cable in any way to a mar . . . lutely valid but is fasid, . . . division of marriages merely . . . be applicable to Mahomed- . . . void ab initio fasid and valid In any case, it . . . word 'valid' in that section should be construed as 'flawless' so that the presumption would not apply to fasid marriages Kaniza v Hasan Ahmad, A I R 1926 Oudh 231=92 Ind Cas 82

. . . ecessary in order to render a . . . take place after . . . L R 115 (1873) P C

Question of legitimacy is question of evidence The question of a child's paternity is not one of succession, . . . of any religious institution or usage within the mea . . . Ma Tun v Michon, U B R (1914) . . . J 84 Where the point of decision is . . . be . . . would be governed by s 112 and not by the personal law of the parties Ibid

Mahomedan Law The section proceeds upon adopting the period of birth . . . point of legitimacy, but und . . . are referred to the date of the . . . Allahdad . . .

. . . happening . . . delivery of a fully . . . expiry of three months A remarriage befo . . . lar and not void if it takes place afte . . . In the last mentioned case a child . . . her first husband or his death, bu . . . with the second husband, is to be considered legitimate under s 112 of the Indian . . .

the death of the husband, is . . . question to be determined . . . by this Act Mazhar Ali v Budh Singh, 7 . . . legitimacy can . . . le legitimate . . . n 112 of the . . . Sobrabi 15 . . . But it has been held by the Allahabad High Court . . . this section is a rule of procedure . . . Hazira v . . . idha Singh . . . L J 713, . . . 72 The . . .

7 A 297 (F B), . . . within the Sibt Mahamed v . . . the rule of rule of Mahomed . . . meaning of s 2, . . . les Rahim Mahomedan Law

Bibi v. Chiragh Din, A I R 1930 Lah 97, see also Muhammad v. Ali Bakhsh, 76 P. R 1891, Hajira v Amina, A I R 1923 All 570

Presumption of legitimacy Where a party admits the paternity of the other party but pleads that he ... being in favour of legitimacy the ... to prove it Dulary Singh v ...

... l practical purposes f, while the order is of proving access

Ma Mya v Ma Shwe Ban, 46 Ind Cas 620 Before a presumption of legitimacy can arise under this section all the facts specified in the section must be proved Maroti v Bhagi, 69 Ind Cas 465 Where plaintiff claims to recover property as the son of B by his lawfully married wife D and defendant denies that D ever gave birth to a child, and sets up that plaintiff is the son of one S the onus of proof is on the plaintiff to show that D gave birth to him or to any child before invoking the presumption under s 112 Rao Kar Singh v Batimaha, 44 A. 470=20 A L J 271=66 Ind Cas 902 There is no presumption in favour ...

696 The presumption that a particular woman has passed the age of child-bearing is or ... by the light of general knowledge and partly l... son in question It has several times been ... of fifty-three years has been passed, but each case must depend on its particular circumstances Haynas v Haynas, 35 L J Ch 303, Re White (1901) 1 Ch 570; Wills Ev 2nd Ed 57; Widow's Trust, L R 11 Eq 403, In re Millner's Estate L R 14 Eq 245, Davidson v Kimpton, 18 Ch D 213, Lyddon v Elleson, 19 Beav 565, Croxton v May, 9 ch D 388 In re Hooling (1898) 2 Ch 567 Where divorce in the sense ... n must be taken ... woman and her

Proof of cession of territory

113. A notification in the Gazette of India that any portion of British territory has been ceded to any Native State, Prince or Ruler, shall be conclusive proof that a valid cession of such territory took place at the date mentioned in such notification

Scope of the section St 24 & 25 Vict c 67, s 25 does not protect s 113 of the Evidence Act, though it does not disallow it This section has provided ... s been ceded to a native ... n at the date mentioned in ...

of prerogative ... of the law is vali... other hand, th... it follows, as a n... and that section ... v Ganesh Deve...

... by the Act 24 & 25 Vict chap. ... the sovereignty or dominion of the Crown over any part of its territories in India, or as to the allegiance of British subjects, could not by any legislative Act, purporting to make a notification in a Government Gazette conclusive evidence of a cession of territory exclude inquiry as to the nature and lawfulness of that cession" The British Crown has the power without the intervention of the Indian Parliament to make a cession of territory within British India to a foreign prince or feudatory Lachminarain v Partap Singh, 2 A 1 Damodar v Deoram 1 B 367 (P C)=3 I A 102 This section was an attempt for political reasons to exclude enquiry by Courts of justice, into the validity of the acts of the Government But it has been decided by the Privy Council in Damodar v Deoram 1 B 367 (P C) that the Indian Legislature had no power to do this, and the section is therefore, a dead letter Mar b/ Ev 87

114 The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case

Court may presume existence of certain facts

Illustrations

The Court may presume—

(a) that a man who is in possession of stolen goods soon after the theft is either the thief or has received the goods knowing them to be stolen unless he can account for his possession,

(b) that an accomplice is unworthy of credit unless he is corroborated in en lorsed was accepted or endorsed h has been shown to be in existence within a period shorter than that within which such things or states of things usually cease to exist is still in existence,

(e) that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed

(f) that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases,

(g) that evidence which could be and is not produced would, if produced be unfavourable to the person who withholds it,

(h) that if a man refuses ... not compelled to answer by law the answer if gi ... nds of the to such facts as the following in do not apply to the particular case before it — as to illustration (a)—a shop keeper has in his till a marked rupee soon after it was stolen and cannot account for its possession specifically but is cter is tried for ertain machinery the arrangement the common care-sons A B and ot apart from each and the accounts render previous concert highly of exchange, was a man of iorant person, completely under A s influence —

as to illustration (d)—it is proved that a river ran in a certain course five years ago, but it is known that there have been floods since that time which might change its course — as to illustration (e)—a judicial act, the regularity of which is in question was performed under exceptional circumstances as to illustration (f)—the question is, whether a letter was received It is shown to have been posted, but the usual course of the post was interrupted by disturbances

nent which would d but which might which he is not compelled by law to answer, but the answer to it might cause loss to him in h it is asked obligor, but the circum-

Scope of the section "The effect of this section, coupled with the general repealing clause at the beginning of the Act, is to make it perfectly clear that Courts of Justice are to use their own common sense and experience in judging of the effect of particular facts, and that they are to be subjected to technical rules whatever on the subject" Vide the Speech of Hon'ble Mr Stephen in the esumption to law of evidence Vide or the most part, cases of what in rtificial rules as to the effect of guide its decision, subject however, to understand or to apply, but question Ibid A 'presumption' may draw a particular inference from a particular fact or from particular evidence, unless and until the truth of such inference is disproved Lawson Pre Ev 639 "Presumptions are of two kinds, natural and legal or artificial The natural presumption is when a fact is proved wherefrom, by reason of the connection founded on inference, the existence of another fact is directly inferred The legal or artificial presumption is where the existence of the one fact is not direct evidence of the existence of the other, but the one fact existing and being proved, the law raises an artificial presumption of the existence of the other" Gulick v Loder, 13 N J (L) 72 "The terms of this section are such as to reduce to their proper position of mere maxims, which are to be applied to fact by the Courts in their discretion, a large number of presumptions to which English law gives, to a greater or less extent, an artificial value Nine of the most important of them are given by way of illustration' Steph Intro p 175 Presumptions of law are in reality, rules of law and part of the law itself, and the Court may draw the inference whenever the requisite facts are developed, whether in pleading or otherwise, while all other presumptions, however obvious, being only inferences of facts cannot be made without the intervention of a jury Best on Presumptions, 18; Lawson Pre Ev 641, Justice v Long, 52 N Y 523 When certain facts are admitted or proven, the Court takes notice, without further proof, of all such presumptions and inferences arising from them as are warranted by uniform experience, and also all such consequences as are known to flow from the laws which govern the matter, and which are applicable to the proven or admitted facts Heiks v Silliman, 93 Ill 261 (Am) A presumption must be based upon a fact, and not upon inference or upon another presumption Lawson Pre Ev Rule 118 A presumption cannot contradict to such a explana-

of the explanation of determining where evidence in a point presumption of law is func us officio as a presumption of law." Such a pre ump tion, therefore, cannot shift "the burden of proof" in the strict sense of that t rm and the most that it can effect is a shifting of 'the burden of evidence'—the burden of going forward with new e . . of the Act indicates that it is for the Court, such a presumption v Dayalı 1 N L

'common' can only . in the experience of t e Ju . . dalal 24 N L R 87— n a mere inf . inference dra e umpt on of L J 833
. presume that a certain of from the party who is gpur Ry Co v Moolj
Sicka & Co 62 1930 Cal 815

The illustrations appended to this section are not statements of the law qualified only by particular exceptions They are merely what they call them selves illustrations or instances of the application of certain maxims out of many possible instances Govinda v Emperor, 69 Ind Cas 957=23 Cr L J 673

ILLUSTRATION (A)

Recent possession of stolen property In a criminal case, the budren of proof always lies in the first instance on the prosecution, for the accused is presumed . . . . the bur len of proof may shift t t has been estab ortly after they , the possession tolen property recently after the commission of a theft is prima facie evidence that the possessor was either the thief, or the receiver according to the other circum stances of the case R v Langmead, 1 L & C 427, Taylor § 140, Russell Law of Crimes p 1482 In R v Langmead, 1 L & C 427, Pollock C B said If no other person is involved in the transaction, and the whole of the case against the prisoner is that he was found in possession of the stolen property, the evidence no doubt points to a case of stealing rather than a case of receiving, but in every case, except indeed where the possession is so recent that it is impossible for any one else to have committed the theft, it becomes a mere question for the jury whether the person found in possession of the stolen property stole it
. other evidence, the le the property, having stolen se, it will be for
In the same
perty has been stolen, and has been found recently after its loss in the possession of the prisoner, he is called upon to account for having it, and on his failing to do so the jury may well infer that his possession was dishonest, and that he was
. If he had been they may it is more e was the ss they are satisfied that he is not the actual thief' See also R v Smith, Ry & M 295, Bayu v King Emperor, 11 A L J 94=18 Ind Cas 681=14 Cr L J 124, In re
. (R v Exall, 4 ibit of the re 2 East
, Taylor §
it requires is offered and all the section is merely an example, and it cannot be read as limiting the presumptions which may be drawn from recent possession of stolen property. Husein v Emperor, 17 Cr L J 32=32 Ind Cas 160 The possession by the accused of the jewels of a person who has been murdered for the sake of her jewels, if unexplained is presumptive evidence that the accused was the murderer as well as that he committed theft In Nainamalai Konan, 14 L W 418; but see property In a criminal case the onus is on the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt the guilt of the accused and the burden never changes Satya Charan v. Emperor, 52 C 223=88 Ind Cas 515, Reg v Isaac, (1914) Cr App.

the
ror, Cr
sion
of the accused in respect of property proved to have been stolen must be de-Presump-
but extends s presumption
R 1930 Pat
515= I at 606 Where accused persons are found in possession of stolen property soon after the theft and they are unable to explain their possession they can be held guilty of receiving stolen property knowing it to be stolen under s 411 I P Code Yamin v Emperor, L R 5 A 81.

Possession unexplained The reasons on which this presumption is founded are well stated in a learned note to the report of Cockin's case, 2 Lewin, 234.

If the change of possession has been e forgotten, still less if it be an article of bulk or value If, then, it be reasonable under such circumstances to call upon the party in possession to account for such possession it can not be unreasonable to presume against the lawfulness of that possession when he is unwilling to give an account, or is unable to give a probable reason why he cannot Now there is no reason in general why an honest person should be s not honest and some one He is of wood, t it was tak

This is a acquitted v Crouh
of this nature, you should take it as a general principle that when a man in whose possession stolen property is found gives a reasonable account of how he came by it, as by telling the name of the person from whom he received it, and who is to be a real person, it is incumbent on the prosecutor to show that the account is false; but or improbable on the face o Suppose, for instance, a I were to say, I bought it fr prima facie, a reasonable account, and I ought not to be convicted of felony unless it is shown that that account is a false one" See also R v. Smith, 2 4 C & K 206, see R v Schama 85 L J K B 393, R v Norris, 85 L J K B 810 R v Grunberg 33 T L R 428 (i) The presumption under this section is discretionary with the Court having due regard to the circumstances, (ii) the presumption means that the law exempts the crown from proving the guilt of the accused unless he gives some explanation as to how he came by the goods If he gives any explanation which in the opinion of the jury may possibly be true although they do not necessarily believe it then the crown cannot rely upon the presumption and must prove the guilt of the accused just as in any other criminal case accused did not prove his innocence affirmatively Buthnath v Emperor, 35 C W N 291.

Explanation not inconsistent with the identity of the property The explanation to be given by the accused of his possession of the stolen property must not be inconsistent with the identity of the property A beetle head is stolen from the house of W ... and identified by W as his E ... If E says, ' I cannot remember w ... nd he must be acquitted But if E says, " I bought this beetle head at a sale eight years ago this contradicts the identity, which remains a question on which E s guilt or innocence depends " Queen v Evans, 2 Cox C C 270, Lawson Pr Ev 605 In that case Allerson B said to the jury " If the prisoner said in the first instance, ' why, really I cannot tell where or how I got this beetle I should have said that th ... have been indicted for ste ... does not deny that the ... prosecutor Where however the prisoner is shown to have claimed the ... found in his possession, and sworn by the prosecutor, to be his own property by right of a purchase made eight years ago and a continued possession up to the present time, I should say that that was not so reasonable an account of his possession as to exempt him from the necessity of accounting for it to the satisfaction of the jury, for if it be true the prosecutor is wrong and the identity of the thing found with that is disputed If the prosecutor should satisfy the jury that the beetle in question was his, then the statement of the prisoner accounting for his possession of it must be false, and he must be presumed to have stolen it, althe ... fifteen months after the loss Th ... eetle ... the thing which ... ool ... eight years ago, or ... ion ... of the prosecutor ... e the case, the prisoner is guilty

... t, in order to put ... ty must be recent ... ined by the nature of the articles stolen i e whether they are of a nature likely to pass rapidly from hand to hand; or of which the accused would be likely from his situation in life or vocation, to become possessed innocently Best § 211 So what is or is not recent, within this rule depends upon the cost, bulk or transferability of the thing stolen " Suppose the Pitt Diamond or the Crown Jewels were stolen and, after the lapse of one or two years found in the possession of a person in a comparatively humble station of life, who refused to give any account of where he got them would there be anything harsh or violent in presuming that he had not come by them honestly? But suppose the goods lost were merely a pair of shoes or a coat, such as in his station of life it would be natural and proper for the prisoner to wear, and that these were not traced into his possession until after a few months from th ... of making so violent a presumption as to deem ... ce " ' Even if the point were not settled ... ople process of reasoning to the conc ... for drawing, from recent possession ... uilt without reference to the nature ... allic or paper piece of money of the ... was stolen might have less weight as ... ary of Harvard University or Power s Greek Slave, or an elephant, ... ars after the larceny of such property It would ordinarily be more probable that the possessor could prove by other evidences than his own testimony, how he obtained the possession in the latter case than in the former It is equally clear, upon authority and upon reason that the presumption from recent possession of stolen property depends upon the nature of the property "Lawson Pre Ev p 606 ' A couple of sacks are stolen from a farmer A month afterwards they are found in the possession of another person This alone cannot raise an inference that the latter stole them Cockin s Case, 2 Lewin, 235 The reason for this limitation to the rule is well expressed in a learned note to this case, by the author 'If the property' says the writer 'has not the here

the difficulty of giving an account. After an interval of time the means of proof are die and little circumstances subsequent or antecedent tending the truth may not the recollection of facts or enmities may have grown up and the occasion may be laid hold of to gratify a vindictive feeling Again the circumstances in life of the party may be a bulk, and as it may happen to be an article that is more or less frequently brought under the party s view Judges therefore hold and most reasonably hold that a person is not to be called upon to give an account at a distant period after the theft The question however of distance of time or recent possession must be at all times one of fact under the circumstances and a jury under the Judge s direction must ultimately decide' In Cockins s Case, 2 Lew 235 Coleridge J said to the jury If I was now to lose my watch and in a few minutes it was to be found on the person of one of you it would afford the strongest ground for presuming that you had stolen it but if a month hence it were to be found in your possession the presumption of your having stolen it would be greatly weakened because stolen property usually passes through many hands'

Two bundles of woollen cloth were stolen from M Two months after they are found in the possession of P The presumption is that P stole them R v Patridge 7 C & P [illegible] time is to be consi stolen If they be a long time bi March 1st On June 1st they are found in A s possession This raises no presumption against A R. v Adams 3 C & P 600, R v Hewlett 2 Russ on Cr 728 (note), R v Dewhurst 2 Stark Ev 449 note R v ——, 2 C & P 459 A horse disappears from the possession of its owner on December 17 1849 On June 20 1850 it was found in the possession of C This does not raise a presumption that C is the thief R v Cooper 3 C & K 318 In that case Maule J said he thought there was no case to go to the jury—the possession was not sufficiently recent Where a man is found in possession of a horse six [illegible]

4\. thief Queen v here property of to have been possession of a possession on come honestly lways had to the character and value stolen property soon after the theft, ossession is either the thief or the f not the mo t the ding great to make it necessary for the prisoner to account for his possession In re Puthenvittil, 2 Weir 777 Where a bullock which has been stolen was sold by the accused in another place about two or three months afterwards and though as to theft he convicted Illustration (a) Held that in the theft the conviction 71 = A I R 1930 Bom 1

Possession of stolen property does not give rise to any presumption under this Ind Ca 800 = 32 Cr L J 614 = A I R om a pen underneath a house during the d offered to find it, if he were given Rs told the complainant where the bullock tied up in the place indicated by the accused Held that it must, from the circumstances spoken to, be presumed that the accused was in possession of the bullock when it was tied up in the jungle, from which possession, it might undoubtedly be presumed that he was the person who stole the animal Don Be v Crown 1 L B R 332 An accused cannot be convicted for the possession of stolen cooking utensil fourteen months after theft Empress v Keshub Dutt, A W N 1881, 155 But when stolen property is traced to the possession of an accused person three weeks after the theft took place, the proper presumption is, not that he was one of those who committed the theft, but that he received the stolen property knowing or having reason to believe it to be such Whether a presumption of theft or of receipt of stolen property should be drawn would depend on the theft how much estion, the d with the = 13 Ind would not on of the ss v Burke 1887, 281 after their art of the property pos es Emperor, umption would arise where the accused is in possession of the stolen property three weeks after it was stolen 30 = 7 Cr L J 30: Empress mperor 1914 M W N 84 e mere fact that the accus cealed does not give ris ion of ption would arise when of such stolen articles 101 = 32 Bom L R possession of articles is recent or otherwise But every case must be judged on its own facts If a few stolen articles are found in possession of a person under circumstances which may give rise to the probability of his coming by them honestly sometime after the theft the presumption under the law might not arise against him. Emperor v Ekabbor, 27 Cr L J. 617=94 Ind Cas 361=A. I R 1926 Cal 925; Necha v Emperor, A I R 1928 Nag 213=103 Ind Cas 801 Where, more than six months after the dacoity, some ornaments consisting of a pair of bangles, a bracelet and ear rings were found in the possession of the accused, held, that havir description, and covered by s

S.

upon to explain

L J 436=29 A. 138 Where the possession of property, stolen some years before, reasonably and circumstantially explained, such explanation should not be rejected merely because it is unproved Talu v Empress, 15 P R y rule of English

sumption concern

goods are found

nnot be regarded as soon after the theft Jainullahdin, In re, 26 M L T 389=11 L W 43=53 Ind Cas 119, Joeenullah v Emperor, 22 C W N 597=46 Ind Cas 158=19 Cr L J 702, Ramhit v. Emperor, 20 A. L J 178=65 Ind Cas 849=23

Cas 722=26 Cr L J 578=A.

Cas 650=27 Cr L J 986,

Cas 471=A I R 1926 Lah

Ind Cas 514=A I R 1926

Possession must be exclusive In order to give rise to the presumption in this illustration the possession must be exclusive The possession of a watch by the wife of the accused is not sufficient Sorenson v U S 8th C C A 168 Feed 785 It is not sufficient that the stolen goods were found in the house of the wife of the accused, where he does not live People v Kubulis, 298 Ill 523, Wigmore § 2513, Lawson Pre Ev p 599 The two accused in this case were husband and wife and both were in possession of the stolen property within such a short time of the theft as to raise the usual prima facie presumption

Empress, U B R (1897 1901) Vol I 171 Where stolen property was found in the Camp of a party of refugees it was held that it was not proved in whose possession it was, to justify the conviction of any one of them for theft Nga

ed that ind in

Held

rs and ot arise

ILLUSTRATION (B).

Corroboration of evidence of accomplice Although as a matter of law,

of

of

are the less liable would the evidence of the accomplice be to suspicion and discredit Emperor v Lakshmi, 6 Bom L R 1091 = 29 B 254 For further discussion on this topic Vide notes under s 133 infra

ILLUSTRATION (C)

Presumption as regards Bills of Exchange Bills of exchange and promissory notes enjoy the privilege of being presumed prima facie to be founded on a valuable consideration Collins v Martin, 1 B & P 651, Holliday v Atkins, 5 B & C 501 The law raises this presumption in favour of these ... negotiability in fact, ... may reasonably be ...

mode in w ... and other ...
Instrumer ... is that a note is of the value of the sum promised thereby to ... Pre Ev 94 'The law was thus framed and has been so administered in order to encourage the free circulation of negotiable paper by giving confidence and security to those who receive it for value, and this principle is so comprehensive in respect to bills of exchange and promissory notes which pass by delivery that title and possession are considered as one and inseparable and in the absence of any explanation, the law presumes that a party in possession holds the instrument for value until the contrary is made to appear, and the burden of proof is on the party attempting to impeach the title These principles are ... are believed certainly in accordance with ... mercantile to correspond with the general ... iptive Ev 9... pursuits.' Goodman v Simo ... But where fraud or ille ... the burden is on the holder to sho ... V 76 Fitch v Jones 5 El & B 238 ... ron Parke B said It certainly ... f the note were proven to have been o ... that afforded a presumption that ... would dispose of it and would place ... upon it, and that such proof casts upon the plaintiff the burden of showing that he was a ... states of America, want of considera... ie holder Wallace v Bank 1 Ala 567 ... no fraud nor any suspicion of fraud ... ant received no consideration for his ... on to prove that he gave value for ... Ell 638, overruling Thomas v Newton ... 2 B & Ald 294; see also Robinson v ... 3 M & W 72, Berry v Alderman ... B 244, Moti v Mahomed 20 B 267, Sukharam v Gulab 16 Bom L R 743, Madhoram v Nanda, 58 Ind Cas 98... But this presumption does not arise where the endorsement is forged or the consideration is unlawful Banka v Secy of State, 36 C 239, Ramdas v Lal Chand 101 Ind Cas 325 = 1927 Lah 137

ILLUSTRATION (D)

Continuai ... of an object condition qua ... existence of it is in human ... ce or cont... nuance at a l ... continuance ... ured to bring ... es will depend ... ce is in issue ... So far then ... n, the nature ... rol Wigmore ... ontinuance or ... hen, therefore, the existence of a person, or personal relation, or a state of things, is once established by proof, the law presumes that the person, relation, or state of things continues to exist as before, till the contrary is shown, or till a different presumption is raised, from the nature of the subject in question Price v Price, 16 M & W. 232 When things are once proved to have existed in a particular until the contrary is st Ev § 405 Although contrary, the settlement of a pauper, or the appointment of a party to an official situation, will, at least for a reasonable time, be presumed to remain in force

S.

M I A 194

and not against

24 A L J 76

existing state of

745=24 A L

section relates to the existence of certain facts and not their probative value Nanda Kumar v Emdad Ali 44 C L J 265=A I R 1927 Cal 49 Where in existence at a particular time of a fact of a continuous nature gives rise to a rebuttable presumption within local limits that it existed at a subsequent time or has previously existed The limits of time within which the inference of continuance possesses sufficient probative force to be relevant must obviously existence at a ist as long as ther backwards

or forwards, whether onwards or downwards, is an inference of fact and may therefore be rebutted Secretary of State v Upendra Narain Roy, 71 Ind Cas presumption as to the continuance of the state of things Hiranmoy v Ranjan, 29 Ind Cas 691=20 C. W N 48; see also Soudamini v Secy of State, 38 C L, 4 J 47 Under this illustration a person who is once proved to be a profligate is presumed to continue as such during his lifetime But the presumption is rebuttable Mussammat Shahal v Allah Bachayo, 9 S L R 196=34 Ind Ca 504 It is not right to presume from the fact that a man is member of an association when it is lawful that he continues to be a member after it is declared unlawful This is not a matter of presumption, there must be evidence of continuing membership Emperor v Dharmanand, 33 Bom L R 933=A I R 1931 Bom 203, Emperor v Sripad, 55 B 481=A I R 1931, Bom 199

Subsequent existence Similar considerations affect the use of subsequent existence as evidence of existence at the time in issue Here the disturbing contingency is that some circumstance operating in the interval may have been the

de

an ex

In

ways (to have been) at some previous is never presumed

ILLUSTRATION (E)

Presumption a that a rule of official those upon whom of due performance of reason are found in the pa ves a mere formality or detail of required procedure, in the routine of a litigation or of a public officer s action, next that it involves to some extent the security of apparently vested rights so that the presumption will serve to prevent an uns wholesome uncertainty and finally, that the circumstances of the particular case add some element of probability Wigmore § 2534 There is a well known maxim of law omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta this is an inference of reason able probability arising out of the experience of mankind The law assumes done will be performed ll Ev 391 In Berry an peace officers Justices of the peace, constables etc, it was sufficient to prove that they acted in those characters without producing their appointment Where successive decisions are inconsistent with a general order of the Court, a reversal of that order ought to be presumed Bohun v Delessert, 1 Coop 21 Man v Ricketts 2 Coop 8 1 Again on an indictment of bigamy, proof of the solemnization of the first marriage in a W of ... of such marriage pt on that =7 Cox ud c al or the presump Deputy Legal R 19 8 Pat 33—A I R 19 3 have been done certain things are spect of any right o prove that the on arises of the 1932 Cal 833 53 C 718=1 pplying Part was promul in arise that

I R

G of gate

S.

it was so promulgated Khurshid v Raniganj Municipality, A I R 1932 Cal. 833 = 36 C W. N. 823 From the mere fact that the warrant for the arrest of a judgment debtor bore the signature of the sheristadar it cannot be presumed under s 114 (e) that the sheristadar had been duly appointed to sign warrants ... W. N 845; see also Girdhar v ... v Emperor, 3 Pat L J 636 ... an offence under Penal Cod ... the back of the paper instead of in the body of the sanction merely because there was not sufficient space left on the front side held that the initial presumption was that all the official acts were done in a regular manner hence the sanction was valid. Emperor v Diwan Chand, A I R 1930 Lah 81 Where a committing Magistrate writes at the foot of the deposition that the cross examination is being reserved by him and that the accused has not been given an opportunity for cross-exami- ... n done properly and ... be presumed to have ... cross-examination to ... Emperor v Mahtab, A I R 1930 Sind 54

Regularity of Judicial acts Where a Court having general jurisdiction acts in a case, its jurisdiction so to act will be presumed Lawson Pre Ev ... ings by Magistrates, the maxim omnia praesumuntur rite esse acta does not apply to give jurisdiction has never been questioned Here, then, the jurisdiction, should at all events have appeared on the face of the examination, supposing proof of it aliunde not to have been necessary" But where the ... nal in a special ... must be shown

Under ... all judicial ... v Blackwood ... general pow ... diction being ... acta finds, ... proceedings ... Ind Cas 5 ... will assume ... correctness ... d v Kanto, ... the Peace ... inutes of a be drawn that it was given up To hold others and to presume that the Court failed to do so 1923 Lah 121=68 Ind Cas 710 After a filed his accounts and they have been accepted tion as to their accuracy does certainly arise and it is open to parties to rely on guardian and ward Gopal v Sa presumption arising under this sect Court's proceedings can only be ove Sheo Darshan v Assessor Singh 5 C applicant before the Court is attempting to rebut that presumption it is not for the Court itself to give assistance to the otherside or to deal with the matter otherwise than impartially Sohaglati v Surendra Mohan, 4 Pat L W 206=44 Ind Cas 661 Before the depositio admitted

must be the prisoner's presence It should not be merely presumed under s 114, illustration (e) to have been so taken and attested Queen Empress v Ridug 9A 720=A W N 1887, 228 Where a point is definitely raised in the grounds of appeal and the Court makes no mention thereof in its judgment, it must still be presumed to have performed the judicial act of writing a judgment regularly and properly Har Charan v. Lachman, A I R 1928 Lah 94

Regularity of Official Acts The presumption is that one who is proved to have acted in an official this rate, and I the proof of their Where is the line were trustees" T duty requires th strong presumption ence of clear proof urt is bound to admit plaintiff that the re-Farzand, 9 A L J Act are conducted 1822 which are appli notice to all binding upon ction 61, the ive been regu

9 Ind Cas
n Court in nal Judge Cutch isfied the but not der s 114 require was a correct copy he supervision of the Bom L R 1519=
by the Court which has been ac the manner provi
R m v Sohana, this section illus 71 Gaya, 8 O W N 914 ra v Manmohan, 57 I A held to v Bal
imed, 3

C. W. N 242, Emperor v Mahrab, A. I R 1930 Sind 51=31 Cr L J. 121 S.
An order issued under s 31 may be oral order by a police constable issued disregard s 114 illustration (e) and assume irregularity in official acts A Sessions Judge should presume that a confessional statement placed on record by the Magistrate was voluntarily made Public Prosecutor v Nagaraju, 129 Ind Cas 229=32 Cr L J 262=A I R 1931 Mad 42=59 M L J 114 The presumption as to official acts can be applied to a sanction order under s 196, Mysore Cr Pro Code Reg 1904 In the case of Setharama Sastry 8 Mys L J.

by the post m of the notice

Evidence Ac

L R 26=A

tration, it i

" Regularly

procedure The regular performance of official acts does not imply that the representation made to them must be correct Jagdeo Narain v Balaki Gope, (1921) Pat 343=63 Ind Cas 226 The action of a Deputy Commissioner under Regulation XVII of 1836, is purely ministerial His acts therefore, are official acts and the presumption contained in s 114 illustration (e) of the Evidence Act applies to them Juala Bakhsh v Newazish is short, a Court might require stricter proof that all the formalities for publishing the notification had actually been carried out Emperor v Bal Krishna, 55 B 356=A I R 1931 Bom 132

ILLUSTRATION (F)

Presumption as regards common course of business In commercial

4. or that his name could not have been adopted by any other person In the absence of all evidence the mere fact that the title page bears his name does not justify the conclusion that he and nobody else could be the author thereof Ranjit Singh v The Crown 26 P L R 403=83 Ind Cas 306=26 Cr L J ... there may be a presumption that it ...
Habil v S... 80 Ind Ca
... Oudh ... When the fa... of a particular case can form a foundation for a fair presumption that an application was made th... was mad Mulchand v Jaman ... Bom 443 ... illu strati... presump tion ...
Ind Cas ... Court
the time when a receipt was given for them the presumption under this section is that the ordinary course of business was followed in the ... question The mere statement by appellant s counsel that these sums are not always paid at the time when the receipts are given are sufficient to throw the onus on the prosecution of proving that the plea was wrong Emperor v Imdesha 1933 Lah 566 This illustration is not exhaustive and the general language of the section applies to all acts and proceedings which might be presumed to have been done in the usual course of business Laxmi Pillja v Ram Chandra ... M W N 133=20 M L T 228=31 M L J 311=35 Ind Cas 421

ILLUSTRATION (G)

Withholding evidence—presumption from The illustration refers to evidence which can be and is not produced Girish v Emperor A I R 193...
... to produce
... presump-
... withh...
... or its ...
... n Pre E...
... Archer, Comp
... which it was in
... and in the power of the other to have ... testify to facts within his knowledge ... testimony is proper subject of ... ty and in the Courts of law Lawson ... ed which is part of a title which he claims The presumption is that if produced the deed would injure his claim Haldane v Harvey 4 Burr 2486 In cases like this it is laid down that the case of written evidence presents the strongest illustration of the extent of the rule The non production of documentary evidence within the party s power raises it is said in several cases a very strong presumption that if produced it would militate against him who withholds it Therefore in an action of trespass where the plaintiff relied upon bare possession although it appeared that he had taken the premises under an ... which was not produced the Judge charged the jury that ... ssion of the close at the time of the trespass ... to more than nominal
... In affirming this
... na of showing the
... the lease ...
... o good Try ...
Gen v Dean of Windsor, 24 Beav 679 the ... e is always to be taken most strongly against the persons who keep back a document and the circumstance that the body keeping it back is a corporation does not in the slightest degree affect this ... exonerates the present members from blame in that respect
... f wilful suppress...
... poration and yet the
... they cannot now

S.

receive" It is well observed by Mr. Evans in substance, that if the weaker and less satisfactory evidence is given and relied on in support of a fact when it is uncertain testimony was intended to conceal 2 Evans Pothier, 149.

In Bathurnite v Coleman, 1 Harr & Well 239, which was an action by the indorsee against the drawer of a note, the only evidence of notice of dishonour was the statement of the defendant to a witness "I have good time"

Lord
oduced, Denman
ceived

the letter, and as he does not produce it, it might be fairly inferred by the jury that it was in time" But the other members of the Court were of a contrary opinion and a new trial was ordered But in the case of Curlewis v Corfield, 1 Q B 814, which six years later came before the same Court, and nearly before the same Judges, a different conclusion was reached In Bell v Frankis, 4 Man & Gr 447, also an action by the indorsee against the drawer of a bill of exchange it appeared that the defendant had told a witness that he expected to receive by post a notice of its dishonour, and afterwards gave him a letter he received by post, requesting him to negotiate a renewal of the bill, but the letter, which had found its way into the defendant's hands, was not produced at the trial It was ruled that the jury was dishonour had been given See also Lobb party does not produce a document in that its production will damage his case carrying on business and the non-production was not sought to be explained, held that the Court was entitled to draw an inference under s 114(g) of the Evidence Act Gu, Sankar Das, 111 I account books by

L J 4 7; Sankara Linga

Every deed being the best evidence of its own contents, its non-production raises the presumption that it contains some defeasance, in other words, there is some endorsement on the document which the plaintiff does not like. Mahammad v Zahur, 21 A L J 961=97 Ind Cas 82=A I R 1926 All 741, Ahmed v Ali Ebrahim, 27 Bom L R 746=1925 P C 177, Sreenath Roy v Secretary of State, 50 C 276=70 Ind Cas 510=1923 Cal 230=36 C L J 315, Secretary of State v Upendra Nath Roy, 36 C L. J. 346, Harendra v Durga, 62 Ind Cas 697. Where a document is a very old one the possibility of its having been lost and being no longer in existence is naturally much brighter than in the case of a document of recent date Consequently the presumption

4 arising quite as strong in the case of an old ... mji Das v Mihir Lal, 71 Ind Cas 65 ... es not produce certain books saying that they have been destroyed and the matter dealt with by the books could be easily proved by secondary evidence which is admittedly in the possession or power of the party and which he does not attempt to place on the record, the opposite party is entitled to the presumption that these books if produced would have gone against the contentions of the party not producing them Secretary of State v G T Sarain, A I R 1930 Lah 364 But no presumption can be ... of their title deeds in ... which did not ... escart A I R 1

Exception. A does not produce one of his muniments of title He proves that it is in the possession of B from whom he cannot obtain it There is no presumption against A Gilbert v Ross, 7 M & W 121 Marstons v Downes 1 Ad & Ll 32 In the first case it has been ruled that where the evidence alleged to be withheld is unattainable, the presumption does not arise There fore if a deed be in the possession of an adverse party, and not produced, or if it be lost and destroyed, no matter whether by adverse party or not secondary evidence is clearly admissible, and if the deed be in the possession of a third person who is not by law compellable to produce it, and he refuses to do so the result is the same Lawson Pre Ev 169

Necessary witnesses not called Where a witness is not called by the ... that ... he ... R ... nce ... on ... Cr ... ime ... un ... t it ... a v ... ror, ... ited ... lace in this illustration arising from non production of evidence can ... the contrary inference supported by adequate evidence Demisetti v Demisetti 13 L W 293 = 63 Ind Cas 740 (P C) Where in a suit for profits of land the recorded collections are suspiciously low, and the defendant neither produces nor gives any evidence to show what was collected the Court would be justified in presuming that the full amount of the rents had been collected and is ... Hor Dayal ... ion examined ... colleagues or ... secution case ... in favour of ... the defence ... esses or as ... So also non ... Court ... Emperor, A I R 193... prosecution when their evidence was unnecessary when there is nothing else in the record to ... A I R 1930 Lah 163 = 120 Ind Cas 606 = 31 Cr L J 131

Where the plaintiffs are the best persons to give evidence as to the 'interest' possessed by them in a religious institution to prove the locus standi for the purposes of s 92 Civil Procedure Code, and they merely put the defendants into the witness box, their failure to go into the witness box goes strongly against them Kirpa Singh v Ajaipal Singh A I R 1937 Lah 1, see also Gurbaksh Singh v Gurdial Singh, A I R 1927 P C 230, Allah Ditta v Bhagwan, A I R 1930 Lah 401, Kirpa v Ajaipal 11 Lah 142 = A I R 1932 Lah 1.

ILLUSTRATION (H)

S.

Refusal to answer—presumption for This illustration does not contemplate the testimony of a party in a civil or criminal suit, because "every person in the kingdom, except the sovereign, may be called upon and is bound to give evidence, to the best of his knowledge, upon any question of fact material and relevant to an issue tried in any of the Queen's Courts; unless he can show that he is exempted by some exception in his favour" Per Willes J in Baird v Fernandez, 12 C B N S 3, 39. So in such a case he is compellable by law to give answer. So also this illustration does not contemplate the case of witnesses who are not compelled to answer on the grounds of privilege (Vide ss 121-129) To make adverse presumption for not answering in those cases would be extremely inequitous. This illustration contemplates cases where a person is not bound to answer but can answer if he so desire, e g the case of an accused under s 342 Cr. Pro Code Sub-section (2) of that section runs thus "The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them; but the Court and the jury (if any) may draw such inference from such refusal or answers as it thinks just" So the

which can serve the ascertainment of the truth, this duty includes equally the

ILLUSTRATION (I)

Documents in the hands of obligor—Presumption from When, in the course of dealing, a debtor gives security to his creditor for the payment of the debt in the shape of documentary evidence either alone or accompanying muniments of title, it follows that on the payment of debt, the document should no longer be allowed to remain in the creditor's custody, and hence has arisen the rule that possession by the debtor of the evidence of a debt, as a note, bond,

Burr Jones § 70(a); Abdul Karim Fleming 5 B L R 619; Ganesh v Ind Cas 308 So the obligor's circumstance in favour of payment, and should turn the scale if the other evidence of its discharge when it is proved not to have been paid or satisfied? I think it is not" Pothier (Obligations, 73) says that Boisen holds that possession of the note affords a presumption of its payment but if he allege a release he must prove it, for a release is a donation, and a donation ought not to be presumed Pothier differs, and thinks it should be presumed unless the creditor shows the contrary But Pothier agrees with Boisen, that if the debtor was the general agent or clerk of the creditor, having access to his papers, possession on

o if he was emoved on ase Here me with his ept" The document
has been discharged is subject to the qualification that, when the bond is in possession of the obligor but the circum these circumstances are to maxim would apply or n v Hari, 12 Lah L. J 21= suit to enforce a mortgage, the defendant's case was that the mortgage deb

The

C L J 2... = 29 Bom L R 1388 The presumption of discharge wou on him

L. R

n to the ands of the obligor the obligation is discharged. But in raising such a presumption the Court has to take into regard any

that it might have been stolen The bur d and initial when both the parties produce their e.

1 5=

maker

e hands of drawee alleges that the us is on him to prove

Cas 650, Chaudhuri

(P C), Binayak v

Dinkar, 20 Ind Cas 308 Illustration (i) only refers to presumption that may be raised It does not follow that such presumptions would shift the onus of proof Where, in a suit on a usufructuary mortgage bond, the defendant pleaded discharge and produced the endorsement of discharge written thereon and the perso have been paid was not examined, held that the mere production of the bon proving the discharge which lay on the W 601=18 M L T 94=(1915) M W N 638 In a claim for recovery produced the agreement

e Court placed the onus not discharged Held that the onus was wrongly placed as the presumption under s 114 illus (i) would be a piece of evidence in defendant's favour but did not shift the onus of proof which was on the defendant to show that he had discharged his obligation Jagannath v Amira, A I R 1931 Lah 299 = 134 Ind Cas 495

OTHER PRESUMPTIONS.

Acceptance At estate is devised to, or a gift is made to A The law presumes that it is beneficial to A, and that he accepts it He may disclaim it, but to work thus a disclaimer must be proved Towson v Ticknell 3 B & Ald 31, Thompson v. Leach, 2 Salk 618 In the first case it was said "I think that an estate cannot be forced on a man A devise, however, being prima facie for the devisee's benefit, he is supposed to assent to it until he does some act to show his dissent The law presumes that he will assent until the contrary is Advancement The English doctrine of country as b under Engl also Kenrick prevailing in the Bombay Presidency, a purchase by a husband in the name of his wife does not raise any presumption of a gift to the wife or of an advancement for her benefit Motibahu v Purshotam, 6 Bom L R 975=29 B 306 There is no presumption of an advancement by the name of a son being used as purchaser, other than in the case of a stranger being used Sayyad v Ullap, 13 M. I A 232, Gopee Krist v Ganga Proshad, 6 M I A 53

Adultery. A married man enters a house of prostitution and remains there all night The presumption is that he committed adultery while there Evans v Evans, 41 Cal 103 (Am), Astley v Astley, 1 Hagg Ecc 720, Lawson Pre Ev 323.

Alteration Alterations, erasures and interlineations appearing on the face of writings, whether under seal or not, are presumed to have been made before their execution or completion Lawson Pre. Ev 452 In the early in an ordinary case, part of his case, ir the mere infirmity or factorily explain the state of the document But this wholesome rule admits of exceptions if there be, independently of the instrument, corroborative proof strong enough to revert the presumption which arises against an apparent and who seek to enforce an altered instrument, to show the circumstances under 3 M H C R 247 he party, although in avoiding the has the custody of its original state.

it on a contract to indemnify A on certain notes made on March 16th The contract is also dated

. . . f noth ng appear to the contrary, should be presumed to I think this rule is demanded by s of this country, and especially e contracts made are drawn by the rd to interlineations and altera-f the defen plain very tolerated—might, perhaps, ... in regard to a negotiable ... country, like that of Great Britain, in regard to a negotiable ... upon stamped paper, the very cost of which would induce special care in the drawing of it, but I ... here could not be otherwise than injurious It ... be accounted for by extraneous evidence, and ... evidence must be given without regard to any suspicious appearance of the alteration, would I think, in many instances, be doing such manifest injustice as to shock the common sense of most men " "In this conflict of opinion," says Woodruff J in Maybre v Sniffen 2 E D Smith 1 (Am), after an exhaustive review of all the authorities ... most in accordance with the ... of its ... able ... rely ... the ... nder ... y be seal or otherwise, it was made after the ... getting up the instrument greatly to the disadvantage of the holder or party getting up the instrument his own interest? ... that he made them unlawful against ... other No presumption ... ration is in ... ifferent ink, ... its face, or ... f proof, rests ... it to the satisfaction of the

Assent A statement is proved to have been made in the presence of H It will be presumed that H heard it Hochrieter v People, 2 Abb App Dec. 363

... attestation of a deed does not necessarily import an ... Imam Ali v Baij Nath, 10 C W N ... ngh v Bhagwant, 5 Ind Cas 202; ... 21 C W N 225 (231)= ... Jagatkishore, 21 C W N ... ss who has seen the deed executed ... v Laxmanrao, 10 Bom L R 913=33 B 44 Where there is nothing to suggest that the attesting witnesses signed after the mortgagor the Court can rely on the presumption under s 114 and hold that he signed after mortgagor Radha v Nagendra, 134 Ind Cas 767=53 C L J 586=A I R 1931 Cal 806

Benami The mere fact that the deeds are in the possession of the mortgagor does not of itself prove that the mortgagee was a mere benamdar for the mortgagor Hiraji v Vishnu, 1923 Bom 429 Property purchased by the father of a joint Hindu family in the name of his minor son is presumed to be ... becomes the property of the family Bhaghut ... Pal 20 W. R 269, Sayyud v Ultap, 13 M 1 ... Dass v ... 6 I A ... W N ... Kumudbala 28 C W N 131, ... M 214; 226=26 C 871=4 C W N 1; ... 409 (P. C); Sreman v Gopal, ... Narshima v Srinivasha, 33 M 112

Best evidence Best evidence not produced though available raises adverse presumption Rameshwar v Bajit Lal, 33 C. W N 430=27 A L J, 261=49 C L J 408=31 Bom L R 721.

S.

Bond Independently of a statute of limitation or in the absence of one, after a lapse of bonds Lau P in the case of tial justice and will sit still an exist, and to ac property, there therefore, well prevails as mu Ch 545 "Ever Stamford, 2 V stale demand to make the demand affords a presumption either that the claimant was conscious it was satisfied or intended to relinquish it" Lauson Pre Ev 371 But in India this presumption is of little value as a bond becomes time barred after a lapse of the time mentioned in the Indian Limitation Act (IX of 1908)

Blank-paper Where a person places his thumb impression on a blank paper, the understanding between him and the person to whom he delivers the paper ordinarily is that it is to be converted into a valuable security Balsa v Emperor, A I R 1932 Pat 335=13 P L T 558 Where it is shown either by proof or by admission that the thumb impression on the suit hand note is

233=A I R 1931 Pat 219

Character The character, habits and personal appearance of a person are presumed to continue as proved to be at the time of the past Law Pre Ev. Rule 32 "It migh presumed to remain u ledge and just app a strong presumptio mental and social con in human conduct, bad to a good charact is to be hoped, the contrary t bad four years
Middles Worth, Denio, 431, Law Pre Ev 230

Child bearing age The presumption that a particular woman has passed the age of child bearing is one of fact to be determined partly by the light of question It s has been Haynes v
nd Ed 57, ix years and three months, who had never had but one child (born when she was between twenty one and twenty two years of age) and lived afterwards with her husband for twenty-four years until his death, is presumed to be past child bearing In re White, (1901) 1 Ch 570 In delivering the judgment, Buckley J said "A number of cases have been cited, but the material ones to my mind are these, Haynes v Haynes, 35 L J Ch 303, where it was held that a spinster aged fifty three years and two months must be presumed to be past the age of decision was pronounced in 1872, so that there had been twenty six years of married life, no issue, and the husband was living. Dandoon v. Kimpton, 18 Ch D. 213, where the lady was a spinster of the age of fifty-four, and

Hyddon v Edison, 19 Beav 565, where she was a spinister and aged fifty six It will be observed that in all the cases to which I have referred the ages were less than [illegible] will also be remarked that I have [illegible] children In re Widow's Trust, [illegible] to consider whether the cases relating to spinisters do not equally apply to widows who have had children The only difference that occurs to me is that there is nothing to show in the case of spinisters whether they are or have been capable of child bearing which in the case of a widow who has had a child there is On the other hand, if there has been a long lapse of time since the birth of a child—as in this case twenty four years—the presumption will be that the capacity of child bearing has ceased" See also Payne v Long 19 Ves 571; Groves v Groves, 12 W R 45, Levy v Hodges, Jac 585, Miles v Knight, 12 Jur 666 Dodd v Wake, 5 Deg & Sm 226; Brandon v Woodthorpe, 10 Beav 463 Brown v Pringle, 4 Hare, 124, Edward v Tuch, 23 Beav 271; Davis v Bush 8 Jur 114

Conduct From a person's conduct in not claiming the property while others were actually contesting their right to it, an inference against his title can certainly be drawn Kumarswami v Narayanswami, A I R 1932 Mad 762=36 M L W 186=1932 M W N 850=139 Ind Cas 766

Conflicting presumption In the case of conflicting presumptions the presumption of payment is stronger than, and will prevail against, the presumption [illegible] innocence is stronger than and will [illegible] of life, of the presumption of [illegible] knowledge of the law [illegible] the presumption of innocence, and the [illegible] will prevail against the presumption of innocence Law, Pre Ev [illegible] 122 "Nothing [illegible] (Jayne v Price [illegible] contrary and stronger [illegible] went on a foreign [illegible] after his departure [illegible] legitimate King v [illegible] conflicting [illegible] of the [illegible] of the second [illegible] been indicted [illegible] have been [illegible] at the time of the second marriage [illegible] contended [illegible] answer is that the presumption [illegible] sequence of his being so is that [illegible] But 'when it is recognized [illegible] that when certain facts are presented in an invariable formula the finding thereon shall always be the same way, the logical impossibility of a conflict of presumptions becomes [illegible] conflicting presumptions [illegible] to certain [illegible] inconsistent [illegible] of law to affix inconsistent conclusions to the same state of facts at the same time" 9 Encyc Ev "Presumptions" p. 891 The market values, so to speak, of the various presumptions have been sometimes sought to be established, but so [illegible] Keeping, then, to the expression as it is [illegible] one party to a cause relying upon a given [illegible] party upon another Which party is to prevail? In every case it depends on the nature of the respective presumption Burr Jones § 101.

Co-sharer's possession Mere possession or occupation of the property by one co-sharer does not constitute adverse possession against the other co-[illegible] of hostile title or other-[illegible] 92 Where property is [illegible] has not received the [illegible] of the other co-owner was adverse Bharat v Ganga, 9 Ind Cas 425 The possession of joint property by one co sharer does not

S.

v Sheikh Akbar Ali 1 C L R 364; Udairam v Dujan, 78 P L R 1909,

Death Where among some relations the evidence on the question who died first is quite evenly balanced, the Court is entitled to say that the probabilities are in favour of the younger man surviving the elder Kulkarni v Laxmibai, (1922) Bom 347

Debts Debts once proved to exist are presumed to continue until the contrary is an entry indebted the debt a money without o demanding payment the presumption is that the debt has been paid Narain v Durga Singh, 22 O C 335=54 Ind Cas 95

Delay in enforcing rights Where the long delay of the plaintiff in bringing the suit has prejudiced the defendants and has prevented them from bringing the best evidence that would otherwise have been available to them, the tendency of the Court must invariably be to make an inference against the plaintiff unless good cause tance to such presumption in given Brij Raj Saran v Bas 561 Under a possessory m not transferred to the mortgagee and no steps had been taken by the latter or his heirs to recover the amount Held that under the circumstances it was hat the tabai v ence of is on rain v 1866.

Documents It is a general though not a conclusive presumption that a document was made on the day of the date it bears Mina Kumari v Rajah Bijoy Singh 21 C W N 585 P C, Parshatam v Nazir 84 Ind Cas 846 Davies v Lowndes, 7 Scott N R at 214, Owen v Waters M & W 95, Hunt v Massey 5 B & Ad 902 When a document is not produced after due notice to produce and after being called for, it is presumed to have been duly stamped, unless it be shown to have remained unstamped for some times after its execution Closmadene v Correl 18 C B 36 5 H L 624, Steph Dig 7th Ed Art regard the regularity 417, Lawson Pre E Nanka, 106 Ind Cas unregistered and such it has been shown the produced but was not produced the presumption is that the document is not necessary to effect the purpose for which they were executed Rajeswar v Ajab Singh, 118 Ind Cas 865=A I R 1929 Nag 257

Duty All persons are presumed to have duly discharged any obligation imposed on them either by unwritten or written law, Best Ev § 318, Ram v Kalab, 36 Ind Cas 100

14. Domicile. Domicile once shown to exist, is presumed to continue until ... Law, Pre Ev Rule 30 "It is necessary" said Lord ... ation of the ... as ... oked for the purpose of regulating the rights ... well that succession and distribution depend upon the law of the domicile Domicile, therefore is one idea of law. It is the relation which the law creates between ... ular locality or country To every adult person the ... that domicile remains his fixed attribute until ... usurps its place" And Lord Cranworth added "It is necessary to bear in mind that a domicile, though intended to be aban ... til a new domicile is acquired, and that a new domicile is ... xed intention of establishing a permanent ... until also this intention has been carried out by actual residence there

Encroachment by tenant. The true presumption as to encroachment ... upon the adjoining lands of his landlord ... added to the tenure, and form part ... o long as the original holding continues, ... clearly appeared by some ... his own benef ... is supported ... 16 (247), see al

Forgery If the accused who is charged with a forgery refuses to write ... in Court an adverse inference may be drawn ... which he is brought to trial Emper. ... Bom L R 598

... imputed to th ... are no ... uelty t ... dence o

Genu ... production ... Dhanpati ... ut non ... of the original is presumed

... ted, when it is not denied that ... Daulat v Corporation of ...

Good faith The moral presumption is in favour of good faith and not of bad faith on the part of the assessee Jambu Das v Income tax Com A I R 1927 Nag 336=104 Ind Cas 336

Grant The gist of the principle upon which a lost grant is presumed is that the state of affairs is otherwise unexplained When from a certain set of ... ference of fact and not ... 31 C L J 501=57 Ind ... of lands under a claim ... grant may be presumed ... v. Srinath Chakravarti, ... sumption of a lost grant ... of each case Ibid

Guilt Where no motive for the commission of a crime is shown, the ... of the suspected person is strengthened But the ... ts pointing to the prisoner ... levant, and is a circum ... nferred Lawson Pre Ev Rule 105.

... no express prohibition, nor are ... ied, the mere fact that a ... der the adoption male by her invalid The husband's consent is, in the absence of prohibition, always to be implied Laxmibai v Sarasuatibai, 1 Bom L R 420=23 B 789 Where an adoption has been acquiesced in for a period of 33 years, it is presumed that the necessary consent of some person competent to give away the adopted son had been obtained. Anandrao v, Ganesh, 7 B, H C App 33 The Court, when it is satisfied that permission to adopt exists, will exact slight proof of the

S.

Law lopted in its entirety one uncertain which form they ɔpted the form which prev. Chandra Dassia, 20 C 409 Where a family migrates from Guzerat where the Mayukha prevails, it must be assu s it is shown that the family ry where it has settled v Jagadish, 20 C. 433; Ch

Hindu Law—Endowment A person seeking to set aside an alienation on the ground that the property allenated is debutter or endowed property, must adduce proof that the same was endowed in perpetuity Proof that the rents and profits have been utilized for the idol is insufficient Konwar Doorga Nath v Ramchunder, 2 C 311 (P C)=4 I A 52

Hindu Law Joint Family Hindu families are ordinarily governed by the law of their origin, not by that of their domicile Lalkea v Gunga, W R 1864, 56 Where parties, who are not Hindus, reside in a Hindu country and, adopt the customs of Hindus, have lived as Hindu families do joint in food and

Hindu family, there is a presumption of continuance of joint right of every member Moonaye v Lomun, 2 W R 288 If brothers are found to be living together as a joint Hindu family, they must be presumed to be joint in property Dhurm Chand v Raj Mohishee 5 W R 445, see also Gane v Kanae, 3 W R 165 5 W R 82, Lukhun v Madho, 5 W R 278, Gane v Kene, 4 B H C A C 169, Nandram v Chootoo, 1 Agra 255 Where the family is joint and there is a nucleus from which the property may be training at the expense of the joint family property Gokul Chand v Hukum Chand, 145 P L R 1916=109 P W R 1916

Hindu widow One who claims title under a conveyance from a woman, with the usual limited interest which a woman takes, and who seeks to enforce

4. reasonable to satisfy himself of the existence of such necessity Bhaguant v Debi Dayal, 12 C W N 393=35 C 420 (P C) It is general presumption of law that the acquirer of property intends to retain dominion over it, and in the case ... n the fund with which ... m her hu band s estate ... I L J 5

Husband and wife In R v Hughes, 2 Lewin 229, Thompson J said "The law out of tenderness to the wife, if a felony be committed in the presence of the husband, raises a presumption prima facie that it was done under coercion" See also R v Connolly, 2 Lewin 230; R v Knight, 1 C & P 116 The mere fact of marriage raises no presumption with regard to any property standing in the name of a wife that the beneficial interest must be in her husband Before ... some evidence adduced to indicate ... wife, but in fact to the husband ... Kumari v Subudhi Tatuani ...

Identity Identity of name raises a presumption of identity of person where there is similarity of re ... stances or where the name is an unusual one; but alite ... and there are several persons known of ... Law ... "In ... being ... may be ... urrence drawn If the name were only John Smith which is of very freque ... there might nc ... But Hurry Thomas Rhydes are ... rally ... cal there is every ... until the

Infancy Infancy once ... ved contrary is proved Law P ... un that a son is over age It ... ry emancipated as in the days ... Re Lilleshall, 7 Q B 158

In R v Smith, 1 Con 260, Earl J said to the Jury: "Where the child is under the age of seven years, the law presumes him to be incapable of committing a crime, ... responsible for his actions as e ... even and malicious ... ist be proved by the ... The ... of the act ... ide s 83, I P Code) ... nd presumed to be unacquainted with guilt, yet this presumption will diminish with the advance of the offender's years and will depend upon the particular facts and circumstances of his case" 1 Russ 109; Mayne Ev Law, 402

Innocence The law presumes the innocence of a person charged with crime until the contrary is proved beyond a reasonable doubt Law Pre Ev Rule 90 "It is greatly to be regretted that the so called presumption of innocence in favour of the prisoner at the bar is a pretence, a delusion an empty sound It ought not so to be, but it is Rufus Choate said that this presumption is not a mere phrase without meaning;' that 'it is in the nature of evidence for ... overcome,' that ' ... equal trial,' that 'it ... ically to one witness' ... judge it is of no avai ... deal ... it, it is hazardous to say ... y, by prosecution, very one, as he ... self and answer it ... so The reason is plain The whole course of criminal procedure from inception to close, is designed to shut out presumptions of innocence and invite the presumptions of guilt The secrecy of complaint making at the magistrate's office the mysterious inquisition of the grand jury room, the publicity of the arrest the commitment to the lock up, the demand of bail, the delay of trial, the enforced silence of defence till prosecution has done its worst, are all so many steps and strokes to blacken the accused before he is when he is put on trial, is he put in the dock? Why does he not have place with the by-standers, who are simply presumed innocent? The 'presumption', in the presence of such things, is a contradiction of terms How can a person be presumed innocent who is presumably guilty? The fact that he is restrained of his liberty presumes guilt There is no other construction to be placed on the restraint Human nature is not capable of any other Yet human nature ought to presume innocence till the contrary is proved" From Ten years a Police Court Judge New york Funk and Wingalls, 1884

Professor Thayer says 'To sum it up the substance of all this is, as I have said the proof—appears to the party in

It may be it may eight of ves no ption is is accompanied by another rule by him against whom it ope moment these conceptions give way to the perfectly distinct notion of evidence proper—i e, probative matter, which may be a basis of inference, something capable of being weighed in the scales of reason and compared and estimated with other matter of the probative sort—so that we get to treating the presumption of innocence or any other presumption, as being evidence in this its true sense, then we have wandered into the region of shadows and phantoms" Prof. Thayer's article in Yale Law Journal of March 1897

The rule underlying the presumption of innocence merely means, that a person who is accused of a crime is not bound to make any statement or to offer any explanation of circumstances which throw suspicion upon him He stands before the Court as an innocent man till he is proved to be guilty It is that word He is entitled the other by a ... s, is inconclusive, and that to rely on th ... help from him Further, the Crown is b ... in making out this case, the prosecution is to get rid of every presumption in favour of innocence The great majority of mankind manage to get through life without committing a crime, and those who assert that a particular person ... a fact against which there is a presumption ... insuperable to something evanescent convince a jury that the Commander in ... d a pocket In the case of a member of ... the natural thing in the world Mayne's Cr

... duct or crime was alleged whether in a criminal
... offender or in
... s strictly
R 1920

st B, A alleged that B, who had chartered his
... by which a loss happened with
...

Ellenborough said 'That the declaration, in imputing ... a highly dangerous combustible nature, imputes to the defendants a criminal negligence, cannot well having wrongfully put on board a ship, an article of a highly dangerous com bustible nature, imputes to the defendants a criminal negligence, cannot well be questioned In order to make the putting on board wrongful, the defendants must be cognizant of the dangerous quality of the article put on board, and if being so they yet gave no notice, considering the probable danger thereby ... to a species of delinquency on board for which ... hour at least We are, therefore, of opinion, upon principle and the authorities, that the burden of proving that the dangerous article in question was put on board without notice rested upon the plaintiff alleg ... on board with out notice of its nature and qu ... of law is, in favour of innocence, ... innocent intentions, the law presumes th ... has been wrongfully intended, till the ... Mansfield has, in clear language, pointed out the distinction between these ... where a criminal intent must be proved, and those where it will be presumed "Where an act, in itself indifferent, if done with a particular intent becomes criminal there the intent must be proved and found but where the act is in itself ... se lies on the defendant, and in t" R v Woodfal, 5 Burr 2667, v Wallace, 3 Ir R S N 38, R v

"It seems well established that where in a criminal case there is a conflict
... on the presumption
... rn & Ald 386)
... ousness of the
... s been said that
... (Re Hobson,
... al C J in Re
... case of Nibaran
... o fact that an
... after a gun was ... fired, may be
... error of law to
... ed under such
C 893
... era of criminal
... doubt' A great
... doubt beyond

the case? If the case is to turn on the matter of reasonble doubt, how can it turn aright, unless the turning point be ascertained and fixed beyond a reas— beyond all question? The learning of the books on this subject is vast It begins with the Bible—that is to say the book writers make it begin there, though it does not appear that the inspired writers were sufficiently inspired to hit upon the favourite expression Its equivalent, lawgivers since the time of Moses, find in the Mosaic provision, which forbade the death penalty till the crime 'be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and enquired diligently, and, behold, it to be true, and the thing certain' (Deut xvii, 4) This is said to be the amplification of Moses as definer of the doubt Modern authorities do not seem to have done much better But it is not because they have not tried One author says that 'the persuasion of guilt ought to amount to such a moral approach nearer a solution and resembles a definition once heard in a charge to a jury The Jduge who gave it is admittedly one of the ablest and clearest headed jurists who ever sat upon the Bench He is the man whom Rufus Choate called one of the ablest minds of the state' As near as memory serves, his words were as follows: 'Just what a reasonable doubt is, gentlemen, it is Insanity Insanity once proved to exist is presumed to continue But, aliter, as to temporary insanity, produced by drunkenness, violent disease or otherwise Lawson Pre Ev Rule 31 In 1837 H was inflicted with insanity, resulting from a violent disease There is no presumption that H was insane in 1838 Crouse v Holman, 19 Ind 30 In that case it was said "Every man being presumed to be sane till the contrary is proved, the burden of proving certainly rests in the first instance, on the party alleging the insanity How period, or even several months later The force of presumption arises from our observation and experience of the mutual connection between the facts shown to exist and those sought to be established by inference from those facts Now, neither observation nor experience shows us that persons who are insane from the effect of some violent disease do not usually recover the right use of

in deciding upon its effect upon the burden of proof or law for it may authorize the jury to infer that the same condition or state of mind attaches to the individual at a later period There must be kept in view the distinction between the inferences to be drawn from proof of an habitual or apparently confirmed insanity, and that which may be only temporary The existence of the former,

4. once established, would ... proof from the other party to show a restoration or recovery, and in t ... presumed to continue But if th ... connected with some violent di ... the party alleging the insanity ... that point of time which bears directly upon the subj ... not content himself merely with proof of insanity at an earlier period' Lawson Pre Ev pp 22 ... is proved it is presumed to continue Prinsep v Dy ... rson has been found to be a lunatic under Act XXX ... to be of unsound mind until the contrary ... h a person, the onus is on those who ... mind when he made the adoption Amanchi v Amanchi, 33 Ind Cas ... 0 M 660, see also Snool v Watts 11 Beav 105; Hill v Clifford, (1907) 2 Ch 236, Harris Gratten v Foxwell, (1897) A C 658=66 L J Q B 715

Intent and knowl ... med in so doing to have intended ... result Law Pre Ev ... colluded with an insolv ... action for libel broug ... whether W intended to ... tendency of the libel being injurious to H ... is presumed ... do so Haire v Wilson, 9 B & C 643 "The Judge", said Tenterden C J in that case, "ought not to have left a question to the jury whether the defendant intended to injure the plaintiff, for every man must be presumed to intend the natural and ordinary consequences of his own act" And Littledale J added "If the tendency of the publication was injurious to the plaintiff, then the law will presume that the defendant, by publishing it, intended to produce the injury which it was calculated to effect" A baker is charged with delivering adulterated bread for the use of a public asylum It is proved that A delivered the bread The presumption is that he intended it to be eaten King v Dixon 3 M & S 12 Lord Ellenborough said, that it was a universal principle that when a man is charged with doing an act, of which the probable consequence may be highly in ... of law resulting from the doing the act, ... s for the use and supply ... ren to eat for otherwise they ... Ev 374 A debtor makes ... erty He makes also a "co ... ors" The law presumes that the intent of the conveyance was to ... efraud his creditors Exparte Villars, L R 9 Ch App 443 Lord Chancellor Cairns said "It is true that under this as under previous statutes of bankruptcy the acts are specified which if done by the bankrupt are not only acts of ... but are also, if followed by bankruptcy, void One is a con... 's property for the benefit of creditors ... it fraudulent or by way of fraudulent ... of these acts, namely, a conveyance ... special provisions have always ... nce or assignment ... and as to the other ... ld from the earliest ... nveyance must ... to delay or d... at ... gainst, and perhaps ... aws" B forges C's ... as no account there ... The presumption ... ish 2 Den C C 498 "The recorder ... t in order to prove an intent to defraud" ... lefrauded, or who might possibly have been defrauded But I do not ... that at all necessary A man may have an intent to defraud and yet there may not be any person who could be defrauded by his act Suppose a person with a good account at his bankers and a friend with his knowledge forges his name to a cheque, either to try his credit or to imitate his handwriting, there would be no intent to defraud, S though there might be parties who might be defrauded, but where another per of the act Lawson Pre R v Munslow, 1 Q B 758 P 276, R v Cooke 8 C & P 582, R v Shefford, R & R 169, R v Beard 8 C & P 143 'A sane man' said Chief Justice Shaw in Com v York, 9 Metc 93 (Am) 'a voluntary agent intend the neces therefore, one destroy another's life the natural and necessary conclusion from the act is harm to the person assailed the intention to take life or do him some great bodily har Empress v Tulsha, 20 A 143, peror 37 C 317, Reg v G ctically impossible for the pro establish affirma tively the is fair and justifiable presu abducted it is undoubtedly The intention is more or less a matter of inference though there may be cases where the matter is capable of direct proof It is for the accused to explain away incriminating circumstances Jowaya and others v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah 163 Issues me impossibility v Boldero 15 ion

Frazer v Frazer, Joe 586, 1 Cox 325, Overhill's Trusts onton v May L R 9 Ch D presumption that a person see also [Pounaloori v Chela- lapathi 33 M L J 295

Joint Property Where a piece of land is adjacent to a piece of joint ners of the joint property the assertion Ma Bi

Knowledge of Law Every one is presumed to know the law when ignorance of it would relieve from the consequences of a wrongful act or from liability upon a contract Lawson Pre Ev Rule 1 The presumption that every body knows the law is often spoken of but it is clear that there is no such general presumption When Mr Dunning in arguing before Lord Mansfield, said The laws of this country are clear evident, and certain, all the Judges know the laws and knowing them administer justice with uprightness and integrity That learned Judge replied As to the certainty of the law mentioned by Mr Dunning it would be very hard upon the profession if the law was so certain that every body knows it, that it costs much money to know what it v Randall Cowp 38 Is it not a mocl on the Louisiana Penal Code to refe Whe
law ing part
New Hd

4. which the law itself ought to have afforded, he would hint that he lived by his profession, and that the knowledge he had acquired by hard study for many ... imparted" We may, therefore, safely say with ... person ... ere so, ... erybody ... existence knew ... , 2 C B shows ... ckesbury 715 ... y elector
L R
who saw him presiding at the election must have known as a fact that he was the returning officer, and every elector who was a lawyer and who had read the case of Reg v Owens, 2 E. & E 86, would know that he was disqualified ... B was mayor and returning officer, was every ... law that he was disqualified? I agree that ... But I think that in Martindale v Falkner ... xplains the law." And Lush J added 'A maxim has been cited which it has been argued imputes to every person a knowledge of the law The maxim is ignorantia legis neminem excusat, but there is no maxim which says that for all intents and purposes a person must be taken to know the legal consequence of his acts" The maxim properly understood is true, but it is a rule of presumption, adopted from necessity, and to avoid an evil that would otherwise constantly perplex the Courts in the administration of the criminal law, that is the plea of ignorance Hence the maxim, 'that ignorance of law excuses no one' Lawson Pre Ev 11.

Legitimacy It is well established that every reasonable presumption will be indulged in for the purpose of upholding a marriage and establishing the legitimacy of the offspring Lawson Pre Ev 139 A child born in India must under ordinary circumstances be presumed to have his father's religion and his corresponding civil and social status Mahamed v Raja Saiyad, A I R 1931 Oudh 177=8 O W N 349

... applies to ... rticular ... igs and ... having ... resume ... valid' ... arises ... I R ... concu ... nber of ... 846=6 ... 79 Ind ... 3 Ind
Cas 887

But presumption of a valid marriage from two persons living together as man and woman cannot be drawn where the union is between a man who is an Ahir and a Brahmin widow, who cannot prima facie contract a valid marriage Gulab Chand v Bhaiyalal, 119 Ind Cas 698=A I R 1929 Nag 343 A ... but if it be ... cannot ... esumed ... Jaimit ... 7 Lah ... n a case ... l repute

Mahomedan Law The Mahomedan Law is only the law of this country ... law of British India, and so far ... ya Kishore v ... ction between ... that converts ... ommunity may since their conversion have voluntarily imposed upon themselves would be governed by the Mahomedan Law Mahomed Sidick v Haji Ahmed, 10 B 1 There is no presumption of joint family in Mahomedan Law Jafer Ali v Raj Chanpra 10 C L R 469=8 C 831 N, Karim Baksh v Rahim, 21 P L R 1900 injury to Lawson 902 (N)

But when the thing is under is such as ordinarily does proper care a presumption accident Lawson Pre Ev Rule 19(b) Where a person is under a duty either by law or by contract the failure to discharge the duty raises a presumption of negligence against the person charged with such duty Ibid Rule 19 (c), see also Kush Kanta v Chandra Kanta 28 C W N 104 Vishu Digambor v B B & C I Ry Co 85 Ind Cas 415 A presumption of negligence arises against a common carrier of passengers where an injury is received by a passenger caused by the breaking down, or failure of the carrier's vehicle, roadway or other appliances for transportation, or by some error of his servants in operating them In other cases the mere fact of injury does not raise a presumption of negligence on the part of the carrier Lawson Pre Ev 129

Personal appearance Personal appearance of a person is presumed to continue as proved to be at a time past Lawson Pre Ev Rule 32

Possession Where little or no evidence of actual possession or title can be procured it would be almost impossible to administer justice, without having recourse to legal presumptions Mobaruck v Toofany 4 C 206=2 C L R 446 When evidence of possession is conflicting, the presumption is that possession follows title Kasturi Singh v Rajkumar Babu 8 C W N 876

Religion The opinions of individuals, once entertained and expressed and the state of mind, once found to exist are presumed to remain unchanged until the contrary appears Thus all the members of a Christian community being presumed to entertain the common faith, no man is supposed to disbelieve from his own

Justice Greaves such and law under which the parties are born In the goods of Jnanendra Nath Roy 26 C W N 799 But the sounder view end to the presumption that he still cont Where in consequence of the conversi

Barlow v Orde 13 M I A 277 But to acquire a new status the change of religion must be made honestly and without any intent to commit a fraud upon the law Per Lord Watson in Skinner v Skinner 25 I A 34 (41)=25 C 537 (546) Skinner v Orde 14 M I A 309 (324) Even where the conversion is bonafide the convert is not allowed to cast off an obligation which he had previously contracted and which at the time of the contract was indissoluble by any act of his own Mayne's Cr Law § 650, Emperor v Lazar 30 M 551

Sanity Sanity once proved to exist is presumed to continue Lawson Pre Ev Rule 31 Every man being presumed to be sane till the contrary is proved the burden of proof certainly rests in the first instance on the party alleging the insanity Crouse v Holman 19 Ind 30, Lawson Pre Ev p 297

Services An agreement to pay for services rendered and accepted is presumed unless the parties are members of the same family or near relations

A and his wife board and lodge in the house of B the brother of A, and as t him in carrying on his business There is no presumption that either the services on the one hand or the board and lodging on the other were paid for Davies v Davies 9 C & P 87

Solvency Solve contrary is proved / day A is presumed \ Ball, 9 Barb 271, , Statutory Presumptions There is no impropriety in referring to a th as having been done when that thing is required to be done by a section in a statute Brindoban v G I P Railway Co, 21 A L J 825=96 Ind Cas 1039=A I R 1929 All 369 (F B)

Tenancy, nature of—Presumption The presumption in favour of permanent tenancy implies that there is ground for inferring that the nature was always intended to be and always was hereditary, or that it acquired that character by subsequent grant. But a presumption in favour of a transaction as umes regularity, it cannot be made in favour of that which offends legal principle Satya Sri v Kartik 15 C L J 237=16 C W N 227=13 Ind Cas 596

– that her husband is lel presumption ari es against R 1929 Nag 177 Where was compounded it is to be presumed that the criminal Court acted according to law and the presumption is that the criminal case was withdrawn and not compounded Sadho v Jhinra 116 Ind Cas 749=A I R 1929 All 456 Where in a charge of misappropri and that there was some that there was no conclu re the basis of the confe on nd Cas 605=A I R 1925 M 493=54 M L J 607 The mere signing of a particular entry does not raise an irrebuttable presumption of law against which no evidence can be abduced by the maker of the signature Emperor v Ram Rang 109 Ind Ca 221=29 Cr L J 493=A I R 1928 Lah 890 The tendency of Engl h Courts to presume a tenancy in common rather than a joint tenancy has no ally the reverse Presumption the absence diction of a 329 There he course of a preliminary enquiry and no inference can be drawn against the accused for non disclosure of his defence at that stage Kumar Prosad v Emperor 8 Pat L T 656=A I R 1927 Pat 292 Where there is nothing to indicate that the Court had not satisfied itself of the service of notice, it must be presumed that the Court was so satisfied Amar Singh v Rala Singh 102 Ind Cas 1= A I R 1927 Lah 506 Where the posting of a registered letter is proved but it was returned with a note of the postman that the addressee refused to receive it the presumption arises that he refused to receive it Sher Afzal v Mohan Lal 94 Ind Cas 103=A I R 1926 Lah 590, see also Girish Chandra v Kishore Mohan 23 C W N 319 A school leaving certificate issued by a public servant in a native state can be presumed under s 114 Evidence Act to be of the same character as a school leaving certificate issued in British India Maharaj Bhanudas v Krishnabai 28 Bom L R 1225=50 B 716=A I R 1926 Bom 11 It is a violent presumption drawn from one s knowledge of human nature and of Indian village life which it is the duty of a tribunal in a case of dhatura poisoning to apply, namely, that the food pertaken at the evening meal by a husband in an ordinarily constituted house is prepared for him and served to him by his wife Emperor v Har Piari, A I R 1926 All 73= Ind Cas

The mere fact that in the Revenue Records the sons of a particular person are shown as jointly owning land is not sufficient to raise a certain presumption that the person was the owner of the land Nath Singh v Mohan Singh, 8 Lah

S. L J 485=27 P L R 721=97 Ind Cas 241=A I R 1926 Lah 659 By taking over the sale and paying the full price a co owner waived his own claim to sue, held such action on the part of the co owner is presumptive evidence that the sale by another co-owner was not bad for want of necessity Basant

Tadepalli v Rukmaniamma, A I R ... When a person ... at liberty to stop something done in his house and is found not to do so the presumption is that he is an accessory to the doing of that thing and he may ... doing of it Maika v ... the vacant plot of land ... it was he who built to prove that it was he tha ... Sind 716 The fact that ... been committed many ... any inference against ... 347 An attempt to fa ... against a convict of ... Crown, 86 Ind Cas 344 ... (b) and (c) of s 64 A of the Be ... d, and it being proved that Cl (a) h ... t should under s 144 of ... been published in the manner required ... ya Prasad, 9 A L J.

evidence or by both The question of the loss of the original is only material in so far as it may raise a presumption one way or the other under s 114 of the and consideration therefor from long continued payment of higher rate Ibid, see also Pena Kasupha v Raja Rajeswar 42 M 475=50 Ind Cas 16 Conceal-taking along in a cart persons one of whom has blood stained clothes and a broken head and these persons are subsequently found to have taken part in a

5. dacoity recently before being taken away in the cart, the burden lies upon the cart man so found in the circumstances to disclose what he knows about the circumstances in which he was found Failure to discharge the burden will lead the Court to the irresistible conclusion that he must have known that those pe- ... in that da ... Where a ... by one of ... bigger um the statement against interest should ordinarily be preferred Gobind Gorhi v Baldeo Ram A I R 1930 Pat 293=126 Ind Cas 369

CHAPTER VIII.

ESTOPPEL

Estoppel

115. When one person has, by his declaration, act or omission intentionally caused or permitted another person to believe a thing to be true and to act upon such belief, neither he nor his representative shall be allowed, in any suit or proceeding between himself and such person or his representative, to deny the truth of that thing

Illustration

A intentionally and falsely leads B to believe that certain land belongs to A and thereby induces B to buy and pay for it

The land afterwards becomes the property of A, and A seeks to set aside the sale on the ground that, at the time of the sale, he had no title He must not be allowed to prove his want of title

Estoppel meaning of "Estoppel is when one is concluded and forbidden in law to speak against his own act or deed yea though it be to say the truth" Co Litt 35 (a); cited in Ashpital v Bryon 3 B & S 474 (489), Simon v Anglo American Telegraph Co (1879) 5 Q B D 188, C A per Bramwell, L J at p 202, Halsbury Vol 13 para 488 So there is said to be an estoppel where a party is not allowed to say that a certain statement of fact is untrue, whether in reality it be true or not Estoppel, or conclusion, as it is frequently called by the older authorities, may therefore be defined as a disability whereby a party is precluded from alleging or proving in legal proceedings that a fact ... by the matter giving rise to that ... The rule on the subject is thus laid ... 6 Ad & E 469 at p 474 "But ... ords or conduct wilfully causes another ... things, and induces him to act on ... vious position, the former is concluded from averring against the latter a different state of things as existing at the same time" "The whole doctrine of estoppel of this kind, which is fictitious statement treated as true, might have been founded in reason, but I am not sure that it was There is another kind of estoppel—estoppel by representation —which is founded upon reason and it is founded upon decision also" Per Jessel M R in General Finance & Co v Liberator, L R 10 Ch D 15(20) So also in Simm v Aglo American Telegraph Co, L R 5 Q B D 202 Bramwell L J said 'An estoppel is said to exist where a person is compelled to admit that to be true which is not true and to act upon a theory which is contrary to the truth

"On the whole, an estoppel seems to be when, in consequence of some previous act or statement to which he is either party or privy, a person is precluded from showing the existence of ... state of facts ... Estoppel ... is not to ... de jure ... presumed is taken to be true, not as against all the world, but against a particular party, and that only by reason of some act done it is in truth a kind of argumentum ad hominem Hence it appears that 'estoppels' must not be understood as synonymous with conclusive evidence,—the former being conclusions drawn by law against parties from particular facts, while by the latter is meant some piece or mass of evidence, sufficiently strong to generate conviction in the mind of a tribunal, or rendered conclusive on a party either by common or statute law" Best Ev § 533 Estoppel may accordingly be taken to b that which concludes the party against whom it is set up, from disputing his own averment, whether that averment be direct as for example the statement of any given fact or constructive as legally deducible from the circumstances, and the "

can be

Some m

description of Lord Coke in which he says—"An estoppel is where a man is concluded by his own act or acceptance to say the truth' (Co Litt 352) as though the doctrine were based on the principle of shutting out truth by a technicality It is founded however in fact, on no such absurdity The whole principle of estoppel is, that what has once been affirmed or represented to be truth, or established to be so in a judicial controversy shall not be contradicted by either the affirmant, the party against whom it has been established or those claiming through him, to the disparagement of those who, being in a position to avail themselves of it, have acted on it , Goodeve Ev p 532 Principle ' In our old law books , said Mr Smith in his notes to the Duchess of Kingston's case truth appears to have been frequently shut out by the intervention of an estoppel, where reason and good policy required that it should be admitted . However, it is in no wise unjust or unreasonable but on the contrary, in the highest degree reasonable and just that some solemn mode of declaration should be provided by law, for the purpose of enabling men to bind themselves to the good faith and truth of representations on which other persons are to act "The general principle is thus stated by Lord Chancellor (Campbell), with the full concurrence of Lord Kingsdown, in the case of Cairncross v Lorimer, 3 H L C 829 The doctrine will apply which is to be found, I believe in the laws of all civilized nations that if a man either by words or by conduct has intimated that he consents to an act which has been done, and that he will offer no opposition to it although it could not have been lawfully done without his consent and he thereby induces others to do that from which they otherwise might have abstained he cannot question the legality of the act he had so sanctioned, to the prejudice of those who have so given faith previous license Sarat Chandra v Gopal Chunder 20 C 296 (311)=19 I A 203 The principle that a party cannot both approbate and reprobate the same transaction, is applicable to Indian cases The maxim is founded not so much on any positive law as on the broad and universally applicable principle of justice Shah Makhanlal v Srikrishna Singh 2 B L R P C 44=11 W R P C 19=12 M I 157 It is a principle of natural equity which must be universally applicable that where one man allows another to hold himself out as the owner of an estate and a third person purchases it, for value from the apparent owner, in the belief that he is the real owner the man who so allows the other to hold himself out shall not be permitted to recover upon his secret title unless he can overthrow that of the purchaser by showing either that he had direct notice or something which amounts to constructive notice of the real title, or that there existed circumstances which ought to have put him upon an inquiry that if prosecuted would have led to a discovery of it Maung Lee Gale v Mung Kyau Yau, L B R (1893-1900) 158

Estoppel is a rule of evidence ' An estoppel is not a cause of action—it is a rule of evidence which precludes a person from denying the truth of some statement previously made by himself Per Lindley L J in Low v

S. Bowena, (1891) 3 Ch 82 at p 101. In the same case, at p 105 Bowen L J added 'Estoppel is only a rule of evidence, you cannot found an action upon estoppel" Estoppel is only important as being one step in the progress towards relief on the hypothesis that the defendant is estopped from denying the truth of something which he has said An estoppel filling up the gap in the ev produce this right to relief is found in th Railway Company, L R 3 Q B 581" estoppel itself' Per Bowen L J in (1893) 1 Ch 618 at p 628 Similarly in Hanman v Hanman ... C A, Farwell L J at p 144=78 L J P & A 74, said "No consent or admission can justify a decree, it is the duty of the Court to protect the public by seeing that a divorce is obtained only on proper evidence, and so fully is the interest of the public recognised in the matter that by the Act of 1860 (23 & 24 Vict C 144) s 7, any person may intervene between decree nisi and decree absolute to show cause why the decree should not be made absolute on the ground of collusion or the suppression of facts, and the King's Proctor may intervene at any time during the progress of the cause or before decree absolute The grounds and the only grounds on which a decree for dissolution can be made are set forth in section 27 of the Act of 1857 It is sufficient to say that a decree for judicial separation is not made available by the Act as one of such grounds If such a decree is available at all, it is by virtue of the ordinary rules of evidence I do not doubt that, as between the parties, the ordinary doctrine of estoppel applies, as was held by the Judge Ordinary in Finney v ... estoppel is only a rule of evidence by expre... section 31
by personal any substantive right in rem representative No estoppel of a point of law Dharam Cas 665=A I R 1929 All both by plaintiffs as well as 9 Ind Cas 472—A I R 1927 Oudh 97 Estoppel is a rule of evidence which in certain circumstances ... from establishing real facts and compels him to abide by a herally v Saker Khanubai 7 Bom L R =A W N 1886, 101. Rule of estoppel ffects substantive rights Wahidan v

Basis of estoppel ... the Indian statute mainly ... act, and the principle
... be most inequitable and or by conduct amounting to representation, has induced him to act as he would not otherwise have done the person who made the representation should be allowed to deny or repudiate the effect of his former statement, to the loss and injury of the person who acted on it Per Lord Shand in Sarat Chander Dey v Gopal Chander Laha, 20 C 296 (311)—19 I A 203

Rule of estoppel whether applicable in criminal cases The principle of estoppel has no place in criminal law Mohoram v Emperor, 40 A 393=16 A L J 414=19 Cr L J 615=45 Ind Cas 51

Estoppel is neither admission nor presumption 'The branch of the law of Evidence of which that of estoppel forms part is referred to by text writer ... that of admission ... " Goodeve a piece of evidence It is therefore to be distinguished from those statements ... the party which become in themselves the foundation of independent rights for other persons, by virtue of some doctrine of substantive law—in other words from binding estoppels, etc Thus, if A claims that his boundary line runs to an oak tree, and B admitted this, B's extra judicial admission of the boundary's location is merely evidence for the truth of the other facts on which A rests his claim

S.

But if B has made his statement to A under such circumstances that A was justified in acting on it and has built up to the line he claimed, B's concession may by estoppel become the foundation of a new right for A, wholly irrespective of the validity of the grounds of his original claim Here the field of substantive from that of presumptions in the circumstance that an estoppel is a personal disqualification laid upon a person peculiarly circumstanced from proving peculiar facts A presumption is a rule that particular inferences shall be drawn from particular facts whoever proves them Steph Introduction p 175 stoppel, stantive n other lifferent waives

all right to deny, for the purposes of the trial, i e, it removes the proposition in question from the field of disputed issues But statements which are not estoppels or judicial admissions have no quality of conclusiveness and on principle cannot have Wigmore § 1059 Estoppel like judicial admissions has the similar effect of concluding all dispute of the fact But here the distinction is that the estoppel is an obligation made by a rule of law, of the same

§ 2589

Different kinds of estoppel according to English law Estoppels according to English law have been divided into three classes (1) By matter of record (2) By deed (3) In pais

(1) By matter or record A matter of record, as its name would import ... It is at once the narrative and the more usual form in which the of the Civil Procedure Code and sections 40 and 41 of the Evidence Act

Estoppel by deed An estoppel by deed is that which binds the parties to the instrument and those claiming through them to its statements and operation, as an admission of the truth, thus, at least as to the matter intended to be affected by the instrument, and the facts recited in it The solemnity of good Ad
cense d for

by the deed, and the deed contained a recital of the plaintiff having invented the improvements in question, invention being of course of the essence of the validity of the patent The defendent pleaded that the invention was not, in fact, a new one; setting up the defence as a ground why he should be relieved from the liability to payment, contracted on the faith of the patents validity The Court, however held him concluded, that is to say estopped, by the recital It was observed by Mr Justice Famiton "The law of estoppel, is not so unjust or absurd as it has been too much the custom to represent The principle is, of either fraud illegality, or immoral purpose, it would not apply, and any of these grounds could be set up to displace the estoppel The meaning of estoppel says Baron Morton 'is this—that the parties agree for the purpose of a particular transaction to state certain facts as true, and that so far as regards the transaction, there shall be no question al is opened where the statement is made for the pu contract, for persons cannot be allowed to false statement Horton v Westminst Indeed it is not necessary that there Suppression or omiss on of the real trar given to a woman securing to her a pecuniary payment in return for future co habitation would naturally be silent as to the consideration, but being in fact for an immoral purpose it would be bad and the obligor would not be estopped from showing the nature of the consideration Goodeve Ev 535 So also a party may prove that he never executed the deed, or that it was obtained by fraud or duress or otherwise tainted with illegality Collins v Blantern 1 Sm L C 369 Priestman v Thomas, 9 P D 70 210, R v Hutchings 6 Q B D 300, Poulton v Adjustable etc Co, (1905) 2 Ch 430

In general however in order to conclude the party by his deed by way of estoppel it should be pleaded for if his adversary does not rely upon the estoppel the Court and jury are not bound by it, but the jury may find the matter at large according to the fact and the Court will give judgment accordingly He asks them their opinion, and they are bound to give it Where, however the title of the party is barred by estoppel and he has no opportunity of pleading it the jur— ... Ev p 461 In India the recital (... parate as an estoppel Ba. Bahac ... =100 Ind Cas 1037= A I R 1927 All 385 The strict technical doctrine of the English law as to that in 74, be lish our
that 19 10
C 1035 Where the plaintiff executed a deed of mortgage, he cannot afterwards sue to cancel it alleging that it was a fictitious one for the purpose of depriving the next reversionary heir of his right to the property Mutsaddi v Bhagwan, 11 P R 1875 The doctrine of estoppel by deed in its technical sense cannot be said to exist in India Johnstone v Gopal, 12 Lah 546=A I R 1931 Lah 419

Estoppel in cases of recital in documents When a person with a limited interest in certain property styles himself the owner of it and mortgages it to another he would be estopped if he subsequently acquires the property from setting up his limited interest as against the claim of the mortgagee And the auction purchaser of such proprietary interests of the mortgagor with notice of all the facts, being a person claiming from them would be equally estopped e that the mortgagor had Seva Ram v Ali Bakhsh 3 L in pari delicto potior est
... ng a man embarrassed by a decree to which he was himself a party, will not interfere to relieve him from its ablication Where ose of defeating the showing its real character, the claims of justice, equity and good conscience will be satisfied ically altered ie by allowing arties to it or the case of a
the tenancy

Sabukdulla v Hari, 10 C L R 199 In a suit for possession of lands, a plaintiff is not bound down by the recital, as to his vendor's title to the lands, in the document of sale, but is at liberty to prove such title differently Gour Monee v Krishna Chandra, 4 C 397 The mere fact of a vendor declaring in her deed of sale of a moiety of a landed estate, that the other moiety did not belong to her was held not to be conclusive against her being the proprietor Nunhoo v Boodhoo, 13 W R 2 The rule of estoppel by deed or by writing as now in force is this that, if a distinct statement of a particular fact is made in a deed and a contract is made with reference to that statement then the party who makes that statement cannot deny the truth of it Thakur Abdul v Mirjan Wahid Ali, 6 O C 355

S.

Estoppel in pais An estoppel in pais is that which, though not existing as matter of record or under the solemnity of a deed, may nevertheless under the circumstances, conclude equally with the higher species of averment It may exist in writing not being under seal in oral statement, or even in conduct its were but few, and these existed its ownership It was said by W 285 The acts of parties by way of estoppel are but few, and are pointed out by Lord Coke Co Litt 352 (a) They are all acts which anciently really were and in contemplation of law have always continued to be acts of notoriety not less formal and solemn than the execution of a deed such as livery, entry acceptance of an estate and doctrine that the maxim—(on applied under circumstances of great variety)—has grown up that a tenant or those claiming under him, cannot dispute the title of the landlord under whom they came into possession This has been applied to the case where the letting was by an agent and the landlord unnamed, and the principle would extend to that of any party coming in under the permission of the owner as in the instance of a lodger a servant or any other licensee Indeed so far has the doctrine been carried in practice, that where the object is t the only course to be pursi ejectment Goodere Ev 547 tance of a bailment Standa Bing 339 Biddle v Bond 6 B) 1 Q B

1 Deg 1 & J 33

Extension of the doctrine in modern times In modern times and in more complicated relationships of society which have been growing up the doctrine of estoppel has been considerably extended in application beyond its more ancient limit, and especially in reference to the mercantile and more general transactions of mankind It has been rested too less upon technical grounds than upon the broad basis of good faith and personal honesty —and the principle is to hold men to those representations whether written or unwritten —whether by word of mouth or of conduct—whether intentional or unintentional —upon the faith of which others have been induced to act to the change of any previous position In a case which has always been regarded as a leading one on this subject, that of Pickard v Sears 6 A & E 469 the law is thus laid down by Lord Denman C J "But the rule of law is clear that, where one by his words or conduct, wilfully causes another to believe the existence of a certain state of things, and induces him to act on that belief, so as to alter his own previous position, the former is concluded from averring against the latter a different ' In a some what later case of Gregg e cited as an appendix to Pickard . Sears was in my mind at the time of the trial, and the principle of that case may be stated even more broadly than it is there laid down A party, who negligently or culpably stands by, and allows another to contract on th faith and un lerstad ng of a fact which he can contradict cannot afterwards dispute the fact in an action against the person whom he has himself assisted in deceiving" The former case, it will be observed might possibly seem by the expression 'wilfully cause almost to imply a fraudulent representation only; and to limit the appl cat on of the doctrine to that state of things,—while the latter extends it to a case of mere omissive silence or passive acquiescence, and that not culpable merely in the more obnoxious sense of the term but even negligent, an l a good deal of discussion has arisen as to the precise limit of the rule It is now, however established that the word "wilfully' is to be understood not in the sense of intentionally, but practically deceptive Gool Ev 551

The discussion of the proposition as laid down by Lord Denman came before the Court in the case of Freeman v Cooke, 2 Ex R 654, where Lord Wensleydale in delivering the judgment, after adverting to the rule as laid down by Lord Denman, thus commented on it —' Whether that rule has been correctly acted upon by the jury in all the reported cases in which it has been appl e! is not now ... as above laid down in ... By the term ' ... the party represents that to be true which he knows to be untrue at least, that he means his representation to be acted upon, and that it is acted upon accordingly and if, whatever a man's real intention may be, he so conducts himself that a ... be true, and believe that it was it as true the party making from contesting its truth and a duty cast upon a person ruth may often have the same effect As for instance, a retiring partner omitting to inform his customers of the fact in the usual mode, that continuing partners were no longer authori to act as his agents is bound by all contracts made by them with third persons on the faith of their being so authorised" Lord Wensleydale's statement of the law was reviewed by Lord Campbell C J in Howard v Hudson 2 El & Bl 1 where he said Now I accede to the rule laid down in Pickard v Sears, and in Freeman v Cooke If a party wilfully makes a representation to another meaning it to be acted upon and it is so acted upon, that gives rise to what is called an estoppel It is not quite properly so called but it operates as a bar to receiving evidence contrary to that representation as between those parties Like the ancient estoppel this conclusion shuts out the truth, and is odious, and must be strictly made out The party setting up such a bar to the reception of the truth must ... act on the faith of the rep ... is laying down I ... at he adopts the makes ... exposition of the law given in the later case of Freeman v Cooke which in effect expounds the word wilful to mean simply intentional —and this probably accordingly, was what Lord ... In the same case of Howard v Hurdson too Mr ... himself to this particular expression, observe ... used in the judg ment in Pickard v Sears, has ... the judgment in Freeman v Cooke As ... all the important commercial cases, in w ... in any bad sense of the word ... raud or ... a which ... criterion ... art of law ... L C thus ... y a prin ... ...lation observed ... well known ... c ple equally of Law and ... to another, and that other acts upon that false representation, the person who has made it shall not afterwards be allowed to set up that what he said was false, and to assert the real truth in place of falsehood which has so misled the other This is a principle of universal application, and has been particularly applied to cases where representations have been made so as to state the property of persons about to contract marriage, and where, upon the faith of such representations, marriage has been contracted There, the person who has made the false representation has, in a great many cases, been held bound to make his representation good" And in a later part of his judgment, he thus adds —'These principles are plainly and perfectly intelligible, and quite consistent with good sense, and I opinion or decision to which I am a slightest degree, question their prop has been carried, and may be carried necessary that the party making the representation should know that it was false, no fraud need have been intended at the time But if the party has unwillingly misled another, you must add that he has misled another under hat the person

It will not do hen that some come to him to make it good The whole doctrine was very much considered at law, for it is a of the Rolls An appeal was then preferred before the Lords Justices, and finally it came before the House of Lords But up to this point,—(the doctrine as laid down by Lord Cranworth)—both in the lower appellate Court, and on the final appeal in the House of Lords, there was no difference of opinion among the Judges Lord Cranworth, however, who on the original appeal to the

she made that statement, she inal appeal before the Lords

Justices, only terminated in ation accordingly of this ds, on its second and final to be Chancellor, found though he had at the same Chancellor, these being the three Lords by whom the appeal was heard, Lord St Leonards, was in the minority, and the ultimate decision was accordingly in conformity with the anworth and Brougham Had Lords Cran- ant to speak of that which a party held out his mind,
the t rms
; and were doubt the

5 alter his own ... former ... concluded from averring against the latter a ... time In a some what later case ... may be cited as an appendix to ... ard v Sears was in my mind at the time of the trial and the principle of that case may be stated even more broadly than it is there laid down A party who negligently or culpably ... ntract on the faith and understanding of a fac ... terwards dispute the fact in an action against th ... assisted in deceiving' The former case, it will be observed might possibly seem by the expression wilfully cause almost to imply a fraudulent representation only, and to limit the application of the doctrine to that state of things,—while the latter extends it to a case of mere omissive silence or passive acquiescence, and that not culpable merely in the more obnoxious sense of the term but even negligent, and a good deal ... of the rule It is now, however be understood not in the sense of ... d Ex 551 laid down by Lord Denman ... Cooke, 2 Ex R 654, where Lord ... adverting to the rule as laid down ... hether that rule has been correctly ... in which it has been applied is not now the question but the proposition contained in the rule itself as above laid down in the case of Pickard v Sears must be considered as established By the term wilfully' however, in that rule we must understand if not that the party represents that to be true which he knows to be untrue at least that he ... accordingly ... hat a ... t was ... thing ... and the representation would ... erson conduct, by negligence or omission, where there is a duty cast upon ... by usage of trade or otherwise to disclose the truth may often have the same eff ... As for instance a retiring partner omitting to inform his customers of ... longer author... ed ... ith third person ... ment of the ...

law was reviewed by Lord ... where he said Now I ... Freeman v Cooke If a party wilfully makes a representation ... it to be acted upon and it is so acted upon, that gives rise to what is called an estoppel It is not quite properly so called but it operates as a bar to receiving evidence contrary to that representation as between those parties Like the ancient estoppel ... and must be strictly made out ... f the truth must show, both ... the faith of the representation and that he did so act

Though Lord Campbell in enunciating the proposition he was laying down makes use of the expression wilfully, it will be noticed that he adopts the exposition of the law given in the later case of Freeman v Cooke which in effect expounds the word wilful to mean simply intentional —and this probably accordingly, was ... In the same case of Howard v Hurd ... himself to its particular expres... used in the judgment in Pickard ... the judgment in Freeman v Cooke As the rule is there explained, it takes in all the important commercial cases in which a representation is made, not wilfully in any bad sense of the word not maloanimo or with the intent to defraud or deceive but so far ... on which ...

observed Well kn... ciple equally of Law as an estoppel it must be a representation of an existing fact and of not mere intention or future promises Also, estoppel, does not confer any title but is merely a rule of evidence which prevents one party from denying the existence of a fact which he represented as existing and upon which representation another person had been induced to act to his detriment Hindustan Co operative Society v Secretary of State, 56 C 989 A mere representation of an intention cannot amount to an estoppel An estoppel must be a representation of an existing fact If binding at all a representation de futuro must amount to a promise Dhundo v Keshab, 7 Bom L R 179

Estoppel in equity The modern or equitable estoppel is founded upon representations and arises out of Casperz, Estoppel p 18 The gener thus laid down "No body ougl asserting a just demand unless by the truth or asserting the demand would work some wrong to some other person whc mething, by rea Collie L R 8 C sentation, 'I tak pon this basis tha it seems to me that it is of the very essence of justice that between those two parties their rights state of facts which the two partie Per Lord Blackburn in Burkin shaw Casperz Estoppel p 19 It is a principle of natural equity which must be universally applicable that where one man allows another to hold himself out as the owner of an estate, and a third persor
the re permi purch amour
which led to 376 67 L vide A 550, Pacifi

The section whether exhaustive of all kinds of estoppels In Ganges Manufacturing Co v Sourajmull, 5 C 669 at p 678 Garth C J said 'It has been further contended by the appellants that ss 115 to 117 contained in Chapter VIII of the Evidence Act lay are now intended to be in force in British I the Act as rules of Evidence; and that t are repealed, except those which the Act, contains But if this argument were well founded the consequences would indeed be serious The Courts here would then be debarred from entertaining any questions in the nature of estoppel which did not come within the scope of ss 115 to 117, however important these questions r fallacy of the argument of evidence The enactm evidence It is founded u Sears, 6 Ad & E 469 and other cases, that where a man has made a representation to another of a particular fact or state of circumstances, and has thereby wilfully induced that other to act upon that representation and to alter his own previous position, he is estopped as against that person from proving that the ase the rule of estoppel admissible to disprove are matters of infinite variety, and are which are dealt with in Chapter VII of th estopped, not only from giving particula relying upon any particular arguments or contention which the rules of equity and good conscience prevent his using as against his opponent A large number of cases of this kind will be found collected in the notes to Doe v Oliver ... p 775; and whatever the true meaning of section 9 of ... prevent a person from giving ... t debar the plaintiffs in this ... ontention as against the ... rresuai Chandra 33 C 915 ... at p 921 = 10 C ... ice Woodroffe said "The ... is admittedly not a case of estoppel by misrepresentation which is dealt with by section 115 of the Evidence ... at all it is an estoppel by agreement Sections 116 ... well known cases of this kind of estoppel viz ... aler and acceptor of a Bill of Exchange ... of the e though it has been argued in part on the analogy of the tenant's ... It has however been correctly submitted that these sections are not exhaustive of the doctrine of estoppel by agreement" See also Bhagganta Beuah v Himmat Bidyalar 20 C W N 1335 (1340); Gotta v Sitaram, 23 M L J 33., In re Union Indian Sugar Mills Co Ltd 1930 A L J 305 = A I R 1930 All 330, but see Asimun-nessa v Harendra Lal 35 C 904 = 12 C W N 721 = 8 C L J 31, where none of the previous cases were considered This equity differs essentially from ... in s 115 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, which is not a ... vidence that was formulated and applied in Courts ... kes its origin from the jurisdiction assumed by ... ie in the case of, or to prevent fraud" Municipal ... etary of State for India, 29 B 580 = 7 Bom L ... of the law of estoppel, by which the Courts in India are to be governed are found in s 115 of the Act there is no need to fall back upon the analogies of the Mahomedan Law in a case of presumption arising between the Hindus Ajudhia Chaudhuri v Chhatarpal 4 A L J 10 = A W N 1907, 88

Requisites of section 115 To constitute an estoppel under this section t ... are necessary, namely,— ... of material facts, (2) The ... the facts (3) The party ... uth of the matter, (4) It must have been made ... r party should act upon it (5) The other party must have been induced to act upon it (Bynum v Preston 69 Texas, 287 = 5 Am St Rep 49) (6) Or acts conduct or declarations of a person, by which he designedly induces another to alter his position injuriously to himself but it must be executed and not merely executory Camp Rul Cas Vol XI, 104

Declaration, act or omission This section deals with a case of estoppel by misrepresentation Rup Chand v Sarvasuor, 33 C 915 (921) Under this section such misrepresentation may be made by declaration act or omission Jetha bhai v Natha bhai 28 B 399 (407) "It is a very old head of equity" said Lord Eldon in Evans v Bicknell 6 Ves 183 "that if a representation is made to ... a matter of interest upon the faith of that ... if he knows it to ... terms and is fr... it may be implied ... sufficient to show ... eceived ... Cal ... v Coke 8 L J ... Coke 8 L J ... ynes Pentoon Co ... 296 Where there is no representation by a person ... invoked against him Sirajuddin v Johur, 134 Ind Cas 898 = 53 C L J 222 In order to establish estoppel upon representation, declaration must have been made and believed and truth must have been inaccessable Mohammad v Mohammad A I R 1930 All 847, Johnstone v Gopal, A I R 1931 Lah 418, ibid v Mahboob, 6 Luck 382 The law on the subject is thus stated by Brett J in

S.

Carr v. London & North Western Railway Co., L. R. 10 C. P. 317 = 44 L. J. C. P. 109 —

"If a man by his words or conduct wilfully endeavours to cause another to believe in a certain state of things which the first knows to be false and if the second believes in such a state of things and acts upon his belief, he who knowingly made the false statement is estopped from averring afterwards that such a state of things did not in fact exist

2 If a man either in express terms or by conduct makes a representation to another of the existence of a certain state of facts which he intends to be acted upon in a certain way and it be acted upon in that way in the belief of the existence of such a state of facts, to the damage of him who so believes and acts the first is estopped from denying the existence of such a state of facts

"3 If a man whatever his real meaning may be, so conducts himself that a reasonable man would take his conduct to mean a certain representation of facts and that it was a true representation and that the latter was intended to act on it in a particular way and he with such a belief does act in that way to his damage, the first is estopped from denying that the facts are as represented

"4 If in the transaction itself which is in dispute one has led another into the belief of a certain state of facts by conduct of culpable negligence calculated to have that result, and such culpable negligence has been the proximate cause of leading and has led the other to act by mistake upon such belief to his prejudice, the second cannot be heard afterwards as against the first to show that the state of facts referred to did not exist" This case was approved of in the much later case of Seton Laing & Co v Lafone, L. R. 19 Q. B. D. 68, by a unanimous judgment of Lord Esher and Lords Justices Fry and Lopes In that case Lord Esher said "An estoppel does not in itself give a cause of action; it prevents a person from denying a certain state of facts One ground of estoppel is where a man makes a fraudulent misrepresentation and another man acts upon it to his detriment Another may be where a man makes a false

In Carr v

instances of es innocent misre negligence It a man's condu

Fr. 408 Estop

inference from the facts found To create an estoppel it is not sufficient to d as a fact defendant

ed another

Narsingdas

Intentionally ... 171 Lord Denman represents that to be true which he knows to be untrue, at least that he means his representation to be acted upon, and that it is acted upon accordingly and if whatever a man's real meaning may be, he so conducts himself that a reasonable man could take the representation to be true, and believe that it was meant that he should act upon it and did act upon it as true, the party making the representation would be equally precluded from contesting its truth, and conduct by negligence or omission, when there is a duty cast upon a person by usage of trade or otherwise to disclose the truth, may often have the same effect—as for instance, a retiring partner omitting to inform the customers of the firm in the usual mode ere no longer authorised to act as his agents is bou em with third persons on the faith of their bein . Hudson, 2 El & Bl 1, Crompton J said 'The word 'wilfully' which is used in the judgment of Pickard v Sears has been well commented upon in the judgment in Freeman v Cooke As the rule there explained it takes in all the important commercial cases, in which a representation is made, not wilfully in any bad sense of the word, not maloanimo or with intent to defraud or deceive but so far wilfully, that the party making the representation on wh ch the othe l at way That is the true criterion' See ' 391, Coventry v Great Eastern Railway o v Lafone, L R 19 Q B, D 68, Cornish v Abington, 4 H & N 549 So there is no ground for the suggestion that the person making the representation which induces another to act must be influenced by a fraudulent intention Sarat Chunder v Go on the cases of Ganga 7 M 3 Lord majority of the Judges that if the element of fraud be wanting there place that case also) the Court seems to have taken the view that in order to estoppel, the representation founded on must have been made with an intent on to deceive, and an opinion was indicated that the law of estoppel under the Indian Evidence Act in some respects differed from the law of England It was there said (7 Mad 8) 'The term intentionally was, no doubt, adopted advisedly By the substitution of it for the term 'wilfully' in the rule stated in Pickard v Sears 6 A & E 469 and explained in Freeman v Cooke, 2 Exch 654 and Cornish v Abington 4 exclude cases from the rule in India to in which it has been stated by the nable to agree in this view On the contrary, as the rule had been modified in England by there substituting the word 'intentionally' in the rule established for the word 'wilfully' which had been previously used it seems to their Lordships that the term intentionally was used in the Evidence Act for the purpose of declaring the law in Ir person who by his declaratic true and to act upon ithin the meaning of on to be true, and bel ew effect was given r cases 'Estoppels may arise on various grounds,' says Brett M R in Lafone L R 19 Q B D 68, 'all of which the judgment in Carr v North Western Railway Co, L R 10 C P 307, endeavours to state, and each of the grounds on which an estoppel may arise, there stated, is intended to be independent and exclusive of the others An estoppel does not in itself give a cause of action it prevents a person from denying a certain state of facts One ground of estoppel is when a man makes a fraudulent representation, and another man acts upon it to his detriment Another may be where a man makes a false statement negligently, though without fraud, and another man acts upon it. And there may be circumstances under which, where a misrepresentation is made without fraud and without negligence, there may be an estoppel." While it is not in all cases necessary to show actual knowledge of the facts on the part of the one against whom the estoppel is claimed, it should at least be shown that the declarations were made under such circumstances that he ought to have had such knowledge or that they were made negligently and recklessly Evans v

S.

Phear's, 13 Com B 777 He cannot urge, as an excuse, that he had forgotten them When a person through misapprehension, ignorance or inadvertence, does acts or makes declarations which mislead another to his injury but when at the same time there is no wilful deception or culpable negligence and no intention that the representation should be acted upon as true by the other party and when nothing accompanies it that is equivalent to a promise that the representation is true the person making the declarations or doing the acts is not estopped from proving the truth against the party thus misled It follows that there is no estoppel when the declarations are made in good faith and in ignorance of the real facts in other words when made innocently and by mistake Jones 277, ... 26 P L R 1903 It is not essential that the intention of the p ... has induced another to act or abstain ... or that he should not have been under ... Dass v Durga Das ... 4 C L J 421 Under this section not merely may there be active inducement on the part of the declarant of a belief in the mind of another person but it is enough if declaration is such by which the declarant in the ordinary course permits some body ... declaration and to act on that belief ... N 573 = A I R 1929 Cal 819 It is not n... present received that there should be any ... connection with the misrepresentation which is the subject of estoppel Balbir v. Jugal, 3 Pat L J 451 = 46 Ind Cas 473

Who can take advantage of the representation Only the person to whom the representation was made or for whom it was designed can avail himself of it A person who receives statements at second hand, not intended for him, clearly has no right to act upon them Indeed it is equally clear that a mere by-stander who has overheard a statement made to and for another has no better right to act upon it than if it had been communicated without authority to him; and so it has been decided If however, the declaration was intended to be ... it seems that one who did not hear it, but to whom it was ... time to be allowed for acting ... of the laws more than that ... act not his own or that of his ... Only such person can take advantage of a representation for whom it was meant Jogesh Chandra v Enlaz Ali, A I R 1927 Cal 34 = 97 Ind Cas 625 Estoppel applies not only in favour of the person induced to change his position but also in favour of a transferee of such a person Bhagu Lal v Sheo Gobind, 7 L R 213 (Rev) ... = 15 Ind Cas 770 = 22 C W N 891 ... to the decree holder it is likewise ... Swaminatha Vallala v Durmalinga, ... representations, induce others to

How a representation may be made ... oral or written G I P Ry v Hammand ... presentation a party cannot be estopped D... 134 = 1922 P C 319 = 16 L W 692 A representation to form the basis of an estoppel may be made by statement or by conduct; and conduct includes negligence Halsbury Vol 13 p 377; Freeman v Cooke, 2 Ex Ch 654

... an ... 32) ... ct ... of ... to representation is as to some state of facts alleged to be at the time actually in existence' If the representation ... can be binding ... 299 (407) ... orge White ... 30), where His lordship said If it is anything it is a ... Alderson B ... and ... fect ... 161, ... make as, for instance, where a person leads another to believe that ... him his heir and then leaves his property away from him Though such ... breach of the ... ands, it ... entation ... him elf ... it See ... v First ... Ed 637; National Bank of New Orleans, ... 159; Sailesh v Bechai, 40 C L J. 67; In ... Ind Fairfield S B Co v Gardnre, 104 ... bour Cas 385, Bajrang v Bhagwan, 11 O ... The Commissioner, 16 W R 34; Chadwick v. Manning, (1896) A C ... doctrine of estoppel by representation is applicable to some state of facts alleged ... binding ... as 164; ... principle ... on where ... denying ... sioner 16 ... 473, ... that ... ations ... not ... acts" ... oppel

A representation as to a future cou... A C 117= ... arc ... Qr 149= ... 59 Ind Cas 385

Estoppel, whether should be pleaded An estoppel in pais need not be pleaded in order to make it obligatory Cira Rau v Revana Rau, 2 M H C R ... a person ... contract ... form of ... treat it as ... anderson ... 00) A C ... with suffi... 273=2 P ... precise ... er and must ... Sarup v Maja ... here plea of ... ailed of later, ... Alamelu 119 ... is a mixed ... R 630 No ... son has built ... en of estoppel ... Dwarka v ... Cas 916=1925 ... Purgan v

Nag 916 A question of estoppel can only be raised by pleading ... Dhanpat, 52 Ind Cas 739, Shaikh Abdul Rahim v Mt Barira, 6 Pat L J 273=

2 Pat L T 856=61 Ind Cas 867; Ram Sarup v Moga Shankar, 46 P. R. S. 1918=25 P L R 1918=13 P W R 1919=43 Ind Cas 656; Prisanna v Bibi, 47 Ind Cas 985; Chandi v Sarda, 22 C W N 170 Defence of estoppel can always be taken if it is warranted by the facts proved or admitted even if these facts have not been specifically pleaded Co-operative Loan v Shanmugam, A I R 19) Rang 25

Onus of proof To entitle a plaintiff to recover from a defendant, on the ground of estoppel, a loss occasioned through culpable neglect on the part of the defendant the plaintiff must prove that the negligence complained of occurred in the particular transaction in which his loss arose, and also that such negligence was the proximate direct or real cause of the loss Longman v Bath Electric Tramways 74 L J Ch 474=(1905) 1 Ch 646 A person who relies on estoppel by negligence must show that he was led into the belief on which he acted to his detriment A solicitor was ordered by his client to investigate the title to and prepare a conveyance of property adjoining his (the solicitor's) property In the conveyance a small portion of the solicitor's property was confused, but the client did not believe that he was buying the small portion in question The client subsequently brought an action claiming the land Held, that the solicitor was not estopped from setting up the truth Bell v Marsh, 72 L J Ch 360=(1903) 1 Ch 528=88 L T 605=51 W R 325 The estoppel must be strictly interpreted and any point in doubt must be decided against the estoppel Nihal Singh v Narain Singh 6 Lah L J 45=80 Ind Cas 625=1924 Lah 469 The onus of establishing facts giving rise to estoppel is upon the person who pleads it Mitra Sen v Janki 16 A 728, Ahmed v Safizan, 97 Ind Cas 897, Birendra v Baikuntha, 16 Ind Cas 471; see also Sheo Tahal v Bansi Shukul, 1931 A L J 653=A I R 1931 All 689

When truth of the matter known to both the parties no estoppel arises Where the party affected has received timely notice that the representation is not true, he cannot enforce the estoppel Dunston v Paterson, 2 C. B N. S 495, Sandys v Hodgson, 10 Ad & El. 472 So the party claiming the estoppel must not himself have been negligent "Where the condition of the title is known to both parties, or both have the [illegible] there can be no estoppel" Brant v Virgi[illegible] Knouff v Thompson 16 Penn State 361 [illegible] to learn the truth Morgan v Farrel, [illegible] Vol XI p 103 This section does not apply to a case where the statement relied upon is made to a person, who knows the real facts, and is not misled by the untrue statement. There can be no estoppel where the truth of the matter is known to both parties A false representation, made to person who knows is to be false, is not such a fraud as to take away the privilege of infancy Mohiree Bibee v Dharmodas, 30 C 539 P. C =30 I A 114=7 C W. N. 411=5 Bom L R 421 Estoppel by conduct does not arise where the party misled had [illegible] facts Maung Si v Ma Kyol, L [illegible] when the truth of the matter ap[illegible] v Sorobar Singh, 27 C, 407 P[illegible] 5 When both parties are eq[illegible] of [illegible]
A [illegible]
A [illegible]
k [illegible]

property to D who was aware of the title of the parties Sarodi v Gosla 36 C L J 78 Where the position the admission of the parties which did nothing not operate as an estoppel in the present suit Mehra v Dew Ditta 2 Lah 88 = 3 Lah L J 223 = 62 Ind Cas 665 There cannot be a case of estoppel where the person pleading the estoppel was put on notice and could by reasonable ad v Ananda where the state is not misled by the untrue statement Jagarnath v Jaikishen Prosad, 1 Pat L J 16 = 31 Ind Cas 375 Estoppel does not arise where both parties have equal means of knowledge both of the facts and of the law Tek Chand v Gapal Dei, 13 Ind Cas 482 = 46 P R 1912, see also Prasanna Kumar v Sidanto Raut 16 C L J 202 — 17 C W N 137 There can be no estoppel where the whole of the record, deed or document in which the statement relied on is contained, shows the truth Menanji v Secretary of State, 14 Bom L R 651.

Estoppel by representation — change of position brought about by it A by word or conduct induces B to believe that a certain state of things exists and B in that belief acts in a way in which he would not have acted unless he so believed and is thereby prejudiced, then A cannot in any subsequent proceeding between himself and B or any one claiming under B be heard to deny that that state of things existed But A will not be estopped from averring the truth in any other proceeding The estoppel only arises in favour of some person whom A has induced by word or conduct to do or abstain from doing some particular thing Powell Ev 9th Ed 468 Where one by his words or conduct wilfully causes another to believe the existence of a certain state of things, and induces him to act on that ... ous position, the former is concluded from aver... ent state of things as existing at the same tim... 469 So it is clear that if a person so conduc... bly draws a certain inference and acts thereon the person so conducting ... self cannot gainsay such inference Cornish v Abbington, 4 H & N 549 Carr v L & N W Railway Co, L R 10 C P 307, In re Blakeley Ordinance Co, (1867) L R 3 Ch 154, Hollins v Fowler, L R 7 H L 757, Newton v Liddiard 12 Q B 925, In re Collie 8 Ch D 817, Horsfall v Halifax and Huddersfield Union Banking Co, 52 L J Ch 599, Couldrey v Bartrum 19 Ch D 394 The other party must have acted upon the act or conduct Daniels v Ev Ins Co 48 Connecticut, 105, Earl v Stevens, 57 Vermont 474 Before an estoppel can take place it would be necessary for the party relying on the same to establish that he had been led to do something detrimental to his own interest owing to the action of the other person Nisar Ali v Muhammad Ali 119 Ind Cas 337 = A I R 1929 Oudh 494 = 6 O W N 519 What this section mainly regards is the position of the person who has been induced to act, and the principle on which the law rests is that it would be most inequitable and unjust to him that if another by a representation made or by conduct ... not otherwise ... l to deny ... of the ... without ... ortunate for him, but it would be unjust even though he acted under error, to throw the consequences on the person who believed his statement and acted on it as it was intended that he should do ... whether an estoppel has been occasioned ...

... v Shafi ... A I R 1931 ... R 390 = A I R 1931 ... been created, the main ... person, to whom it has ... Das, 4 C L J 373 ... act on the faith of a fact ... ds question such fact in an action against the person whom he has assisted in deceiving An estoppel of this kind is not created by a wilful, negligent and culpable misrepresentation, unless the person so deceived does act in accordance with the misrepresentation Inders n v Tr le, 70 P R 18… The meaning of this section is that no declaration act or omission will amount to an estoppel unless it has caused the person whom it concerns to alter his position and to do this he must both believe the facts stated or suggested by it and act upon such belief Durga v Jhinmm, 7 A 511 = A W N 1885 1… see also Sino v Lalla Lam Lal 7 C L R 481, Jhinmn v Durga 7 A 878 (F B) = A W N 1885 …

S.

the statement not having been made to the person who seeks to render the other liable, and not having come to his knowledge as a matter of notoriety, and it not being shown that he has acted on the faith of such statement. Plimmer v Thompson 31 L J Ex 207 It is a settled principle of the rule of estoppel that in order that a particular declaration act or omission of a certain person may constitute estoppel against him the … must show that he in accepting the truth o… the truth thereof has acted upon such … detriment Ahmed v Stafi an 97 Ind …

Person making a representation cannot subsequently deny what he represented when the person to whom it was made acted upon it Bengal Nagpur Railway v Co-Operative Hindustan Bank, Ltd 53 C 622 = 97 Ind Cas 606 = A I R 1926 Cal 1029 Where the plaintiffs made statements in a suit inconsistent with those made by their father in a previous suit against the same defendants but the plaintiffs did not claim the property in suit through their father and there had been no change in the position of the defendants by reason of the prior inconsistent statement, the plaintiffs were not estopped Nripendra Nath v Basanta Kumar, 29 C W N 861 = 89 Ind Cas 207 = A I R 1925 Cal 1195 A tenant desiring to erect pucca structures on the leased land asked the permission of the landlord whose agent in reply wrote to say that the lease was a permanent lease and gave the tenant right to erect buildings, but it did not entitle him to hold at fixed rate and that the rent was liable to enhancement after proper legal notice and that pending consideration of a proposal to fix the rent permanently, the tenant might commence the house if he liked. Held that the statement of the latter was a statement of fact and not an expression of opinion, and the house having been erected, the landlord was … tion A H Forbes v … L J 513 (P C) In … el prevents the plaintiff … e, the plaintiff, induced … y had a fixity of tenure, … them It gives effect to the representation that induced them to act as they did In the case of Ramsden v Dyson, L R 1 H L 129, the principle which governs this class of cases is stated by Lords Kingsdown in the following terms —'The rule of law applicable to the case appears to me to be this If a man, under a verbal agreement with a landlord for a certain interest in land or what amounts to the same thing, under an expectation, created or encouraged by the landlord, that he shall have a certain interest, takes possession of such land, with the consent of the landlord and upon the faith of such promise or expectation, with the …

equitable es… quoted in … case, and … concurrence …

detriment his previous position Bhagwan Singh v ... (Rev), Gusain v Ram Rakha, 50 Ind Cas 128, Abdulla v. Fateh 62 Ind Cas 809

Before advantage can be taken of the doctrine of estoppel, the presentation ... the action of the party seeking to estop ... as cause and effect There must be ... mission on the part of the person sought ... h a declaration, act or omission the person seeking to estop was led to believe a thing to be true and, thirdly, that by such act or omission the party seeking to estop was not only led to believe a thing to be true which in fact was untrue but to act upon such belief to his prejudice Ram Boran v Ram Nihora, 57 Ind Cas 263, see also Girijabai v Sadasiv, 22 Bom L R 974=58 Ind Cas 394; Kannulal v Gaul Saha, 5 P L J 521=1 P. L T 546=57 Ind Cas 353; Rajib Hussain v Zing Ray, 54 Ind Cas 962; Harlal v Basanta Singh, 75 P. W R 1918

Where by his admission of a compromise before the Revenue Court, the plaintiff induced the defendant to withdraw his suit in that Court, he is estopped from bringing another suit in a Civil Court Gulab v Badhaua, 45 Ind Cas 331 Before applying the rule of estoppel it must be shown that a previous inconsistent statement in some way affected the result of the litigation in which it was made But if the defendants were never proper parties to the previous litigation they cannot in any way be estopped from pleading something inconsistent with their former statement Raghunath v Sheolal, 13 N L R 69=39 Ind Cas 849 If a man under a verbal agreement with a landlord for a certain interest in law, or what amounts to the same thing, under an expectation created and encouraged by the landlord that he shall have a certain interest, takes possession of such land with the consent of the landlord, and upon the faith of such promise or expectation with the knowledge of the landlord and ... Court of equity will ... pectation The crown ... fers essentially from ... Act, 1872, which is not ... lated and applied in ... jurisdiction assumed ... it, fraud. There is no ... h a person seeks to have in land was not originally moulded in a form recognised by law; the ... a Court of Equity ... v Secretary of State, ... person after he has ... h if made earlier, and ... 52 L J Ch 599, ... Morrison v Universal Marine Insurance Co, L R 8 Exch 197, Bell v Marsh, (1903) 1 Ch 528 Halsbury Vol XIII p 384 The mere payment of money under a mistake of fact induced by the representation in circumstances when there is not the slightest difficulty in getting it back is not such damage or prejudice as will ... Western Rail Co, 10 C P ...

... stands by while ... y and he does not ... the owner of the ... afterwards for the ... Munj ... ontrary ... asserted a certain ... on the assumption of fresh fact against persons who were parties in the previous suit. Lloyd

S.

v Sheo Chand, 105 Ind Cas 481 A party cannot approbate and reprobate with knowledge of the facts, and if the husband or the wife once deliberately affirms the marriage he or she cannot subsequently object to the marriage. Therefore, where a previous petition for declaring the marriage a nullity has been dismissed by consent of parties a second petition is not competent H v H. 30 Bom L R, 523=110 Ind Cas 2 6=A I R 1928 Bom 27 Where the widow of a deceased co-parcener who died divided in status from the other co parceners allowed the other co parceners to sell to one of the family members including herself in order that the heavy debts due by the family may be discharged, thereby herself participating in the benefit that had accrued from the transaction, she c Munakshammal v I advantage of the de loose with justice and

Ind Cas 2-6=A I R 1928 Sind. 175 A Hindu co-parcener who takes property under the Will of another co parcener and acts up to the terms of the Will is estopped from subsequently contending that the Will is invalid Lakshmamma v Sreeramulu 101 Ind Cas C9=A I R 1927 Mad 1066 Where a testator having either no title or an imperfect title to land devises it by specific description to or upon trust for a person for life with remainder over, one who obtains, or accepts, or retains possession of property under the Will and who neither has, nor proposes to have, any title thereto except under the Will, is estopped as against any remainder man or other person claiming under the same Will from asserting that the testator was not entitled to such an estate in adverse to,

taken it,

by him to 12 It is a

that, where te, and a third person purchases it for value from the apparent owner, in the belief that Unless a person is found guilty of either an overt act or of an act of omission which is likely to induce the other side to believe that he is entitled to commit the particular act complained of there can be no question of estoppel A plea of estoppel in such case can only be maintained if the conduct of the person against whom the estoppel is alleged, is found to be fraudulent Ram Dit v Chhotak, 4 O W N 1019 Where the vendor by his conduct induced a belief in the vendee that he had a good title to the property he is estopped from going back on the same, even where he was not fully aware of his legal rights Vatu Doyal v Lalji Sahai, 25 A L J 878 Where certain lands belonging to a Talukdar were wrongly described as rent free lands in the village accounts but on a they were accounts

ped from the lands. Sur Singh v Secretary of State, 28 Bom L R 1213=A I R 1926 Bom 590 No actual verbal representation is necessary to give rise to estoppel It is quite enough that the conduct of the party leads another to act in the belief that he asserts no claim to the property Azizullah v Ghellam, 17 S. L R 63=80 Ind. Cas 991

Where pa

his claim was r neous cause in

Multesar, 21 A 316 = A W N 1899, 101 In order to avail himself of the doctrine of estoppel, the plaintiff should prove that the defendant, by representation which he knew to be unfounded intentionally misled the plaintiff into a position prejudicial to the interests which he would otherwise have possessed Pichurayyan v Subbayyan, 13 M 128 In order to prevent the owner of land who is charged with standing by and allowing another person, who believes he had a good title thereto, to enter on the land and spend money in improving it from recovering possession thereof, fraud and deceit on the part of the owner must be clearly proved, Langlois v Rattray, 3 C L R 1 In order to raise an equitable estoppel against the lessors, it is incumbent upon the lessee, to show that the conduct of the owners, whether consisting in abstinence from interfering or in active intervention is sufficient to justify the legal inference that they had by plain implication, contracted that the right of tenancy, under which the lessees originally obtained possession of the land should be changed into a perpetual right of occupation Beni Ram v Kundan Lal, 21 A 496 (P C) = 3 C W N 502 A plea of estoppel by general conduct raised by the plaintiff will fail if it is proved that a proper inquiry would have acquainted the plaintiff with facts Phundo v Bhisma, A W N 1883, 246 The plaintiff who upon misrepresentation by defendant, released a right to him, believing his statement in preference to getting information any where, which information he might have easily obtained, is relieved from fulfilling the terms of the release Mehi Ram v Denu Dayal, 75 P R 1869

The rule of estoppel ought not to be applied rigorously as against a purdah woman The same inferences should not be drawn from or same construction should not be placed upon, her silence and delay in bringing a suit as might be reasonable and proper in another case. Kaniz Fatima v Abbas Ali, A W N 1887 84 The Court ought to decline to redress a party asking for it who has countenanced the acts of which he complains Bhyro v Mussammat Lekhranee Koer, 16 W R 123 Where a representation is such that a reasonable person would act on the faith of it the person who has made the representation cannot get rid of the estoppel by saying that the person, to whom he made the representation would not have been deceived if he made proper enquiries Nandalal v Rukhman 13 C P L R 30

Parties who, by false representation, induce others to enter into contracts are estopped from afterwards falsifying their statements, and, if necessary may be compelled to make them good Radha Krishna v Shureefunnissa, W R 1864, 11

A judgment by consent raises an estoppel, just in the same way as a judgment after the Court has exercised a judicial discretion in the matter Laxmishankar v. Vishnuram, 1 Bom L R 534 = 24 B 77 An attesting witness to a Will cannot sue to have it quashed on any ground, as he is estopped from doing so by being an attestor of the Will Jumma v Imam, 138 P. R 1889 Though the person, who elects to take a legacy under a Will, may be estopped from setting up a title contrary to its provisions, still, if such person be in possession, he cannot be ousted except by one who can prove a better title to the property Probodh v Harish, 9 C W N 309 On a decree being passed on compromise, the judgment debtors will be estopped from objecting to the execution of the same Kashi Das v Ishan Chander, 31 C 914 (P C) = 9 C W N 49 The Civil Procedure Code allows of a decision by an umpire in certain events and hence, parties, who have submitted to the decision of an umpire without taking any objection cannot afterwards call that decision in question in a Court. Kupu v Venkataramyya, 4 M 311 A person can be precluded by his conduct from objecting to an irregularity in procedure which he himself invites Timmana v Putabhata 2 Bom L R 90 Where interest has been paid by a banker to a depositor at a certain rate per cent, a renewed deposit will also carry interest at the same rate, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary; and the banker will be estopped from questioning such rate Mukundi v Balakishen, 3 A 328 The owner may be, in respect of a trade-mark, as in respect of any other right, estopped by his conduct from denying the title of another person Lavergne v. Hooper, 8 M. 149 A purchased immovable property in the name of B, and allowed B to occupy and retain possession of the property B mortgaged the property to C for a valuable consideration Held that A and those claiming through him were estopped from asserting as against C, his or their title to the property and the mortgage was valid Kally Dass v

S.

hnd Chunder, Marsh 269; Puri M Jiee v Prim Koo aree, 3 W R 87; ...h v M Uren, 18 W R 126; Hollins v Linlee March 293 On a decree og passed on compromise, the judgment d'btors will be estopped from objecti to the execution of the same Kisha Das v John Chunder, 31 C 914 (P C) C W. N 49

If a gentleman entrusts to his own men of business a blank paper duly mped as a bond and signed and sealed by himself in order that the instrument y be duly drawn up, and money raised upon it for his benefit, and if the instrunt is afterwards drawn up and money obtained upon it from persons who have ... ond must in the absence ... up in accordance with ... Sugra Das, 5 C 39 ... by X and Y's admission ... property Chunhunun ... fusing a registered letter nt by post cannot afterwards plead ignorance of its contents Leofi ... v ...ree M hun, 16 W R 223 When a trustee mortgages trust property by serting it to be his own, he will be estopped afterwards from setting up the ust and claiming to recover it from a bonafide purchaser for value, without tice in execution of the decree obtained on the mortgage This however will t affect the right of the beneficiaries under the trust Gul ... v ... Felt, 6 A. A W N 1883 182 If the heir of a deceased Hindu stands by and allows stranger to enter into possession of the deceased's property, every person aiming under him will be bound by the decree in a suit of which he had notice stituted bonafide against the party in possession for the recovery of the debt ue by the deceased to the plaintiff Uma Sundari v Nityananda, 3 C L R 57 When once a widow asserted a proprietary right in certain property she ill not subsequently be permitted to enforce her claim for maintenance against uch property in the hands of a purchaser Golab v Ramthahal, 1 N. V. P 275

A person having right of pre emption may dispute or affirm the validity of he sale of the land to a third person If, by his conduct towards the vendee fter the sales, he makes the latter believe that he had elected to affirm the sale, e is estopped from attacking the sale or enforcing his right of pre emption ver the property Buca Lehna v Jigannath 138 P R 1888 In a pre-emption uit on the foreclosure of a mortgage the mortgagor did not appeal from the oreclosure decree but allowed execution to take place under it. Held that such conduct was sufficient to indicate that the mortgagor had acquiesced in the sale being made absolute Jowaher Mal v Kalandar 1.. P R 1882 A obtained a decree for pre emption against B on condition that the price should ... was paid A mortgaged ... not pay the price In a ... st his right of pre emption ... Held, that B having accepted the mortgage from A and made A believe by such conduct that he treated him as the proprietor of the land in question was estopped from pleading as he did Gulrang v Vasna 131 P R 1890

... entered into a mortg ... Held it does not lie ... in plaintiff's name ... has mortgaged ...

mortgages property as unencumbered when as a matter of fact, it is subject to a charge, cannot, when he subsequently becomes himself entitled to enforce such charge, set up such charge against the mortgagee Ridhey Lal v Mahesh Prasad 7 A 864

If a creditor, in execution of a money decree which he holds against his debtor, sells certain property as that of the latter, he will be estopped from afterwards setting up, as against the purchaser, a previous mortgage which had been created in his own favour of which he had given no notice to the purchaser at the time the property was sold and in ignorance of which the purchaser bid for the property and paid the full price Agorchand v Rakhma upon his mortgage by a mortgagee, and the decree for paying off the mortgagee, the mortgagor passes to the purchaser effect of may ort

of a
A mortgagee, who has the mortgaged property disclosing his mortgage lien, against the title of a bonafide ad v. Shib Sahai, 21 A 309= ecution of a money decree puts up property for sale without notice of his mortgage and thus allows an innocent he is estopped Ounkar Seth v
the time when mortgage deed possession was given to defendants in virtue of an unregistered mortgage deed and gave their consent to the mortgage, they could be equitably estopped from claiming possession of the same property under a registered instrument as against th Sindu Sudanji, 5 C P. L R 97 Where a of his decree, property under his mortga upon it, and misleads the bidder, an as unencumbered, he cannot subsequen mortgage rights Mc Connell v Mayer, vn by Lord Denman in the case of Pickard v. Sears (6 Ad. & El 40), that where a man by his words or conduct wilfully induces another to believe in a certain state of facts, so as as against the latter is embodied ander Roy 4 C

Where a mortgagee relinquished the debt due bond and the mortgage security in consideration of his getting some other land instead and the relinquishment was acted upon by a third person to his prejudice the as against such third as not made led also that ersuance of shna Redh stands by perty as if it y to which was unencumbered, held that by such conduct the prior date of his encumbrance would, had he acted otherwise, have entitled him. Rai Seeta Ram v Kishun Dass, 3 Agra 402 A man who has represented to an intending purchaser that he has not a security in property to be sold, and induced him under that belief to buy, cannot, as against that purchaser, force Munnoo Lall v Lalla Choonee of half of a certain piece of land only two-fifths of the said land the spectively to a brother and sister This t was endorsed by his sister endorsement amounted to an estoppel as against her, or any one claiming Blaquiere

n empowered his acquiefrom setting escence took induced him
P. R. 1893
to enter into the sale transaction Nihola v.
Where without objection, a defendant allowed a purchaser of the plaintiff's interest in the suit to substitute his name on the record (the original plaintiff having withdrawn from the suit), he was estopped from contending that the suit had abated Bir Chandra Roy v Bansi Dhar Roy, 3 B L R A. C 215 An auction purchaser not questioning the acts of his predecessor within 12 years will be estopped from objecting [illegible] Sibdyal v Gouree Roy 18 W [illegible] the judgment debtor, with the co[illegible] and asked for time for paym[illegible] contest the validity of the sale if [illegible] On his prayer being granted, he without paying the full decretal amount on the day fixed, took further time Held, that it would be contrary to reason and equity that he should turn round and repudiate the agreement, and that the agreement estopped him from contesting the legality of the sale Uttam Chandra v Khetra Nath, 29 C. 577

A purchaser of land, who lies by for five years allowing another person to occupy the land and afterwards to sell it, is estopped by his own conduct from afterwards claiming the land from a bonafide purchaser without notice. Mohesh Chandra v Issur Chander, 1 Ind Jur N S 266 A plaintiff suing to realise his security under a mortgage is estopped from recovering on the [illegible] [illegible]er to buy without notice of [illegible] brought the property to sale. [illegible] a person in execution of a [illegible] hypothecation to his partner, [illegible]aser, and the sale has taken place, obtains an assignment of the hypothecation deed and sues on it, he is estopped from denying that the sale took place free of encumbrances Kasturi v Venkatachalapathi, 15 M. 412 Where a decree holder, by mistake, put up to sa[illegible] he i[illegible] purc[illegible] purc[illegible] prop[illegible] agai[illegible] 265 [illegible] person who steps in during an auction sale, assumes the character of a principal [illegible]

[illegible]

laches in questioning the alienation, but are also found purchasing the land from the transferor to the exclusion of the other collaterals, or cultivating the lands under the purchasers, or exchanging it with them, they must be taken to have acquiesced in the alienation and estopped from suing to contest it Amir v Zebo, 42 P. R 1902.

The fact that [illegible] should have been sued against does not operate as an estoppel against him from contesting its validity in a subsequent suit Mohunt Das v Nil Komal, 4 C. W N 283

The maxim caveat emptor applies to execution sales In execution proceedings a judgment-debtor is not bound to come forward In the absence of any misleading on his part so as to estop him from asserting his title, mere silence on the part of the judgment debtor, or his omission to come forward, cannot operate as an estoppel Gurupada v Irapa, 14 B 558 A decree altered by agreement of parties with respect to the mode of payment and the int re t payable, cannot be executed as a decree And the acquiescence of the judgment debtor in ... tion of it Debi I ... ment debtor for ... toppel under section 115 of the Evidence Act so as to preclude him from maintaining that the execution of the decree is barred by lapse of time Mina Koonuari v Jaggat Setani 10 C 196=13 C L R 385=10 I A 119 P C A judgment creditor by putting up the rights and interest of his judgment debtor in a talook for sale in execution is not estopped from afterwards claiming a portion of that talook under a different title, e g under a mortgage Chunder Kant v P ... 17 W I ... the sale ... thereby ... at a higl ... anterior ... Hossain, 10 C L J 605=4 Ind Cas 739 The auction purchasers at ... the execution of a decree were not estopped from asserting, as against a p r ou claiming to be a mortgagee prior to the sale of the property purchased that in fact the property was their own independently of the auction sale Pandit Hanuman v Mufti Issadullah 7 N W P 145 There could be no question of estoppel by conduct be ... haser at auction, who derives his title from ... as regards the former Vasanji v ... rights as heir, though he cannot prove a Will, under which he claimed a larger share in a former litigation in which no question of inheritance was raised Moulvie Ahmedoolah v Gour Huree, 15 W R 251 When in a suit for redemption the assignee of a usufructuary mortgage put forward or consented to put forward the original mortgagor as the person entitled to redeem, he is not thereby estopped from afterwards giving for redemption in his own account, for the defendant could not be said to have been in any way induced to alter his position or to do any act in consequence of any conduct on the part of the plaintiff Mahammad v Mannu 11 A 386=A W N 1889 136 Where a plaintiff, who was the nearest heir, allowed other heirs to join him in a redemption suit and such heirs spent money and actively assisted in prosecuting the litigation the plaintiff could not, after recovering the property assert his superior title as the nearest heir, and that he was estopped by his conduct from asserting such superior title the principle being that where a person has conducted himself so as to mislead another he cannot gainsay the reasonable inference to be drawn from his conduct Bhagwant v Rajju 9 Ind Cas 415. Where a person brought on the record, at the instance of the decree holder, as the representative ... application ... ent-debtor ... in Dayal A W ... rother, ... self ... money should ... indebtedness of ... im claiming the ... brother of his ... had support ... his brother and had also claimed a share and it was then decided that the property was the sole property of the deceased and that neither he nor his brother had a right to a share therein Rajamannor v Venkata Krishnayya 25 M 351=12 M L J 183 Where a purchaser under a registered instrument purchased the property with full knowledge of the existence of an optionally registrable but unregistered encumbrance thereon the doctrine of equitable estoppel applied and the purchaser could not claim as against the said encumbrancer Miran v Ramasa, 6 C P L R 112 In a suit for pre-emption under s 9 of the Oudh Laws Act, the defendant, in order to establish a plea of estoppel has to prove that the property was offered to the plaintiff at a certain price and that he expressly consented to the purchase of the property by the defendant

S

ven lee and the Court should not be satisfied with anything short of this Some Judges have thought that such a plea should not be allowed at all in a case like this Bank of Upper India v Munshi Hoji Prasad 10 O C 257 Where tenants have paid, for a period extending over fourteen years an enhanced rate of rent an implied contract to pay at the same rate in future years may be inferred though they now and then expressed discontent without however resorting to the Revenue Courts for redress Their conduct in accepting pattas containing these terms even after protest may operate as estoppel in subsequent years Ranganatha v Rangappa Appa Jan 17 M 51 A grantee of lands as long as he holds a religious office in a temple is estopped from setting up a title inconsistent with that of the grantor and an alienee from such grantee is similarly estopped and the alienation itself is invalid as against the trustees of the temple Thayellagam v Venkatarama Krishnayan (1916) M W N 119=33 Ind Cas 858. When a grantor, by a recital is shown to have stated that he is seized of specific estate upon the assumption that such an estate was to pass an estate by estoppel is created between the parties and those claiming under them, in respect of any after acquired interest of the grantor, the newly acquired title being said to feed the estoppel is applicable to Hindu conveyances in cases before the Evidence Act Krishna Chandra v Fasil Lal 23 C L J 601=21 C W N 218=53 Ind Cas 568 It is not competent to a mortgagee to go behind a mortgage to dispute the right of the mortgagor to enforce redemption Jugi Ram v Sheoraj Singh 30 Ind Cas 231 In a suit by a creditor to recover money the debtor pleaded that the plaintiff was bound by the terms of a contract arrived at between the debtor and a third person for the purpose of paying off the plaintiff's debt There was no proof that the defendant was induced by the plaintiff to break his contract with the third person In the circumstances the defendant could not invoke the aid of the doctrine of equitable estoppel against the plaintiff and contend that he was bound by the contract entered

... h Commercial Bank Ltd ... ompromise is not estopped
... the instance of another
... v Prosanna Kumar 31

Ind Cas 858 Acceptance of rent by a landlord from the mortgagee on behalf ... invalidity of
... 764 On the
... of a share

... be allowed but without co ... that the ... leration of the 1st defendant giving up his
... ection 115 does not apply and there is
... jana (1915) M W N 237=28 Ind Cas

536 Where land stood in Revenue Registers, and the tax receipts appeared to be in the joint names of husband and wife the very fact that the wife was living on the property sought to have put the mortgagee on enquiry to ascertain what her real interest was So she was not estopped from showing that the land was her sole and separate property P L R M Mejappa v Ma Mejeil 8 Bur L T 124 Under Hindu Law a son has from birth an indefeasible right as a coparcener in the family property and mere unfriendliness on the part of his father cannot destroy that right unless and until he is regularly separated off and given his share of the family estate He is therefore competent to contest the alienation of ancestral property if opposed to the principles of Hindu Law But he loses his competency under s 115 of Act I of 1872 where he has condoned all that his father has done and he himself ...

5. ... he Court to grant him a declaratory decree ... Alam Shah v Nurjanah Shah, 63 P ... .8 Ind. Cas 804. An act may involve, and may create an estoppel So, if a man take an active part in carrying out a mortgage on behalf of another, as by signing the deed, his acts may amount to a declaration of the validity of the mortgage as against any claim but his own Mussammat Buro v Mir Muham ...

... debtors who were jointly liable under the decree in his favour ... under the decree Held that the person who omitted to raise the objection was estopped from denying that the judgment debtor was still the owner of the decree ... operative Town Bank v S V K Shunm ... 0 Rang 265 Persons opposing appeal ... in particular Court is estopped ...

... then accepted the payment of Rs 10 and the case was remanded to the ... The defendant having accepted the compensation money was equitably ...

1584 = A I R 1930 All 8 ... Sheikh Dhannu v Sheolal, ... Ram Samej 134 Ind Cas ... uadu, 131 Ind Cas 669 = ... A I R 1931 All 216, M ... v. Tirunarayana, A I R 1932 Mad 198; Umrao v. ... Lah 281

Mistake A mere mistake in a deed common to all parties or on account of which no o ... will not create an estopp ... Jaynes, L R. 6 Eq 12 ... either party Halsbur ... 1925 Bom 64; Syed ... Ind Cas 639 = ...

... whether this ... me of the ... se, 26 C ... view was ... Dharma ... "On the ... mortgage ... d No 133 ... to have the deed cancelled on the g[illegible] was an infant . . . . This co[illegible] as interpreted by Ganesh I[illegible] that having regard to that section proof of fraud on the part of the infant is not essential. The learned Judge in that case relies on the fact that in Sarat Chunder v Gopal Chunder, 20 C 296 and in Mills v Fox, 37 Ch. D 153, no [illegible]

[illegible]

the Evidence Act is spect, I am unable to which the learned Judges in that Court rely as substantiating their proposition when carefully examined appear to one not to warrant the conclusion arrived at This has been pointed out by Mr. Justice Jenkins, and concurring as I do in his criticism I need not refer to what he has said The case of Mills v Fox, 37 Ch D 153 [illegible] J said "Then it was [illegible] Evidence Act by his [illegible] infant may estop him[illegible] would be practically [illegible] contract [illegible] by his [illegible] ocation [illegible] isability [illegible] out of or [illegible] it and [illegible] Bartlett
v Wells, 1 B. & S 836 It follows therefore that when the present law declares that an infant shall not be liable upon a contract, or in respect of a fraud in connection with a contract he cannot be made liable upon the same contract by means of an estoppel under s 115 I, therefore, agree that there is no estoppel whatsoever in this case founded upon any representation or alleged representation on the part of the plaintiff" On appeal to the Privy Council, their Lordships said "But their Lordships do not think it necessary to deal with that question now They consider it clear that s 115 does not apply to a case like the present where the statement relied on is made to a person who knows the real facts and is not misled by the untrue statement There can be no estoppel where the truth of the matter is known to both parties" Mohori Bibee v Dharma Das, 30 C 539 (P C)=7 C W N 441 In Jagor Nath v Lalla Prosad, 31 A 21=5 A L J 674, Banerjee J said "I do not however, deem it necessary to express any opinion on the point, although it [illegible]

[illegible]

if it be to say that by deed s imposed on the capacity to contract So if a person sues an infant upon a contract such contract having been entered into on the faith of a representation by the infant that he was of full age the infant will not be estopped from pleading his minority in answer to a claim to fix him with personal liability for a money

... representation But though this section ... acting on well recognized ... ud" In the latest case of ... 'The question in this appeal ... estoppel against the minor ... d himself to them as a major when he with the ... leed in their favour It is argued on behalf of the appellant that the view of this Court differing from the other High C... a minor must now be held to be ... ons of their Lordships of the Privy Co... Jai Kishore, A I R 1928 P C 152= ... the plaintiffs respondents it is argued that the question was expressly reserved by their Lordships of the Privy Council as early as Mohori Bibee v Dharmodas Ghose, 30 C 539 (P C)=7 C W N 441 and the consistent decisions of this Court from Ganesh Lal v Bapu, 21 B 198, Dadasaheb Dasarathrao v Bai Nahani, 41 B 480=41 Ind Cas 180=19 Bom L R 561; Jasraj Bastimal v Sadashiv Mahadev, 46 B 137 cannot be held to be overruled by the observations in the recent Privy Council case, Sadiq Ali Khan v Jai Kishore, supra, particularly as similar observations of their Lordships of the Privy Council are to be found in Mahomed Syedol v Yeoh Ooi, 43 I A 256 (P C)=19 Bom L R 163 This last, however, was a case from the Strait Settlements and their Lordships observed 'A case of fraud by the appellant on the subject of his age was set up, but it cannot be doubted that the principle recently given effect to in the case of R Leslie Limited v Sheill would apply and such a case would fail In that case it was held by Lord Summer and other Judges that where a minor by fraudulently representing that he was of full age induced the plaintiffs to lend him money, such an action by the plaintiffs to recover the amount of the advance on the ground that he had obtained it by fraudulent misrepresentation must fail, even though fraud was proved against the minor On the present question, the other High Courts have differed from this Court Dhurma Das v. Brahmo Dutt, 25 C 616=2 C W N 33 on appeal 26 C 381, Khan Gul v Lakha Singh, A I R 1928 Lah 609, Vaikentarama v Authimoolam, 38 M 1071=23 Ind Cas 749, Jagannath v Lalta Prosad, 31 A 21=5 A L J 674=(1908) A W N 267, Gangan and v Rameshwar, A I R. 1927 Pat 271=6 Pat 338 As for the observations of the Privy Council in the recent case of Sadik Ali v Jai Kishori supra, cited for the appellant, the arguments are not reported, but ... lower Courts differed Their ... held that the mort... ecuted by them was a ... t of minority being ... s of the deed founded on is sufficient for the decision of the case such a deed executed by minors being admittedly a nullity according to Indian law and incapable of founding a plea of estoppel' I am unable to interpret this decision otherwise than as overruling the view of this Court and as agreeing with the view of the other H... C... By no ingenuity of argument can the view of this Court be ... uted by minors is incapable of ... his view of the law, even if in ... les minors, the general intention ... the rule of evidence in this section ... substantive law in s 11 of the Contract Act per Best C J in Liverpool v Crase, 5 Bing 177" Balangowada v Gadigeppa, 31 Bom L R 340=118 Ind Cas 998=A I. R. 1929 Bom 201, see also Maung Tin v. Ma Lun, A I. R 1927 Rang 108=5 Bur L J 141 If a minor by his conduct, allow his mother to act as the guardian of her sons and manager of the family property and to mortgage it, it is immaterial for the purposes of estoppel that his conduct was due to a mistaken impression as to his age. Nathubai v Mulchahnd, 3 Bom L R. 525. A minor, who ... to manage his own affairs, and ... covering again the same ... Singh v Sheo Nandan, ... evidence of fraudulent representation on the part of the minor, the principle of estoppel cannot be invoked Kumar Gangunand Singh v Maharaja Sir Rameswar Singh, 6 Pat 338=8 Pat L T 730=102 Ind Cas 419=A I R 1927 Pat 271; but see Jasraj v Sadasiv, 1923 B 169 The mere fact that the purchaser from the guardian of a minor of properties belonging to the minor took a letter from the minor stating that there was necessity for the alienation does not estop the minor from impeaching the sale, so long as it is not shown that the minor caused or permitted the vendee to believe that necessity existed Sitaram v. Mulchand, 115 Ind Cas 175=A I R 1929 Nag 221 Where a minor executes a sale deed honestly representing that he was a minor and the vendee believes that representation and acts upon it, the minor is not estopped from setting up his minority and the sale is void as a plea Koluri v Phumuluri, 23 L W 521=94 Ind Cas 853=A I R 1926 M 607. This section is no more than a nullify t no one a minor contract Pundrik v Bhagwantrao, 96 Ind Cas 803=A I R 1926 Nag 491 When in a suit a person then alleged to be a minor was represented by his brother with whom he the suit, he is es against him in majority just one Ind Cas 606=24 A L J 817=A I R 1926 A 673 A minor is not estopped from setting up his minority Hari v Roshan 1923 Sind 5=71 Ind Cas 161. The conduct of minors cannot be pleaded in defeasance of their right to repudiate the act of their guardians during their minority But if their guardians had acted for their benefit and after attaining majority they continued to derive the benefit which the transaction conferred on them, it is not open to them to take advantage of the absence of registration, particularly when the parties can n ir

C
T
h
A
b
as a bar to a suit for ejectment on the expiry of the lease Ponnuswami v Subramaniam, 53 Ind Cas 412 another that he is a major, and that other lends money on a promissory note signed by the minor the minor may be in a suit on the promissory note estopped from pleading his minority Jasraj v Sadashiv, 23 Bom L R 975, see also Harji Mal v Abdul Halif, 20 Ind Cas 267, Lenudomal v Ghurumal, 14 S L R 104=62 Ind Cas 237, but see Jambagathachi v Rajamannarsami, 57 Ind Cas 678 But where there have been no misrepresentations by a minor as to his age or where misrepresentation has not misled the opposite party there can be no estoppel and infancy can be successfully pleaded Wasunda v Sita, 1 Lah 389=59 Ind Cas 393 Gadu Kundan v Magan, A I R 1 minor, represented to the he was a major and sold to h possession of the house, h being a person within the contemplation of this section and having by direct declaration intentionally caused the plaintiff to believe that he was a major, was precluded absolutely from denying the truth of that assertion Dadasaheb v. Bai Nahani, 19 Bom L R 561=41 B 480=41 Ind. Cas 180 But the law of estoppel must be read subject to other laws such as the Contract Act, and a minor cannot be made liable upon a contract by means of estoppel under s 115 of the Evidence Act Golam Abdin v Hem Chunder, 20 C W N 418=32 Ind. Cas 388 As a general rule, except in cases of fraud the doctrine of estoppel is not applicable to an infant, and the Court is never astute to hold

5. that his acts d his contracts, admissions of 17 C W N. 10 A min guardian, though it may against him is a quest v Susila, A I R 1933

Person "The term 'person' in this section is amply satisfied by holdir it to apply to one who is of full age, and competent to enter into a contrc and I cannot bring myself to think that it could have been the intention o the Legislature, by such in the law of estoppel in 26 C 381=3 C W N
413=111 Ind Cas 175=
that the person in this Balangowda v Godigeppa 1929 Bom 201, but see "person" in this section sholud not be narrowed down so as to exclude Hasinda Ram v. Sita Ram, 1 Lah 389=59 Ind Cas 393.

Admission whether operates as estoppel Admissions do not operate by way of estoppel but it is for the party making them to explain those admissions Secretary of State of India v Vidyarah, A I R 1929 Lah 718 An admission made by the defendant when both the plaintiff and the defendant were under a not estop the defendant from proving Maniyan, 7 L R 201 (Rev)
vious case that he was an ex-proprietary law cannot create estoppel against
. 5 A 43 (2)

Attestor of a document—if and when estopped The mere attestation of a party does not estop him from asserting that he had the knowledge of the contents of a document or that he was not bound by the recitals in the asserts the facts that are stated in the thuba Ram v Ram Pyara Mall, 116 Ind Lah 224=112 Ind Cas 89=A I R agor Singh, 47 C L J 189=107 Ind N 538=26 A L J 553=A I R 1928 o mere attestation of a document cannot Sarup v Kishen Sahai, A W N 1883, 142, Abdul Aziz v Abdulla, 26 P L R 215=7 Lah I R 1925 Lah 413; Azizullah v Ghulam,
Ind Cas
815 Attestation of a deed whatever except that he independent Pandurang
=35 C. L J
7 Ind Cas
264.

Party estopped from pleading fraud It is not open to a party to plead Ram Lal v. Har Lal, 237 Estoppel is an r of his rightful claims urther of his rights patwari to conceal his to plead that his shall be allowed 3 A 257 (Rev) ged, fraudulently endorses it over to another person, cannot, in a suit by such person for the recovery of the consideration paid by him for the hundi, set up the forgery of it as a bar to the suit Bishnu Churn v. Rajendra, 5 A 302=A W N 1883,

S.

A person sued for possession of half the properties on the ground that it was joint property of himself and the defendant The defendant pleaded that the plaintiff's share was sold to him by the plaintiff The plaintiff was held under these [illegible] that the sale was colourable [illegible] to the rule of pari delictum [illegible] 38 P. R 1892; see also [illegible] Nawab Sidhu v. Oodhyaram, 5 W R 83 (P C)=1[illegible] have recourse to the doctrine of [illegible] party who does not come into Court [illegible] 20 C W N 677=33 Ind Cas 762 [illegible] defeated by showing that the attached house did not belong to the judgment-debtor, the judgment debtor cannot claim either the ownership in the whole house and site or the equitable interest to the extent, of the sums spent in building the house Suba Rao v Veeramunay Swami, A I. R 1930 Mad 298=126 Ind Cas 279

Estoppel [illegible] to give effect to a statut[illegible] against a statut[illegible] Mad 622 [illegible] Singh [illegible] 1929 All [illegible] Cal 433; [illegible] rance Co, [illegible] law giving rise to the jurisdiction of [illegible] India Ltd, A. I R. 1928 Lah 802 [illegible] and unlawful by statute, a party cannot, by representation, any more than by other means, raise against him an estoppel so as to create a state of things, [illegible]

[illegible] cannot [illegible] for on a point of law there can [illegible] asking [illegible] is void [illegible] R 162= [illegible] competent [illegible] such an enactment a thing from which a Court can [illegible] parties, or by a failure to plead to argue the p[illegible] Briton, 52 C 408=23 A L J 105=29 C[illegible] any estoppel against a statute nor can the parties contract themselves out of any statute Jnanendra Nath v Nalini, 87 Ind Cas 565=A I R 1925 Cal 1262 The [illegible] void [illegible] 219 [illegible] of In[illegible] Motor [illegible] Janaadoo, [illegible] Ind Cas 126 A representation as to a question of law cannot give rise to an estoppel Rajambai v Shanmuga, 70 Ind Cas 653=

1923 Mad 11 There cannot be any estoppel against a statute and a statutory defence not set up in a prior suit can be set up in a subsequent suit Nafar Chandra v Bhusi Molla, 65 Ind Cas 851 So there is no estoppel against the

C W N 329=1922 Cal 436=49 C

437=51 Ind Cas 403; Bangshi v umar, 5 Luck 731=A I R 1930

R 1930 Nag 191, Mirza v Handa

Lou v Sulhana, 58 C 1453=35

Mal bub Ali, A I R 1931 Oulh

Pat 481=35 C W N 354 P C, Sibaisubramania v Subramania, A I R 1932 Mad 409=55 M L W 390

Bimalabala v Deb Kinkar, A I R 1932 Pat 267. An admission on a point of law is not an admission of a "thing" so as to make the admission matter of estoppel within the meaning of s 115 of the Evidence Act Jogmant v Sian 21 A 285=A W N 1885, 66; Tel Chand v Gopal Devi 13 Ind Cas 482=46 P R 1912 No estoppel can be pleaded against the directions and prohibitions enacted by the statute law and against the rights accruing to any party by reason of such directions and prohibitions Chidambarachalliar v Vaidili, 38 M 519

There can be no estoppel against an Act of Parliament or against an Act of legislature ... at the plain provisions of ... 3 Bom 135=35 B 67 ... 2-0= 4 Ind Cas 4 ... Irlandi ... and a v Ripusudan ... mel is mortgagee t ... ya Devi inapplicable v Haridas, 42 C 455=19 C W N 208=20 C L J 183

Declaration, act or omission must be of an unequivocal and ambiguous character To create an estoppel against a party, his declaration act or omission must be of ... Nilo 6 Bom L R 864 ... uous ... ank of it must be ... 83, India, 2 B ... clara Raghunath ... actor tion, act o ... Just Astamoorth ... as an estopped cannot be created by an ambiguous document so too it cannot be created by an ambiguous act Mamsa v Sallappu, 46 Ind Cas 609 A representation, to found an estoppel, must be clear and unambiguous, not necessarily susceptible of only one interpretation, but such as will reasonably be understood in the sense contended for, and for this purpose the whole

891) 3 Ch 82 C A, anagh, (1902) A C 117 rd Building Society v

his is merely an applica

"must be certain to 379; see also Ram v

25; Gajanan v Nilo

Lah L J 45

Plea of acquiescence—Necessary elements Where one person constructed a building on another's land ... to him and though the owner of the land w ... same and the building was allowed to ... l, that the owner of land had acquiesced in the construction and that he could not after such lapse of time turn round and ask for a demolition of the building Mahomed Husain ... a man of his lega ... 891= A I R ... 235= A I ... an two years w ... sprayet before ... equies- cence, c ... of the site before building was begun Mahadeo Patil v Narayan, 101 Ind Cas 565= S.

A I R 1927 Nag 318 Acquiescence implies that a person who is said to have acquiesced did so ... other person acted in the bona fide belief th... The absence of either of these elements ma... acquiescence which will

... connotes, among other
... to the person who is ... his right is being invaded, and that the party relying upon his representation has altered his position to his detriment under a mistaken impression that he was legally justified in acting as he has done Gourlal v Ramcharan 29 C W N 931=52 C 748=89 Ind Cas 801=A I R 1925 Cal 1107 Where a person allowed another ... though he was not expressly appointe... wards impeach his actio... Laches can be prove... nt or acquiescence

A mere delay in filing a suit for the removal of an encroachment does not per se constitute an acquiescence Narayan v Laxmanrao 105 Ind Cas 286 In applying the doctrine of estoppel by acquiescence in a case of erection of buildings, the primary thing to consider is whether the person who acted in contravention of his rights had a bona fide belief or not that he did possess a right to erect the building Mt Lai Rampi v Jasim 101 Ind Cas 630=A I R 1927 All 541 So in order to sustain a plea of an acquiescence and to raise a bar ... it to show that ... interfering, or ... hat he had,

on his part to take the necessary steps to protect his rights, he is estopped from asserting his title Maung Kyaing v P L Ium, 6 Rang 643, see also Imami v Ibrahim, A I R 1929 Oudh 292 Coincident with common law doctrine ... as explained in several well know... 129 at p 140, Lord Cranworth ... 'If a stranger begins to build o... erceiving his mistake, abstain f... severe in his error, a Court of equity will not allow me afterwards to assert my title to the land on which he has expended money on the supposition that the land was his' In a case of that description the estoppel rests upon the particular basis of actual acquiescence It seem... Burse v Ali, 47 L J Ch 381 ... vering the judgment of the C...) at p 314) 'If a person having a right and seeing another person about to commit, or in the course of committing an act infringing upon that right, stands by in such a manner as really to induce the person committing the act, and who might otherwise have abstained from it, to believe that he assents to its being committed, he cannot afterwards be heard to complain of the act " In Wilmote v Barbur 49 L J Ch 732=15 C ... cence which deprives a man of ... Jones Brothers v Woodhouse, 9 ... ing in what is done by another, a person may be estopped from afterwards alleging a different state of facts from that which the other assumed to exist Mold v Wheat Croft, 27 Beav 510, Fisher v Magnay 5 M & Gr 778 Rule v Jewell, 18 Ch D 660, In re Burnad's Bank Peel's Case L R 2 Ch 671; Shereden v Barret 4 L R Ir 223, Thomson v Rouske, (1893) P D 70 It must be shown that it was the duty of the acquiescing party to have spoken (M'Kenzie v British Linen Co, 6 App Cas 82) and that he had knowledge of the matter in which he is alleged to have acquiesced Ramsden v Dyson, (1869) L R 1 H L 129, Lunch v Commissioners of Sewears 32 Ch D 79=55 L J Ch 439; see also The Gujrat Ginning Co v I ... Nambudripad, 96 Ind Cas 915=A I ... 73 Ind Cas 137; Paddu v Mahabir P ... 44 Ind Cas 517.

... defence on the ground of acquies... Joseph v Joseph, 5 Bur L J ...

Where the defendants regarded through mistake certain land to be their own and partitioned it among themselves and there is no evidence to the effect that the plaintiff knew that the defendants were partitioning his land as theirs and the plaintiff kept silent knowing that the defendants were likely to be prejudiced by the partition and by a subsequent claim on the part of the plaintiff, the plaintiff has done nothing and is not estopped from setting up his title and possession to the land by the principle of acquiescence Mubarak v Mahomed, 97 Ind Cas 268=A I R 1926 All 721 Where a party has derived any advantage and taken benefit under the order of the Court, he is to be deemed to have acquiesced i ... to challenge it at any subsequent proceeding or b ... Ali, 95 Ind Cas 10=A I R 1 ... party having an interest to prevent an ac ... at he been done and acquiesces in it ... his consents to it, and the position of ... n he sincerity, he has no more right ... mere would have had if it had been don ... acquiescence is not equivalent to consent, yet consent need not be by word and may be by act, and if consent can be intimated by conduct as well as by act it is clear that acquiescence may, under certain circumstances be taken to be consent Unaram v Pruk, 85 Ind Cas, 540=A I R 1925 Cal 993

Where a person objected to another putting up a structure on his land and objected before the Municipal authority who however refused to go into the question of title, he cannot in any sense be held to have acquiesced in the act Kokla Kumar v Kahan Mal, 1923 All 452, see also Moola v Bahosu, 1923 All 567.

Estoppel by silence Mere omission to speak does not create estoppel in the case of a person who is under no duty to speak Kanchan v Kamala 21 C L J 441 It is essential to an estoppel that the person estopped should be under a duty to some other person to speak or to act, and that his failure to perform that duty should have caused damages to that other person Jones Brothers v ... see also Proc... ... rton ... Laller ... as it is ... rayan ... estoppel ... 510= ... 717; ... C C ... may be cases in which there is deception by omission, but silence may be ... ted as deception only where there is duty to speak ; in other words, as Bigelow points out, 'duty to speak, which is the ground of liability, arises wherever and only where silence can be considered as having an active property, that of misleading' (Bigelow on Fraud, vol I, p 597) To take one illustration "The silence of A in the presence of B and C who are negotiating in regard to a sale of property, from B to C, estops A from claiming the property as against C, upon the conclusion of the sale but knowledge by an owner of property that silence may be treated as a true cause of the change of position, in the other case, it cannot be so considered, The question consequently arises, whether there has been on the part of the defendants a disregard of a duty to speak . . . As was observed by Lord Chancellor Thurlow in Fox v Mackrell, 2 W & T L C 709, [illegible] has been taken which [illegible] would not have take[illegible] obligation on the party [illegible] to bring his silence [illegible] [illegible] concealment which [illegible] ase must amount [illegible] tances is bound [illegible] respect to which [illegible] nition of undue concealment which amounts to a fraud in the sense of a Court of Equity and for which it will grant relief, is the non disclosure of those facts and circumstances which one party is under some legal or equitable obligation to communicate to the other, and which the latter has a right, not merely in foro conscientiae, but juris et de jure, to know" Per Mookerjee in Joychandra v Srinath, 1 C L J 23 (28)=32 C 357, see also Mohunt Das v Nil Komul, 4 C W N. 283, Mle[illegible] Dayal Mouji, 6 Bom [illegible] one of the three broth[illegible] knowledge of the ea[illegible] building on the land [illegible] fact that they knew [illegible] asserting their own ri[illegible] they were consequently estopped from asserting those rights in a suit Dhanpal Rai v Gwanditta, 2 Lah 258=64 Ind, Cas 520=10 P L R 1922 An abstinence from interference on the part of the owner of land, upon which another man is building does not raise an equitable estoppel against him In order to estop the owner, it must be proved that besides his abstinence there was a mistaken belief in the builder that the land was his own property Mahammad Umordarga v Mora, 6 A L J 57=1 Ind Cas 821, see also Ismail v Broughton 5 C W N 846

[illegible]

[illegible]

time, it has no application where the person ag[illegible] be applied is under no duty to speak Kanchan v Kamala, 21 C L J 441=29 Ind Cas 734 A duty to speak arises whenever a person knows that another is acting on an erroneous assumption of some authority given or liability undertaken by the former, or is dealing with or acquiring an interest [illegible] 7 Moo & C 417

[illegible]

entire or main cause, but one of the causes of the change of position, and whether upon due regard to all the circumstances, it is just that the defendants should be prejudiced in the manner in which they have been prejudiced by the omission of the plaintiff to speak Thomas Barclay v Syed Hossein 6 C L J 60 When silence is of such a character and under such circumstances that it would be a fraud upon the other party, for the party which has kept silence to deny what his silence has induced, it will operate as an estoppel Jolpomull v Saroda, 7 C L J 604

Estoppel by omission The acquiescence or estoppel which will deprive a man of legal rights must amount to fraud A man is not to be deprived of his legal rights unless he has acted in such a way as would make it fraudulent to set up those rights The element, or the requisites necessary to constitute fraud of that description are these —In the first place, the plaintiff must have made a mistake as to his legal rights ... must have ex pended some money or must have don... defendant s lands) on the faith of the r... the possessor of the legal right must kno... is inconsistent with the right claimed ... it he is in the same position as the plaintiff and the doctrine of acquiescence founded upon conduct with a knowledge of your legal rights Fourthly, the defendant, the possessor of the legal right must know of the plaintiff s mistaken belief of his rights If he does not, there is nothing which calls upon him to assert his own rights Lastly the defendant, the possessor of the legal right must have encouraged the plaintiff in his expenditure of money or in other acts which he has done either directly or by abstaining from asserting his legal right Where all these elements exist, there is fraud of such a nature as will entitle the Court to restrain the possessor of the legal right from exercising it but nothing short of this will do Hemangini Debi v Bijoy Singh 73 Ind Cas 233, see also, Bishan Singh v Bulanda 4 Lah L J 419 The estoppel under this section may arise by reason of either a declaration, an act or omission, but in either case there must be an intention on the part of the person against whom the estoppel operates to cause or permit a belief in the mind of another In the case of a mere omission, no such intention can well be imputed unless the true facts are known to the person whose omission is in question, but where there is a deliberate declaration or act causing or permitting such belief and inducing another to act upon it, it must be presumed that such declaration or act was intended to have its ordinary and natural effect upon the mind and actions of the other party Raith v Forbes, 3 Pat L T 467=67 Ind Cas 741=(1922) P 209 Mere acquiescence on the part of the true owner, or omission to volunteer any advice or assis... ...selves have ascertained the truth by ... ...its of such owner A pers... ...he has acted in such a way as ... ...same The illustration to section 115 of the Indian Evidence Act sets forth that one is bound who intentionally and falsely leads a purchaser to suppose he is taking a perfect title There is an obligation to truth in speech, and act, but no obligation to speak or act where no confidence is given or accepted merely for the purpose of guarding or furthering the interests of strangers proceeding wholly in invitum and with an omission to inquire which is equivalent to knowledge Basantopa v Ranu, 9 B 96

S died leaving three sons and a daughter H who was the plaintiff in this case S died more than 12 years prior to the suit, and upon his death his three ... ...clusion of H It ... d live on amicable ... d ever since, there ... ecuted a deed of ... for recovery of her share of inheritance under the Mahomedan Law, by avoidance of the deed of sale mentioned above The defence to the action was that the plaintiff, having omitted to enter her name in the Government record, was estopped from maintaining her claim against the defendant who was a transferee without notice. Held, that there was no evidence on the record to show that the omission on the part of the plaintiff to have her name entered in the Government Revenue records were intentional within the meaning of s 115 of the Evidence Act or that it was by reason of such omission that the defendant altered his position so as to operate as an estoppel against the plaintiff and that, as the plaintiff's title was admitted, she should get a decree in her favour. Gobordhan v Hisrit, A W N 1887, 110. The doctrine of estoppel cannot be said to rest absolutely upon any notice of duty on the part of the person sought to be estopped; and the word "omission" used in section 115 of the Evidence Act does not mean only an omission to perform such a duty as is prescribed by law Munk Ram v Ram Autar, 27 Ind Cas 611

Estoppel by waiver Where a party to a suit agreed to a decree in favour of his opponent on certain conditions which were not afterwards fulfilled and purpose of Nor do they facts in any Parties may by their conduct in the course of a suit preclude themselves in a subsequent suit from asserting rights which they have waived deliberately Jinli v Kamalathammal, 7 M H C 263 A waiver is an intentional relinquishment of a known right or such conduct as warrants an inference of the relinquishment of ver unless the person against whom the re of his rights and of facts which could or the enforcement of such rights No ignorant that it has been committed and confirm it Dhanuk Dhari v Nathuni, , 2 B & B 128 Darnby v Londen R. Co, H L C 223, Austin v Chambers, 6 Cl & F 1, La Banque v La Banque 13 App Cas 11, Imbula v. Whiteuall, 6 C. L J 111, Nripati v Jatindra, 91 Ind Cas 407, Jahandar v Ram Lal, 37 C 440

Order of Court There can be no estoppel where a party acts under a mistaken impression as to the legal effect of an order Abdulla Sahib v Muhammad Husain, 5 Mys L J 182 An involuntary act done by a person in pursuance of an order of Court cannot operate as an estoppel against him and prevent him from enforcing the remedy given to him by law Ishar Das v. Bula Lal, 115 Ind Cas 67 = A I R 1929 Lah 42; see also Mani Lal v Durga Prosad, 5 Pat L T 425 = 3 Pat 930 = 80 Ind Cas 667 = 1924 P 673 = 1924 Pat 254; Balgobind v Sheo Kumar, 82 Ind Cas 481 = 2 A L J 791 Where a party has adopted an order of the Court, and acted under it he cannot after he has enjoyed a benefit under the order contend that it is valid for one purpose and invalid for another Jogendranath v Khoda Bux 72 Ind Cas 554

Application of equitable estoppel in case of part performance Where there a permanent lease to the he defendant came into poss on the land but no leas ejec be C I pow the actings and conduct of the parties have carried the incompletely executed engagements into effect The doctrine of case when a Hindu widow even though remains in possession thereof Raj Baha Ind Cas 822 = 2 Pat 697 = 4 Pat L T 33 will not fail to support a transaction clothed imperfectly in those legal forces to which finality attaches after the bargain has been acted upon The law of India is not inconsistent with the principles applied by equity in such cases but on the contrary follows them Mahomed Musa v Aghore Kumar, 19 C W N 251 When in pursuance of an agreement to transfer property the intended trans- had not been ecuted subject ained between time as the

5. subsequent legal question falls to be determined Gajendra Nath v Moulari, 27 C W N 159, see also Pitamber v. Ramchurn, 28 C W. N 157

Estoppel and Adoption In a suit by reversioner for a declaration that an adoption, by a widow is invalid, no estoppel arises as against the plaintiff by reason of the mere fact that he concurred in the adoption which was supposed ' valid Gurlingasuamy v Ramalakshma delivering the judgment on this point ppel can arise from ignorance of law which low The adoption took place in 1859 table con siderations consequent on the growth of operty under an invalid adoption concurred in e It both of a religious act option generates with the in

1 by marrying him to a girl of her own ce 1 the funeral ceremony of her husband estops her he adoption Kannabumal v Virasami 15 M Vinayakrao v Lalshmibai 11 B 381 A widow represented that she had authority to adopt, and the ceremony of adoption was carried out on the faith of the representation and the marriage of the adopted son was celebrated by the adoptive mother, the adoption was then challenged by a reversioner and the adopted son in order to defend his right incurred heavy responsibilities, held, that the adoptive mother was estopped from maintaining a suit for a dec Dharm Kunuar v Balwant Singh, 5 519, see also Durga v Khuspalo, A 1, 15 M 397=5 M L J 66

The rule of estoppel by conduct does not apply to a case where no doubts were enter made by him, and all tha n for a belief in sequent conduct contributed to the persistence of the adoption in that belief, and that in consequence a share in the inheritance 3 (F B) Where an adoptic permission from her decease nying it by the circumstance n adoption ab initio invalid the ground of estoppel only when, by a course of conduct long continued on the part of the family which has purported to affiliate him, his situation in his original family has been so altered that it would be impossible to restore him to it Parvathibogamma v Ram Krishna Rau 18 M 145=5 M L J 41; Kateri v Babaji 19 B 374 Where a person is treated by another in such a way as leads him to believe that he is the adopted son of that other and on that footing and on account of such acquiescence and by reason of such encouragement he severs his connection with his natural family or undergoes a change of circumstances in such a way that when restored to his natural family his position would be very different from what it would have been if he had never left it the pe through him will be es Puruk Chand, 85 Inc Ghulam 96 Ind Cas 7. ough an adoption is invalid, circumstances may arise in which the likelihood of hardships to be caused to the adopted boy in upsetting the adoption on which that it would be the person person who sets up the estoppel to prove conclusively that he was in fact adopted by the father resiling from the story of the adoption, but it is enough damnified if he proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the likelihood of his being prejudiced by the alteration of position was so great that the Court will presume that the adopted boy must have been damnified Also, estoppel being simply a principle of the law of evidence, it creates no substantive rights of an absolute character but commonly operates to close the mouths of certain people who have acted in a certain way from se[illegible] will operate only [illegible] Parasuramayya v [illegible] I. R 1927 Mad 7[illegible] in the manner customary among the Agarwallas The story of the regular Brahminical adoption of the same boy previous to the Agarwalla adoption was invented with the object of giving to latter adoption the rights of collateral succession The acts and representations of the plaintiffs were set up as estopping them [illegible] that the [illegible] that the [illegible] Dhan- [illegible] J 273=49 M L J 173 (P C) Where a person executed a registered document declaring he had adopted another, and in mutation proceedings described himself as the [illegible] into a compromise wherein for [illegible] ion of repudiating such adoption, [illegible] no adoption Kunwar Dutt v [illegible] on a matter of law i e as to the validity of an adoption creates no estoppel Rajamal Amma v Shanmuga, 70 Ind Cas 653=1923 Mad 11

[illegible] under s 115 [illegible] osition of law [illegible] supported the [illegible] a representa- [illegible] an estoppel [illegible] arrangement [illegible] as partitioned [illegible] ng a son and [illegible] y be the legal position as regards the validity of the adoption B was estopped from questioning the validity of the same Ichhnun v Banwari, 114 Ind Cas 711=A I R 1929 Lah 16 But where a person was at best a mere witness for the adoption of a boy by a Hindu widow and [illegible] tion in the matter to which [illegible] validity of the adoption an[illegible] Amarendra v Banamali, 10 P[illegible] I R 1930 Pat 417

Estoppel by acts of Government officer A Government officer had no authority to waive the rights to which the [illegible] escheat, and a decree founded thereon by a com[illegible] operate as estoppel The Collector of Masulipatam [illegible] 2 W R 61 P C=8 M I A 529

Inconsistent pleas It is an elementary rule that a party litigant cannot [illegible]

[illegible] Pat L J [illegible] Ind Cas [illegible] A person who successfully sues another for rent cannot subsequently be heard to impugn that the defendant was a tenant Jitan Mahton v Lala Bhagwan, 64 Ind Cas 262

5. Neither he nor his representatives Where a person by his own solemn and deliberate act wilfully induces another to believe the existence of a certain state of things, and to deal with him on the faith of it, he and as a general rule his heirs or those who claim ur ... tation so made and will never ... other Moonshee Syeed A ... the exection sale acquires ... and does not consequently ... judgment debtor does in the ... v Jogendra Chandra 23 ... Nandu v Jogendra 70 Ind ... is his legal representative Syed Md Hasan v Syed Ali, 10 O & A ... 1929 It is not open to the representative of a lessor to prove that the status of the original lessee was other than what was described in the deed of lease Iswor Chandra v Goursunder, 1933 Cal 603 Where the conduct of a grandfather has given rise to estoppel, the grandson claiming through him is bound by it Moman v Dhanu 1 Lah 31 = 55 Ind Cas 869 A subsequent mortgagee is bound by the representation made by the mortgagor to prior mortgagee and is estopped from challenging the validity of the prior mortgagee so far as it affects the share which was subsequently mortgaged Gurdayal v Taid Husain 51 Ind Cas 766 A mortgagee who purchases the property at a sale in execution of his decree on the mortgage is bound by an estoppel that would have bound his mortgagor Kalidas v, Prasanna 15 Ind Cas 189 The doctrine of estoppel is applicable to persons claiming under those whose conduct had led to change of position Rajah of Deo v Abdulla 45 C 909 = 45 I A 97 (P C), Badri Bisl al v Brij Nath 5 O L J 458 = 47 Ind Cas 934 Jagannath v Syed Abdulla 16 A L J 576 = 35 M L J 46 = 20 Bom L R 851 = 22 C W N 591 = 28 C L J 162 = 45 Ind Cas 770 (P C) The equitable doctrine of estoppel as laid down in 11 B L R 46 which applies to any person is equally binding on the purchaser of his right title and interest at a sale in execution of the decree Mohamed Mozaffer v Kishori Mohan Day 22 C 909 (P C) = 22 I A 129 = 5 M L J 101 In Debendranath Sen v Mirza Abdul Samed 10 C L J 150 (165), Mookerjee J said 'It was ruled by this Court in Kishori Mohun v Mohamed, 18 C 188 (198) contrary to the principle deducible from Richards v Johnston, 4 H & N 660 and Herne v Rogers (1891) 1 Q B 230 that the estoppel that would bind A would also bind the execution purchasers of his interest This view was subsequently affirmed by their Lordships of the Judicial Committee and they rested their conclusion on the ground that the principle of estoppel, founded in that case upon the decision in Ram Coomar v Moqueen L R 1 I A sup Vol 40 applied not only to A but also to the execution purchasers of the interest of A who were equally bound by it as they had purchased only his right title and interest This is in accord with the statement of the rule by Kay L J in Mad i v Thomas 18 W R 2 1 No doubt, the statement sometimes has been made by text writers (Hukum Chand on res judicata, 204 and Caspers on estoppel 2nd Ed 66) apperently on the basis of judicial dicta of the highest authority that as there is no privity between the purchaser at a sale in execution of a decree and the judgment debtor whose property is sold, the purchaser at the execut on sale is no ... judgment debtor ... Thus in Anundo Mo ... observed that the ... on the same footing as the title of the mortgagor or of a person claiming u voluntary alienation from the mortgagor Again in Imrit Koer v Debee Pershad 18 W R 201 Sir Richard Couch remarked with reference to purchaser at an execution sale that they were not in ... conveyance direct from the party and were therefore ... might have stated on some previous ... the observations of Sir Barnes Peacock in Dinendra Nath v Gour ... 7 C 107 = 8 I A 65 'There is a great distinction between a private sale in satisfaction of a decree and a sale in execution of a decree Under the former the purchaser derives title through the vendor and cannot acquire a better title than that of the vendor In the latter, the purchaser, notwithstanding he acquires merely the right, title and interest of the judgment debtor acquires that title by operation of law adverse to the judgment debtor and freed from all alienations or incumbrances effected by him subsequent to the attachment of the property sold in execution'. On the authority of these observations it was ruled by this Court in Parlu Lal v Mylu, 11 C 101 that a purchaser at an execution sale was not the representative of the judgment debtor for the purpose of the rule of estoppel Substantially to the same effect are the decisions in Ringo Monee v Raj Coomaree 6 W R 197, Gour Sunder v Hem Chander, 16 C 355 and Bishi Chander v Enayet Ali, 20 C 236 There can be no question, however, that the rule so widely formulated in these judicial dicta, is neither supported by authorities nor defensible on principle It will suffice for our present purpose to refer to the judgment of the Full Bench of this Court in Ishan Chunder v Beni Madhab, 24 C 62 in which it was pointed out that the view taken in these cases the decisions of the Judicial

I I A 101 and Dinendra v.

" See also Radha kanta v

Ildramal, 18 M 13;

, Lepin v Jogeshwar, 31 C.

; Nandalal v Jogendra, W N ; Sashibhusan v Debnath 60 Ind Cas 705, Prolyot v Jori, 16 Ind Cas 792 A person is not estopped from instituting a suit for a share of joint ancestral property by the circumstance that he claims under one who, when sued on a former occasion as trustee, never pleaded that he was a co-parcener Surnomoyee v Gunga 2 W R 264 An admission by an adoptive mother, in a suit brought by her mother in law to set aside the adoption, that an alleged unomutteeputtra, under which her mother in law had previously professed to adopt a son to her deceased husband was valid, would not estop her adoptive son from denying the validity of that instrument in a suit subsequently brought by him for the assertion of his rights under the adoption Annundomoyee v Sheeb Chunder, Marsh 155 Where a trustee does any act in

by way of estoppel,

Keshavrao, 15 B 625

on son, the real revers

Ind Cas 50

The doctrine of estoppel cannot bar the plaintiff's claim in a suit, when ntation

L J

come

ed by necessary implication the interest which he had in the property Dadabhai v Cousji, A I R 1925 P C 306 A purchaser at an execution sale is bound by the same rule of estoppel as the judgment debtor and consequently he cannot dispute the validity of a mortgage which the mortgagor himself is estopped from questioning Nandalal v Jogendra Chandra, 36 C L J 421 Where a plea of estoppel is raised a person is bound by the previous knowledge of the former owner Sharju v Shri Radhika, 15 R D 43 Acts in representative character do not create estoppel on personal claims Ram Horakh v Hanumant, A I R 1930 P C 249

Constructive estoppel The law knows no such thing as constructive estoppel Parsotam Gir v, Arboda, 21 A 505 P C = 3 C W N 517 = 1 Bom L R 700 = 26 I A 175

Fraud whether necessary to give rise to estoppel This section embodies the rule of English law on the subject of estoppel 'The doctrine of estoppel is based on a fraudulent purpose and a fraudulent result If, therefore, the element, of fraud is wanting, there is no estoppel There must be deception and change of conduct in consequence" Ganga Sahai v Hira Singh, 2 A 809 (F B)

Estoppel whether can arise when document is inadmissible The rule of estop in th

Ram

by w

entry at settlement merely amounts to an admission and there was no change of position of the tenant to his detriment Chhli v. Naval Mumtaz, L R 3 A 252 (Rev) A chatual ... S.

... brothers owned a house which was attached and sold in execution of a decree against D L obtained a preliminary decree for the partition of his share but before it was made final, the house had been sold The defendant who was a tenant thereupon executed a Sarkhat in favour ... rought by the purchaser for ejectment, ... ng executed a Sarkhat in favour of the ... the plaintiff's right to get it vacated ... 41 A 651=17 A L J 805=51 Ind. Cas 518 Where a landlord with knowledge of an alienation accepts rents from the alienee, he is as much bound by the alienation as if he had expressly assented to it Paghubir Singh v Kedar Nath, A W N 1892, 107; see also Ganga v Ram Guti, 2 Agra 48, Gala v Ramji, 73 P R 1900, Fazl v Godar Khan, 161 P R 1883 An owner of land omitting to sue for demolition of buildings, when the infringement of his right is first threatened or commenced is estopped from claiming demolition, but is only entitled to compensation Bhagh v Nadir, 57 P R 1871 A tenant cannot be permitted to object to the terms of a patta when he has accepted previously similar patta for a series of years; for that constitutes a representation by conduct that the landord may ... were proper ones, which, of course, would ... in so many words Sree Sankarachari ... The service of a notice for ejectment under ... of Act XII of 1881, presupposes the existence of the relationship of landlord and tenant between the person who causes it to issue and the person to whom it is served And the landlord cannot afterwards bring a suit for ejectment in a Civil Court to eject the same person from the same land, alleging that it is not tenant but only a purchaser Baldeo v Imdad, 15 A 189=A. W. N 1893, 93

The previous acceptance of a pattah from one who was neither a registered Yeomiabdar nor lawfully entitled to the Yeomiah; but who performed the service for some time, apparently under a deed of assignment executed in his favour by the previous Yeomiabdar, is a good defence to a suit by lawful owner against the raiyats to enforce acceptance of pattas, when the owner's conduct is such as to justify the belief of the raiyats that the assignee was authorised to collect rent from them until the assignment was questioned by the owner and a notice of his title given to them Khador v Subramanya 11 M 12 The Rajah of Tipperah granted Sanad chits to certain tenants permitting the tenants to construct embankments to a silted up tank and to re excavate the tank, but no rent was reserved for the tank The tenants acting upon that sanad, spent money ... g regard to ... the Rajah ... ing that the ... ah Birenda ...

ment fro ... previousl ... A party ... cannot i ... Backergu ... money deposited by ... decree of rent is ... to a recognition of t ... depositor not havir ... principle of estppel ... 192=11 Pat 257 ... estop the landlord from denying the status of a person claiming rights on the basis of such misdescription Ganpat v Raghubir, 12 L R 326 (Rev) Where a person had been in long enjoyment as a co tenant to the knowledge of the Zemindar who also sued him as co tenant, held that the zemindar was estopped from disputing the status of the tenant Hishmat v Wali, 15 R D, 5 rule that an occupancy tenant who makes usufructuary mortgage of his holding to another man is estopped from alleging that the other man is his sub-tenant has no application where the mortgage is unregistered and so ineffective to pass the mortgagor's rights in the property Ram Charan v Shiva Jagat, L R 3 A 161 (Rev)

Landlord and tenant Where a landlord wrongly described a person as an ex proprietary tenant in a rent suit, he is not estopped from denying the nt Lachchi v Bhawani 8 L R 8 (Rev) in ejectment and the tenant agreed to pay a not eject him and the landlord collected the enhanced r ... Ram Nath v Bhagwa ... bzali Shabbir Ali, 8 ... decree as a rent decree ... thereby estopped from ... money decree and not a : ... Cis 882 A misdescription of a person as occupancy tenant in rent receipts and suits for arrears of rent does not amount to grant of occupancy rights or have the effect of estoppel Ashrofi v Kishori Ramanji, L R 6 All 64 (Rev) A tenant by acquiescing in the payment of enhanced rent is not precluded from raising any objection under section 29 of the B T Act W H Meyrick v Deepa Pandal, 3 Pat 825 There is no peculiarity in the law of estoppel in India as distinguished from that of England; the law of India is compendiously set forth in s 115 of the Evidence Act Taking of a rent each year under a mistaken belief may bar by estoppel the owner from any claim for mesne profits during the particular year or years for which such rent was received Mitra Sen Singh v Mt Janki Kuar, 26 Bom L R 1134=40 C L J 468=20 L W 566 (P C)=46 A 728=51 I A 326=82 Ind Cas 946 A grove holder after cutting the trees in the grove was allowed to remain in possession on payment of rent He planted fresh trees and for 3 or 4 years, the zemindar did nothing to prevent it Held, he was estopped by his inaction from ejecting the grove holder Ram Singh v Hannu, L R 4 A 352=9 O & A L R 1057
... and they were not
... rd or his in
... an estoppel
... and that he
... Madanmoha
... Syed Ali v
Manick Chandra, 27 C W N 969 The granting of receipts in the ordinary course of business by a landlord to his tenant is not an admission of such a formal and deliberate character as to prevent the former from denying the relationship of tenant Habib v Salamat, L R 4 A 174 (Rev) A decree holder landlord who in execution of a rent decree purchases the holding subject to liability for a second rent d... estopped from proceeding again t
... v Bhatu Modi
... ot be permitted to ... certainly cannot
... the tenant be
... riginally demised
... 3=4 Pat L T
... us is incorrectly described in rent receipts issued by the zemindar does not estop him from denying the tenant's ... L R 4 A 8 Where the ... certainly for
... nd kept quiet
... so erected
... into the land
... ing that he had
... lease The first
... Durga Narain
... ed from denying a person's occupancy rights by reason of the fact that he allowed him to be recorded at the settlement as occupancy tenant, because the consent to the reversioner relinquished his rights to a portion of the inheritance in favour of the widow in consideration of receiving a relinquishment from the widow of all her interest in the remaining portion of the inheritance neither he nor any person claiming through him, could set up that her relinquishment was not binding on him and did not operate on the portion of the inheritance relinquished in favour of the widow Jogendra v Nonindra 17 Ind Cas 978 The attestation of a reversioner to a document implies only that there was necessity for the alienation and does not create estoppel Ramaswamy Pillai v Kathalingan, 21 M L T 30 = (1917) M W N 78 = 38 Ind Cas 10, but see Ganda Singh v Sulab Singh 179 P L R 1911 But where the reversioners induced the purchaser to believe the recitals of the document to be true and to act on them they are estopped by conduct Bhubaneshwari v Hiralhan 21 C W N 728 In Hari Kishen Bhagat v Kashi Pershad 42 C 876, the Judicial Committee only laid down that a thoughtless reversioner should have a door of escape from an uncomfortable position rather than bind him down conclusively by the stringency of the equity brought about by his conduct Parasuramareddi v Mahireddi, 6 L W 250 = 22 M L J 260 42 Ind Cas 196 Where a Hindu widow in possession of her deceased husband's separate immovable property his concubine and his illegitimate daughter with the concurrence of the next reversioner effect a distribution of the property in pursuance of an instrument in writing to which they were parties, and a remoter reversioner attests such instrument and consents to, and assists in the distribution of the property, such remote reversioner would be estopped by his conduct from questioning the legality and validity of the distribution or of assignments made by those who shared in such distribution See Dasi v Gur Sahai 3 A 362 A reversioner by unknowingly accepting the mortgage of the land in the joint holding sold by a widow to another reversioner is not estopped from contesting the validity or its sale Sheva v Hayat 32 P W R 1914 = 108 P L R 1914 = 23 Ind Cas 5?? The interest of a Hindu reversioner is an interest expectant on the death of a qualified of sfer

sfer
by ped from claiming as a reversioner R 1930 All 430 Where a rever claim to property when the succes nd by that agreement Raghubir 11 = A I R 1930 All 498, but see Polhar Singh v Dutar A I R 1930 All 683 = 1930 A L J 688 = 125 Ind Cas 1

Estoppel by acts of agents The prin[illegible] his agent to cheat a third party acting [illegible] of his a[illegible] A princip[illegible] clothed with a larger authority than that [illegible]e such persons have acted in that belief to their detriment cannot rely upon any secret limitation of his agent's authority or upon any private understanding he may have with him of which the rest of the world must necessarily be ignorant 'Strangers said Lord Ellenborough 'can only look to the acts of the parties and to the external indicia of property and not to the private communications which may pass between a principal and his broker, and if a person authorise another to assume the apparent right of disposing of property in the ordinary course of trade it must be assumed that the apparent authority is the real authority Pickering v Busk 15 East 38 (43), Casperz Estoppel 177 Similarly in Ramsden v Dyson, 1 E & I A 128 (158) Lord Cranworth said If indeed the principal knows that the person dealing with his agent have so dealt in consequence of their believing that all statements made by him had been warranted by the principal and knowing this allows the person so dealing to expend money in the belief that the agent had an authority, which in fact he had not it may be that in such a case, a Court of Equity could not allow the principal afterwards to set up want of authority in the agent But this equity, where it exists, depends absolutely on the fact that the knowledge on which it rests can be brought home to the principal.'

Casperz Estoppel 178 But an agent cannot set up his own breach of trust Harris v Truman, 51 L J Q B 338 Where a tenant without Zemindar's permission makes a grave on the abadi, the mere fact that the servants of the Zemindar stood by and did not object cannot amount to the agent's acquiescence so as to estop Zemindar from interfering with the grave Khuda Bakhsh v Jaishankar, 115 Ind Cas 628 An endorsement by an agent of a decree-holder on a ... decree holder ... mad, 8 ... his wife by a valid talak on 21 7 1919, and requested the kazi to communicate it to the plaintiff, his wife The kazi informed her on 24 8-1919 but stated by mistake that the talak was dated 2 8 1919 instead of 21 7-1919 The plaintiff's suit for deferred dower was filed on 25-7 1922, more than three years from the real date of the talak Held that the defendant was estopped from showing that the date of the talak was earlier than 21 8 1919 Kathi yumma v Urothel Marakhor, 133 Ind Cas 375 = A I R 1931 Mad 647

Difference between s 115, Evidence Act, and section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act The difference in language between s 43 of the Transfer of Property Act and the language of the illustration to s 115 of the Evidence Act seems to be that, under s 43 of the T P Act, mere erroneous representation will apparently ... ally false whereas the ill... is 'intentionally and fal... he belief of the transferee in the truth of the erroneous representation, whereas the illustration to s 115 implies that the transferee must have believed the intentional and false representation and acted in the faith of such representation Halthkudar Narain v Audar Sayal, 28 M L J 44 = 27 Ind Cas 785, see also Ram v Baldeo, A I R 1932 All 643

Family arrangements Where parties settled their disputes amicably and ... ntered into posse... n by ... idity, ... 730 ... and ... it for ... rights ... families to construe acts done out of kindness and affection, to the disadva... of the doer of them Where two surviving brothers constituted a Mitakshara family, and the elder brother naturally and properly treated his younger brother, who had been born deaf and dumb, as a member of the family, and entitled to equal rights, until it became absolutely clear that his malady was incurable, held that there was no ground for supposing that the elder brother intended to divest himself of his own property or to waive any rights, accuring to him by reason of his younger brother's incapacity and that there was no principle of law founded on the doctrine of estoppel or laches, or the law of limitation or otherwise, to hold, under the circumstances of the case, that the elder brother's acts and conduct had an effect and operation which he could not have intended or contemplated Lala Muddun Gopal v Khikhindu Koer, 18 C 341 (P C) = 18 I A 9

One estoppel against another In a case of one estoppel against another the parties are set free and the Court has to see what their original rights are Juanlal v Behari Lal, 152 P W R 1918 = 45 Ind Cas 68

Benami Where a father, whether Hindu or Muhammadan purchases a property in the name of one of his sons the ordinary presumption is that it is a benami transaction and not that it is an advancement in favour of the son ... indications which ... aim at the time ... hat the father ... hulam Dastgir ... 67 If parties ... ative character, they cannot come in on his death under Order 22, rule, 3 Doraisami v. Chilamboram, A I R 1930 Mad 221=58 M L J 48

Estoppel by election Where a man has an option to choose one or other of two inconsistent things, when once he has made his election, it is final and cannot ' . ' . L R 7 App Ca 360 . . . . . potest Co Lit 146 a . . . . ie time. Caspers on Estopp . . . . . it both eat your cake and return your cake Per Crompton J in Clarke v. Dickinson, E B & E 152 To illustrate the doctrine of election, suppose by A Will or deed, gives to B property belonging to C, and by the same instrument gives other property belonging to himself to C, a Court of equity will hold C to be entitled to the gift made to him by A only, upon the implied . . . he provisions of the instrument, by renoun- : favour of B, he must, consequently make rmed he is put to his election, to take either under or against the instrument, if C elects to take under, and consequently to conform with all the provisions of, the instrument, no difficulty arises, as B will take C s property, and C will take the property given to him by A, but if C elects to take against the instrument, that is to say, retains his own property and at the same time sets up a claim to the property given to him by A an important question arises whether he thereupon incurs a forfeiture of the whole of the benefit conferred upon him by the instrument, or is merely bound to make compensation out of it to the person who is disappointed by his election W & T Leading case Vol I p 312 It is an obligation imposed upon a party to choose between two inconsistent alternative rights or claims, in cases where there is clear intention of the person, from whom he derives one, that he should not enjoy both Every case of election, therefore presupposes a plurality of gifts or rights with an intention, express or implied of the party, who has a right to control one or both, that one should be a substitute for the other The party who is to take has a choice, but he cannot enjoy benefits of both Story Eq Jur § 1077; see also section 35 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882) and, section 180 of the Succession Act (XXXIX of 1925) "The doctrine" says Fry L J in In Re Vardon's Trusts, 31 Ch D 275 (279) "rests, not on the particular provisions of the instrument which . . .

and general intention ' But the election must be a volutary act, not forced upon him by circumstances over which he had no control Asia v Nurjan, A I R 1933 Cal 39

Estoppel by negligence It is true that there can be no negligence unless . . . 776 Before . . . onduct, there . . . the general . . . ifone, 19 Q B D 68; . . . nd essential condition . . . he transaction itself, . . . d that it is impossible to treat them separately is that the negligence must not only be calculated to have the misleading effect attributed to it but must be proximate or real cause of that result Bank of Ireland v Evans' Charities in Ireland, 5 H L Cas 389 per Parke B, Swan v North British Australian Co, 7 H & N 603, 633

Other cases After the right to get either recission or reformation of the contract is barred, it is not competent to a party to a contract enjoying the benefit under it to say that he is not bound by one of its terms Sashi Kanti v Gendu Sheil, 82 Ind Cas 970=A I R 1925 Cal 389 Admission in a different proceeding that one had sold the land does not act as estoppel so as to do away with the necessity of registering the document Maung Po Yin v Maung Tet Tu, 86 Ind Cas 205 = A I R 1925 Rang property made by a number of donors joint of the donors had no right to make the g 85 Ind Cas 546 = A. I R 1925 Mad 990 of certain shares from a widow during her life time he is estopped from denying the truth of the representation in suit between himself and the representatives of the lady Mahamed Hasan v Ali Haidar, 85 Ind Cas 509 = A I R 1925 Oudh 337 = 12 O L J 1 Estoppel is purely personal and will not affect others in so far as they claim a title otherwise than through the person primarily Umaram v Purukh, 85 Ind Cas 540 = A I R 1925 Cal 993 A defendant cannot be allowed to set up his own fraud in defence Where a plaintiff claiming a title by purchase sues for declaration and possession, it is not open to the defendant to show that it was she who provided funds for the purchase by means of a fraud on the reversioner to which she and the plaintiff were parties Pachayammal v Devanaiammal, 22 L W 313 = A I R 1925 Mad 1016 A man who has represented to an intending purchaser that he has not a security and induces him under that belief to buy, cannot, as against that purchaser, subsequently attempt to put his security inforce Jia Lal v Saeia Bibi, 99 Ind Cas 2 = A I R 1927 Oudh 104 Although the house of an agriculturist is ordinarily unsaleable, still the conduct of the agriculturist judgment-debtor may estop him from pleading that the house is not saleable Ganga Bishun v Jogmohan, 6 P 251 = 102 Ind Cas 616 = 8 Pat L T 563 = A I R 1927 Pat 233 Where the question arose whether a company was liable to be assessed to companies' tax ly

... written a letter to
...sed on its ...ability of the assessment by a suit in the civil Court Bombay Co Ltd v Municipal Council of Dindigul, 108 Ind Cas 26 = 27 L W 243 Even if the compromise is beneficial to a party's interest, but he has not taken any benefit out of or under it, that

... from challenging it I R 1928 Cal 334
interest purported to ng his right as a raiyat but the purchaser at an execution sale of that person's right and interest who got his name mutated in the sherista of the superior landlord on payment of an enhanced rent is not so estopped Jaladhar Mandal v Amrita Lal Roy, 105 Ind Cas 641 = A I R 1928 Cal 87 A muafidar who has mortgaged his muafi
... ejected his want of had expressly enacted recognised 50 W mortgagee cannot deny 987 = A I R 19 8
ar in the cau e title by mistake but claiming to be a proper party to a legal proceeding, takes step for ... be really party If instances may be
... as 837 =
... osseses on (1925) M W N 654 = A I R 1925 Mad 990 If a person ... of certain property as a mutawali and holds possession of it on that basis, he cannot afterwards turn round and say, that the wakf being void, he was in possession in his own right and claim the property as his own as against the beneficiaries Bulya Banu v Najira Banu 55 C 448 = 32 C W N 218
... took part in
... he purchased
... to establish
... er was a party
his title under a ...
... rasad v Pooran, 26 A L ... basis of investment in commercial speculations cannot claim on another basis when he finds the first basis prejudicial to him He cannot both approbate and reprobate Hiraram v

Madan Gopal 33 C W N. 193=49 C L J 335=27 A L J 106=A I. R 1929 P C 77 Where a person admits execution before the Registrar after the document has been

he was ignorant of

W N 407=29 I purchase the property of his other co sharer, he is estopped from exercising his right of pre-emption Rameswar v Ghanshyam Prasad, 27 A L J 665=A I R 1929 All 731 For purposes of estoppel an order by consent, not discharged by mutual agreement, and remaining unreduced is as effective as an order of the Court made otherwise than by consent and not discharged on appeal. Charles Hubert v Edward Keith, 118 Ind Cas 7=A I R 1929 (P C) 289=57 M L J 429 (P C) A party who takes advantage under partition, is estopped from pleading impartibility Narendra v Nagendra, 50 C L J 267=A I R 1929 Cal 577 Where a County Court Judge has tried an action which he had no jurisdiction to try, and the unsuccessful party appeals the respondent is entitled to raise the point of jurisdiction notwithstanding that it was not raised below, and the fact that no objection was taken to the jurisdiction in the county Court does not create any estoppel by conduct Simpson v Crowie, (1921) 3 K B 243=90 L J K B 878 Where in prior land acquisition proceedings there was a declaration that minerals beneath a particular land could be used by the Government for the purpose of construction of a bridge and the owner of the land received compensation on that footing and after the completion of the bridge he sued for a declaration that he was entitled to the remaining mineral in the land, held, that he was not estopped cannot be heard later or after the sale to plead that the figure was unduly low and the sale should therefore be set aside Ramanatham v Ramanathan, 117 Ind Cas 705=30 L W. 995 A person creating a charge or a mortgage is estopped from saying that he is not entitled to create the charge or mortgage on the property Shankar v Ganpat, 31 Bom L R 439=119 Ind Cas 186=1929 Bom 227

A usufructuary mortgagee cannot deny the title of the mortgagor and set up adverse possession unless he actually leaves the holding and enters under a different status Jai Nandan v Umrao 119 Ind Cas 568=A I R 1929 All 305

Where a widow makes a gift of her husband's property in her possession promise which amounts to a settlement of a doubtful claim, it is binding on him, even though at the time when he entered into it he was a mere reversioner There is nothing to prevent him from so acting as to estop himself by his own conduct from subsequently claiming a property to which he may succeed Moti Shah v Chandharp Singh, 48 A 637=96 Ind Cas 595 Where an order directing the payment of the decree by instalment was passed at the request of the judgment debtor who subsequently acted upon it, he is precluded from contending that the order was not binding on him Fielding v The Firm of Janaki Das, 95 Ind Cas 243=A I R 1926 Lah 465

A Hindu widow executed a mortgage as guardian of her adopted son, subsequently she sold the properties to the plaintiff as her own The plaintiff hat the plaintiff was not estopped from took a lease of the properties from the third person In a suit for redemption of the mortgage, held, that the mortgagee was estopped from setting up the plea of tenancy Gauri v Mangla, 7 L R 171 (Rev)=A I R 1926 All 463 As between a mortgagor and his mortgagee, neither can deny the title of the other for the purposes of the mortgage, but the estoppel does not arise in a suit neither based on nor connected with the mortgage Deo Kali v Ranchoor Bir 92 Ind Cas 19=13 O L J 208=A I R 1926 Oudh 253 Where in case of an alienation a person entitled to challenge it is present at the mutation proceedings and when there is every opportunity of objecting to it does not object he cannot challenge the alienation subsequently Ram Sarup v Ram Saran 96 Ind Cas 915=A I R 1926 Lah 650 Where a person purchases certain property in execution of a money decree expressly subject to a mortgage on it and admits the existence of the mortgage it is not subsequently open to him to challenge the mortgage in a suit on the mortgage by the mortgagee Govindrao v Hirchand 95 Ind Cas 563=A I R 1926 Nag 146 Where the owner of a property keeps quiet when his property is being sold as belonging to the judgment debtor in executio[illegible] hment and sale, he is estopped [illegible] Singh, 27 P L R 260=A I R [illegible] successfully pleaded in the Small Cause Court that the suit was one triable by the regular side he ought not to be allowed when the suit is filed on the regular side to turn round and plead that it ought to have been filed in the Small Cause Court Kartar Singh v Nanda 95 Ind Cas 846=A I R 1926 All 664 Where a lease is taken on the understanding that it would be for the benefit of the local public and this formed part of the consideration for the lease, the lessees cannot afterwards turn round and claim an absolute interest in the lands leased and deny rights to the public Peary Lal v Surendra Nath 88 Ind Cas 505=A I R 1925 Cal. 1233 A mere undertaking may operate as an estoppel, though it may not amount to a contract Shailesh Chandra v Bechai Gope 84 Ind Cas 124=A I R 1925 Cal 24 Where mortgagor [illegible] higher interest to get extension [illegible] mortgagee for execution of the [illegible] nt could not be enforced in [illegible] is 723=48 M L J 121 There can be no estoppel in favour of a party who was not misled except by his own ignorance of the law Amjad v Ashraf 2 O W N 83=87 Ind Cas 445=A I R 1925 Oudh 568 A person is not precluded from setting up an inconsistent case in a subsequent litigation The contention put forward in the previous [illegible] itself become a foundation for any [illegible] L W 551=90 Ind Cas 124= [illegible] ion to arbitration through Court [illegible] proceedings on the ground that the [illegible] on Tuanj v Sona Hangh 5[illegible] 7 Ind Cas 633=A I R 1925 Cal 812 The person to whom a notice has been given to the effect that a property is going to be sold and who intimates his refusal to purchase can not be allowed after the sale has been made after his refusal to turn round and seek to enforce his right of pre emption through the Court The doctrine of estoppel applies to all sorts of cases including pre emption cases Don Mahomed v Bint Zohra 87 Ind Cas 414.

A person is not entitled to give an undertaking to a criminal Court to abstain from certain action to go and file a civil suit for declaration that the undertaking given by him was of no effect Ramsaran v Seo Pratab 89 Ind Cas 586=A I R 1925 All 605 Where the vendee under a contract for sale of immovable property stated to the vendor that his (the vendee's) money was ready and that the title deed was being engrossed and where those two matters alone were wanting to complete the sale and where the vendor gave five days notice to the vendee to complete the sale the vendee was estopped from denying the truth of his statements Motilal v Haji Moora 41 C L J 331=88 Ind Cas 41=27 Bom L R 814

Where a prior vendee induced a subsequent vendee to believe that notwithstanding prior sale deed the vendor continued to be owner and to purchase property in that belief he is estopped from claiming priority under his sale [illegible] N 596=90 Ind Cas 87=A I [illegible] in the settlement record may [illegible] mount to estoppel Mal[illegible] v Pitamber, L R 6 All [illegible] (Rev) [illegible] possession of land claiming under a deed or Will he cannot afterwards set up another title to the land in question against the Will or deed though it did not operate to pass the land in question and if he remains in possession till 12 years have elapsed and the title of his testator's heir is extinguished, he cannot claim by possession an interest in the property different from that which he could have taken if the property had passed by the Will or deed Jogeswar v Panduranj, 7 N L J 82=78 Ind Cas 810=A I R 1924 Nag 73 Where there is a contract for sale no decree for possession can be given unless the title is completed by a registered deed and an agreement between parties to do away with the necessity expressly requires it Maung 68, Dharam Chand v Mujt S 20 C W N 307 But an undertaking may operate as an estoppel though in the absence of consideration it cannot amount to a contract Situations may arise in which a contract should be held to be an estoppel as in cases where only an adequate right of action would exist in favour of the injured party if estoppel were not allowed In such a case estoppel may sometimes be available to prevent fraud Shailesh Chandra v Lechu Gope 10 C L J 67=1925 Cal 91 The donee of a property is not esto not belong to the donor but was Moolchand, 76 Ind Cas 1?8=1925 sign the award and as a result would otherwise have prosecuted the other party is estopped from contesting the validity of the award Monoharlal v Mt Ilma 77 Ind Cas 41

S.

It cannot be said that a Mahomedan tenant in common can be held to be represented by another Mahomedan tenant in common merely because their interests are identical Karim Baksh v Wahaj Uddin 46 A 211=L R 5 A 5 (Rev)=22 A L J 73-78 Ind Cas 1035 A mortgagor is estopped from pleading in a suit on the mortgage that he had no title to the property at the date of the document But if the mortgagee is proved to be well aware of the rty, the plea of estoppel 924 Nag 363 Where the names and the son on t to alienation, he is there-be deemed to have re-Habibullah, 1924 All 721.

Where a person gets another's name recorded as owner of a moiety of the property, and on the faith of that another purchases it at an auction sale the former can not later on claim ownership of the same Mathura Prosad v Anandi, 21 A L J 498 L R 4 A 5?=74 Ind Cas 911 A dispute under s 145 Cr Pro Code relates only to possession of the properties and consequently a compromise of the proceedings does not estop a party from denying the title of the other Gopi Das v Madho Lal, 45 A 162=1923 All 77=23 A L J 932

In order to maintain a plea of estoppel in a pre emption suit, it must be proved that the plaintiff believed the representation made and brought his suit on the basis of it Banke Behari Lal v Manna Lal, 73 Ind Cas 372 Where the mortgage deed clearly purports to be executed by the mortgagor as the proprietor of the property in his own interest he is estopped from denying the interest which he represented as his own proprietary right in the deed Brij Tarun v Raghunandan 71 Ind Cas 941 (1923) Pat 49

Where a co sharer had been allowed by other shares to treat certain land as his exclusive holding and he grants a perpetual lease of a small portion of the land so as to confer occupancy right on the tenant and at a subsequent partition the land was allotted to another co sharer held that the co sharer was estopped from disputing the title of the occupancy tenant to the land Tej Singh v Munshi, L R 4 A 54=9 O & A L R 435

Even where the mortgagors are trustees acting in a public capacity and not for their own benefit they are estopped from denying their title and cannot set up as a defence against the mortgagee that the property so mortgaged is trust Brij Ratan v Raghu

sion of certain plots sis upon title after-Held that there was Chandra, 4 Pat L J,

730 A statement in the Court of an Assistant Collector during the mutation proceedings to the effect that the plaintiff and two others were in possession of the property in equal shares and that mutation of names may be made accordingly, does not prevent the plaintiff from asserting his right to the entire property in Civil Court subsequently Ramratan v Binda, 9 O & A L R 20 = 72 Ind Cas 832 Where in execution of a money decree the decree holder under a bonafide mistake brought to sale certain of his own properties as those of his judgment debtor and the sale was confirmed and delivery of possession was made to the purchaser, held that the decree holder was estopped from setting up his own title to the properties as against the auction purchaser mistake was bonafide Ram Swami v

Though a lease of ree brothers still it n the same interest brother who did not y of the same Raja ere in execution of attached and sold as a decree against that of one of the of the proceeding

had knowledge objections whatever from bringing a and even allowed the sale to be confirmed, they are estopped on the ground
Ind Cas 797
n mortgages on by them Alla en by the agent in the absence ancy rights the d no occupancy

Zemindar is not estopped from asserting that the ten rights Kamla v Misrilal, L R 3 A an application with the defendant arbitration On the next day G R before the, Court lasted for over a ntffs joined in ferred to plication bitration oughout on behalf

on the ground of refer ion as to writing Court will btain the de if it is 123 Ind

the exact l returns he mort Secretary
e takes a m, he is

mortgage from a person in possession and obtains possession he not permitted to question the mortgagor's title Surendranath v Khulu ra Mohan, 29 C L J 434 = 52 Ind Cas 59 A mortgagee brought a suit for possession of the mortgaged property against a person whom he treated as the decree, subsequently when mortgagee for redemption of ating his right to represent
Cas 356

ty by estoppel must satisfy uctive notice of the title of the ces which could put him on ence Act affords no definition rchaser making a reasonable as 969 = 9 L W 318 = (1919) for his own private purposes mortgages land which is afterwards sold in Court auction at the instance of the mortgagee, can sue on behalf of the temple to recover the landlord's interest, S. which . claim agains . Sahib

v Ek . Ind
Cas 197 Where a person by his conduct in a redemption suit had elected to affirm the sale and to act upon it, he is estopped from suing for the cancellation of the sale of equity of redemption on the ground of fraud Chanham v Behari Lal
he derr Ind Cas 997 It is not open to the les his ejectment by the auction purchaser to question the validity of the mortg Cas 705 Where a person after his tolls in a Municipality has been accepted, represents to the Municipality that he bid on behalf of himself and another person and asks that such other person should be regarded as co contractor and the latter joins in this petition of representation and pays money on which the chairman officially accepts the amount tendered by both the person who did not join in the original bid is isputing his liability under the contract uction Municipal Council v Kannu- 600 The admission of liability under a decree obtained against the ward does not create an estoppel and debar the Court of wards from challenging the validity under the Court of Wards Act not having been complied with the decree was not validly obtained Punjab Court of Wards v Lala Kanwar Bhan, 126 Ind Cas 796=31 P L R 719=A I R 1930 L Nanda v ferred by the lower the right t acquiesced in the decree, and therefore is not estopped from prosecuting the appeal Kaikalbad v Khanhalla 124 Ind Cas 839=31 P. L R 668=A I R 1930 Lah 26 Where a lease granted by one co sharer confers no right upon the lessee there is nothing to prevent the grantor from joining the other co-sharers to eject the lessee who is found to possess no right in respect of the land in dispute Panchanan v Anant, A I R 1932 All 457. If the grantors so that any person were the absolute

real transaction conveyance Ts
Where par certain rights, which they allege they have in consideration of certain proceedings in Court being brought to an end, they cannot thereafter allege the continuing existence of those rights Mahomed Ibrahim v Chandan Singh 63 Ind plaintiff was estopped from denying the right of the defendants under s 115 of the Evidence Act Ananta Murarrad v Gunu Nitha, 22 Bom L R 415=57 Ind Cas 143 A dispute was settled by arbitration Subsequently two of the arbitrators purchased the interest of one of the parties to the dispute and sought to upset the arrangement arrived at as a result of the arbitration In the circumstances they were estopped from doing so Budhai Singh v Karan Singh, 55 Ind Cas 506 When a person appeared at the time of the mutation in respect of the sale in dispute and expressed his consent to it he cannot subsequently come forward to impugn it Muhammad v Wali, 2 Lab L J 306 Where some of the motgagees led a subsequent purchaser of a portion of the mortgaged property and a puisne mortgagee of the remainder to believe that the whole property was unencumbered, they were precluded by the do trine of estoppel from setting up their rights under the prior mortgage against the ... effect of the estoppel was to postpone them in ... mortgagee Sakhiudlin ... account, a party is estopped from suing for ar ... Vol II ... interest ... judgment ... the decretal debt as well as interest ... m the Court to enable him to pay the amount he (the judgment debtor) cannot at a later stage of the proceedings dispute the item of interest, and is bound to pay interest from the date on which he admitted his liability to pay interest Narayan v Raoji, 6 Bom L R 417=28 B 393. A party cannot take benefit of a transaction and at the same time repudiate it when the transaction is one and indivisible Where the property of a judgment-debtor is sold in execution of a decree and the sale-proceeds go in satisfaction of the decree, and the judgment-debtor accepts the payment of the decree, he cannot impeach a part of the sale Annapurnabai v. Ramchandra, 43 Ind Cas 178 Where two persons embark upon a joint adventure for the purpose of extinguishing a prior mortgage and taking a first charge on the property it is the legal duty of each to inform his co mortgagee within a reasonable time that he had still an outstanding claim under the prior mortgage and the omission to give the information amounts to such an omission as is contemplated by s 115 of the Evidence Act and operates as estoppel Pandurang v Narayan, 44 Ind Cas 517 A judgment-debtor got an execution sale postponed on undertaking that he would not raise any objection on the ground of regularity or irregularity ... to set it aside on the ... the time he ... the sale ... with that ... ng brought ... s 558 A ... n transfer ... 82 without ... not, by ... dnapur ... Zemindary, 27 C L ... nd in a prior suit brought against him by the defendant agreed to give up possession of ... the deed of ... es and the parties enjoyed the ... in pursuance of that arrangement but its validity was sought to be questioned after the death of the mother by the executants themselves Held that they were est ... A I R 1930 All 687 ... a Will cannot ... erest to another ... of the Contract Act ... Jacob v The ... ty of nearly five years prior to the suit for rescission of contract on the ground of defect in title of plaintiff's vendors and onerous covenants is highly prejudicial to the defendant's vendors, especially when the plaintiff was previously seeking to enforce the contract against his vendees notwithstanding the defects Plaintiff's conduct in enforcing the contract against his vendee and laches of five years work out an estoppel against him and equally debar him from enforcing his claim Soralji v Tarachand, A I R. 1930 Sind 66 A purchaser at a Court sal ... the judgment debtor ... at all The ... at he is buying ... st the property but it does not mean that the encumbrance charge or any other claim against the property has been established In connection, therefore, with the sale of immoveable property subject to an encumbrance the auction purchaser is entitled to contest the factum and the validity of the encumbrance There is no rule of of estoppel which can prevent him from impeaching the charge on the property Mt Man Kuar v Ishar Das A I R 1930 Lah 40, see also Fatunnisa v Pirtab Singh, 31 A 583 = 36 Ind Cas 203 (P C), Aga Sultan v Mohabbat Khan, A I R 1921 All 79 = 43 A 480, Ganesh Moheshwar v Purushottam 33 B 311 = 11 Bom L R 26, Narayan v Umlar 35 B 275 = 13 Bom L R 307 = 10 Ind Cas 913 The fact that after the death of the successful pre-empter the vendor himself has become the legal representative is not enough to estop the latter from taking the benefit of the decree Brindaban v Durag Singh, A I R 1920 All 220 The mere fact, that a corporation has granted license under certain chapter of a Municipal Act does not preclude it from refusing to grant a different license under some other provisions of the Act Corporation of Calcutta v Siemens Bena 35 C W N 831

S.

116 No tenant of immoveable property, or person claiming through such tenant shall during the continuance of the tenancy, be permitted to deny that the landlord of such tenant had at the beginning of the tenancy, a title to such immoveable property and no person who came upon any immoveable property by the license of the person in possession thereof shall be permitted to deny that such person had a title to such possession at the time when such license was given

Estoppel of tenant, and of license of person in possession

Principle "Where a man having no title obtains possession of land under a device by a man in possession who assumes to give him a title as tenant he car

He
un ba ad est
St
C
I
r

plaintiff, and then refused to pay his rent under an idea that he might contest the plaintiff s right, but the plaintiff could not be supposed to come to trial prepared to meet such a defence and to make out his title, such an action as the present does not involve the question of title In the same case Grose J said 'It has been said that the rule of not giving in evidence nil habuit in tenements in an action for use and occupation is a technical rule, but in my opinion no rule is better founded in justice and policy than this The general rule is admitted that in such an action as this the tenant cannot dispute the landlord s title, se '
'The principle i the contrary, it is hi out of possession 41

Scope of the section The estoppel of a tenant is one of the most notice-abl bu
or 53

6. tenancy," from denying that the landlord had "at the beginning of the tenancy," a title to the property, the subject of the tenancy The words of the section leave it open to the tenant to show that his landlord's title has expired subsequently Balakushaba v Abai Amrita, 11 Bom L R 1093 In the same case Batchelor J in delivering his judgment said "The law on this branch of estoppel is contained in s 116 of the Evidence Act, which in express terms limits the unassailability of the landlord's title of the continuance of the tenancy, and during the continuance of that the tenant is not permitted to deny that his landlord [illegible] tenancy.' These words leave it open to [illegible] has expired and in these respects [illegible] een the law in England see for instance Delany v Fox, 2 C B N S 768 and Neale v Moss, 1 Bing 60 And that this is the clear meaning of the section has been accepted in India Ammu v Ram Krishna Sastri 2 M 266 and Subboraya v Krishnappa, 12 M 422 So the tenant is not estopped from showing that the title of his landlord has expired since the tenancy commenced, or that the land in question is not [illegible] the land and at [illegible] one of the [illegible] ween landlord [illegible] former The [illegible] the tenant in [illegible] only recognised as landlord either by express agreement or by attornment, or formal acknowledgment by payment of rent he may always show that his conduct was due to mistake or ignorance of facts relating to title, misrepresentation or fraud" Ketudas v Surendra Nath 7 C W N 596; see also Gregory v Doidge, 3 Bing 474, Rogers v Pitchers 6 Taunt 202 In Williams v. Bartholomew, 1 B & P 326, Buller J said "If the tenant could have proved that his attornment proceeded from misrepresentation of him who claimed as remainder man he might have proved that another was still alive an entitled" A tenant cannot allege that his landlord has only an equitable interest Francis v Doe d Harvey 4 M & W 331, Dolby v Iles, 11 Ad & El 335; Board v Board, L R 9 Q B [illegible] as trustees of the [illegible] s for [illegible] quire [illegible] ded [illegible] n by

Possession must be given to th[illegible] estoppel landlord's permission Bigelo[illegible] in the p 100 The principle upon [illegible] law, to wit, that one [illegible] another will not dispute the title of [illegible] done Bigelow on Estoppel 5th Ed [illegible] & S 318 at p 319 Dampier J said [illegible] to the lessor and then disclaimed But he ought to give back the possession to the lessor, and after that the defendant may have her ejectment It has been ruled often that neither the tenant, nor any one claiming by him, can controvert the landlord's title He cannot put another person in possession, he must deliver up the premises to his own landlord This I believe, has been the rule for the last twenty five years, and as I remember was so laid down by Buller J upon the western circuit" That case was decided in 1815 So this rule is not a very ancient one See also Doe d Bristow v Pegge, 1 T R 758

Where a person entitled as co-partner, made a lease of the whole land, the tenant, after having entered and paid rent was estopped from denying that the heir and privy in blood to the lessor was entitled to the whole Weeks v Birch, (1891) [illegible] not a lessee, the latter [illegible] only Thom[illegible] ed, the lessee, [illegible] cannot questi[illegible] ed and tenant is also virtually created, so far as the question of estoppel is [illegible] paramount [illegible] der whom [illegible] 5th Ed pp 515-517 But this section does not debar one, who has once been a tenant, S. from contending that the title of his landlord has been lost or his tenancy has been determined I from contending th tenancy Ammu v over after the exp

that his landlord

the zemindar and

Gooroo Pershad, recover possession of a house from the defendants alleging that they were his tenants under a lease which he had granted to them, and that though the term of the lease had expired they refused to vacate, the defendants having passed the Kabuliyat to plaintiff could not be heard to deny the latter's title as ground for refusing to give up possession Patel v Hargovan, 19 B 133 Plaintiff alleging a purchase of land from A and B and that he afterwards granted them a patta and retained them in possession, sued to recover possession on the ground of the tenancy having expired He tendered in evidence a consent decree obtained against B for arrears of rent Held that the decree worked no estoppel against B by virtue of s 116 of the Evidence Act and did not relieve the plaintiff of the necessity of proving his case completely Sollur Monlal v Nilcomal, 1 C L R 528 Two persons mortgaged certain property and five years later joined with anothe

mortg

party

him five years after, estopped from showing that the mortgagors were not, at the date of the lease, entitled to the whole of the property comprised in the mortgage Prosunno Kumar Sen v Mahaborat, 7 C W N 575 A person who obtained possession of property from another is estopped from denying the title of that other to the property at the time he was so let into possession But where the defendant obtained possession of certain property under a rental agreement from one S who was the manager of certain charity to which the said property was attached held that the defendant ... although he was entitled to manage the pro ... Will and

43 Ind Cas 47 A tena ... expiration of the tenancy, deny his land ... enly surrendering possession to him Ma ... 50 Ind Cas 591 (35 Ind Cas 7, 24 C L ... 97, 37 All 557 foll), see also Ekoba Go ... = 55 Ind Cas 353, Ilah Baksh v Lal Khan, 67 Ind Cas 269, see also Mahomed v Uberoi 89 Ind Cas 590 = 12 O L J 501, Mahomed v Zahiruddin, 101 Ind Cas 771 Pundlik v Urkuda, 97 Ind Cas 992, Dayalal v Ko Lon, 6 Rang 657, Sidik v Mahomed, 21 S L R 185, Vertannes v Robinson, A I R 1928 Rang 162, Currimbhoy v L T Creet, A I R 1933 P C 29 A person who executes a lease in favour of another, is estopped from denying that other's title to grant the lease It is immaterial whether he was the tenant of some other person before the execution of the lease Chandoo v Purbhoo, 59 Ind Cas 707 A person entering into a covenant in his Kabuliyat is bound to recognise rights so recorded even if such rights were incorrectly recorded and had no real existence Midnapore Zemindari Co Ltd v Nares Narain, 38 C L J 317 = 63 Ind Cas 161; Samsuddin v Aga Syed 9 O & A L R 1041

... a landlord from the Talquzar Seth Sujun ... Entries in revenue ... correctness which has ... under s 42 of the ... Jai Kuar v Lathu, ... it not under circumstances which would establish a relationship as between the parties of landlo

S. 116. and tenant, the tenant is not estopped from showing that the person to whom he paid the rent is not the landlord Abdul Razzak v Promada Sundari, 80 Ind Cas 22 Tenant in possession prior to lease also is estopped Mool Ram v M Bholi, A I R 1925 Lah 60 Where a property is leased by a person without title to it and the lessee is ejected by the true owner it is not open to the lessee in a suit by his lessor against him to deny the plaintiffs' title Moti Lal v Yar Mahomed 47 A 63=85 Ind Cas 756=A I R 1925 All 275

Though the t [illegible] and show that his [illegible] Such a plea does [illegible] confession and avo[illegible] on the ground that the lessor s title has been defeated by a title paramount [illegible] the case of complete eviction [illegible] as the question of continuance [illegible] by title paramount terminating the [illegible] nd But in the case of a partial eviction dem[illegible] the distinction is quite apparent [illegible] but "attornment" in the sense in w[illegible] a mere agreement in favour of a third party to pay rent but has been defined a the act of the tenant putting one person in the place of another as his landlord Jogendra Lal v Mahesh Chandra, 55 C 1013=32 C W N 559=112 Ind Cas 172=47 C L J 387 Where the rights of the vendors of the plaintiff had become extinguished by adverse possession of a plot of land by defendant for more than 12 years, the defendant will not be estopped from pleading acquisition of title by adverse possession and denying plaintiff's title to plot even though the defendant, after purchase of the plot by the plaintiff had obtained his permission to occupy the plot Maung Ba Than v Maung Sein Win, A I R 1929 Rang 170 Where the mortgagees in possession allow the mortgagors to remain in occupation of the mortgaged properties as tenants and the mortgagors duly execute and reg[illegible] [illegible] landlord and tenant subsists between t[illegible] [illegible] plead that the lease [illegible] v Krishna Chand [illegible] Woods, L R 3 Q [illegible]

The mere fact that a person has taken a lease from the Municipal Board cannot estop him from setting u[illegible] who was no party to that lease If any es[illegible] between the lessor and the lessee Tika [illegible]

[illegible] corporeal hereditament [illegible] therefore, this section [illegible] R 939 Whatever may have been the nature of a person's possession prior to a lease, once he takes a lease deed in respect of the land from another he is thereafter estopped from denying the ti[illegible] [illegible] L J 907=L R 3 A 623 [illegible] property only. Maung Kyaw v [illegible] ing 91

No tenant. "The true ground of estoppel is" according to the judgment of Vice-Chancellor Sir P W Page Wood, in Longford v Selmes, 3 K & J 220, 229, "that a tenant may not dispute the right of his landlord by saying that he had nothing in the property It is equally clear" he observes, "that he may, nevertheless, show that the landlord had an interest at the date of the lease, which has since determined" The ground of the doctrine, as stated by Lush J, in Morton v Woods, (1868) L R 3 Q B 658 at p 671, is that "inasmuch as the parties have agreed that they should stand in the relation of landlord and tenant, and the one accordingly receives possession from the other and enters premises, so long as he continues in possession, he cannot be heard to deny the state of facts which he has agreed shall be taken as the basis of the arrangement; in other words, he cannot set up that the landlord has no legal title" The principle is exactly expressed by Palles C B in Wagan v D (1883) 12 L R Ir 69, 72,—"The defendant is estopped from alleging that his lessor had not at the time of letting, any estate in the premises He may however, on proper pleading show, that the estate which the lessor had at the time of letting had expired before the commencement of the action." A tenant

S.

may dispute the title of one from whom he did not get possession, and to whom he has not attorned, in the strict sense of the word, at the request or with the privity of the person from whom he did get possession Gregory v Doidge, 3 Bing 474 Cornish v Searell, 8 B & C 471, Lall Mahomed v Kallines, 11 C. 519 A tenant who has repeatedly acknowledged that a person in possession of the proprietary right was entitled to receive rent and who has in fact attorned to him cannot afterwards be allowed to question the validity of the title of such person for the reason that the instrument by virtue of which possession of the proprietary right had been obtained was unregistered Shums Ahmed v Ghoolam Moher, 3 N W P 113 A tenant who was not let into possession by the person seeking to eject him is not estopped from denying the plaintiff's title, he may show that the title is in some third person or in himself Venkata v Ayyanna 31 M L J 712=20 M L T 157=36 Ind Cas 817 (F B) A grantee of lands so long as he holds a religious office in a temple is estopped from setting up a title inconsistent with that of the grantor, and an alienee from such grantee is similarly estopped and the alienation itself is invalid as against the trustee of the temple Section 116 of the Evidence Act is not exhaustive of the law of estoppel Thayellayam v Venkatarama Krishnayam, (1919) M W N 49=33 Ind Cas 898 This section applies not only to tenants let into possession at the beginning of the lease but also to tenants who are already in possession and continue in it Harat v Dindi, 25 Ind Cas 615 An adverse action taken by a third party, whether that third party be the Government or some other rival claimant cannot have the effect of terminating the relationship of landlord and tenant and the tenant will be estopped by this section from denying the landlord's title Kunhunni v in Kannu Thara, (1918) M W N 376=8 L W 41=45 Ind Cas 655 Under this section a tenant is precluded from denying the title of the landlord, but it is open to him to question the status of his landlord Lokoram v. Budya Rai 53 Ind Cas 43 A tenant who has executed a lease but has not been let into possession by the lessor, is estopped from denying his lessor's title in the absence of proof that he executed the lease in ignorance of the defect in his lessors' title or that his execution of the lease was procured by fraud, misrepresentation or coercion Malham v Busakhi, 123 P R, 1919=50 Ind Cas 591 A tenant inducted of land by one person cannot alter by the character of his possession and make it adverse to the landlord going over to another person and paying rent to him Abdul Halim v Pana Mia, 51 Ind Cas 494 A tenant cannot deny the right of the person from whom he took the tenancy Janki v Ram Sahai, L R 4 A 398, Sital Prasad v Badri, 69 Ind Cas 647 A tenant can prove cessor of landlord's title by ouster by ... he latter on ouster Ramaswami, v ... ee also Alagapillai v Ramaswami, 49 Ind Cas 892, Hopcroft v Keys, 9 Bing 613

Where in a suit by ... has been admitted, the ... landlord's title Rattirai ... 626 The section of th... who has been put in pos... of English law which enacts that a tenant who was so let into possession could not deny his landlord's title The plea of estoppel is of no avail where tenants are ... ain members of the ... egal position or by ... possession of their ... effect upon their ... Pal Singh, 4 O W N ... estopped ... =29 Bom ... applies to ... v Asurn, ... tenant, it does not lie ... e of the lessors Keso ... I R 1927 Cal 94 ... at 281 "The rule" s ... prohints a tenant from disputing in a Court of law the title of his landlord, is a w[illegible] rule tending to general convenience I am aware that there is a qualification of this rule, if qualification it can be called, and that there are cases in which the tenant has been permitted to show that a landlord could not justify a distress in all of these, however, the right of the landlord to demise has been admitted, and the plea has been either that his title has since expired, or that the tenant has been compelled to pay sums which he was entitled to deduct from the rent, these cases therefore rather confirm than impeach the general rule, but the tenant here broadly disputes the lessor's right to demise"

Or person claiming through such tenant When the relation of landlord and tenant is once established, it attaches to all who may succeed the tenant immediately or remotely, and the succeeding tenant is as much affected by the acts and acknowledgments of his predecessor as though they were his own. Crease v Larrat 1 Croup M & R 919 The assignor of a lease is estopped equally with his assignor Taylor v Needham, 2 Taunt 278; John on v Mason, 1 Esp 89, Doe d Bullen v Mills, 2 Ad. & El. 17, Doe d Manton v Plomer, 9 Bing 41 But a third person not claiming possession of the land who has brought goods on to the land by the licence of the tenant, is not estopped from disputing the lessor's title Tilman v Henman, (1893) 2 Q B 168 So persons not claiming possession of land through the tenant are not estopped from denying the title of the lessor Maharaja of Jaipur v Sujan Singh 44 A 671 = 20 A L J 615 = (1922) A 333 Where the lessors accepted and acted upon the Kabuliyat, the lessors as well as the persons claiming under them are equally estopped from denying the validity of the lease Ram Mand l v Durjodhan, 91 Ind Cas 661 = A I R 1926 Cal. 882 The estoppel operates against persons claiming through the tenants, as for instance sub-lessees. Caspers on Estoppel 107, Doe d Knight v Smythe, 4 M & S 347, London and N W Rail Co v West, L R 2 C P 553; Barwick v Thompson, 7 T R 488 An under tenant is bound by estoppels as against his lessor under s 116 and is estopped from denying the title of the original landlord Where the lessor obtains a decree for ejectment against the lessee he can execute the decree against the sub-lessee also Sheikh Yusuf v Jyotish Chandra, 35 C W N 1132 = A I R 1932 Cal 241 This section which enacts the rule of estoppel of a tenant is not exhaustive of all principles of estoppel as between landlord and tenant. The basis of the principle is the fact of the letting of the tenant into possession which creates the estoppel If a tenant consents to give up possession to a party claiming title adverse to the land lord's title that party is estopped as the tenant would have been from disputing the landlord's title Ajitulla v Bilati, 35 C W N 652 = 54 C. L J 151

During the continuance of the tenancy A tenant cannot, in the absence of fraud or mistake, question the title of a person to whom he has attorned (Gravenor v Woodhouse, 1 Bing 38, Hall v Butler, 10 Ad & El 204; Doe d Marlow v Wiggins, 4 Q B 367), or paid rent [(Carlton v Bowcock, (1885) 51 L T 659)], or at whose hands he has submitted to a distress, (Panton v Jones [illegible] 1 Bing N C 45) A tenant is as has already [illegible] title has expired [illegible] 32, Doe d Marriot v [illegible] oe d Strode v Selor [illegible] e v Watson, 2 Stark [illegible] & C 529, Doe v [illegible] 307; Clark v Dlic [illegible] "during the cont[illegible] "at the beginning of [illegible] the subject of the tenancy The words of [illegible] enant to show that his landlord's title has [illegible] a v Abai Amrita, 11 Bom L R 1093, [illegible] 422 The words 'continuance of tenancy" [illegible] in question in the same suit in which the [illegible] us tenancy Nagin Das v Bahalal A I R [illegible] Where the defendant is adjudged a tenant [illegible] of the pl[illegible]tiff he is estop[illegible] this section from denying the title of the pl[illegible]nt [illegible] the beginnin[illegible] nancy Chhadammi v Parbati, A W N 19[illegible] tenant canno[illegible] contin[illegible] the tenancy, be permitted to deny ... The relation ... eased Devilraj ... nta v Dukkumalla, 25 Ind Cas 721 A tenant who has been let into possession cannot deny his landlord's title however defective it may be, so long as he has not openly restored possession by surrender to his landlord Mussamat Bilas Kunwar v Desring, 19 C W N 1207 P C = 29 M L J 335; Mahomed Mumtaz v Maurang, 60 Ind Cas 502 = 3 Lah L J 227 In a suit brought by the plaintiff in ejectment on the expiry of the lease, it is not open to the defendant under s 116 of the Evidence Act to say that the plaintiff is not the sole landlord, when the defendant had been inducted on the land by the plaintiff and when the lease in favour of the defendant had been executed by the plaintiff alone Alimuddin v Alanaddin, 38 Ind Cas 531 This section only operates as an estoppel during the continuance of a tenancy and not after it has come to an end. A tenant is liable to pay rent to the person who has the real title Mahadeo v Jainarayan, 62 Ind Cas 850 But it is open to the tenant to prove a subsequent cessor of the landlord's title, and one way in which the tenant can show that the title had determine ... such an e ... who has ... a term of years cannot set up during the continuance of such relation any title adverse to the landlord inconsistent with the legal relation between them and however notoriously and to the knowledge of the other party, acquire by the operation of the law of limitation title as owner of any other title inconsistent ... Faruq, ... d) The ... against him in ejectment during the continuance of the tenancy and is decreed against him Vertaunes v Robinson A I R 1928 Rang 162 A tenant is not estopped even before or after the expiration of the term from showing that his lessor's title has determined Downs v Cooper, 2 Q B 256, Langford v. Selmes, 3 K & J. 220, 229, Gippins v Buckland, 1 H & C 236; Wogan v Doyle, 12 L R Ir. 39; Sergeant v Nash Field & Co (1903) 2 K B 304, 312 C A But if the tenant came ... h ... Doe v. Smythe, 4 ... , p 401; see also K ... 313, Ajitulla v. B ... 11 Oudh 174 = 8 C ... r s 116 which p ... ment action was temporary only and ceased to operate when he gave up possession of the land and when his tenancy accordingl ... be decided as the case could ... Agabeg v James Golder, 57 I A ...

At the beginning of the tenancy. The words "at the beginning of the teancy" in this section only apply to cases in which the tenants are put into possession of the tenancy by the person to whom they have attorned, and not to cases in which the tenants have previously been in possession Lal Mahomed v Kallanus, 11 C. 519 (explained in Ketudas v. Surendra 7 C W. N 596); ...

... that relationship ceases ... A 226 = 33 Ind Cas 97. ... dlord had no title at a ... that since its commencement it has expired or has been defeated because the bar operates only during the continuance of the tenancy Rama Swami v Alanga Pillai, 79 Ind Ca 881 = 1925 Mad 143 Where under s 116 of the Evidence Act a tenant duri the continuance of the tenancy is not estopped from denying that at the beginning of the tenancy his landlord had any title to the demised premises it is open to a tenant in a suit for recovery of rent to show that the title of his landlord has expired or have legally determined Ram Ralha v Munna Lal, 32 P L R 338=A I R 1931 Lah 243 This section only provides that a tenant cannot be permitted to deny that the landlord at the beginning of the tenancy had a title to the property He is not estopped from saying that on the death of the lessor the property did not devolve on the plaintiff but devolved on some body else Madan Lal v Mt Gour Dasi 26 A L J 1255=110 Ind Cas 376=A I R 1928 All 650 A tenant attorning to the mortgagee and paying rent to him will be estopped from questioning the mortgagee's title in a suit for ejectment by the mortgagee Nagindas v Bahalal, A I R 1930 Bom 391=32 Bom L R 692

How a relationship of landlord and tenant is created A relationship of landlord and tenant can be created either by written contract or by verbal contract, when the landlord has put the tenant in possession of the land It may also be inferred from the Casperz on Estoppel, 102 I established between the pa the landlord's title There r must be put into possession by the landlord in order to estop the tenant from disputing the landlord s title The question in each case is whether a new tenancy has arisen Of course in support of the contention that there was no relation of landlord and tenant between the parties the tenant may assert that the contract of tenancy is void or voidable on account of misrepresentation or fraud Shanker v Jagannath, 30 Bom L R 741=111 Ind Cas 911=A I R 1928 Bom 165 Payment of rent is evidence of permissive occupation, and in all cases furnishes a strong presumption against the tenant It furnishes the landlord with a prima facie case, but the circumstance is always open to explanation, and where rent has been paid under a mistake or upon misrepresentation, it is open to the tenant to rebut the presumption Gravenor v Woodhouse 1 Bing 38, Rogers v Pitcher, 6 Taunt 202, Casperz on Estoppel 113, Williams v Bartholomeo, 1 B & P 326, Doe v Clarke Perke Ad Cas 239, Fenner v Duplock, 2 Bing 10, Doe v Barton, 11 Ad & El 307; Doe v Francis 2 M & R 57, Doe v Brown, 7 Ad & El 447, Hall v Butler, 10 Ad & El 204 Carlton v Boucock, 51 L T 659, Serjent v Nash, (1903) 2 K B 304 C A, Knight v Cox, 18 C title in per on ock, 51 strong

Landlord is a benamidar In cases where the doctrine of estoppel does not come into play, it is open to the tenant-defendant to urge that the plaintiff, as benamidar for the beneficial owner, is not entitled to claim rent from him Rahimannessa v Mahadeb 12 C L J 428 In that case at page 431, Mr Justice Mookherjee said 'The District Judge, as we have already stated, has held hat the plaintiff was a mere isequently claim rent from him judicial decision, but in fact, series of decisions of this Court ses of Donnelle v Kedarnath ckerbutty v Donnelle 20 W R V R 44 and Kailash Mondal also, reliance may be placed to some extent upon the case of Jaynarain Bose v Kadambini Dasi 7 B L R 723 In some of these cases, there are expressions to be found in the judgments to the effect that the doctrine of estoppel recognised in English law should not be adopted in this country It is not necessary for us to consider, whether this view is not too widely expressed, and whether such a position could be maintained in view of the provisions of section 116 of the Indian Evidence Act It is sufficient for us to hold that in cases where the doctrine of estoppel does not come into play, it is open to the tenant-defendant to urge that the plaintiff, as benamidar for beneficial owner is not entitled to claim rent from him We may

S.

143 and Gregory v Deridge, 3 Bing 471" But in a suit for rent, instituted by the person, in s 116 from rai somebody else nature Bogar 1907 ; see also Charan, 9 Ind
Cas 89 But t is executed by general law, has no nant can deny his right also Kuthaperumal v.

I L J 597.

A party obtaining possession ng those premises title against the has collected rent
th v Narayan, 13
M 335

Acceptance of lease under coercion, etc A person who, under coercion, takes a lease, is not bound by his acceptance, nor is he estopped, by paying rent to the person granting the unless the payee let him into posses estoppel would be confined to th was given Collector v Suraj Baksh made to a Collector for a tenure liable to pay revenue on account of an estate, waste, and cannot create can deny his landlord's title existing at the commencement of the lease, the rule only applies where the tenant has been let into possession If through ignorance or mistake a tenant has executed a rent note and has been put in possession by the lessor it seems that he can dispute the lessor's title Mt Luxmibai v Devi 72 Ind Cas 855 A tenant who has executed a lease but attornment was made by payment of rent But the onus of proving want of title is on them Chengtu Soohor v Jaheruddin Mondal, 91 Ind Cas 669 = A I. R 1926 Cal 720 Where a tenant being already in possession has made an attornment or acknowledgment of the tenancy, he may show that he did so

S. through ignorance, mistake or the like Bishen v Fide Husain, 112 Ind Cas 382

Assignee of landlrod A tenant is not prevented from questioning the title of the alleged assignee of his admitted landlord Ranee Tillessurce v Ranee Ashmedh, 21 W R 101. Cornish v Scarell, 8 B & C. 471; Coleridge v Maclenzie, 4 M & G 143 The defendant mortgaged in 1895 an unrecogni ed sub-division of a Narwa but remained in possession of it under a rent note executed in favour of the mortgagee. The mortgagee assigned his rights to the plaintiff Plaintiff sued defendant in ejectment and the latter pleaded that the mortgage, the lease and the assignment were void Held that the defendant having attorned to plaintiff it was not open to him to contend in the ejectment suit that plaintiff had no right to let out the property on rent Darilas v Shamal, 22 Bom L R 149=58 Ind Cas 595 But in the case of an assignee of the lessor, though he is to all intents and purposes in the same situation as the lessor, and takes the benefit of and is bound by a lease by estoppel, the ... that the lessor had no such title as he ... person cla m ng to be the assignee is not ... arker v ... agrave ... Franco ... hls, 11 7 L J O S 18, Jue v Wood, Cr ... M & W 337, 343; Doe v Wiggins, 4 Q B 367, 375; Sturgeon v Wingfield 15 M & W 224; Cuthbertson v Irving, 4 H & N. 742; Halsbury Vol 13 p 405

Disclaimer of right to evict The authorities show that a tenant in India is not precluded by an admission of tenancy from showing that the nature of the tenancy asserted by him to the knowledge of the landlord has been for the ... the right to evict ... by the tenant to the ... of a right incon ... is a tenant at will or ... e Vivian v Moat, 16 Ch D 730 A landlord merely be receiving rent cannot preserve his right to other claims continuously denied by the tenant The fact that such assertion ... adverse character when ... itsugn v Banaji 27 ... Ployd, 15 W R 233, ... Durga Prosad, 12 B ... Ngapa, 7 B. 96, 99, Mahara v Narayana, 3 M 244, Narayana v Yamunabai, P J. 136; Sankaran v. Periasami, 13 M 467

Whether sections 116 and 117 are exhaustive Sections 116 and 117 of ... toppel by agreement, ... of a bill of exchange ... has been argued in part of the analogy of the tenants' estoppel It has however been correctly ... doctrine of estoppel by ... 97) 1 Ch D 440 on appeal ... which is not provided for ... 747=3 C L J 629=33 C ... ; see also Ajuana v. Bhan, 35 C W N 652=54 C L J 151 The principle of the rule in such cases is that where property is taken under an instrument and the taking possession is in accordance with a right which could not have been granted except upon the ... possessor should not ... l, there is an ... 1 20 Ind Cas ... a dictum in ... erty to dispute ... Evidence Act ... y Statute, Act ... ker v Small, ... s 116 and 117 ... applies The ... e Act are not exhaustive in force in British India Bhaiganta v Himmat, 20 C W N 1335=21 C. L J 103 In decided by this Cour that sections 115 to of the late Chief Justice Sir Richard Garth to which I wish to draw attention is at p 678 There he is reported to have said 'It has been further contended by the Appellants, that ss 115 to 117 contained in Chap VIII of the Evidence Act lay down only rules of estoppel which are now intended to be inforce in British India, and that those rules are treated by the Act as rules of evidence; and that which th would in ing any of sectic administration of the law' I desire to point out that the principle of law which was laid down by Chief Justice Tindal (vide notes under principle, supra) to which I have

it is refe
has who den mad poss
the defe Dar claiming by him can controvert the landlord's title He cannot put another person in poss This I believe, down by Bu 758n) This e v Gomme, 2 (1893) 2 Q B v Bradley, 5 ( of the argume an estoppel except during the term? Serjt, Byles answered A tenant is at all times estopped from disputing the title of his landlord and referred to a long line of cases, including Doe v Smythe 4 M & S 347 At a later stage of the argument, Mr Justice Vaughan Williams repeated the question, 'whether the estoppel does not end with term' Serjt Byles answered the estoppel is limited in point of extent; but there is no authority for saying that it is limited in point of time' Wilde C J then intervened with the following observation "In Co Litt 47(6), it is said that 'if a man take a lease for years of his own land by deed indented, the estoppel doth not continue after the term indeed, for, by the making of the lease, the estoppel doth grow, and consequently, by the end of the lease the estoppel determines The only qualification I am aware of that has been engrafted upon that rule, is,' that if the tenant com possession before he disp pointed out in Accident when the tenant had p permission is the foundat dispute the title of his existence of the estoppel conditions are present, such possess

long line of decisions v Guru Prosad, 9 s impliedly recognised ugurnath, 7 W R 25, v Rasmonee, 14 W R 85 and Jamsiram v Kalambini, 7 B L R 723 n We have further the weighty opinion of Sir Subramanya Ayyar C J expressed in the case of Muthaniyan v Sinna Sama Vaiyan, 28 M 526 that

S. 116. the law has not in this respect been altered by the Indian Evidence Act, and that now, ... estoppel from denying ... (see also Ram Chandra ... that this view is erroneous and that the law as ... Indian Evidence Act is an intentional dep... subject In my opinion, there is no foundation for the contention that the ... into this country the archaic ... ction 116 does not by ... ly provides that, during the continuance of the tenancy, a tenant of an immoveable property or persons claiming through such tenant, cannot be permitted to deny that the landlord of such tenant, at the beginning of such tenancy, had no title to the immoveable property This does not imply that after the expiration of the tenancy the ... on with the

... by a rule of substan... of evidence, not being ... are not excluded by ... ection does not contain the whole law of estoppel Thus the tenant's estoppel operates even after the termination of the tenancy Majibar v Isab Surati 32 C W N 867=A I R 1928 Cal 546.

Licensee of a person in possession There is no distinction, so far as concerns the law of estoppel, between a licensee and a tenant, and a licensee who has obtained possession by aid of the license, before he can show that his ... possession of the premises ... Vol 13 p 404 In ... obtained possession ... in the garden, and ... title In delivering ... case of a person who ... Doe d Knight v Lady ... up possession to the party ... iming through him, has a ... was held in that case, not that the party claiming as landlady to the tenant was altogether estopped from trying the right, but that the tenant must first restore possession If the defendant here has any right, she might, in the first instance, have brought ejectment, or have entered on Mrs Johnson and disseised her But she takes neither course She fraudulently obtains permission to go upon the land, and ... holding the land ... extends also ... as a servant." ... veen the case ... ng permission, ... pp 106 107 ... had ... en to ... isting ... aran ... mere ... cense ... inder ... sbury ... se of Vol 13, 424 The respondent came upon the land in dispute by the ... the appellant, who caused M T to redeem it from mortgage, after which it was held jointly by the families of M T and the respondent About 15 years subsequently according to the respondent, the appellant made over the land altogether to him and M T. The respondent also raised the question of the appellant's title. The burden of proof being entirely on the respondent and no limitation being establish ndant is proved to be permissive, he is estopped from denying plaintiffs' title under this section Mah Hla v. Maung

1.

Consequently the licensee is not prevented from asserting that he must not be turned out Uthdeiksa v Ma San Me, 7 R 617 = A. I R 1930 Rang 29

Estoppel between mortgagor and mortgagee Where a mortgagee is put into possession by the mortgagor in pursuance of the contract of mortgage, he is estopped from denying the title of his mortgagor during the continuance of the mortgage The principle of estoppel between the mortgagor and the mortgagee works in favour of and against both of them The mortgagor is estopped from denying his own authority to mortgage the property' On the other hand the mortgagee is estopped from denying the authority of the mortgagor to mortgage his property Ibad As 11 O L J 722, see also Lakshmi Surendra v Khitindra, 29 C L J 434, Kadakan v Oothunan, 10 Ind Cas 2 Jadunandan, A I R 1925 All 758, Deb med v Hanya, 35 B 507, Gulab v Diwan, 48 C 591 (P C), Jogini v Bhutnath, 31 C 146, Shamacharan v Mokhoda, 15 C W N 703, Ranjban Saha v Dhiku Singh, 16 C L J 264 = 16 Ind Cas 246; Kanara Venkata v Ramaswami, 35 M 75, Mahar is estopped from long as he has tives Rajnaraya
I. R 1925 All
the date of the mo death of the mortgagor persons who are his heirs under the Hindu Law did not succeed to his occupancy rights in accordance with the special rules laid down in Act 12 of 1881 Mahadeo v Ram Raj, A I R 1930 All 108

Estoppel by landlord A landlord is estopped from alleging his want of title to the premises (Trevivan v Lawrence 2 Smith's L C (13th Ed) 605), against tenant, though not, it has been held, the invalidity of a lease granted by him in good faith, but without necessary consent Canterbury Co v Cooper, 73 J P 225, Phip Ev 659

Estoppel of acceptor of bill of exchange bailee, or licensee

117. No acceptor of a bill of exchange shall be permitted to deny that the drawer had authority to draw such bill or to endorse it, nor shall any bailee or licensee be permitted to deny that his bailor or licensor had, at the time when the bailment or license commenced, authority to make such bailment or grant such license.

Explanation. (1).—The acceptor of a bill of exchange may deny that the bill was really drawn by the person by whom it purports to have been drawn

Explanation (2).—If a bailee delivers the goods bailed to a person other than the bailor, he may prove that such person had a right to them as against the bailor.

7. ... In ... on are estoppels by agreement.
... nts As has been well ... based on a conventional state of facts that, for that very reason, the parties never in practice come to any express agreement about them at all and the estoppel is nothing but the carrying out of what the parties as honest men must have intended if they thought about the matter at all at the time they made the bargain (Cabal's Estoppel, 12, 21) The parties are deemed to have dealt with one another on the basis of their rights being regulated by a conventional state of facts The tenant and lice ... the terms that th ... without whose ... of a bill amounts to an undertaking to pay to the order of the drawer ... and all are instances of estoppel ... ilar therefore of the estoppel n ... sur transaction in each case" I Chunder, 3 C L J 629.

Negotiable Instruments ... ntly appl ed in the case of the acceptance ... by such act admits the genuineness of the sig ... mpetency of the drawers to assume that re ... 86, see also Phillips v Im Thurn L R 1 C P 463 "The object of the law merchant" says Byles J in Swan v North British Australian Co, 2 H & C 175, "as to bills and notes made or become payable to bearer, is to secure their circulation as money; therefore honest acquisition confers title" So whenever one of
... he who has enabled such ... Ashurst J in Lickbarrow v
... is thus laid
... ut question
... signature
that it is incumbent upon ... handwriting of his ... drawer's name
... late the accep... onal Bank, 46
... he same case it
... nature of the
... has been unl
... case of a bill paid upon presentment, as to one accepted and afterwards paid" The rule is thus stated by Stephen "No acceptor of a bill of exchange is permitted to deny the signature of the drawer, or his capacity to draw, or, if the bill is pay able to the order of the drawer, h ... though he may deny the fact of ... tion, the authority of the age ... of the principal, though ... bill is accepted in bank, the acceptor may not deny the fact that the drawer endorsed
... owledge
... other
... The
... r, 10
... bills without
... drawers If
... hey must be
... who actually
... But in India
... ination L In
... really drawn
... at liberty to
... d by sections
... ction 41 runs
... s not relieved
... knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill"

Section 42 says: "An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name ... that such name is fictitious, an indorse-to be made lay down imptions as regards consideration, date, time of acceptance, time of transfer, order of endorsement and stamp This section further authorises the presumption that the holder is a holder in due course Section 119 provides that the Court shall, on proof of the protest presume the fact of dishonour Section 120 makes provision for estoppel against denying original validity of instrument by the maker of the promissory note, drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and acceptor of a bill of exchange Section 121 makes provision for estoppel against denying capacity of payee to endorse Under section 122, no endorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument In an action on a pro note or a bill of exchange against a person whose name properly appears defendant to show that the sign principal, whether the defend Co v Dewan Chand, 117 Ind

Bailor anc ... goods is estopped to claim that ... Burr Jones § 285, Wilson v Ande ... v Griffin, 10 Bing 246, Henderson and those with whom pro bears a close resemblance vide section 116 supra the bailment is determ paramount Biddle v

do not question the general
... aiten in Cheesman v Enall, n connection with wharfs possession of property were

... iere has been no special to that of a tenant who, estopped from denying 1 he is evicted by title the same, whether the acti

Rog
So thir hir delivered the property to the true owner, who had the right to possession upon demand by the latter, even before legal proceedings have been commenced Such demand by the true owner is equivalent to eviction by title paramount Burr Jones § 285 Stephen thus states somewhat differently, the general rule "No bailee, agent or licensee is permitted to deny that the bailor, principal, or licensor, by whom any goods were entrusted to any of them respectively was laid down in Biddle v. Bond, supra by Lord Blackburn, in a considered ... a Judge who knew ... laid down there ... ordinary contract of ... r non-delivery of ... ady delivered them ... for an interpleader ... I defend the action ... the goods' ... party, on behalf of ... ules' If he takes the latter c... upon but he must prove it; ... that says Lord Blackburn, ... of that person ... laid down, and it seems to me rightly ... Therefore, I am of opinion that ... on the right and title and by the ... have not named any such person or ... or that any person has such a right ... terms that they are not defending ... for themselves only As between ... have no defence Therefore, if we ... plaintiffs and the defendants, ... succeed in the action." Rogers ... 318 (325) In the same case ... several rival claimants to the copper

Lindley L J said ... proceedings against the rival ... St Kathrine's the ... Robinson v claim ... of bailment Dock ... this case" Jenk ... "A bailee the ... bailor to the

See also Civil Procedure Code ... shew that the title of ... may, however, equally with a tenant, ... Thorney v Tilbury, 3 H & N 534 So goods has expired since the bailment ... f the facts shew that there has been what ... Shelbury v Scotsford, Yelv ... and there has been ... the jus tertii, if no eviction, the bailee may ... authority of the he defends his possession upon ... In that case, tertius Biddle v. Bond, (6 B & S 233) is an authority ... said (at p 233), Blacburn J delivering the judgment of the Queen's Bench, said ... may set up the jus tertii is "We think that the true ground on which a bailee may set up the jus tertii ceases ... Shelbury v Scotsford, Yelv 22, viz, that the estoppel ceases ... is founded is determined by what is equivalent ... It is not enough that the bailee has become aware of the title of ... person We agree in what is said in Betlley v Read, 4 Q B 511 517 that 'to allow a depository of goods or money, who has acknowl... title of another who makes no claim ... to keep for himself ... himself whatsoever ... so that he ... that is said by may be entitled to relief under an interpleader ... that a bailee can set up ... Thorney v Tilbury 3 H & N 534, 537, that a bailee can set up ... and title and by the ... is supported ... ice to produce ... the goods and ... rections of the ... such delivery" ... Thackarseydas, ... other than the ... delivery of the 17 C W N ... he may apply to the Court to stop ... bailor, claims goods bailed, he may apply to the Court to stop ... Contract Act, § 167 ... the title to the goods ... ed with knowledge that another than the bailor ... the bailee cannot set up the claim of such third

In Exparte Davies, 19 Ch D 86, which goods have been taken by title paramount, and, if good excuse to him as against his bai of Shelbury v Scotsford, Yelv 23 in thief and had been forcibly taken away from the bailee by the rightful owner, and it was held that the thief could not maintain an action of trover for the ground that the eviction of the horse of his promise to return it to his ay be able to avail himself of such a efault If the bailee knowing of the adverse claim, has said to his me have a commission, and I have afterwards set up against his bailor the title of the adverse claimant, because he would have acted with his eyes open," and Lush J added, "I am of opinion that when a person in such a position, knowing of two adverse claims to goods elects to take part of one of the claimants and to sell the goods as his, he is ken this in the trustee

Licenses of patentee, etc One who manufactured goods by consent of and
of th to tl with the c pate 293 The United States Supreme Court in an oft-quoted case said "Having actually received profits from the sales of the patented machine, which profits ion of the defendants y an agent or a joint joint owner cannot setting up the allega-s § 285 The analogy lackburn 'So long as the lease remains in force, and the tenant has not been evicted from the land, he is estopped from denying the lessor s title to that land, but he is entitled to show that a particular parcel was never comprised in the lease So a licensee stranger can show ke v Adie, 2 App this rule does not ot acting under it 284, 289), or a tage (A W) Ltd) by the licensee of & B 930, Taylor

Crossly v Dixon, mith, 26 Ch D.

7. A licensee of a trademark also is estopped, as against his licensor, from questioning the latter's title to the trade mark. Jagarnath v Cresswell, 40 C 814 In delivering the judgment Imam J said: "The first question that I have to consider is whether the defendant can be allowed to deny the plaintiff's title The contract between the owner of a trade mark and his licensee is like a contract between a landlord and his tenant, and as between landlord and tenant so between licensor and licensee the former's right cannot be questioned by the latter In Clarke v Adie, L R 2 A C 423, which was a case of a patent Lord Blackburn said 'Although a stranger might show that the patent is as bad as any one could wish it the licensee must not show that,' and in the same case Lord Cairr ... stand here admitting its utility ... In an earlier case Grover and ... N S 713 Wood V C held that the fact of a patent having been found invalid at law in an action between the patentee and a third party, could not be set up against the patentee by his licensee in a suit upon the same patent The ... position as the licensee of a patent ... 49 (154); Ebrahim v Essa Abba 24 M ... C 214, "In India there is no system of registration nor is there any provision for a statutory title to a trademark so that the rights of the parties must be determined in accordance with the principles of the English common Law" Per Jenkins C J. in British American Tobacco Co Ltd v Mahboob Buksh, 38 C 110 at p 117, see also G S Woah v Messrs Jagannath, 42 C 262 = 19 C W N 1. When the plaintiffs, the transferees of the trade marks and business of a jute bailor, gave a license to the defendants, the right to use and authorise others to use exclusively the trade marks and to hold the good will of the business of original jute-bailor and the marks without any interference by the proprietors for a particular period on ... to repudiate ... trade ... ndian ... ad at ... ction ... ples ... s had ... ority ... The licensee of a trade mark cannot put an end to the relation of licensor and licensee by repudiatin ... concurrence of the other party is a ... al o ... Johnstone v Milling, ... opted ... will by a person who is no ... have acquire the property ... 583 = been imported by him ... 39 A 123 Warehouse man A warehouse man who, on receiving an order from the seller of malt to hold on account ... knowledgment ... the that he so holds it, cannot set up ... rred purchaser that by the usage of tra ... the till it is measured and that bef ... ouse seller became bankrupt Stonord ... man in possession of goods attorns to the buyer of them, acknowledging that ... pays the price or ... representa ... ound and say ... d, 6 B & S ... Watson 2 B & C ... 1895) 1 Q B 521, ... stoppel in pais is ... ears, 6 A & E ... H & N 549, and ... pon this principle ... defendant have found the- from setting up a title s of Stonord v. Demeh iq v Birnie, 7 Bing 339, in which Tindal C J stated 'the defendant is estopped by his own admissions; for unless they amount to an estoppel, the word 'estoppel' will be blotted from law' The admission in the present case namely, the statement by the defendant that he held the sugar at the plaintiff's order and disposal, is certainly no less strong than in Gosling v Birnie; and lastly, in the case of Knights v Wiffen, L R 5 Q B 660, in which the principle upon which an estoppel in pais arises is again enunciated, and it is again pointed out how it applies" The general rule is that a bailee of goods who has acknowledged that they belong to a the title of that person Hawes v Bing 337 Where a wharfinger for certain persons, and transferred it was held that he could not resist an action on the ground that they had not been separate property passed to the person who lodged th ossession, sold a quantity of them to refusal to order by superinte mere pror found an

CHAPTER IX.

OF WITNESSES

118. All persons shall be competent to testify, unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them, or from giving rational answers to those questions, by tender years, extreme old age, disease, whether of body or mind, or any other cause of the same kind

Who may testify

Explanation —A lunatic is not incompetent to testify, unless he is prevented by his lunacy from understanding the questions put to him and giving rational answers to them.

Witness must be competent Incompetency, denotes the legal incapacity to give many testim 11th Ed of exc interest, and (2) incompetency from mental capacity On the former ground, not only were parties themselves and their husbands and wives excluded, but also all persons who were in pari jure with either party, or otherwise substantially interested in the proceedings Successive statutes have abolished this kind of incompetency, leaving the fact of interest in the proceedings to affect credibility

8. merely Coel le Cas Ev 213 The early common law rules of exclus on prevent ... ose who by reason of ... re not suppos l to be ... to the suit (c) The ... was charg d by the ... erested (e) Naturally ... Speal ing generally the trend of those exclusions was absent in the same direction as the present rules excluding persons from acting as jurors, thus giving another illustration of the influence of the old jury system The substantial di appearance of these rules of exclusion may be traced between the years of 1823 and 1853 Mcl elte j s Ev § 212

Infidels and Atheists In England formerly all persons not Christians were excluded from testifying, but at the present time there is no exclu on upon the ground of religious belief, or the lack of it The theory of the oath has always been that it gave a peculiar sanctity to testimony and that w thout the oath there was no guarantee of truthfulness Under these circumstances (and the law recognized no substitute for the oath it was quite natural that persons who, by reason of their religious belief, felt no force in the oath should have been excluded from testifying In fact, without a change in the theory it would have been inconsistent and absurl to have allowed a per on who refused to take an oath or if taking it, took it only as a matter of form to give his testimony The broadening of the form of the oath, with the recogni tion that other religious beliefs besides the belief of the establi hed church might exercise the same influence over the mind, and furnish the same guarant e of truthfulness resulted in the final disappearance of this rule of exclusion ... It was hard for the English Courts to ... rs was the ... ht exerc e ... inally came ... laid down ... —have 10 ... early as in ... 13, that the testimony of three witnesses whose depositions had been taken under oath administered in accordance with the Gentoo religion should be received There Lord Chief Justice Willes at p 45 says, There is nothing in the argument that, as Christianity is the law of England, no other oath is consistent with it and, for the reasons already given, this argument carries no weight with it Though I have shown that an infidel cannot be excluded from being a witness and though I am of opinion that infidels who believe in a God and future rewards and punishments in his other world may be witnesses yet I am as clearly of opinion that if they do not believe in God or future rewards and punishments they ought not to be admitted as witnesses' The principle of this case was subsequently approved by Lord Mansfield in Atcheson v Everill 1 Cowp 382, and thereafter re affirmed in other cases Rex v Gilham 1 Esp 285, Edmonds v Rowe, Ryan & Moody 77 It is evident from this that at that time the Courts had found no way to admit the te timony of atheists In the case of the suit of Quakers so obnoxious to the early English Churchman whose members refused to take oath, no little difficulty was experienced in bringing them within the rule of competency, so much, in fact that a special statute was required to extend this privilege Stat 7 & 8 William III C 34 allowed Quakers to affirm where other persons were required to take the oat ... Later however ... or any per on ... Vict C 68) ... 1888 (51 & 52 ... ting to being sworn, and stating as the ground of such objection either that he has no religious belief ... an oath ... he expressly ... Reg v Moore

S.

Cl L J M C 80, Nagh v Ali Khan, 8 T R 411 As regards the question how far it is necessary to follow a statutory form of oath or affirmation, reference may be made to Salomans v Miller, 8 Ex 778, Lancaster v Heaton, 8 El & Bl 952, Wolsely v Worthington 13 Ir Ch R 311, Camp Rul Cas Vol. XI p 111

Parties to the suit The old rule as to the incompetency of parties to the suit to be witnesses was founded upon the prejudice supposed to exist on account of personal interest in the result At the present day it has been entirely abolished, except in the one case of an accused person upon trial for the crime charged against him

Husband and wife of party. The husband and wife of a party may testify in all cases, but is not compellable to disclose private or confidential conversations and communications (Vide s 120 infra)

Pecuniary interest of a witness Originally persons pecuniarily interested in the suit were not permitted to testify In Bent v Baker, 3 T R 27, 36, Buller J defined the rule of exclusion on the ground of interest to be whether the witness is to gain or lose by the event of the cause This however, has entirely changed except with respect to a witness to a Will who is also a beneficiary under the Will This has been said to be the sole surviver of the numerous exclusionary rules making witnesses incompetent by reason of relationship or pecuniary interest Best Ev (Chamberlain Jur Ed) p 178, note To day a person interested in the outcome of a suit is allowed to testify the same as a disinterested person, but the adverse party may show by cross examination the nature and extent of that interest as affecting the credibility of the witness McKelvey's Ev § 216

Sex Inspite of the example of the surrounding peoples notably of Scotland there seems never to have been in the law of England any general testimonial disability based on sex Wigmore § 517

Scope of the section Under this section all persons are competent to testify unless the Court considers that they are incapable of giving evidence ars extreme same kind to him and of a person to testify as a witness is a condition precedent to the administration to him of an oath or affirmation and is a question distinct from that of his credibility when he has been sworn or has affirmed In determining the question of competency the Court under this section has not to enter into enquiries as to witness's religious belief or as to the knowledge of the consequences of falsehood in this world or the next It has to ascertain in the best way it can whether, from the extent of his intellectual capacity and understanding he is able to give a rational account, of what he has seen or heard or done on a particular occasion If a person of tender years or of very advanced age can satisfy these requirements his competency as a witness is established Queen Empress v Lal Sahai 11 A 183 According to English law every sane person is a competent witness in both civil and criminal cases except a child who does not understand the nature of an oath Powell Ev 197 But in India, where a person is competent to testify according to the provisions of this section but is u affirmatio administe recorded 10 O C at p 140

d tc
a 1
d
even though under the age of seven years may be sworn in a criminal prosecution provided such infant appears on strict examination by the Court to possess a sufficient knowledge of the nature and consequences of an oath, in

8. other words, a Court has to ascertain from the answers to questions propound to such a witness, whether he appreciates the danger and impiety of falsehoo The course pursued by the Sessions Judge has led to the result that the witnesses were examined in contravention of the provisions of section 6 the Indian Oaths Act On behalf of the Crown, however, it was suggest that the irregularity in the proceeding, if any, may be shown, if nece ar to have been cured by the provisions of section 13 of the Indian Oaths Ac Section 13 lays down that no omission to make any affirmation shall invalid any proceeding or render inadmissible any evidence whatever in or in respe of which such omission took place In support of this view reliance h been placed upon the decision of a majority of the Full Bench in Queen Sheu Bhogtee, 14 B L R 294=23 W R Cr 12 On behalf of the Appella this position has been controverted and it has been argued that where there an omission by a witness to take an oath or to make an affirmation by rea o of the deliberate act of the Court, section 13 is of no assi tance The questio raised is by no means free from difficulty, as is amply indicated by divergen of judicial opinion on the subject In this Court, the judicial opinion has n been uniform, as appears from an examination of the decisions in Queen v Ituaria, 14 B L R 54=22 W R Cr 11, Queen v Annunto 14 B L R 29 (note)=22 W. R Cr 1 and Queen v Sheu Bhogtu, 14 B L R 294 It is furthe worthy of note that in the case of Nandolal v Aistaram, 27 C 428, 440, when i was argued on the authority of some of the decisions first mentioned tha section 13 of the Indian Oaths Act applied to cases where the omi sion to tak the oath or affirmation was the result of the deliberate act of the Court or of the witness ... Justice ... startling ... rts ... hat ... 103. ... to ... se we prop ... with regard to the second ground urged by the appellant, I reserve my opinion upon the difficult question of the true scope and effect of section 13 of the Indian Oaths Act ...

... etween prosecution and defence wit nesses ... =85 Ind Cas 236=3 Bur L J 265= 26 Cr ... The only test of competency is that the w ... om understanding the questions put to him or from giving rational answers to these questions by tender years or other cause Ram Jolaha v Emperor, 102 Ind Cas 349=28 Cr L J 541=8 Pat L T 594 Under this section a husband is a competent witness to prove non access Hoore v Hoore, 25 M L J 594

How to ascertain competency Incompetency in a witness will not be presumed It comes in the shape ... the witness and if the facts on which it rests are d... ollateral questions of fact, be determined by t... M & W 483; R. v Hill, 2 Den L C 254), who, in cases of doubt, is always disposed to receive the witness, and let the objection go to his credibility rather than to his competency Best Ev § 133 Mental competency to give evidence depends ... no fixed limit of ... rvier, 1 Leach C ... he Court should ... to comprehend ... it to the Court.

If the Court is of opinion that by reason of tender years and defective or ... the particular ... not only ... o examine ... years is ... e rational ... the same ... suitable if ... capacity ... rd a brief proceeding so that the appellate Court may feel satisfied as to the capacity of the child to give evidence Tulsi v Emperor, 110 Ind Cas 799=29 Cr L J 767=A I R 1928 Lah 903, see also Hanuman Sarma v Emperor, A I R 1932 Cal. 723=36 C W N 691

Duty of Court in cases of witnesses of tender years In Nafar Sheikh v King Emperor, 18 C W N 147 at p 150 Mr Justice Mookerjee said 'It has further been argued that under section 118 of the Evidence Act, he was bound to ascertain, before those children of tender years were examined as witnesses, whether they had capacity to understand and to give rational answers Reliance has been placed upon the decision in Fakir v Emperor, 11 C W N 51, which, it has been urged, is an authority for the proposition that it is obligatory upon a Judge to test the capacity of a witness of tender years by appropriate questions and to form his opinion as to the competency of such a witness before the actual examination commences It may be conceded that there are expressions in the judgment in the case mentioned which tend to support this broad statement, but in my opinion the proposition thus widely formulated is not justified by the terms of section 118 of the Indian Evidence Act That section lays down that all persons shall be competent to testify unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them or from giving rational answers to those questions by tender years The Legislature has not prescribed an inflexible rule of universal application to the effect that before a child of tender years is questioned, the Court must by a preliminary examination test his capacity to understand and to give rational answers and must form an opinion as to the competency of the witness before the actual examination commences In fact the case of Queen v Whitehead L R 1 C C R 33 shows that the incompetency of the witness may very well appear in the course of his examination in chief and that the evidence of a witness so found to be incompetent may at any stage be withdrawn from the jury The true rule on the subject is concisely stated by Brewer J in Wheeler v United States, 159 U S 523 in these terms The decision of this question (whether the child witness has sufficient intelligence) primarily rests with the trial Judge who sees the proposed witness notices his manner his apparent trial The question of the capacity of the witness to testify is a question for the Judge himself to decide and not for the jury although after he has decided in favour of the competency of a witness it is for the jury to determine the amount of credit to be given to the statements made by such witness Queen v Hossein 8 W R Cr 60 A Judge can act on the evidence of a child of tender years if he is impressed by its intelligence and demeanour and the

[illegible] sain v Crown 6 Lah [illegible] at when the evidence should for the sake of [illegible] ins of a few simple that (whether sworn or of credit, and it is [illegible] of the record of the that such a test has been in fact made It may turn out in the course of the examination at the [illegible] that the evidence which the [illegible] the judicial giving On [illegible] ge definitely [illegible] s capacity, le to suggest capacity of
-3 Pat 91=3

Pat L T 649 = 66 Ind Cas 73 = 23 Cr L J 233 In the case of a child of tender years produced as a witness the Court should examine it after being satisfied that the child is intellectually sufficiently developed to enable it to understand what it has seen and to afterwards inform the Court thereof Dhani Ram v Emperor, 13 A L J 1072, Ghulam v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah 337; contra, Nafar v Emperor, 41 C 406 The Judge must form his opinion as to the competency of a witness before his actual examination commences Fala v Emperor 11 C W N 51

Child witness Children of six or even five years of age have been allowed to testify upon the Court being satisfied as to their capacity to give rational testimony R v Holmes 2 F & F 788, R v Perkins — Moody C C 135, Sheurring v Sheurring, (1892) Times, Nov 11, R v Brasier 1 East P C 443 While where not satisfied, the testimony of a child of seven (R v Forsyth, 93 L T Jo 217) or even eight (R v William 7 C & P 320) has been rejected Where in a murder case a small boy, who was an eye witness to the murder, was not examined in the Sessions Court on the ground of his youth, held that the Sessions Judge especially considering the importance of the witness, ought not to have refrained from examining him unless, under the words of section 118 of the Evidence Act, he considered that the boy was prevented from understanding the question put to him, or from giving rational answers to those questions, by reason of tender years Queen Empress v Ram Sewak 23 A 90 = A W N 1900 211 A child of tender years if a competent witness when such child is intellectually sufficiently developed to understand what it has seen and afterwards to inform the Court about it, this sufficiency may be tested even in examination in chief, understanding is thus the sole test of competency S Rasul v Emperor, A I R 1930 Sin 179 = 120 Ind Cas 514, Nafar Sheikh v Emperor 41 C 406 = 18 C W N 147 Dhani Ram v Emperor, 38 A 49 = 13 A L J 1072 Evidence by child should be accepted with caution Mannu v Emperor A I R 1930 Oudh 406 Where the Court is of opinion that the child upon whom an offence under s 376 I P Code is committed is unable to give relevant information in the matter by reason of tender years and consequent immaturity of judgment, it should not examine the child at all Ghulam v Emperor, 31 P L R 612 = A I R 1930 Lah 337

Oath A witness who has taken oath in the usual form may be asked whether he thinks such oath binding on his conscience, but not whether he considers any other form more binding The Queen's Case, 2 Br & Bing 284 A person who does not believe in the sanctions of religion will not be bound by an oath Thus, where a witness who had been sworn on the voir dire stated in answer to the opposing counsel that she did not believe in a future state of rewards and punishments and regarded the obligation of an oath as no higher than that of her word it was held that the Judge had acted properly in rejecting her evidence Maden v Catanack 7 H & N 360 It is not enough that a person has a religious belief unless he is able to say what form of oath is binding on his conscience Nagh v Ali Khan 8 T L R 444 Where in a trial for murder the Sessions Judge deliberately abstained from administering an oath or affirmation to the only eye witness to the murder on the ground that she was only 6 or 7

In every case where a witness is a the Evidence Act, the provisions of plied with The only cases in which ministered are cases in which it clearly appears that the witness does not understand the moral obligation attaching to an oath or affirmation or the consequence which may arise from giving false evide[illegible] vidence of such a perso[illegible] nperor, 6 Pat L J

147 — [illegible] The evidence of a boy v[illegible] ne prescribed form is adr[illegible] ugh it should be [illegible] It is necessary that before proceeding to [illegible] that the witness [illegible] be question put [illegible] thereafter the [illegible] required by the Oaths Act. If the witne ... S. tion of such an oath c witness, these facts may the statement of a witr the witness was a c ... Act and that the omission ... t of under-

"omission" in section 13, Oaths Act, includes any omission and is not limited to accidental negligent omissions Empress v Sambhia, 11 C P L R Cr 16 Whether a child understands the nature of an oath or not, he should when examined as a witness be examined on oath or affirmation Queen Empress v Sheoralan, S C 242 Oudh, Queen v Anunta, 22 W R Cr 1; Pua v A E, 2 L B R 322, see also Queen Empress v Marsu, 10 A 207 = A W N 1888, 86, contra, Golla Chinna v Emperor, 15 Cr L J 161 = 22 Ind Cas 737, Queen v Scua, 23 W R Cr 12 = 14 B L R (F. B) 294, Queen v Itaary, 22 W R Cr 14 = 14 B L R 51, Queen v Perumal, 7 Weir, 827, Nandalal v Nistarini 27 C 440

Insanity There was a perio lunatic and idiot, in the superstitic is an infliction sent from heaven, at all Co Litt 6 (b), Comyn's 2 Leach Cr C, 3rd ed 482, Wi upon Littleton said "Non compos mentis is of four sorts (1) An idiot, which (3)
... he hath not unde depriveth himse Cole on Littl down in 1842 standing may have arisen, nor whether it be temporary and curable, or ment or ... as a witness, it no longer e ... Hill, 2 Den & P C C 254 = 5 C ... en argued that any always prompting him In the same case ... disastrous if mere delusions were held to exclude a witness Some of the greatest and wisest of mankind have had a particular delusion" This broad and rational ... to disqualify must be such the specific subject of the In three particular respects ontent, in two of them the

the subject to be testified about If on this subject no aberration appears the person is acceptable, however untrustworthy on other subjects Thirdly, the mere fact of soundness at the time of trial is no longer sufficient; for derangement or defect at the time of the event to be testified to, may make the person untrustworthy The ir ... as to the other elements, the cap ... 2 Thus in Durham v Durham, ... instances of persons of unsound ... ts within their own knowledge, and their statements have been acted on But it is evident that statemen ... with caution, and they must be ... vidence of the facts in question"

Idiocy A person incapacitated to such an extent that he is unable to understand the subject in reference to which he is called as a witness is incompetent Naturally incapacitated persons are not permitted to testify This rule has always existed and exists to day The question of whether a person has sufficient capacity to testify is a question of fact for the Judge to decide and he may hear testimony on the point, as well as examine the person himself McKelvey's Ev § 217

Drunkenness It follows from modern theory of mental derangement that intoxication even habitual, does not in itself incapacitate a person offered as a witness The question is, in each instance, whether the witness was so bereft of his powers of observation, recollection, or narration, that he is thoroughly untrustworthy as a witness on the subject in hand First, then, the capacity of observation at the time, of the events to be testified to, may be such as would exclude the witness as untr ... to forget this requisite, and to declare ... alone is to be considered ... be so affected that the wi ... intelligent and truthful narration may appear to be destroyed tempor ... Wigmore § 499 But that a witness was drunk on the occasion to which he is called upon to testify goes to his credibility and the weight of his evidence, and not to his competency to testify Drunkenness at the time of testifying is per se not sufficient to disqualify the witness from testifying It is for the Court to determine from the present conduct and appearance of the witness, whether he is in such a state as to comprehend the obligation of oath, and to testify intelligibly, or whether he should be excluded Burr Jones § 724 'To render the witness incompetent it must be shown that, at the time of his examination he was non compos mentis, deranged in mind, from some cause the effect of liquor, or any other cause No drunken man should be permitted to give evidence, but this never can apply to drinking men, even, though incapable of managing their estates The point of enquiry is the moment of examination; is the witness then offered so besotted in his understanding as to be ... rd drinker, or ... ssed of a sound ...) 235 In that ... len victims of ... losses, in their ... yet sufficiently unimpaired, to recollect and to state the facts, where they do recollect with clearness and intelligence" So a drunkard is a competent witness, when he is free from the influence of liquor Banks v Goodfellow, L R 5 Q B 549, R v Hill, 2 Den 254, Spittle v Walton, L R 11 Eq 420

Accused whether competent witness Section 342 (4) of the Criminal Procedure Code provides that no oath shall be administered to the accused See also sections 5 and 6 of the Indian Oaths Act As no oath can be administered to an accused person so he can not be examined as a witness In the Full Bench case of Emperor v Nga Po Min, A I R 1932 Rang 190=10 Rang 511 (F B) Page C J said "At common law an accused person cannot be either examined or cross examined (R v Payne, 1 C Cr 347) and the reason is that there can be no sanction that such a person will speak the truth In India an accused person is 'competent to testify' within s 118 Evidence Act (I of 1872), but such a person is incompetent to be a witness, for an oath cannot be administered to him, and all witnes . . S. affirmation before they can lawfully . any Court In judicio non creditur nis and 6 Criminal P C (5 of 1898), .

406=20 Ind Cas 741" Thus where several accused are tried jointly one accused cannot be sworn and therefore cannot be examined as a witness against other co accused Reg v Hanmantha 1 Bom 610; Empress v As . ig Emperor 45 C 720 Queen Empress v v King Emperor, 20 Cr L J 342 But an accu in support of an application for transfer of the case under section 526 Ghulam v Emperor, 3 Lah 46=23 Cr L J 399, see also Gallaghar v Emperor, 54 C 52 So in India an accused person is not entitled to give evidence on his own behalf In England the disqualification of the accused in criminal cases to testify for himself seems not to have been questioned in policy until Bentham's time But his arguments in this respect took longer for their fruition in legislation than any other of his proposals for abolishing witnesses' incapacities By the Criminal Evidence Act 1898 (61 & 62 Vict C 36) the disability of the accused to appear as a defence witness has been removed Before that time, it had become customary in England to allow the accused to make a statement to the jury i e to tell his story not on oath and not as a witness but in the guise of an address or argument on the testimony and the whole case R v Malings 8 C & P 242 R v Walking 8 C & P 243 R v Dyer 1 Cox Cr 113 R v Williams 1 Cox Cr 363 R v Shimmin 15 Cox Cr 122, R v Millhouse 15 Cox Cr 622 That the formal grant of competency then was so long withheld was due rather to a hesitation founded on the supposed interest of the accused himself His failure to use the right of testifying would (it was believed) damage his cause more seriously than if he were able to claim that his silence was enforced by law But chiefly, his exercise of the right to testify would (it was believed), in subjecting him innoc his ov Peopl
Engl
shoul
Criminal Law Vol I p 442 said I am convinced by much experience that questioning the accused or the power of giving evidence is a positive assistance and a highly important one to innocent men and I do not see why in the case of the guilty there need be any hardship about it Similar remarks also occurred in Lord Alverton's Recollections of Bar and Bench where at p 176 he said It will be convenient here to refer to the effect of the passing of the Act which enables prisoners to give evidence I had long been impressed with the absolute necessity of such a measure in the interests of justice for the protection of the

.

.

the prosecution may comment upon any evidence given under the Act by a person charged [R v Gardner (1899) 1 Q B 150] but he must not comment upon the failure of any such person or of the wife or husband of such person to give evidence Stat 61 & 62 Vict C 36 s 1(b) But it has been held that the Judge may comment upon such failure R v Rhodes (1899) 1 Q B 77, R v Smith 84 L J K B 2153 31 T L R 617 There are, however many cases in which it would not be expedient or calculated to further the ends of justice so to do Kops v The Queen (1894) A C 653 A person discharged by the police and not brought before the Magistrate is not an accused person In India the evidence of such a person is admissible although he has been illegally discharged by the police Queen Empress v Mona Puna, 16 B 661

Counsel engaged in a case A police officer or advocate conducting a prosecution should never be sworn, unless he is called as a witness, and if so called, he should be allowed to depose only to those facts which he knows and of which he is, in accordance with the ... witness Empress v Kenlu, 6 P L ... v Peary, 40 C 898 Lodd Govindass ... 382, Chandreshwar v Bisheswar, 5 P 777

Miscellaneous Where a witness gives a satisfactory explanation of his presence on the scene the mere fact that a person is a tailor or weaver by caste is hardly any ground for discarding his evidence Emperor v Ramjan, A I R 1932 Lah 12 = 32 Cr L J 1130

119 A witness who is unable to speak may give his evidence in any other manner in which he can make it intelligible, as by writing or by signs, but such writing must be written and the signs made in open Court Evidence so given shall be deemed to be oral evidence.

Dumb witnesses

Scope At the time when unscientific ideas prevailed concerning mental derangement and defect, the deaf and dumb were so far treated as idiots that they were presumed to be incapable of testifying until the contrary was shown Hale, Pl Cr I, 34, R v Ruston, 1 Leach 3 C & P. 127, Morrison v Lennard 3 C & P 127 To day this presumption has disappeared Wigmore § 498 In People v Mc Gee 1 Den 21 Jewett J said "The woman was of sense sufficient to have ... by signs and m... to her by T... by not able to t... signs" See also Harrod v Harrod, 1 Key & J 9 Persons affected with these calamities have been found by the light of modern science, to be much more intelligent in general, and to be susceptible of far higher culture, than was once supposed Still, when a deaf mute is addressed as a witness, the Court in the exercise of due caution will take care to ascertain before he is examined, that he possesses the ... nature of an oath ... sworn and give evi... his ideas perfec... satis- factory meth... of his knowledge ... ideas ... 1 Lea 408; R v ... v Hill, 14 ... place where a deaf ... in Court cannot ... competent witness ... 5 O C 246 A witness who is so deaf and dumb that it is impossible to make him understand the questions put in cross examination, is not a competent witness and his evidence, if taken ought to be struck out, and a conviction based solely on his evidence must be quashed Venkattan v Emperor, 14 Ind Cas 655 = (1911) M W ... 7 A 385 (F B) ... written questions to which ... are then read to the ... able to understand ... and that he is ... where a deaf ... happening of certain events, and cannot understand questions or communicate the details of the events that he is attempting to tell about, his testimony cannot be taken When the witness, by reason of physical injuries to the throat, was unable to speak, the Court was justified in permitting her to nod for yes, and shake her head for no, and to write answers for which the simple affirmative and negative signs were inappropriate Burr Jones § 719

120. In all civil proceedings the parties to the suit, and the husband or wife of any party to the suit, shall be competent witnesses. In criminal proceedings against any person, the husband or wife of such person, respectively, shall be a competent witness. S.

Parties to civil suit, and their wives or husbands. Husband or wife of person under criminal trial

Reason of the rule It was a favourite doctrine of common law that husband and wife were one person in the law Since parties were incompetent to testify in their own behalf it followed that, if the legal identity of husband and wife was conceded they are not competent witnesses for or against each other Burr Jones § 733 Blackstone thus stated this ground of exclusion 'But in trials of any sort, they are not allowed to give evidence for or against each other, partly because it is impossible their testimony should be indifferent, but principally because of the union of the persons, and, therefore if they were admitted to be witnesses for each other they would contradict one maxim of the law 'nemo tenetur seipsum accusare' Black. Com 443 see also section 3 of Act XV of 1852 and s 14 of Act II of 1855 But even in England by statutes this incompetency of husband and wife has been gradually removed both in civil cases (see 21 Jac 1 C 19 s 6, the County Courts Act 1846, s 83 the Evidence Amendment Act 1853, s 1 and the Evidence Further Amendment Act, 1869, s 3) and to a large extent in criminal trials by a series of Acts culminating in and superseded by the Criminal Ev Act 1898 Phip Ev 7th Ed 437, see also R v Lord Mayor of London 16 Q B D 772, Director of P P v Blady, (1912) 2 K B 89, 92, Leach v R (1912) A C 305 This section does away with this rule of the common law In India that bar has been removed by this secti... rule of positive law, and natural justice Per Sir ... (25) Cr ... Mr Livingstone ... nce, prepared by him for the state of Louisiana says "The exclusion of interested testimony having been examined and found to be injurious to the investigation of truth, and its admission to be attended with ... not be reduced to one of a quantity that has n... finds no place in the proposed code, and ... fruitful sources of uncertainty, expense, delay, and inconvenience in the law If the search after truth requires that interested witnesses, and even the parties themselve , should be interrogated to discover it, are there any relations in which the offered witness may stand to the parties that exclude his testimony ' (1) The code now offered does not contain the exclusion of husband or wife, as witn... suffic... or C... i len... this reason fails of course

Civil cases Even before the passing of the Indian Evidence Act, it was held in Queen v Khyroollah 6 W R 21 Cr (F B) by the majority of Courts that in India, upon trials in the Mofussil, a wife was competent to give evidence for or against her husband, or for or against any person tried jointly with her husband This rule has been incorporated in this section Bastardy proceedings under section 488 Criminal Procedure Code, are civil proceedings within the meaning of section 120 of the Evidence Act, and the defendant thereto may give evidence on his own behalf Nur Mahomed v Bismulla Jan, 16 C 781, see also In re Tokee v Abdool, 5 C 5... under section 488 of the ...

states in the witness box that her husband had no access to her at any time when the children now in question could have been begotten, her statement may be taken for what it is worth If her evidence of this alleged fact cannot be exclu[illegible] as inadmissible, then there is no provision of law determining at what stage [illegible] the proceedings [illegible] Charlot Hou[illegible]e, 38 M [illegible] or defe[illegible] dant, gives his [illegible] ty to th[illegible] suit Such a [illegible] 120 of th[illegible] Evidence Act, [illegible] the su[illegible] shall be comp[illegible] Co, 49 C 345=35 C L J 175=68 Ind Cas 993

Criminal cases The theory of disqualification by interest was merely on[illegible] variety of the general theory [illegible] at common law The law [illegible] his Evidence at page, 83 "[illegible] even under the sanction of an oath, who has an interest in giving the propo[illegible] evidence, and consequently whose interest conflicts with his duty This rule of exclusion, considered in its principle, requires little explanation It is [illegible] nature, which is too weak to be [illegible] ligations, when tempted and solicited [illegible] There are, no doubt, many whom [illegible] ty, and their exclusion by the opera[illegible]tion of this rule may in particular cases shut out the truth But the law must prescribe the general rules, and experience proves that more mischief would result from the general reception of interested witnesses than is occasionally by their general exclusion ' For the reception of evidence of parties to suits the following reason is urged in the Second Report of the English Common Law Practice Commissioners "Plain sense and reason would obviously suggest that any living witness who could throw any light upon the fact in issue should be heard to state what he knows, subject always to such observations as may arise as to his means of knowledge or his disposition to the truth The law of England, however, at least until a recent period, proceeded on a very different principle Acting apparently on a distrust both of the integrity of witness and of the discernment of the tribunals, it sought to protect the latter from the possibility of being misled, by carefully excluding from giving testimony not only the parties to the cause, but any one who had any, even the most minute interest in the result Every person so circumstanced, however small and insignificant the amount of his interest, was presumed to be incapable of resisting the temptation to perjury, and every Judge and jury man was presumed to be incapable of discerning perjury under circumstances peculiarly calculated to create suspicion and watchfulness It is painful to contemplate the amount of injustice which must have taken place under the exclusive system of the English law, not only in cases actually brought into Court and there wrongly decided in consequence of the exclusion of evidence, but in numberless cases in which the part[illegible] [illegible] from inability to avail themselves of proof w[illegible] [illegible] s in law inadmissible From the time, h[illegible] [illegible] turned [illegible] nce, the [illegible] between [illegible] ive steps removed incompetency for [illegible] intelligence [illegible] doubtless have [illegible] fit to be enter[illegible] operation [illegible] the bench the [illegible] tribute in [illegible] Common La[illegible] [illegible] promises, [illegible] able to tes[illegible] 23 Vict C

61 provided that on wife's petition for divorce founded on adultery, coupled with cruelty or desertion, both husband and wife are competent and compellable as to cruelty or desertion Section 2 of Stat 32 & 33 Vict C 68 enacts that parties to an Stat 40 & 41 a civil right on competent and may be, nce at any or jointly d shall not pplication;

or husband as the case may be, of the person so charged, to give evidence shall not be made the subject of any comment by the prosecution, (c) The wife or husband of the the position of an accused), the husband or wife of such person, respectively, shall be competent witness But the accused is not a competent witness in a criminal case The complainant or the husband or wife of such complainant is a competent witness in a criminal proceeding, although this section makes no provision for it, because in all criminal cases the crown is always the nominal prosecutor.

Divorce Act
, and shall be other witness.
Bretton, 4 A.
49 (51) Section 52 of the same Act enacts. "On any petition presented by a wife, praying that her marriage may be dissolved by reason of her husband

61 s 6

121. No Judge or Magistrate shall, except upon the special order of some Court to which he is subordinate, be compelled to answer any questions as to his own conduct in Court as such Judge or Magistrate, or as to anything which came to his knowledge in Court as such Judge or Magistrate but he may be examined as to other matters which occurred in his presence whilst he was so acting.

Judges and Magistrates

Illustrations.

(a) A, on his trial before the Court of Session, says that a deposition was improperly taken by B, the Magistrate B cannot be compelled to answer questions as to this, except upon the special order of a superior Court

(b) A is accused before the Court of Session of having given false evidence before B, a Magistrate B cannot be asked what A said except upon the special order of the superior Court

(c) A is accused before the Court of Session of attempting to murder a police-officer whilst on his trial before B, a Sessions Judge B may be examined as to what occurred.

Principle A Judge is not bound to leave the bench and testify as to anything Public policy would authorize his refusal If the Judges are made competent witnesses, it ... would have a tendency to lower the standard ... ntempt. Burr Jones § 764 In Duke of Buccle ... 3 E & I App 429 433, Cleasby B said "With respect to those who fill the office of Judge it has been felt that there are grave ol ... made subject of cross examination and comme ... put) in relation to proceedings before tl ... properly prove can be proved by others ... may say ... ntlof

Scope of the section Calling the Judge as a witness is an exceedingly rare event Nevertheless, it has sometimes happened that a presiding Judge ... to assume the role of witness in ... inconsistent that the function ... stand as a witness he has ... all the ... of a w ... but not ... a ques ... Court ... return ... arising, ... custody for contempt? The first would be unseemly, if not ... would be passing judicially upon his own case The last would disorganize the ... proceedings Other like results may be conceived as ... proceedings Rej v ... give testimony as a ... Mitchell v Justices, K ... giving evidence upon matters which they saw, when sitting as Judges, unless they arrive at such knowledge by virtue of investigation which they were making as Judges A Munsiff should not be called upon to depose to what took place before him in the course of a trial which he was conducting as a Munsiff High Court Proceedings, 27th Nov. 1871, 2 Weir 777 = 6 M H C App 12 The privilege given by this section is the privilege of the witness i e of the Judge of whom the question is asked If he waives such privilege, it does not lie in the mouth of any other person to assert it A committing Magistrate, who is cited as a witness in a Sessions Court cannot be compelled to answer questions as to his own conduct in Court, except under the special orders of the Court to which he is subordinate If he does not object to answer such questions, there is no prohibition to his doing so Empress v Chidan, 3 A 573 = A W N 1881, 37

Judge, whether competent witness In arguing a question as to the duty of the Court not to have rendered a certain judgment, counsel put this case "Sir, let us put the case that one man kills another in your presence, you observing it, and another who is not guilty is indicted before you and is found guilty so as to incur the penalty of death, you ought to respite the judgment against him, for you are knowing to the contrary, and should make further report to the king, to give him pardon No more should you give judgment in this case, before causing those to appear by whose hands the king was paid" Gascoigne C J said "Once the king himself asked of me the very case that you say it, ... him just as you say it ... 7 H IV, 41, pl 5 ... mmons, 13 How St Tr ... saying, cited the above ... dge do not think in his ... of that private know ... I think that Judge might ... and sure I am, now he ... private knowledge ought ... whereby the prisoner might be convicted or acc ... S.

then get a pardon

"A Judge" says Mr Taylor "before whom the cause is tried must conceal any fact within his own knowledge, unless he be first sworn (R v Anderson, 7 How St Tr 874, Hurpurshad v Sheo Dayal, 3 I A 259, 286); and consequently ... witness (Roos v Bul ... may then be sworn ... (181) In this last case, the proper ... a witness, should l ... because he can hardl ... missibility of his c ... Ross v Buhler, 2 M ... exercise judicial functions may give evidence in a case pending before him when such evidence can and must be submitted to the independent evident judgment of other persons exercising similar judicial functions sitting with him at the same time So also a Sessions Judge is a competent witness, and the giving of evidence by him does not preclude him from dealing judicially with the evidence of which his own forms a part Queen v Mookla Singh, 13 W R 60 Cr In a case in which a Deputy Magistrate took an active part in the capture of parties charged with having been members of an unlawful assembly and where he tried them on that charge, Phear J said "It has been held ... which govern the co ... person is not necess ... juryman upon an inquiry into or investigation of facts, because he may have been himself a witness of some of the facts which are the subject of the inquiry or investigation, if he does do so he, so far from being under any such obligation as that which the Deputy Magistrate seems to have referred to, is bound to state to the prisoner or other person concerned, or to make known to him so far as he can, what are the facts which he himself observed, to which he himself can bear testimony Ard, moreover, the prisoner who is being tried by a Judge in this ... the Judge who, ... ewed as a witness, ... in our opinion, Court It is always dangerous for any man in whose right conduct others are concerned to set up and endeavour to carry out a fiction such as this It is most specially dangerous for a Judge, who is under the grave responsibility which attaches to the office of a Criminal Judge, to attempt anything of the kind The Deputy Magistrate if he thought it right, as he did, to take upon himself the duty of trying the prisoners in this case, ought to have made no pretence whatever of any sort, he ought to have frankly avowed and openly stated in his Court all the part which he had taken, and the facts which he had observed, and made his own evidence part of the record in the case The awkwardness of a Criminal Judge being the principal witness in the case which he has to try is no doubt, most apparent, this however, is reason for his declining to try the case, not for his endeavouring to assume an unreal character" Hurro Chandra Paul and ors, 20 W R 76 Cr

In Empress v Donnelly, 2 C 405 the question arose whether a Magistrate can himself be a witness in which he is the sole Judge of law and fact In answering the question in the negative Marlby J said As to the second point, whether the conviction is illegal because the Magistrate himself gave evidence, that question seems to me to resolve itself into this Is a sole Judge of law and fact competent to decide a case in which he has himself given evidence? It has been strongly contended on the part of the Crown that he is so, and that there is no impediment in law to a Judge giving evidence, and then disposing himself of the case by his sole opinion. No instance of this kind has, however, been found and no authority of any Judge or text writer has been cited in support of such a proposition. The English cases (they are very bad and very old) do not go farther than to establish that a person having to exercise judicial functions may give evidence in a case pending before him when such evidence can and m[illegible] other persons, exercising similar [illegible] ame (per Norman C J in Que[illegible] o case in England is cited in which even under the circumstances a Judge has been called as witness in a trial on which he was sitting later than the trial of Lord Stafford Two cases [illegible]—one the case of Queen v Tarajcisal [illegible] occasion very fully, [illegible] to the conclusion t[illegible] he lays down as the result of the English cases [illegible]. In the absence, therefore, of any authority for the position that a sole Judge of law and fact may give evidence, and then decide a case in which he has been a witness [illegible]

If he gives his evidence upon any matter of importance, the party against whom his evidence tells could not venture to test his credibility either by cross [illegible]

B L R A Cr 15 are conclusive that one who is sitting as a sole Judge is not competent also to be a witness" See also Queen v Manikam, 19 M 263

Although a Magistrate is not disqualified from dealing with a case judicially merely because in his [illegible] to initiate the proceedings, [illegible] there is no necessity f[illegible] offence and initiated the prosecution, and where he is one of the princip[illegible] witnesses for the prosecution Queen v Bholanath, 2 C 23; see also Sudhama v Queen E[illegible] Grish v Queen Empress, 20 C 857 In the ca[illegible] Mudh 24 C 167; Sardar Khan v Emperor 21 [illegible] 4, Alimuddin v Emperor, 29 C. 392=6 C W N [illegible]

It is one of the oldest and [illegible] sense [illegible] le to him out of [illegible] Balusa, 22 M [illegible] dge and belief [illegible] v Sheo Dyal, [illegible] Khodee Narain [illegible] v Emperor 50 Ind Cas [illegible] Kishore v Ganesh, [illegible] W R [illegible] v Ganga 25 W R 121

Where a Magistrate, trying a case of riot, made a local inspection of the scene of the alleged offence and was influenced by such inspection in arriving [illegible] was incom[illegible] 725= [illegible] Kishore [illegible] same [illegible] v Abdul, 21 C. [illegible] person cannot both be prosecutor and Judge Queen v Nadi, 24 W R Cr. 1; Queen v. Gangadhar, 3 C 622, Queen v Doki 2 A 806, Girish v Queen Empress, 20 C 865, In re Het Lal, 22 W R Cr 75 S.

Jurors It was formerly held that jur te timony of a witness given before them at the trial 12 Vin Abr 20 (tit Evidence) I Act they are competent witnesses to give evidence of material facts. But where it was alleged that the verdict of the jury was arrived at by casting lots and the Sessions Judge held an enquiry into the matter in the course of which he examined, besides other persons, all jurors, held that the statement of the juror as to what happened in the jury room is inadmissible Emperor v Harkumar, 17 C W N 787=40 C 693=14 Cr L J 392=20 Ind Cas 216 "The necessity for securing to the grand jurors an absolute freedom of deliberation and decision, immune from apprehension of injury from the person charged by them, demands a guarantee that by no legal process will the disclosure of their votes and expressions of opinion in the jury room be compelled It forbids that any grand juror shall be compelled to disclose his own utterances or permitted to disclose the utterances of his fellows"

Communications during marriage

122. No person who is or has been married shall be compelled to disclose any communication made to him during marriage by any person to whom he is or has been married; nor shall he be permitted to disclose any such communication, unless the person who made it, or his representative in interest, consents, except in suits between married persons, or proceedings in which one married person is prosecuted for any crime committed against the other.

General Principle of Priviledged communications Looking back at the principle of Privilege, as an exception to the general liability of every person to give testimony upon all facts require[illegible] view that preponderance of extrins tion of any such exception four necessary to the establishment of a cations between persons standing in must originate in a confidence that of confidentiality must be essential to the full satisfactory main[illegible]nance of the relation between the parties, (3) The relation must be one which in the opinion of the community ought to be sedulously fostered, and (4) The inquiry that ommunications must be rect disposal of litigation be recognized, and not

Nature of the claim The p or of another, whom he represents, and in the latter he will not be disclose the protected matter Phip Ev 193

Principle underlying this section The policy which should lie at the foun[illegible]

Husband and wife—Old rule of excluding their evidence The principle ... with the old disability of husband ... The record of judicial ratio ... ounds and policy of this privilege forms one of the most curious and entertaining chapters of the law of evidence It is curious because the variety of ingenuity displayed, in the invention of reasons ex post facto for a rule so simple and so long accepted, could hardly have been believed but for the recorded utterances" Wigmore § 2228 The reason of the privilege is thus given by Buller J in his trials at Nisi Prius, 286 Husband and wife cannot be admitted to be a witness for each other, because contrary to the legal policy of marriage In Barker v Dixie, Lee Cas to Hardwicke, 264 Lord Hardwicke L C J said 'The reason why the law will not suffer a wife to be a witness for or against her husband is to preserve the peace of families' The following reasons are stated by Sir William Blackstone in his commentaries 'If they are admitted to be witnesses for each other they would contradict one maxim of law nemo in propria causa testis esse debet , and if against each other, they would contradict ... reason is ascribed by Lord ... here he said The r... h a bias on their minds ... that they are not to be permitt... or or against each other

Most of these reasons" says Prof Wigmore ' do not call for particular dissection their very statement is void of force " 'Hard', 'hardship' 'policy', 'peace of families', 'absolute necessity', some such words as these are the vehicles says Mr Jeremy Bentham ' by which the faint spark of reason that exhibits itself is conveyed These are the leading terms, and these are all you are furnished with , and out of these you are to make an applicable a distin t and intelligible proposition as you can [As to the 'policy' of the situation ... omes of injustice ... m and (if that ... wife injustice in ... olific, would in ... e, grant to every ... e and with the ... the family and ... stle ... s! ... s but ... ther ... ghts ... p an nality of which it ... or a principal crime ... arried state criminal, is itself ... ehaviour, a was one object o... e in their wife and children ... r antiquity own nature) so many pledges ... The policy of feudal barbarism of the ages which gave birth to this immoral rule, is to convert that sacred condition into a nursery of crime The reason now given was not I suspect the original one Drawn from the principl of utility, though fr... savours of a late and polished r... ely to have been the original ... f the identity of the two persons thus co... erson in law On questions relative to the ... is the fountain of all reasoning' ... IX Pt IV, C V , Wigmore § 2228 But this ... subject.

The Commissioners on Common Law Procedure, in their second report at p 13 said ' The question how far communications of married persons inter se should be a matter of testimony in Courts of Justice stands on a different ground (from that of compelling one to testify to facts against other) So much of such testimony would have a powerful tendency to disturb the peace of families, to promote domestic broils, and to weaken, if not to destroy, that feeling of mutual confidence, which is the most endearing solace of married life Taylor § 909

S.

Scope of the section ... 17 Vict C 83, which ... to disclose any communica... and no wife shall be compellable to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during the marriage" The protection afforded by this section is greater than that conferred by the English Statute There only the husband and wife are protected from disclosing any communication made to him to her by his or her marriage partner But in India, he or she is not permitted to disclose that communication Steph Dig Ev art 110, Markby Ev p 93 As according to the rule of interpretation, words importing the masculine gender includes feminine, the word he" includes the word she' and the word 'him" includes the word 'her" So this section confers the same privilege on the wife that it confers on the husband Markby Ev p 93, General Clauses Act (X of 1897) s 13 The words "compelled to disclose" or 'permitted to disclose' clearly imply that the party concerned is not made or allowed to say or do something by ...
Per Subramaniya Ayya... the same case Boddai... declining to receive in... defendant to his wife...
house under a search w... to such a case A document even though it contains a communication from a husband to a wife or vice versa in the hands of third persons, is admissible in evidence, for in producing it, there is no compulsion on or permission to the wife or husband to disclose any communication The section protects the individuals, and not the communication if it can be proved without putting into the box for that purpose the husband or the wife to whom the communication was made For these reasons we think the exhibit V was rightly received in evidence' A third person who has overheard a conversation between husband and wife while it was going on may testify to it Greenl Ev 15th Ed Vol I p 347, but see R v Pamenter, 12 Cox Cr 177 The principle applies quite irrespective of whether either spouse is a party to the cause Moreover the death or divorce of the other member does not affect the policy of prohibition Again, the other member may always waive the privilege Greenleaf § 333 (C) A c... because the other spouse was also ... So also conversation at which a t... may be proved by him R v Sn... P 510, R v Barrett, 7 C & P ... conversations or communications, and the question may thus arise whether certain conduct by one spouse in the presence of the other—such as the payment of money or the signing of a note—is to be treated as a communication Greenl Ev § 254

... the communication sought ... it the seal of the ... h pass between ... 435 Docker v ... 1897 It extends ... involved, as well ... It is, however, limited to such matters as have been communicated during marriage Taylor § 909 A This section is limited to such matters as have been communicated

"during the marriage"; and, consequently, if a man were to make the most confidential statement to a woman before he married her, and it were afterwards to become of importance in a civil suit to know what that statement was the wife, on being called as a witness, and interrogated with respect to the communication, would as it seems be bound to disclose what she knew of the matter Taylor § 9[illegible] ... that the relation of husband and ... vidence is required to be g ... Act of Parliament, and had married another person, was offered as a wit... against her former husband, ... the coverture Lord Alvanley held he ... characteristic energy 'It never can ... has created while the parties remained in the most intimate of all relations, shall be broken, whenever, by the misconduct of one party, the relation has been dissolved" Monroe v Twistleton, Pea Add Cas 221 explained and confirmed by Lord Ellenborough in Aveson v Ld Kinnaird, 6 East, 192, 193. Where there is no 'representative in interest' who can consent, under this section, to the ... husband to his wife during ... even if willing, to disclose such ... and is not his "representative in interest" for the purpo... t The prohibition enacted by the section rests on no technicality that can be waived at will, but is founded ... of high import which no Court is entitled to relax Narah ... 91 No statement of an incriminating nature ... guilt under section 302 I P Code to her husband Ishanan v Emperor, 1923 Lah 40 In Mussamat ... 914 Cr = 261 P L R 1914 = 15 Cr L J 613-25 ... convicted of murdering her step son on the strength of a confess... by her to him alone of the body ... is not admissible, as ... husband within the meaning of s 122, Evidence Act ... the wife of an ac... respect of the one ... with which he is c... tative in interest consenting to th... sible under this section Millhi... 705 Cr = 14 Cr L J 273 An ... ated to injure his ... and does not ... e father ... L R ... nication ... without ... incum... given ... J 316 = ... of one ... band is of the accused as to certain communications between ... section In ola Sal at v Crown, 34 P R 1914 Cr = 27 ... munication made by an arbitrator to ... hat he had accepted bribe from a ... evidence only if the requirements of ... Khambatta, A I R 1930 Lah 290

... has for its object the ... a of which ... on therefore ... ning being ... munications ... ore, on the ... such On ... ay in fact ... may become ... a pa kage ... n the fourth desk drawer," in effect communicates to her not only the words but also the act of placing the package While his domestic acts are ordinarily not to be treated as communications, nevertheless it is always conceivable that they may by special circumstances be made part of a communication To formulate a precise test would perhaps be impracticable It is clear however, that the mere doing of an act by the husband in the wife's presence is not a communication of it by him, for it is done for the sake of the doing not for the sake of the disclosure There must be something in the way of an invitation of the wife's presence or attention with the object of bringing the act directly to her knowledge Except in such cases, the privilege cannot cover anything but an utterance of words, spoken or written Wigmore § 2337.

Evidence as to affairs of State

123. No one shall be permitted to give any evidence derived from unpublished official records relating to any affairs of State, except with the permission of the Officer at the head of the department concerned, who shall give, or withhold such permisson as he thinks fit

Principle On the principle of public policy, the official transactions between the heads of the departments of state and their subordinate officers are in general treated as privileged communications Greenleaf Ev § 251 In Beatson v Skene, 5 H & N 838, 853, Pollock C B said We are of opinion that it cannot be laid down that all public documents, including treaties with foreign powers and all the correspondence that may precede or accompany them,

Foreign Affairs in this country, containing matters injurious to the reputation of a foreigner or a British subject, can it be contended that the person referred to would have a right to compel the production of the letter in order to take the opinion of a jury whether the injurious matter was written maliciously or not? We are of opinion that, if the production of a state paper would be injurious to the public service the general public interest must be considered paramount to individual interest of a suitor in a Court of Justice'

Scope of the section This section follows the English law as laid down by the majority of the Court in Beatson v Skene 5 H & N 838 instead of the view of Martin B in that case and of Field J in Hennessy v Wright, 21 Q B D 509 and makes the public officer the Judge of whether a communication made to him in official character should or should not be disclosed So under this section the Judge is bound to accept, without question, the decision of the public officer referred to This view is confirmed by s 162 ...

p 94

evidence

Beatson

service—an enquiry

in public, may do

appears to us therefore that the question whether the production of the document would be injurious to the public service, must be determined, not by the Judge, but by the head of the department having the custody of the paper; and if he is in attendance and states that, in his opinion, the production of the document to compel

Ev 309
hen the privilege ictivities xercised
, to the public interests and not that the documents are confidential or official which alone is no reason for their non production; nor that their production might prejudice the crown's own case or assist the other party which is rather a luction unless overborne by some plain over Henry Green Robinson v The State of New =1931 A C 701=61 M L J 943 P C; see & G 183 In Poulett v Att Gen
'The party in this case ought to ing is the fountain and head of justice and equity and it shall not be presumed that he will be defective in either, and it would derogate from the King's honour to imagine that what is equity against a common person should not be equity against him" See also Esquimalt v Wilson, (1920) A C 358, 366 But privilege in matters under s 123 should not be claimed unnecessarily Mehtab v Secretary of State, A I R 1933 Lah 157

Affairs of state would, no doubt, be held to include any matters of a public nature with which the Government is concerned Cun Ev. 354. So no person will be required to testify with regard to state secrets or as to correspondence between Government officials on matters of public business, if in the opinion of the head of the department, such disclosure would injuriously affect the public interest Best Ev 537 But any officer having the custody of records, not being records of which the production may, on special grounds be refused, is bound to produce them on receiving summons to that effect 2 Weir 781 Statements made by witnesses in the course of departmental enquiry into the conduct of upon their trial on charges of taking under s 123, 124 or 125 of the Evide N 431=16 Ind Cas 77 Statements made before the Income Tax Collector overned by section 123 of the 317=32 M 62=
tor General rd relating to be claimed 387=26 Cr

387

Official records relating to affairs of state The protection of documents ence is racter ithout al or official, which alone is no reason for their non production Asiatic Petroleum v Anglo Persian Oil Co (1916) 1 K B 822=85 L J K B 1075 A libel case by a lieutenant colonel, who was eng against one of a Court of enquiry appointed by the into the plaintiff's conduct in the mining nduct, the military secretary of the commandar ucing the minutes o in the ground that the report
Home v Bentinck
2 B & B tson v Slene, 5
H & N 8 contra, Robinson
v May, 2 Where the docu duced Anderson
nbers of the House nnot be disclosed t v Cobbett 5 Esp ternational affairs

S.

... Vaughan Williams J said "I agree although not perhaps exactly on the same grounds" "State papers, despatches, minutes, or documents of any such description which relate to the carry of a public nature and in the possession character as Secretary of State were held no India Company, 11 L J Ch 71, correspo privileged Tower may accurate or

A report of an accident made by a railway company to the Ministry of Transport was held protected Ankin v L & N E Ry Co (1930) 1 K B 527, so also reports by an Inspector to the Local ... (Att Gen v Nottingaam, 20 T L ... Inland Revenue to his superiors (Hughe ... Government Analyst to the Home office as to post-mortem examination of corpse (Williams v Star Co, 72 J P Jo 65); police report under the Irish Crimes Act (R v McCornack, Crimes Act Cas 244, Ashton v Waterfort 42 Ir L T Jo 77) as well as communications between the Director of Public Prosecution and his Assistant (R v Benson, 151 C C C Sess Pap 705) are held protected Phip Ev 190 Where letters add- ... see, those letters would nc ... s 123, Evidence Act, and ... nd decide under s 162 ... late, A I R 1933 Lah 157 In a prosecution for pe... that the Kabuliyats in question on which they were written did not the date of the Kabuliyats of Stationery, Calcutta depo on his own experience but o in respect of which privil prepared to let the Court or of the witness was not admissible Emperor v Joffrel Hossain, 59 C 1046 = 36 C W N 514 = A I R 1932 Cal 468

Who determines the necessity of secrecy Although the party who relies upon a public document may be prepared to lay before the Court the original or such secondary evidence of it as has been raised by statute to the rank of an orig... of any public department of stat... iralty Commissioners v Aberde... his op... should be produced in open document shall not be put in department is alone competent to judge whether the disclosure of a document will be injurious to the public interest, he alone is competent to take this objection

124 or ma so acc its 44 T. can pre

3 depends will furnish to the designing officials too ample opportunities for abusing the privilege The lawful limits for the privilege are extensible beyond law makes the public o him in his official confider that the public interest to disclose the communica

Secretary of State v Saminatha Nadar, 119 Ind Cas 718 Where certain statements were made to a station master of a State Railway but there was nothing to show that they were made to him in official confidence, the communications are not protected Emperor v. Bhagwati, A I R 1929 Oudh 543=6 O W N 937 In a recent Madras case the Court observed "The question for decis 1 and 7 are open to the lower Court' 1 by Irwin v D J Reid 48 C 304 which try's Laws of England Vol II, pp 84 ned and the Judge is to decide whether the evidence referred to shall be given or withheld If the objection is taken by the proper person, the Court will not go behind it" Secretary of State v Saminath Nadar, A I R 1930 Mad 312, see also Garudachar v Abbas Khan, 8 Mys L J 474

But in Henny Greer Robinson v The State of Smith Australia, 35 C W N 1121 (P C) at p 1126, Lord Blanesburgh after reviewing all the previous cases said "The power of the Court to call for the production of documents for which this privilege is claimed and to determine the validity of the claim for itself was much discussed in argument The result of the discussion has been, as their Lordships think, to confirm the view of Griffiths C J in Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company v The Commonwealth, 16 C L R 178, where in effect he concludes that the Court has in these cases always had in reserve the rotection is sought to the State which is in no way out of xercise be carefully guarded so as not to occasion to the State the mischief which the privilege, n v Skene, rently have publicity is e Minister's tatement is,

v Aberdeen

nevertheless,

tch case of Henderson by judicial pronounceded, by reason of the thing ' Lindley M R for example, in Joseph Hargreaves, Ltd [(1900) 1 Ch 347] was not prepared to set any limit to the power of the Court to call for production of a document for which this privilege is claimed The propriety of Field J's own practice in the matter as described by him in Hennessy v Wright, (21 Q B D 509), has, pace the observations upon it of Isaacs J in Griffen's Case not been challenged, and hitherto, it has usually been in cases where the state was not itself a party litigant that the difficulty has been suggested whereas the authority

, if any,

should

s docu ments, provided of course, that such power be exercised so as not to destroy

But to t is found to exist

e of this judgment of the authorities is, their ntitled to prescribe in any particular case the manner in which the claim of privilege shall be made if the claim is to be allowed It may, in one case, if thus advised accept the unsworn

S.

it ought to appear that the mind of a responsible Minister had been brought to bear on the question of the expediency in the public interest of giving or refusing the information asked for, and Lord Coleridge insisted on an affidavit being produced from the President of the Board of Trade himself In the present case their Lordships are not required to make upon this subject any one that has not been expressed inadvisedly or lightly or as a matter of mere departmental routine, but is one put forward with the solemnity necessarily attaching to a sworn statement. Lastly, the privilege the reason for it being what it is, can hardly be asserted in relation to documents the contents of which have already been published"

124. No public officer shall be compelled to disclose communications made to him in official confidence, when he considers that the public interests would suffer by the disclosure

Official communications Principle In Hennessy v Wright, L R 21 Q B D 509, 512, Field J said "There are two aspects of this question First, the publication of a state document may involve danger to the nation If the confidential communications made by servants of the or by inferiors to superiors in the liable to be made public in a Co thought proper to say 'fiat justitia involve the country in a war be injurious to servants of the Crc of all freedom in their official

that a su secre brun secur of d stances had made of no matter how stice" (1) The official should be de in the course it signifies nothing tortious or criminal conceded is a rally in favour n exoneration, by hypothesis of testimonial n hardship to officials may cases are rele of the argur negotiations conceded There ought to be a protection for 'secrets of State' in this narrow sense But this done, what remains? In only three or four of the precedents has there been even a pretence that the matters actually preserved from disclo then

that (3)
t, in

4. the ... furs of public business ... sclosure when material ... Ordinarily they are not In any community under a system of representative Government and removable ... secret with that solidity ... with the veil of ... common routine ... eyes of every intelligent man and every ... can seldom be legitimately desired It is ... of partisan politics or personal self interest The responsibility of officials to explain and to justify their acts is the chief safeguard against oppression and corruption . . . To concede to them a ... which ... been ... ideal to obstruct investigation into facts which might fix him with a liability" Wigmore § 2378

Scope of the section There is a marked difference between this section and section 123 This section is confined to public officers, though who are such is not defined Section 123 embraces every one This section makes the officer himself the judge of the propriety of waiving the privilege In no case has the Court any authority, if the objection is raised by proper authority Section 123 is ... such restriction though it ... held by the Governmen... excluded Nort Ev 310 Statements whether oral or written, made by an officer summoned to attend before a Military Court of Inquiry are not part of the minutes of the proceedings ... delivered to the Comma... were in ... and on grou... Dawkins v Lord Rol... I said ... " No office... between ... the govern... only person up... , were suffered to be disclosed" ... L 55, 69 Section 123 excludes onl... any affairs of State except with the ... while under section 124 in the other ... privilege may exercise his own discr... angir v Secretary of State 6 C. W N ... al confidence" used in this section import no special degree of secrecy and no pledge or direction for its maintenance, but include generally all matters communicated by one officer to another ... Nagaraja Pillai v Secretary of State 26 Ind Cas ... the privilege as to the production of public do... extends even to those which ... with no ... privilege ... Ibid ... officers ... docu... ... 1920 Bom 690

When he considers that the public interest would suffer by the disclosure This section follows the English law and makes the officer the judge as to ... should not ... disclosure ... Hanuman ... C W N 246 An officer's refusal to disclose a document on grounds of public policy is final It is not competent to the Court to call for and examine the secret archives of the state in order to satisfy itself of their confidential nature Lala Tribhuban v Deputy Commr, 47 Ind Cas 225 = 5 O L J 291; but see Collector of Jaunpur v Jamna 44 A 360 where the Court observed "It is for the Court to decide whether or not a particular document for which privilege is cl ... the officer in official confidence" ... of the document. Beatson v Sk... ...dicrous Is it to be ... ordinate ... of the dependent upon a party, who knows or must know, the contending parties, and may have the most cogent reasons for ... to anoth... Judge is ... flimsy pr... some pet... In the case of the Judge, you have sacred guarantees; in that of a politician you have none External pressure will curb down the politician, whilst you will behold the Judge more e... ...ting and baffling its baneful influence ... left to the Judge on the Bench, in ... instead of allowing a secretary, or any member of the Government, to silence him, to interfere w...

Whe... interest of ... (1911) 2 M... in official ... disclosure ... it ... the ... In ... Bhagwati, ... public policy, the official ... and their subordinate ...ations Chatterton v ...unications between a provincial governor and his attorney general on the state of the colony, or the conduct of its officers (Wyatt v Gore, Holts N P Cas 299), or between ... v Maxwell, ... the Com- ...30), and the ...y of State ..., 1 Cranch ...state will

5 P W R Cr 1913=5 Ind Cas 714 The customs superintendent could not claim privilege as [illegible] what took place between [illegible] Ruku mali v Emperor, 2 [illegible] Where the secondary evidence of certain documents had been admitted in the Court [illegible]

[illegible] section in correspondence between President [illegible] to the Government Padmanbhiah v Town [illegible] 53 It is dobtful whether a Railway station master is a public officer within the meaning of this section Emperor v Bhagwati, Ind Rul (1930) Oudh 174 During a police investigation under s of the Bombay District Police Act K, an Excise Inspector, in reply to enquiries by the police wrote a letter creating what he knew of an alleged offence under s 296 Penal Code Held, that K for the purpose of the case must be considered to be a private person, that he was not a person to whom the communication was made, he was the person by whom it was made and the letter did not fall under s 124 of the Evidence Act Barjorji Frameje In re, A I R 1932 Bom 196=34 Bom L R 258

125.* No Magistrate or police-officer† shall be compelled to say whence he got any information as to the commission of any offence, and no Revenue-officer shall be compelled to say whence he got any information as to the commission of any offence against the public revenues.

Information as to commission of offences

Explanation.—"Revenue-officer" in this section means any officer employed in or about the business of any branch of the public revenue.

Principle A genuine privilege for communications, on the fundamental principle of privilege, must be recognized for communications made by informers to the Government [illegible] encourage-ment, and becaus [illegible] ons can be created only by [illegible] of the informant's identi [illegible] Tr 99, Earle C J said [illegible] ven to discuss the truth [illegible] a rule which has universally obtained on account of its importance to the public for the detection of crimes that those persons who are the channel by means of [illegible] very unwilling to stop it, but it does not appear to me that there is any necessity for it in this particular case " So it is absolutely essential to the welfare of the state that the names of parties who interfere in situation of this kind should not be divulged; for othewise, be it from fear, or shame, or the dislike of being publicly mixed up in inquires of this nature,—few men would choose to assume

* This section was substituted for the original s 125 by the Indian Evidence Act (1872) Amendment Act, 1887 (3 of 1887)

† [illegible] has under s 125 of this Act have [illegible] in command of military police in [illegible] of 1887, s 13)] and in Bengal (vide [illegible]] the disagreeable part of giving or rece the consequence would be that many Dallas C J. in Home v. Bentinck, 2 B Trial, 32 How. St Tr 102; R v. O'B Briant, 15 L. J. N S Exch 265 These matters are either those which concern the administration of penal justice, or those which concern the administra-s the same,

hat subject

Scope of the section The law recognizes the duty of every citizen to communicate to the government and to its officers such information as he may have concerning the commission of offences against the laws, and for the purpose of encouraging the performance of that duty without fear of consequences, the Courts have long held that when the Government is immediately concerned ... and to wh
Thus,
in former [Rex v Akers, informer Att Gen v Bryan
has been applied in cases Watson,
32 How St Tr
C 726), larceny, (State ised upon charging the plaintiff with misconduct Gray v Pentland, 2 Serg & R 23, Home May, 2 Smith 3, Burr Jones § 763 he related it to a friend, another quarter, a majority to be asked the name of that friend, and they all were of opinion that all those questions which tend to the discovery of the channels by which the disclosure was made to the officers of justice were, upon the general principle of the convenience of public justice, to be suppressed, that all persons in that situation were protected from the discovery, and that if it was objected to, it was no more competent for the defendant to ask the witness who the person was that advised him to make a disclosure, than to ask who the person was to whom he made the disclosure in consequence of that advice, or to ask any other question respecting the channel of communication, or all that was done under it R v. Hardy, 24 How St Tr 808, Greenl Ev § 250 It may now be taken as settled rule that witnesses for the crown in criminal prosecution undertaken by the Government are privileged from disclosing the channel through which they have received or communicated information (R v Watson 32 St Tr 1, R v Richardson, 3 F & F 693, A G v Briant, 15 M & W 169, Marks v Beyfus, 25 Q B D 494) but it has been ruled that a detective cannot refuse on grounds of public policy to answer a question as to where he was secreted Webb v Catchlove, 3 T L R 159 In R v Berrard 1 F & F 240, when objection was taken to a question put to a witness, whether he had gone to a certain place as a spy, Lord Campbell, allowed the objection to prevail, on the ground that the question was not ... that the witness was really called upon to draw mith O'Brien, the Govern-nd punishing idual prosecu-discover from police officials t Amrita v King I

In Weston will only add a does not in expre whence he got rule is taken ... of the foundation of the rule show that the

Q B D 509) A fortiori if objection is taken, it cannot since the law allows ss" utions Phips 182 equence of certain used by defendant
d the information, but Cockburn C J ordered him to answer the question, which in the particular instance turned out to be material, the information having been supplied by two girls not called; "they could have stated," said the Judge ' how it was they had come to know that the bottle was where it was found, and perhaps could have given some clue to the person who put it there" R v Richardson, 3 F & F 693 So in England the line between public and private prosecutions not being clearly drawn for this purpose, it is for the Judge to decide whether the information is protected or not Roscoe Cr Ev 181 The English rule was followed in an Indian case before the passing of the Indian Evidence Act In re Mahesh Chandra, 13 W R Cr 1 (10) But under this section the rule is applicable both in cases of public and private prosecutions A mere suggestion that the complainant would show that the house raided was not the one referred to the rule embodied r the production
Cr L J 447=29
Ind Cas 79

The words "information as to the commission of any offence" in this section, only enacted the rule which, as said by Eyre C J in Hardy's case, 24 How St Tr 808, has universally obtained, on account of its importance to the public for the detection of crimes, that those persons, who are the channel by means of ... e unnecessarily disclosed Queen Empress ... But having regard to the distinction ... Bombay) between a police officer and an officer of the salt department, the latter cannot be considered a Police officer within the meaning of s 125 Evidence Act, and may therefore be compelled to say whence he obtained the information as to the commission of an offence Reg v Gowla, Rat Un Cr C 183 So also a superintendent ction Queen Empress v Rana v Emperor, 16 C W N 431=15 between questions which a witness hich he cannot be permitted to ... The latter class of ques ... but questions of the former class are in no way ... ght of refusing to answer such questi ... drawn from his refusal Mahomed Ali ... 277

126. No barrister, attorney, pleader or vakil shall at any time be permitted, unless with his client's express consent, to disclose any communication made to him in the course and for the purpose of his employment as such barrister, pleader, attorney or vakil, by or on behalf of his client, or to state the contents or condition of any document with which he has become acquainted in the course and for the purpose of his professional employment, or to disclose any advice given by him to his client in the course and for the purpose of such employment.

Professional communication

Provided that nothing in this section shall protect from disclosure—

(1) any such communication made in furtherance of any *[illegal] purpose.

* This word in s 126 was substituted for the original word "criminal" by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872), s 10

(2) any fact observed by any barrister, pleader, attorney S. or vakil, in the course of his employment as such, showing that any crime or fraud has been committed since the commencement of his employment.

It is immaterial whether the attention of such barrister, *[pleader], attorney or vakil was or was not directed to such fact by or on behalf of his client.

Explanation.—The obligation stated in this section continues after the employment has ceased

Illustrations

(a) A, a client, says to B, an attorney "I have committed forgery and I wish you to defend me"

As the defence of a man known to be guilty is not a criminal purpose, this communication is protected from disclosure

(b) A, a client, says to B, an attorney—'I wish to obtain possession of property by the use of a forged deed on which I request you to sue"

The communication, being made in furtherance of a criminal purpose, is

...y, to defend
...as been made
...ve been embezzled,
...employment

Princ... as to matte...
in the str... permitted... by his cl...
tion of legal advisers by clients, the apprehension of compelled disclosure by the legal advisers must be removed; and hence the law must prohibit such disclosure except on the client's consent Wigmore § 2291, Phip Ev 170, Per Mounteney B in Annesley ... 17 How St T 1225 ... Great Central Railway, (1910 ... Anderson v Bank L R 2 ... meaning of the rule is this ... of our law, litigation can only be properly conducted by professional men it is absolutely necessary that a man in order to prosecute his rights or to defend himself from an improper claim, should have recourse to the assistance of professional lawyers, and it being so absolutely necessary, it is equally necessary to use a vulgar phrase, that he should be able to make a clean breast of it to the gentleman whom he consults with a view to the prosecution of his claim, or the substa... be able to place ... and that the cor... with his consen... al agent) that he ... he mean- ing of ... enough v Gaskel ... of this rule, is not o... the busines... protection... holden, and

* This word in s 126 was inserted by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872), s 10.

S. aid of men skilled in jurisprudence, in the practice of the Courts, and in those matters affecting rights and obligations, which form the subj ct of all j id ci l proceedings If such communications were not protected no man as the same learned Judge remarked in another case would dare to consult a professional adviser, with a view to his defence, or to the enforcement of his rights, and no man can safely come into a Court either to obtain redress, or to defend himself Bolton v Corporation of Liverpool 1 My & K 94 95 No privilege can be thus required for any communication which is made for the purpose of committing a criminal or fraudulent act or of aiding no part of the client's interests nor within a legal adviser, were the rule otherwise he purpose of the appli

his client for the purpose of illustrating his criminal purpose Wills Ev 2nd Ed p 277 Russell v Jackson 9 Hare 392, Follett v Jefferyes, 1 Sim N S 3 17, R v Cox 14 Q B D 153, Williams v Quebrada (1895) 2 Ch 751, Bullivant v A G for Victoria (1901) A C 196, Ramsbotham v Senior, (1869) 8 Eq 575n, In re Postlethwaite, (1887) 35 Ch D 723

Scope of the section the reason of public policy or attorney of the party cannot be compell mmunications made to him or letters or entries Greenough v Gaskell 1 My & K 101 In this gham was assisted by consultation, with Lord Lyndhurst Tindal C J and Parke J, 4 B & Ad 876, and it is mentioned as one in which all the authorities have been reviewed in 2 M & W 100 per Lord Abinger and is cited in Russell v Jackson, 15 Jur 1117 as settling the law on the subject Greenl Ev § 237, see also Berd v Lovelace 19 Eliz in Chancery Cary's R 88 Austen v Vesy Cary's R 89, Kelway v Kelway Cary's R 127 Dennis v Codrington, Cary's R 143 Wilson v Rastall 4 T R 753, R v Withers 2 Camp 578, Wilson v Troup, 7 Johns Ch 25, Mills v Oddy 6 C & P 728 R v Shaw 6 C & P 372 "This protection," says Lord Chancellor Brougham "is not qualified by any reference to proceedings pending or in contemplation If, touching matters that come within the ordinary scope of professional employment, they receive a communication in their professional capacity either from a client or on his account and for his benefit in the transaction of his business or which amounts to the same thing if his behalf matters the client they are to hold them and not be compelled to disclose the information, or produce the papers in any Court of law or equity, either as a party or as a witness Greenough v Gaskel, 1 My & K 101 In Pearce v Pearce, 1 Deg & Sm 25 Knight Bruce

reat a price to pay for the privilege remains an its obstruction is plain e of a general policy, but it is nonetheless an obstacle to the investigation of truth It ought to be strictly confined within the narrowest possible limits consistent with the logic of its principles Wigmore § 2291, Broad v Pitt 1 M & M 233=3 C & P 518, Foster v Hall 12 Pick. Mass 89 97 Communications made by a client to his pleader expressly for the pupose of incorporation in the pleadings are not confidential and are not privileged Bibi Sona v Mir Abdul, 6 S L R J Under this section a pleader cannot disclose the contents of a document

d not

when necessary Balkanla v Bhailal, 1930 Ind Rul. Bom 88 An executor of a client cannot be presumed to give his consent to the pleader stating the contents of it from the mere fact that the executor, had deposed to its contents as a witness Ibid

S.

Privilege is irrespective of litigation beg— ... original theory of privilege the confidences ... when given for the purpose of securing aid in ... tion in which they were given It is obvi ... would be wholly ... ge This ... f a suit, ... Gains- ... illiams ... for the ... se; ... on it" ... is made ... are not ... nterden) ... "with ... was in ... Death, the present ... law ... procee ... Greenc ... Ald ... B 4, ... attorne ... 1 Deg & Sm 12 Knight Bruce V C said "I suppose Cromack v Heathcote to be now universally acceded to, as far as any discovery by the solicitor or counsel is conc ... laim, or dispute is immaterial" ... Cas 253 = 26 Bom L R 887, M ... v Corrie, 8 Q B D 356

Advice sought for miscellaneous non legal purpose A lawyer is sometimes employed without reference to his knowledge and discretion in the law—as where he is charged with finding a profitable investment for trust funds In such ... Madd 47; Bran ... W 98, Doe v W ... it is not easy to fr ... advice Where the general purpose concerns legal rights and obligations a particular incidental transaction would receive protection though in itself it were merely commercial in nature—as where the financial condition of a shareholder is discussed, in the course of a proceeding to enforce a claim against a corporation But apart from such cases, the most that can be said by way of generalization, is that a matter committed to a professional legal adviser is prima facie so committed for the sake of the legal advice which may be more or less desirable for some aspect of the matter, and is therefore within the privilege, unless it clearly appears to be lacking in aspects requiring legal advice Wigmore § 2296

Barrister, Attorney, plead ... 24 of Act II of 1855, where the ... Under that Act it was held ... Chandra Kant, 9 W R Cr Lett ... word "pleader" has been added Now the question is whether the word "pleader" includes Mookteers In construing this section the Court in Abbas Peala v Queen Empress, 2 C W N 484 (488) = 25 C 766, observed "The pleader for the Appellants contends that the statements made by the accused to the Muktear Kedar Nath were privileged, and that without the consent of the accused, Kedarnath ... is placed ... barrister ... in Act I

6. not, without the consent of his client, disclose any communication made by the client to him in the course of his professional employment or any advice given by him professionally to his client, the knowledge of which he shall have owever, it there ion 24

ne word

'express' before the word 'consent' which makes it specially stringent in favour of the privilege Now, there is no suggestion in this case that the accused expressly consented to Kedar disclosing in Court the statement or statements made to him by the accused

that inasmuch as he was a Muktear he and that consequently the stater and we have been referred to a case of the Queen v Chandra Kant Chakrabutty 1 B L R A C 8, which proceeded upon Act II of 1855 As we have already pointed out, section 24 of the old Act is different from the section in the present Act The Procedure Codes, Act XXV of 1861 and Act X of 1872 did not contain any definition of the term "pleader" Act X of 1882 for the first time defines the word as follows —"Pleader", used with reference to any proceedings in any Court, means a pleader authorized under any law for the time being in force to practise in such Court, and includes (1) an advocate, a vakil and an any muktear or other person in such proceeding The result who appear in a Court in any e purpose of pleading in any particular case, come within the category of pleaders; and section 126 must we take it, be construed as applying to all persons who come within the category of pleaders as defined in the Criminal Procedure Code It would indeed be a strange anomaly if muktears who act in certain Courts as pleaders were

the Indian Evidence Act and were not regarded as privileged cognised position as barristers

We may say that the provision which was contained in Act II of 1855 and which was subsequently amplified by section 126 of the present Evidence Act embodies one of the wise principles of the English law, and that although in England there is no

d to the conditions of all persons who plead

Now by the amend ment of section 4 (1) by Act XXXV of 1923, pleader used with reference to any proceeding in any Court, means a pleader, or a muktear authorized under any law for the time being in force to practise in such Court, and includes (1) an advocate, a vakil and an attorney of a High Court so authorized, and (2) any person appointed with the permission of the Court to act in such proceeding Now the word "pleader" includes not only muktear, but also an advocate, permission of ations made to a r the interpreta

1882 should be accepted in interpreting the Indian Evidence Act which was placed in the Statute Book as early as in the year 1872 The question is whether the commun l If we are to accept en Empress supra even

The reason given by

L R Cr S, in holding xpressed. "Section

ls, shall not disclose d 'attorney' in the are meant, and not lly follow in their proper order after vakils There is, therefore, by law no privilege as to communications between muktears and their principals, and the witness's testimony ought to have been received and laid before the jury" "The reasons given for this decision seem equally to apply to the language of the present section" Woodroffe's

S. 1

Evidence Act, 8th Ed p 901 But on principle such communications should be excluded and it is anomalous that provisions of this section apply to inter-are recognized by the Courts and, though not mentioned in the section, they would probably obtain the same protection as the persons mentioned" Mark Ev p 96

According to English law, the privilege attaching to confidential professional disclosures is strictly confined to the protect those made Wheeler v Le M but see R v Griff Duchess of King agents (Mosely v (Lee v Birrell, Camp 3, Webb v Smith, 1 C & P 337) and friends (Wheeler v Le Marchant, 17 Ch D 675), Phip Ev 170 There is no ground for encouraging the relation of client and
to
the
is cat
for circumstance that Wigmore § 2302.

Shall at any time be permitted, etc In every case the privilege is the right not of the legal he can alone waive it, allowed to disclose ar 15 Q B D 114 The legal adviser is not competent to waive the privilege R. v Leverson, 11 Cox 152, Wilson v Rastall, 4 T R 758, Lyell v Kennedy, 27 Ch D 1, Kay v Poorun Chand, 4 B 631 But it is as client and not as party to a cause, that he is entitled, for the reason of the privilege applies to all clients as such, whether or not they are parties when the disclosure is sought from them Hence, the privilege equally forbids disclosure by the attorney of a client not in any way concerned in the cause Wilson v Rastall 4 T R 759, R v Withers, 2 Camp 578 Conversely, when the client is not a party then on general principles the party cannot invoke the privilege Merle v Moore, 2 C & P 275, Wigmore § 2321 The client may claim the benefit of the rule, although no fee has been paid, or although there has been no formal retainer The privilege has been recognized even in cases where the attorney did not consider that he was to show that the relation § 749 But a waiver o debar him from insisting And subject to such waiver, when once communications or statements are privileged they always remain so (Pearce v Foster, 15 Q B D 114, Bullock v Carry, 3 Q B D 356, Haslam Foundry etc v Hall, (1887) 3 T L R 776), as the privilege is not destroyed by death but may be claimed by the personal representatives of the client who was entitled to it Bullivant v A G for Victoria (1901) A C 196, Wills Ev 2nd Ed p 285 But although the rule "once privileged always (Bullock v Carry 3 Q B D 356, Calcraft v Gues ails to this extent that a document does waiver, this does not affect the admi matters to which the privileged docu quiring production has at some previous time obtained a copy of the privileged document or has perused its contents, he is at liberty to give secondary evidence of them, if due notice to

26. produce the original has been given. Wills Ev 2nd Ed 285; see also Minet v Morgan, 8 Ch 361, Lloyd v Mostyn, 10 M & W. 478, 481, 482, Calcraft v Guest, (1898) 1 Q B 759.

Anytime The word 'anytime" in this section is significant When a communication is once privileged it is "always privileged" Per Cockburn C J in Bullock v Carry, 3 Q B D 356, Per Lindley L J in Calcraft v Guest, (1898) 1 Q B 761 The privilege continues for the purpose of future litigation change of solicitors, or that the

. Clinton, 19 Ves 268), or the

v. Brown, 7 Hare, 79), or the

C 196, Powell Ev 233 The urpose of the privilege to secure, it, when the relation ended, or ild be compelled to d close the

which the disclosure might not be used to the detriment of the client or his estate Wigmore § 2323, Pearce v Foster, L R 15 Q B D 114, 118, An Attorney, In re 84 Ind Cas 353=A I R 1925 Bom 1 (F B), Wilson v Rostall, (1792) 4 T R 759, Parker v Yates, 12 Moo P C 520, Explanation to the section

Express consent The privilege is designed to secure the client's confidence in the secrecy of his communication; hence, the privilege is not violated by

by his own will permits to be made s always been recognized that a waiver al, 21 How St Tr 1, 341, Merle v Moore, to the client and not to the attorney

But such waiver can be express or by implication As regards waiver by implication there is some conflict of decisions Woldram v Ward, Style 449, Mackenzie v Yeo, 2 Curt Eccl 866, 876 In India the matter is set at rest by use of the words "client's express conduct" The question in this connection may well arise whether there can be a waiver by a deceased client's representatives That an executor or administrator may excise authority over all the interests of the estate left by the client, and yet may not incidentally have the right, in interest of that estate to waive the privilege concealing confidential communications affecting it, would seem too inconsistent to be maintained under any system of law It is generally agreed that in testamentary contests the privilege is divisible, and may be waived by the executor the the legatee Wigmore § 2329, Doe on, 9 Hare 387, 392, Greenlaw v King, s" in this section includes "representa whether the executor of a client can waive this privilege in respect of a will where there are various beneficiaries having conflicting interests under the Will Baikanta v. Bhailal, 1930 Ind Rul. Bom 88

The consent required by this section should be given on each occasion when a communication of the kind described is sought to be made admissible in evidence A consent given to the disclosure of some privileged matters in civil suit is not sufficient authority for the disclosure of the same matters in a criminal case arising out of the suit Queen Empress v Gulkhan, A W N 1890, 172 A failure on the part of a client to claim privilege where he is under nsent" given by him to his otherwise privileged under

Sind 47 The statement person without the consent ery improper on the part thout his client's consent.

purpose of his

on law that an or on behalf

s professional nications were

1 Myle &

ary 89; Burr

S.

Jones 748 This privilege protects from disclosure two classes of communications (i) confidential communications which have passed at any time between the party or witness and his legal adviser in his professional capacity for the purpose of the former obtaining legal advice for the protection of his interests, information procured in pursuance of such communications for the same purpose and notes and other records of such communications and information made for the same object, (ii) similar communications, information, notes and [illegible] gation, whether commenced or only [illegible] to counsel or solicitor, cases to [illegible] ared on the client's behalf Wills' Ev 2nd Ed 276, Greenough v Gaskell 1 My & K 98, Minet v Morgan, 8 Ch 361 Anderson v Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch D 644 Wheeler v Le Marchant, 17 Ch D 675, Southwark etc Co v Quick 3 Q B D 315 'If the protection was confined to proceedings begun' says Lord Chancellor Brougham in Greenough v Gaskell, 1 My & K 98, 102, 'or in contemplation then every communication would be unprotected which a party makes with a view to his [illegible] although at the time no [illegible] allowed to extend over such [illegible] icient if it only included communications more or less connected with judicial proceedings, for a person often times requires the aid of professional advice upon the subject of his rights and liabilities with no reference to any particular litigation and without any other reference to litigation generally than all human affairs have in so far as every transaction may by possibility become the subject of judicial inquiry The communications may be either oral or written Pearce v Foster, 15 Q B D 114 A communication with a solicitor for the purpose of obtaining legal advice is protected though it relates to a dealing which is not the subject of litigation, provided it be a communication made to the solicitor in that character and for that purpose' per Jessel M R in Wheeler v Le Marchant, 17 Ch D 682, Minet v Morgan, L R 8 Ch 361 Absence of litigation or prospect thereof at the time the confidential communications are made is no excuse for disclosure An Attorney, In re 84 Ind Cas 353 = A I R 1925 Bom 1 (F B) It is misconduct from [illegible] g consulted in his [illegible] rs of the case as [illegible] the opposite party The fact that there was no definite agreement by the first party makes no difference Maung Maya v Sun Singh U B R 1897—1901 Vol II 368 On general [illegible] before [illegible] a party [illegible] nature [illegible] draft prepared by a mukhtear of some statements made by the complainants which with some alterations were meant to be incorporated in a petition of complaint to be presented to the Court is a privileged document Mhajan v Emperor 37 C W N 68

By or on behalf of his client Neither client nor solicitor need act personally [illegible] each other in order that the privilege may [illegible] or ot [illegible] D 61 [illegible] M R said He may employ a third person to write the letter, or he may sent the letter through a messenger or he may give a verbal message to a messenger In the second case the same learned Judge also observed The actual communication to the solicitor by the client is of course protected and it is equally protected whether it is made by the client in person or is made to the solicitor in person or to a clerk or subordinate of the solicitor who acts in his plac [illegible] the solicitor or by [illegible] is protected, if c [illegible] with a view to the [illegible] re v Lucette Pea [illegible] r v Hallman, 6 M [illegible] Mc N & G

627, 638, Glyn v Gaulfield, 3 Mac N. & G 463, 473, Carpmael v Powis 9 Beav 16, Ford v Tennant, 32 Beav 162, 168, Goodall v Little, 1 Sim N S 155, 163, Steel v Stewart, 1 Phil Ch 471, 475

Contents or condition of any document with which he has become ... of a pre existing document ... of the matters volun... ossible, in the language ... 33, 35), to perceive ... a fact to counsel and ... deed or other written ... cation of this sort is not instrument ... Unless, therefo ... confidential it is within the privilege, and the testimony of the attorney on the stand cannot be required Wigmore § 2308; see also Bulstrod v Letchmere Freem Ch 5, Anon, Skin 404; Bottomly v Usborne, Peake Add Cas 99, 101 R v Upper Boddington 8 Dowl & R 726; Bate v Kinsey, 1 Cr M & R 38 Masston v Downes 6 C & P 381, Wheatley v Williams, 1 M & W 533, Doe v Watkins, 3 Bing N C 421; Hurning v Clobery, 1 Phil Ch 91, Hibberd v Knight 2 Exch 11 Davies v Waters, 9 M & W 608, 612 A solicitor is not boun... ... the nature or contents of, a ... The mere statement of the solicitor that he receiv... ... not professionally is enough to protect it Volant v Soyer, ... t may not be such as passed directly between ... if it is of such a nature as ... ly for the purpose of bei... ... submitted to legal advisers, then ... a document Vishnu v Neuyork, ... quainted with a Will in the course and ... ployment be cannot be examined in a subs... Bukanto v Bailal, 31 Bom L R 1046= ...

Relevancy or necessity of the communication The Courts have not always used consistent language in answering the question whether the privilege is limited in some way to communications necessary or material or relevant to some purpose of the consultation In Gillard v Bates, 6 M & W 547 the Court observed "The test is, whether the communication is necessary for the purpose of carrying on the proceeding in which the attorney was employed" The test laid down in Cobden v Kendel, 4 T R 431, is that the Court should see "whether the communications were made by the client to his attorney in ... ...ting his cause or a mere gratis dictum ... 7 How St Tr 1229 Bowles L C B said ... in protecting secrets disclosed by the client to his attorney to be, as has been said, in favour of the client, and principally for his service, and that the attorney is in loco of the client, and therefore his trustee, does it not follow from thence, that everything said by a client to his attorney falls under the same reason? I own I think not, because there is not the same necessity upon the client to trust him in one case as in the other, and of this the Cou... ... conversation Nor do I see any imp... ... be trusted in one case as an attorney or ... But where the client talks to him at large as a frien... ... intaince ... e way of his profession, I think the Court is not under the same obligations to guard such secrets, though in the breast of an attorney" In the same case Mounteney B added If this original principle be kept constantly in view, I think it cannot be difficult to ... any other which may arise upon this ... er either is, or by the party concerned can ... attorney in order to ... the attorney ... not, nor can shall inviolably keep secret ... possibly by any man living be supposed to be necessary for that purpose, that the attorney is at liberty, and in many cases—as particularly, I think, in the present case—the attorney ought to disclose" It is thus further elucidated by Dawson B "Nothing that came properly to the knowledge of the attorney in defence of his client's cause ought to be revealed I will suppose an unknowing man to have twenty deeds by him, and he delivers them all to his attorney to see which were relative to suit he looks them over finds not half of them r ' ' ' npellible to di close the nk it necessary, and I what came to this man s and in the next place that the client could not think it nece sary The te t is therefore, not whether the fact or the statement is actually necessary or material or relevant to the subject of the consultation, but whether the statem nt is ma le as a fact for the purpose of the client to obtain a lvice on that sul ject Wigmore § 2310

S.

Communication must be confidential The moment confidence ceases' sa l Lord Eldon ' privilege ceases Parkhurst v Lowten 2 Swanst 194 216 Greenough v Gaskell 1 Myl & K 98 104 Letters in order to be privileged must be professional communications of a confi le tial character for the purpose of getting legal advice Gardner v Irvin, L R Exch D 49 53, Oshea v Wood, (1891) P 237 286 The privilege assumes of course, that the communi cations are made with the intention of confidentiality Wigmore § 2311 The law in India on this point is practically the same as in England, and that in interpreting section 126 of the Evidence Act a Court may rightly refer to English cases, is shown by Westropp C J and Sargent J in the case of Munon Haji Harun v Maulvi Abdul Kasim 3 B 91 in which Chief Justice Sir M Westropp said Communications to be protected by that section (126) of the Evidence Act must we think be confidential The word disclose' shows that common sense seems t ... be confidential or private S ... section 126 of the Evidence ... must be of a confidential n ... Judges in the course of tl ... exactly the principle follov ... L R 5 Ch 703, Tramj ... Bursil v Tanner 16 Q L ... 9 App Cas 81 R v Rolrigu ... 12 C 265 In Duyer v ...

The privilege does not extend to matters of craft which the attorney knows by any other means than confi lential communications with his client, though if he had not been employed as attorney he probably would not have known them The cas ... Tanner, 16 Q B D 1 ... ate the name of the clie ... mji v Mohan Singh ... under s 126 is of a very limited character It protects only such communications as are made to the legal adviser in confidence in the course and for the purpose of his employment And if the communication is not made in confidence then the communication is in no sense privileged Bhagwani v Deoram A I R 1933 Sind 47 Communications made to legal advisers in order to be protected by this section must be confidential A communication made to a pleader in order that it might be communicated to the Court as one of the statements in a plaint and in order that a decree might be obtained is not such a communication but on the contrary is one made expressly for the purpose of disclosure and express consent to the disclosure was therefore actually given by client Abdul Hussein v Bibi Sona Dera 4 S L R 85

Communication distinguished from acts client s conduct Appearance Abode etc The question is does the privilege cover only that knowledge or the ... e cl ent's utterances or also that whi ... The question has given rise to a diff ... It is sometimes discus e l as if the word communications was synonymous with utterances of words' that is, those who favour it largest answer repu liate the limits of the word communi cations as if it inclu le l no more than utterances and yet it is of course ... voluntarily di clo ed and conceival ... without any utterance of willingly ... the point of view of the words ... leged knowledge of the attorney attorney is restricted to that which he obtains by the sense of hearing only, or includes also that which he learns by seeing; and this mode of statement corresponds more closely to the distinction between utterances and acts of the client Wigmore § 2306 In Robson v Kemp, 5 Esp 52, 55 Lord Ellenborough L C J said 'The act (of destroying a power ( confidence and communication as an attorne character One sense is as privileged as privileged as to what he hears, but not to what he sees, where the knowledge ... y" But in gham sul correctness t, something o a certain y other man

v. Foster, 1
H & N 736, ... A legal adviser may give evidence of a fact respect to matters which swer." Buller J in his over a fact of his own without being counsel or produced in the cause, be shall be examined to the true time of execution, so, if the question were about an erasure in a deed or a Will, he might be examined as to the question whether he had ever seen such deed or Will in other plight for that is a fact of ot to be permitted to discover any confessions such head" "There is marked contrast the statement of Lord Ellenborough in Martin, in Brown v Foster, can they be hem consistent with Mr Justice Bronson's distinction between a communication and an act? The truth is that each is right, under some circumstances, and all are harmonious, when the proper allowance it made Looking back at the reason of the privilege it is seen to secure the client's freedom of mind in committing his affairs to the attorney's knowledge It is designed to influence him when he might be hesitating between the positive action of disclosure and the inaction of secrecy There is, therefore, by hypothesis, always some voluntary act of dis otherwise have existed e hand, then, those data event, be mere obser as the colour of his hat e known by such acts without any purpose of as his adviser—such as in the roll of bills from the communications of gham and Mr Justice would have been equally cognizant On the other hand almost any act, done by the client in the sight of the attorney and during the consultation, may conceivably be done by the whether,
h The torney's t token ey, and e comes
, that a
that is,
atent—, en case, s to be
, which entially committed to the attorney, and thus be not privileged . Obviously no fixed form of rule can be stated for the present application of the principle In the ordinary case, it is only the expressed communications of the client that will be privileged' Wigmore § 2306 For the purposes of section 126 of the Evidence Act, it is immaterial whether the communication which is sought to be protected was verbal that to say, by word of mouth or by demonstration In a suit for the revocation of a patent in which the question for decision was the formation and process of working of a stove owned and used by the defendant the plaintiff tendered in evidence a vakil who had been employed by the defendant in some previous proceedings and had in the course and for the purpose of his employment, visited the defendant's premises at the latter's invitation, in order to make himself acquainted with the working of the stove Held that the knowledge acquired by the vakil as to the formation and process of working of the stove amounted to a communication made to him by his client in the course and for the purpose of his employment and that therefore, his evidence was inadmissible under section 126 of the Evidence Act Gopi Lal v Lakhpat Rai, 48 Ind Cas 605=16 A L J 987

No adverse reference from claims of Privilege If a client party claims the privilege no inference should be drawn against him as to the unfavourable ... Per Lord Chelmsford in Wentworth v Lloyd, ... Wigmore § 2322, Weston v Peary Mohan, ... ananlan 20 C W N 617 P C Whatever the ... drawing of such ... it is this very dis...

Judge to determine the privilege The claim of privilege being made the trial Judge d... This follows from ... is usually of no ... give to the party's oath in answering a bill of discovery Wigmore § ... Ordinarily an attorney's statement that a document is privileged is sufficient Volant v Soyer, 13 C B 231 But in Lyell v Kennedy L R 27 Ch D 1 21, Cotton L J said The Court must be satisfied clearly satisfied, either from admissions or from other documents that the oath of the defendant by which he claims his protection cannot be really available for the purpose for which it is put forward Wigmore § 2323

Third person over hearing The law provides subjective freedom from client by assuring him of exception from its process of disclosure against himself or the attorney or their agents of communication This much but not a whit more is necessary for the mainte... preserving secrecy of communicatic... since the privilege is a derogation ... be strictly construed it would be improper to extend its prohibition to third persons who obtain knowledge of the communications One who overhears the communication whether with or without the client's knowledge is not within the protection of the privilege The same rule ought to apply to one who surreptitiously reads or obtains possession of a document in original or copy Wigmore § 2326

Presenc... ... does not destroy privilege ... such friends occupy more ... not destory the privilege alt... ... not having been made in confidence Bhagwan v Deoram A I R 1933 Sind 47

Joint ... ... privilege attaches to communications between ... persons having a joint interest with the client ... communication—e g as between partners (Re Pic... Elison 59 L T 813) directors and sharehol... a Woodhouse v W 30 T L R 559), trustee and cestui qui trust (Talbot v Marshfield 2 Dr & S 549 Re Mason 22 Ch D 609, Re Postlethwaite 35 Ch D 722), even though the party resisting production has paid for the communication (Bacon v Bacon 34 L T 349), lessor and lessee as to production of the lease (Doe v Thomas, 9 B & C 288), reversioner and tenant for life as to common title (Doe v Date 3 Q B 609), two persons stating a case for their joint benefit (A G v Berkeley, 2 J & W

291), or a husband and wife who are only collusively in contest (Ford v De Pontes 5 Jur N S 993 aliter if the contest is genuine) Nor does an privilege attach as between joint claimants under the same client—e g, betwee claimants under a testator as to communications between the latter and h solicitor (Russell v Jackson 9 Hare 387) But where communications rela to matters outside the joint interest they are privileged even as against a per o bearing the expense of the communications—e g communications betwee plaintiff corporation and its solicitors as against a defendant ratepayer as t matters not connected with the rates (M of B i tol v Cox 26 Ch D 678) c between a trustee and his solicitor as against the cestui que tr st where th communication is not mad t but to enabl him to resist litigation by W R 319) I cases of joint interest it ons if one only o J P C 3 4 ead 65 L J Ch

Where the consultation was had by sever e joint for joint statements and neither coul be able t obstruct the other in the Wigmor § 2328 In re an Attorney 887

Joint Attorney There may be a relation, not of an absolute confidence The chief instance occurs a common interest, and each nications are clearly privilege Yet they are not privileged in a controversy between two original i in as much as the common interest and employment forbade concealment by either from the other Wigmore § 2312, Baugh v Cradocke 1 M & R 1 Perry v Smith 9 M & W 681, In re an Attorney, 84 Ind Cas 353 (F B) Bom L R 887 But if a solicitor be employed for two parties a for mortgagor and mortgagee and peruse on behalf of the former his abstracts of the title he cannot as against him disclose their contents (Doe v Watkins 3 Bing N C 421), and where a professional man was engaged by vendor and purchaser to prepare the deeds, and the draft conveyance was confidentially deposited with him by both parties it was held that he could not produce it at the trial against the interest of the purchaser s devisees though with the consent of the vendor Doe v Seaton 2 A & E 171 Where two persons having a dispute about a claim made by one of them upon the other went together to a solicitor, when one of them made a statement and instructed the solicitor to write a letter to a third party on the subject of the claim —it was held that in a subsequent action between these two persons both the statement and the letter were admissible in evidence Shore v Bedford 5 M & Gr 271, Griffith v Davies 5 B & Ad 502 In all these cases the question would seem to be was the communications made by the party to the witnesses in the character of his exclusive solicitor? If it was the bond of secrecy is imposed upon the witness, if it was not the communication will not be privileged Perry v Smith 9 M & W 68?, Pay ott v Sprye 10 Beav 51 Taylor § 936 A communication to the opposing party's attorney, as such, is clearly without t nce is repo e nor if reposed could be accepted v Abl Karim 3 B 91, Marston v Downes Nev & M 310, Ainsworth v Wilding (1900) 2 6 595

Time of consultation The privilege exists not for the sake of the legal profession in general but for the sake of clients needing legal advice It therefore assumes that the relation of client and adviser has been formed (or is forming) for a particular person as client i e communications are protected not merely when the person consulted is a professional legal adviser, but when th e a communi relation was Gaskell 1 communi seem plain not certainly predict the attorney s acceptance of the employment, the former must be protected in his preliminary statements when making the overtures, even if the overture be refused It would further be immaterial that the refusal was due to a disagreement as to fees ... of the fee demanded, for upon preliminary statement the privilege covers the preliminary statement Wigmore s 2304

Any advice given by him No legal adviser is permitted, whether during or after the termination of his employment as such, unless with his client s express consent to disclose any advice given by him to his client during, in the course, and for the purpose of such employment Steph Dig Ev art 115 So not only communications made to an attorney, but any advice given by him to his client is also privileg... client are also within the privilege has seldom been brought into for securing ... enting the use of hi ... rences of the tenor ... being hearsay state ... 0

Crown case—Communication between prosecutor and attorney Commu

Proviso (1)—Communications in furtherance of any illegal purpose Professional communications are not privileged when such communications are for an unlawful purpose having for their object the commission of a crime Then they partake of the nature of a conspiracy or attempted conspiracy, and it is not only lawful to divulge such communications but under certain circumstances it might become the duty of the attorney to do so The interests of public justice require that no such shield from merited exposure shall be interposed to protect a person who takes counsel how he can safely commit a crime People v Van Alstine 57 Mi Ch 69 Moreover no such enterprise falls within the just scope of the relation between legal adviser and client The case of William v Quebrada Ry etc Co (1895) 2 Ch 751 was considered one of unusual gravity and importance and Kekewich J in delivering the opinion of the Court said It is of the highest importance in the first place that the rule as to privilege of protection from pr... which pass between a litigant should not be in any way depa... that it is essential to the due adminis... be upheld On the other hand where ... or approaching to fraud especially in commercial m... st good faith the whole transaction sh... akedness to the light of the Court ... dvise his clients in what manner they may commit crime or fraud with impunity hence the privilege does not extend to communications made in furtherance of prospective criminal acts If ... his duty t... dispense w... every des... the public wel... In Gartside v ... n be no confid... ower L J said ... legal purpose w... ere a solic... I m... sol c... to n...

Wood ... C said I should first beg leave to consider whether an attorney may be examined to any matter which comes to his knowledge as an attorney If he is employed as an attorney in any unlawful or wicked act his duty to the public obliges him to disclose it No private obligations can dispense with that universal one which lies on every member of the society, to discover every design,

S which may be formed contrary to the laws of the society, to destroy the public welfare For this reason, I apprehend that if a secret which is contrary to the ommit treason murder, or perjury—comes to in a cause where he is concerned the obliga ith the private obligation to the client o define the boundaries of this limitation It has not always been kept in mind that the privilege, in its very fundamentals presupposes what Bentham so drastically censured—the furnishing of legal advice to the culpable client, as well as to the worthy one i e to a client who if the law were duly enforced would lose in the litigation How, then can the privilege continue to exist at all, if any exception is to be made by which the
to take t at
and sary olicy ame conclusion They predicate the need of confidence on the part not only of injured persons, but also of those who, being already wrong doers in part or all of their cause are seeking legal advice suitable for their plight The confidences of such persons may legitimately be protected, wrong doers though they may have been, because the element of wrong is not always found separated from an element of right, because, even when it is, a legal adviser may properly be employed to obtain the best available or lawful terms of making redress, and because the legal adviser must not habitually be placed in the position of an informer But these reasons all cease to operate at a cert in point namely, where the desired advice refers not to prior wrong doing, but to future wrong doing From that point onwards no protection is called for by Upon this much there has been a fair consensus themselves upon the subject But certain minor practical rule for disclosure it to be settl l e be sought for a knowingly unlawful end? (2) Must not that unlawfulness be either a crime or civil wrong involving a moral turpitude? (3) Must not the attorney have attitude as to have become by assent to the de intended wrong? Wigmore § 2298 The la by Brouson J in Coveney v Tannahill, 1 Hill, ... private, to speak but he should not wrong was done aid in the transac
of attorney and client, either in the commission of a crime, or the doing of a wrong by force or and client can only plaintiff consulted nsequences of com privileged, and they the wrong was done tever act was done in his presence towards the perpetration of the fraud One who is charged with having done an injury to another, either in his person, his fame or his property may freely communicate with his counsel without the danger of having his confidence betrayed through any legal agency But when he is not disclosing what has already happened, but is actually engaged in committing the wrong he can have no privileged witness In Annesley v Earl of Anglesea, 17 How St Tr 1229, Mounteney B said A man (without any natural call to it) lous and carry on entioned standing honest a he must never discover this declaration, because he was retained as attorney This prosecutor applies in the same manner to a second, a third, and so on, who st ll refuse, but are still to keep this inviolably secret. At last, he finds an attorney wicked enough to carry his iniquitous scheme into execution And after all, none of these persons are to be admitted to prove this, inorder either to bring the guilty party to condign punishment, or to prevent the evil consequences of his crime with regard to civil property. Is this law? Is this reason? I think it is absolutely contrary to both.

"Looking at the reasons for the privilege," says Prof Wigmore, "and construing it as strictly as possible, the first of the above three questions should be answered in the affirmative, but the second and the third in the negative The decisions apparently reach this general pect, where there is an inclination to mark fraud, yet it is difficult to see how the law defy the law and oust another person of his rights, whatever the precise nature of those rights may be" ... word "illegal" has been substitu ... the Indian Evidence Act Amenc ... v Jackson, 9 Hare 329; Kelly v J

Statements and ... of a crime already committed, made by the party who committed it, to an attorney, consulted as such, are privileged communications, whether a fee has or has not been paid, and whether a prosecution or litigation is pending or not The question was raised in the United States Supreme Court in Alexander v United States, 138 U S 353, which was a trial for murder of a partner, and reliance was placed on a leading English case (Reg v Cox, L R 14 B D 153), as holding the doctrine that where a communication is made to counsel in furtherance of a scheme to commit a crime, the client is not entitled to the privilege "This case, however" said Mr Justice Brown "is clearly distinguishable from the one under consideration, ir with regard to a scheme to defraud, for indicted and tried, and the testimony case the consultation was had after the c in evidence as an admission tending to show that the defendant was concerned in the crime, or rather as a statement contradictory to one he had made upon the stand Had he been indicted and tried for a fraudulant disposition of his partner's property, the case of Reg v Coxe would have been an authority in favour of admitting his testimony, but we think the rule announced in that case should be limited to cases where the party is tried for the crime in furtherance of which the communication was made Vide illustrations (a) and (b) So the privilege mentioned in this section is subject to the limitation that no Court can be called upon t ... s part of criminal or unlaw ... (1901) A C 196 So ... with the attorney was for ... v Avery, 8 C. & P 596 ... ite, R v Farbey, 2 C & K 313, R ... n Cr 166 So a solicitor is not ... Reynell v Sprye, 10 Beav 51, 56 ... , Lord Cranworth V. C ... tempt to dispose of property in eva... Coombs, 32 L J Ch N S 281, it w... o the fraud, in order that the priv... Cox 486, Williams v Quebrada Ry, ... R 11 Q B D 153, 164, Postale the ... 24 Communications made with a v ... O'Rourke v Darbishire, (1920) A C 581.

Proviso (2) T W Page Wood V C, one which lies on may be formed contrary to the laws of society, to destroy the public welfare For this reason, I apprehend that, if a secret which is contrary to the public good—such as a design to commit treason, murder or perjury—comes to the knowledge of an attorney, even in a cause where he is concerned, the obligation to the public must dispense with the private obligation to the client" Vide which may be formed contrary to the laws of the society, to destroy the public welfare For this reason, I apprehend that if a secret which is contrary to the public good—such as a design to commit treason murder, or perjury—comes to where he is concerned the obliga ate obligation to the client' boundaries of this limitation It has not always been kept in mind that the privilege, in its very fundamentals presupposes what Bentham so drastically censured—the furnishing of legal advice to the culpable client, as well as to the worthy one i e to a client who if the law were duly enforced would lose in the litigation How, then can the privilege continue to exist at all, if any exception is to be made by which the confidences of the guilty are to be disclo ... take merely the practical point of view, and to ... t at least cease to be a cloak for criminal ... and to contrive an arbitrary limit for this excep ... ry thus to do violence to the theory of the privilege Looking at the reasons of policy upon which it rests, they appear by their natural limits to end with the same conclusion They predicate the need of confidence on the part not only of injured persons, but also of those who being already wrong doers in part or all of their cause are seeking legal advice suitable for their plight. The confidences of such persons may legitimately be protected, wrong doers though they may have been, because the elemen ... ted from an element of right, because ... y properly be employed to obtain the ... g redress, and because the legal adviser must not habitually be ... e position of an informer But these reasons all cease to operate at a certain point namely, where the desired advice refers not to prior wrong doing but to future wrong doing From that point onwards, no protection is called for by any of these considerations Upon this much there has been a fair consensus among all who have declared themselves upon the subject But certain minor points of detail still remain, if a practical rule for disclosure is to be settled upon (1) Must not the advice be sought for a knowingly unlawful end? (2) Must not that unlawfulness be either a crime or civil wrong involving a moral turpitude? (3) Must not the attorney have so far abandoned his professional attitude as to have become, by assent to the design a partaker in the client's intended wrong? Wigmore § 2298 The law on the subject is thus laid down by Bronson J in Coveney v Tannahill, 1 Hill, N Y 33, 35, 41 'It is the ... to speak ... should not ... was done ... the transac ... torney and client, either in the commission of a crime, or the doing of a wrong by force or ... can only ... consulted ... s of com ... , and they ... was done ... as done in his presence towards the perpetration of the fraud One who is charged with having done an injury to another, either in his person, his fame or his property may freely communicate with his counsel, without the danger of having his confidence betrayed through any legal agency But when he is not disclosing what has already happened, but is actually engaged in committing the wrong he can have no privileged witness In Annesley v Earl of Anglesea 17 How St Tr 1229 Mounteney B said A man (without any natural call to it) ... desirous and ... to carry on ... re ment one ... nderstanding ... too honest a ... but he must never discover this declaration, because he was retained as attorney This prosecutor applies in the same manner to a second, a third, and so on, who st...

and the document came into the hands of the plaintiff, it was held that there was no rule relating to privileged communications preventing its production in evidence Paicheappa v Mt U, L B R (1872—1892), 412 There is no protection approved by the Evidence Act to a doctor as such When a doctor is called to give evidence he is in ' exempted by the Act, and he is no case Edna May Olivia v Harold I A L J 14

S.
S.

127. The provisions of section 126 shall apply to interpreters, and the clerks or servants of barristers, pleaders, attorneys and vakils.

Section 126 to apply to interpreters, etc

Principle It has never been questioned that the privilege protects communications to the attorney's Taylor v Foster, 2 C & Kennedy L R 27 Ch D 1 ( pensible to his work, and sarily committed to them by must include all the persons

Scope of the ... the capacity ... v Gorham, ... e a communic ... the
... sed xtends to such a communication, a communication to a pleader 3-2 C W N 649 The evidence Maung Mya U v Sun Singh, U. v Queen Empress, 25 C 736, it is also privileged But the in the attorney's office, nor the was an attorney Barnes v.

128 If any party to a suit gives evidence therein at his own instance or otherwise, he shall not be deemed to have consented thereby to such disclosure as is mentioned in section 126; and, if any party to a suit or proceeding calls any such barrister, pleader,* attorney or vakil as a witness, he shall be deemed to have consented to such disclosure only if he questions such barrister, attorney, or vakil on matters which, but for such question, he would not be at liberty to disclose.

Privilege not waived by volunteering evidence Privilege The privilege mentioned in section 126 is designed to secure the client's confidence in is not violated by receiv permits to be made S niz d that a waiver may l 360, 480 Merle v Moore a waiver by implication ?

In deciding it, regard mu in every waiver i e not element of fairness and consistency A privileg d person would seldom be found to waive, if his intention not to abandon could alone control the situation

* This word in s 128 was inserted by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872), s 10 as much as he pleases, to withhold the remainder. He may elect to withhold or to disclose, but after a certain point, his election must remain final Wigmore § 2327.

Scope of the section Under s 24 of Act II of 1855, a party who gave evidence ... s privilege, and to ... ny relevant matter, ... be bound to disclose Cun Ev 361 Under the present Act the client's offer of his own testimony in the cause at large is not a waiver, for the purpose either of cross ... of calling the attorney to prove ... would be exercised only at the ... on the stand The client's offer of ... hich he has happened to communicate with the attorney is not a waiver Wigmore § 2327; Doolar Jha v Ranjit 15 W R 340 The client's offer of the attorney's testimony in the cause at large is not a waiver so far as the attorney's knowledge has been acquired casually as an ordinary witness But the client's offer of his attorney's testimony as to specific communication to the attorney is a waiver as to all other communications to the attorney on the same matter; for the privilege of secret consultation is intended only as an incidental means of defence, and not as an independent means of attack, and to use it in the latter character is to abandon it in the former So also a client's offer of his own or his attorney's testimony as to a part of any communication to the attorney is a waiver as to the whole of ... of the principle of completeness Wigm ... so Mc'donnell v Conry, 1843, Ir Cir Rep 807 ... he waiver cannot be recalled The evidence is made incompetent at the option of the client only, and if he elects at any time to remove the seal from the lips of the witness, the evidence may be received The b... nt, and the information having ... t further thereto is gone The cli... l and a shield, to waive when ... loes not. After its publication no ... hts and interests, which the law was intended to protect, and there is no further reason for its enforcement The nature of the information is of such a character that when it is once divulged in legal proceedings it cannot be again hidden or concealed It is then open to the consideration of entire public, and the privilege of forbidding its repitition is not conferred by law The consent, having been once gi... d the client can never be restored ... s of public policy, has sought to protec... iple or authority for holding, after ... has been properly g... he privileged person can again r... een voluntarily defeated by the I... be no reason for its continued ... versa lex ... to us ... word 'waived' as used in the statute, and as supporting the conclusion that when, once waived, and made effectual by publication, it is waived for all time McKinney v Grand Street etc., 104 N Y 352 (Am) Waiver in one trial is a waiver in subsequent ones Burr Jones § 756.

Confidential communication with legal advisers

129. No one shall be compelled to disclose to the Court any confidential communication which has taken place between him and his legal professional adviser, unless he offers himself as a witness, in which case he may be compelled to disclose any such communications as may appear to the Court necessary to be known in order to explain any evidence which he has given, but no others

S. 1

Principle The privilege being for the protection of the client in his sul ect ve froo l unly be defeated if the disclosure was still obtainable it has nev r been uuuteu that the client s own Wigmore § 2324

Scope of the section Under the old law (i e Act II of 1855 section 22) a party to a suit who offerel himself as witness was bound to produce any confidential writing or correspondence that had passed between h mself and his legal adviser The reason for this rule is not very clear and the present section abrogates it so far that such correspondence need be produced only if it is neces ary to explain the witness's evidence The English law at present is iden
C
m if
is ev
B
to protect professional communications and to leave them unprotected at the examination of th which the la to di close no man wo ild do with a view to his defence or to the Greenl Ev § § 236—240 The rule iven or opinions stated but exten ther oral or documentary properly relating to the business in hand and to all documents books papers or instruments which may be properly information of his attorney Crosby v same principle the privilege exte ds the purpose of obtaining the advice of counsel and to the opinion of counsel based upon such statements Burr Jones § 750

In Munchershaw Bexonji v The New Dhur nsay S & W Co 4 B 576 which was a sui fication by reason plaintiff while in payments made by the permission o ha l had a letter fr the or ginal docum
w th a case for opinion upon matters connected with it He now produced a translation of the document Mr Inverarity for the defendant called for the production of the case submitted to counsel West J in disallowing the production said In drawing up the Indian Evi lence Act chiefly from Taylor on Evidence, Sir James Stephen plainly intended to adopt in section 129 the principle but v k he was condensing a witr that if a party becomes disclo every thing necessary to the true comprehension of his testimony equires it be made to The argument th ch that the Court can properly order os te party may demand a perusal of it, If a communication is protected by it in an especial degree as against an adversary in l t gation Here the document which the plaintiff is asked to produce is in its nature a confidential communication The plaintiff wanted advice for his personal gui lance in fulfilling a contract of service The statement which he laid before counsel with this view is his own property in substance as well as form it not being suggested that the consultation was in furtherance of any fraud I do not find it necessary to

0. compel a disclosure of it, in order to explain the evidence given by the pla ntiff and in the absence of such necessity it would be wrong to put pres ure on the plaintiff It is obviously desirable that communications with profe ional advisers should be unembarrassed by any such fears as a contrary deci on would give rise to which would make frank communicatic l at a disa lvant by their candour med and di torted statements, and useless litigation would thus be promoted in numberless cases in which an exact knowledge of facts would have enabled a coun el or solic or to nip it in the bud by timely warning or sugge tion Lastly, a compul ory disclosure of confidential communic tions is so opposed to the popular con- cience on that point, that it would lead to frequent falsehoods as to what had ... should e lge to e and

di closures made under section ... should not be enforced in any ... except when they are plainly necessary Letters written by one of the defendant's servants for the purpo e of obtaining information with a view to po sible ... they might un ler the circum ... endant s solicitor Brijpro Das v ... ion compelled cannot mean ' sub pœnaed and it uses the words compelled to disclose ' with reference to the case when a man has offered himself as a witness and must refer to some force put upon the witness after he is in the witne s box Moher Sheik v Queen Empress, 21 C 392 Statements of witne ses recorde l for the special purpose of being shown to a legal adviser with a view to ascertaining whether there is a good cause to go to the Court are privileged under this section Di ibai v Framroz 43 Ind Cas 71 The documents for which privilege could be claimed woul ... tween the lay clier ... de by the defendan ... latter of the suit ... e can attach to them Central India Spinning v G I P Railway 29 Bom ... R 414 = 102 Ind Cas 425 = A I R 1927 Bom 367

130. No witness who is not a party to a suit shall be compelled to produce his title-deeds to any property or any document in virtue of which he holds any property as pledgee or mortgagee or any document the production of which might tend to criminate him, unless he has agreed in writing to produce them with the person seeking the production of such deeds or some person through whom he claims

Production of title deeds of witness not a party

Principle The title deeds to land in England were always a secret of ... at the time of the common ... ngly dominant in polices ... se interests was a paramount ... compulsory public reg tra tion the secrecy of the title instruments comes to be a vital (if selfish) con ... tion for the occupants of the land Their possession may be unquestione l but the instruments under which they claim are constantly defective in some import ant feature A boundary may vary a release be mi sing a recital be in correct,—a score of defects of one sort or another might be discoverable in the chain of title But the possession and the title are as yet unquestione l and thus the security of title depends practically on preserving these defects from ascertainment by persons opposed in claim who might be only too gla l to take advantage of them It comes therefore to be a fundamental maxim of the ... locuments of ... ndy It is the real ty

S. 1.

Wig ore § 9211 Th ... need for such protec recorded, not by what otive for demanding a help them Where a person holds a document, not his own, but subject to a lien which would be lost by his surrender of possession or owns and holds a document, such as a bill of exchange, whose continued possession is necessary for the enforcement of his rights under it he may fairly claim not to be compelled to surrender it for evidential purposes in litigation between other parties Wigmore § 2211

Protection of title deeds by persons not party to a suit No witness who is not a party to a suit can be compelled to produce his title deeds to any property Pickering v Noyes 1 B & C 263, Adams v Lloyd, 3 H & N 351, Doe v Date, 3 Q B 609, Egremont v Egremont, 14 Ch D 158 Where an attorney is called upon, whether by subpoena duces tecum or otherwise, to produce deeds or papers belonging to his client, who is not a party to the suit, the Court will inspect the documents, and pronounce upon their admissibility according as their production may appear to be prejudicial or not to the client, in like manner as where a witness objects as to the production of his own title deeds Copeland v Watts, 1 Stark 95, Amy v Long, 9 East 473, Reynolds v Rowley 3 Rob La 201, Travis v January, 3 Rob La 227 ... l for are in the hands of the agent or in the hands of the owner himself, their in the judgment of the Court it may 3 C & P 591, Pickering v Noyes, 1 B , Doe v Thomas 9 B & C 288, Bull v 12 Q B 711, Doe v Hertford, 13 Jur Kemp v King 2 Mo & Rob 437, R v Woodby ... 5 C & P 591 The extension of the ... a tion of ... ils from a ... es where not being themselves parties the whole merits cannot be tried Greenl Ev § 469 (n) A Will as well as the title deeds of an estate in mortgage to the party whose privilege is invoked, and the mortgage deed itself would be within the protection The object is to protect property by excluding the means of picking holes in the document under which it is held Indeed it is not necessary that the deeds should be even those establishing the title They would be within the protection of the rule, though called for to show the title's defeasance Thus in a case in which the witness an attorney was required to produce a deed of assignment with a view of showing a departure with the intere ... d that it was the deed of his Cresswell J observing —"The it which the law authorised to produce it or to answer any as not a title deed It was however, called for as such and it was intended to show that the title was no longer in the defendants It need not be even strictly a deed —any document or paper having relation to the title would be within the protection The docum ... ion of which title might be capable of ... f ejectment where the titl of the les or of th ... of a gentleman who had been in treaty wit ... but which treaty had gone off was allo ... title that had been deli ... contents of the d ed ... had refused after not ... Goodeve Ev
pp 150 151

The protection against the production of the deeds would extend to all discovery of their contents It was observed by Baron Alderson It would be perfectly illusory for the law to say that a party is justified in not producing a deed, but that he is compellable to give parol evidence of its content, that would give him or rather his client through him, merely an illusory protection if he happens to know the contents of the deeds, and would be only a round about way of getting from every man an opportunity of knowing the defects there may be in the deeds and titles of his estate I am clearly of opinio therefore, that when a party refuses to produce a deed, and is justified in so doing, he ought not to be compelled to give parol evidence of its contents Davies v Waless, 9 M & W 606

There have been cases in England in which the Court has taken on itself the inspection of the document production would be prejudicial t sidered as objectionable, and would now upheld, and for the cogent Soyer, 13 Com B 236 'Suppose' to examine the document and, u title deed,—his decision might be made the subject of an argument in open Court by bill of exception, and thus the contents of the deed might be communicated to all the world But Professor Wigmore says, "This principle, then, that the disclosure of title deeds in litigation between other parties was not compellable, appears to have been always accepted in English Courts coming down as an unquestionable tradition and it was occasionally extended to documents other than those affecting land, though it seems ever to have been regarded as limited by trial Court's discretion' Wigmore § 2211, see also Miles v Dawson, 1 Esp 405, Copeland v Watts, 1 Stark 95, Reed v James 1 Stark 132, Corson v Dubois Holt 239, Roberts v, Simpson, 2 Stark 203, Harris v Hill 3 Stark 140, R v Hunter 3 C & P 591, 592, Mills v Oddy 6 C & P 728, Doe v Langdon, 12 Q B 711 The rule appears to be the same in India Vide Order XVI, r 6 of the Civil Procedure Code and s 16? of the Indian Evidence Act

Although a witness cannot be asked to testify to the contents of such a ion Doe v named ca e trument for he contents
1 & R 726,
3 356 367,

Imrit v Sidhari, 15 C L J 9

Any document in virtue of which he holds the property as pledgee or mortgagee Mortgagees or pledgees when not parties to a suit are not hold any property Vide Doe v Ross
Lidelell 24 L J
Costa Rica Republic

Document the production of which might tend to criminate him Upon principles of reason and equity, a Judge will refuse to compel either a witness or a pa cument the production of which may tend to c od 2 Taunt 115, Roe v New York Press 75 L Hotel Co (1897) 2 Q. B 124 But a book of account cannot be withheld on the ground that it tends to incriminate him "It is a novel if not a somewhat startling proposition that an officer of a corporation can refuse to produce its books, when he is asked to account for property which has been committed to his charge, upon the ground that the production of the books may tend to incriminate him If such rule were to prevail, it is not difficult to see ho possession for of the books of a public or priva d d property which had come into h even tix claiming that the production o his though the production was solely
But

of the document may relu the within the protection of the rule also the privilege does not extend to public documents in the official custody of the witness Bradshaw v Murphy 7 C & P 612

Unless he agreed in writing etc It amounts to waiver on his part.

S. 1
S. 1

Production of documents which another person having possession could refuse to produce

131. No one shall be compelled to produce documents in his possession, which any other person would be entitled to refuse to produce if they were in his possession, unless such last-mentioned person consents to their production.

Principle This section is intended for the protection of persons whose title deeds and other documents happen to be in the hands of their attorneys, stewards, etc, Falmonth v. Moss, 4 Price, 455 In such a case the owner's consent is a necessary condition precedent to the production of the documents Nort Ev 315

Scope of the section Examples of persons having documents in their possession are agents, attorneys, trustees, mortgagees, etc, Whitely Stokes, Vol II p 922 Is .. in his possession
clo ure of the attorn the document nor is he asked to testify about them The answer depends upon the other privileges of the client irrespective of the privilege under s 126 infra The attorney is but the agent of the client to hold the deed, if the client is compellable to give up possession, then the attorney is, if the client is not, then the attorney is not It is merely a question of possession and the attorney in this respect is like any other agent The extent of the client's obligation to produce must therefore be taken as determining the present question. It follows, then, that when the client himself would be privileged from production of th cl
of n
cl pe ...ure to produce th client is privileged as Cas 99 101, see also 140; Nixon v Mayoh, Doe v Ross, 7 M & W 2 A & E 171, 181, B produce his client's C & P 728, 731 In Newton v Chaplain 10 C B 356, Maule J said. "The privilege of W as if he would discover custody
Esp procedure Pearson v Fletcher, 5 Temp orsen v Dubois, Holt 239, Copen v Ry 1 Price 455, Nauling v Howard, 719, 288, Doe v Langdon, 12 Q B 711,

Witness not excused from answering on ground that answer will criminate

132. A witness shall not be excused from answering any question as to any matter relevant to the matter in issue in any suit or in any civil or criminal proceeding, upon the ground that the answer to such question will criminate, or may tend directly or indirectly to criminate, such witness, or that it will expose, or tend directly or indirectly to expose, such witness to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind:

Proviso

Provided that no such answer, which a witness shall be compelled to give, shall subject him to any arrest or prosecution, or be proved against him in any criminal proceeding, except a prosecution for giving false evidence by such answer.

Principle According to the English Law it is settled rule that a witness

1453, May v Hawkins 11 Ex 210 R v Garbet 1 Den C C 236, Earl of Worcester 6 M & S 194 Paxhurst v Lewton 1 Mer 401, Pye v Butterfield 34 L J Q B 17, Chester v Wortley 18 C B 239 R v Lord George Gordon 21 How St Tr 535, Ex parte Reynolds L R 29 Ch D 293, R v Boyes 1 B & S 330 Upon a principle says Mr Starkie of humanity as well as of policy every witness is protected from answering questions by doing which he would criminate himself Of policy because it would place the witness under the strongest temptation to commit the crime of perjury, and of humanity because it would be to extort a confession of the truth by a kind of duress every species and degree of which the law abhors It is pleasing to contrast the humanity and delicacy of the law of England in this respect with the cruel provisions of the Roman Law which allowed criminals and even witnesses in some instances to be put to the torture for the purpose of extorting a confession Starkie on ... of Ideal the views of many active lawyers and Judges on this question the majority of those consulted have expressed the opinion that no innocent person would suffer and that more guilty ones would be detected and convicted if the provision would be repealed Commenting on the English rule Prof Wigmore says 'In preserving the privilege however we must resolve not to give it more than its due significance We are to respect it rationally for its merits not worship it blindly as a fetish We are not merely to emphasize its benefits but also to concede its short comings and guard against its abuses Indirectly or ultimately it wo ... e community at l ... otection of the guilt ... judicial habit is to ... file cant ...

... perusal of our precedents ... ourts' doting tenderness ... ting up his fuel ... wn offences The ... nd fostering respect every appeal to this privilege and of amiably feigning each guilty invocator to be an unsullied victim hounded by the prosecutions of a tyrant is a work of ... tional sentimentality It invokes a confusion between the abstract privilege— ... al entitled to it—who may ... l lemselves to ...

But in India the ... witness was not excused from answering any question relevant to the matter at issue in any civil or criminal proceeding upon the ground that the answer to such question would criminate or might tend directly or indirectly to criminate him or that it would expose, or tend directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture It contained, how-that no answer the witness might thus be com-he purposes of punishment for false evidence ition, or be used as evidence against him in any criminal proceeding This section re enacts the provision of section 32 of Act II of 1855 The reason for the change in thus stated by Turner C J in Queen v Gopal Das, 3 M 271, 279, Under the English law a witness was not bound to criminate him elf, but if he thought fit to do so his admission on oath was equally admissible in evidence against him as any other admission This state of the law in some cases tended to bring about a fracture of justice, for the allowance of the excuse when the matter to which the question related was in the knowledge solely of the witness, deprived the Court of the information which was essential to its arriving at a right decision To avoid this inconvenience, and to obtain evidence which a witness refused to give it was suggested that, 'when the question was material to the issue, it should be left to the discretion of the J ... ard to the genera ... should be expres ... from any punishment etc with respect to the ... to which the answer relat d, or at lea t su ... minal proceed ... gisla ture di ... Judge no optic ... The end desired, the production of evidence from unwilling witnesses, was sought by depriving them of the privilege they had theretofore enjoyed of claiming excuse, but ... remove any ... not be used ...

of the law w ...
and it was n ... an infraction of the criminal law, had exposed themselves to penalties In the same case Muttusami Ayyar J said "The necessity under which the witness lay of explaining how the answer might criminate him, amounted in some cases—as observed by Baron Pollock in Adams v Lloyd, 3 H & N 362 and Maule J in Fisher v Ronalds, 12 C B 762, since overruled by R. v Boyes, 1 B & S 311—to a virtual denial of the privilege and to an evasion of the rule that no on ... ing the above extract ... suggested is when a ... iture criminal proceed ... man shall be compel ... to an answer contained in the sworn examination of the accused in a criminal case It seems to me that the legislature in India adopted this principle repealed the law of privilege and thereby obviated the necessity for an enquiry as to how the answer t ... indemnit ...
and thu ...
of the rul ... when a criminal proceeding is ... of absolute privilege does not ap ... proviso to this section McGill ...
Cr L J 25

Scope of the section This section abolishes the law of privileges and creates an obligation in a witness to answer every question material to the issue, whether the answer criminate him or not, and gives him a right, as correlated to that duty, to claim that that answer shall not be admitted in evidence against him in criminal prosecution Under this section it is not in the power of the Judge to excuse a witness from answering if the question is relevant to the issue Queen v Gopal Das, 3 M 171 Section 32 of Act II of 1855 is reproduced almost totidem verbis in this section Per Innes J in ibid Where an accused person has made a statement on oath voluntarily and without compulsion on the part of the Court to which the statement is made, such must be overruled Ibid Where a person he is alleged to have incriminated himself act that he was the person who gave the Ramayyangar, 2 Wier 794 A statement another, made by a witness in a judicial this section of the Act, for which inst criminally If the statement were false he might be prosecuted for giving false evidence Maladin v Queen Empress 3 O C 80

Taking a thumb impression of a witness by the Court is not equivalent to asking a question and receiving an answer within the purview of the proviso of this section and therefore, such a thumb impression may be proved against the persons giving it in a criminal trial Tunno Miah v King Emperor, 16 C W N 503=15 C L J 399—13 Ind Cas 925=39 C 348 Where an incriminating question is put to a witness, the Magistrate should explain to him his position, and should advise him of his right, as otherwise, he may be induced through ignorance of the state of the law, to deny the truth for fear of penal consequences In re Jaddonath Dutt 2 C L R 181, but see 1 Weir 153=3 M H (App) 29 When a co accused is cited as a witness his position is sufficiently protected by this section Raja Ram v Emperor, 5 Lah L J 499=73 Ind Cas 521=24 Cr L J 633

Proviso This section makes a distinction between those cases in which a witness voluntarily answers a question and those in which he is compelled to answer, and has given him a protection in the latter of those cases only The words ' be compelled to ' clearly ... afforded to answers which a witness has objected excused from giving, and which then he give Queen Empress v Ganu Sauba, per Birwood J in ibid, see also per term shall be compelled ' in section 132 appears to be the correlative of the term ' shall be excused and they presuppose the rule that every person giving evidence on any subject before any Court or person authorized to administer oaths and affirmations shall be bound to state the truth, and an authority competent at the time to excuse or compel compliance with this rule They also suggest that the witness has objected to the question and has sought and been refused excuse, and even constrained to answer The terms of this section when read with the rest of the Act afford protection only to answers to which a ... Queen v ... A L J ... him to ... answer or ... shall be compelled to give " in this section are not a mere surplusage, but apply to when he asks to be excused such a statement without ... used against him in his ... Empress 21 C 392, Hauder ... L J 409=9 C W N 911 ... Bhikaji Rat Un Cr C 660 ... witness objected to answe... 3=15 C L J 39 ... Motilal Nath 6 Ind ... Queen Empress v Sa... witnesses in a mu... ing the deal bo ly ... ly evidence being ... as they had omitted to object, perhaps owing to the want of legal advice to answer the question, on the ground that the answers would criminate them In re Nilla

Ramuddu, 2 Weir 792 When incriminating questions are put from the Bench to a witness, who has become already entangled by self contradictions, such questions should be put with the object of furthering the ends of justice in the judicial proceeding, in [illegible] the truth, and not with a view [illegible] pos sibly be taken against the wit [illegible] ich a witness under this section should as a rule, be explained by the Court, before any incriminating question is put in the above circumstances Mi Me Ma v Queen Empress, L B R (1893 1900) 91 Where the accused had made in a previous enquiry under ss 162, 163 of Act VI of 1882, depositions on oath, without [illegible] the Evic [illegible] against [illegible] accused [illegible] exam [illegible] as suing for [illegible] defendant [illegible] to answer [illegible] dence Act [illegible] inga Sahai [illegible] L J 186

A witness must claim the benefit of the protection afforded by this section before [illegible] a question is subsequently raised [illegible] 206 = 43 Ind Cas 823 = 19 Cr L J [illegible] 22 Cr L J 68 59 Ind Cas 325

It [illegible] on a [illegible] answ[illegible] either [illegible] tion [illegible] r not the witness has object [illegible] 43 A 92 = 18 A L J [illegible] L J 825 "Compulsion" [illegible] in a crimin[illegible] made certain [illegible] the Court of the innocence of the accused and subsequently a prosecution was launched against the witness for such statements which proved to be false held that the statements were not excluded by this section of the Evidence Act Emperor v Banarsi, 46 A 254 = 77 Ind Cas 829 = 22 A L J 144 25 Cr L J 477

A statement made on oath by a person before a Coroner at an inquest held by him cannot be used against him in a trial for a charge based on such evidence as a statement tending to prove his guilt Emperor v Kazi Dawood 50 B 56 = 93 Ind Cas 225 = 27 Cr L J 433 = 28 Bom L R 49 = A I R 1926 Bom 144

A person who answers questions put to him by counsel without seeking the protection of s 132 of the Evidence [illegible] charge of defamation and all that he is [illegible] under s 499 I P Code Peddabba Pea[illegible] L W 210 = 116 Ind Cas 337 = 30 Cr L [illegible] I R 1929 Mad 286 = 56 M L J 570, Bai Shanta v Umrao, A I R 1926 Bom 141 = 50 B 162 = 28 Bom L R 1 (F B), Ramchandra Rao v Mahomed 10 Mys L J 421

133. An accomplice shall be a competent witness against an accused person, and a conviction is not illegal merely because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice

Accomplice

S ar[illegible] pitu[illegible] conviction for the crime This argument is only broadly related to the maxim nemo turpitudinem suam allegans audiendus est The notion underlying the maxim is that a person who comes upon the stand to testify that he has at a former time spoken falsely or acted corruptly is by his very confession, a liar and a villain, and therefore untrustworthy as a witness The argument, however was judicially repudiated from the very beginning—partly on the ground of necessity, partly on the ground that turpitude, though self confessed, was no hindrance unless there had been a conviction of crime Wigmore § 5.., 526 In Tongs Case, Kelyng, 18, the Court observed "It was resolved that some of these persons who were equally culpable with the rest may be made use of as witnesses against their fellows, . . . and the law alloweth every one to be a witness who is not convicte . . . and if it were not so, all treasons would . . . one who conspires with never so many . . . ose See also Charmod's Trial, 12 How . . . Trial, 33 How St Tr 681 921 Abbott C J said . . . are seldom fully . . . them, and can . . . of untainted wi . . . caution, it is . . . considered H . . . purpose does by that very acknowledgment depreciate his own personal . . . and credit If, . . . rule in the administration of . . . as incredible, the . . . it must not only happen that many heinous crimes must pass unpunished, but great encouragement will be given to bad men by withdrawing from their minds the fear of detection and punishment through the instrumentality of their partners in guilt, and thereby universal confidence will be substituted for that distrust of each other which naturally possesses men engaged in wicked projects and which often operates as a restraint against the perpetration of offences to which the co operation of a multitude is required" Wigmore § 526 At common law, when two or more persons were tried upon the same charge, each and all were naturally disqualified Only by ceasing to be a party in the cause could one then become a witness, for or against his co defendants Wigmore § 4..0

Accomplice meaning of . . . concurred . . . Cr 7.. . . . tiles v . . . one who . . . Cr L . . . ins such a relation to the criminal act that he would be jointly indicted with the defendant he is an accomplice White v Common Wealth Century Digest Vol 14 Col 1780, cited Ramasami v Emperor, . . . to give to . . . k out from . . . omplice, he . . . they do not . . . 56, Queen Empress v Javecharan, 19 B 363, R v Daspard 28 How St Tr 489 If . . . of convicting the guilty, he . . . 509 (515), Bickley's Case 2 Cr . . . witness is not concerned in the . . . is charged, he can not b . . . mperor, 27 M 271 = 14 M L . . . of accomplices, who . . . urpose of . . . e pub . . . supplying marked money for the detection of a crime cannot be treated as that of an accomplice Ibid

An accomplice confesses himself a criminal No man ought to be treated as an accomplice on mere suspicion, unless he confesses that he had a conscious hand in the crime or makes admission of facts showing that he had such a hand If the evidence of a witness ... S. an accomplice, and his testimony must be ... ordinary witnesses Emperor v Percy Hen...

268=10 Cr L J 530 A person offering ... accomplice No distinction can be drawn to assist in the receipt of illegal gratifications and those who assert under compulsion Queen Empress v Magenlal, 14 B 115, Queen Empress v Chagan Dayaram 14 B 331, King Emperor v Malhar, 26 B 193=3 Bom L R 691, Emperor v Edward William Smither, 26 M 1=2 Weir 521

So an accomplice is a person who is in some way concerned in the commission of a crime for which the accused is on trial This includes principals and accessories whether before or after the fact A person against whom, there is sufficient evidence to indict for the crime upon which the accused is standing trial is his accomplice Mere knowledge or belief that a crime is to be committed ... render
of the
constitute an accomplice, the mere concealment of knowledge that a crime has been committed does not make the person concealing his knowledge an accomplice This is the general rule and is sustained by the majority of cases Folk v State 36 Ark 117 (Am), Gatlin v State 40 Tex Cr App 116 However this may be in the case of an accessory after the fact it is well settled that all accessories before the fact if they actually participate at all in the preparation for the crime are accomplices within the rule, but if their participation is limited to the knowledge that a cr...
Watson v State, 9 Tex App ...
Gounden v Emperor, 27 M 2... was committed assisted in the removal of the dead body from the place of murder to the pit in which it was buried, was not an accomplice

A voluntary participation in the commission of the crime is required to constitute an accomplice One who either by threats or coercion inciting in him a fear that he is in danger of losing his life or liberty under and by reason of such coercion and fear participates in a crime is not an accomplice Whether a person is not an accomplice depends upon the facts in each particular case considered in connection with the nature of the crime This is usually determined by the Court as a question of law Parties to be accomplices must participate in the commission of the same crime Thus a person who receives stolen goods knowing them to be stolen is not an accomplice of the thief where the receiver did not participate in the commission of the larceny The receiving and the larceny are distinct crimes In perjury all persons who with knowledge of the falsity of the statement aid in the commission of the crime have been held as accomplices Underhill Cr Ev § 69 A person from whom a Police ... charge of murde... 809 P B A per... a bribe must ... who was a wit... not giv... information about it till the 21st June must be treated in the same way as that of an accomplice Aga Po That v Queen Empress 1 L B R 29

The mere fact that a person is cognisant of an offence and omitted to disclose it for ... him an accomplice when it does not ... mission of the offence Ishan Chandra v (... ...Government are justified in cm... ins...
Q... associates with criminals solely for the purpose of discovering or making known their crimes and who acts throughout with this purpose and without any criminal intent is not an accomplice and it is immaterial that he encouraged or aided the commission of the crime Emperor v Chaturbhuj 8 Ind Cas ... 15 C W N 171=11 Cr L J 560

But where from the facts of the case, it appeared that certain ... took an active part in carrying away the person whose death the a... been charged with having caused, after he had been grievously ...

left him in the field where he was subsequently found dead, those witnesses are no better than accomplices Ahmud Din v Queen Empress 23 C 361 A bribe giver is an accomplice Harsukh Rai v Emperor, 3 P W R Cr 1919 To constitute an accomplice there need only be the intention of assisting in the commission of a crime but he need not know exactly what crime was being committed An indication of the meaning of the word 'accomplice may be found in section 337 of the Cr Pro Code Surjya Kant v Emperor, 24 C W N 119 Where a witness is found, from his own testimony, to be privy to the crime alleged to be committed by accused, his evidence is no better than that of an accomplice Nur Mahomed v Emperor, 6 Lah L J 529 = A I R 19?? Lah 2?3 A person who has knowledge of the commission of an offence but keeps quiet for some days is no better that an accomplice Umed Sheikh v Emperor 2 Cr L J 1011 = 96 Ind Cas 867 = 30 C W N 816, see also Hayatu v Emperor A I R 1929 Lah 540 A person convicted and sentenced continues to be an accomplice Allisab v Emperor, A I R 1933 Bom 24 = 34 Bom L R 14?3

Who are not accomplices Witnesses to payment of bribes are not accomplices, unless they co operate in the payment of the bribes, or are instrumental in the negotiation for Emperor 33 C 649 – 10 C W N Deodor Singh ?7 C 144 Emperor v E v Emperor, 50 Ind Cas 18 But persons who accompany another, who is entrusted with and carries the money i they know that the money is to , although they do not actually an Mullick 2 C W N 672

Where mon money lender for obtaining the rel oney not being voluntarily given not procee ing against the ng him to leg punishment, held that such payment was not an illegal gratification but money extorted and that the money lender advancing the money could not be regarded as an accomplice of the Police officer Akhoy Kumar Chuckerbutty v Jagat Kumar Chuckerbutty 27 C 925 = 4 C W N 755, see also Deputy Legal Remembrancer v Upendra 12 C W N 140 = 6 Cr L J 534 A person charged with an offence by the police, but discharged by the Magistrate after examination of the witnesses for the prosecution, because he found that no case has been made out which, if unrebutted wc cannot be said to be an accomplice Nga Maung v Qu 467 Queen v Behary 7 W R Cr 44, Nabi B

A policeman or other person procurin to obtain a conviction is not an accomplice R (1893 1900) 365 overr 1892) 146, see also Queen v Corrobora tion is not necessary in who have entered into communicatio lo ed the conspiracy to the police authorities, under whose direction they continue to act till the matter can be so far matured as to ensure a conviction To such persons the rule as to corroboration does not apply The early disclosure is considered as binding the party to his duty and though a great degree of disfavour may attach to l yet his case is not treated as that of In Cr C 423 One who de of the body of the deceased aft ce Jehana v Emperor, 73 Ind

Accomplices in particular crimes In dealing with intoxicating liquor the buyer is ar usually the woman—may c the nature of the crime, a dultery, the other partner as in incest 's case ler age C & P

604, Wigmore § 2060 But the word "accomplice includes a person who consents to the commission of an unnatural offence with him or her R v. Jellyman, 8 C & P 604, R. v Tate, (1908) 2 K B 680

S.

Distinction between accomplice and informer In criminal cases the distinction between an informer and an accomplice assumes at times considerable importance, and in order to determine whether a witness who first associated with the wrong doers and subsequently gave information to the police belongs to the first category or is an accomplice whose evidence cannot be accepted without corroboration, it has to be seen whether the witness had entered into the conspiracy for the sole purpose of defeating and betraying it or whether he is a person who concurred fully in the criminal designs of his co conspirators for a time and joined in the execution of those till either out of fear or for some other reasons he turned on his former associates and gave information to the police If at the time when he joined the conspiracy he had no intention of bringing his associates to book but his sole object was to partake in the commission of the crime, he cannot be called an informer but is an accomplice, and his position is not modified simply because later on he turns round and carries information to the police Maungat Rai v Emperor 10 Lah L J 262=110 Ind Cas 676-29 Cr L J 740=A I R 1928 Lah 647, see also Karim Buksh v Emperor, 9 Lah 550=109 Ind Cas 593-29 Cr L J 577=A I R 1928 Lah 193

Scope of the section (1) An accused person can be legally convicted upon the [illegible]

[illegible] credit unless it is corroborated in some material particulars tending to show that the accused committed the offence with which he is charged, (4) It is for the Court to [illegible] matter [illegible] may or may [illegible] Act) is wor[illegible] against the a[illegible] corroborated by the evidence of another approver, or by the confession of a person who is being tried jointly with the accused for the same offence implicating both himself and the accused, (6) It is the duty of the Court to scrutinize with care such corroboration as that mentioned in (5) but whether it is to be treated as evidence against the accused or not is to be determined by the Court having regard to the circumstances of the case Aung Hla v Emperor 9 Rang 404=1931 Cr C 875-A I R 1931 Rang 235 In case of retracted confession of a co a[illegible] from evidence [illegible] also Nazir v [illegible] not illegal s[illegible] f an accompli[illegible] the practice of the Courts to require corroboration of such evidence Queen Empress v Kallu, 7 A 160=A W N 1881 314 It is only under very exceptional circumstances that a conviction based only on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice could be sustained Nazir Khan v Emperor, 57 P L R 1902=5 P R [illegible] convic[illegible] on wh[illegible] v Ti[illegible]
three [illegible] shuf[illegible] crir[illegible]
of [illegible]
in [illegible] tho [illegible]
the [illegible]
dar [illegible]
truth the accomplices will make out a stronger case against th[illegible] more favourable to themselves than the real truth will warrant [illegible] give their evidence under an absolute certainty of impunity [illegible] some of them hope, not only to avoid prosecution, but to retain their appointments in the government service Ibid ' This section was not necessary" says Mr Justice Markby "as s 118 makes all persons competent to testify, except uires that the evidence phatic statement in th s desired to encourage mplice This, however cannot have been the case, because in s 114 we find given, as one of the presumptions based on the common course of human conduct, the presumption "that an accomplice is unworthy of credit, unless he is corroborated in material particulars" Moreover, no conviction based on the uncorroborated evidence t of appeal, except under lge in his charge to the jury g on such uncorroborated uncorroborated evidence—vould however have been

n the Letters Patent 35 M 397, namely — material particulars before it can be acted upon, is it open to the Court to convict upon the uncorro the Court is satisfied that the evidence Evidence Act (I of 1872), section 133, real intend to lay down that a conviction upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice is not illegal where the idence of an accomplice and Miller JJ answered, in material particulars before it can be acted uncorroborated testimony evidence is true In the of the Indian Code law is 1872, which in witness against it proceeds upo opinion there or renders nugatory or which requires and in all circumstan borated in material to the Court to act on perfectly true The to guard against such (not 'the Court sha convict on the uncorroborated testimony of ases (See Best on Evidence, page 182, Ch' J danger of relying on such evidence is so great that in England Judges always advise the juries not to convict, or tell them they ought not to convict, unless the story of the accomplice is corroborated.'

S.

Queen v Chatterdharee, 5 W . . . aikh, 10 W R 63 Cr ; R v Stubbs, 25 L J M . . . V R 80 Cr ; R. v Nawal Jan, 8 W R 19 : . . . W R 17 Cr ; R v Mohima Chunder Doss, 15 . . . 18 W R Cr 45, 1 Hale P C 303, 301 . . . r 1377; Rex v. Rudd, Cowp 331; Rex v Atwood, 2 Leach, C L 538; Durham's Case, 2 Leach C L 538

The subject of the credibility of the testimony of an accomplice and the necessity for the corroboration in order to sustain a conviction are involved in some confusion The proposition that an accused person may be convicted on the evidence of an accomplice alone, and that the testimony of an accomplice must be corroborated, are both sound, though this involves a seeming inconsistency. The proposition that an accomplice must be corroborated does not mean that there must be cumulative or independent testimony to the same fa . . . evidence in a murder case that a co t be-

. . . law which prevents a convi . . .
103. "There are decisions in which it has been held that the testimony of one accomplice cannot safely be relied on as material corroboration of that of another accomplice for the purpose of these provisions; and that the material corroboration required means corroboration as against individual accused. It has been pointed ou . . . that s 133, . . .
that a con . . .
'testimony . . .
facts of e . . . picion which an accomplice's testimony incites has been rebutted Indeed s 114, Evidence Act itself indicates that it is for the Court to consider whether the maxims given in the illustration do or do not apply to the particular case before it In King Emperor v Malhar, 26 B 193=3 Bom L R 694, after referring to the . . . Sup 459) the . . . to the general . . . unless corroborated in material particulars But along with this principle must be borne in mind the qualifications, taken apparently from Peacock C J's judgment, contained in the further illustrations which the Court is directed to consider when determ . . .
The . . .
cann . . .
and . . .
be c . . .
ture . . .
cannot do so The decisions however show the principle on which the Judges have acted . . . f their successors to consider . . . y are applicable to the circum . . . d in Deo Nandon v Emperor, . . . in considering whether the rule . . . accused on the evidence of accomplice unless corroborated) applies to any particular case, it must be remembered that all persons coming technically within the category of accomplices cannot be treated as precisely on the same footing and that no general rule on the subject can be laid down In Elahee Buksh's case above referred to an observation was cited of Buller J that the testimony of the approver 'must be received and left with the jury under such directions and observations from the Court . . . to say whether they think . . .

might be acted on with as much safety as that of any other witness That, we think, is still the law and it would be misdirection either to omit to give the jury a suitable warning or to tell the jury that an approver's evidence against a particular accused has received independent corroboration when this is not in fact the case" Raghunath v Emperor A I R 1933 Pat 96=13 P L T 80?

Under sections 118 and 133 Evidence Act an accomplice is a competent witness Nga Po Yin v King Emperor, U B R 1906 Evidence 3=5 Cr L J 300, Karomal v Emperor, 81 Ind Cas 881=25 Cr L J 1057. Although it would generally be most unsafe to convict an accused, on the uncorroborated evidence of an accompl[illegible] the evidence thinks that it is [illegible] it is his duty to convict [illegible] 156, Queen Empress v Maganlal 11 B 143, Queen v Godai 5 W R Cr [illegible] Empress v Shaku 5 C P L R 1 Cr, Crown v Hossainee, 27 P R 1869 The evidence of an accomplice may be admitted without corroboration, if the witness is not open to the same charge as the accused In the matter of Rojoni Kant 13 W R Cr 24 The evidence of an approver has to be most carefully analysed and considered It must be so far above suspicion that a Court has no alternative but to accept and act upon it When the Court believes in the approver's evidence in part, and disbelieves in p[illegible] the evidence altogether Balkaran v Empe[illegible] The well known rule of criminal law 't[illegible] unless he is corroborated in material particulars" which is formulated in section 114, illustration (b) of the Ev[illegible] namely that the [illegible] friend of his own, who actually [illegible] the rule rests, and it is a very sound rule The rule is not an old [illegible] evident from section 114 (illustration b) and section 133 of the Evidence Act, but it is only in exceptional cases that the corroboration can be dispensed with A witness who does not carry very much weight is not sufficient corroboration of an accomplice Narain Singh v Emperor 12 O L J 499=89 Ind Cas 261=26 Cr L J 1317=A I R 1925 Oudh 715, Emperor v Bhim Rao, 27 Bom L R 190=86 Ind Cas 72 Though illustration (b) of section 114 is [illegible] he corroboration of an [illegible] v Emperor A I R [illegible], see also Emperor v [illegible]ian v Emperor, 86 Ind. Cas 401=6 Lah L J 608=26 Cr L J 769=A I R 1925 Lah 268, Sheroo v Emperor, A I R. 1925 Nag 78, Mannalal v Emperor, A I R 1925 Oudh 1 An accomplice is a competent witness and may be examined on oath Joseph v Emperor, 3 Rang 11=26 Cr L J 492=85 Ind Cas 236=3 Bur L J 265 Abdul v Emperor, 47 A 39, Balchand v Emperor, L R 197 (Cr) Where first statement requires corroboration from independent sources such corroboration cannot be sought in accomplice's evidence recorded in Sessions Court Ramani Mohan v Emperor, A I R 1933 Cal 146 Accomplice evidence and corroboration In R v Rudd, 1 Cowp 331 336, Lord Mansfield, after referring to the competency of accomplices as approvers said 'Though under this practice they are clearly competent witness, this single testimony, alone is seldom of sufficient weight to convict the offenders' 'As to tl[illegible] at all it cannot be clearly [illegible] Lord Holt, that is upt[illegible] in 1775) that the p[illegible] Accomplices, 2 In R[illegible] in 1784, corroboratic[illegible] unable [illegible] let the [illegible] to the [illegible]d 1 Leach Cr L 4th I[illegible]ctice was not foundec[illegible]ecognized con stantly [illegible]xercise of his commor[illegible] evidence, and

100, Kashemali v Emperor, 36 C W N 874, Sher Singh v Emperor, 36 Cr L J 916=140 Ind Cas 19=A I R 1932 Lah 621, Ghena v Emperor, 137 Ind Cas 95=32 P L R 16=A I R 1932 Lah 180, Surendra v Emperor A I R 1932 Cal 377, Emperor v Ahsab, 34 Bom L R 1453, Musaheb v Emperor, A I R 1932 Oudh 321, Kashemali v Emperor, 36 C W N 874

Although in criminal trials it is the settled practice to require other evidence in corroboration of that of an accomplice, yet the manner and extent of the corroboration required are not so clearly defined Some Judges have deemed it sufficient, if the witness be confirmed in any material part of the case, others have been satisfied with confirmatory evidence as to the corpus delicti only, but others, with more reason, have thought it essential that corroborative proof should be given of the prisoner having actually participated in the offence, and, when several prisoners are tried, that confirmation should be required as to all of them, before all can be safely convicted R v Stubbs, 25 L J M C 16 This last is undoubtedly now the prevailing opinion, the confirmation of the w no confirmation at a circumstances of the

on the contrary every

when he shall afterwards endeavour to fix the crime upon the prisoner R v Farler, 8 C & P 106, R v Wilkes, 7 C & P 272, R v Moores, 2 C & P 270, R v Addis, 6 C & P 388, R v Wells, M & M 326, R v Sheenan Jebb C C 54, R v Carey, Jebb C C 263, Taylor Ev § 969, Greenl Ev § 381 "It is a practice" said Lord Abinger in R v Farler 8 C & P 107, 108 "which deserves all the reverence of the law, that Judges have uniformly told juries that they ought not to pay any respect to the testimony of an accomplice unless the accomplice is corroborated in some material circumstances Now, in my opinion, that corroboration ought to consist in some circumstance that affects the identity of the party accused A man who has been guilty of a crime himself will always be able to relate the facts of the case, and if the ... ry, without identifying the persons ... in were to break open a house and ... boration to show th ... The danger is, that when a man is f ... detected, he will purchase impunity Criticising on the above statement of law, Chief Baron Joy in his Evidence of Accomplices said "There are different opinions entertained upon the subject —First some hold that the corroboration required must go to the criminality or identification of every prisoner on trial, accused by the accomplice— lastly, others are of opinion that the points of corroboration are not necessarily confined to the criminality or identification of any of the prisoners, but that it is enough if the testimony of the accomplice is confirmed in such and so many material parts of it as may reasonably induce the jury to credit him as to the entire narrative, and among other parts as to the guilt of the prisoners The first opinion appears plausible, and the arguments in support of it are specious and are apt to captivate those who do no attentively consider the subject ... re of the defects ... idence is not in its ... ly to the prisoners ... What therefore is required is to throw something, no matter of what nature, into the opposite scale ... witness's credit ... prove the ... omething ... y that the ... o try the ... be many ... onal confidence in the testi... ration as to that part of the ... orrect and accurate manner ... of the transaction show that he was cool and collected, that he po is fresh that he was an observer, if we find that in every point in which brought into contact with his they fit into one another and correspond exactly, it is good ground for presuming that his entire narrative is correct The accomplice, who must be supposed to know the whole details is expected to relate them, and is thus exposed to detection in a variety of ways There is, therefore, less necessity for breaking the general uniformity and destroying the harmony of the rules of law, in this case, than in the other Similarly in Tidd's Trial, 33 How St Tr 1483, in charging the jury Garrow B said 'It may not be unfit to observe to you here that the confirmation to be desired to an accomplice is not a repetition by others of the whole story of the accomplice and confirmation of every part of it, that would be either impossible or unnecessary and absurd and therefore you are to look to the circumstances to see whether there are such a number of important facts confirmed as to give you reason to be persuaded that the main body of the story is correct. You are each of you, to ask yourself this question Now that I have heard the accomplice and have heard other circumstances which are said to confirm the story he has told does he appear to me to be so confirmed by unimpeachable evidence as to some of the persons affected by his story or with respect to some of the facts stated by him, as to afford me good ground ers or other fa upon the wh such as I may 487, R v B a rule of law just as much prudent perso Empress 14 an accomplice

founded on dence the Co corroborated
error of law, b ... depend on the par... lar circumstances
24 Cr L J
3 734 Emper
place in the Emperor
follo
other accon suspi shoul
the st dence ed m the evide ments of tests but is a truth becomes Rattan D nothing corroborated
so There partial and ... suspi is corrobora ... affects cion Evid ... In other the accused ... material words, it ... had a particulars ... corrobohand there

Sureshchandra v. Emperor, 47 C L J Latafat Hossain v Emperor, 33 C W N Emperor, 48 C L J 481; Narain v Emperor, 107 Ind Cas 97=29 Cr L J 209

Corroboration as regards the identity of the prisoner In England originally there was no necessity of specific corroboration as regards the accused's identity R v ... Birkett and Brady, R & R 252 ... Pitus ... both of and finally prevailed ... the circumstances of th... Cr E... 152, see also R v Sheehan, Jebb 54, R v Addis, 6 C & P 388, R v Webb 5 C & P 595, R v Wilkes, 7 C. & P 272, 273, R v Farler, 8 C & P 106; R v Kelsey, 3 Lew Cr C 45, R v Dyle 8 C & P 261, R. v. Birkett, 8 C & P 722, R v Stubbs, 7 Cox Cr 48, 48, M'Clory v Wright, 10 Ir C L 514, 521, Everest's Case, 2 Cr App 130, Warren's Case, 2 Cr App 194 In Everest's Case supra, it was held that corroboration must be as regards 'some particular which goes to implicate the accused" But in Wilson's Case, 6 Cr App 125 the Court said 'It must not be supposed that corroboration is required amounting to independent evidence implicating the accused' In Blatherwick's Case, 6 Cr App 281, the Court said "Everest's Case, goes too far Wilson's Case is the correct statement of the law" See also Watson's Case, 8 Cr App 249 In Cohen's Case, 10 Cr App 91, 101 Reading L C J said "It is sufficient to say that Everest's Case and Wilson's Case seem to us to lay down the right principle" Again in Thrielfall's Case, 10 Cr App 112, 117, the ... to decide whether Everest's ...

of opinion has arisen in the main in reference to the question whether the co... borative evidence must connect the accused with the crime The rule of practice ... g a person ... What is ... ory of the ... only in... ime which does not connect the accused with it, or if the only independent evidence relates to the identity of the ... it corro borative evidence? ... imply that it may be ...

... argued ... Judge who ... conviction ... dends is ... worthy ... Leach ... where it ... the jury ... C 183, per ... After ex... o the con... in Rex v ... that the ... stances of ... tron does ... he crime, ... is confir... ty of the ... mation as to a material circum... sult of ... accused in relation to the crime ... is been ... twenty five years practice, it was ...

S. 1

Les (1836) (7 Car & P 272) Baron s advice juries to require, is a con- goes to fix the of guilt on the particular person charged You may legally convict on the evidence of an accomplice only if you can safely rely on his testimony, but I advise juries never reverence of law, that Judges have uniformly told juries that they ought not to pay any respect to the testimony of an accomplice, unless the accomplice is corroborated in some material circumstance Now in my opinion, that corroboration ought to consist in some circumstance that affects the identity of the party accused A man who has been guilty of a crime himself will always be able to relate the facts of the case and if the confirmation be only on the truth of that history, without identifying the persons that is really no corroboration at all It would not at all tend to show that the party accused participated in it' In R v Dyke (8 Car & P 261) Baron Gurney said Although in some instances, it has been held you will find that in the majority of recent cases it is laid down that the confirmation should be as to some matter which goes to connect the prisoner with the transaction In R v Birkett (8 Car & P 732) the prisoner was indicted for receiving stolen sheep The evidence consisted of the statement of an accomplice and to confirm it it was proved that a quantity of mutton corresponding in size with the sheep stolen was found in the prisoner's house Mr Justice Patteson said If the confirmation had merely gone to the extent of confirming the accomplice as to matters connected with himself only it would not have been sufficient but here we have a great deal more, we have a quantity of mutton found in the house in which the prisoner resides, and that I think is such a confirmation of the accomplice's evidence as I must leave to the jury'

' These cases led to the view expressed later by Baron Parke in Reg v Stubbs, 25 L J M C 16 = Dears C C 555 and shew that in his time, although there had been doubt in the past the law as formulated by him was accepted as the correct ... to be the law to the time of passing of the ... judgment to the present day

... corroboration must be independent testimony ... ects the accused by connecting or tending to connect him with the crime In other wo... which confirms in so... has been committed ... to determine the n... whether the case falls within the rule of practice at common law or within that class of offence for which corroboration is required by statute The language of the statute 'implicates the accused' compendiously incorporates the test applicable ...

of evidence which would be regarded as corroboration except to say that the story of the accomplice that the accused committed the crime is true, not merely that the crime has been committed but that it was committed by the accused

The corroborati... the crime it is suff... tion with the crime ... in Reg v Birkett (... which are ... ncest, offences ...

' Th... required call for some explanation, and it is because they do not always appear to be to the same effect that this Court was especially constituted in order that we might lay down rules for future guidance

' In Rex v Everest, 2 Cr App R 130, the Court said 'The rule has long been established that the Judge should tell the jury to acquit the prisoner if the only evidence against him is that of an accomplice, unless that evidence is corroborated in some particular which goes to implicate the accused' We think 'tell the jury to acquit' should read 'warn the jury of the danger of

rated as regards every single statement Sureshchandra v. Emperor, 47 C L J 471 = A I R 1928 Cal 309, see also Latafat Hossain v Emperor, 33 C W N 58 = A I R 1928 Cal 745, Kailash v Emperor, 48 C L J. 481; Narain v Emperor, 107 Ind Cas 97 = 29 Cr L J 209

Corroboration as regards the identity of the prisoner In England originally there was no necessity of specific corroboration as regards the accused's identity R v Despard, 28 How St Tr 346 · 487; R v Birkett and Brady, R & R 252 ... Nisi Prius and finally prevailed ... both of the circumstances of th... Cr Ev 152, see also R v Sl... v Webb 5 C & P 595, R v Wilkes, 7 C. & P 272, 273, R v Farler, 8 C & P 106, R v Kelsey 3 Lew Cr C 45, R v Dyle 8 C & P 261, R. v, Bulett, 8 C & P 722, R v Stubbs, 7 Cox Cr 48, 48, M' Cloy v Wright, 10 Ir C L 514, 521, Everest's Case 2 Cr App 130, Warren's Case, 2 Cr App 194 In Everest's Case supra, it was held that corroboration must be as regards "some particular which goes to implicate the accused" But in Wilson's Case, 6 Cr App 125 the Court said 'It n... required amounting to independent ... ther ...rick's Case, 6 Cr App 281, ... far Wilson's Case is the correct statement of the law" See also Watson's Case, 8 Cr App 249 In Cohen's Case, 10 Cr App 91, 101 Reading L C J said "It is sufficient to say that Everest's Case and Wilson's Case seem to us to lay down the right principle" Again in Threlfall's Case, 10 Cr App 112, 117, the same learned Judge said 'Without attempting to decide whether Everest's Case or Wilson's Cas... But in R v Willis (19... no intention (in R v C... and R v Blatherwick" ... B 28, the same learned Judge however reviewing the law said, "The difference of opinion has arisen in the main in reference to the question whether the corroborative evidence must connect the accused with the crime The rule of practice ... ng a person ... What is ... ory of the ... only in... ime which ... lence relates ... it corro... s which ... were of ... e person he ... case is very ... not argued by ... Judge who ... a conviction ... decl lends is ... rthy ... e ... re it ... ury ... per ... ext ... con ... ed in Fey ... ly that the ... rcumstances of ... Baron does ... the crime, ... ere is confir... mation as to a material circum... of the accused in relation to the crime ... sult of twenty five years practice, it was ... is been

Nature and extent of corroboration "A confirmation does not mean that there should be independent or his testimony would be u Justice Maule at p. 131 Indeed be confirmed in every detail o in the case, it would be merely Again, the corroboration must I plice and therefore one accomplice's evidence is not corroborative of the testimony of another accomplice Rex v Noakes 5 Car & P 326" Per Lord Reading J in Rex v Baskerville 86 L J K B 28 (33) So long established a rule of pra borat merely because it proceeds upon the uniony of an accomplice The Courts should give proper effect to the provisions of section 114, illustration (b) The rule in section 114, illustration (b) and that in section 133 are part of one subject and both are found in most of the great judgments, and neither section is to be ignored in the exercise of judicial discretion The illustration (b) to section 114 is the rule, and when it is departed from, the Court should show, or it should appear that, the circumstances justify the exceptional treatment of the case Queen Empress v Chagan Dayaram 14 B 331 Although a conviction is not illegal merely because it proceeds ce, the evidence of an ted in material partic deal of caution and scr ration, and when a per sense his evidence does not require the same amount of corroboration as that of a person, who is an actual perpetrator with the principal offender In dealing with the question what amount of corroboration is required in the case of testimony given by an accomplice the Court must exercise careful discrimination and look at all the surrounding circumstances in order to arrive at a conclusion whether the facts deposed to by the person alleged to be an accomplice are borne out by those circumstances, or whether the circumstances are of such a nature that the evidence purporting to be given by the alleged accomplice should be supported in essential and material particulars by evidence aliunde, as to the facts deposed to by that accomplice Kamala Prasad v Sital Prasad, 28 C 339=5 C W N 517 The evidence of a pardoned accomplice taken with the statements of unpardoned co prisoners is not sufficient by itself to warrant the conviction of those who never confessed Queen Empress v Phagya Rat Un Cr C 750 Where material discrepancies occur between the statements of th the Police and their depositions in the e is no corroboration and conse quently Crown, 36 P W R 1910 Cr = 8 Ind C id down in illustration (b) to section to all persons, who technically come wi case will effect its applicati point. Deonandan v Empero In cases where the act of the presumption enacted in s 6 S L R 106=17 Ind C Malhar, 26 B 193=3 Bom L R 601 There is n evidence of v Hanmun

accomplice
course of practice not to convict an accused person on the uncorroborated testimony of an approver, and the corroboration ought to consist, in some circumstances Bhu Krishna, 6 Bom L R the testimony of an accomp the identity of the accused ration ought to be that which is derived from unimpeachable or independent evidence

3. as distinguished from that derived from the earlier statements of the ap[proving] accomplice or the statements of other accomplices Ibid per Chandravarkar J There must be corroborative evid[ence] [illegible] spoken [illegible] Cr C [illegible]
convict[e] [illegible] who are no better than accompl[ices] [illegible] if this evidence is not corroborated in material respects by other independent evidence in the case Jogendra Nath v Sangap Garo 2 C W N 55

The rule of evidence contained in s 133 and in s 114 (b) of the Evidence Act amounts to nothing more than a direction to all Judges and Magistrates that a fact cannot reasonably be held proved within the meaning of section 3 if there be no other evidence of it than the statement of an unreliable witne[ss] Crown v Ramchand, 6 S L R 195 = 11 Cr L J 262 19 Ind Cas 531 Section 114 of the Evidence Act enacts a rule of presumption, and read with s 4 of the Act it indicates that this is not a hard and fast presumption incapable of rebuttal a presumptio juris et de jure Emperor v Shrinivas 7 Bom L R 969 3 Cr L J, 33

Prior to the Evidence Act, the rule not of law but of practice was that a conviction could not be founded on the unsupported evidence of an accomplice that the accused person's statement was no evidence against a fellow prisoner or one tried jointly with the person making the statement and that such statement was only admissible in evidence when made in the witness box Crown v Nihal Singh, 31 P R 1866 Cr, Queen v Jumeendla 124 P R 1866 Cr, Queen v Boora 125 P R 1866 Cr, Dewa v Crown, 27 P R 1867 Cr Crown v Jairam 28 P R 1867 Cr, Crown v Ruhceemee, 35 P R 1867 Cr Queen v Godai 5 W R Cr 11, Crown v Hooraince 27 P R 1869, Empress v Shakir 5 C P L R 1 Cr But where a Magistrate treated a mere witness as an accomplice and granted him conditional pardon his evidence does not require corroboration Reg v Fatehchand, 5 B H C Cr 85 In ordinary cases the uncorroborated testimony of an approver is not sufficient to convict a person charged with an offence Queen v Tulsi 3 B L R A Cr 66, Queen v Jaffer 3 W R Cr 8 Queen v Nawab Jan 8 W R Cr 19, Queen v Imsagar 8 W R Cr 57, Queen v Chirag 12 W R Cr 5, Queen Empress v Shiddappa Rat Un Cr C 844, Reg v Chatur I B 476 N, Jamiruddin v Emperor, 1 C L J 782, Queen Empress v Bepin, 20 C 970, Narigadu v Emperor, 12 Cr L J 240 = 10 Ind Cas 589, Hubla v King Emperor, 4 Ind Cas 851 = 12 O C 118 = 11 Cr L J 71, Queen v Kalla Chand, 11 W R Cr 21 It is not safe to convict upon the uncorroborated evidence of an approver and the testimony of his wife who is obviously interested in supporting his story which had procured pardon cannot be regarded as independent corroboration of the approver's evidence Sultan v Emperor, 33 P L R 13 Evidence in corroboration need not be direct It may be circumstantial evidence Kunwar v Emperor, A I R 1932 Oudh 86 = 9 O W N 1136

Although s 114 illustration (b) provides that a Court may presume that the evidence of an accomplice is unworthy of credit, unless corroborated, may is not 'must' and no decision of Court can make it 'must' Therefore in spite of all that has been said to the contrary in law, the evidence of an accomplice stands on the same footing as any other evidence The Court is not obliged to hold that he is unworthy to consider after taking into consideration all the circumstances—one of which being that he is an accomplice—whether it does or does not rely on the evidence To entirely rule out the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice might in many cases lead to miscarriage of justice Emperor v Mathews, A I R 1929 Cal 322

Judge's duty in charging the jury In Rex v Baskerville (1916) 2 K B 658 = 86 L J K B 28 Lord Reading in delivering the judgment of the Court said "There is no doubt that the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice is admissible in law—see Rex v Atwood, 1 Leach C C 464 But it has long been a rule of practice at common law for the Judge to warn the jury of the danger of convicting a prisoner on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice or accomplices, and in the discretion of the Judge to advise them not to convict upon such evidence, but the Judge should point out to jury that it is within their legal province to convict upon such unconfirmed evidence—Reg v St[ubbs]

S.

.. L J M C 16 and Meunier, In re 63 L J M C 198=(1891) 2 Q B 115 This rule of practice has become virtually equivalent to a rule of law; and since the Court of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, 17 Edw 7 C (23)], came into operation this Court has held that in the absence of such a warning by the Judge the conviction must be quashed—Rex v Tate 77 L J K B 1043=(1908) 2 K B 680 If after the proper caution by the Judge the jury nevertheless convict the prisoner, this Court will not quash the conviction merely upon the ground that the accomplice's testimony was uncorroborated It can but rarely happen that the jury would convict in such circumstances In considering whether or not the conviction should stand this Court will review all the facts of the case and will bear in mind that the jury had the opportunity of hearing and seeing the witnesses when giving their testimony As the rule of practice at common law was founded originally upon the exercise of the discretion of the Judge at the trial and moreover as it is anomalous in its nature, inasmuch as it requires confirmation of the testimony of a competent witness, it is not surprising that this rule should have led to the differences of opinion as to the nature and extent of the corroboration required, although there are propositions of law applicable to corroboration which are beyond controversy" The Legislature intended to lay down in section 114 of the Evidence Act, the rule that the testimony of an accomplice is unworthy of credit so far as it implicates an accused person unless it is corroborated in material particulars in respect of that person, and it is the duty of a Court which has to deal with an accomplice's testimony to consider whether ... te un ... cr not, and in a case tried by jury, ... to the principles relating to the reception of ... v Sallu ... an'al, 21 W R Cr 69 The ... assessors (1) that there is no rule of law prohibiting the conviction of an offender upon the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, (2) that, as a general rule of practice, it is considered unsafe to convict upon such evidence, and (3) to point out any circumstances in the particular case which, in the opinion of the Judge afford a sufficient reason for relying upon the evidence 2 Weir 798=4 M H C ... uld not be left to a jury without suc... as the circumstances of the case ... Cr 80=B L R Sup Vol 459 Where the evidence of an accomplice is uncorroborated, the correct practice requires Sessions Judges not merely to tell the jury that it is unusual to convict on such evidence but also to tell them that it is unsafe, and contrary both to prudence and practice to do so But his omission to state the above particulars does not amount to an error in law Reg v Gaun Bin 6 B H C Cr 57, see also In re Palaiasam 2 Weir 796 If the jury found a prisoner guilty on the uncorroborated evidence of an approver after the Judge in his summing up had pointed out to them the desirability under the circumstances of such corroboration the High Court on appeal would refuse to set aside the conviction Queen v Mahima 6 B L R App 108 15 W R Cr 37 But where a Session Judge has failed to warn a jury that it is unsafe to convict merely upon the testimony of the approver, and where the Judge has not properly explained to the jury the law and practice regarding such cases there is a misdirection of a very seri... sustained Mal bul v Emperor 12 ... in his charge to the jury shoul... approver was given on condition al... It will be an error in summing ... acting upon the uncorroborated ... was corroborated by a fact jury that the evidence of the accomplice which did not amount to any corroboration at all Jamiruddi v Emperor, 29 C 782=6 C W N 553 The evidence of an approver should not be believed without material corroboration and in order to see whether there is such a corroboration it is the duty of the Court to scrutinize and marshall out very carefully the proof relating thereto Where this duty has not been properly performed by the lower Court the High Court will interfere on the revision side and set ... Courts below Muna v Emperor, 9 Inc... 1911, Queen v Elahee Bux, 5 W ... 07 Ind Cas 876=29 Cr L J 311=A...

as distinguished from that derived from the earlier statements of th accomplice or the statements of other accomplices Ibid per Chandravarkar J There must be corroborative evidence not only as to the identity of the person spoken of as the accused but also as to the corpus delicti Reg v Chatur, Rat Un Cr C 102; Reg v Nanku bhau, Rat Un Cr C 102 A person cannot be convicted upon the evidence of witnesses who are no better than accomplices if this evidence is not corroborated in material respects by other independent evidence in the case Jogendra Nath v Sangap Garo, 2 C W N 55

— s 133 and in s 114 (b) of the Evidence a direction to all Judges and Magistrates proved within the meaning of section than the statement of an unreliable witness Crown v Ramchand, 6 S L R 195 = 14 Cr L J 263 = 19 Ind Cas 531 Section 114 of the Evidence Act enacts a rule of presumption, and read with s 4 of the Act it indicates that this is not a hard and fast presumption incapable of rebuttal, a presumptio juris et de jure Emperor v Shrinivas, 7 Bom L R 3 Cr L J, 33

Prior to the Evidence Act, the rule not of law, but of practice was that a conviction could not be founded on the unsupported evidence of an accomplice that the accused person's statement was no evidence against a fellow prisoner or one tried jointly with the person making the statement and that such statement was only admissible in evidence when made in the witness box Crown v Nihal Singh, 31 P R 1866 Cr, Queen v Jumeeruta 121 P R 1866 Cr Queen v Boora, 125 P R 1866 Cr, Dewa v Crown, 27 P R 1867 Cr Crown v Jairam, 28 P R 1867 Cr, Crown v Ruheemee, 38 P R 1867 Cr, Queen v Godai 5 W R Cr 11, Crown v Hooramee, 27 P R 1869, Empress v Shibar 5 C P L R 1 Cr But where a Magistrate treated a mere witness as an accomplice and granted him conditional pardon his evidence does not require corroboration Reg v Fatehchand 5 B H C Cr 85 In ordinary cases the uncorroborated testimony of an approver is not sufficient to convict a person charged with an offence Queen v Tulsi, 3 B L R A Cr 66, Queen v 3 W R Cr 8 Queen v Nawab Jan 8 W R Cr 19, Queen v Ramsagar, 8 W R Cr 57, Queen v Chirag 12 W R Cr 5, Queen Empress v Rat Un Cr C 814, Reg v Chatur I B 476 N; Jamiruddin v Emperor, 782; Queen Empress v Bipin, 20 C 970, Nayagadu v Emperor, 13 Cr L J 240 = 10 Ind Cas 891 = 12 O C 118 = 11 Cr L J 71, Q It is not safe to convict upon the and the testimony of his wife who is obviously interested in supporting his story which had procured pardon cannot be regarded as independent corroboration of the approver's evidence Sultan v Emperor, 33 P L R 13 Evidence in corroboration need not be direct It may be circumstantial evidence Kunwar v Emperor, A I R 1932 Oudh 86 = 9 O W N 1136

Although s 114, illustration (b) provides that a Court may presume that the evidence of an accomplice is unworthy is not 'must' and no decision of Court can of all that has been said to the contrary stands on the same footing as any other evid hold that he is unworthy to consider after taking into consideration —whether it does or corroborated evidence justice Emperor v

(1916) 2 K B

been a rule of practice at common law for the judge to danger of convicting a prisoner on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice or accomplices, and in the discretion of the Judge to advise them not to convict upon such evidence; but the Judge should point out to jury that it is within their legal province to convict upon such unconfirmed evidence—Reg v Stubbs in England as far back as the 10th December 1662, after conference with all the Judges" Then quoting extracts from Sir Mathew Hale's Pleas of the Crown, King v Atwood, 1 Leach Cr C 4 4, King v. Jones, 2 Camp Rep 131 and from King v. Durham, 1 Leach Cr C 478, he continued · " The law as above laid down that a conviction is legal, though supported by uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice has been admitted by Lord Denham in Rex v Hastings and another, 7 C & P 112, by Baron Alderson in Rex v Wilkes, 7 C & P 272; and by many other so ruled by the Court of Criminal Appe law of England, therefore, upon this America is the same, and in that country, where in most of the states new trials are grant the verdicts were Act II

by whom the ev dered corroborat not the intention of the Act to render inadmissible any evidence, which but for the Act, would l lessen the leg in answering the tion may be l places "

Amount of corroboration A conviction based on the totally uncorroborated story of an accomplice is bad in law Queen Empress v Shidlingappa, Rat. Un Cr C 841, Crown v Hira Mthar, 71 P R 1866 Cr, Crown v Motum, 11 P R 1867 Cr, Aloe v Queen Empress U B R, (1892—1899) Vol 1, 103 An approver's evidence cannot be accepted unless it is corroborated in material particulars by other independent evidence Lad Khan v Crown, 19 P W R 1912 Cr = 13 Ind Cas 938 = 13 Cr L J 182 = 47 P L R 1912, Queen Empress v Krishna Bhat, 10 B 319, P S Narayan v Emperor, (1914) M W N 363 = 15 Cr L J 117 = 24 Ind Cas 153 Not only as to the persons spoken of by an accomplice must there be corpus delicti there must be some prim direction Reg v Chalu, Rat Un C must be independent corroboration wi persons whom accomplices charge and with respect to the facts they state, and their testimony ought to be confirmed by other evidence against each person they name Gunda Singh v Crown 21 P R 1869 Cr, Esur Singh v Crown, 1 P R 1868 Cr The testimony of an accomplice is not alone sufficient for a conviction The corroboration must be on matters directly connecting the prisoner with the offence of which he is accused Queen v Dwarka, 5 W R Cr 18 = 1 Ind Jur N S 100, Queen Empress v Dhondi, Rat Un Cr C 810, Queen Empress v Kunjan Menan, 1 M L J 397, Queen Empress v Shidlingappa, Rat Un Cr C 841 The evidence of two or more accomplices requires corroboration equally with the testimony of one Queen v Dwarka, 5 W R Cr 18 = 1 Ind Jur N S 100, Queen Empress v Shidlingappa, Rat Un Cr C 841, Nga Paw v Q E, L B R (1872 1892) 51 An accomplice is a competent witness and there is no absolute rule of law which enacts that the conviction on the evidence of an accomplice is bad, but there is an established practice, founded on the judicial experience of generations, which requires corroboration by some untainted nting not only to the me Star
Cas 174
oboration
practice
more persons having been concerned should be confirmed, not only as to the stances of the case, but also as to the identity of the prisoners, and any prisoner as to whom his testimony is not supported should be acquitted Rex v Imam Valad, 3 B H C Cr 57 In dealing with the question what amount of corroboration is required in the case of testimony given by an accomplice, the Court must exercise careful discrimination and look at all the surrounding circumstances in order to arrive at a conclusion, whether the facts deposed to

by the person alleged to be an accomplice are borne out by those circumstances or whether the circumstances are of such a nature that the evidence purporting to be given by the alleged accomplice should be supported in essential and material particulars by evidence aliunde as to the facts deposed to by that accomplice The amount of criminality is a matter for consideration, and when a person is only an accomplice by implication or in a secondary sense his evidence does not require the same amount of corroboration as that of a person who is an actual perpetrator with the principal offender Although a conviction is not illegal, merely, because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice, the evidence of an accomplice, ordinarily speaking, should be corroborated in material particulars, and such evidence should be accepted with a great deal of caution and scrutiny Kamala Prasad v Sital Prosad, 5 C W N 517=28 C 339 The corroboration of the [illegible] required, should be such corroboration [illegible] a prudent man, on the consideration of [illegible] that the evidence is true, not only as to the [illegible] but also so far as it affects each person [illegible] Srinivas Krishna, 7 Bom L R 969=3 Cr [illegible] [illegible]ror, 10 C W N 962=4 Cr L J 115=33 C [illegible] Previous statements made by the accomplice himself, though consistent with [illegible] the trial, are insufficient for the corroboration of th[illegible] The evidence requisite for the corroboration of the [illegible] must proceed from an independent and reliable source Reg v Malapa Bin, 11 B H C A C 196 The confession of one of the [illegible] of an accomplice against the [illegible] Sheikh Sheru v Emperor, 81 [illegible] is not [illegible] better by being corroborated by other tainted evidence Queen v Bijoy [illegible] W R Cr 43, Hakam Singh v Emperor, A I R 1929 Lah 850=1929 Cr C 626, Queen v Ramsaran, 8 A 306=A W N 1885, 311, Queen v Dowlut, 5 W R Cr 18, Mahomed Usuf v Emperor, 114 Ind Cas 457=A I R 1929 Nag 215

The rule laid down in s 111, illustration (b) corresponds with the rule observed in England Reg v Ramasami, 1 M 394=2 Weir 799 It is unsafe to convict a person on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice Queen Empress v Imdad, 8 A 120=A W N 1886, 7, Maung Lay v Emperor, 77 Ind Cas 429 The initial presumption is that the evidence of accomplices is [illegible] ly where there are any special circum[illegible] and leave no reasonable doubt that the belief Nga Wa v King Emperor, 1 U

The law as expressed in ss 114(b) and 133 of the Evidence Act is in no respect different from the law of England, but simply reproduces a rule of practice viz, that a conviction based on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice is not illegal, that is, it is not unlawful But experience teaches that it is not safe to rely upon the evidence of an accomplice, unless it is corroborated, and hence, it is the practice of the Judges, both in England and in India, when sitting alone, to guard their minds carefully against acting upon such evidence when uncorroborated and, when trying a case with a jury, to warn them that such a course is unsafe Not only it is necessary that the evidence should be corroborated in material particulars but the corroboration should extend to the identity of the accused person There must be [illegible] corroboration independent of the accomplice or of the accomplice and the confessing prisoner, to show that the party accused was actually engaged directly in the commission of the crime charged against him It is of no value and makes no difference if there are two accomplices A second accomplice does not improve the position of the first, nor does the fact that there are two make it unnecessary that both should be corroborated The accomplice must be corroborated not only as to one, but as to all of the persons affected by the evidence; corroboration of his evidence as to one prisoner would not justify his evidence against another being accepted without corroboration Queen Empress v Ram Saran 8 A 306=A W N 1885, 31; Emperor v Jamaldi, [illegible] C W N 536 If some part of his evidence is satisfactorily corroborated, the is good ground for believing him in other parts in which there is no corroboration Queen Empress v Kunjan Menon, 1 M L J 397 (F. B)

The ... a great deal of cautio... to swear falsely in ord... hardly applies to the ... y his own tes... reby fastens ... it he shows a ... Cr.
L J. 33

Where ... testifies an sidered as boration.
unless cor
worthy of belief, applies to persons to whom a pardon has been tendered on condition of their making a full disclosure of all the circumstances of the crime in which they profess themselves to have been participators and subject to the penalty of being themselves placed upon their trial, if, in the opinion of the Court, they have spoken falsely or kept back anything important It does not apply to a cr... upon the evide... and have unc...
share in it T... made by them at the time of their trial, is good corroborative evidence under s. 157 of the Evidence Act Empress v Tantia Bhil, 4 C P. L R 1

As regard ... a person on the testimony
circumstances Facts, which the offence ... the w portio an ... , but sons, V N
Cas
= A
... Reg v Badhu, 1 B 475.
Whe... must be corroboration agai... with the offence alleged agai... , Ind Cas 636 Section 133 of the Evidence Act contains the rule of law, section 114, illustration (b) being merely a sort of guidance to assist the Courts It is impossible to lay down any ... accomplice must be corrobo... is to be viewed with suspic... has a motive to shift guilt ... likely to commit perjury on occasion, (iii) because he hopes for pardon, or has secured it and so favours the prosecution Barkat Ali v Crown, 2 P R 1917 Cr = 36 Ind Cas. 86, Nand Singh v Crown, 9 P W R. 1917 Cr

No hard and fast rule approver's evidence be rejected on that point it happens to b... of all other facts and consider... aside as worthless unless it worthy character Bichuta v T...
833; see also Balmokund v Cro... show that the co accused or some of them approver at or in the vicinity of the places ... comm...
v The... co-accu...

more reliable witness than the accomplice who is examined under conditional pardon, although proper corroboration is necessary in cases of both Sudam Chandra v Emperor, A I R 1933 Cal 148

A conviction based on the uncorroborated testimony of an approver is illegal. Gurdit Singh v Crown, 52 P L R 1918=44 Ind Cas 967=19 Cr L J 439, Pan Gang v Emperor, 42 Ind Cas 1002=19 Cr L J 47

The retracted confession of an accused person may be sufficient corroboration of the approver's story as against himself but not against a co accused Palha v Emperor 12 P W R Cr 1949=49 Ind Cas 604=20 Cr L J 188, In re Damur Veerabadra, 12 L W 385=61 Ind Cas 528

The approver s evidence is ... it may be of belief for variou ...

... d unless the Judge is satisfied ... rroborated in some material and ... L T 757 Where the corroboration was the recovery of certain articles alleged to be some of the articles stolen and subsequently produced from the house of the accused, his house was ... ng the ... into ... were ... ances ... peror

The approver referred to a ... along with appellants to join in the dacoity ... prover ... prover ... three ... nd bearing consecutive number was strong corroboration of the approver s story as to the appellants having accompanied him to the scene of the occurrence Hakim v Emperor, 1923 Lah 153

The production of stolen property by an accused person even from a place which is not in his own possession may be accepted as material corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice who has deposed that the accused joined him in committing the burglary or theft Mahomed v Emperor, 111 Ind Cas 417=29 Cr L J 863

... lly scrutinized with a ... Fred Latimer 29 L ... ell known rule of cr ... ess he is corro ... onal cases ... ration of ... e accused ... mstantial evidence of their connection with the crime ... In l Cas 423=30 Cr L J 922=A I R 1929 Oudh 321 The mere presence of a person in the house is not a corroboration Abot v Emperor 1929 M W N 698 An approver is unworthy of credit unless corroborated in material particulars Where the only witness who corroborated him was his son aged 7 years who parrot like repeated what he had been tutored to say, it is unsafe to convict the accused on such evidence. Meher Singh v Crown, 11 Lah L J 223=30 P L R 422=A I R 1929 Lah 287

Corroboration need not necessarily consist of ... lence that the accused ... evidence ... Hakam ... R 421, ... oborat on ... ich case ... of su- ... 929 Lah.

In deciding a criminal case with reference to the evidence of an accomplice Court must take into consideration the maxim that it is unsafe to convict a son upon the evidence of an accomplice unless he is corroborated in material ticulars both as to the circumstances of the offence and the identity of the son whom he implicates Lady Mohar v Emperor, 114 Ind Cas 623 = A. I. 1929 Nag 222 = 30 Cr L J 331 see also Mahomed v Emperor, 114 Ind 457 = 30 Cr L J 311 = A I R 1929 Nag 215, Sundaram v Emperor, 9 M W N 791, Mahomed Usaf v Emperor, 114 Ind Cas 457 = 30 Cr L 311 = A I R 1929 Nag 215; Musa v Emperor 114 Ind Cas 609 = A I R 9 Nag 233 = 30 Cr L J 333, Hakam Singh v Emperor A I R 1929 Lah , Monohor v Emperor, A I R 1930 Cal 430, Sheo Baksh v Emperor, A. R. 1930 Pat 161

It is the main duty of the prosecution to bring the accomplice character of evidence to the notice of the Court and then invite it to believe it by erence to the corroborative evidence on record Mahomed Usuf v Emperor, Ind Cas 457 = 30 Cr L J 311 = A I R 1929 Nag 215 The foremost ential condition for accepting the approver's statement is that it must be trustthy statement. Lodya v Emperor, 114 Ind Cas 623 = 30 Cr L J 331 = A 1929 Nag 222

Rejection of Accomplice evidence If the evidence of an approver is arded, it must be discarded as a whole and the defence cannot have argument, t any more than the prosecution Sheo Bash v Emperor, 11 Pat L T = A I. R 1930 Pat 164

134 No particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact.

imber of witnesses

Principle "And after all, what is it worth?' said Jeremy Bentham in his ionale of Judicial Evidence B IX, pt VI C 1 § 1, 'In the multitude of nsellers says the proverb, there is safety, in the multitude of witnesses e may be some sort of safety but nothing more; it is by weight, full as h as by tale, that witnesses are to be judged Pundere non numero From nbers ... forme a nur is nar their agreement with other matters of fact too notorious to stand in need of imony — single witness (especially if situation and character be taken into unt) will be enough r instances, a crowd of nd wanting in the ba he bar whose experience witnesses opposed to e se testimony has been of egard to mendacity) f I do not ... (... be ... to insinuate) that the sition of ... against perjury No ot but that, ... require, the greater security a ... t that security, (be it ter or less), is not so necessary as that you should pay so great a price for s you do pay, and must pay by the license you thereby grant to commit the e in the presence and ... ires two witnesses ... es, make assertion ag
' This by way of which cause a man to to liberty' This o al to liberty ? Wh osition ... What my own meaning is io ve
ns

more reliable witness than the accomplice who is examined under conditions pardon, although proper corroboration is necessary in cases of both Sudai Chandra v Emperor, A I R 1933 Cal 148

A conviction based on the uncorroborated testimony of an approver i illegal Gurdit Singh v Crown, 52 P L R 1918=44 Ind Cas 967=19 Cr L J 439, Pan Gang v Emperor, 42 Ind Cas 1002=19 Cr L J 47

The retracted confession of an accused person may be sufficient corrobora tion of the approver's story as against himself but not against a co accused Pallia v Emperor, 12 P W R Cr 1949=49 Ind Cas 601=20 Cr L J 188 In re Damur Veerabadra, 12 L W 385=61 Ind Cas 528

The approver's evidence is in [illegible] some case it may be of belief for various re[illegible] approver taken at the end of the tria[illegible] v Emperor, 56 Ind Cas 667=21 Cr L J 507, see also Palla v Empe[illegible] Lah L J 296 An accused cannot be convicted unless the Judge is satisfie that the evidence of the accomplice was corroborated in some material an satisfactory manner Dhanu v Emperor, 2 Pat L T 757 Where the corro boration was the recovery of certain articles, alleged to be some of the article stolen and subsequently produced from the house of the accused, his house wa [illegible] into [illegible] were [illegible] ances [illegible] peror

The approver referred to a story by one A who invited him along with [illegible] the story told by the approver [illegible] its were seen with the approver [illegible] The possession of the three [illegible] was strong [illegible] ed corroboration of the approver's story as to t[illegible] him to the scene of the occurrence Hakim [illegible]

The production of stolen property by an accused person even from a place which is not in his own possession may be accepted as material corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice who has deposed that the accused joined him in committing the burglary or theft Mahomed v Emperor, 111 Ind Cas 447=29 Cr L J 863

The testimony of a proferred accomplice requires to be carefully scrutinized with anxious search for possible corroboration Macdonald v Fred Latimer 29 L W 155=112 Ind Cas 875=A I R 1929 P C 15 The well known rule [illegible] is corro- [illegible] ses [illegible] of [illegible] sed [illegible] tial [illegible] as evidence of their connection with the crime Lalu v E[illegible] 423=30 Cr L J 922=A I R 1929 Oudh 321 The mere presence of a person [illegible] 1929 M W N 698 An [illegible] in material particulars [illegible] his son aged 7 years who [illegible] is unsafe to convict the [illegible] Lah L J 223=30 P L [illegible] that the accused [illegible] ntial evidence [illegible] 658, Hakim [illegible] 1 K B 421, [illegible] corroboration [illegible] of each case including the character and antecedents of the approver and the degree of suspicion attached to his evidence Hakim Singh v Emperor, A I R 1929 Lah 860.

he may safely violate any engagement, however solemn, contracted under similar circumstances 2 Artificial rules of this kind hold out a temptation to the subornation of perjury, in order to obtain the means of complying with them 3 They produce a mischievous effect on the tribunal by their natural tendency to react on the human mind, and they thus create a system of mechanical decision dependent on the number of proofs.
wh
do ag
cor
proceed on intelligence and credit, and not on the number of the witnesses examined or documents produced in evidence—is a just one, there are cases where, from motives of public policy, it has been wisely ordained otherwise" Best Ev §§ 597 601 ; Wigmore § 2033

"What we must conclude, then, is that our whole presumption should be against any specific rule requiring a number of witnesses, or corroboration of a single witness ; that such arbitrary measurements are likely to be of little real efficacy and to introduce disadvantages greater than those which they purport to avoid , and that therefore any such rule, when advanced for a specific issue—for example, treason or perjury—or for a specific witness—for example, an accomplice or a raped complainant—must justify itself by experience as overwhelmingly useful and efficacious" Wigmore § 2033

Scope of the section Section 28 of Act II of 1855 enacted "Except in cases of treason, the direct evidence of one witness, who is entitled to full credit shall be sufficient for proof of any fact in any such Court or before any such person But this provision shall not affect any rule or practice of any Court that
or an Ta
tion either for treason or misprison for treason, the offence is required to be established on the testimony of not less than two witnesses This is a statutory provision of the reign of William III, and requires the oath of either two witnesses to the same overt act, or one to one, and the other to another overt act of the being part of the act or treason even though part of the general proof ; as for instance, in an indictment for adherence to the Queen's enemies, proof that the accused was a subject of the Crown In the case of an indictment for per sup cou

of a aga
Cr

Now has been removed Now a conviction up Khulam v Bhowani-prosad, 22 particular number of witnesses of any fact Ibid ; see also Raja Prosonno v. Romonee 10 W R 236 , Govindo v Narain, 21 W. R. Cr 18 ; Arjun v Emperor, 53 A 598 = A. I. R. 1931 All 362.

In Queen Empress v. Ghulet, 7 A 44 at p 60 Duthoit, J said "R. v. Harris, 5 B & A 926, has been followed in Mary Jackson's Case, 1 Lew Cr 270, in R. v. Wheatland, 8 C & P. 238, in R v Hook, 15 D & R. and in cases As regards all these cases I remark generally that the England as to the necessity of calling witnesses to assignment of perjury, and of showing th taken was m question of defending, is not law in India"

CHAPTER X.

OF THE EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

Order of production and examination of witnesses

135. The order in which witnesses are produced and e[illegible] amined shall be regulated by the law ar[illegible] practice for the time being relating to ci[illegible] and criminal procedure respectively, and, [illegible] the absence of any such law, by the discretion of the Court.

Attendance of witnesses This chapter deals with the examination of [illegible] [illegible] by incorporating the rules of English law on the subject The o[illegible] [illegible] questions It freque[illegible] the facts nec[illegible] ask the parties rules as rega[illegible] produce any documents This chapter does not lay [illegible] the production of witnesses or documents before the Court The Civil and Cri[illegible] Provisions have be[illegible] na [illegible] [illegible] rules on these subjects [illegible] Co[illegible] m [illegible] owled[illegible] hich [illegible] A[illegible] as [illegible] been recognized and enforced by the common law from [illegible] is enforced is the subpoe[illegible] v Long, 9 East 473 The process by which this writ is enforced is the commands the witness ad testificandum, commonly called subpoena, which commands the witness [illegible] a writ or order directed to a [illegible] the trial to give his testimony It is a writ or order directed to [illegible] place to testify as [illegible] books, documents or produce in evidence [illegible] cident to the jurisdic[illegible] The right to comp[illegible] [illegible] tion of the Common Law Courts; and statutes generally exist extending this [illegible] the like" Burr Jones power [illegible] f Court to secure the § 797 [illegible] ial proceeding By an attend [illegible] reasonable costs and early [illegible] generally regulated by [illegible] r each [illegible] lue ad-[illegible] com-[illegible] finitely [illegible] wer to to hear and determine any suit, has by [illegible] end, to call for all adequate proofs of the facts in controversy, and, to that end, to [illegible] the attendance of witnesses before it" Greenl Ev 60 [illegible] obedience to [illegible] time So also [illegible] oduction of a [illegible] the mode of [illegible] is by [illegible] idrews [illegible] these [illegible] selves [illegible] n dis-[illegible] lore, in [illegible] mediate [illegible] tablish-[illegible] ribunal [illegible] our law [illegible] ments, and must be an [illegible] Accordingly, we find it [illegible] extend"

Exclusion of witnesses from Court room Before discussing the general [illegible] witnesses, it is proper to call attention [illegible] the exercise of its discretion, direct the [illegible] while the testimony of other witness-es is being given. Burr Jones [illegible] Ev §§ 1400-1402. When excluded they must not be ... ngs of the case; and those ... ers have testified Best § ... his is called putting or ... ctice which has prevailed ... and Scotland from an ... The object of such an order is obviously to elicit the truth by securing testimony not influenced by the statements of other witnesses or the suggestions of counsel as well as to prevent collusion and covert of testimony among witnesses While this order will generally be made by the Court on the application of counsel, before the examination of the witnesses, it is generally held to be a matter of discretion, rather than of strict right; yet in some States it may be claimed as a right Burr Jones § 807. Parties to the litigation except for some impropriety will not generally be excluded, since their presence is usually necessary to a proper management of their case. Nor will an attorney for one of the parties be excluded, but see Everett v Lowdham, 5 C & P 91; Pomeroy v. Baddely, Ry. & M 130 The same is true of one who is party in interest, though not a party to the record ... ice of such agent is ... with the facts that ... action or defence The mere fact of the necessity for the presence of such an agent will not out- ... its discretion Expert witnesses ... nce be given upon the question or ... if there is any reason to apprehend that the expert witnesses are liable to be influenced by the testimony of other witnesses ... order ef ... are bein ...

Burr Jones § 807, Selfe v Isaacson, 1 F & F 194; Charnock v Dewings, 3 C & K 378; Pussel v. Pilson, 28 R L Jo 810, Ramsden v. Jacobs, (1922) 1 K B 640; Contra, Outram v Outram, (1877) W N. 75; Usher v Henwood, 20 S J 598; Tay § 1400

... Judge ... Moo & ... rt room ... witness but it would not render him incompet ... hear his evidence and pass upon ... States, 1 Okl Cr 291, Burr Jones § ... Cobbet v Hedson, 1 E & B 11, Phip ...

Proc ... tion ... Proc ... tion ... befo ... few ... witn ... circu ... the r ... Gree ... in re ... and ... intro ... parti ... coun ... has discretion, the Court has also power under this section to direct the order in which witnesses cited by a party shall be examined In the goods of Gopesar Dutta, 16 C W N 265=39 C 215 In Kedar Nath Ghosh v Bhupendra Nath Bose, 5 C W N. xv, at the close of the examination-in-chief who was the first witness called, Mr Jackson referring cross-examination of the of the plaintiff by his es cross examination In e Court is very slow to in which witnesses should be examined I think that in the present case the ordinary practice should regulate the order of exami ... should be cross examined at the conclusion of the ... defence wants to cross examine the prosecuti ... by being allowed to postpone the cross-examination of the complainant on the ground that the cross-examination of the complainant before some other witnesses will embarrass and prejudice the defence case the mere fact that the complainant, is a sickly man, is present in Court and may not come on some other day due to his bad health, is not sufficier ... the of the defence, but the ... It defence Moosa Haji ... the is not the duty of th ... ab

L R 136
he discretionary control of the trial Judge
to rom
rom

And where permission has been given to recall a witness ... omitted to ... that of the Co ... evi-
question ...
dence to be introduced, out of its order, in the examination-in-chief, though
... of the case to be presented by the other side On witness is needlessly protracted, arrest it, and the Judge may own motion Burr Jones § 814 ... evidence at the on behalf Cr P Code as not thereby vitiated Nayan N 170=A I R 1930 Cal 134

Right to begin In the regular order of procedure, the party having the ... evidence necessary to support the subs-firmative allegations should is received Burr. Jones he rules of evidence. As a sts should begin. Sections subject of burden of proof of lies on that party who le Ordinarily the plaintiff facts alleged by dditional facts of the relief begin Civil C L R. 274,

r day to which hall state his he is bound to evidence (if prove The other party shall then ...

any) and may then address the Court generally on the whole case The party beginning may then reply generally on the whole case Civil Procedure Code, Order XVIII, rule 2 If there be some defendants who support the plaintiff's case, in that case, they should address the Court and call their evidence before the other defendants Haji Bibi v. Sultan Mahomed, 32 B 599 Where there are several issues the burden of proving some of which lies on the other party, the party beginning may, at his option, either produce his evidence on those issues or reserve it by way of answer to the evidence produced by the other party; and in the latter case, the party beginning may produce evidence on those issues af[illegible] party may then r[illegible] beginning; but the [illegible] the whole case C[illegible]

As regards order of production of witnesses in criminal cases, vide Chapters XVIII XX, XXI, XXII, XXIII, of the Criminal Procedure Code 136 When either party proposes to give evidence of any fact, the Judge may ask the party proposing to give the evidence in what manner the alleged fact, if proved, would be relevant, and the Judge shall admit the evidence if he thinks that the fact, if proved, would be relevant and not otherwise.

Judge to decide as to admissibility of evidence

If the fact proposed to be proved is one of which evidence is admissible only upon proof of some other fact, such last-mentioned fact must be proved before evidence is given of the fact first mentioned, unless the party undertakes to give proof of such fact, and the Court is satisfied with such undertaking.

If the relevancy of one alleged fact depends upon another alleged fact being first proved, the Judge may, in his discretion, either permit evidence of the first fact to be given before the second fact is proved, or require evidence to be given of the second fact before evidence is given of the first fact.

Illustrations

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement about a relevant fact by a person alleged to be dead, which statement is relevant under section 32

The fact that the person is dead must be proved by the person proposing to prove the statement, before evidence is given of the statement

(b) It is proposed to prove, by a copy, the contents of a document said to be lost.

The fact that the original is lost must be proved by the person proposing to produce the copy, before the copy is produced

(c) A is accused of receiving stolen property knowing it to have been stolen

It is proposed to prove that he denied the possession of the property

The relevancy of the denial depends on the identity of the property The Court may, in its discretion, either require the property to be identified before the denial of the possession is proved, or permit the denial of possession to be proved before the property is identified (d) I[illegible] the cause or effe[illegible] C and D) which r[illegible] the cause or effe[illegible] be proved before [illegible] C and D is proved, or may require proof of B, C and D before permitting proof of A.

Para 1 'The reception of clearly incompetent evidence is a practice which leads ... incompetent eviden... expense of money ... which may follow ... v Mc Dermont, 1 ... y shall offer his evidence is for the counsel to determine, unless it is made to appear to the Court that some undue advantage of the opposite party is thereby attempted When evidence is offered which proves or tends to prove any relevant fact, it is to be presumed that this will be followed by such other proof as is necessary to establish the proper connection Hence, it is of no consequence in what order the evidence is introduced, so far as its ultimate legitimacy is concerned, provided in its relation to the other evidence in the case, it is at the end pertinent to the issue A case consists frequently of various parts neither one of which makes it out and to hold that a party is not entitled to introduce any part until he establishes the whole ... is that the particular ... involved in the issu...

... ded by other ... he case The ... testimony is ... unsel must be allowed to begin somewhere upon the expectation that other links are to be afterwards supplied, and for this the Courts rely upon the statement of counsel professional honour being a guarantee against abuse For example, the Court may permit a sheriff s deed to be given in evidence before the judgment and execution on which it is founded are introduced and where one relies on his right as assignee of a bond he may introduce the bond in evidence before he shows ... Burr Jones § 812 So it is clear that relevant ... may be given in evidence as of right and ... not depend upon itself but rests upon some ... reception is a matter of privilege In other ... the absence of that testimony without which it ... been declared that the relevancy of testimony need not always appear at the time when it is offered, since it is the usual course to receive at any proper and convenient stage of the trial, in the discretion of the Judge any evidence which the counsel shows will be rendered material by other evidence which he undertakes to produce If it is not subsequently thus connected with the issue it is to be laid out of the case Greenl Ev § 51(a) But if the testimony is apparently irrelevant before counsel can ... nce otherwise ... or in some ... nt But on cross examination much more latitude is necessarily allowed to counsel In the absence of such assurance the evidence should not be received If it is plain ... and there ... es not ... rought ... vidence ... re not ... elevant

Para 2 Vide Section 104 illustration and Notes It often happens that an agent for instance to carry a message and bring back an answer or do some other act, is put into the box before his agency or authority is proved There upon an objection is taken by the opposing counsel that the evidence is not receivable, because the agency, etc, is not proved An undertaking, is usually then given that evidence to prove the agency will be forthcoming at a later period, whereupon the case proceeds If the proof of agency should break down, the whole of the alleged agent s evidence is expunged from the Judge s notes It would often be highly inconvenient to interrupt the witness in his story, and call another witness in the middle of his examination, to prove the agency It is to meet such a state of things that the clause is provided Noil Fi p 319

Para 3 Vide notes under para (1) It is doubtful whether s 136 gives the Court any discretion to allow evidence to corroborate a witness to be given " Ujin v King Emperor re a Judge suggests to a evidence on a parti ere l for cross examina is satisfied with the evidence so far as it has that have been called has not such a suggestion and it l have a just cause of complaint if the Judge afterwards turns round and says I decide against you on that point. Hasaji Mijachand v Dhondiram 6 Bom L R 636

Examination in chief

137. The examination of a witness by the party who calls him shall be called his examination-in-chief

Cross examination

The examination of a witness by the adverse party shall be called his cross-examination

Re examination

The examination of a witness subsequent to the cross examination by the party who called him, shall be called his re-examination

Order of examinations

138 Witnesses shall be first examined in-chief, then (if the adverse party so desires) cross examined, then (if the party calling him so desires) re examined

The examination and cross-examination must relate to relavant facts but the cross examination need not be confined to the facts to which the witness testified on his examination in chief

Direction of re examination

The re-examination shall be directed to the explanation of matters referred to in cross-examination and if new matter is by permission of the Court introduced in re examination, the adverse party may further cross examine upon that matter

W
in close of called b to any witness

Every party to a suit is entitled to have all the witnesses, whom he desires to call, and is ready at the trial to produce, heard by the Court, whatever opinion the Court may form by anticipation as to the probable value of the evidence when it shall be given. Looloo v. Rajender, 8 W R 364, see also Bungshee v. Chowdhry, 1 W R 263; Morno v Bheem, 6 W R 231, Chowdhury v. Shib, [illegible] Jeswant v Jaisingjee, 2 M I [illegible] ry [illegible] ich of taking upon [illegible] witness should be [illegible] L J 156=27 Ind Cas 220

Witness to testify orally When testimony is to be given in Court at a trial, it is to be given verbally, in the presence of the Court and jury, where the behaviour, expression, and gesture of a witness may be seen One cannot write out his testimony, and read it to the jury himself, or have it read One of the strongest indications of the truthfulness of a witness is his manner under the particular circumstances which surround the giving of his testimony This is of course, lost to the jury unless the witness testify orally before it Whenever [illegible] compels testimony to be taken [illegible] orally such facts [illegible] tify from his own [illegible] ice is brought out between the ideas and language of various witnesses in reference to their own knowledge of the facts about which they are questioned One witness will know a thing [illegible] another will only go to the extent of givi[illegible] ime [illegible] or With certain [illegible] made by sign [illegible] ing

Referrin[illegible] the truth of a part transaction will probably ever be devised by human ingenuity [illegible] conducted as it [illegible] e parties, [illegible] f observ- [illegible] witnesses [illegible] ts cannot [illegible] erty and [illegible] o, he has [illegible] fence, of [illegible] greatest

Examination in chief The first rul[illegible] on in chief is this —Counsel can ask a witness whom [illegible] only as are strictly relevant to the issue [illegible] matter immediately in issue No quest[illegible] direct examination, the probable answer to which cannot have a tend[illegible] to prove the offence or defence, or other matter put in issue by the pleadings [illegible] allow a greater [illegible] h as are [illegible] sume the [illegible] ing that [illegible] images is relevant; everything else will be rigorously excluded And relevant facts must be proved in the legitimate way, a fact may be most material, still that is no reason for admitting hearsay evidence Again, counsel must confine his questions to matters of fact; [illegible] ask him what he inferred from [illegible] nion of a witness on any mat[illegible] killed or scientific witness[illegible] er special training or special [illegible] form a competent judgment on any matter in issue. Powell Ev 526 Generally it is not the province of the Court to examine witnesses and as a rule Courts should leave the witnesses to the pleaders to be dealt with as is provided in section 13 Janki v Sheo Narain, 82 Ind Cas. 154=25 Cr L J 1226 The necessity for expediting trials frequently precludes the Court from permitting the repetition of questions especially in direct examination. To repeat a question once excluded for any other purpose than to seek, in good faith, its introduction after a change of condition in the proof, is opposed to the canon under consideration Chamberlayne's Ev § 551.

Importance of examination in chief Cross-examination is far easier than examination-in chief. In cross examination one cannot avoid getting answers which are not desired, but in chief a great deal depends upon the way in which witnesses are examined Lord Alverstone's Recollections of the Bench and the Bar The examination of a witness in chief or the direct examination of witnesses as it is some times called, is very much underrated in its significance and its importance Parry's Seven Lamps of Advocacy, 82 85 If a direct examination is properly and skilfully conducted, the impression thus made by an honest witness is more lasting than any argument of counsel The vivid story of a single witness told in a winning way will leave a first impression upon a juror's mind that no eloquence can efface It is no easy matter for an advocate to get his own evidence properly before a Court and jury It is an important fact for him to remember that cases are often won or lost by the straight forward statements of the part...

hav

exai

the

to words learnt by

And they had

f Advocacy, pp

An impression very generally prevails in both branches of the profession that the exam...

d

"

l,

r

d

powers of no inferior order so to interrogate each witness, whether, learned or unlearned ... inded or desigr compre-

hensi

...se" says

Mr C

...nand and carry

...ng aside

neither to the right hand nor to the left, and, when you have come to the end of the statement on the paper, to resume your seat and leave him to be dealt with by your adversary in cross examination But your task is far from being so easy" Cox Advocate cited in Wrottesley 51-54 No lawyer can be successful in the highest sense of the term unless he is a master of the difficult art of examining witnesses It requires greater combination of qualities than almost any other branch of advocacy, the most important of which are patience, coolness and tact"

all your wi particulars examine a previously

there may from the st single test

exercise your sagacity at the moment, it must depend upon the particular facts of the case" Ibid p 37

Duty of counsel It is the duty of counsel to bring out clearly, and in proper chronological order every relevant fact in support of his client's case to which the witness can depose This task is more difficult than may at first sight appear The timid witness must be encouraged, the talkative witness repressed, the witness who is too strong a partisan must be kept in check And yet counsel must not suggest to the witness what he is to say An honest witness, however, should be left to tell his tale in his own way with as little interruption from counsel as possible In criminal cases, the duty of counsel for the prosecution is wider It is the practice, and probably the duty, of a prosecuting counsel to ask a witness questions favourable to the prisoner, for he must lay all the material evidence before the Court, whether it tells in favour of the prisoner or not, and not unduly press for a conviction. Powell Ev 526, Ramranjan v Emperor, 42 C 422

The Rambling witness Testimony in itself intelligible is often rendered difficult of comprehension by the incompleteness, or the want of continuity, with which it is presented These evils are due either to the defective mental constitution of the witness, or to his moral weakness, or to his personal hostility, or to the in ... ntal constitution manifests itse ... many indivi duals there ... a single object and persisten ... individual it is useless to expect any exhaustive and coherent statement of the facts within his knowledge Any idea which suddenly arises in his mind, during the course of his narration, diverts his thought into another channel; he loses sight of many details which he shou ... ithout consciousness of the omission ... lea his effort to explain it leads him ... when he returns ... at which it was abandoned, while ... to the comprehension of the whole ... a witness of this defective mental ... obinson's Forensic Oratory, Wigmore Jud Proof § 160

The dull and stupid witness The same obstacles are encountered in eliciting the evidence of a dull and stupid witness His perceptions are cloudy and indefinite His processes of recollection and reflections are slow and ... examination must be ... his story in order to ... effort of his memory, to construct questions which contain some word or phrase suggestive of the missing thought, to contrive methods of explanation or illustration which enables ... ties ... or ... of Timid and self ... timony of a witness whose moral ... id self consciousness is subject ...

... disclosure o ... work through ... he omits or ... ideas uttered, however, than he becomes conscious of their error If he now attempts an explanation, it usually results in his entire discomfiture If he persists in the misre ... arises in the fear ... hoods and suppres ... knowing matters of importance ...

... Robinson's Forensic Oratory p 126, Wigmore's ... Judicial Proof § 160

The Bold and Zealous witness—his treatment The moral weakness of a ...

delivered, and avails himself of every opportunity to assert his own opinions

S. 1

Incompleteness or obscurity in the . difficulties of an entirely different the examination of the rambling, the self conscious or the stupid witness arise from intellectual or emotional defects, and can be overcome by enlightening the mind of the witness, or by assisting him to bring his impulses under control The obstacle encountered in an

. . . impulses he is determined to withhold the knowledge he possesses, or if compelled to yield it, to communicate it in language which makes it as valueless as possible Where such a witness is the sole repository of ideas which are . . . course than to produce him, . . . he should avoid him altogether . . . Principles of Judicial Proof

§ 100

Paul Brown's Golden Rules—Examination-in chief "No better general rules" says Mr Wrottesley "for the examination of witness in chief, that we know of . . . Brown, who was one of the gr . . . tood the test of experience and ha . . . the United States, and nearly . . . rowed largely from them We fe . . . e concluded to give the rules in full" Wrottesley on examination of witnesses p 40 The following are David Paul Brown's Golden Rules for the examination-in chief of witnesses —

"1 If they are bold, and may injure your cause by pertness or forwardness, observe a gravity and ceremony of manner towards them which may be calculated to repress their assurance

"2 If they are alarmed or diffident, and their thoughts are evidently scattered, commence your examination with matters of familiar character, remotely connected with the subject of their alarm, or the matter in issue, as for instance,—Where do you live? Do you know the parties? How long have you known them? etc And when you have restored them to their composure, and the r . . . of the ca . . . u may agai . . .

"3 If the evidence of your witness be unfavourable to you (which should always be carefully guarded against), exhibit no want of composure; for there are many minds that form opinions of the nature or character of testimony chiefly from the effect which it may appear to produce upon the counsel

"4 If . . . the witness is imbued with preju dices . . . unless there be some . . . ich that witness alone . . . on as possible If the . . . it to . . . least . . . him . . . direc . . . you, a . . . mind . . . still be . . . own ca . . .

"5 Never call a witness whom your adversary will be compelled to call This will afford you the privilege of cross examination—take from your opponent the same privilege it thus gives you—and, in addition thereto, not only render everything unfavourable said by the witness doubly operative against deprive that party of the power of counter acting without an object, nor without being able to connect that object with the case, if objected to as irrelevant

7 Be careful not to put your question in such a shape that if opposed for informality, you cannot sustain it or at all events produce strong reason in its support Frequent failures in the discussion of points of evidence enfeeble your strength in the estimation of the jury, and greatly impair your hopes in the final result

'8 Never object to a question from your adversary without being able and disposed to enforce the objection Nothing is so monstrous as to be constantly making and withdrawing objections it either indicates a want of correct perception in making them, or a deficiency of real or of moral courage in not making them good

"9 Speak to your witness clearly and distinctly, as if you were awake and engaged in a matter of interest, and make him also speak distinctly and to your question How can it be supposed that the Court and the jury will be inclined to listen when the only struggle seems to be whether the counsel or the witness shall first go to sleep?

10 Modulate your voice as circumstances may direct— Inspire the fearful and repress the bold'

'11 Never begin before you are ready, and always finish when you have done In other words do not question for question's sake, but for an answer

[illegible] own way 'The advocate may either allow [illegible] is own way, or he may bring out his testimony [illegible] witness is intelligent and honest the best [illegible] stories but if he is stupid and inclined to speak of irrelevant matters, it is [illegible] it Wrottesley p 38 But strictly [illegible] ly must depend upon your discernm[illegible] recall facts by recalling all the associated circumstances, however irrelevant they must repeat the whole of a long dialogue and describe the most trivial occurrences of the time, in order to arrive at any particular part of the transaction With such you have no help for it but to let them have their own way [illegible] deavours to disturb the r[illegible] confusion in the ideas of [illegible] ng at your object But [illegible] s, happily more rare who [illegible] ve no order of events [illegible] on, your only chance of [illegible] questing that they will [illegible] e with their own mental [illegible] hion, with disconnected facts, which you will afterwards connect together in your reply, or which may dove-tail with the rest of the evidence, so as to form a complete story' Wrottesley p 62 citing Cox's Advocate

Continuous narration without question May not the witness narrate his knowledge in continuous speech and without the interruption of questions? It is obvious that this method, on the one hand has often the advantage of preserving continuity and clearness of thought for the witness himself and saving time for all parties concerned Wigmore § 767 'One of the important branches of advocacy' said Mr Harris 'is the examination of a witness in chief One fact should be remembered to start with, and it is this, the witness whom he has to examine has probably a plain straightforward story to tell, and that upon the telling it depends the belief or disbelief of the jury and their consequent verdict If it were to be told amid social circle of friends it would be narrated with more or less circumlocution and considerable exactness But all the facts would come out, and that is the first thing to insure if the case . . . often got on.

were . . . I have suggested, in private, all the company would understand it, and if the narrator were known as a man of truth, all would believe him It would require . . . the events would flow put audience, let the same
His first feeling is that he must not tell it in his own way. He is going to be examined upon it, he is to have it dragged out of him piecemeal, disjointedly, by a series of questions—in fact, he is to be interrupted at every point in a worse manner than if everyl . . . him about what he was going is not unlike a post mortem to the painful operation . Now the best thing the advocate can do under these circumstances is to remember, that the witness has something to tell, and that but for him, the advocate, would probably tell it very well, in his own way The fewer interruptions, ther . . . the less questions will be needed specially to see that the story be matter" Harris on Hints on Advocacy ; . . .

Objection to questions by other party The general principle governing the time of the objection is that it must be made as soon as the applicability of . . . 8; Kissen Kamini v Ram Chandra, W R 244 For evidence contained . . . ordinarily be made as soon as the question is stated, and before the an . . . due, not to subject of the question, but to some feature of the answer. Wigmore § 13, vide p. 73 supra If objection be not made in proper time it is generally considered as being waived But the rule of waiver is not applicable in case of inadmissible evidence Miller v Madho Das 23 I A, 106 (116)=19A 76, Sri Pal . . .
by
to r 21
to La
be
Cas
. . . 1923 All 405

Cross Examination When a witness has been examined in chief, the other party has a right to cross examine him The powers of cross examination has been justly said to be one of the principal, as it certainly is one of the most efficacious tests, which the law has devised for the discovery of truth By means of it the situation of the witness with respect to the parties, and to the subject of litigation, his interest, his motives, his inclination and prejudices, his means of ob . . . he . . . knowledge of the facts to which of . . . he has used those means, his powers tain . . . all fully investigated and ascertained . . . of the jury, before whom he has testified, and who have thus had an opportunity of observing his demeanour, and of determining the just weight and value of his testimony It is not easy for a witness who is subjected to this test, to impose on a Court or jury, for however artful the fabrication of falsehood may be it cannot embrace all the circumstances to which a cross examination may be extended Greenl Ev § 446; Starkie Ev Vol I, 160 On th . . . cross examination or examination ex adverso . . .
the lat
G
to speak the truth against l . . . what he wishes to keep back tion in greater detail He cause and afterwards from may be led into such a strait that what he will not say, he cannot deny For as in an oration we generally collect scattered proofs, which singly do not appear to press on the accused yet by being put together, prove the charge so a witness of this sort should be asked many things as to what went before—what came after—as to place, time, and persons, and other things so that he must fall upon some answer after which he must necessarily either confess what is desired, or contradict his former statements If this does not happen, it may become apparent that he will not speak, or he may be drawn out and detected in some falsehood foreign to the cause or by being led on to say more than the matter requires in favour of the accused, the Judge may be led to suspect him, which will damage his cause not less than if he had spoken the truth against the accused ... any given by a witness is consistent with ... ore frequent case) one witness contradi... ay produce by art that which usually happens accidentally Apart from ... use witnesses are usually asked many questions which may be useful as to the lives of other witnesses as to their own character and position any crimes they have committed their friendship or enmity to the parties—in the answers to which they may either make some useful admission, or be detected either in a falsehood or the desire of injuring the opposite party

It is certainly implied by s 138 of the Evidence Act that a party must have had an opportunity to cross examine and does not mean that merely a right to cross examine a witness without an opportunity being offered for cross examination is sufficient compliance with the requirements of the law Moti Singh v Dhanuk Dhari 73 Ind Cas 339 = 24 Cr L J 595 = (1923) P 53

Cross examination as a distinctive and vital feature of English Law For centuries past the policy of Anglo Saxon system of Evidence has been to ... feature of law ments is com on that no statentil it has been ... strengthening h are experience ... y its so often foun...
value It may be that in more than one sense it takes the place in our system which torture occupied in the mediaeval system of the civilians Nevertheless it
... ry of
... ign
... e i
... ou
... it
... ch

trial by ... has law to ... mp attended ... l as 405, 't ... hese observed what a ... are stages will at o... the statement of any ... the influence of a p... to fabrication of the ... en to ... an l
... nt of
... nt on
... tests which the law has devised for the ascertainment of truth, and is certainly ... most efficacious test" Starkie Evidence Vol I, pp 96, 129 In State v Campbell, 1 Rich L 126, Richardson J said· Experience has proved that it is, of all others, the most effective, the most satisfactory, and the most indispensible test of the evidence narrated on the witness' stand . I know of no disagreement, among the expounders of evidence, upon the importance of cross-examination."

Cross examination—Theory of The fundamental feature is that a witness, on his direct examination, discloses but a part of the necessary facts That which remains suppressed or undeveloped may be of two sorts, (a) the remaining and qualifying circumstances of the subject of testimony, as known to the witness, and (b) the facts which diminish and impeach the personal trustworthiness of the witness (a) The remaining and qualifying circumstances of the subject of testimony will probably remain suppressed or undisclosed, not merely because his testimony is commonly given only by way of answers to specific interrogatories, and the counsel producing him will usually ask for nothing but the facts favourable to his unveil all the facts known to this witness, l surmise) might present half truths only (and usual) remainder The best persor interested namely, the opponent Cross examination, then, i e further examination by the opponent, has for its first utility the extraction of the remaining and qual e witness, but hitherto undisclosed opponent s exam Some of them no doubt, could be as well or son any of them can be obtain which concern his person in hand To this extent, again, cross examination is vital, i e, it does what must be done and what nothing else can do Wigmore § 1368 So the objects of cross-examination are to impeach the accuracy, credibility, and general value of the evidence given in chief, to shift the facts already stated by the witness, to detect and expose discrepancies, or pressed facts which will support the case of the cross examining p also the situation of t of the litigation, his inte character his means of obtaining a correct and certain knowledge of the facts to which he bears testimony, the manner in which he has used those means, his powers investigated, and ascertain have an opportunity o e just value of his testimony Wigmore § 1428 to el if w show

Cross examination—opportunity of whether equivalent to actual cross examination The doctrine rec cross examination has always be actual cross examination but cros
to bec or s he h
that
"it is not necessary that the party on whose authority should ed, in order that he may upon so to do had the benefit of a cross

may be led into such a strait that what he will not say, he cannot deny For as in an oration, we generally collect scattered proofs, which singly do not appear to press on the accused yet by being put together, prove the charge so a witness of this sort should be asked many things as to what went before—what came after—as to place, time, and persons, and other things so that he must fall upon some answer after which he must necessarily either confess what is desired, or contradict his former statements If this does not happen, it may become apparent that he will not speak, or he may be drawn out and detected in some falsehood foreign to the cause or by being led on to say more than the matter requires in favour of the accused, the Judge may be led to suspect him, which will damage his cause not less than if he had spoken the truth against the accusec given by a witness is consistent with frequent c produce by

witnesses ... the lives of other witnesses as to their own character and position any crimes they have committed, their friendship or enmity to the parties—in the answers to which they may either make some useful admission, or be detected either in a falsehood or the desire of injuring the opposite party

It is certainly implied by s 138 of the Evidence Act that a party must have had an opportunity to cross examine and does not mean that merely a right to cross examine a witness without an opportunity being offered for cross examination is sufficient compliance with the requirements of the law Moti Singh v Dhanuk Dhari, 73 Ind Cas 339 = 24 Cr L J 595 = (1923) P 53

Cross examination as a distinctive and vital feature of English Law For centuries past the policy of Anglo Saxon system of Evidence has been to regard the necessity of testing by cross examination as a vital feature of law The belief that no safeguard for testing the value of human statements is comparable to that furnished by cross examination, and the conviction that no statement (unless by special exception) should be used as testimony until it has been probed and sublimated by that test, has found increasing strength in lengthening experience Not even the abuses the mishandlings and the puerilities which are so often found associated with cross examination have availed to nullify its

... system ... it ... ry of ... reign ... been ... You ... it ... ough ... ught ... plex and da h ... ut this abuse ... of this unique ... s merits If ... mination, not ... system of ... hoever has ... e, 4 Camp ... s and has trial by law to attended 405, "t

observed what a very different shape their story appears to take in each of these stages, will at once see how extremely dangerous it is to act on the ex parte statement of any witness and still more of a witness brought forward under the influence of a party interested' However artful' says Mr Starkie, the fabrication of the falsehood may be, it cannot embrace all the circumstances to which the cross examination may be extended, the fraud is therefore open to detection for want of consistency between that which has been fabricated and ... for want of ... invent on ... ipal tests ... ly a mo t

S. 1

former, which is to be regretted, as the point still appears to be left open' Powell Ev 220 ... separately represented may ... evidence which he has given ... 1 M H C R 456

When a witness has been examined in chief the other party has a right to cross-examine him R v Burdit, 6 Cox 458; Lord v Colvin 3 Drew 222, 225 But the question often arises, whether the witness has been so examined ... he witness is called merely ... be proved by another witness, ... v Gibson, 1 Ad & El 48, ... 1 Stark 132, Rush v Smith, 1 C M & R 94; Summers v Mosely, 2 C & M 477, Bracegirdle v Bailey, 1 F & F 536 In England, when a competent witness is called and sworn, the other party will ordinarily, in strictness, be entitled to cross examine him, though the party calling him does ... Brook 2 Stark 472; Phillips v. Eamer ... 67, R v Murphy, 1 A M & O 201, ... Ch D 642) Unless he was sworn by ... 16; Rush v. Smith, 1 C M & R 91, Wood v Mackinson, 2 M & R 273) or, unless an immaterial question having been put to him, his further cross examination has been stopped by the Judge (Creevy v Carr, 7 C & P 64) Greenl Ev § 445 And even where a plaintiff was under the necessity of calling the defendant in interest as a witness, for the sake of formal proof only ... ld that he was the ... xamined to the whol ... The right of cross ... is adverse to that o ... R 1932 Lab 105—135 Ind Cas 209

A witness summoned and examined by Court cannot, as of right, be cross examined either by the prosecutor or by the accused The Court as a general rule, should however, allow the parties to cross examine the witness if they desire to do so Chuvai v Queen, S C 275 Oudh Such a witness is a witness of the Co ... him with ... whether ... said in a ... the part ... counsel ... cross exa ... v Disbo ... Gurudas ... Girish, 5 C 614, Sharfara v Dhunno, 16 W R 257

It is the duty of the Magistrate to insist on the trials proceeding from day to day and rigidly to check prolix examination and cross examination of witnesses in exercise of the powers inherent in all Magistrates to prevent abuse of process F. W Sole v Crown, 11 S L R 27

Death of witness after examination in chief Where a witness dies after examination ... admissible but the ... stances o ... there is ... may even ... R 1925 A ... 127, R ... witness's ... examination but for the voluntary act of the witness himself or the party offering him—as by a postponement or other interruption brought about immedia ... must be ... where th ... the witn ... death or illness prevents cross examination under such circumstances that no responsibility of any sort can be attributed to either the witness or his party it seems harsh measure to strike out all that has been obtained on the direct examination Nevertheless, the principle requires in strictness nothing less The true solution would be to avoid any inflexible rule and to leave it to the trial Judge to admit the direct examination so far as the loss of cross examination can be shown to him not in that instance a material loss Wigmore § 1390) In R v Mitchell, 17 Cox Cr 503, a dying woman was examined in chief, and after her cross examination had continued for about 10 minutes, the Magistrate stopped on account of her condition She died a few minutes after Her evidence was held inadmissible But in Fuller v Rice, 4 Gray 343 Shaw C J said 'No general rule can be laid down in respect to unfinished testimony If substantially complete it ought not to be rejected '

Cross examination by Court In Nur Bux Kazi v Empress 6 C 279 Garth C J said We think it right to point out to the Sessions Judge, that the course which he adopted in the examination of the witnesses for the prosecution was irregular, opposed to the provisions of section 138 of the Evidence Act and not fair to the prisoners We find that on the examination in chief being finished, the Judge questioned almost all the witnesses at considerable length upon the very points to which he must have known that the cross on either side have omitted to put some material question or questions, and the Court should, as a general rule leave the witnesses to the pleaders to be dealt with as laid down in section 138 of the Act The Judges' power to put questions under s 165 is certainly not intended to be used in the manner which we have had occasion to notice in the present case " Generally it is not the province of the Court to examine witnesses and as a rule the Court should leave the witnesses to the pleaders to be dealt with as provided for in section 138 Janaki v Sheo Narain, 82 Ind Cas 154

' Although we do not regard it always safe fere with the discretion of counsel while cross privilege is abused it seems but right that le control over cross examination assuming n R Mining Co v Buxton Mining Co, 97 iat examination of witnesses must not be pro logically relevant pinion of the trying rawn without going y protract the case
" 4 C W N cxxi

So where the examination of a witness is needlessly protracted it is within the discretion of the Court to arrest it Burr Jones § 814, Banke v Kanhaiya A I R 1922 Oudh 124 This discretion the Court can use even where a witness dard L J Co 30 C But a Court should s 412=22 Cr L J of statements by a witness or the repetition of interrogatives, until full answers are obtained Burr Jones § 814

Cross examination, whether should be confined to relevant facts In England great latitu as examiner will not be stopped by evant and calculated neithe-
h the credit of the witness
may be relevant and of ition
In cross examination rever
irrelevant to the matter in issue, the answer to which may tend to affect his credit, but he will not always be obliged to answer the question and if he does answer it he cannot as a rule be contradicted He may be asked questions which affect his veracity, such as, whether he has been convicted of a crime, whether he is a relation, or intimate friend, or under any special obligation, to the party who calls him, whether he is not identified or connected with him in interest ... the adverse party; wh ... ular transaction;

an ...
Th ... Powell Ev 533
... up the whole of the cross examiner's case Berwick v Murray, 19 L J Ch 281, 286, Morgan v. Brydges, 2 Stark, R 314; R. v. Murphy, 1 Arm M & O 206 So also under section 138 of the Evidence Act an accused has the right to cross examine prosecution witnesses at the conclusion of their examination in chief and such cross examinations may be on all points and by means of all questions not disallowed by the Evidence Act. Cross examination need not be confined to matters raised elsewhere in the evidence Mihomed Ali v Emperor, 12 Cr L J 277=10 Ind Cas 917, R v Ishan, 6 B L R App 88=15 W. R Cr 341; Mayor v Murray 19 L J Ch 281, Subramanyam v. Government of Mysore, 6 6 Mys L J. 551 (F B)

But ... questions will be disallowed, if ... of the examination in chief, nor ... oss-examiner may not as a rule ask questions of the witness as to his transactions with a third person Powell Ev 533 see al ...
B N. S 388 separately trie ... subject matter ...
23 T L R 460

Cro ... action, witness issue is on the Manufac ...
M L J knowled ...
(4) his ...
deems obligatory, or by such affirmation or declaration as may by law be substituted for an oath Proportioned to these is the degree of credit his testimony deserves from the Court and jury Archb Cr P (27th ed) 483, Best §§ 22 6, 189 195, Phip Ev 461 It is unprofessional on the part of counsel to cross-examine a witness as to facts within his personal knowledge Donald Watson v Peary Mohan, 40 C 898=18 C W N 18 Where counsel acting under instruct ... substancounsel opinion
litigation and the parties to the suit, the imputation complained of ought to have been withdrawn In re Messrs Crompton & Co v Secretary of State, 26 M L J 549

Knowledge, ... matters affecting the weight of ... opportunities of ... power of memory and perception, and any special circumstances affecting his con ... which may be inquired into ... cross examination to impeach,

Although a witness is perfectly disinterested, although he is a man of integr ... moral obligation of the oath he his fro po acc a t ... other circumstances, which, ... torily answered and accounted for by the other party, so as to convince the witness himself that he laboured under a mistake (See Munsterberg, Psychology and

S. Crime) Where there is a doubt, therefore, whether the evidence given by a witness is not founded on some misconception, it is the duty of the counsel who cross-examines him to question him as to the sources of his knowledge, his reasons for believing the fact to be as he has stated, his reason for recollecting it the circumstances attending its occurrence, whether it was light or dark, and whether he was near or distant at the time, it occurred, and the like, so that the tribunal may be able to judge of the degree of confidence it should place in the witness's testimony If a witness refuses to answer such questions, or does not answer them his credit in questions m omissions,
testimony.

Disinterestedness A witness to be perfectly credible, must not be in the slightest degree biassed or partial to one party or the other Therefore, if it appears that the witness is prejudiced against the party against whom he appears or has before expressed sentiments indicative of such prejudice, or it appears him for the same or a similar offence acts charged in the indictment against ances which detract proportionately from stated that for the by the Court to the different situation is presented Asking a witness at this stage, to repeat the evidence given on direct examination may well serve to test the truth of the original statements, and be, therefore, entirely within the legitimate rights of the party Ability to repeat a story not only involves memory and accuracy; it throws valuable light on the questions as to whether a narrative concerns actual facts, in which case the reality of the events or circumstances narrated will enable the witness to repeat them as often as asked, with substantial accuracy, or, the story is a fabricated one, in which event, attempts at repetition may well break down, unless the story is a short one, or learned with remarkable thoroughness and retentiveness of memory Chamberlayne's Ev § 552 Where perjury is claimed, by reputable counsel, directly or by implication from conduct, the Court in exercise of its administrative function for the furtherance of justice, may permit repitition on cross examination, not alone of the same questions asked on direct examination but of questions asked on cross-examination, to which the examiner cannot get an answer or only one with which he is not satisfied as being in accordance with the facts He will, if permitted, ask the same question until he gets either an answer, or one which he thinks is true With many perhaps most, witnesses the test is one of the most effective that can be employed Where the mind of the witness is interposing a barrier of falsehood or equivocation between the examiner and the true state of his own mind the effect of repeating the question, psychologically, is not unlike that of an ancient battering ram Each blow, delivered at the same point adds its quota of disintegrating force until the barrier is broken down The auto-suggestion of the witness that he remains steadfast to the pre-arranged story is steadily undermined by the counter suggestion of the insistent questions, until it master hand, the canon ect perjury no such gain is promised, a trial judge may exclude questions on cross examination which are chiefly argumentative or combative in their nature Chamberlayne's Ev § 553.

Judge may restrict number of counsel in the examination of a witness The Court may expedite trials by declining to permit more than one counsel to intervene in the examination of any given witness He may properly require that a counsel who has started the examination or cross examination of a witness sel on the same side,
, 1 M & Rob 400,
g elaboration, conflict one of administration and circumstances may arise which will justify or require a trial judge to permit more than one counsel to interrogate a witness The practice and certain obvious considerations affecting it are thus stated by Lord Ellenborough in Doe v Roe, 2 Camp 280 "Convenience certainly requires that the examination of a witness should be carri clearly cannot another, in th right, in his di hands Very If a gentleman embarrassed in the power of the oppos relief And other that the gentleman questions to a wit applied where several defendants rely on separate defences tried in the same action" "The witnesses are to be examined by the counsel successively, in the same d not separate" (Chippendale

v
Should the examining counsel fa from the customary practice or right of the Court to permit undoubted When such a deviation the interests of expediting business, intervene or prescribe general conditions to avoid useless repetition, or other waste of Court's time Chamberlayne's Ev § 555, Wigmore § 783

What facts are not relevant in cross examination In cross examination too the facts inquired into must be relevant A witness may not be cross-examined as to que lay is c dif
cor
ins ex
po Spenceley v De Willott, 7 East 108 There the Court was all decidedly
of
the affi
by co su da
de Nc
cr
ch qu 12

facts that will actually be extracted will be favourable or unfavourable to the cross examiner's purposes It is here that the art (that is, the technical skill) of cross examination enters On this hangs all the lesser rules of the art Hence it is that it must call to its aid so many other elements than mere knowledge of law Experience of human nature judgment of chances knowledge of the case, tact of manner,—all these things, and more, have to do with the art Yet the theory of the process underlies and influences at every point To cross examine or not to cross examine,—that is the fundamental question, which springs from the essential nature of the process and arises anew for every part of every witness's testimony The greatest cross examiners have always stated this as the ultimate problem Wigmore § 1368

David Paul Brown's Golden Rules for cross examination '1 Except in indifferent matters, never take your eye from that of the witness This is a channel of communication from mind to mind, the loss of which nothing can compensate —

'Truth, falsehood, hatred, anger, scorn, despair,

And all the passions,—all the soul is there

"2 Be not regardless either of the voice of the witness Next to the eye this is perhaps the best interpreter, of his mind The very design to screen conscience from crime—the mental reservation of the witness—is often manifested in the tone or accent or emphasis of the voice For instance it becoming important to know that the witness was at the corner of Sixth and Chestnut Streets at a certain time the question is asked were you at the corner of Sixth and Chestnut Streets at six o clock ? A frank witness would answer, perhaps I was near there But a witness who had been there, desirous to conceal the fact, and to defeat your object, speaking to the letter rather than the spirit of the enquiry, answers, "No' although he may have been within a stone's throw of the place or at the very place, within ten minutes of the time The common answer of such a witness would be, I was not at the corner, at six o clock Emphasis upon both words plainly implies a mental evasion or equivocation and gives rise with a skilful examiner to the question At what hour were you at the corner, or at what place were you at six o clock ? And in nine instances out of ten it will appear that the witness was at the place, about the time, or at the time about the place There is no scope for futher illustrations, but be watchful I say, of the voice, and the principle may be easily applied

'3 " afty, confiding with the honest; rough to the ruffian and a thuder e unmindful of your own dignity Bring to bear all the powers of your mind not that you may shine but that virtue may triumph and your cause may prosper

4 In a criminal especially in a capital case so long as your cause stands well ask but a few questions, and be certain never to ask any the answer to which, if against you may destroy your client, unless you know the witness perfectly well, and know that his answer will be favourable equally well, or unless you be prepared with testimony to destroy him if he play traitor to the truth and your expectations

"5 An equivocal question is almost as much to be avoided and condemned as an equivocal answer, and it always leads to or excuses an equivocal answer Singleness of purpose clearly expressed is the best trait in the examination of witnesses, whether they be honest or the reverse Falsehood is not detected by cunning but by the light of the truth, or if by cunning it is the cunning of the witness and not of the counsel

6 If the witness determine to be witty or refractory with you you had with the that le t you do assured pon the ees may

"8 Never undervalue your adversary, but stand steadily upon your guard, a random blow may be just as fatal as though it were directed by the ... me often cures, and sometimes

... jury, kind to your colleague, civil to your antagonist, but never sacrifice the slightest principle of duty to an overweening deference towards either."

Cross examination of the perjured witness "It seldom happens that a witness's entire testimony is false from beginning to end Perhaps the greater part of it is true, and only the crucial part—the point, however, on which the whole case may turn—is wilfully false If at the end of this direct testimony, we conclude that the witness we have to cross examine, comes under this class, what means are we to employ to expose him to the jury? Let us first be certain we are right in our estimate of him—that he intends perjury Embarrassment is one of the emblems of perjury, but by no means always so The novelty and difficulty of the situation—being called upon to testify before a room full of people, with lawyers on all sides ready to ridicule or abuse—often occasions

...

his own accustomed language

"If, however, the manner of the witness and the wording of his testimony bear all the earmarks of fabrication, it is often useful, as your first question, to ask him to repeat his story Usually he will repeat it in almost identically the same w... possible, th... Try him b... quickly to t... rather than ... has no facts ... it to mind as a whole, and not ... facts entirely dissociated with th... entirely unprepared for these new ... for answers Distract his thoughts and then suddenly, when his m... considerations to which you had ... same question a second time E... and very likely will give a differen... in the net He cannot invent answers as fast as you can invent questions, and at the same ... he will not keep his ans... ne confused and from th... you have made it appe... the Art of Cross examination pp 50-53

But ... Nothing ... whose in... methods ... manner to be displayed towards such a witness It all depends upon the individual character you have to unmask In a large majority of cases the chance of success will be greatly increased by not allowing the witness to see that you suspect him, before you can lead him to commit himself as to various matters with which yo Wellman, the Art of Cros "You must sometimes tr or repugnancy to know feigned. The following this sort of cross-examination: 'Open gently, mildly, do not appear to doubt him (the witness) are not afraid and collateral from the main between the tale he had told and the questions you are about to put to him Then by slow approaches bring him back to the main circumstances by the investigation of which it is that you propose to show the falsity of the story.

"If however you adopt the other course (i. e.) to show that you suspect him at the first, and instead of surprising the witness into the betrayal of his falsehood you resolve to bring out of him the truth by a bold and open attack—to awe him, as it were, into honesty,—aspect and voice must express your consciousness of his perjury an ... determined fixing of your eye up ... will certainly help you to assure ... njust. It may be stated as a general rule, that a ... boldly and fully in the face with a steady ... is cast down or wanders restlessly ... is speaking the truth or what he beli ... however timidly, will look at you when he answers your questions, and will

... at first, you
... patience.
... particulars ... upon which h ... refore he mus ... will be
... test points
... have been
... t instantly
... he matter
... ur purpose

upon which you surprised him into invention on the moment. It is more probable that after such a diversion of his thoughts he will have forgotten what his answers were, what were the fictions with which he had filled up the ... him for
... and so
... one so

... ut not
... ideas,
... your
... ien to cross examination at the middle of his narrative, then jump to one end, previous question S. 1 e he speaks from perplexed and will acts by association,

"When you are satisfied that the witness is drawing upon his invention, there is no more certain process of detection than a rapid fire of questions Give him no pause between them, no breathing pause, no time to rally Few minds are sufficiently self possessed to maintain a consistent story under such a catechising If there be a pause or a hesitation in the answer, you thereby lay bear a the ans
and he
him to time and place, and names 'You heard him say so?' 'Where?' 'Who were present?' 'Name them' 'Name one of them' Such a string of questions following one upon the other as fast as the answer is given, will frequently confound the most audacious Fit names and times and places are not readily invented or if invented not readily remembered" Reed's Conduct of law suits, 307-308 Truthful witness "The truthful witness has been said to be the most difficult of all to cross examine I cannot help differing so much from that opinion as to ... When I say truthful ... true If it were so, it ... truth-ful witness is ... is the eas ... ning, Flippant witness When a witness comes into the box with what is ... with a determined pose of the head, as ... counselor I am your man, tackle me," ... masterful being to deal with He has come determined to answer concisely and sharply, means to say "no" and "yes", and no more, always to be accompanied with a lateral nod, as much as to say, "take that" ... the masculine pronoun, this witness is ver... her self off before her friends, she to... feels quite equal to "any counselor as ev... should carefully abstai... witness down" His ... encourage that fine frenzied exuberance, which, bye and bye will most surely damage the case she has come to serve Harris Hints on Advocacy pp 65, 107, Wigmore Principles of Judicial Proof § 160

The Dogged witness The Dogged witness is the exact opposite of the one I have just been dealing with He will shake his head rather than say no As much to say "You don't catch me You see him, gentlemen and you see me I am up to him" He seems always to have fear of perjury before his eyes, and to know that if he keeps to a nod or shake of the head, he is safe He is under the impression that damage the case he must, whatever he says

He will answer ... appeal to his memory, or if your question magnifies his indep... dazzling luster that 'uprightness and ... virtue he believes himself to have ever ... not the actual dis-coverer Ibid

The Hesitatin... cautious and truthful witness, ... you begin to cross-examine ... what effect the answer will have upon the case and not what the proper answer is By no

3. means hurry this individual Let him consider well the weight of his intended answer, and the scale into which it should go, and in all probability he will put it into the wrong one after all If he should, leave it there by all means Hesitation, however, may result from a desire to be scrupulously accurate in which case you must be careful that the mere strictness of language does not convey a false impression The latter sometimes, even in advocacy, kills where the spirit would make alive Ibid

The Nervous witness A nervous witness is one of the most difficult to deal with The answers either do not come at all or they tumble out two or three at a time, and then they often come with opposites in close companionship, a 'Yes" and a 'No' together, while "I don't know" comes close behind 'I believe so' or 'I don't think so' is a frequent answer with this witness as it is with the lying and the truthful witness They are all partial to this expression, but all from different and opposite motives

You must deal gently with this curious specimen of human nature He is to be encouraged It is no use to bray him in a mortar You should deal as gently with a weakness of this kind as you would with a shying horse Great allowance is always made for a nervous witness, who invariably receives the sympathy of the jury You have to guard, therefore, against offending that sympathy, as you undoubtedly would by a severe tone or manner Ibid

must be dealt with cunningly rd question out of character at only, straightforwardness may not be out of place with the jury Whatever of honesty, whether of apperance, manner tone, or language contrasts with the vulgar, self asserting and mendacious acting of this witness will tend to destroy him It will be the antidote to his craftiness It is strange, but, true, that no man can be what is usually understood as a "cunning person and conceal the fact He is not really a shrewd man but only thinks he is tries to be, and above all wishes to be thought so He always pretends that he has some deep and hidden meaning in what he says and does, which no amount of skill or perception on your part can penetrate He would be an impostor to the world if he could but the only person he really imposes upon is himself Every one can see that he tries to appear what he is not and that he pretends to know a great deal more than he does. This is the man to show to the jury in his real character and they will enjoy your good humoured exposure of the cheat Ibid

The canting Hypocrite The canting hypocrite is not the least pleasing object of creation when in the witness box, nor is he the most difficult to cross examine He invariably speaks from the very best and purest of motives His desire is only to speak the truth, no not merely that but without so much as an apparent tinge of partiality He has no interest in the case—no feeling It is such a pity it could not have been settled out of Court as he proposed himself to be arbitrator

[illegible] and a sense of ist an s and you aches he is he is e be a gap somewhere hard by or a somewhat lower fence that he may scramble over and so not do violence to himself in the event of a mishap . His evidence which may and will be always on the confines of truth, must be closely He is too excellent quantities at a time with it the shadow ly cost Ibid

The Positive witness There is another class of witness which may be mentioned, and that is the positive witness (generally a female or of female tendencies) It is usually very difficult to make the witness unsay anything she has said, however mistaken she may be, but you may sometimes lead her by

S. 13

... n ... may ... leal ... or ... say ... has said Her ... ndacity, but ... uineness like ... sworn that ... She always ... to convince her that she must be wrong Such questions as 'How can that be?' will only draw the answer, 'I dont know how it can be, but I know it is' Ibid

Spy as a witne ... from previous information or suspicion, ... otting of some offence, whether aga ... of the medit ... remains to le ... fixed design ... in puni hing ... morally, and his evidence against them, the mere character of spy ought not to prejudice, or stain the credit of the witness To this man no guilt of the plotted offence attaches. Another description of spy may be a man, who has undesignedly been present at ... example of others been tempted to join it, or a ... t, and either of th ... n further than h ... n repentence or o ... w opp ... Anc ... lear ... with ... and ... con ... con ... stor ... exa ...

... ral, and often the inevitable, ... the witness by a skilful adverse ... favourable to the witness in as ... character he bears of a spy; ... argue a want of self respect ... imputation of dishonour ... ts, 171-179

3. " and in all probability go out and meet you n he answered the question you have just put 14; Willman's Day in Court 182; Iyer's Cross
He knows what you will ask him if you are no Quarter Sessions cross-examiners But try him with something just a little out of the common line, by way of experiment You see he looks at annot quite see what you are s eyes if you desire to make a ns, the chances are against your getting the answers you want, or in the form in which you would like them He thinks it get an answer you don't want, it will p young and inexperienced as you are Aiyar's Advocacy Series Vol II p 2 not permit him to trace the connection between one question and another when you desire that he should not do so If you ask him whether it was very dark night, and the darkness has nothing whatever to do with the issue, he will commence a process of reasoning as to your motive, and what might possibly be the effect of his answer While I may have the best, but police men have such a high standard that no man in the dock can ever come up to it Further more, it is dangerous to put "fishing" questions to this class of witness You are almost sure to catch the wrong Expert witness "Attention is also called to the distinction between mere matters of scientific fact and mere matters of opinion For example certain medical experts may be are not mere matters of opinion C but in the province of mere opi much among themselves that but lit as such As a general thing, it is unwise for the cross examiner to attempt cope with a specialist in his own field of inquiry Lengthening cross-examinations along the lines of the expert's theory are usually disastrous and should rarely be attempted Many lawyers, for example, undertake to cope with a medical or hand-writing expert on his own ground,—surgery, correct diagonisis, or the intricacies of penmanship In some rare instances; (more especially with newly educated physicians) this method of cross-questioning is productive of result More frequently, however, it affords an opportunity for the doctor to enlarge upon the testimony he has already given, and to explain what might otherwise Experience d on his a study stify the experiment, and then only when the lawyer's research of the medical authorities, which he should have with him in Court, convinces him that he can expose the doctor's erroneous conclusions, not only to himself, but to a jury who will which even the reful and unts from theory of esult In out such scientific facts from the knowledge of the expert as will help his case, and thus tend to d... ...ert given against him ... mind is that no question ... as to give the expert an oppor... and thus afford him an oppor- ...way, for his opinions, which ...otherwise have fully brought ...his examination. Wellman's The Art of Cross examination, pp. 74-75

"A successful method of ... and gradually ... defended If th... now and then ... witness is to be taken over is a very different one from that which the examiner has resolved he shall travel The examiner must not, however, for an instant, lose his temper, nor suffer his attention to be drawn from the time he means to take When the ... ex... de... ex... so... m... to... sw... en... 264 265

Woman witness "Women, I have usually found are much better witness of what they have seen than men Men reflect on and draw inferences from what they have seen, and are apt to mix in their evidence what they surmise must have happened with what they actually saw happening. women usually tell what they saw Their evidence, however, is reliable only so long as their passions are ... ...usband or children, or hatred ... word they utter can be trusted ... Bar p 69 "Now and then ... grossest perjury, but when she is called as a witness she far surpasses man in the perspicuity of her narrative and in the honesty of her replies No counsel who has any pretence to tact ever tries to get the better of a plain country woman giving evidence at the assizes T... you treat her with pr... but even these artifi... ...de up her mind in th... Aiyar's Cross exam...

Re examination When the cross examination of the witness is concluded, the party who called him has the right to re-examine him on all matters arising out of the cross examination for the purpose of reconciling any discrepancies that may exist between the evidence on the examination in chief and that which has been given in cross examination; or for the purpose of removing or diminishing any suspicion that the cross examination may have cast on the evidence in-chief, or to enable the witness to state the whole truth as to matters which have only been partially dealt with in cross examination If there has been no cross-ex... And it is, as a rule, unnecessary, ... already put in chief Only such ... with and arise out of the cross-ex... ever, may in his discretion ... D 50... Queen... that c... be pro... ...sions used by the witness on cross examination, if they be in themselves doubtful, as also of the motive by which the witness was induced to use those expressions, but I think he has no right to go further, and to introduce matter

S. new in itself, and not wanted for the purpose of explaining either the expressions or the motives of the witness '

"So far as the evidence of the opponent is to be explained away,' says Prof Greenleaf "contradicted, or otherwise reputed, by any process which consists merely in diminishing or negating its force, the original party has the right to do this, either by a re examination following immediately upon the cross-examination of his witness, or by new witnesses called in rebuttal after the opponent's own evidence has been put in But anything beyond this cannot belong to him as of strict right the reason being that, all questions that we asked are to be asked at the proper time,' otherwise, the trial will be in perpetual confusion (per L C Hardwicke in Lord Lovat's Trial 18 How St Tr 658), and the proper time for all matters not rendered material by the course of the opponent's cross examinations of his own witnesses' testimony is the original party s direct examination of his witnesses Nevertheless 'to obviate the effects of inadvertence,' it will often be fair to allow a party to do at a later stage what he might and should have done at an earlier one The pro[illegible] circumstan[illegible]

[illegible] y explanatory of and rendered necessary by the opponent's and evidence which might have been introduced at an earlier stage is often difficult to draw, but the principle is apparent A variety of situations for the exercise of the discretion of the trial Court may present themselves (1) In the re examination, of a witness immediately after his cross examination, or in the stage of rebuttal after the opponent's own evidence has all been put in it may be desired to add testimony of new facts i e matter which was omitted in the direct examination as a whole or in that of the particular witness but might have been there put in This may be done in the tr[illegible] or [illegible] he re examination of a particular witness det[illegible] be desired to repeat or emphasize or dor[illegible] testified to in chief This also may be shc[illegible] a re examination to make corrections and dismissed, it may become desirable to recall him to the stand for further [illegible] After a witness has been cross examined [illegible] refused in the trial Court's discretion [illegible] red to re examine the witness a second [illegible] examination or after the witness has left the stand, this may be granted or refused in discretion (5) After the evidence has been put in by each party and the case declared closed, and even after argument or charge begun it may become important to supply om ss ons, and here also th[illegible] R[illegible]) In afte[illegible] idence who[illegible] itness exar[illegible] re[illegible] ts of the conversation not connected with the portion to which the cross examination referred Prince v Samo 7 A & E 627 If such questions are asked and answered, the witness may be again cross examined but such further cross examination will be confined to the matter so improperly introduced Powell Ev 540

Where [illegible] names [illegible]

the [illegible] in [illegible] may of course relate not only to statements made in cross-examination as to the relevant facts but also as to those affecting the witness s credit as for instance to show what provocation he had received for making use of a vindictive expression which he has admitted having uttered R v St George 9 C & P 183 (489) In re exam[illegible] on no question as to the witness's evidence in chief is not directly or indirectly challenged in cross examination, there is of course no occasion nor any right to re examine thereon Wills Ev 2nd Ed 328

S.
S.

139. A person summoned to produce a document does not become a witness by the mere fact that he produces it and cannot be cross-examined unless and until he is called as a witness

Cross examination of person called to produce a document

Scope of the section Where a witness is summoned by subpoena duces tecum merely to produce documents, he need not be sworn Perry v Gibson, 1 A & E 48; Summer v Moseley 2 C & M 477 But if he has to speak to the proper or safe custody of the document the course of business in his office with respect to documents, filing, noting, docketting, and the like or to do more than merely produce, he must be sworn Nort Ev 323 When a witness is not swor[illegible] son 1 A & E 48, Summer [illegible] x 355 But if he is called [illegible] is entitled to cross examine [illegible] This is so although he is not examined but is merely called to produce a document But a party is not entitled to cross examine a witness called by mistake, if the mistake be discovered before any question is put to him Wood v Mackinson, 2 M & R 273 In the above case Coleridge J said "Upon the whole it appears to me that the more satisfactory principle to lay down is this, that if there really be a mistake, whether on the part of counsel or officer, and that mistake be discovered before the examination in chief has begun the adverse party ought not to have the right to take advantage of his mistake by cross examining the witness Here the learned counsel explains that there has been a m[illegible]

[illegible] ness had [illegible] called to prove, b[illegible] ction, knew other[illegible] ted to withdraw h[illegible] here no right to [illegible]

140. Witnesses to character may be cross-examined and re-examined.

Witnesses to character

Scope Where witnesses are called simply to speak to the character of a prisoner, it is not usual to cross examine them expect under special circumstances R v Hodgkiss, 7 C & P 298, but no rule of law expressly forbids this Taylor § 1429, see also R. v Wood 5 Jur 225 But where a witness for the prisoner having proved that he had known him for some years, and given him a good [illegible] anythin[illegible] taken [illegible] 'Did y[illegible] objecte[illegible] prisone[illegible] of that [illegible] The m[illegible] his be[illegible] Wood, 5 Jurist 225

141. Any question suggesting the answer which the person putting it wishes or expects to receive is called a leading question.

Leading questions

Leading questions—meaning of A leading question is one which suggests to the witness the answer which it is desired he should give If the questions

2. are asked to which the answer "Yes" or "No" would be ...

... the desired answer; i e, one which is put in such a way as to suggest to the witness the answer which is expected or wanted There is no particular form which will make a question leading, or will save it from being such The fact that a question is put so as to require a categorical answer does not necessarily make it leading, though it may do so, nor does the fact that a ... so as to avoid a categorical ... Willis v Quimby, 31 N H 485 ... one, when it indicates to the ... miner expects and desires to have confirmed by the answer. Is not your name so and so? Do you reside in such a place? Are you not in the service of such and ... th him? It is ... conveyed to the ... desired answers ... pretends igno- ... receiving it." ... of Judicial Evidence It is very clear that a question is leading which suggests to the witness ... is to make, or which puts into his mou... Turney v. State, 16 Miss 104 But ... sting an answer or a ... Mis 620 It has often ... ding, which embodies a ... or negative Greenl ... "no" ... the an... leadin... "yes" ... orm 'whether or not" that is in the ... but it may be so, when proposed in that ... witness the answer desired And t... hich assumes a fact to be proved which is not proved. More properly, such questions may be called misleading, and are objectionable both as likely to mislead a fair witness Burr Jones § 816.

142. Leading questions must not, if objected to by the adverse party, be asked in an examination-in-chief, or in a re-examination, except with the permission of the Court.

When they must not be asked

The Court shall permit leading questions as to matters which are introductory or undisputed, or which have, in its opinion, been already sufficiently proved Principle "The assigned reason ... usually has a strong feelin... is disposed to swear anythin... leading question in effect ... to give and ... unworthy ... perjury; b... witnesses, ... assent to th... of the counsel and answer as he may suggest, instead of reflecting and answering after an exertion of their own memory." Joseph Chitty's Practice of Law, Vol III, 892. But Chief Justice Appleton in his Evidence said: "The end proposed in extracting testimony is the obtaining the actual recollection of the witness, not the allegations of another person suggested to and adopted by the witness ... The real danger is that of ... interrogating and the ...

the expectation on his part and with an understanding on the part of the witness that he will assent to the truth of the false facts thus suggested ' Appelton Ev 227

S. 1

Scope of the section The witness must not be examined in chief by means of l

... party an opportunity for unfairly shaping the testimony if he were allowed to frame his questions to the witness in such form as to suggest what answer he desires to receive Wills Ev 2nd Ed p 315 Such evidence would obviously b ... of the party ... Phip ... v 166 Courts ... iple of of all ... Courts exclud ... terms ... Regulation Law under Reg IV of 1797, s 6, Madras Reg VII of 1827, s 36) The oldest of the Regulation Presidency of Bengal) and which may be taken in principle as a sample of the others, provides —'In the examination of witnesses leading questions suggesting an answer, or having a tendency to such suggestion, are to be carefully avoided, and the interrogatories to them are to be proposed in such general terms as may bring forth all the information they possess and lead to a discovery of the truth" Up to the point of dispute, however,—that is while the examination is introductory only to what is material,—the witness may be led Were it otherwise a very unnecessary consumption might be had of the time of the Court, and a great infliction practised on its patience Goodeve Ev p 215

'It is often a convenient way of examining' says Mr Alison to ask a witness whether such a thing was said or done, because the thing mentioned aids his recollection and brings him to that stage of the proceeding to which it is desired he should dilate But this is not always fair, and when any subject is approached, on which his evidence is expected to be really important, the proper course is to ask him what was done or what was said, or tell his own story In this way also, if the witness is at all intelligent a more consistent and intelligible statement will generally be got there by putting separate questions' Alison s Practice, 546

But the determination of what is, and what is not leading is in itself frequently one of difficulty, whenever the test has to be applied to any particular question And the particular difficulty on the one hand is to secure that all the essential portion of the narrative be given in its entirety and on the other to prevent a needless prolixity of statement It is not a very easy thing says Mr Starkie, to lay down any precise general rule as to leading questions On the one hand, it is clear that the mind of the witness must be brought into contact with the subject of enquiry, and on the other hand that he ought not to be prompted to give a particular answer ... leading any question to which the answer 'yes' or 'no' would be conclusive ... to particularize in framing the question ... each individual case Starkie on Evidence p 161

The "Yes or No" test suggested by Mr Starkie is not however it is submitted a very accurate and at all events must not be taken as an universal one There are many instances in which it would be the natural response, without the question which evoked it being leading Thus, suppose it was required ... might be ... natural ... requisite ... present? ... the quest ... words, t ... other hand all such question as— Did one say so and so ... or Did he do so and so, —while obviously capable of being answered by the curt—"Yes or No,"—would by suggesting what it was required of the witness to state, naturally provoke the reply. An illustration may be supplied from the daily practice of all Courts, where the question is one of personal identification If there be no ground of suspicion, the individual is pointed out to the witness, as he is asked directly,—"Is that the party ?" and the answer is the simple—'Yes or No" Let the witness, however, be suspected, the question would not be allowed to be put in that form, and the witness would be told to look round the Court, and point out the individual in question The invitation to the answer—"Yes or No"—would, in truth be leading or not, according to the circumstances Goodeve Ev 217

One great test as to whether a question were to be regarded as leading would be its tendency to elicit an answer conveying rather in itself the result of facts, than a statement of the facts themselves, from which the Court was to draw the result Thus, if it were a question of some given arrangement come to at a ... he result whic ... and such was ... e, leaving ... is necessary, ... d one, where ... le the mind ... iquiry, when ... hecks upon ... ight require particular conversation, ... offers, statements, or other matters sworn to have been made in the course of a conversation In such cases, therefore, this form of enquiry is absolutely necessary for obtaining complete information on the subject. So where a witness is called to prove affirmatively what a witness on the other side has denied, as for instance, to prove that on some former occasion, that witness gave a ... may frequently arise in proving ... e such other statement, without a ... ugh, C J said · "I have always ... the meaning of a leading question ... was an advocate who produces a ...

... Ev p 161, Goodeve Ev 218

Mere suggestions in the way of stimulants to the memory accordingly would not fall within the category of leading questions, and may be made wherever the incapacity to answer sufficiently appears to arise either from a want of recollection, or absence of some connecting link with the subject of examination Thus the names of persons, or places, or dates, may be suggested, and sometimes particular transactions, or connecting circumstances Though a touch stone only to memory, they might awaken the whole association in the mind, ... all the entire tune In a ... firm, the names might ... e them on repetition, but could not rehearse them from memory So he might be asked as to his knowledge or recollection of a particular date or circumstance, and he might be led from them to more detailed allusions as to occurrences in connection with them ... have made a given statement which another ... to the latter, ...

Leading questions such as can properly be put in cross examination of a hostile witness cannot be put by the Public Prosecutor in examination-in chief Dhannu Beldar v Emperor, 2 Pat L T 757. The refusal to allow a question to be put in cross-examination merely because it was in form a leading question would be improper If it is so disallowed the counsel should ask both the question and the order to be recorded Deya v. King Emperor, 9 L B R 88= 9 Bur L T. 133=17 Cr L J. 500=36 Ind Cas 468

S. 1

If objected to, etc If the objection is not taken at the time, the answer will be taken down in the Judge's notes. Sometimes the Judge himself will interfere to prevent a leading question or series of leading questions being put; but it is the duty of the opposing counsel to take the objection, and it is only

At the same time, it is of leading questions much weakened, for it scarcely escapes the notice of the Judge It is advisable, therefore, for a counsel, examining in chief or on re-examination, not to put leading questions except of course as to those points on which they are expressly permitted by the Act Nort Ev 325

The Court shall p examination from being open to review, (Lauder v D 681, Exp Bottomly it necessary in the interes cases (Phipson Ev 453):—

(1) Introductory matters,—Leading questions may always be asked on merely introductory matters, such as name or occupation of a witness Cockle's Cas 266 So also leading questions are proper where they are merely introductory and designed to lead the witness more quickly to matters which are material to the issue For example, in cases of conversations, admissions or agreements, the attention of the witness may be drawn to the subject, occasion, time place ther such person said anything on and if so, what he said Questi s and experience of a witness are largely within the discretion of the Court, and, unless it manifestly appear that such questions are put for an improper purpose, such discretion is not receivable as error Burr Jones § 817

"The good sense of the rule" says Mr W D Evans in his Notes to Pothier II, 226, 'is perfectly manifest with respect to all cases where the question propounded involves an answer immediately bearing upon the merits of the cause and indicating to the witness a representation which will best accord with the interests of the party But where the questions are merely introductory, where the mere answer of "yes' or "no" will leave the point of the case precisely as it found it nquiry
to be etulant position to interrupt the course of examination '

2 On other matters not in dispute A question is not objectionable as leading when it relates to matters as to which there is no dispute In most cases it is necessary to prove a certain number of uncontested facts, in order that Judge ar surround the pern put in th

3 Assisting memory Even upon points which are keenly contested between the parties t who calls him to sought to be inquire indication of the poi be unintelligible.
that "A was a bankr appear in the next Gazette,' a pressions was allowed to be asked, Nichols v Dowding 1 Stark 81 remember the r suggestion, but allowed to be matter has been exhausted, the ught with

of the f the rringt lways in of the terms by questions necessary for that; it his memory is at fault, it may suggest contemporaneous events, with a view to stimulate or fix his recollection" Wigmore § 777 It ... necessary to name all the details, the mention of one or more o ... collect on of the remainder ... through out the person's e ... e or alien adult A related situation is that of a person too ill or too feeble of speech to be able to articulate sentences; here the sentences may be framed for him suggestively, leaving him as little as possible to articulate and yet avoiding the danger of a misunderstood signal of assent or dissent Wigmore § 778

... a witness may be asked ? v Berenger f the witness h a question, cases often iere it would be in the highest degree unfair so to prompt the witness. Best s. 643, Whart s 502

5 Contradiction Another exception arises where it is desired to show that a witness on the opposite side has, at another time made a statement contr ... statement When the attention of such witness has been ... lleged contradictory statement, and he has ... l the direct question whether the part ... Best Ev 10th Ed § ... r, 3 Stark 7, ... ion on this ... h a case, the ... said relative ... leading form ... ence, Taylor ... should only ... he cause; the ... parts of the ... ere, however, ... radiction, the ... Ev 444.

6 Adverse witness A similar situation arises where the witness, though called by party examining, is in fact biassed against his cause and is thus in... testimony In such ... § 774 "This ... to his impres- ... situation of the ... fair account, are also very proper circumstances to be taken into account in forming its decision A son will not be very forward in stating the misconduct of his father, of which ... a servant will not, in an action against his ma ... committed by itself" W. ... 74; Rice v Howard, 16 Q. I ... oles, L R 1 P & M. 70.

Discretion of the ... certain general rules governing this ... left to the discretion of the trial J ... and the allowing or refusing leading questions is not generally a groun for appeal.

Rice v Howard, 16 Q B D 681; London v London, 5 Ir L R N S 27, Barindra v Emperor, 37 C 467 = 14 C W N 1111 Ammathayarammal v Off Assignee, A I R 1933 Mad 137. S.

When they may be asked

143. Leading questions may be asked in cross-examination.

Principle Tl removes all danger
cross examination
mony and weaken
not only the presumable bias of the witness for the opponent's cause, but also his sense of reluctance to become the instrument of his own discrediting deprives him of any inclination to accept the cross examiner's suggestions unless the truth forces him to Accordingly it is well settled that in cross examination of an opponent's witness, ordinarily no question can be improper as leading Parl
a tl fc
E
n
to the cross exam of a hostile witne

Scope of the section 'Leading questions are admitted in the cross-examination of a witness, when much larger powers are given to counsel than in the original examination Witnesses under cross examination may be led immediately to the point on which their answers are required If they betray a zeal against the cross examining party, or show an unwillingness to speak fairly and impartially, they may be questioned with minuteness as to particular facts, or even particular expressions There can be no danger in leading too much where the witness is obst Vol II, p 472 So as a general cross examination the objection in chief not ordinarily holding here to shift the

the cross examination takes place under the assumed disadvantage of being addressed to one reluctant to tell S ill the privilege must not be abused the examination must not be made a mockery Goodeve Ev 228 If the witness is in fact favourable to the party cross examining him it will often weaken the effect of his evidence if he is asked leading questions in cross examination It must not put the words into the mouth of the witness which he is to echo back again,—nor may it assume, as its basis, facts as proved which have not been proved,—or ascribe to the witness statements by him which have not been uttered It is probably not very easy without illustration to convey to a mind not vested in the experience of Courts, the precise meaning of the restrictive qualification here noticed As respects the 'echoing back of the words, the case which first furnished the expre one of the state trials,— t being as to the proceedings r, was a member, and the ness und able to the p ing particul

Eyre thereupon reminded the counsel, that he could not put the very words into the witness's mouth," and when the subject occurred again on the following day, Mr Justice Buller observed "You may lead a witness upon a cross-examination to bring him directly to the point as to the answer, but not go the length, as was attempted yesterday, of putting into the witness's mouth the very words which he is to echo back again' But in a later case, Alderson B, stated that the right to lead in cross examination exists whether the witness be favourable or not Parkin v Moon 7 C & P 408 In that case the plaintiff's

's witnesses (who, it seemed willing one on the part of the usual way The defendant's leading questions ought not rson B in admitting leading questions said ' I apprehend you may put leading questions to an unwilling witness on the examination in chief at the discretion of the Judge, but you may always put a leading question in cross examination whether a witness be unwilling or not further qual alling him for ading questions nwilling or not (Parkin v Moon 7 C & P 409) some restriction should surely be imposed where the witness betrays a vehement desire to serve the cross examining party It is no answer to say that the party, who originally called the witness has brought the evil on his own head for a fraudulent witness might purposely conceal his lies in favour of one party, and thus induce the other to call him, or he might be an attesting witness, or other person whom it was necessary to examine in order to establish some technical part of the case To allow such a witness to have the most favourable answers suggested to him through the medium of leading questions, would be obviously unjust" Taylor Ev § 1431 In America the Judge in his discretion, may prohibit leading questions from being put to an adversary's witness, who shows a strong interest or bias in favour of the cross examining party and needs only an intimation to say whatever is more favourable to his cause Moody v Rowell 17 Pick 495, Taylor § 1431 hat may be in it affords the not have stated to the same effect Conversely such a question may become improper on cross examination because it may by implication put into the mouth of an witness, a statement which he never intended to make, and thus incorrectly attribute to him testimony which is not his Wigmore § 780, Courteen v Touse 1 Camp 43, Edmonds v Walter 3 Stark 8 The law on the subject was thus laid down by Mr Joseph Chitty in his Practice of the Law, 2nd Ed III 91 ' It is an established rule as regards cross examination, that a counsel has no right, even in order to detect or catch a witness in a falsity, falsely to assume or pretend that the witness had previously sworn or stated differently to the fact or that a matter had previously been proved when it had not Indeed it oon be debased below the w St Tr 751 Mr Erskine alleged seditious meeting asked ' Then you were never aracter of a spy ? '— As you call it were as a spy take any title you choose L C J Eyre ' There should be no name given to a witness on his examination He states what he went for, and in making observations on the evidence, you may give it any appellation you please ' After repetition of the practice, Mr Gibbs on the other side contended ' I am sorry to interrupt you but your question the prop s of a cro u can but emphas as you have done just now Mr Erskine 'But, on a cross examination counsels are not called to be so exa you are permitted to lead a witness" L questions that are put are not to be upon all the previous parts of of everybody, they load us in point of time so much, and that that the time for observation upon the character and situation of a witness is apparent that as a rule of evidence it ought never to have been departed from." Wigmore § 780.

Evidence as to matters in writing

144. Any witness may be asked, whilst under examination, whether any contract, grant or other disposition of property, as to which he is giving evidence, was not contained in a document and if he says that it was, or if he is about to make any statement as to the contents of any document, which, in the opinion of the Court, ought to the produced, the adverse party may object to such evidence being given until such document is produced, or until facts have been proved which entitled the party who called the witness to give secondary evidence of it.

Explanation.—A witness may give oral evidence of statements made by other persons about the contents of documents if such statements are in themselves relevent facts.

Illustration

The question is, whether A assaulted B. ... C deposes that he heard A say to D ... and I will be revenged on him' Th... motive for the assault, and evidence may ... is given about the letter Object of the section In this section we have a rule for the purpose of carrying ... evidence ... grant or ... writing, ... document enforced, or the right to give secondary evidence made out ... section merely points out the manner in which the provisions of sections 91 and 92 as to the exclusion of oral by documentary evidence may be enforced by the party to the suit 'Documents which in the opinion of the Court might be produced" would of course include the cases referred to in section 91 where the law requires a matter to be reduced to the form of a document Care must, however, be taken not to apply it to cases in which oral evidence is given of statements of other people about the contents of documents, when those statements are relevant (Vide illustration) Suppose for instance, that the question was whether A had murdered B A witness might prove that A had said "B's bond is inequitous, I will kill him sooner than pay it," without the bond being produced, the reason obviously being that what the witness wants to prove is not the contents of the document, but A's feeling about the contents of the document, as applying a motive for his crime Cun Ev pp 64, 326. Even where the adverse party does not object it is the duty of the Court not to allow inadmissible evidence Vide s 298 Criminal Procedure Code; Emperor v. ... 67=29 C W N 300 A private diary contain... ing ... for ... like under ss 141, 157 and 159 ... make the document itself evidence ... 41=23 Ind Cas 893

Cross examination as to previous statements in writing

145. A witness may be cross-examined as to previous st... ments made by him in writing or r... into writing and relevant to matt... question, without such writing bein... to him, or being prov... but, if it i...

o contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the vriting can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him.

Object of the section When the contradictory statement alleged to have [illegible] by the witness was contained in a letter or other writing, the rule [illegible] (2 B & B 286 290, 293 294) [illegible] e document as his evi [illegible] the witness upon it [illegible] om B 930 So it was [illegible] and, whether, in the [illegible] the writing [illegible] to be put [illegible] examina [illegible] only contravene the rule which [illegible] nt so long as that instrument [illegible] the Court to the partial contents [illegible] it. On the other hand [illegible] e witness would be at [illegible] e object of the enquiry [illegible] to the qualification [illegible] to be used [illegible] and this has [illegible] ommon Law [illegible] n that section [illegible] follows "A witness may be cross examined as to previous statement made by him in writing or reduced into writing, relative to the subject matter of the cause without such writing being shown to him, but if it is intended to contradict such witness by writing, his attention must, before such contradictory proof can be given be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him Provided always, that it shall be competent for the Judge, at any time during the trial, to require the production of the writing for his inspection, and he may thereupon make such use of it for the purposes of the trial as he shall think fit" The English Act was restricted to civil cases only but section 34 of Act II of 1855 was equally applicable to civil and criminal cases as well This section re enacts the provision of section 34 of Act II of 1855

[illegible] to the rule as laid down in Queen's case "The objections [illegible] seem to be required by [illegible] e witness's [illegible] counsel's [illegible] oral inquiry [illegible] by virtue of the Primariness rule that production is required, [illegible] "that the contents of a written instrument, if it be in existence, are to be proved by the instrument itself, and not by parol evidence" (Per Abbott C J in the Queen's C [illegible] & B 286) But this rule is not violated here; for (a) the cross [illegible] contents at this stage, but [illegible] ust be warned that [illegible] witness in answer [illegible] oof of its contents, [illegible] there is no violation of the [illegible] counsel sought to take the answer as evidence of the writing's contents the principle of the [illegible] violated, for that principle is based [illegible] produce the writing [illegible] tness as evidence [illegible] away (2) From [illegible] witness without [illegible] best test of the [illegible] on or candour as [illegible] ist been deposing [illegible] f the existence and contents of [illegible] rs), in other words, the chance of

S. howing to the tribunal either that the witness cannot remember or incorrectly emembers or that he is willing to falsify as to the contents, is entirely taken way by the requirement that the writing must be shown to him at that stage he rule, then, so far as it does not allow the counsel to wait until the putting in f his own case, but requires him in advance, before cross-examining, to produce n l to show the writing to the witness, is both unsound in principle and unfair n policy" Greenl Ev § 463(a)

Scope of the section Under this section a witness may be cross examined s to previous statements made by him in writing, when his attention may be rawn to the parts of the former writing which are to be used for the purpose f contradicting him But in the examination in chief, before the Court of ession, his attention should not be directed to his deposition before the lagistrate Queen v Ramchandra, 13 W R 18 Cr The complainant's pleader ... ting ... so, ... ving ... the udgment, Ainslie J said: "We observe that the Deputy Magistrate was ltogether wrong in refusing to allow the complainants' pleader in cross examina ion to question the w ... ad made statements bef ... n all the facts of the cas ... or the first time He was, moreover, at liberty to cross examine the witnesses, s to previous statements made by them and reduced to writing, without showing he writing ... per ... hat ... ms ... ect ... nd ... is ... e used as xplaining o s not given vidence"

Where a person employed by another for the purpose of writing up his ccount books had made entries therein on information furnished by that other erson, such entries could not be regarded as previous statements made by him n writing which could be given in evidence to contradict him as witness Juchershaw v New Dhermsey, 4 B 476

If the defence wishes to cross examine a witness on a previous deposition ... s drawn to ... n In such ... the whole ... and with a view to the discrepancies being pointed out ... the time of rgument Subbiah v Emperor, 1929 M W N 789 In view of the strict anguage ... is entitled to ... ment which are ... ractice in this ... v) = 26 A L ... 1930 Lah 991, ... 59, Kallam v ...

The depos ... which has not been read over to the witn ... ict he witness at ... 15 04 Ind Cas 10 ...

Previous statements of a prosecution witness used under s 145, for cross examining the person or under s 155 of the Evidence Act for discrediting the evidence of the witness cannot be used as substantive evidence against the accused Bishen Dutt v Emperor, 25 A L J 994 = 105 Ind. Cas. 677 = 28 Cr L J 945 = A. I R 1927 All 705

It is not neces ary in order that an accused person may be allowed und r s 162 to contradict used by the witne randum of what the
45 C L J 561=
I R 1927 Cal 644, see also Jadunandan v Emperor, 101 Ind Cas 242= A I R 1927 Oudh 321

Writing need not be produced in absence of intention to contradict Ramalka v Nagaram, 92 Ind Cas 133=A I R 1925 Mad 145-48 M L J 59

A statement made by a witness before a coroner is admissible at the trial of the accused for the purpose of impug to cro
Ind

A report made ... try male by him in ... idence in a judicial ... Bithi Ram v B ... A witness cannot be disbelieved without his attention being drawn to the documents inconsistent ... were produced after his examinatio ... or further cross ex amination I ... 138=33 M L T 309 (P C)=1923 ... egam v Ali Begam, 9 P W R 1914-127 P L R 1914=22 Ind Cas 861

Where the purpose of the production of the document must have been well understood by the witness and from the record of the deposition it was manifest that after being shown the document, he was directly asked whether it was not a fact that he was at a particular place on the alleged date as was clear from the document and when on re examination no attempt was made to elicit explanation; Held the witness was properly contradicted Baikuntha Nath v Prasannomoyi, 1923 P C 109 Where a Court finds certain discrepancies between a witness's statement made before it and that previously made before another Court, the witness should be asked to explain them as required by s 145 of the Evidence Act ... 291 Previous statements, unless usc witness given in the suit, can cular matter or point must be pl in view of ... unless the specific statemen ... they cannot be used in ev ... Cas 267 The evidence take ... onditions and for the purposes described in the Evidence Act, section 145 Nga Seik v Nga Pu U B R (1913)) 3rd Qr 181=22 Ind Cas 676 The deposition of a witness in a previous case is not relevant in a subsequent case in which he is examined, except to contradict him Queen Nobo v Kristo 8 W R Cr 87 Although section 145 of the evidence Act admits of previous statements being referred to, for purpose of cross examination, it does not authorise a Court to treat such statements as evidence against an accused Rilha v Emperor, 157 P L R 1911=10 Ind Cas 119=12 Cr L J 214

In a trial for giving false evidence the record of a previous deposition ...

... to the Evidence Act to try to impeach a witness by means of contradictory statement unless the contradictory statement is put to him in cross-examination Maung San v. Emperor, Ind Rul (1930) Rang 91.

Police diaries It is only what is written in the Police diaries that can be used under s. 145 of the Evidence Act to contradict the witness and what the

Sub-Inspector of Police stated that a witness said or did not say, is inadmissible The way to prove these portions of the written statement of a witness which have been specifically put to him in order to contradict him is for the accused to mark the passage or passages in the copy from the police diaries given to him and then to ask the writer of the statement to say that it is a true copy Dharam Singh v Emperor, 105 Ind Cas 162 = 29 Cr L J 311 = A I R 1928 Lah 507 = 9 A. I Cr R 567 If police diary is used, the provisions of s 145, Evidence Act and s. 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code will have to be borne in mind Kashi Ram v Emperor, 26 A L J 159 = 9 L R 11 Cr = 109 Ind Cas 120 = 29 Cr L J 472 (2) = A I R 1928 All 280 A Police officer who recorded the statements cannot be cross-examined under section 161 of the Evidence Act, with regard to such statements, such cross examinations being allowable only with regard to the entries properly recorded in the diary kept under s 172 Cr Pro Code, if the Police officer refers to such entries for the purpose of refreshing his memories Dalon Ga v Emperor, 33 C 1023 = 10 C W. N 890 = 1 Cr L J 79

Where a police officer making an investigation under this section took statements from the persons who were afterwards called as witnesses, the accused person would be entitled to call for and inspect such documents and cross-examine the witness thereon, as such statements would not amount to a portion of the diary referred to in section 172 Bikas v Queen Empress, 16 C 610; Sheru Sha v Queen Empress, 20 C 642, Emperor v [illegible] 193, Empress v Salem Teh 9 C P I [illegible] Emperor, 32 C W N 280 A statement made [illegible] be used only to contradict the witness E [illegible] King Emperor v Kumaramuthu 29 Cr L J 251, Bhulai v King Emperor, 11 Cr L J 117 Only those portions of the statements of witnesses made before the police as have been actually used under s. 162, Criminal Procedure Code, to contradict the witness in the manner provided in s 145, Evidence Act, in the course c[illegible] parts of the judicial record and c[illegible] parts of the e statements cannot [illegible] in determining the guilt or in[illegible] Ind Rul (1920) Lah 162

First Informa[illegible] The statement of person r[illegible] corrobor[illegible] Evidence [illegible] Act prov[illegible] Emperor, [illegible] Hayat v [illegible] R. 1928 I[illegible]

Un[illegible] secution, [illegible] applies fo[illegible] is bound [illegible] a copy th[illegible] part of [illegible] matter [illegible] enquiry or trial or th[illegible] of justice and is [illegible] ecord such opinion [illegible] d When this copy [illegible] in the r[illegible] Lah, L [illegible] also Em[illegible] 820, Ha[illegible] [illegible] 348 = A [illegible] J 14 = [illegible] put to th[illegible] Emperor v I[illegible]

Statem[illegible] gati[illegible] the [illegible] ness Ahmad ly v. Emperor 41 C [illegible] ormation report against th

It is not necessary in order that an accused person may be allowed under s 162 to contr ... contain the very words used by the ... randum of wh ... 45 C L J ... I R 1927 Cal 644, see also Jadunandan v ... R 1927 Oudh 321

Writing need not be produced in absence of intention to contradict Ramakka v Nagaram, 92 Ind Cas 133 = A I R 1925 Mad 145 = 48 M. L J 89

A statement made by a witness before a coroner is admissible at the trial of the accused for the purpose of impugning the credit of the witness, even though the accused had no opportunity to cross-examine the witness Emperor v Raghoo, 28 Bom L R 775 = 97 Ind Cas 37 = 27 Cr L J 1061 = A I R 1926 Bom 404

A report made by a Police officer in connection with an enquiry made by him in the exercise of his lawful jurisdiction is not admissible in evidence in a judicial proceeding unless the Police officer is examined as a witness Bil???? Ram v Kunkun Ram, 88 Ind Cas 586 = A I R 1925 All 808 A witness cannot be disbelieved without his attention being drawn to the documents inconsistent ... were produced after his examinati ... or further cross ex amination ... 138 = 33 M L T 309 (P C) = 1923 ... egam v Ali B gam, 9 P W R 1914 - 127 P L R 1914 = 22 Ind Cas 861

Where the purpose of the production of the document must have been well understood by the witness and from the record of the deposition it was manifest that after being shown the document, he was directly asked whether it was not a fact that he was at a particular place on the alleged date as was clear from the document and when on re examination no attempt was made to elicit explanation, Held the witness was properly contradicted Baikunther Nath v Prasannomoyi, 1923 P C 409 Where a Court finds certain discre pancies betwee ... usly made before another ... required by s 145 of t ... Cas 291 Previous statem ... nce of a witness given in the suit, cannot be legitimately used, and even then the parti cular matter or point must be placed before the witness as one for explanation in view of its discrepancy with the evidence tendered, unless the specific state ments are put to the parties sought to be contradicted, they cannot be used in evidence ... Cas 267 The evidence ... onditions and for the ... Nga Seik v Nga Pe ... eposition of a witness in a previous case is not relevant in a subsequent case in which he is examined, except to contradict him Queen Nobo v Kristo, 8 W R Cr 87 ... statements being ... horise a Court to ... Emperor, 157 ... vious deposition ... nment of Bengal ... 499

When the depositions in a former criminal trial were used to contradict ... xplanation ... was ... 45 of ... N ... trary ... stery to the Ev ... ion statement Maung San ...

Police diaries It is only what is written in the Police diaries that can be used under s. 145 of the Evidence Act to contradict the witness and what the

material to the issue, he might be afterwards contradicted by secondary evidence Still the question remains, as to whether the cross examining party might first interpose evidence out of his own turn, to prove the loss or destruction of the document, or to show that it was in the hands of the opponent, that he had notice to produce it, and that he refused to do so; and might then cross examine the witness as to its contents Taylor § 1447; Greenl Ev § 161

Admission not put to party When an admission is not put to the party making it and the party making it is not examined on it under s 145, the admission is not legal evidence and [illegible] party Muhar ram v Barkat, A I R 1930 Lah [illegible] R Lah 1923 714, Saradamba v Patta bihara m [illegible] M L J 13 Gopi v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah 191 Failure to object to the admission of a previous statement made by a witness does not amount to the use of it as substantive evidence or its use against the provision of s 145 of the Evidence Act. Gosml v Baldeo, A I R 1929 Pat 308

146. When a witness is cross-examined, he may, in addition to the questions hereinbefore referred to, be asked any questions which tend—

Questions lawful in cross-examination

(1) to test his veracity,

(2) to discover who he is and what is his position in life, or

(3) to shake his credit, by injuring his character, although the answer to such questions might tend directly or indirectly to criminate him or might expose or tend directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture.

Scope of the section Sections 132, 146, 147 and 148 together embrace the whole range of questions which can properly be addressed to a witness R v Gopal Das 3 M 271 (273) In section 138 it is stated that cross examination must relate to relevant facts In addition to questions on those facts a witness can be asked any questions as regards the facts mentioned in this section So this section extends the power of cross examination far beyond the limits of section 138, which confines the cross examination to relevant facts, including facts in issue Markby Ev p 106 All the questions covered by s 146 are governed by the provisions of ss 148, 153 Ibid p 107 Sections 148 152 were intended to protect the witness against being improperly cross examined Ibid p 107 "Cross examination to credit is necessarily irrelevant to any issue in the action, its relevancy consists in being addressed to the credit or discredit of the witness in the box so as to show that his evidence for or against th [illegible] the presen [illegible] witness s [illegible] that he was uncomfortable when he [illegible] accounts is to adopt a course which th [illegible] George Farwell, in Bombay Cotton [illegible] Motilal Shivlal, 19 C W N 617—17 L [illegible] statement of a witness being testim [illegible] them, when [illegible] was to require the [illegible] So "it is no doub [illegible] cross-examination [illegible] veracity of the witne [illegible] always be [illegible] understandi [illegible] J in Perkins [illegible] usually allowed great latitude of enquiry, [illegible] only by the sound discretion,

6. of principle, the skill, the ... answers with each the parties respectively, and th of confidence they may safe Hathaway v Crocker, 7 Metc 266; Wigmore § 911

... to test the truthfulness candour any question to that t a question may tend to fairly directed towards , 259 It is permissible edit but when questions answered them, the ex s not allowed Muang xamination it is usual to 1932 Cal 474.

To test his veracity A witness may be cross examined not only as to ... to all facts which reasonably tend to affect the
cross examination hich are relied on ame of the witness

But this term is perhaps somewhat misleading as suggesting that any cross-examination is permissible which tends in any way whatever to disparage the character of tl ... can be legitimate unless it has so ... means of knowledge, ... lls Ev 2nd Ed 323. ... ment's witnesses was t ... and 6 R 67 (H L) "I cannot help saying, that it seems to be absolutely essential to the proper conduct of a cause, where it is intended to suggest that a witness is not speaking the truth on a particular point, to direct his attention to the fact ... that imputation is intended ... it by as a matter altogether ... to explain, as s had been put to him, story he tells ought of credit My lords, witness you are bound aking any explanation nly a rule of professional practice in the conduct of a case, but it is essential to fair play and fair dealing with witnesses Sometimes reflections have been made upon excessive cross examination of witnesses, and it has been complained of as undue, but it seems to me that a cross-examination of a witness which errs in the direction of cases may be far more fair to him than to leave him without cross examination, and afterwards to suggest that he is not a witness of truth, I mean upon a point on which it is not otherwise perfectly clear that he has had full notice beforehand that ... credibility ment that mis already impeached, and is to be impeached, is ry to waste time in putting questions to him ill not do to impeach the credibility of a witness upon a matter on which he has not had any opportunity of giving an explanation by reason of there having been no suggestion whatever in the course of the case that his story is not accepted"

To discover who he is and what is his position, etc As preliminary to ... is common practice hose behalf he was elongs towards the ermissible in order in favour of the § 259 "The range

S. 1

of external circumstances from which probably bias may be inferred is infinite too much refinement in analysing their probable effect is out of place Accurate concrete rules are almost impossible to formulate, and where possible are usually undesirable In general these circumstances should have some clearly

e, or, as it is usually r sorts of circumstances to one of the parties Davi l, 7 C & P 350), or than a party who is involved on one is otherwise prejudiced for or against one ment, present or past, by one of the parties, is also usually relevant The tendency of civil litigation between the witness and the opponent is usually relevant not only as a circumstance tending to create feeling but also as involving conduct expressive of feeling; and while the mere fact of litigation upon a disconnected matter may not necessarily show bias, still it is useless to attempt to distinguish and refine for the purpose of exclusion That the witness is or has been under indictment may have several bearings; (1) if the indictment, present or past, was had by the opponent's procurement or for an injury to him, it is relevant as having tended to excite in the witness a hostile feeling to him; (2) if the indictment was beyond tion can be attempted suggestive of personal prejudice; and the decision should be left entirely in the hands of the trial Judge" Wigmore § 919

Character ... of the Evidence Act, his truthfulness, are actual qualities having probative force because conceived of as existent in or attributed to hi or more of these qualities, to resor reputation is not the immediate telling bias, resorted to for ure the impor osition, and n

Kind of character, Veracity as the Fundamental Quality From the point of view of modern psychology, the moral disposition which tends for or against fal ... tant operation in connection with othe lity and force, make it s of testimonial credit. In determining the relevancy of character as affecting the credit to be given to a Since the ar truth upon and in his c or as truth This must be and nference Character for er, any other trait or quality, ... as involving necessarily or probal uth telling This leads us namely, whether bad more ity in particular, is admissible The argument for the use of bad general character to discredit a witness is, in brief, that it necessarily involves an impairment of the truth telling capacity, that to show general moral degeneration is to show an inevitable degeneration in veracity, and that the former is often more easily betrayed to observation than is the latter Wigmore § 922 The argument in favour of the above statement is thus forcefully stated by Toomer J in State v Boswell 2 Dev 210, 'Should a witness, whose general character is proverbially false to licentiousness and lewdness, who is in his habits regardless of the precepts of religion and reckless of the consequences of vice, be entitled to the same credit as another whose character is without stain, and whose whole life has been marked by piety, virtue and truth? An unprincipled man, although grovelling in other vices which he has long practised, may for selfish purposes artfully conceal the weakness of his character on the score of veracity Should not such habits lessen the weight and impair the credit of a witness, although he may have established no general character bad as to truth?". "The arguments made in answer to these" says Prof Wigmore ' are chiefly three (1) that as a matter of human nature, a bad general disposition does not necessarily or commonly involve a lack of veracity, and that therefore the former is of little or no bearing probatively, (2) that the estimate of an ordinary witness as to another's bad general character is apt to be formed loosely from uncertain data and to rest in large part but on personal prejudice and on mere differences of ... of belief or conduct,—a chance of error which is relatively ... and (3) ... ed ... ho ... Ch ... is in Atwood v Impson, 20 N J ... ere to always, though they may indulge ... ng or making close bargains With ... if elevated to be senators or, legislators, or made church members or deacons, it does not always reform them The object of the law is to show the character of the witness as to telling the truth Wigmore, Ibid In England for the purposes of proving character by repute general character is excluded, and character for veracity only is stated Wigmore § 923 The statement of the patwari that he heard the landlord say that a particular person had been admitted to tenancy can be used only for the purpose of contradicting the landlord while he is being cross-examined and not for the purpose of proving the tenancy itself Sheoprosad v Gudar, 12 L R 12 Rev

Intimidating and annoying questions by cross examiner 'An intimidating manner in putting questions may so coerce or disconcert the witness that his answers do not represent his actual knowledge on the subject So also questions which ... shame or anger in the witness may un... ce that the impression produced ... testimonial ... of cross-examination ..., and always used by Judges only, ... a century ago as the ... is true, are as a whole ... are in many places ... too freq... occur at all The just ... ges have sometimes stigmatized these prac... can be no doubt that the law sanctions the ... he trial Judge to use a proper discretion to pre... them' Wigmore § 781

... England in ... Bravo, ... n account ... umstances ... through ... standing her ... ccess in at the head of ... Court, and L... ... h a high reputation for ability in jury trials, were severely criticised as 'forensic bullies,' and complained of as 'lending the authority of their example to the abuse of cross-examination to credit which was quickly follow l by barristers of inferior positions, among whom the practice was spreading of assailing witness with what was not unfairly called a system of innuendoes suggestions and bullying from which sensitive persons recoil' And Mr Charles Gill, one of the many imitators of Russell's domineering style was criticised as bettering the instructions of his elders'

"The complaint against Russell was that by his practices as displayed in the Osborne case—robbery of jewels—not only may a man's, or a woman's whole past be laid bare to malignant comment and public curiosity, but there is no means afforded by the Courts of showing how the facts really stood or of producing evidence to repel the damaging charges

"Lord Bramwell in an article published originally in Nineteenth Century of February, 1892 and republished in legal periodicals all over the world ... les Russell and his imitators Lord ... perience of forty seven years' practice ... uaintance with the legal profession ... however much repented of, is not the ... consequent loss of character in addition which ... ever called to the witness stand' 'Women ... and whose husband die of poison, must not complain at having the veil that ordinarily screens a woman's life from public inquiry rudely torn aside' 'It is well for the sake of truth that there should be a wholesome dread of cross-examination' 'It should be understood to be no trivial matter, but rather looked upon as a trying ordeal' 'None but the sore feel the probe' such were some of the arguments of the various upholders of broad license in examinations to credit

'Lord Chief Justice Cockburn took the opposite view of the question 'I ... put ques ... when they ...

all ra ... fully ... trem ... box ...

Brodie, shiver as he entered the witness box ... just as necessary for the adminis ... entitled to be treated with the ... ivate lives ought to be held as ... the Judges or the jurymen I ... o allow no question to be put to a witness, unless such as are clearly pertinent to the issue before the Court except wh ... deliberately challenged by counsel and that ... grounds"

147. If any such question relates to a matter relevant to the suit or proceeding, the provisions of section 132 shall apply thereto.

When witness to be compelled to answer

... the word "such" it is presumed refers to the last ... the word 'any', in the earlier part ... s can be asked in cross examination ... s of a twofold character, it may be directly relevant in its bearing on, elucidating, or disproving, the very merits of the points in issue In such a case, the witness is not protected from answering, notwithstanding the answer may criminate him For section 132 is made applicable to this case There is another kind of relevancy which is collateral to the issue Such is the character of the witness, which is always relevant, because if he is dishonest, no faith can be put in the story he utters Where questions are put to a witness, not for the purpose of proving or disproving the point in issue, but exclusively and merely to show what is the character of the witness, the Court is to decide whether the question is to be answered or not This appears to differ from section 32 of Act II of 1855 which drew no distinction between the several kinds of relevancy. Under that Act a witness was bound to answer every criminating question, while the proviso threw a protection over him from all criminal consequences, other than those attaching to perjury Nort Ev 329

148. If any such question relates to a matter not relevant to the suit or proceeding, except in so far as it affects the credit of the witness by injuring his character, the Court shall decide whether or not the witness shall be compelled to answer it, and may, if it thinks fit, warn the witness that he is not obliged to answer it. In exercising its discretion, the Court shall have regard to the following considerations :—

Court to decide when question shall be asked and when witness compelled to answer

(1) such questions are proper if they are of such a nature that the truth of the imputation conveyed by them would seriously affect the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies :

(2) such questions are improper if the imputation which they convey relates to matters so remote in time, or of such a character, that the truth of the imputation would not affect, or would affect in a slight degree, the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies ·

(3) such questions are improper if there is a great disproportion between the importance of the imputation made against the witness's character and the importance of his evidence :

(4) the Court may, if it sees fit, draw, from the witness's refusal to answer, the inference that the answer if given would be unfavourable.

Scope of the section "Such questions" mean the questions referred to ... for the ... merely ... her the ... to the asking of such questions that the answer to them might tend to criminate the witness, or expose him to penalty or forfeiture It is necessary however to make ... ard ... to ... to ... has ... the ... th the view of testing or injuring the witness's character When a question is asked merely for this purpose the Court is to decide whether the witness is to be compelled or not to answer it In deciding whether such a question is proper or not the C evidence given If the evidence is very unimportant, and the imputation on the witness's character very serious, the question ought not to be asked A witness, for instance, who proves the posting of a lett r or the entry of some important item, ought not to be asked questions, the answers to which might blast his reputation With a view to such considerations as these, it is further provided that the Court may infer from the witness's refusal to answer that the answer, if given, would be unfavourable to him, but that it is not bound to do so" Cunn Ev pp 65-66

In Queen v. Gopal Das, 3 M 271 (278), Turner C J said "Irrelevant questions should not be allowed, and it may be implied from the limitation in this section (i e s 132) that a witness should be excused from answering ... ich are irrelevant To under- ... connection with the subsequent ... embrace the whole range of ... a witness, By section 138 it is enacted that a witness must be examined and cross-examined as to relevant fact ... be r ... he ... cha ... If ... which I understand no more than was meant by relevant to a matter in issue, the provisions of section 132 are by section 147 declared applicable to it. If the ... so far as affects the credit of matter in is ... injuring hi ... Court will c ... whether or ... or ...

... a matter which the witness is bound to ans ... answered an irrelevant question On the oth ... constraint put upon the witness by the auti ... authority has ... bound to ... witness whe ... give an ans ... xpressed in v ... isted by cou ... quainted with ... reas ... rele ... rest of the Act impel me to the conclusion tha ... the answers to which a witness has objected or has been constrained by the Court to give I am led to the same conclusion by a consideration of the alteration that was called for in the English law of Evidence, which the Indian Legislature appear to have had in view Except where otherwise provided by special no witness was bound to give witness objected on this ground considered the objection well founded it excused him from answering it, on the other hand if the Court improperly refused to excuse the witness, and compelled him to answer, his answer could not be used against him to support a criminal charge, except a charge of having given false evidence by his answer"

In the same case Muthusami Ayyar J at p 285 said 'Section, 149 which confers upon a witness the privilege that is material only in so far as it inju his credit, expressly gives power to the not criminate himself until it is decided that the question must be answered Clause (2)—So remote 'On analysing the nature of the argument from witness's character we find it to be really this The moral qualities of the person who is now speaki probability of his truthf be sincere or the rever e, Obviously, our argument, because it believes in the present influence of the testifier's disposition upon his testimony, expects and requires us to exhibit to seems indisputable But it is 's character at the precise moment directly We may have to go back only an hour or a day or a week, but we are at least going back some space of time when we call for either personal knowledge (of another witness) or reputation, which cannot possibly carry the proof down to the precise moment of utterance, and, besides this, the character of a former period more or less distant, always enters into every estimate (reputed or individual) of character even though it may be expressly predicated as of the present moment Nevertheless there is nothing improper, in the resorting in part or entirely, to the character of a prior time We are simply adding another step to the argument, for while first using present character to throw light on the probability of shaking the truth, we then have this present character to prove in its turn and we argue from prior character to the probability of its persistence at the time of utterance The second step of the argument is an ndi

a
a
In nk
a all
in ut on the fore and ie fitness

149. No such question as is referred to in section 148 ought to be asked, unless the person asking it has reasonable grounds for thinking that the imputation which it conveys is well-founded

Question not to be asked without reasonable grounds

Illustrations

(a) A barrister is instructed by an attorney or vakil that an important witness is a dakait This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dakait

(b) A pleader is informed by a person in Court that an important witness is a dakait, the informant, on being questioned by the pleader, gives satisfactory reasons for his statement This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dakait

(c) A witness, of whom nothing whatever is known, is asked at random whether he is a dakait. There are here no reasonable grounds for the question.

(d) A witness, of whom nothing whatever is known, being questioned as to his mode of life and means of living, gives unsatisfactory answers. This may be a reasonable ground for asking him if he is a dakait.

S.
S.

150. If the Court is of opinion that any such question was asked without reasonable grounds, it may, if it was asked by any barrister, pleader, vakil or attorney, report the circumstances of the case to the High Court or other authority to which such barrister, pleader, vakil or attorney is subject in the exercise of his profession.

Procedure of Court in case of question being asked without reasonable grounds.

151. The Court may forbid any questions or inquiries which it regards as indecent or scandalous, although such questions or inquiries may have some bearing on the questions before the Court, unless they relate to facts in issue, or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed

Indecent and scandalous questions

152. The Court shall forbid any question which appears to it to be intended to insult or annoy, or which, though proper in itself, appears to the Court needlessly offensive in form.

Questions intended to insult or annoy

Questions in cross examination N [illegible] of the Indian Evidence Act ought to be [illegible] some reasonable grounds for supposing [illegible] true Barristers, attorneys and other professional persons offending against this rule are liable to be reported to the High Court or other authority to which they are subordinate Cun. Ev 66 The illustrations to s 149 show that the reasonable grounds which justify such questions may be much slighter than would justify a [illegible] barrister who is t [illegible] who bear such [illegible] in so far assumir [illegible] do so with no [illegible] Ev 381

According to the common Law of England, "neither party, witness, counsel, jury or J[illegible]r, civilly or criminally, for words spok[illegible] v Sc[illegible] v Skinner, 1 Lofft 55 In Hodgson for d[illegible] d Ellenborough C J that an action [illegible] not lie against a barrister for words spoken by him as counsel in a cause pertinent to the matter in issue In Kennedy v Brown, 32 L J C P N S 137, Earle C J said "The advocate is trusted with interests and privileges and powers, almost to an unlimited degree His client must trust to him at times for fortune and character and life The law trusts him with a privilege in respect of liberty of speech which is in practice bounded only by his own sense of [illegible] concerning the deep [illegible] soul His wor[illegible] say duty to his c[illegible] in order that he r[illegible] ourt and himself, [illegible] privileges intrusted to him, by a constant recourse to his own sense of right See also Dawkins v Lord Rokby, L R 8 Q B 255, Muster v Lamb, 11 Q B D 588. Section 150 refers to questions put in cross examination by any barrister, pleader, vakil or attorney of the class referred to in s 148 and gives the Court the power, if such Court is of opinion that such question was asked without Court, but it limits tances mentioned a charge against re made the charge privileged only in the sense of being protected from disclosure to the opponent There is no privilege as against the Court The Court's disciplinary power over advocates in relation to q reflecting on the parties as well instructions; they have a responsibility in the matter and are not justified in making charges of fraud and crime unless they are personally satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for putting them forward Donald Weston v Peary Mohan, 18 C. W. N. 185=40 C 898

"The bill as originally drawn up provided, in substance, that no person should be asked a question which reflected on his character as to matters irrelevant to the case before the Court, without instructions; and if the Court considered the question improper, it might require the production of the instructions; and the giving of such instructions should be an act of defamation, subject, of course, to the various rules about defamation laid down in the Penal Code. To ask such c Court in the person ask made to the proposal we first place, that the d practically insuperable; country were already sufficient; and in the third place—and perhaps this was the most important argument of under so ma kind, that be open to amongst the rest, that the sections pro have accordingly been substituted for h of Sir to 152 were substituted for the old ones occasions been a grave ice is concerned speak for ound by all honourable ect without a few remarks whether she was made pregnant by a certain person The question was objected witness

me of rty of estion t as a witness, the Court will have to consider the provisions of s 146 and ss 148 to 152 of the Evidence Act. Subala Dasi v Indra Kumar, 1923 Cal 815; see also Panda v Abdul, 65 Ind Cas 693=5 N. L. J 138

Indecent and scandalous questions may be put either to shake the credit of a witness or as relating to facts in issue; or to determine whether or not a fact in issue existed If they are put merely to shake the credit of a witness the Court has complete dominion over them and may forbid such questions, even though they may have some bearing on the question before the Court. But if they relate to facts in issue or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed, the Court has no jurisdiction to forbid such questions, though they may be indecent or scandalous Advocates have ample discretion in the conduct of cases of which they are in charge and the Court cannot better their discretion by insisting that their case should be put to this witness or that Mahomed v Emperor, 53 Ind. Cas 54=20 Cr L J 566 When a question in cross-examination reflects not on the witness but on the third party, s 150 of the Evidence Act, which must be referred back to s 146 can have no application Peary Mohan v Donald Watson, 9 Ind Cas 509 There is nothing in the provisions of the Evidence Act to prevent the prosecution of a person for defamation, if he puts defamatory que ... convey is false and ... although such que ... Weir 819

153. When a witness has been asked and has answered any question which is relevant to the inquiry only in so far as it tends to shake his credit by injuring his character, no evidence shall be given to contradict him; but, if he answers falsely, he may afterwards be charged with giving false evidence.

Exclusion of evidence to contradict answers to questions testing veracity

Exception 1—If a witness is asked whether he has been previously convicted of any crime and denies it, evidence may be given of his previous conviction.

Exception, 2.—If a witness is asked any question tending to impeach his impartiality and answers it by denying the facts suggested, he may be contradicted.

Illustrations

(a) A claim against an underwriter is resisted on the ground of fraud.
The claimant is asked whether, in a former transaction, he had not made a fraudulent claim He denies it.
Evidence is offered to show that he did make such a claim

... was not dismissed from a situation for disho... ... for dishonesty

... Lahore ... that day at Calcutta He denies it

A is asked whether he himself was ...

his ... question in Lahore

In each of these cases the witness might, if his denial was false, be charged with ... family

He denies it He may be contradicted on the ground that the que ion tends to impeach his impartiality.

Principle ... to discredit a witne s introduce matter ... that, if controversy about the matte ... rt would be occup ed ... but the merits of the witness an l thus ... Cun Ev p 66 In Attorney General ... B said 'When the question is not relevant, strictly speaking to the issue, but tending to contradict the witness ...

would follow from a continual course of those sorts of cross examinations will ...

of this nature and the time which it is practicable to bestow upon them it we lived for a thousand years, instead of about sixty or seventy, and every case were of sufficient importance, it might be possible and perhaps proper to throw a light on matters in which every possible question might be suggested, for the purpose of seeing ... or what portion of it was no ... statements made ... to be impossible ... tend to divert the attention of the jury from the real enquiry before the ... ren, to the ... n, and the ... evidence ... rial of the issue between the real parties to the cause, and such illegal testimony may make ... any of clear and easy proof If a witness is asked whether he has been previously convicted and denies it the previous conviction may be proved; and if he is ... are

This general rule excluding evidence to contradict a witness on ... considera ... pared with ... cessary if ... indefinitely ... collateral ... d to prove ... d that he ... s Ev 2nd Ed 326

Scope of the section Where a fact which has a direct bearing on the issue is denied by a witness, it may, of course, be proved aliunde See illustra tion ... to the issue,—as for ... th the answer ... the answer ... The matter cannot be carried further at the trial, except in the two cases provided by this section The only redress which a party has, is to charge the witness with perjury, and try him for it To this rule there are however two exceptions Nort Ev p 332 So the right to cross examine to credit is subject to this rule, that with two exceptions, the answers of the witness as to matters not relevant to the issue are conclusive, in this sense that they cannot be contradicted by evidence in chief on the other side Baker v Baker, 32 L J P D & A 145 However untrue they may be, they cannot be treated as if their truth or falsity were an issue in the cause Wills Ev. 2nd Ed 325 The rejection of the ... this evil, ... ience that ... Ex R 93 ... Company, 13 B 292, forms no real exception to the above rule There an action was brought by a ship owner against under writers on a policy of insurance, and the plaintiff's claim to recover as for a total loss rested on the abandonment of the vessel by the captain The captain was called as a witness by the plaintiff, and, on cross examination, ... been an habitual drun ... establish that fact, and ... as tending to show that ... judgment in reference to the abandonment, and that consequently, the judgment actually exercised by him was not entitled to any respect from the jury Taylor § 1439 Sections 153 and 155 of the Evidence Act must be strictly construed and narrowly interpreted if the cases governed by the Act are to be spared ... material issues, w... ies Bhogilal v B... 593=108 Ind C... does not go fa... 91, on which it is based.

S. 1

Evidence to contradict relevant facts Where witnesses have been examined ... a particular place ... in to prove ... d by them ... It is not to im... evider... the d... ted a... questi... note... 11 B H... one upo... the rule... ance to... Withou... course... of At... which may assist in determining the respective value of conflicting testimony And where the trial is by a Judge and not by a jury, there is probably less reasor... – Greenleaf on Evidence sectio... incapable of affording any ... fact or matter in dispu... which... evide... Kazi...

Exception I. At the common law a witness might be cross examined as to whether he had been convicted of any felony or misdemeanour, but if he denied it he could not be contradicted, unless the commission of the offence was relevant to the issue This state of law was altered as to civil causes by section 25 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict C 125), and afterwards as to both civil and criminal causes by the statute 28 Vict C 18, of which section 6 enacts as follows —"A witness may be questioned as to whether he has been convicted of any felony or misdemeanour, and, upon being so questioned, if he either denies or does not admit the fact or refuses to answer, it shall be lawful for the cross-examining party to prove such conviction; and a certificate containing the substance and effect only (omitting the formal part) of the indictment and conviction for such offence, purporting to be signed by the clerk of the Court or other officer having the custody of the records of the Court where the offender was convicted or by the Deputy of such clerk or officer (for which certificate a fee of five shillings and no more shall be demanded or taken) shall, upon proof of the identity of the person, be sufficient evidence of the said conviction without proof of the signature or the same" Although

t considered necessarily to admit evidence of ss examine the witness to his credit with regard to it ... C P 696; Wills Ev 2nd Ed 341 Similarly in R. v. Watson, 2 Stark 189, Lord Ellenborough observed "For the purpose of ascertaining the credit due to witnesses, the Courts indulge free cross-examination; but when a crime is imputed to a ... of law the Court knows case,

that a guilty witness ... ord of

of a nu ... is not convicti ... onclu credible ...

sion might not be proved directly by actual proof of accumulated crimes which demonstrated the infamy of the witness ..... that the consequences would be enormous and alarming to the administration of justice, if such evidence were to be shut out, a witness who had committed a multitude of crimes, but who had not been convicted of one, would stand as a fair and credible witness in a Court of justice" But Lord Ellenborough L. C J. said: "This is so clear a point and so entirely without a precedent that it would be a waste of time to call for a reply . . . The Court does not sit for the purpose of examining into collateral crimes It would be unjust to permit it for it would be impossible that the party should be ready to exculpate himself by bringing forward evidence in answer to the charge, there would be no possibility of a fair and competent trial upon the subject, and therefore it is never done" In the same ... "If this evidence were admissible it would be impossible

e Court

having

point to whom it he is though

ter, he notice d with st him, erhaps

the ight

have

ugh

y is it,

the

to testimony he has given, and as those witnesses might be cross examined ... to their conduct, such a course would be productive of endless collateral issues Suppose for instance witness A is accused of having committed some offence, ... he is asked

ed,

be

On

obtained towards the adjudic ... ly he the contrary, if the answer be t ... ound may be indicted for perjury."

of auxiliary policy i e (1) the reason of confusion of issues and (2) the reason of unfair surprise Wigmore § 979

But when the extrinsic testimony is in the shape or a record of a judgment of ... perate (a) There is no ... r of acts of misconduct ... so the judgment cannot be re-opened and no new issues (other than the occasional ones occurring in the process of authentication of the record) are raised thereby, (b) there is no danger of unfair surprise—not, however, because (as is sometimes said) the witness well knows whether he was ever convicted, this assumes the very thing in the controv... lgment is ... not use his ... Court It ... record of a judgment of conviction may be made not because an exception is carved out of the rule, but because the reason of the rule does not apply Wigmore § 980

A finger print expert was called as a witness who compared certain finger prints of the accused taken in Court with some other finger prints on a paper which contained a record of certain convictions which purported to be the convictions of the accused and pronounced them to be similar Held that the previous convictions were not properly proved Ramdas v King Emperor, 21 C W N 469=39 Ind Cas 302

Whether subsequent pardon affects the admissibility of such evidence A pardon does not remove the admissibility of the original judgment for the purposes of impeachment, for (unless otherwise expressly declared therein) a pardon does not imply a finding of innocence of the person convicted Mr Winnington in arguing in Crosby's Trial 12 How St Tr 1296, said 'Though the offence was taken away by the pardon yet the credit of the party must be diminished thereby, and no ... consequences of a crime (though ... man a new creature, as long ... malicious spirit still remains' " ... the ground of innocence or to ... does not change th... ple that the conviction of an infamous ... general character of a person ... as a witness must be bad ... is restored by the executive ... Doe J in Curtis v Cochran, 50 N H 242, Wigmore § 980

Exception 2 This exception refers to matter which is easily susceptible of proof and strikes at the very root of the witness's trustworthiness Cun Ev 383 ... The legislat... Hitchcock 1 ... always been ... answer of ... prove in evid... be allowed ... him ... I think the expression ... subject of inquiry' is far too vague and loose to be the foundation of any judicial decision And I may say I am not at all prepared to adopt the proposition in thes... that a witness may be contradicted as to any ... t be in any way connected with the sub... with the issue as a matter capable of ... must be so far connected with it as to be a matter which if answered in a particular way would contradict a part of ... he one nor the other of these ... as connected ... observed between ... radiction as dire... before the jury ar... ter of the witness ... lings to-

S. wards one party or the other. It is certainly allowable to ask a witness in what manner he stands affected towards the opposite party in the cause, and whether he does not stand in such a relation to that person as is likely to affect him and prevent him from [illegible] whether he has not used express[illegible] d on some one or that he would [illegible] the cause in one way or the oth[illegible] dence as to what he said,—not with[illegible] re, but to show what is the state o[illegible] may exercise their opinion as to hov[illegible] here you may show the condition c[illegible] re parties, are not to be confounded with other cases where it is proposed to contradict a witness on some matter unconnected with the question at issue." In the same case Alderson B said: "The question is this, can you ask a witness as to what [illegible] him of any [illegible] e at [illegible] sked [illegible] ties, [illegible] nent [illegible] be [illegible] ntra- [illegible] ther [illegible] the [illegible] re is [illegible] that you can with propriety permit a witness to be examined first and contradicted afterwards on a point which is merely and purely collateral." Wigmore § 1020

[illegible] circumstances and expressions indicating [illegible] ny; they are therefore also provable in [illegible] r. C. 49; Wigmore § 1005. In Thomas v [illegible] "If the question had been whether the [illegible] I think that that would [illegible] a charge, [illegible] whether the [illegible] e her the [illegible] way as [illegible] and had denied that."

A party may call evidence to show that a witness on the other side has [illegible] motive, [illegible] re bias [illegible] on the [illegible] called [illegible] hers to [illegible] he has [illegible] epted; [illegible] ribe is [illegible] offer." [illegible] ness to [illegible] within [illegible]

[illegible] 1? He [illegible] id been [illegible] the words imputed to him [illegible] that, as [illegible] e might [illegible] Tippet, 2

It is allowable to ask a witness in what manner he stands affected towards the oppo- to that per unprejudi would be dispose of the cause in one way or the other; and if he denies it, evidence may be given as to what he said not with the view of having a direct effect, but to show what is the state of mind of that witness, in order that the jury may exercise their opinion as to how far he is to be believed Att Gen v Hitchcock, 1 Ex 93 In an action on a promissory note (in which the defence appears to have been that the note was forged), the female servant of the plaintiff, who was one of the attesting witnesses to the note, was asked on cross examination whether she did not constantly sleep in the same bed with the plaintiff, which she denied Coleridge J held that a witness might be called by the defendant to contradict her, as the question was whether the witness had contracted such a relat ... to conspire w ... nd been a ... ed that I ... witness ... prostitute, that would have been a collateral could not have been contradicted Thomas ... Collier 15 Q B 883, Russ Cr 2319

154. The Court may, in its discretion, permit the person who calls a witness to put any questions to him which might be put in cross-examination by the adverse party.

Question by party to his own witness

Principle The examination of an adverse party some times becomes nec dir fav des circ of case ... tile, whether or not a necessity wi ... ostile when called A witness wh ... nner at variance with his state- ment o witness him, an rules o where he seems to have forgotten some material point, it may be suggested to his mind in the form of a leading question Mckelvey's Ev § 250.

Scope of the section A party is his own witness as correct It is very clea may prove the truth of material facts though the effect of such testimony is to directly contradict his own witness, "and this, not only when it appears that the witness was innocently mistaken but even where the ... collaterally have the effect of showing that he ... his is now recognized ... s taken by surprise ... witness, previously called by has been false or mistaken in his prove the truth by others" This common ... witness may have answered many questions satisfactorily, and some unsatis factor ... There is no impeach- men used the occu is n

though no other witnesses are called to contradict him, the party may rely on part of such testimony, although in other parts the witness denies the facts sought to be proved It has been well said that if the other rules should prevail, 'every one would be at the mercy of his own witness, and if the first witness sworn should swear against him he would lose the testimony of all the rest This would be a perversion of justice' Small v Gregory 37 Mich 500 The right to contradict the party s own witness does not extend to every fact testified to by the witness but is limited to those which are material to the issue The mistaken or false answer of a witness respecting a fact material to be shown at the trial of a cause may always be contradicted by other proof and which may be offered by either party, but it is otherwise as to statements by the witness of matters merely collateral As to these, the party calling the witness and making the enquiry is bound Burr Jones § 857 Before the party calling the witness can cross examine him it is not necessary that the witness should first of all be declared hostile and question to cross examine can be allowed by the Court to be asked even though the witness does not show himself to be hostile Ammathayarammal v Off Assignee, A I R 1933 Mad 137=56 M 7=64 M L J 208, Baikuntha v Prasanna Moyi, 72 Ind Cas 286 P C

But the rule as regards a witness called by a party, who turns hostile is quite different With the permission of the Court he can be cross-examined Leading questions can be put to him and he can be impeached like witness called by the adversary The discretion of the Judge under this section is absolute and not subject to review by the Appellate Court Rice v Howard 16 B D Q 681, Price v Manning, 42 Ch D 373

witness
that I R ations

First the reason why section 154 does not say that with the permission of the Court a party many cross examine his own witness is simply that this would in strictness be a contradiction in terms Cross examination means an examination by the adverse party as distinct from the party who calls the witness (section 137) This I think is the whole explanation of the use of the phrase put any questions to him which might be put in cross examination by the adverse party The second observation is that while the mere putting of a question in a leading form is not necessarily tantamount to cross examination there is no doubt as to the power of the Judge to give leave to put a leading question to one's own witne e second part of which goes further than the Jges to give permission in certain cases C 1401=35 C W N 731=A I R 1931 Cal 401 (F B), see also Bikram ... v Emperor 57 C 801=124 Ind Cas 66=50 C L J 467=A I R 1930 Cal 139

English law as regards hostile witness It was an established rule of common law that a party should not be allowed to give general evidence to discredit his own witness i e general evidence that he is unworthy of belief on his oath By calling a witness a party represents him to the Court as worthy of credit, or at least not so infamous as to be wholly unworthy of it and if he ly mala fides ty to destroy if he spoke poke against party might ce to show that the evidence which he gave was untrue in fact 10th Ed 5 6 d it would be in the unfavourable ity, and who are r it was competent for a party to show that his own witness had made statements out of Court inc point on Taylor 1st the one hand it was urged that . . . the general rule, that a S. party must . . . a witness Ph & Am Ev 904, that to . . . would tend to multiply issues; that it would enable a party to . . .

. . . make a statement out of Court, of the purpose of its being reserved, and afterwards used to contradict him; and that the jury might regard such a statement as substantive evidence in the cause Moreover, the use of oaths and other sanctions of truth is to extract facts which parties might be willing to conceal; and the allowing a witness to be thus contradicted holds out an inducement to him to maintain by perjury in Court any false and hasty statements he may have made out of it Best Ev. § 645 The following reasoning was put forward on the other side: "It may be argued, the evidence is not open to the objection that the party would thus discredit his own witness by general testimony, that although a party who calls a person of bad character as witness, knowing him to be such, ought not to be allowed to defeat his testimony because it turns out unfavourable to him, by direct proof of general bad character, yet it is only just that he should be permitted to show, if he can, that the evidence has taken him by surprise, and is contrary to the examination of the witness, preparatory to . . .
against the contriv . . . himself to an oppos . . . in the interest of . . .
that the rule with th . . . ought to be the s . . . other, and that the . . .
substantive . . .
of collusion, . . . , as to the supposed danger be further r . . . easily detected It may the litigating . . . ch not only the interests of truth, in crim . . .
attained by . . .
estimating its real value . . .
more especially, th . . . attended with the . . .

In this state . . .
was originally applicable only to Civil Courts but has since been extended (28 & 29 Vict, C 18, ss 1 3) to all Courts of judicature as well criminal as all others, and to all persons having by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive, and examine evidence, and which enacts that "A party producing a witness shall not be allowed to impea . . . character, but he may, in case the . . .
prove adverse, contradict him by other . . .
prove that he made at other times . . . testimony . . .
of the s . . .
mention . . .
such statement . . .
sense of the . . .
not merely . . .
party Grea . . .

Adverse witness . . . F & F 422 . . . appears to h . . . contrary to . . .
201, Taylo . . .
160 William . . .
were unfav . . .
Judge shall consider him hostile and (2) that the Judge shall also give leave, which he need not do even though the witness is hostile; Cockburn C J not altogether assenting In Coles v Coles, L R 1 P & D 70, Sir J P. Wilde said An adverse witness is one who does not give in evidence what the party calling him ... ance in which h ... uth to the C ... v Jacks ... construed "adverse" as merely "different and ... v Wilson, 4 F. & F. 301; Faulkner v Brine, 1 F. and F. 254; Martin v. Ins Co 1 F & F. 505; Anstell v Alexander, 16 L T R N S 830, R ... 188 In Rice v Howard, L I ... "adverse" as equivalent to ... 860 (869), Mr Justice Mukerjee ... the opinion of the Judge, ... and not merely when his testi... Wilde J remarked in Coles ... one who from the manner in ... desirous of telling the truth; and secondly, as Lord Campbell C J ... in Faulkner v Brine, 1 F. & F. 254, when a witness is treated as hostile and cross examined by the party calling him, this must be done to discredit the witness altogether and not merely to get rid of part of his testimony; see also Greenough v. Eccles, 5 C B 786; Reede v. King, 30 L T. 290; R. v Smith, 2 Cr App R 86, 106 A witness who is gained over by the other party is a hostile witness Parmeswar v Emperor, 94 Ind Cas 705= ... 19=44 Ind Cas 33 ... e manner in which he ... is willing to go back ... sirous of telling the truth to the Court Panchanon v. Emperor, A. I. R 1930 Cal. 276=34 C W 526=51 C. L J 203

... ing ... ng ... of ... out ... be ... mina ... out ... ation ... tially ... r the ... ings- ... ence, ... him ... with ... pump ... Evans to his ... be decided by the ... upon the trial ... ay have for withholding a fair account, are also very proper circumstances to be taken into account in forming his decision A son will not be very forward in stating ... he has been the only witness; a servant ... master, be very ready to acknowledge the

... Appleton C J said: "If the witness is ... adverse to the part ... on which author- ... is it ... have ... ows, ... lly, ... ness, ... rom ... terest, or withheld ... to elicit the truth ... ding questions are ... r interested by the r ... & Moo 126, R. v.

S. 1

Chapman, 8 C. & P. 559; R v. Ball, 1 C & P. 715; Ohlsm v. Terrero, L R. 13 Ch 129; see also Alexander v. Gibson, 2 Campb 556; Bradly v. Ricardo, 8 Bing 57; Friendlander v. London Assurance Co, 4 B & Ad 193. This rule is applicable in cases of witnesses unwilling for any other reason to tell all they may know Parkin v Moon, 7 C & P. 109; R v Murphy, 8 C & P. 306; Wigmore § 774; R. v Ball, 8 C. & P. 745 Putting leading questions to one's own witness with the permission of the Court under ss 154 and 143 of the Evidence Act does not amount to declaring the witness as hostile and cross-examining him so as upon the evidence of th Ind Rul. (1930) Cal desire to add that in m together do not give own witnesses even wit that they may, with cross-examine him The wording of s. 154 shows that the Legislature did not intend to distinguish the law in this country from the law which obtains in England."

Impea
Court did n 2 Stra. 100
8 How St.
Trial, Lor reasons as is bound Lord Ellenborough L C J in Alexander v Gibson 2 Camp 555 "If a witness is called on the part of the plaintiff, who swears what is palpably false, it would be extremely hard if the plaintiff's case should for that reason be sacrificed, but I know of no rule of law by which the truth is on such an occasion to be shut out and justice is to be perverted" Similarly in Bradley v Ricardo, 8 Bing 58, Tindal C J said "The object of all the laws of evidence is to bring the whole truth of
w ex
ch
m me reliance
m

his ow witnes of beli
having afterwards to impeach their general reputation for truth Due answer supposed guarantee ought not discovered the witness's Another and more satisnot to be subserved by binding the parties with guarantees and vouchings, and that it is the business of a Court of Ju tion, whatever make Wigmore § 898 duct of trials, neither party does know, and much less does he guarantee the character and trustworthiness of the witness called by him Chief Justice May, in 11 Amer common experience show that, it is to be in er is such that order—at least called are thos be is pre- under exa e such persons as happen to have been cognizant of the facts, and are not such as the parties have selected at their pleasure In point of fact it is substantially true that parties call particular persons as witnesses simply because they are obliged to and can call no others If a lawsuit was a manufacture, and the party bringing it could select his materials—facts and witnesses—, there might be some propri these materials but as bot character is out of the quest he can get to make out 19 L J Q B 493 So the Indian Legislature wisely departed from the rule of English law and under this section, a person who calls a witness may with the permission of the Court ask him questions to show his general bad character Cun Ev 384

Prior self contradiction—Party's own witness Prior self contradiction neutralizes the statement on the stand, by showing that the witness can not be correct in both statements and is as likely to be wrong in the latter as in the former, and further more, that his certain error in this one respect indicates a possibility of error upon other points But what is not to be necessarily implied from this error is any reflection upon the witness's character nor indeed upon any specific testimonial quality The implication is merely that in some respect his testimonial capacity is capable of error memory, perhaps through bias or disposition, but not definitely in any e rule forbidding the impeachment of one's own witness does not extend its prohibition to this sort of evidence fear of being is of adic tion as a legitimate reason for such apprehension on the part of the witness Wigmore § 902, see also Parmeshwar v Emperor, 94 Ind Cas 705=A I R 1926 Pat 316

Calling the other party as a witness If there is any situation in which mpeaching the first uch le t party ila he

§ 916 But it is not only the defendant at the very outset of the case, to be put in the witness nominally as plaintiff s of the plaintiff before tell his own story Max where a plaintiff was cross examine him Any refusal on the part of Court to allow such cross examination would cause miscarriage of justice Radhajeebun v Taramonee 12 M I A 380 (393) This case was explained and distinguished by Mookerjee J in Lucharam v Radhacharan 34 C L J 107 His Lordship observed In support of this position he placed Committee in Radhajeebun v Taramor 11 W R P C 31 That decision There the witnesses summoned for the plaintiff (except one) did not appear The plaintiff thereupon filed a petition praying that the case might deposition rt whether The defen submitted asked leave further questions to ntiff and dismissed expressed their d s the case went up to the Judicial Committee, their Lordships fully concurred in the propriety of that censure Th calls the defer of right; in a witness called by the Court. If the contention of the appellants were to prevent, it would in emphatic terms l Lal v Chuni Lal

would appeal from the judge f the artifices of a weak and somewhat cause his opponent to be summoned person who calls a witness to put any question to him which might be put in cross-examination by the adverse party The rule recognized in Clarke v Saffery, R & M 126 and Boston v Carew, R & M 127, namely, that when the witness stands in a situation which naturally makes him adverse to the party who desires his testimony, as for example, when a defendant is called as the plaintiff's witness, the party calling the witness is entitled to cross-examine him, cannot be held applicable in this country in view of the provisions of section 154 of the Indian Evidence Act Indeed, even in England, it has been ruled in later cases that the situation in which a witness stands towards either party does not give the party calling the witness a right to cross examine him unless the witness's evidence be of such a nature as to make it appear that the witness is unwilling to tell the truth; Parkin v Moon, 7 C & P 408, R v Ball, 8 C & P 745, and it now appears to be settled law in England that a party when called by his opponent cannot as of right be treated as hostile, the matter being solely in the discretion of the Court Price v Manning, 43 Ch D 373 ed as one who he is not desirou

P & D 70, G
47 C 1043=32 C
Cas 814

Necessary wi ... one of the attesting witnesses must be called ... ase of a Will (Vide s 68) Hence it is conced ... peachment by the propo nent of the Will ... , Bowman v Bowman, 2 Mos & Rob 501 ... S 745 747, Cockburn C J said I ... who claims under a Will, and consequently ... tnesses to it, cannot, in the event of one as for instance by See also Jones v Jones, 24 T L R 839; Paul 13 But in Surendra v Ranee Dassi 24 C Mookerjee said "We regret to the cross examination were co Not only were the proceedin to shake the credit of a witness in violation of the provision leading questions were put in provisions of the law It h pounder was obliged under section 168 of the ... should be treated as a witness attesting witness to the Will, such witness called by the Court and liable to be cross-examined, as a matter of right, by ... this contention cannot be upheld under ... which provides that the Court may, in its ... alls a witness to put any questions to him which might be put in cross-examination by the adverse party. There is in this respect, no distinction on principle between an attesting witness whom a party is obliged to call and any other witness whom he may cite of his own choice, but the Court may, in the exercise of its discretion, be more easily persuaded in the former case than in the latter In view of the provision of the Indian Evidence Act, it is thus plain that there is no room for the application, in this country, of the view taken in the case of Bowman v Bowman, 2 Mo & Rob 501, Jackson v. Thomason, 1 B & S 717, and Coles v Coles, L R 1 P, & M. 70, 71, that a necessary witness, that is, one whom a party is compe ... of the C ... (1909) P ... doubtful ... in Jones v ... 42 Ch. D ... two important points must be borne in mind, first, that a witness is considered adverse when ... calling him ... words, as Wil ... from the ma ... of telling the ... v Brine sup ... party calling ... merely to get rid of part of his testimony."

The Court ... the discretion is given to the tri ... Howard, 16 Q B D 681 ... r appoint ed to examine a ... on vested in the Court under this section and the mischief due to improper cross examination could not be remedied in the trial Court Surendra v Ranee Dassee, 24 C W. N 869 It is not open to the prosecution in a criminal trial to cross ... stile witness ... in evidence ... v Emperor, 1 Pat 758=4 Pat L T 232=24 Cr. L J. 69=71 Ind Cas 117=1923 P. 62, ... witness is a ... le ... ore ... ce ... the witness would ... testimony ... witness by ... 1 Ind Cas. ... cution but ... Ramjang ... L T ... tements ... nt each ... and if ... Jurla v ... (596) ... Courts and the proper course in such a case is to give permission to the prosecution to ask the witness a leading question and then to read out evidence before the ... of truth Moti ... 151 ...

it necessary for the facts to be got from the witness by means of cross examination That ... to say "I propose to ... Court to allow such cross-exa... more than the mere position ...

... sought Such permission should ... Court indicating permission ... words by some other action of the ... Ammo thayarammal v Offl Assignee, A I R 1933 Mad 137=57 Mad 7.

The accused are entitled in cross examination to elicit facts in support of their defence from the prosecution witnesses, though the facts thus elicited had no relation to the facts to which the witnesses had testified in the examination-in chief In course of cross examination of this character, the defence are entitled in view of the generality of the provision of section 143, Evidence Act, to ask leading questions and the Court might, in its discretion under section 154 permit the ... even though he had ... d by the defence ... ge and his decision ... 19 C W N 676=

Effect of cross examining his own witness 'When a witness who has been called by the prosecution is permitted to be cross examined on behalf of the prosecution under the provisions of section 154 of the Evidence Act, the result of that course being permitted is to discredit that witness altogether and not merely to get rid of a part of his testimony Lord Campbell C J in Faulkner v Brine, 1 F & F 264 This has been held in a good number of cases in this country as w... of Luchiran, ... v Satyendra, ... these questions to be put by the prosecution was to deprive the accused of the benefit which might accrue to him from any statement which the witness might have made in favour of the accused and which the defence could have availed of if the witness had not been allowed to be cross examined by the prosecution For th... own ... ss examine its ... is a d... eby that there ... exam... to be cross-... That discretion has always to be exercised ... caution by the Court before which the matter comes up for consideration Per Mookerjee J in Khyiruddin v Emperor, 42 C L J 504 So if a counsel is given permission to cross examine his own witness it must be done to discredit his own witness altogether, and not merely to get rid of part of his testimony, because if that which is suggested sha... Therefore, his whole ... and disbelieved in part ... 173, see also Makbul Khan v King Emperor, 32 C W N 513 But in Emperor v. Jehangir Cama, A I R 1927 Bom 501–29 Bom L R 996=106 Ind Cas 106, the Court observed 'As to the legal consequence, the prosecution sought to discredit the statements of witnesses they considered hostile only on certain points It is contended for the defence that the legal result was to discredit the evidence in toto of those witnesses including those portions on which the prosecution wished to rely This view is founded on the dictum of Lord Cambell C J in Faulkner v Brine, 1 F & F 254, accepted by the Calcutta High Court in cases such as Khyiruddin v Emperor, A I R 1926 Cal 139=53 C 372 But as was pointed out in the lower Courts, the view of Lord Campbell is not accepted even in England. Bradlay v Ricardo, 8 Bing 57, Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol XIII, p 600 It does not find support in any provision of the Indian Evidence Act or other enactment in India With all respect, therefore, I am unable to say that the total discarding of the evidence of such witnesses can be formulated as a necessary legal result, amounting in fact to Falsus in Uno, Falsus in omnibus If it cannot be formulated, then the result must be the same as in other cases, and it must be a matter for the Court on the particular facts in each case to credit or to discredit the different portions of the evidence of each witness in other cases The view taken by the Bombay Court appears to be consonant with law [illegible] d reason Nevertheless we should bear in mind the obse[illegible] v Ricardo 8 Bing 57, where he said [illegible] pic for counsel as to the degree of credit to [illegible] He maxim 'Falsus in Uno Falsus in omnibus' [illegible] one point will [illegible] bility, but [illegible] t the maxim [illegible] n it merely [illegible] e told, and in the others it is absolutely false as a maxim of life, and secondly in point of utility, because it merely tells the jury what they may do in any event not what they must do or must not do and therefore it is a superfluous form of words Wigmore § 1008 Commenting on the decision of Cunning and Lort Williams JJ in Mahbub Khan v Emperor, supra, Sir Courtney Terrel C J said The theory so stated is fallacious A party is allowed to cross examine his own witness who displays hostility and not necessarily because he displays untruthfulness The theory has gained currency owing perhaps to the common belief that the sole object of cross examination is to discredit the witness whereas its main purpose is to obtain admissions and it would be ridiculous to assert that a party by cross examining a witness is thereby prevented from relying on admission and to hold that the fact that the witness is being cross examined implies an admission by the cross examiner that all the witness's statements are falsehoods The correct view was in my opinion expressed in Jehangir v Emperor 106 Ind Cas 100=29 Bom L R 996=A I R 1927 Bom 501 Moreover the opinion of Lord Campbell has never been followed in England and English law upon which the Indian Evidence Act is founded was clearly stated by Tindal C J in Bradley v Ricardo, 8 Bing 57=1 L J C P 36 Shorai Sao v Emperor A I R 1939 Pat 230 11 P L T 148 But [illegible] High Court took a different view Panchnon [illegible] set at rest by the [illegible] la Kumar Sircar v [illegible] 11 (F B) In that [illegible] was discussed The [illegible] net result of the Full Bench case is [illegible] as hostile need not be rejected, (ii) such [illegible] it is in favour of the party calling [illegible] rejected so far as it is in favour of the opposite party" See also Ammathapuru mal v Official Assignee A I R 1933 Mad 137=56 Mad 7=64 M L J 208

155 The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways by the adverse party, or, with the consent of the Court, by the party who calls him —

Impeaching credit of witness

(1) by the evidence of persons who testify that they from their knowledge of the witness, believe him to be unworthy of credit,

(2) by proof that the witness has been bribed, or has accepted * the offer of a bribe or has received any other corrupt inducement to give his evidence,

(3) by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradicted,

*The word accepted in s 155 para (2) was substituted for the original word 'had by the Indian Evidence Act Amendment Act (18 of 1872) s 11

(4) when a man is prosecuted for rape or an attempt to ravish, it may be shown that the prosecutrix was of generally immoral character. S. 1

Explanation.—A witness declaring another witness to be unworthy of credit may not, upon his examination-in-chief, give reasons for his belief, but he may be asked his reasons in cross-examination, and the answers which he gives cannot be contradicted, though, if they are false, he may afterwards be charged with giving false evidence.

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for the price of goods sold and delivered to B C says that A delivered the goods to B

Evidence is offered to show that, on a previous occasion, he said that he had not del

3 that A had given B the wound of which he died

Evidence is offered to show that, on a previous occasion, C said that the wound was not given by A or in his presence

The evidence is admissible

Scope of the section Besides being asked questions tending to discredit, a witness may be discredited by the evidence of other persons to the effect that (1), they, from their knowledge of the witness, believe him to be unworthy of credit, (2) that the witness has been bribed or has accepted the offer of a bribe, (3) that he has on former occasions made statements inconsistent with his present evidence, and ... mns to rape in which the prosecutrix is a ... Any of the above facts ... witness and, with the con ... Here, again, precautions are taken to prevent the Court ... controversy by the following rule Where a witness states that he believes another to b ... asked his re ... his reasons ... course, they ... false evidence It is clear that but for some such rule, there might be a pitched battle fought over the character of every witness, and that suits would be simply interminable. Cun Ev 67 Cross examination is by no means the only method of impeaching the credit of a witness What he states as fact may always be disproved by other independent witnesses Generally speaking a party cannot discredit his own witne ... the witness of truth, and though the story he tells m ... ted, that affords no just ground for ... that the witness is not worthy of credit ... the party who calls him, is evidentl ... and the ... to impe ... Norr Ev ... counter ... Best, "there are three ways of throwing discredit on the testimony of an adversary's witness (1) By giving evidence of his general bad character for veracity, i e the evidence of persons who depose that he is in their judgment unworthy of belief, even though he made the st ... to what they know ... particular f ... occasions made statements inconsistent with the evidence he has g ... proving misconduct connected with proceedings, or other circumstances showing

S. that he does not stand indifferent between the contending parties Thus it may be proved that a witness has been bribed to give his evidence or has offered bribes to others to give evidence for the party whom he favours or that he has used expressions of animosity and revenge ... whom he bears testimony etc ' Best s 644 The Indi... first two instances in toto and has taken ...

...ssible to prove that a witness ... Case, 7 How St Tr 446, All Gen ... is also taken from the Engl...h ... f rape and when the prosecutrix is examined

Under the provisions of section 155 of the Evidence Act the credit of a witness may be impeached by proof o... ...nsistent with any part of the statement which is liable to ... G Ay Maung A I R 1927 Rang 247 = 6 I ... A I R 1927 Rang 247 This section does not allow evidence of witness's general bad character to be brought in Maung San v Emperor, Ind Rul (1930) Rang 91

Clause (1) This clause is chiefly based on Queen v Brown, L R 1 C C R 70 = 36 L J M C 59 At the close of the case for the prosecution the counsel after having called several witnesses to character, proposed to call witnesses to prove that they would not believe ... their oaths The Court decided on refusing ...

... the Court for the opinion of the Court of Criminal Appeal, whether the evidence tendered by the defendant's counsel ought to have been received or not The Court consisting of Kelly C B, Martin B, and Byles Keating and Shee JJ declining to hear any further argument on the subject observed that all the text writers were agreed that the evidence could be given, and that the practice was so ancient, and hitherto so undoub... ...e authority of the legislature ... an opponent's witness bears ... ...nworthy of belief R v Watson ... Stark 159 ... proposed questions being ' Have you the means of knowing what the general character of his witness was ?' and 'From such ... ...lieve him on his oath ?' Mawson ... v Brown L R 1 C C R 70 ... e put in that way, as it would ... bout the means of knowing the ... what degree of credit was due to the assertion, and the means that witness then called had of informing himself ... e the question may be shortened thus ... ss would you believe him on his oath ?' ... St Tr 253 counsel asked "Is he a ... oath or not ? Witness ' I must tell ... istakes about his own wife that by God, I would not take his word for a half penny" So the law is that ' you may ask ... at law ... s & B ... Rudge ... 's Trial ... ckinson ... ' When ... ...mitted to call after ... ou believe ... Tr 812 ... 126 In ... s is objected to ... e, but specific ... not admis... Abbott J ... ony of ... ne case

S.

Bayley J said: "The witness ... his oath" See also R ...
R v Hemp, 5 C & ...
Cox Cr 48; R v. Du ... enquire whether they ...
character, and whether ... oath' Phillipps' Evidence 1st Ed 109 Commenting on this passage Prof. Wigmore says. 'We are now in a position to understand the language of the ...
... e, for instance,
... 'in the sense of particular acts

... they employed the term 'general character', any meaning of 'reputation,' as distinguished from personal knowledge, was far from their minds, and would have been ...
L & C 520, se ... character, and ...
both ...

... testimony of others cannot be ...
... entitled to depose ... general opinion ... oath" Vide 1s ...
Law Vol I, at ...
witnesses who w ... oath" So the ... evidence is to be given ... acts The same law ... m the explanation, which enjoins that in cross-examination he may be asked his reasons for his belief Estimate of a witness in another case. Evidence of a particular estimate formed by ... of a witness ...

matter of ...
L R 2 ...
a witness ...
before it and not on what another Court thought of the witness in another case, and therefore the opinion of Court in another case as to the witness cannot be put in to impeach his credit Chandreshwar Prosad v Bisheswar Prosad, A I R 1927 Pat 61 = 101 Ind Cas, 289 = 5 P 777

Re establishment of credit 'Where the general reputation of a witness has been thus impeached the party calling him may re establish his credit, by cross examining the witnesses (vide Explanation), who have spoken against him as to the means ... (Mawson v Hartsink, 4 Esp ... ose testimony they ... by calling other ... v Murphy 19 How ...
tion of the impeachm ... to impeach A, and C ... end of this process, ... in a mass of testimony amounting to not much more than mutual verification Three courses are open to pursue first, to exclude absolutely the impeachment of the character of an impeaching witness, secondly, to admit the impeachment of an impeaching witness, but no more, thirdly, to admit it only to such an extent as the discretion of the trial Court deems best The preferable rule is the third" Wigmore § 895

Foundation for discrediting a witness By the English law it is necessary, before giving evidence for the purpose of discrediting a witness, to lay a foundation for the evidence to be given by the interrogation of the witness himself and his denial This is not necessary under the present Act Cun Ev 386

Clause (2)—By proof that the witness has been bribed or has accepted the offer of a bribe etc The word "accepted" was substituted by Act XVIII of 1872 for the word "offered" This substitution was probably made in accordance with the rule of law laid down in Att Gen v Hitchcock, 16 L J Ex 259= 1 Ex 91, where the defendant a maltster, was charged on information with having used a c ... entry thereof, as required by ... that the cistern had been used, ... excise officers had offered him £20 to say the cistern had been used, and he denied that he had made such statement The defendant's Counsel thereupon called Cook, and proposed to ask him whether the witness had told him so The evidence was disallowed Pollock C B in delivering his judgment said, "In the present case it would not be proved that a bribe was offered to the witness and not accepted, for such a fact is clearly irrelevant to the matter in issue, The offer of a bribe is a matter of no importance, if it be not accepted, for it does not disparage the party to whom it is offered" In the same case Alderson B said "The offer of a bribe by a witness to another, or the fact of a bribe having been accepted by him, tends to show that he is not impartial" Rolf B added "The offer of a bribe, if rejected, has no bearing upon the credit of the witness" "The alteration", says Mr Justice Cunningham "like several of the amendments introduced by Act XVIII of 1872, appears to have been made without adequate regard to the conside ... framers of the Act to word it as they did" Cun ... where the witness in question has merc ... any sort as to the witness's testimony can ... deprives the offer of all its force in that respect From the point of view of ... ption is admissible against ... but this involves the necessity ... a matter not always feasible

Wigmore § 96...

Receipt of money for testimony The witness's receipt of money for testimony may indicate corruption in two ways, first, from the conduct in receiving it, may be inferred a willingness to speak falsely, secondly, from the fact of its having been received or promised, may be inferred an interest in favour of the cause of the giver, just as any fact of pecuniary interests make probable such a partiality Wigmore § 961

Clause (3)—Evidence of former inconsistent statement Vide illustrations (a) and (b) Any statement, verbal as well as written, may be used for this purpose The witness must be specifically asked whether he made such and such statements, before he can be contradicted by them through another witness Where the statement ... section 145 Norton Ev 331 ... that derogates from the credit of a ... ntrary to what he asserts, and ... in as much as contraries cannot be ... overthrows his testimony is ... t he says be contradictory, that ... tally opposite cannot receive belief from the attestation of any man Gilbert's Evidence pp 147, 150 "We simply set the two against each other, perceive that both cannot be correct and immediately conclude that he has erred in one or the other, but without determining which one It is the repugnancy and inconsistency that demonstrates his error and not the superior credibility of the prior statement Thus, we do not necessarily accept his former statement as replacing his present one, the one merely neutralizes the other as a trustworthy one" Wigmore § 1018 It is ... forbids the use ... prior contra ... Ibid In All ... uestion is not ... contradict the ... at he in that particular instance speaks falsely, and although it is (thus) not altogether imo general public convenience, for great . continual course of those sorts of cross-case of a witness being called for the reasons of auxiliary policy, inconsistent be shown This section lays down the Kureem, 17 C 311, Wilson J said "I am the Evidence Act the words, 'which is ... contradicted, mean 'which is relevant to the issue" Now the question is what matters are not relevant The only test in vogue that has of application—

"Could the facts, e been shown in evidence for any purpose independently of the self-contradiction?' In that case Pollock C B said 'My view has always been that the test whether the matter is collateral or not is this If the answer of a witness is a matter which you would be allowed on your part to prove in evidence, if it have such a connection with the issue that you would be allowed to give in evidence, then it is a matter on which you can contradict him" In the same case Alderson B said, "The question is this, can you ask a witness as to what he is supposed to have said on a previous occasion? You may ask him any fact material to the issue, and if he denies it you may prove that fact, as you are at liberty to prove any fact material to the issue'

Th ... enough to per ... witnesses made ... writing it is undesirable to permit the putting of such questions In such a case the written ... proper and right thing to prove ... the provisions of s 145, Eviden ... will have to be borne in mind A copy of the statement made before the police cannot be used as against the witness till he has been confronted with it The right procedure then when ... look cop
All
is admissible under this section and may be relied on by the defence to impeach the informant's credit Azimuddi v Emperor, 44 C L J 253=A I R 1927 Cal 17

Statements made by third parties to the police in the course of their investigation are admissible to impeach the credit under s 155 of the Evidence Act provided the person who made the statement is called as a witness Azimuddy v Emperor, 44 C L J ... Statements made before a police officer and reduced to contradict a witness, the Evidence Act had been complied with in the matter of putting specific part of it which were to be relied upon to the witness in cross examination Thomas v Kedar Nath, 30 C W N 835=91 Ind Cas 801=A I R 1925 Cal 1017, see also Ram Charitar v Emperor, 3 Pat L J 568 4 Pat L W 325=45 Ind Cas 272=19 Cr L J 512

A statement made by a witness before a Coroner under the Coroner's Act is admissible in evidence at the trial of the accused Emperor v Ragho 22 Bom L R 775=97 Ind Cas 37=27 Cr L J 1061=A I R 1925 B 404, In re Bayana, 2 Weir 821 When the persons who made certain statements are called as witness, then those statements become admissible, not as substantive evidence in the case, but merely as evidence to corroborate or contradict their statements in Court Nagina v Emperor, 19 A L J 447, see also, Malaya Goundan, In re, 14 L W 612=(1921) M W N 872

The statements ... in a judicial proceeding cannot be used in any subse down in section 33 be used either to s 157 of the Act

5. It is not illegal to examine a police officer for the purpose of impeaching the credit of a witness who gives evidence in favour of an accused at his trial, ment to the police officer different from and nt statement at the trial Emperor v. Jogordro, used under s 155 (3) o in the case Emperor v 16 C W N 431 = 13 Cr i 11 B 657 In a police investigation where the statement is not reduced to writing, the officer may be examined to impeach the credit of a witness who made such statement, 11 B H C 120 The re investigation is not adm may be proved either witness in Court Baha

Section 155 only lays down that the credit of a witness may be impeached inter alia by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradict in which the former statement is to b statement in writing when it is sought to dicting a witness is provided in s 145
s. 145 and is not independent of it Gopichand v Emperor, A I R 1930 491, see also Mahla v Emperor, A I R 1931 Lah. 38 = 32 P L R 259

Whe
about 21 l and obstru to the de Emperor

Secti ment of s except in Emperor v
1061 = 5 Bur L J 30 (1 B)

Previous depositions of witnesses examined for the prosecution in a criminal trial can not be used to contradict what the witnesses state in their cross examination in the present trial Jamal v Emperor, 86 Ind Cas 153 = 26 Cr L J 713 = A. I R 1925 Pat 381.

A recital as to the ... not by itself admissible in evi or cannot be found o If he is examined as a same Prohlad v Ra to have strangled a pers that the eye witness at the spot immediately after the offence was co g helped to strangle the deceased, their
(3) to impeach the credit of the eye witness = A I R 1931 Lah. 189 = 32 = Cr L J

Preliminary warning To obviate the objection of unfair surprise, a

... by proof of anything he may have said or declared touching ... and or words ... essary ... on or ... es of ... might

before the C

S.

offering such explanatory

So that if evidence of this sort could be adduced on the sudden and by surprise, without any previous intimation to the witness or to the party producing him, great injustice might be done. . . . and one of the great objects of the course of proceeding established in our Courts is the prevention of surprise, as far as practicable, upon any person who may appear therein" Wigmore § 1025 If the previous deposition was intended to contradict the witness at the trial, it was contrary to principle to admit the evidence in the manner adopted without first drawing the attention of the witness to every point upon which it was to be used to contradict him If the statement was intended to corroborate the witness as a whole it could not have been put in cross-examination Emperor v Lakshman Totaram 17 Bom L R 590=31 Ind Cas 351=16 Cr L J 751 If a Magistrate finds that a witness is rec different from should be brou

statement attr

be given an opportunity of explaining why the contradiction has occurred If he denies having made such a statement then the statement must be duly proved before it can be used to imp made in the committing Magistrate's C of that Court and brought on the proof because the deposition proves itself Not so a statement attributed to a witness on police papers Nga Pyu v Emperor, 18 Cr L J 811=41 Ind. Cas 663=10 Bur L T. 259 Under this section, a witness cannot be contradicted by his previous statement if his attention has not be drawn to it as required by s 145 of the said Act Mt Amir Begam v Mt Begam, 9 P W R. 1914=127 P L R 1914=22 Ind Cas 831 Proviso (4) One of the relevant uses is that of the character of a rape-complainant for chastity The non-consent of the complainant is here a material element; and the character of the woman as to chastity is of considerable probative value in judging of the likelihood of that consent Wigmore § 62 In R. v Ryan, 2 Cox Cr 115, Platt B said "It is important to consider whether a young person in such a state of incapacity was likely to consent to the embraces of this man, because if her habits, however irresponsible she might be, were loose and indecent, there might be a probability of consent being given and a party" Gener woman be not cross examinat

(R. v Clarke

counsel for the defence cannot go further, and prove specific immoral acts with the prisoner, unless he has first given the prosecutrix an opportunity of denying or explaining them R v Cockcroft, 11 Cox 410, R v Martin, 6 C & P 562, R v Robins, 2 M & Rob 51' It further appears to be the law, that although the prosecutrix may be cross examined as to particular acts of immorality with other men, she may decline to answer such questions, and if she answers th her R v Cockcroft,

Taylor § 363 It character or trait for § 62 The reason in People v Jackson virtue,

would

from a

that it

Besides, if proof of particular instances should be admissible, would be allowable, and thus there might be one or more collateral issues to occupy the time and divert the attention of the jury Such would be the evils if the prosecution could require previous and timely notice of the particulars of the intended attack upon the conduct of the complainant but as no such notice can be enacted, there would be no means of meeting the evidence of the dissolute companions of the accused however mistaken or corrupt it might ... le might be the general ed in th is 439= mined as to as to her having had connection with the prisoner previously to the alleged rape (R v Martin 6 shew that she rk Ev 3rd Ed 9 refers to such e or that she had the general reputation of giving about and committing immoral acts with a number of men It is not enough to show that she ran away with a man once or twice or that she had on specific occasions done something immoral Wahid Ali v Emperor, 36 C W N 356=A I R 1932 Cal 593

Explanation In the examination in chief a witness cannot be asked the reasons for his belief that another witness is unworthy of credit Such questions can only be asked in the cross examination But it is very dangerous in for believing a witness to be led to state any unfavourable

Impeaching credit of ones own witnesses A party is not obliged to receive as unimpeached truth every thing which a witness called by him may swear to If his witness has been false or mistaken in his testimony he may prove the truth by others Brown v Bellows 4 Pick 187, 194 (Am) According to English law 'a party ... general evidence to discredit his own witness for tha... the witness if he spoke against him and ... spoke for him
... not him
It is oral urd
than to ask a jury to find truth upon the testimony of a witness notorious for not speaking the truth, all the while concealing from them the fact that he is or may be a false witness, and how can it be of importance to the main purpose of the trial how or by whom the fact that the witness is not to be relied upon is made known? If he betrays the party who calls him and falsifies in every statement which he makes the opposite party will of course accept the treason say nothing of impeachment and leave the jury no alternative but to find an unjust verdict upon evidence which both the parties know to be rankest perjury Certainly a rule which may produce such a result ought to be at once discarded unless it can be shown to be of some some special use in the general purposes of legal controversy That a Court of justice should permit such a miscarriage on the merits because it sees or fancies it sees a shadow of unfairness in one of the parties in a matter collateral to the suit and in no way touching the justice of the case is a reproach which ought to be done away with No body can profit by the rule but the witness and the antagonist of the party who calls in Some
99 The s that a he Court ched by led upon is only 55 of the tatement
as 272=

1J Cr L J 512

156. When a witness whom it is intended to corroborate gives evidence of any relevant fact, he may be questioned as to any other circumstances which he observed at or near to the time or place at which such relevant fact occurred, if the Court is of opinion that such circumstances, if proved, would corroborate the testimony of the witness as to the relevant fact which he testifies

Questions tending to corroborate evidence of relevant fact, admissible

S.
S.

Illustration

A, an accomplice, gives an account of a robbery in which he took part He described various incidents unconnected with the robbery which occurred on his way to and from the place where it was committed

Independent evidence of these facts may be given in order to corroborate his evidence as to the robbery itself

Scope of the section This section provides for the admission of evidence given for the purpose, not of proving a relevant fact but of testing the witness's truthfulness There is often no better way of doing this than by ascertaining the accuracy of his evidence as to surrounding circumstances, though ... the facts of the case as to

...ration may
...xamination
... prepare the ground ... stances
makes t...
of cert...
have ...
ll an...
has be... which mater... vant to borated mony that must howe... corroborate and not on...
party to ... party Mo...

Co... that cor-roborat... the same point ... or facts calculated to produce the same results as facts already given in evidence This distinction ... clearly marked although or... whether it ... same fact

157 In order to corroborate the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by such witness relating to the same fact, at or about the time when the fact took place, or before any authority legally competent to investigate the fact may be proved.

Former statements of witness may be proved to corroborate later testimony as to same fact

English law ness s testimony on although otherwise date of the fact to be ...

7. But facts which are not mor the reverse are inadmissible by cross examination or othe in certain cases no verdict can be obtained without the production of such evidence The corroborative facts and evidence must, however, be proved otherwise than by the testimony of the witness to be corroborated Formerly the fact that a witness had made a previous statement similar to his testimony in Court could rule was change direct examinatic establish his credit, when impeached by proof of a previous contradictory statement (Phipson Ev 140) When the witness has merely testified on direct examination, without any impeachment, proof of consistent statements is unnecessary and valueless The witness is not helped by it, for, even if it be an improbable or untrustworthy story, it is not made more probable or more trust-worthy by a number of repetitions of it Such evidence would be both irrelevant and cumbersome to the trial, and is rejected in all Courts Wigmore § 1124 any ir

under
and t far as can scarcely be satisfactory to any mind to say that, if a witness testifies to a statement to day under oath, it strengthens the statement to prove that he said the same thing yesterday when not under oath ... The idea that the mere repetition of a story gives it any force or proves its truth is contrary to common observation and experience that a falsehood may be repeated as often as the truth Indeed it has never been supposed by any writer or Judge that the repetition had any force as substantive evidence to prove the facts, but only to remove an imputation upon the witness . If he stood before the Court unimpeached, it was unnecessary and mischievous to encumber the Court and oppress the defendant with his garrulousness out of Court and when not on oath" Wigmore § 1124.

Whether this section violates the Hearsay Rule 'Though Hearsay may not be allowed as direct evidence, yet it may be in corroboration of a witness's testimony to show that he affirmed the same thing before on other occasions and that the witness is still consistent with himself" Gilbert Evidence, 68, 150 In this instance the utterance is used otherwise than as an assertion to be credited, and therefore the Hearsay rule is not applicable Wigmore § 1792

Scope o
tion to the borated by p only conditi about the t condition is, made to sup
the circumstances of each As independent evidence iduct, if they accompany re fact of a man having on a previous occasion made the same a chances of its truthfulness; and Judges s borative evidence, Cun Ev § 157. Ir Namabhai Haridas J said. "Section 157 that any former statements made by a witness at or about the time when the fact in issue took place, or before any borate his testimony; and accordi Megia's statements, made on dif Officers, shortly after the murder suffices It can scarcely be said advised by Judges to require the ev

S. 1

From the position in which he stands it is considered unsafe to act upon his evidence alone Hence the rule requiring confirmation of it as to the prisoner's guilt by some independent reliable evidence But his statement, whether made at the trial or before the trial, and in whatever shape it comes before the Court is still only the statement of an accomplice, and does not at all improve in value by repetition The force of any corroboration by means of previous consistent statements must evidently depend upon t[illegible] who is consistent deserves to be believed If [illegible] true, what becomes of the virtue of previous [illegible] persistently adhere to fal ehood once uttered, there is a motive for it, and should the value of [illegible] ever come to be rated higher that it now [illegible] designing and unscrupulous persons to proc[illegible] by f[illegible] people at different times and [illegible]

This section provides an exception to the general rule of excluding hearsay ev d[illegible] is cast [illegible] proximity [illegible] statement [illegible] Cr L J [illegible] to call [illegible]ses whose evidence will be merely relevant under s 157 of the Evidence Act Mathura v Emperor, 10 Pat L T 117=8 Pat 625=A I R 1929 Pat 343 A statement by the father in the vaccination register made three years after the birth of the child does not satisfy the terms of s 157 of the Evidence Act and the same cannot be relied upon to prove the paternity of the child K[illegible] A sale deed dated 1910 b[illegible] to the sale It also [illegible] Poona and asked my [illegible] llot to me my one ninth share of our ancestral property, but they refused to give my share ' It was conten[illegible] were not adm ssible as evidence [illegible] ed a share of th[illegible] that though th[illegible] that it was not [illegible] in 1909 but [illegible] ence given by [illegible] rao 56 I A [illegible] W N 1006

Sections 157 to [illegible] that Police officers entitled to [illegible] in the Crimin[illegible] officer within [illegible] ector of the C[illegible] legally competent to investi gate', [illegible] s 157 of the Evidence Act The p[illegible] by law Whether any authority is legally competent to investigate the fact or not, is not a question of fact or a mixed question of fact or law King Emperor v Nilakanta, 1912 M W N 207=13 Cr L J 305=22 M L J 490=11 M L T Sup 1=35 M 247=14 Ind Cas 849 The ob[illegible] 288 of the Criminal Procedure Code is to [illegible] as the [illegible] the m[illegible] durin[illegible] Chan[illegible] suit f[illegible] land [illegible] neighbouring lands [illegible] land in suit, and [illegible] if the person in whc[illegible] admit the correctn[illegible] 1930 Cal 311=33 [illegible] proceeding, if he [illegible] to contradict or corroborate him Ponnusami v Kalyan, A I. R 1930 Mad 770 Previous statements of witnesses are only ordinarily admissible to corroborate or contradict the witness who have made statements at the trial As to corroborating a witness it is unnecessary for the prosecution to corroborate their witnesses by previous statements until the statement made at the trial has been in one way or another, challenged Abdul Jalil v Emperor, A I R 1930 All he same on statements

which the aconite was administered Held that her statements were admissible in evidence Emperor v Amode Ali, 58 C 1228=35 C W N 573=A I R 1931 Cal 757

Absence of substantive evidence In the absence of substantive evidence first information report and other reports by witness cannot be used as corroborative evidence consequently, where a prosecution witness has gone back on the original complaint made to the police the previous statement cannot be used as corroborative evidence Emperor v Nga Hlaing, 6 R 481=A I R 1928 Rang 295 Earlier statements cannot be let in under section 157 of the Indian Evidence Act if there is present trial which may be co ud lin v Emperor 49 C L J 50 laimant's statements recorded aft stantive evidence Girimalla v

Time for giving corroborative evidence Before corroborative evidence is admissible, the evidence sought to be corroborated must have been given Nistarince v Rai Nundo, 5 C W N XVI It is doubtful whether s 136 gives the Cour ... witness to be given under s eror 5 L B R ative evidence been given given used under s fore and only fury he is ex ments of the corroborating witness s given by s 136 of the Evidence Act =5 Cr L J 411.

Test identification Any Magistrate is competent to hold a test identification and can prove the statements made before him under s 157 of the Evidence Act even though he is not empowered to deal with the matter under enquiry Also s 164 Criminal Procedure Code, covers the case where a records a statement made to 109 Ind Cas 225=29 Cr L J fication in the jail cannot be n the trial Such identification made by certain persons whom they recognize as having been concerned in a particular crime These statements proceedings ses, then case but t When obviously il is not a witness held by the police in the course of the investigation may be proved by oral evidence though the written record of the statement is not admissible Emperor v Wahiuddin, A I R 1930 Bom 158=32 Bom L R 327 ainst the accused prosecution case 17, Chogalla v ah 179 Section first information received to be recorded and not a statement made by a witness during investigation after the Sub-Inspector has actually arrived on the scene and himself seen what has happened Technically speaking, it may be conceded that a first information report taken down by a police officer amounts to an entry in an official reco[illegible] servant in th[illegible] [illegible]

be admissible statement in
[illegible]

[illegible] nformation report although a document of [illegible]stantive evidence, and can be used only as a previous sta[illegible] [illegible]adict the author of it and for no ot[illegible] Rul (1930) Mad 698, see als[illegible] C W N 1213=11 Cr L J 642 [illegible] L J 233=A I R 1927 Cal [illegible] A I R 1930 Mad 632=58 M L [illegible] I R 1932 Oudh 99=137 Ind [illegible]

Statements [illegible] State[illegible] can [illegible] perso[illegible] 44 C [illegible] police [illegible] statem[illegible]
only I[illegible]
statem[illegible]
by a w[illegible] of a [illegible] ments [illegible]
1925 Lah 483 [illegible] witnesses to the police in the course of [illegible] dmissible under section 157 of th[illegible] those witnesses at the trial altho[illegible] statements are rendered in admiss[illegible] lure Baladeo v Emperor, 6 Pat [illegible] 22 Cr L J 433 Statements [illegible] ised to corroborate them except [illegible] v Emperor, 4 Pat L W. 325=3[illegible] 512

Whether this section is affected by s 162 Section 157 of the Evidence Act is affected by s 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code so far as statements to the Police taken under s 161 whether oral or recorded are concerned Emperor v Ngu Tha Din, 4 Rang 72=96 Ind Cas 145=27 Cr L J 881=5 Bur L J 30=A I R 1926 Rang 116 (F B) The main object of the legislature in enacting this section was to prohibit the use of the statements of prosecution witnesses as [illegible] 157 [illegible] Evidence Act Jagwa Dhanuk v. Emperor, 5 [illegible] J 396=27 Cr. L J 481=A. I R 1926 Pa[illegible] 157 Evidence Act. is controlled [illegible] Procedure Code Not only [illegible] police taken under s 161 [illegible] statement by c[illegible] evidence Ra[illegible] Lah 399 Th[illegible] power under [illegible] clearly control[illegible] thun Pillai, 2[illegible] L J 354, Ru[illegible]

Section [illegible] of the writing [illegible]

7. gating Police officer; that section, so far as oral statements of the witnesses ... conflict with s 157, Evidence Act, and those oral state ... by calling him as a witness in order ... Bhulai v K E, 13 C W N 197 ... v King Emperor, 7 A L J 468= ... so Emperor v Hanmasuddi, 16 Bom ... Jiybhai 22 B 596, Bhulai v King Emperor, 13 C ... L J 117

Deposit ... The effect of section 288 of the Criminal ... a witness before the committing ... is the deposition in the Sessions Co ... s 157 of the Evidence Act and statements made by the witness before ... investigating officer are admissible for the purpose of corroborating such 'testimony'. It is in the discretion of the Sessions Judge to believe and act upon the statements before the committing Magistrate in preference to contradictory statements made before himself on the ground that the former are corroborated by statements made before the investigating officer Velliah Kone, In re, 45 M 766=43 M L J 222=16 L W 239=31 M L T 175 (H C)

... evidence Where ... witnesses ... ight to be ... te the oral ... Court may look into ... sion in the Indian Evidence Act which prohibits such a course ... abuddin v Nafar Chandra, 44 C L J 382=99 Ind Cas 907=A I R 1927 Cal 230 The ... Judge in a civil suit permitted an officer in charge of the Record of Right ... and to produce the statements ... notwithstanding ... statements, as ... they were exa ... sion of s 157 Mt Hakima v ... 209 A petition put in by a client for adjournment on the ground ... pleader could not appear on account of hartal is admissible in evidence in proceedings under the Legal Practitioner's Act, under s 157 of the Evidence Act in corroboration of ... his attention ... were true to ... N. 589=35 C

I ... th and death ... Where ... subidar at ... d that they made the entries at the request of ... entries are admissible in evidence under s 157 or s 159 of the Evidence Act or possibly under both sections Rama Koer v Gobordhan, 1919 Pat 352=2 Pat L J 42 ... C ... Ballet v Abhoy Ram, 12 A L J 945=24 Ind Cas 540 ... to live his statement ... the Evidence ... to corroborate ... Emperor v

... mortgage, and ... saction is only ... rden of proof ... t instance If ... f the revenue ... not admissible in evidence to prove ... the headman or surveyor, who maintains the register But if such officer ... as a witness and gives evidence of the terms of the report from his own memory, then such pyitpaing is admissible in order to corroborate his testimony under s. 157. Shwe Pan v Maung Po 3 L B. R 250

A statement made by a witness to a chief constable can only be used under s 157 of the ... of the first witness at the trial Such ... furnish no legal basis for a conviction. (... 508

Previous statements might be used to corroborate or contradict statements made at the trial; not to corroborate statements made prior to trial Emperor, v Akbar Badu, 12 Bom L R 663=7 Ind Cas 933=11 Cr L J 512=34 B 599

A police inspector is an officer "legally competent to investigate the fact" ... him by the ... a v Emperor ...

... ing, and the witness wrote another letter to which he got a reply containing a statement of what that witness had written previously to such person, held that the reply ... ate the evidence of the witness Held ... f he was alive, may be admissible ... fact that a statement was made by a third person to the witness is admissible, but evidence of the terms of the staten ... 2 Weir 823

... trial is admissible under this s ... N 1886, 257

A statemen ... to contradict a ... But when the s ... statement is ... ng that the witness had previously (at the ... n agreement and partly in direct material ... na, 2 Weir 821

Under the general provision of law, any body who has seen a place may be ... the inquiry may give his dep ... idence Act in order to ... da, 12 Cr L J 480 =12 Ind Cas 83

It is doubtful whether a statement as to an event, made three days after its occurrence, is admissible under s 157 of the Evidence Act, to corroborate the witness ... ana Thiar, 6 M L T 17=11 Cr L J

... witnesses during a police investigation ... evidence But such statements may be ... ate the testimony of the same witness ... ment of a raped girl that she ha ... sh ... 12 ... Ind Cas 142

... evidence This section ... else as evidence for ... Ambica Charan v ... 91 A letter written by a Police officer to his superior ... son would make a certain statement for a certain sum of money is not under s 157 properly receivable in evidence for any purpose Bhogilal v Royal Insurance Co, 6 Rang 142=26 A L J 377=32 C W N 593=108 Ind Cas 1=47 C L J 650=30 Bom L R 818=28 L W 276=A I R 1928 P C 54=54 M L J 575 (P C)

Oral statements by witnesses in Police investigation which do not corroborate their evidence at the trial are inadmissible Venkata Subbiah v Emperor, 48 M 640=21 L W 190=1925 M W N 68=86 Ind Cas 209=26 Cr L J 721=A I R 1925 M 579=48 M L J 195 A statement made to a Police officer, not ... under s 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, ... that the particular statement was made ... Cas 650=22 Cr L J 418 The previous ... boration of his evidence It must be corroborated as regards every material particular and the identity of the accused must be proved by reliable independent testimony Reg v Malapa 11 B H C A C 196 Although the mere repetition of a statement without contradiction of material discrepancy is under section 157 Evidence Act some corroboration of the truthfulness of that statement that section does not justify the use against accused persons of a previous statement by an approver relevant to contradict his retraction Pallua v Emperor, 3 P R 1904 Cr Where an entry in the vaccination register which includes a statement by a woman that a person bearing the name of the alleged father of her illegitimate child was the father of the illegitimate child is made three years after its birth the entry does not satisfy the terms of s 157 and is not admissible in evidence Kunappa v Kullammal, A I R 1930 Mad 194 = 1929 M W N 696

158 Whenever any statement relevant under section 32 or 33, is proved, all matters may be proved either in order to contradict or to corroborate it, or in order to impeach or confirm the credit of the person by whom it was made, which might have been proved if that person had been called as a witness and had denied upon cross-examination the truth of the matters suggested

What matters may be proved in connection with proved statement relevant under section 32 or 33

Scope of the section The statements admissible under sections 32 and 33 are exceptional cases and the evidence is only admitted from the improbability or great inconvenience of producing the authors of the statements It is only just therefore that all the same safeguards for veracity should be provided as if the authors of the statements were themselves before the Court and subjected to oath and cross exa[illegible] a person whose statement has b[illegible] category is a witness actually [illegible] his statement by a previous s[illegible] which has been admitted in evi[illegible] statement of the same person n[illegible] v Emperor A I R 1926 L[illegible] a witness is entitled to credit or [illegible] before it and not on what another [illegible] ness in another case because there are no [illegible] to the credibility of the witness in [illegible] not Chandreswar v Bishwar 5 Pat [illegible] previously made is used as evidence under the provisions of ss 32 and 33 then any other state[illegible] s 158 for the purpose of [illegible] ared in Court and was cross- [illegible] being asked had denied the [illegible] v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah 403

159 A witness may, while under examination, refresh his memory by referring to any writing made by himself at the time of the transaction concerning which he is questioned, or so soon afterwards that the Court considers it likely that the transaction was at that time fresh in his memory

Refreshing memory

The witness may also refer to any such writing made by any other person and read by the witness within the time aforesaid if when he read it he knew it to be correct

Whenever a witness may refresh his memory by reference to any document, he may, with the permission of the Court refer to a copy of such document.

When witness may use copy of document to refresh memory

Provided the Court be satisfied that there is sufficient reason for the non-production of the original S.

An expert may refresh his memory by reference to professional treatises.

Principles When a witness's statement is offered as the basis of an evidential inference to the truth of his statement it is plain that at least three distinct elements are present, or put in another way th r u thr e pr c sses, in the absence of any one of which we cannot conceive of testimony First, the witness must know something; to this element may b iven the generic term Observation Secondly, the witness must have a recollection of the impres sions th . . may be term d Recollection Thirdly he to the tribunal, that is, the e must ba . . R lation Wigmore § 478 Now the is between the el m nt of Observation or the el ment of Communication or (Narration) ... is in turn reproduced and made apprehensible by others The general canon applicable to Recollection is simple, the Recollection should (as far as can be expected) correspond to and represent the impressions originally gained by observation or knowledge Various situations are conceivable, in which this essential quality of Recollection may be lacking and various detailed requirements with reference to curing or avoiding these possible deficiencies are also conceivable. Wigmore § 725 The cardinal principle of Narration is this, that it must correspond to the Recollection, the story told by the witness, whether orally or in writing, must represent his knowledge and recollection. Wigmore § 734

It is to-day generally understood that there are two sorts of recollection which are properly available for a witness,—past recollection and present recollection In the latter and usual sort, the witness has either a sufficiently clear recollection, or can summon it and make it distinct and actual if he can stimulate and refresh it, and the chief question is as to the propriety of certain means of stimulating it,—in particular, of using written or printed notes memoranda, or other things as representing it In the former sort, the witness is totally lacking in pr there was a time when h recorded so that he c use it as sufficiently This use of a past recollection depends of course on certain con ... the stimulation of ... be subject to fixed rules and it is through the ... tations of the one case to the other that ... n Greenl Ev § 439(a) Section 159 deals ... tion 160 refers to Past Recollection The reason of the rule has been said to be that a witness should not suffer from a mistake, and may explain an inconsistency Per Montague Smith J in Holliday v Holgate, 17 L T 18

Present Recollection whether there should be any fixed rules of limitation " Here the witness is pr ... existing recollection, but he is unable to ... al effort and th question is whether ... give it is under the circumstances improper ... finite it will be futile for the law to attempt to determine by fixed rules what things have or have not a potency to stimulate recollection It can only act on th circumstances of each ... the desired and only when it is apparent or likely that th ... for of words of whose truth he ... stimulation by refere ... s that any paper may in ... Lucas v Leel, 2 Lew Cr C 15 ... not ... icular (2) that the paper was not written by the witness himself is no ... Hurry v. Lee, supra; Lanes v Reed, supra, Smith v Morgan 2 M o & R ... 7, R v. Watson, 3 C & K 111, R v Williams, 6 Cox Cr 343), and it is therefore incorrect (confusing this with the Past recollection) to require that the paper be one written by the witness or under his direction or known to him to be

9. correct Nevertheless, papers prepared by others may under the circumstances of the case, be so suspicious or questionable as to make their use improper (Noel's Motion, 3 T R 752, Alcock v Ins Co, 13 Q B D 292, 305 Lager v Wagstaff, 5 Beav 462) (3) Further more it is not an objection that the paper is a copy, and not an original, provided it does in fact serve to revive the recollection Turner v Taylor, 3 T R 754, Doe v Perkins 3 T R 749 Anon, 1 Lew Cr 101, R v Williams, 6 Cox Cr 343 (4) Again, it is equally immaterial that the paper was not made at or about the time of the event for it is not used as a record of past memory, and its power to stimulate and revive the memory by the allusions which it contains must be precisely the same whether it was made at the time or not This is the necessary result of the principle involved and is maintained by a number of Courts (Bank v Zorn 14 S C 444, Folsom v Logg Driving Co, 41 Wis 602), but many, misled by the limitation applicable to a record of past recollection require that the paper should be one contemporaneous with the event (Steinkeller v Newton, 1 C & 313 Whitfield v Aland, 2 C & K 1015) (5) Upon the erroneous view just referred to, it has recently been declared that, on being surprised by the testimony of one's own witness one may not refer to former testimony or a deposition by the same witness and endeavour to stimulate the memory to a correction, basing this result chiefly on the supposed principle that the reference for refreshing must always be to a contemporary writing That this supposed principle as applied to refreshing by deposition or former testimony is wholly unsound may be understood by noting the numerous deci ... has been allowed (R v Watson 3 C & K ... Smith v Morgan, 2 Moo & R R 257), principle, there is no reason why refreshme... by the counsel's oral reference to or reading from the depos tion etc, as by the witness's own perusal of it and the precedents abundantly sustain this practice R v Edwards 8 C & P 26 (31), R v Barnet 4 Cox Cr 269 R v Ford, 5 Cox Cr 184; R v Williams 8 Cox Cr 313, R v Quin 2 F & F 818) (6) As a matter of fairness and to prevent imposition the paper must b produced in Court, on demand, for inspection and cross examination by the opponent (Hardy's Trial 24 How St Tr 824, R v Ramsden, 2 C & P 603 Lord v Colvin 2 Drewr 205) (7) But since in Lord Ellenborough's words 'it is not the memorandum that is the evidence, but the recollection of the witness,' (Henry v Lee 2 Chitty 124), the party whose witness uses it has no right to have it read to or handed to the jury (Gregory Taverner, 6 C & P 281), it is only the opponent who may do this in case he wishes to cast doubt on the reality of the refreshment of memory" Greenl Ev § 439 (c)

Scope of the section It is a well settled and undisputed principle of the law of evidence, that a witness, under certain legal restrictions, may refer to written or printed memoranda documents, papers or letters for the purpose of refresh... his recollection and memory with regard ...tifying The rule requires that a witness ... within his own knowledge and recollec... violated by permitting him to refresh his memory in the ... nted out the advantages and ... nd to consult notes or memoranda ... 'On the one hand what you ... f you allow him time to consult notes, you partly lose the advantage of that lively and quick examina... e of Judicial ... assistance is ... testimony, ... t is univer... sally agreed ... equal, and tha... or writings ir... few witnesses ... and sums, af... papers and writings which they knew to be correct at the time they were ma... Burr Jones § 874 Mr Justice Strong in the United States Supreme Court said 'How far papers, not evidence per se, but proved to have been true

S.

statements of facts at the time they were made, are admissible in connection with the testimony of a witness who made them has been a frequent subject of inquiry, and it has many times been decided that they are to be received And why they should not be? Quantities and values are retained in the memory with great difficulty If at the time when an entry of aggregate quantity or value was made, and the witness knew it was correct, it is hard to see why it is not at least as reliable as is the memory of the witness ' Insurance Co v Weids, 14 Wall (81 U S) 375 A witness, who has the means in his power can lawfully be required to look at such papers, to enable him to ascertain a fact with more precision to verify a date or to give more exact testimony than he otherwise could as to times, numbers quantities and the like Burr Jones s 874 "Although in general' says Mr Starkie ' leading questions are not to be put to a witness yet where his memory has failed, he may, even during examination, read or if necessary, hear the contents of a document read for the purpose of reviving his former recollection And if by that means he obtains a recollection of the facts themselves as distinct from the memorandum, his statement is admissible in evidence A witness is, of course, competent to testify as to his actual present recollection of a fact, although in the interval his memory may have failed, and although such defect, and the means of restoration, may be the subject of comment in cases to which any suspicion is attached' Starkie on Evidence p 209 'Generally speaking an instrument used for the purpose of refreshing memory, ought to be in the handwriting of the person using it, and as nearly as possible contemporaneous with the fact which it records, at the same time, neither of these conditions is absolutely indispensable A witness may refresh his memory from a dc made, he has seen correct insta woul
by it if he could swear that he examined it shortly after the time of the entry and that it was correct and that by looking at the entry he remembered that the circumstance it narrated had taken place are kept by time after memoranda that the weight to be stances A man may ings at which he was a report of the procee memory, and he kn
C 189 A Judge will attach much more weight to the evidence ... speaking ... made by his own hand than to that of on ... a memorandum made by a third pa ... some time after it was made ... requires the production of the best evidence, the memorandum itself must be produced not a copy of it, unless, indeed, the Court is satisfied that the non production of the original has been sufficiently accounted for It frequently happens that a witness makes an extract from his books, which would be themselves good sources for refreshing his memory, while the extract as a mere copy of such books is not receivable' Starkie on Evidence cited in Nort Ev 338 339 A witness who being asked in reference to any particular transaction, if he had made any entry in a register or book at or about the time when an occurrence took place such as the posting of a letter of which an entry was made might refer to such entry or memorandum to refresh his memory, but beyond that he cannot go Queen Empress v Sayad Surf ... Bat II Cr C 344 ... his memory ... onsequence of by ... le to have a his ... 10 C W N look ... ining records 107 = 4 Cr L J 247 A most regularly kept ... of facts contemporaneously made may be used for contradicting or corroborating a witness or refreshing his memory and the like under ss 141 157 and 159 of the Act, but such user does not make the document itself evidence

9 Mukundaram v Dayaram, 10 N L R 41=23 Ind Cas 893, see also Nuna Koer v Gobordhan 3 Pat L J 42=37 Ind Cas 421 A certificate of age of a private patient is not relevant as a public record under s 35 of the Evidence Act but could only be used for the purpose of refreshing the memory when he is examined as a witness [illegible] Cas 142 A reference can [illegible] as regards the date of [illegible] 72 Ind Cas 985 1923 C[illegible] over to him for the purpose of exciting his recollections Taylor § 1410 'If the witness cannot read and write, the proper practice is, not to read the memorandum to him in the presence of the jury, but to allow him to retire with counsel on each side and to have the memorandum read in his presence without comment' Commonwealth v Fox 7 Gray (Mass) 585, Burr Jones § 880

The dying statement of a deceased person must be taken in the presence of the accused, if not so taken, the writing cannot be admitted to prove the statement made The statement may be proved in the ordinary way by a person who heard it and the writing may be used for the purpose of refreshing the witness's memory Empress v Samiruddin, 8 C 211 A medical expert can refer to his report to refresh his memory Roghuni v Empress, 9 C 455 (461) =11 C L R 569, see also 2 W R Cr Let 14, 6 W R Cr Let 3, R v Jadab Das, 4 C W N 129 'When a dead body is sent to the Civil Surgeon in order to the making of a post mortem examination, a printed form is sent therewith which the Civil Surgeon fills up on examining the body This report is not itself legal evidence [illegible] Surgeon, who refreshes his m[illegible] Field Ev 7th Ed 531—532 [illegible] the head constable cannot [illegible] section 162 (1) of the Criminal Pro[illegible] be used by the Sub Inspector as a [illegible] as to what was said by the accu[illegible] ran him by witness can be used in [illegible] witness or refreshing his memory Keyarsosh v Gorbad, A I R 1930 Nag [illegible] see also Mukundram v Dayaram, 10 N L R 41=23 Ind Cas 893

Scope of sections 159 and 160 distinguished If it is merely a question of a man refreshing his memory the document itself is not tendered in evidence and the witness merely gives evidence in the ordinary way after reading what has been written To such a case s 159 applies But where the witness says in so many words that he does not recollect the facts recorded by him in the statement but it is said that they were correctly recorded, then section 160 applies and the document itself may be tendered in evidence In either case the fact [illegible] by law to [illegible] where such [illegible] statement, [illegible] 348=1931 [illegible] an Nath v

Any writing This section entitles a witness to refresh his memory by any writing So he is permitted to refresh and assist his memory by the use of a written instrument, memorandum or entry in a book So a ledger a log book, a workman's time book previous deposition, letter, bill of articles furnished etc can be seen by a witness to refresh his memory Taylor Ev §§ 1406—1410 The pyatpaing or outerfoil of the revenue register of mutations may also be used for refreshing the memory of a witness Shue Pan v Maung Po, 3 L B R 250, see also MaDun v Lee O, 5 L B R 40=2 Ind Cas 53, For purposes of section 159, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, it is not requisite that the writing used to refresh the memory of a witness should have been admitted in evidence Accordingly a document not produced in Court within the proper time and in consequence rejected as evidence under the provisions of Order XIII r 2, C P C may nevertheless be referred to by the party producing it or his witness to refresh his memory of the document and is otherwise within the purview of s 159 of the Evidence Act The weight of evidence, the objection to the document upon the ground that its not having been produced at the proper time renders its authenticity the subject of suspicion and all other grounds upon which a document can be successfully impeached still remain open, but refusal to permit a man to refresh his memory by proper relevant contemporaneous document might lead to a grave injustice Jeuan Lal v Nilmoni, 55 I. A 107= 7 Pat 305=30 Bom. L R 305=107 Ind Cas 337=47 C L J 302=32 C W. N 565=A I R 1928 P C 80=26 A L J 121 The word "writing" used in this section also includes printed matter. Ram Chandra v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah. 371

Made by himself The writing may have been made either by the witness himself, or by others, provided in the latter case, that it was read by him when the facts were fresh in his memory, and he knew the statement to be correct. Phip Ev 451. The witness must be able now to assert that the record accurately represents his knowledge and recollection at the time The usual phrase requires the witness to affirm th . . .
Wigmore § 747 A witness may refresl wasil baki papers when it was prepared l Kaya, 10 C 248, Keramant v Bejoy, 7
11 C 407, 409

At the time of the transaction The document must have been written either at th . . . . ntly afterwards that these facts wer . . . ttn, 2 Camp 112, White-fiel . . . Ir C L R 213 But so far as . . .) is concerned the fact that the paper was not drawn up about the time of the events' should not be a fault The recollection may be equally refreshed by a recent note or by some contemporaneous record It might, in fact, be argued that there was less danger of reliance upon the record itself and more probability of actual refreshment where the paper was one confessedly having no value as a contemporaneous record of past recollection There is adequate authority for the result thus required by principle Yet the greater number of decisions, and most of the obiter dicta, announce as a requirement that the memorandum used must have been made 'contemporaneously or nearly so' with the events, 'at or near the time' with the same varying phrases used in the rule for Past Recollection" Wigmore § 761 The framer of the Indian Evidence Act, in this respect also, following the English rule did not make any discrimination between Present Recollection (s 159) and Past Reollection So now the rule is that a witness may make use of notes taken at the time the fact happened Kinloch s Case, 25 How St Tr 937 'Where the witness goes back to a past recollection which can less easily be tested by cross examination, he may properly be asked for something more positive,—something of a quality satisfactory in itself and not merely the best available This quality the law has attempted to define, and even to test by an arbitrary rule There is found first, a general principle that the recollection, when recorded, should have been fairly fresh,—each instance being dealt with on its own circumstances, and, secondly, there is, more commonly, an arbitrary list defining the recollection as are recorded at or near the time of the events Wigmore § 745 In England it is not essential that the memorandum should have . . . it is enough if it has been ma . . . time when the facts we . . . reading such memo-rar . . .
enables h . . .
1 C & . . .
at the tim . . .
bably fre . . .
Aland, 2 . . .
night wa . . .
of several weeks or six months was held to be . . . Whitefield v Aland supra, How St Tr 934, Jones v Stroud, 2 C & P 196, The document, however, must not have been Steinl . . . ige, 6 App Cas 159 Section 159 does . . . evidence Our Prokash v.

Writings made by any other person But this testimonial guarantee of immaterial whether the witness or printed the record It may , it from the moment when the witness saw it and passed judgment upon its correctness, it became for him a correct record As the mere fact of his writing it would count for nothing in itself so the mere fact of his not having been the writer is immaterial Wigmore § 748 If the witness saw the writing soon after it was made, and the entry corresponded with what he had himself then observed, that was tantamount to an entry made by himself Digby v Steelman I Esp 328, see also Jacob v Lindsay 460, 1 East Burton v Plumer, 2 A & E 341, Toppan v Mc Gieor 1 C & K 320, R v Philpots 5 Cox Cr 329, Anderson v Walley 3 C & K 54, R v Langton, L R 2 Q B D 296 In Burrough v Martin 2 Camp 112 Lord Ellenborough said 'If a witness looked at the log book from time to time, while the occurrences mentioned were recent, and fresh in his memory, it is as good as if he had written the whole with his hand' Similarly in Lord Talbot v Cusack, 17 Ir C L R 213 O Brien J said '(The use of memoranda made by the witness himself) has been extended to the case of entries which, though not in the witness's hand writing, were either made in his presence and read by him at the time of the transaction, or were read and examined by him shortly afterwards when the facts were fresh in his recollection and when he was enabled to ascertain that the facts stated in the entry were true" Wigmore § 748 When a witness wants to refresh his memory under this section, he is to do so by referring in Court to the document which he had read at or near the time of the transaction and it is the fact that he had known it to be correct when he read it that is the justification for his doing so It is quite immaterial that a document to which the witness refers in Court was not printed by the witness himself or in his presence It is essential only that he should have read it at or soon after the transaction to which it relates Ram Chandra v Emperor, A I R 1930 Lah 371

' not be admissible in evi Tomlin 5 A & E 856) or or an unstamped document referred to, and user for this ock v Roy, 13 Q B D 29?

Copies of documents Whether the witness can refresh his memory by referring to a mere copy of his original memorandum is a question of some difficulty and doubt in England Taylor § 1408 That the paper is a copy, not an original, is no essential fault The only question is whether in fact it is genuine 1 for this purpose a copy n
Taylor, 3 T R 754, Duchess
erl ins 20 How St Tr N S ep 63, Anon 1 Lew Cr C umer, 2 A & E 341, Horne v
re is no necessity of accounting for the original in any way in the case of Present Recollection Wigmore § 760 But as neither the English law nor the Indian Evidence Act makes any distinction between Present Recollection (s 159) and Past Recollection, use cannot be made of copies of a document unless the Court be satisfied that there is sufficient reason for the non production of the original Mr Starkie lays downs the rule as follows In accordance with the rule which requires the production of the best evidence the memorandum itself must be produced production s that a good such
to be admitted under section 160 as a record of Past Recollection a great stringency should be observed in allowing the witness to use it 'It remains to make sure' says Prof Wigmore, 'that the record which the witness now puts forward as a record of his prior knowledge is in fact the genuine embodiment of his past recollection While the witness's guarantee of its correctness may be on of his guaranteed paper, S , but also as insuring the on his veracity, as affording a means of testing him, and as the best proof of what was really recorded In short, the original record itself must be used in testifying, if it is procurable This rule is almost universally recognized, and of course, if the original is lost or otherwise unavailable, a copy may then be used Tanner v Taylor, 3 T R 751; Doe v Perkins, 3 T R 751, Jones v Stroud, 2 C & P 196; R v Harvey 11 Cox 546, R v St Martins 2 A & E 210, Horne v Mackenzie, 6 Cl & F 628, Topham v McGregor, 1 C & K 320, Lord Talbot v Cusack, 17 Ir C L R 213 It is true that the use of a copy lacks certain advantage, but this defect is no greater than in the ordinary instance of a contract or a deed which cannot be produced, nor is the importance of using the original here any greater." Wigmore § 719 Thus a sale was allowed to be proved by a clerk who refreshed his memory from a ledger, copied under his supervision from a waste book kept by himself Burton v Plummer, 2 A & E 341 A surveyor has been allowed to refer to a printed copy of a written report made by him to his employers which latter was substantially but not literally transcribed from rough notes taken by him at the time Horne v Mackenzie 6 C & F 628, contra, Murrary v Mason, 18 Ir L R 8, Phip Ev p 155 The question whether secondary evidence was in any given case rightly admitted is one which is proper to be decided by the Judge of the first instance and is treated as depending very much on his discretion His conclusion should not be overruled except, in a very clear case of miscarriage Ningawa v Ramappa, 5 Bom L R 708=28 B 94 Where the plaints in suits upon bonds by the same plaintiff having been destroyed by fire, while under the Court's custody, were re-instituted upon duplicate copies containing particulars of the lost bonds, might not be secondary evidence of the contents of the bonds, was a document that might be used for refreshing a witness's memory under s 159 of the Evidence Act Tarak Nath v Jeamat Nasya 5 C 353 A copy of the statement of injuries recorded in the register of medico legal cases may be used by the medical witness for the purpose of refreshing his memory but it cannot be treated as evidence Mahomed v Emperor, A I R 1926 Lah 51

Expert In all cases where skilled witnesses are called to pronounce their opinions on some scientific question they may refresh their memory by referring to professional treatises, tables, calculations lists of prices and the like For instance, an actuary might refer to the Carlisle Tables" when called upon
v N
refres
So, a reasor recoll he should not be asked, after such a reference whether his not thereby confirmed Taylor § 1422 Ss 159 to 161 permit a limited use being made his memory
v Emperor,

Statement reduced to writing by police officer A statement reduced to writing by a police officer under s 162 Criminal Pro Code cannot have the effect of a deposition, but though it is not evidence the police officer to whom it was made, may use it to refresh his memory under s 159 of the Evidence Act, and may be cross examined upon it by the counsel against whose case the testimony aided by it has been given Queen Empress v Sitaram 11 B 657, see also Reg v Uttamchand 11 B H C R 120, Crown v Baloch 4 S L R 38 Cr =7 Ind Cas 38=11 Cr L J 498 R v Imam, 11 B 659, Rajhum v R 9 C 155 Documents wherein statements of persons examined by police officer under s 119 of the Cr Pro Code reduced giving
being

9 C 455=11 C L R 569, R v Stewart, 31 C 1050 A witness is not entitled to insist upon a police officer refreshing his memory, during his examination in Court, by referring to certain notes prepared by such officer under s 119 of the Code In the matter of the petition of Kali Churn Chunari, 8 C 154=10 C L R 51

Confession A Magistrate who took down a confession, may while being examined as a witness, be allowed under s 159 or s 160 Evidence Act to refresh his memory by referring to his record of that confession Emperor v Chaitu Gahera 16 C P L R 122

Special diaries A criminal Court may permit the Police officer, who made the special diary, to look at it for the purpose of contradicting such police officer Where the Police officer does look at an entry in the diary for the ... 161 of the Evidence ... such diary and to ... ary cannot be used to enable any witness other than the Police officer who made it to refresh his memory by looking at it, and it cannot be used to contradict any witness other than such Police officer It is the Court which is entitled to use the special diaries for the purpose of seeking for sources and times of enquiry, and for the names of persons who may be in a position to give material evidence Neither the accused nor his agent is entitled to see the special diary for any purpose unless it has been used by th ... who made it to refresh his memory for the ... case is an accused person or his agei ... or any part of it His right is limited to that of inspection in certain cases Queen Empress v Mannu, 19 A 390 (F B)=A W N 1897, 14

Arbitration proceeding A witness who was present at an arbitration and had compared the draft and fair copy minutes made by the clerk and had found the latter to be correct, was allowed to refresh his memory as to what occurred at the arbitration, by reference to the fair copy minutes made by arbitrator s clerk Nistarinee Dasee v Nundo Lal Bose, 5 C W N xvi

Police diary If, upon the question being asked of a witness there is a lapse of memory on his part and that failure of memory can be remedied by reference to any memorandum or other ... prepared by the witness at the time, and the Court invites the witness ... ference to the writing the witness is under ar ... its duty to lay the whole truth before the Court ... Harkhu v Emperor, 19 A L J 76

160 A witness may also testify to facts mentioned in any such document as is mentioned in section 159, although he has no specific recollection of the facts themselves, if he is sure that the facts were correctly recorded in the document

Testimony to facts stated in document mentioned in section 159

Illustration

A book keeper may testify to facts recorded by him in books regularly kept in the course of business, if he knows that the books were correctly kept although he has forgotten the particular transactions entered

... note

record h Jacob v
L R 2
that the
may be able to do either by virtue of his general custom in making su records, or (as in the common case of an attesting witness) by his assurance that he would not have made . . . Pearson v Wightman, 1 Mills Co . . . 1 5; R v. St Marten 2 A & E 213. . . . t a copy (Doe v Parkins, 3 T R . . . Toppam v McGregor, 1 C & K 320, Lord Talbot v Cusack, 17 Ir C L R 213); nevertheless, a copy may be used if the original is lost or otherwise unavailable Since the process of making a copy of it is a distinct thing from the process of making same, except that the salesman, workman, etc, instead of handing to the bookkeeper, clerk, etc, a written statement of the transaction, makes an oral statement which is transcribed, and in effect represents the first person's recollection as orally reported by him The joint testimony of the two ought to be receivable on principle; and such is the result generally reached by the Courts, though . . . ve been made in the regular course of . . . a written record brings to the mind . . . any recollection c . . . partic . . .

S.

knows to be genuine, the witness may looking at the record Abdul Salim v Emp C . . . of the expressio wi rel
W us
Be

those parts only which refer to the subject matter of the case (Burgess . . . 20 W R 720, though in Betts v Betts, 33 T. L R 200, Low J allowed a . . . examination thereon Phip Ev . . . d to by witness does not make (Gregory v Tavenor, 6 C & . . . 41) though it is otherwise with cross examination upon independent parts Gregory v Tavernor, 6 & P 280, Phip Ed 456 In a suit for damages for negligence in supervising a building, . . . an Engineer's Report is admis . . . Engineer makes the contents of . . . refresh his memory Nagendra . . . Cas 200=A I R. 1926 Cal 988.

Difference between section 159 and section 160 Under section 159 of the Indian Evidence Act, it is not necessary that the witness must be sure, that what was reduced to writing by him is a correct record It is enough if, on reading it, the true facts are recalled to his memory But if he does not actually recollect himself what the appellant said, if the words are not called to his memory, then the notes may be admitted under s 160 of the Evidence Act, if he is sure that the facts are co . . . If the words have not been correctly recorded, but . . . of those words are recorded, then the notes . . . of the Evidence Act. In re Mylapore Krishnasami . . . J 456=32 M 384=2 Ind Cas 33, see also Krishnappa v Emperor, 60 M L J 404=A I R 1931 Mad 430, Jagannath v Emperor, 32 Cr L J 172

161. Any writing referred to under the provisions of the two last preceding sections must be produced and shown to the adverse party if he requires it, such party may, if he pleases, cross-examine the witness thereupon.

Right of adverse party as to writing used to refresh memory

P . . . the use of the origina . . . an opportunity to verify . . . Even where a copy is permitted, there is still a need in fairness or fairness for the opponent, to see the document, in order to prepare, to test the witness upon its contents Thus it is a necessary implication that the document used, whether an original or a copy, when produced in Court, shall be shown to the opponent on his request to inspect and to use in cross examination In R v St Martins, 2 A & E 210, Patteson J said "If he could not recollect the facts independently of the writing, the original writing ought to have been in Court in order that the other party might cross examine, not that such writing is to be made evidence itself, but that the other party is to have the benefit of the witness refreshing his memory in every part" 'If the witness cannot be compelled to produce it, he might use documents made for him by the party calling him of the accuracy of which he knows nothing , The right of a party to protection against the introduction against him of false, forged, or manufactured evidence which he is not permitted to inspect, must not be invaded a hair's breadth Mullin J Tibbets v Sterbery, 66 Barb 201.

Scope of the section, In all cases where documents are used for the purpose of refreshing the memory of a witness, it is usual and reasonable —and if the witness has no independent recollection of the fact, it is necessary,—that they should be produced at the trial and that the opposite counsel should have an opportunity of inspecting them, in order that in cross or re examination he may have the benefit of the witness's refreshing his memory by every part Neither is the adverse party, bound to put the document in, as part of his evidence, merely because he has looked at it, or examined the witness respecting such entries as have been previously referred to, but if he goes further than this, and asks questions as to other ... seems that he thereby makes it his own evider ... which the opposite party is permitted to ... ie full ... check

... his oral testimony with the ... ok at the writing to see what ... e of improper document, but it is doubtful whether he is entitled except for this particular purpose, to question the witness as to ot ... the same writing In re Jhubboo Mahtan ... iter foil of Land Records Register IX ... oot or the transla tion to which it refers ... re the report It does ... ng the report But ... oral report he c ... in that way, the e ... on 3 of the Evidence Act and should be placed on the record Ma Dau v Lee O, 5 L B R 40=2 Ind Cas 535

The question sometimes arises whether memoranda, used to refresh the memory, are ... Of course, the memoranda under discussi ... used with such writings as books of acc ... discussed, are competent as evidence, whe ... tness, after examining the memorandum finds his memory so refreshed that he can testify from recollection, independently of the memorandum, there is no reason or necessity for the intro duction of the paper or writing itself, and it is not admissible In such case the jury have no knowledge of the contents of the paper, unless opposing counsel calls for such contents for cross examination Of course, the cross-examiner has the right to inspect and use the document in order that he may test the candour and credibil ... not ... d ... s

... the use of ... ed to in his ... was in- ... missible ... remem ... y been ... moran-dum, cannot testify to an existing knowledge of the fact, independently of the memorandum, but can testify that, at or about the time the writing was made, he knew of its contents and of its truth or accuracy In such cases, both the testimony of the witness and the contents of the memorandum are held admissible 'The two are the equivalent of a present positive statement of the witness, affirming the truth of the contents of the memorandum" Hancock v Kelley, 81 Ala 386 There are many every-day transactions in commercial ment, and when their original entries and memoranda have been duly authenticated, and there is danger in allowing them to b 2 Hill (N Y) 531 But in the

ier recollects ile the facts earsay, and is
, Burr Jones

No oral statements of witnesses should be recorded in the "special" diary kept by a police officer under s 172 of the Criminal Procedure Code Whether incorporated or by the police produced, but o accused may at the t to refer to them, and th furnish him with cop credit of the witness
be cros

being allowable only with regard to the kept under section 172 Criminal Proce police officer refers to such entries for the purpose of refreshing his memories Dadan Gazi v Emperor, 33 C 1023=10 C W N 830=4 Cr L J 79

162. A witness summoned to produce a document shall, if it is in his possession or power, bring it to Court, notwithstanding any objection which there may be to its production or to its admissibility The validity of any such objection shall be decided on by the Court

Production of documents

The Court, if it sees fit, may inspect the document, unless it refers to matters of State, or take other evidence to enable it to determine on its admissibility.

If for such a purpose it is necessary to cause any document to be translated, the Court may, if it thinks fit, direct the translator to keep the contents secret, unless the document is to be given in evidence, and, if the interpreter disobeys such direction, he shall be held to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code.

Translation of documents

Scope of the section If the person is required to produce a document, he is served with a subpoena duces tecum A subpoena duces tecum ought to specify the documents required, and the Court will not enforce a subpoena which is too general, but if a person served documents required with him, he must pro Eq 59, Re Emma Silver Mining Co I be a document and therefore liable to production Daye, (1908) 2 K. B. 333 A witness who is merely called to produce a docu-sworn and in that case he cannot be cross examined Wood , Cock 197 But he may be asked what docu ... to answer the question without being not The witne ... documents Powell Ev 653; see also Pickering v Noyes, ... objects he is to state the grounds of his objection Griffith v Ricketts, 7 Ha 299 If he does not att ... attends and refuses to produce the writing on any ... evidence will not be admissible, ... R v ... A person cannot ... elled by ... Thus ... s of the ... ing the comp ... oena by books they having been removed from him since ... the board of directors of the Company R v Stuart, 2 T L R 141; Powell 654 ... shall be deemed to have produced instead ... Order XVI, rule 6

An order cannot be made for ... s of persons not parties to the action [Starker v Reynolds, (1889) 22 Q B D 262] although such persons may be ordered to attend and produce them before the Court or Judge or examiner Re Smith, Williams v Frere, (1891) 1 Ch 323 Section 123 makes the production of evidence as to unpublished official records of affairs of State ... of th

... in custody of whi ... with him to Court to ... ere is no necessity ... ction on the grounds ... The Head of the ... he fit Vide s 123 ... even inspecting

... he must pro ... rd person But ... so as to justify relating to the questions in issue ... any' is not enforceable Lee v Angus, L ... Mining Co, L R 10 Ch 194, Burchard ... (247) The subpoena should not be oppressiv ... This subpoena is incidental to the power of Courts and necessary to the ... v Lones 9 East 473 It is a writ of compulsory ... He has no ... han whether ... with him the ... 1 273, Peq ... they should ... on, 3 Burr ... ould be with 1687 Thus, the Court ... of his tit ... that they will deprive the wit ... bject him to a penalty or a criminal charge ... 352, Whitaker v Izod, 2 Taunt 115), or ... e of a confidential communication to an ... Copeland v Watts, 1 Stark 95 Bustros v White, ... nnedy, 27 Ch D 1, vide ss 126 127) or whether his excuse for not producing the same is valid or reasonable Bull v Loveland, 10 Pick (Mass) 9, Burr Jones § 801

In a case where an attorney claimed the protection of his lien, the Court said · "The exception to the general rule of production seems to me a reasonable one That an attorney's lien on his client's papers should not be permitted in amb ... ay liable for the debt is reasonable, but, if papers amounts to anything, I think he may ven when summoned by him to produce the papers by a subpoena duces tecum The value of the lien often les apers from use as evidence and y a subpoena duces tecum to seems to me unjust Davis v Davis, 30 Fed 791, see also Hope v Liddell, 7 De G M & G 331, In re Cameron's Coolbrook, etc R Co, 25 Beav 1, Brassington v Brassington, 1 Sim & S 455, Kemp v King 2 Moody & R 437 So a Court will punish the witness for his failure or refusal to produce documents if properly subpoenaed in case he has no excuse for such failure or refusal Vide s 175 of the Indian Penal Code, R v Daye, (1908) 2 K B 333 A subpoena duces tecum is only to be employed to secure the production of books and papers that are to be introduced in evidence in the trial of an action, it is not to be used to secure papers to refresh the memory of a witness It cannot be used for the production of thin Burr Jones § 801

The fact that the documents are in the possession of a corporation does not prevent their production ... a private individual would l ... amba sadors and consuls, ... their official papers Burr Jones § 802

Where the witness declines to produce an instrument on the ground of professional confidence, the Judge should not inspect it to see whether it was one which he ought to withhold (Doe d Carter v James, 2 M & Rob 47, Volant v Soyer, 13 C B 231 = 23 L J C P 83), and it seems that the mere assertion on oath by the solicitor that it is a title deed or other privileged document ...

... Q B 140 It seems to be sufficient if one only of several interested parties objects Per Maule J in Newton v Chaplin 19 L J C P 374, Kearsley v Phillips, 10 Q B D 465 When the production is excused, secondary evidence is admissible Marston v Downes 1 Ad & E 31, Doe d Gilbert v Ross, 7 M & W 102, Roscoe N P 1585

If a ... he production of certain doc ... and once the summons ... d on if the party who obtai ... 5 Ind Cas 393

Statements made before the Income Tax Collector do not relate to affairs of state and so are not governed by s 123 of the Evidence Act The Income Tax Collector summoned to produce, is bound to produce the books in his possession, in spite of the rules made under s 38 of the Income Tax Act forbidding disclosure Under s 162 of the Evidence Act, a witness should not decline to bring documents into Court on the ground of privilege Under the same section, the Court has power to inspect the documents for the purposes of deciding objections regarding productio ... non disclosure of information, g ... not apply to the production ... v Sampathu 4 M L T 317 317 = 32 M ... The ... ch privilege is claimed is entirely wit ... its section and its refusal to inspect ther ... Nagaraja v Vythianatha (1911) 2 M ...

163. When a party calls for a document which he has given the other party notice to produce, and such document is produced and inspected by the party calling for its production, he is bound to give it as evidence if the party producing it requires him to do so

Giving as evidence of document called for and produced on notice

Principle The production of papers upon notice, does not make them evidence in the cause, unless the party calling for them inspects them so as to become acquainted with their contents, in which case he is obliged to use them as his evidence (Calvert v Fowler, 7 C & B 386; Wharam v Routledge 5 Esp 235 per Lord Ellenborough) at least if they be in any way material to the issue Wilson v Bowie 1 C & P 10, Sayer v Kitchen 1 Esp 210 Taylor § 1817 The reason for this rule is that it would give an unconscion notice to produce a paper in evidence must be supposed to know its contents If he does not he ought not to be permitted to speculate through the forms of law and obtain from his adversary the inspection of any paper or document he may choose to demand Such a privilege could be liable to abuse' Radcliffe J in Laurence v Van Horne 1 Cannis 276 285, Wigmore § 2125

Scope of the section The mere calling for the documents from the opposite party is not enough to make them evidence But when the party calling for the document inspects them he is bound to give it as evidence if the party producing it requires him to do so Burr Jones § 226 If the party giving the notice decline to use the papers when produced, this though matter of observation will not make them evidence for the adverse party Sayer v Kitchen 1 Esp 210 But it is otherwise if the papers are used or inspected by the party calling for them, and are material to the issues Wilson v Bowie 1 C & P 10 Calvert v Fowler 7 C & P 386, Wharam v Routledge 5 Esp 235, Roscoe N P Ev 13 Inspection by a party includes inspection by an agent as well as personally Norey v Keep (1909) 1 Ch 557, 565 This section is intended to prevent the somewhat undignified squabbling which frequently takes place in England as to whether a document which the other party has received notice to produce, should be put in Mark Ev p 113 In Calvert v Fowler 7 C & P 386 the documents called for were books of account In that ... of them and ... is the paper ... said ... upon the ... it you make it evidence for the other side, if he think fit to use it' In Wilson v Bowil 1 Carr p 10 the paper produced was a receipt which was not material to the case and Park J said ' If the plaintiff's counsel call for a paper and look at it, he must read it in evidence if it is at all material to the case, if it does not bear on the case he need not read it This paper is of the latter ...

special provisions of this section must be deemed to be conclusive evidence against the party who has inspected the documents There is certainly nothing in the language of the section itself to justify such a conclusion All that happens is that the documents which the other party has produced become evidence in the case for what they are worth Ram Dhan v Ram Dayal 23 O C 106 = 57 Ind Cas 993 In a pending trial the defendant produced certain account books and gave ins... however did ... the document ... rebutting evidence if any, held that the procedure of the lower Court was not justified by s 163 of the Evidence Act Section 163 does not render the proof of the document to be executed unnecessary or alter the normal incidence of that burden It is doubtful whether section 163 of the Evidence Act is appl cable to accounts produced under the procedure for discovery or only to accounts produced after the trial has begun Raj Gopala v Ramanuja, 1923 M W N 292=72 Ind Cas 459=1923 Mad 607=18 L W 165 Application of this section is not restricted to civil proceedings only. It is applicable also . . . . . . utor Where departmental tatements are produced, inspected and used for cross-examination of several witnesses the Crown is entitled to have the whole of the statement as evidence Departmental enquiry by a Magistrate in his executive capacity is not judicial enquiry and . . . . . Such statements the . . applied to such stater . . I R 1930 Cal 370

164 When a party refuses to produce a document which he has had notice to produce, he cannot afterwards use the document as evidence without the consent of the other party or the order of the Court

Using, as evidence, of document production of which was refused on notice

Illustration

A sues B on an agreement and gives B notice to produce it At the trial A calls for the document and B refuses to produce it A gives secondary evidence of its contents B seeks to produce the document itself to contradict the secondary evidence given by A, or in order to show that the agreement is not stamped He cannot do so

Principle Where an opponent in possession refuses to produce on demand, he is afterwards forbidden to produce the document in order to contradict the other party's copy or evidence of its contents This is in one sense a proper penalty for unfair tactics, but the original refusal may also be regarded as a judicial admission in advance, of the correctn . . . . to this extent Wigmore § 1210 In Doe v Cocl B said "You must either produce a docum See also Lewis v Hartley, 7 C & P 405, Doe Scop . . . . . . having a document in his possession refu at liberty Hodgson, to the inte that his refusal to comply the effect of letting in secondary evidence, such notice is . . insure the production of the document Wills Ev 2nd Ed 361 If he once refuses, b . . has proved a copy, and is about to have it read, pr . . without the evidence of an att . . B 413, 439, Jackson v Allen, 3 St . . be permitted to put the document into the hands of . . for the purpose of cross ex . . 527 528) or to produce and prove . . on, 12 A & E 135 He is not entitled . . who should be called (Jackson v Allen, . . 131); or to refresh the memory of a . . (Hill v Ainsworth Bristol, 1831, Wilde C J M S), or it seems for any purpose (Collins v Gordon, 2 F & 47, Byles J) He is, in effect bound, by any legal and satisfactory evidence produced on the other side Roscoe N P . . . . 0 W R C R 218, Nort Ev 252 This . . . for inspection What . . —to produce . . to produce . . his opponent It . . failure of the to produce the document and use it . . .

accused to produce certain documents fc . . . ' . . . . ' ... does not deprive him of the right to defence or to put them to the complain Kapur v Emperor, 36 C. W N. 1127 "I am by no means convinced that s 164 applies to criminal proceedings"—Per Pankridge J in Ibid

165. The Judge may, in order to discover or to obtain proper proof of relevant facts, ask any question he pleases, in any form, at any time, of any witness, or of the parties about any fact relevant or irrelevant; and may order the production of any document or thing; and neither the parties nor their agents shall be entitled to make any objection to any such question or order, nor, without the leave of the Court, to cross-examine any witness upon any answer given in reply to any such question:

Judge's power to put questions or order production.

Provided that the judgment must be based upon facts declared by this Act to be relevant, and duly proved:

Provided also that this section shall not authorize any Judge to compel any witness to answer any question, or to produce any document which such witness would be entitled to refuse to answer or produce under sections 121 to 131, both inclusive, if the question were asked or the document were called for by the adverse party; nor shall the Judge ask any question which it would be improper for any other person to ask under section 148 or 149; nor shall he dispense with primary evidence of any document, except in the cases hereinbefore excepted.

Principle "Section 165 is intended to arm the Judge with the most extensive power possible for the purpose of getting at the truth The effect of this section, is that in order to get to the bottom of the matter before it the Court will be able to look at and enquire into every fact whatever" Steph Intro, Ev Act p 162 "We know of no limit" says Lumpkin J in Epps v State, 19 Ga 118 (Am) "to the right which belongs to the Court of interrogating witnesses, either in civil or criminal cases, especially the latter The life or death of a man may ... ition that this liberty be tolerated for a ... which ought to have been brought out, it is not only Judge to call the attention of the witness to the prosecution, his aim being neither to punish the innocent or screen the guilty, but to administer the law correctly"

English rule The sporting theory of the common law in which litigation was a game of skill to be conducted according to the specific rules and to be ... tended to place the ... me, whose duty it was ... les of the game h ... the Judge's functions ... idge there has never ... of the proceedings and ... the judicial function, ... wer and duty to put ... esirable to elicit the truth more fully. This just exercise of his function was never doubted at common law; the Judge could even call a new witness of his own motion and could seek evidence to inform himself judicially; much more could he ask additional questions of a witness already called but imperfectly examined Fortunately, inspite of the strong but subtle tendency to force the purely judicial function into the back ground, the tradition of the common law has never been lost; the right of the Judge to interrogate as he thinks best has always been preserved in theory Wigmore § 781 So under the English law a Judge has always a discretionary power, with which the Court above is very unwilling to interfere (Middleton v Barned, 1 Ex R 213 Per Parke B), of recalling witnesses at any stage of the trial, and of putting such legal questions to them as the exigencies of justice require R v Watson, 6 C & P 653 Taylor § 1477 So a judge may put all such questions to a witness as the interests of justice require (R v Remnant, R. & R 836; R v Watson, 6 C & P 653, R v Jameson, ... ased not only on matters a... owledge (R v Antiim ... he jury may ask admissibl... (1896) 2 Q B, 167, 177 ... in Mr Warren Hasting's Trial said ... apparently materi... negligence, ignoranc... has a duty of his ... truth If no prosec... Court is obliged, through ... cross-examine every witness ... done effectively, and to act h... Hastings Trial, 31 Part Hist 348

Scope of the Section It seems to be the general rule, well supported by the d... questions to w... order that the t... at a trial is n... rn officer charg... maintain truth ... of rules of pract... question the ... ny Per Bick... y v State 55 ... lly necessary ... the facts and circumstances of the case on trial as possible, in order that he may instruct the jury, and correctly, to the extent his duty demands, shape the determination of the litig... and doubtless it ... resi-ding Judge ... the exigencies may warrant in exercise of ... not capable of very precise statement, but it may be said that the right here in question is one which should be very sparingly exercised, and, generally, counsel for the part... relied on and allowed to manage and bring out their ... be such as to ... the one or the other party to the cause ...

As regards the incl... James Fitzjames Stephen in ... of English Barristers to ... which they practice I would appeal to every one who ... subject, whether the observations referred to are not strictly true, and whether the main provision founded upon them—the provision which empowers the Court to ask what question it pleases—is not essential to the administration of justice here In saying that the Bench and the Bar in England play their ... England, cases are fully ... nothing ... India in ... ly neces-... ers, but ... and In ... s which ... ing that ... section 165, which has been so much objected to has been framed" Speech of the Hon'ble Fitzjames Stephen on he 12th March 1872, in submitting the Report of the power" says Mr Justice Cunningham "to ask their questions elicit all the facts ne use A plaintiff may have some weal traying and so dexterously avoids, or a defendant may import of some answer given and allow it to pass uncritisized; in any such case it is highly be armed with full power enabling him to get subject to conditions to be immediately about any matter rel document or thing

however, is very clearly ased on relevant facts, and those relevant cannot compel a witness to
to refuse to answer or produce at the instance of the he Judge ask any of the questions as to credit which would be improper if asked by the adverse party, nor can he dispense with primary evidence of a document unless the facts of the case show that secondary evidence is admissible A Judge, accordingly, cannot, by the exercise of the powers conferred by this section, impart into the d ot relevant under the Act, nor can he in mode of proof, or ask questions to credit, if asked by the parties Thus restricted of obvious utility in a country like India, s no advocate is employed, but the Judge has to make out the truth as best he can from the false accounts of ignorant, excited in any form at any stage of the cause, and to a certain extent even allo This, however, does not mean that he can for if such be left to the jury, a new from the Bench, ted by technicality, to secure indictive fixing the amount of punishment" of the Court to propound pertinent and properly framed questions to a witness The exercise of the power, if the questions propounded by the Court are directed to crucial points of the case is of the one or the other of, the of great embarrassment if ading and suggestive in form or improper for any cause It is believed the instances are rare and the conditions exceptional in a high degree which will justify the presiding Judge examination of a witness and the able t the hich ffect s his lping ealy inty, may help or hurt The Judge will ive a fact he

Of course, the examination by the Judge must be done in a reasonable al impartial way, so as not to indicate his opinion of the facts, and thereby rejudice the rights of the parties His questions should be propounded, not proceed manage a the trial

ment it is necessary to elicit the truth, he may interpose with questions to the witness, either in direct or cross examination and he may put leading questions or suggest the form of a question, and it has even been held that a Judge may call a witness and examine him and permit or refuse either side to cross-examine such witness Coulson v Disborough, (1894) 2 Q B 316 It is obvious that these privileges of the Court should be so exercised as not to prejudice the rights of the parties, or to unduly interfere with the presumption of the cause of action or defence The discretion of the trial Court will not be interfered with except in a clear case of abuse While the Judge may, of course, state the grounds of his rulings in receiving or rejecting testimony, comment upon the weight of the evidence at the time of its production should be avoided as an invasion upon the province of the jury The Court may often with great propriety ask questions of a witness on the stand for the purpose of bringing out the facts of the case but should never indulge in remarks to witnesses or in comments upon their testimony, which may either magnify or diminish its effect upon the jury as to credibility or value While the Judge may so interpose questions, his comments, if any should be so guarded as not to prejudice the parties, even though not directed against them For example, when the Judge said "I don t think going over the same ground so much does any good I suppose that the jury knows more about forest fires than any of the witnesses that are testifying or any of the attorneys in the case,' the Court held the remark of forest fir the witnes an improp Beene 16 A disregard Jones § 815 I think that under section 165 of the Indian ... judgment must be based upon facts proved Shah J in Ismail v Emp 16 Cr L J 83=2 Bom Cr C 252 Indian Penal Code, the Sessions
...
Indian Evidence Act, ing the years of his life previous to the in a lunatic asylum, record medical of the opinion formed as to his particular or, Rat. Un Cr C 279

The provisions contained in this section and in Order XIII, r 10 of the Civil Procedure Code are intended to arm the Court with a power of initiative in getting at the truth The essential duty of the judicial officer is not to decide wh ... judicially possible, ... The act of sendin ... under Order X ... evidence in the ca ... after it has been ... R 11=13
Ind Cas ...

Under this section a Magistrate is entitled to put to a witness any question at any time and in any form Pratap v Emperor, In l Rul 1930 Nag 273.

Construction of the Section This section is capable of two widely different interpretations (a) It may mean that the Judge may introduce into the case without any restrictions except those stated in the second proviso any irregular evidence he pleases that he might for example ask a witness what some respectable persons had told him about the matter in dispute evidence which though properly speaking is inadmissible, might be quite trustworthy But then what is the meaning of the first proviso? How is the Judge to make use of the irregular evidence at all if he is not allowed to base his judgment upon it at least to some extent? Even if he uses it only to corroborate other evidence he still bases his judgment partly upon it (b) The other possible construction of the section is that it only empowers the Judge to ask irregular questions in order to discover or obtain proper, that is, regularly admissible evidence For example in a case of murder when the weapon had not been found, a witness might state in answer to the Judge that he had heard that the accused had secreted it in a certain ditch The statement being hearsay would be inadmissible but the Judge by means of it, might be able to direct an enquiry which would lead to the weapon being found Upon the second of these two constructions of the section the first proviso would prevent less difficulty But then it is not easy to see why the last clause of the second proviso was inserted This clause would be quite intelligible if the section were intended as a general relaxation of the rules of evidence, but why should not a Judge who was merely hunting up evidence look to a copy in order to see whether it was worth while to endeavour to procure the original It may further be observed that if that clause on the other hand refers to the evidence to be accepted in the case itself it appears to be mere surplusage as the first proviso has already declared that the facts must 'be duly proved i e where the fact is contained in a document primary evidence of that document must as a general rule be given In the first view it would modify the rules of evidence to a very considerable extent In the second view the section would add little if anything, to the already existing law Marl by Ev pp 111 113 asking irrelevant questions to a roof of relevant facts, but if he asks being taken again t him he is not bound to answer him and cannot be punished under s 179 I P Code In re Lakshman Cr Rg 14 10 1885

Ask any question The ordinary practice in a properly constituted Court is that where a witness for the prosecution is not called on the part of the Crown he is placed in the witness box in order that the defence may have an opportunity of cross examining ... it necessary to call one of these w... which he thought material for ... allowed an opportunity of putting any question that he thought necessary ... cross examination Per Jackson J in Empress v Girish Chandra, 5 C 614 Under s 165 of the Evidence Act a Judge has power to ask any question he pleases about irrelevant facts if he does so in order to discover or obtain proof of relevant facts Queen Empress v Hari Lakshman 10 B 185, see also R v Atrin 2 I R 603 ' It is not the province of the Court to examine the witness unless the pleaders on either side have omitted to put some material question or questions, and the Court should as a general rule, leave the witness to the pleaders to be dealt with as laid down in s 138 of the Act The Judge's power to put questions under s 165 is certainly not intended to be used in the manner in the present case Per Garth C J in to the Court ... 42 C

... section 162 ... ection
L J 598 = A ... Code 165 cannot be ... L J Maung Hin Gya ... 109
219 = A I R 19 ... or the
= A I R 1931

S.

purpose of eliciting what the law expressly and deliberately forbids being admitted For instance it should not be used for proving a confession made to the police which is shut out by s 25 of the Evidence Act or a confession made while in police custody except as mentioned in s 27 Pullama v Emperor, A I R 1932 Mad 625 The Court's decision must rest not upon suspicion but upon legal grounds established by legal testimony Luchmi ... v Radha, 34 C L J 107; Bhagwan v Shamsher, 33 P L R 1918=44 Ind Cas 433 ... it unless it is established that ... with a view to clear up obscu... the bounds of the provisions ... counsel engaged in the same ... justice Surendra Krishna ... 33 C L 34= 9 Ind Cas 814

A Judge is justified in using his knowledge about the character of the parties in a suit to come to a decision upon the credit to be attached to their evidence on the case set up by them San Hla v Mt Khoron 9 L B R 160=45 Ind Cas 734=12 Bur L T 98

Cross examination on answers given to the Court In Sukharam v Munji 11 B H C R 509 at p 510 West J said When the counsel for the prisoner has examined or declined to cross examine a witness, and the Court afterwards, of ... the permission o... examination of ... him in hand, he is put under special pressure as the Judge is empowered to ask any question he pleases, in any form abo... (s 165, Indian Evidence Act), and he is the ... under the special protection of the Court, ... party to cross exam... ...it this cannot be asked for as a matter of right This ... to the wi... tor any q... the effect ... ing out an... ion answers—upon every answer given to the Court—... rt's control' In Coulson v Disborough, (1894) 2 Q B 316, Lord Esher M R said 'If what the witness has said in answer to the questions put to him by the Judge is adverse to either of the parties, the Judge would no doubt allow, and he ought to allow, the party's counsel to cross examine the witness upon his answers A general fishing cross examination ought not to be permitted" This dictum was approved by Farwell L J in In re, Enoch and Zaretzy, 79 L J K B 363=(1910) 1 K B 327 C A The words "any witness" in this section include a Court witness It is doubtful how far the right to cross-examine such a witness is an absolute right or requires the leave of the Court Makund Singh v Mt Ghafurunnissa, 9 O & A L R 512=74 Ind Cas 108 The Court should not examine a witness without notice to the parties or their pleaders, and ... to cross examine him or to rebut his statem... t does justify such procedure When ... t notice to the pleaders and bases its deci... ness, it acts with material irregularity in ... the meaning of s 115 of the Civil Procedure Code Pearilal v ... ... Cas 407

It follows that a Judge's questions may be leading in form "Folly my lords," said Lord Ellenborough C J 'has said that ... in examining the witness ... almost too ... objections ... rsons in ... I have ... leading ...

however, may put what questions he pleases, and ...

Construction of the Section This section is capable of two widely differ rent interpretations (a) It may mean that the Judge may introduce into the case without any restrictions except those stated in the second proviso any irregular evidence he pleases, that he might for example ask a witness what some respectable persons had told him about the matter in dispute evidence which though properly speaking is inadmissible, might be quite trustworthy But then what is the meaning of the first proviso? How is the Judge to make use of the irregular evidence at all if he is not allowed to base his judgment upon it at least to some extent? Even if he uses it only to corroborate other evidence he still bases his judgment partly upon it (b) The other possibl construction of the section is that it only empowers the Judge to ask irregular questions in order to discover or obtain proper, that is, regularly admissible evidence For example in a case of murder when the weapon had not been found, a witness might state in answer to the Judge that he had heard that the accused had secreted it in a certain ditch The statement being hearsay would be inadmissible but the Judge by means of it, might be able to direct an enquiry which would lead to the weapon being found Upon the second of these two constructions of the section the first proviso would prevent less difficulty But then it is not easy to see why the last clause of the second proviso was inserted This clause would be quite intelligible if the section were intended as a general relaxation of the rules of evidence but why should not a Judge who was merely hunting up evidence look to a copy in order to see whether it was worth while to endeavour to procure the original It may further be observed that if that clause on the other hand refers to the evidence to be accepted in the case itself it appears to be mere surplusage as the first proviso has already declared that the facts must 'be duly proved i e where the fact is contained in a document primary evidence of that document must as a general rule be given In the first view it would modify the rules of evidence to a very considerable extent In the second view, the section would add little if anything to the already existing law Mirl bj Ev pp 111 115 Under this section a Judge has the power of asking irrelevant questions to a witness, if he does so in order to obtain proof of relevant facts, but if he asks questions with a view to criminal proceedings being taken against him he is not bound to answer him and cannot be punished under s 179 I P Code In re Lakshman Cr Rg 14 10 1885

. — nest on The ordinary practice in a properly constituted Court ie prosecution is not called on the part of the s box in order that the defence may have an him and certainly where the Judge thought witnesses for the purpose of eliciting some facts the prosecution, the prisoner ought to have been allowed an opportunity of putting any question that he thought necessary in cross examination Per Jackson J in Empress v Girish Chandra, 5 C 614 Under s 165 of the Evidence Act a Judge has power to ask any question he
. . to discover or obtain proof 10 B 185, see also R v ourt to examine the witness ut some material question le leave the witness to the udge's power or questions, and the C n the manner nith C J in . . put questions
ficer in e police with rega a power order to the law u c
. Emperor 4? C provision of section al Procedure Code
019=23 Cr L J
N 317=58 C 109
not be used for the 165 cannot be
Maung Hin Gya
219=A I R 19
=A I R 1931

purpose of eliciting what the law expressly and deliberately forbids being admitted For instance it should not be used for proving a confession made to the police which is shut out by s 25 of the Evidence Act or a confession made while in police custody except as mentioned in s 27 Pullama v Emperor A I R 1932 Mad 625 The Court's decision must rest not upon suspicion but upon legal grounds established by legal testimony Luchmim v Radha, 34 C L J 107, Bhagwan v Shamsher, 33 P L R 1918=14 Ind Cas 433 A Court of appeal cannot set things right on appeal unless it is established that the intervention with questions of a trial Judge, with a view to clear up obscurities and generally to elicit the truth, exceeded the bounds of the provisions of s 165 and so impeded the legitimate work of counsel engaged in the same as to ... Krishna ... Cas 811 ... the parties ... evidence ... the case set up by them San Hla v Mt Khorou 9 L B R 160=45 Ind Cas 734=11 Bur L T 98

Cross examination on answers given to the Court In Sukharam v Mundji, 11 B H C R 509 at p 510, West J said "When the counsel for the prisoner has examined or declined to cross examine a witness, and the Court afterwards of its own motion ... the permission of the Court, ... examination of a witness by ... him in hand he is put under special pressure as the Judge is empowered to ask any question he pleases in any form about any fact, relevant or irrelevant (s 165 Indian Evidence Act), and he is therefore at the same time placed under the special protection of the Court which may at its discretion allow a party to cross examine him but this cannot be asked for as a matter of right This princip ... the witness s ... any questior ... effect of all ... out an incor ... answers—upon every answer given to the Court—and is subject to Court's control In Coulson v Disborough (1894) 2 Q B 316 Lord Esher M R said "If what the witness has said in answer to the questions put to him by the Judge is adverse to either of the parties the Judge would no doubt allow, and he ought to allow the party's counsel to cross examine the witness upon his answers A general fishing cross examination ought not to be permitted This dictum was approved by Farwell L J in In re Enoch and Zaretzky 79 L J K B 363=(1910) 1 K B 327 C A The words any witness in this section include a Court witness It is doubtful how far the right to cross examine such a witness is an absolute right or requires the leave of the Court Makund Singh v Mt Ghafurunnissa, 9 O & A L R 542=74 Ind Cas 108 The Court should not examine a witness without notice to the parties or their pleaders, and without affording them an opportunity to cross examine him or to rebut his statements section 165 of the Evidence Act does justify such procedure When a Court examines a witness without notice to the pleaders and bases its decision upon the evidence of the witness it acts with material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction within the meaning of s 115 of the Civil Procedure Code Pearilal v Pearilal, 22 Ind Cas 407

It follows that a Judge's questions may be leading in form Folly my lords ... and that in examining the witness, ... is ridiculous it is almost too absurd t... ing the fact can it be object ed to a J... be objected to persons in the situ... t leading questions? I have always understood ... that the meaning of a leading question was ... produces a wi... terrogatories a... favour the pa... however, may purpose, because then the rule is changed; for there is no danger that the witness will be too complying But even in a case where evidence is brought forward to support a particular fact, if the witness is obviously adverse to the ' " ' not prevail, and the most leading . that the Judge on the bench may not pleases can only originate in the the age" 25 Hansard Part Deb 207

Proviso (1) Having regard to the str ngent prov s on of this section 1 judgment based 41 M 731=34 M' 609=56 Ind Cr Court must be based upon facts declared by the Act to be relevant and duly proved, and it would be intolerable that the Court should decide rights upon suspicions unsupported by testimony" Per Jenkins C J in Sreemutty Mohun Bibi v Saral Chand 2 C W N 17 (27); see also Ismail v Emperor, 26 Ind Cis 995=16 Bom L R 934, Luchiram v Radha, 34 C L J 107; Bhagwan v Shamser, 33 P L R 1918=44 Ind Cis 138; Queen v Pitamber, 7 W R Cr 25, Emperor v Jalub Das, 27 C 295=4 C W N 129 Court ought not to comment adversely on witness's conduct relying on matters which are not evidence Amar Nath v Emperor, 85 Ind Cis 143-26 Cr. L J 463=A I R 1925 Lah 187 ntaining an opinion on an ex parte It is the duty of the Judge to record a Baldeo v Sheoraj, 56 Ind Cis 807

Proviso (2) Where the question is asked with a view to criminal proceedings being taken against the witness, the witness is not legally bound to answer it, and he cannot be punished under s 179 I P Code, for refusing to answer Queen Empress v Hari Lakshman, 10 B 185 A witness should not be coerced to answer a question Queen Empress v Ishri, 8 A 672 (675)

Power of jury or assessors to put questions

166. In cases tried by jury or with assessors, the jury or assessors may put any questions to the witnesses, through or by leave of the Judge, which the Judge himself might put and which he considers proper.

Scope The privilege to examine witnesses has long been extended to jurors, when exercised to draw out or clear up some uncertain point Schaefer v St Louis, 128 Mo 64, Burr Jones § 815, R v Lilluman, (1896) 2 Q B 167 questions through the mal, 24 M 523 It is viewing the spot in controversy, since the knowledge derived by these means is far more satisfactory than any obtainable by the mere examination of maps or places which are often s, have been prepared with an expre also, In the matter of petition of Lalji 19 Procedure Code But the jurors and assessors can only view the scene of the alleged offence, and cannot examine any witnesses on the spot, because by sub section (2) of s 293 the officer conducting the jurors or assessors to the spot cannot suffer any other person to speak to them. Queen v Chutterdhoree, 5 W. R 59

CHAPTER XI.

OF IMPROPER ADMISSION AND REJECTION OF EVIDENCE

No new trial for improper admission or rejection of evidence.

167. The improper admission or rejection of evidence shall not be ground of itself for a new trial or reversal of any decision in any case, if it shall appear to the Court before which such objection is raised that, independently of the evidence objected to and admitted there was sufficient evidence to justify the decision, or that, if the rejected evidence had been received, it ought not to have varied the decision.

S 1

Scope of chapter XI The Act concludes with repeating the provision of Act II of 1855 to the effect that the improper admission or rejection of evidence or for a new trial of the case if the evidence improperly admitted there or that, if the rejected evidence had been admitted, it ought not have varied the decision When therefore, an appeal is grounded on the improper exclusion or admission of evidence the appellant must be prepared to show, not only that there has been an improper admission or exclusion, but that a miscarriage of justice has been thereby caused Cun Ev 70 71 In his introduction to the Indian Evidence Act, Sir James Fitzjames Stephen observed in connection with sections 5—11 "Important as these sections are for purposes of study and in order to make the whole body of law to which they belong easily intelligible to students and practitioners not trained in English Courts they are not likely to give rise to litigation or to nice distinction The reason is that s 167 of the Evidence Act which was formerly s 57 of Act II of 1855 renders it practically a matter of little importance whether evidence of a particular fact is admitted or not The extreme intricacy and minuteness of the law of England on this subject is principally due to the fact that improper admission and rejection of a single question and answer would give right to a new trial of a con admission thinks th turned th suggested under s 1 Steph Introduction p Retrospect in English law Whenever the Court admits irrelevant evidence the party affected by such evidence should then and there make objection the clo sible whom or (2) he is denied, then ender his bill v Pole, 9 M & W 351 360 a decision

the Court not acquiesc necessary for determining of evidence the objection ption taken Wigmore § 20 motion for a new trial By rial and of bill or exceptions Moreover, the bill of exceperrors in evidence rulings,

Material error new trial under English law rejection of a piece of English Rule is plain An erroneous admission or rejection of a piece of evidence was not sufficient ground for setting aside the verdict and order a new trial unless upon all the evidence it appeared to the Judges that the truth had thereby not been reached In R v Bell R C R 133, the Court observed "Whether the Judges on a case reserved would hold a conviction wrong on he ground that some evidence had been improperly received, when other evidence had been properly admitted that was of itself sufficient to support the conviction the Judges seemed to think must depend on the nature of the case and the weight of the evider ... If he case were clearly made out by proper evidence, in such a way ... n the mind of any reasonable ma ... new trial in felony, such a conviction ought not to be set ... other evidence had been given which ought not to have been received But if the case without such improper evidence were not clearly made out, and the improper ... effect on the minds of the Jury ... uch was the rule in the King s Bench ... R 133 R v Teal, 11 East 311, R v ... ht v Wynne, 2 B & Ald 554 559 ... Mansfield C J in Harford v Wilson, 1 Taunt ... that case the learned Chief Justice, sai l ... "Neither will the Court set aside a verdict on account of the admi sion c evidence which ought not to have been received provided there be sufficier without it to authorize the finding of the jury" This rule was also expl citl approved in Doe v Tyler, 6 Bing 561 Such was equally the practice i Chancery, when issues had been sent to a jury in a Common Law Cour Wigmore § 21 In Pemberton v Pemberton, 11 Ves 50, 52, Lord Eldon L said If upon the whole record he is satisfied that justice has been don though he may think, that some evidence was improperly rejected at law he at liberty to refuse a new trial' Similarly in Lorton v Kingston, 5 Cl & 263, 310 Lord Cattenham, L C said "The true consideration always is wheth ... the whole there appears to be such a case as enables the Judge in equi ... the parties without the assistance ... In that decade ... e decade of 1830 ... 835) 1 C M & R 919, announced ... signified that an error of rul ng ... ed party a right to a new trial created per se for the excep ... Langfield 16 M & W 497, 515 The new Wigmore § 21, see also Doe v ... the other Courts (Vide Rut en v Exchequer rule was speedily accepted in ... 7 A & E 313, 330), and for something Fair 4 A & E 53, Wright v Tatham ... until it was reformed more than a generation it remained the law of England ... In R v Gibson, L R 18 away, for civil causes in 1875 Wigmore § 21 ... Until the passing of the Judicature Q B D 537, 540, Lord Coleridge C J said ... legally admissible, which Acts, the rule was that if any bit of evidence not ... the party against whom might have affected the verdict, had gone to the jury, ... See also Campbell v Looder, 34 L J it was given was entitled to a new trial ... Ex 58

Now the civil cases in England are governed by the Judicature Act, 1883 and Rules of the Supreme Court, Rule 6 of Order 39 of the same runs as follows ' A new trial shall not be granted on the ground of misdirection or ... Unless in the opinion of ... wrong or miscarriage ... al will not be grante l ... ome legitimate effect ... ior when the evidence ... e admissible in the ... And the same rule ... re is other evidence ... has occurred in ... 5 C A Sec, to sustain the ... the trial, the verdict must star ... ins v Miller for examples Maclarn & Son ... 2) 2 Q B 5 1 Tylfil Urban Council, (1899 ... illegal agree-

For a case where a new trial was granted because evidence of ... see Harper v ment was wrongly admitted in support of the claim for damages ... is not applicable to the Eyjolfsson (1914) 2 K B 411 In England the rule 6, ... the possibility of Divorce Cour ... Allen v Allen (1894) P 255 "I doubt ... to the construction formulating a ... of Rule which ... the attempt ... (1896) A C 4 ...

S.

wrong is occasioned where the defendant has not been permitted to present his case to th[illegible] topic has been practically with- [illegible] & Co v Deutch Bank, (1919) A

The fact that evidence was improperly admitted or rejected at the trial is a good prima facie ground f[illegible] no substantial wrong or misc[illegible] dent Anthony v. Halstead 37 v Beggs (1905) 22 Ir. R 525 [illegible] ave been met by calling further evidence 130, Powell Ev 701

So far as criminal cases we[illegible] state a case for the Court of Crown [illegible] 1848 (11 & 12 Vict C 78), wh[illegible] improperly made The jurisdiction under this Act was transferred to the Judges of the High Court by the Supreme Court of Judicature Act of 1873 and though sections 3 and [illegible] Criminal Appea[illegible] in a point of [illegible] In practice however, such cases are now submitted to the Court of Criminal Appeal Step Dig Ev Art 113 Section 20 (1) of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (7 Ed VII C 23) runs as follows "The powers and practice now existing in the High Court in respect of motions for new trials or the granting thereof in crim[illegible] been a nullity the Crim[illegible] the Cr[illegible] Crane v Parker, [illegible] In King [illegible] illegal [illegible] dant guilty of man slaughter.

English and Indian Law differentiated Under Rule 6, Order 39 of the Rules of Supreme Court, the Court will interfere only when some substantial wrong or miscarriage has been occasioned on the trial by improper admission or [illegible] interference is legal when such im- pr[illegible] ried the decision In th[illegible] only a new trial can be granted but under this Act the decision may also be reversed

Scope of the secti[illegible] This section is a verbatim reproduction of section 57 of Act II of 1855 [illegible] of England In Hugh[illegible] The Court will not [illegible] given for the party offering it would be clearly against the weight of evi[illegible] or if without the evidence received there be enough to warrant the verdict" The reason [illegible] forcefully stated by Porter J in an American case "The [illegible] confessedly competent, [illegible] jury could refus[illegible] shield guilt from [illegible] the protection of law to [illegible] efore, the [illegible] tion [illegible] in i[illegible] could work no legal injury to the prisoner As [illegible] that the accused was one of the question, by undisputed and competent proof, that the jury murde[illegible] moral obligation to assume that the jury [illegible] admission might [illegible] ween of oth[illegible] irely civil [illegible] injurious to the party objecting to its ad[illegible] refusal" Wigmore § 21 This section affirms a reasonable principle often before laid down authoritatively by the Privy Council If, after setting aside what has been improperly rejected or omitted, the residue of the evidence is sufficient to support the finding of the original Court, no Appellate Court should set it aside Thus, in Ranee Surnamoyee v Maharaja Suthes Chunder Roy Bahadur, 10 M I A. 123, . . . d by false evidence, the Court . . . ident . . . F K . . . sa 7 . . . Moharajah Juggut v Bhupo Tarinee, 14 W . . . 6 B L R P C 495 In Mohar Singh v Ghumba, 6 B L R P C 495, the Court said; "It seems to their Lordships . . . more . . . trial, it is shown that evidence improper to be admitted has been admitted before the jury The Court in those cases are not Judges of fact, and are unable to say . . . evidence that ought not to have . . . who are Judges of the fact . . . ought not to have been admitted, th . . . support the decrees Their Lordships, . . . that the Court of first instance . . . have been as lax at it has been in . . . is always to be . . . See also Unide R . . . 7 M I A 128; Nort Ev 343

In cases of doubt, the Judge should decide in favour of admissibility of the evidence under consideration rather than of inadmissibility. Collector of Gorakhpur v Palakdhari, 12 A 1 (F B)

This section is equally applicable to civil and criminal cases The section applies to criminal as well as to civil cases whether or not the trial has been had before a jury Imperatrix v Pitamber, 2 B 61; Queen v Hurribole Chunder, 1 C 207=25 W R Cr 36; Reg v Navroji, 9 B H C R 358 The words "in any case" in s 167, Evidence Act, are wide and include criminal trials by jury Queen Empress v Ramchandra, 19 B 719

If it shall appear to the Court etc . . . section the Court before . . . Court Impe . . . and are, the . . . Letters Patent, . . . such judgment and sentence as . . . Straight C J contra per Bayley . . . trials by jury in the High Court . . .

Effect of improper admission and rejection of Evidence in civil cases The improper admission of the . . . is not, ipso facto, ground for a new trial, . . . the decision independently of the e. . . . Narain, 20 W. R 384. In civ . . . on principle as regards the workin . . . well as criminal cases the Court is not a judge of facts The jurors are judges of facts, and as such some difficulty may be felt by the Appellate Court to decide the effect of evidence improperly admitted in the minds of the jurors So in India in civil cases, "it is the duty of their Lordships who are Judges of the fact . to consider whether throwing aside the evidence which ought not to have been admitted there still remains sufficient evidence to support the decree" Mohar Singh v Ghunila, 6 B L R 195 P C = 15 W R 8 P C So under this section th ... rev ... self for a evi ... ntly of the A ... decision. adn ... wrongly the ... support ... Judicial Committee will not determine an appeal against a decree upon the mere fact that some evidence has been improperly admitted by the Court below It is the rule of that ... suf ... there is Co ... which the Ba ... : see also ... 1, Lala Bansidhors v The Government of Bengal, 9 B L R 374 = 14 M I A 86 P C; Bommaran~e v Rangasuami, 6 M I A 232, Maharaja Jagadindra v Bhaba Tarinee, 5 B L R Ap ... Abdul 20 W R 458

In Nitrasur Singh ... W R P C 51, their Lordships of the Privy ... rned counsel for the appellant has not strongly contended that the proper order to be made on this appeal is one remanding the case for retrial We have rather insisted that on the mate ... made in his f ... desire to ... right in ... events f ... to prove ... if he h ... judgmen ... were irregular, it is not for him to complain of an irregularity committed at his instance or with his consent And the suspicion however probable, of the Judge, that a party wh ... may be more ... on a second and fulle ... trial" The decision ... legal testimony and ... Bijoy Singh, 25 C. W ...

Objection in second appeal An erroneous omission to object to inadmissible evidence d ... the admissibility ... objection is taker ... document made ... be raised even ... Choonilal ... Ind Cas 731 = A I R 19.. Cal 1034, see ... C, Jagadis v Harihar, 40 C L J 39; ... 107

Wh ... based on unproved and consequently ... is vitiated thereby and must be set aside; where an appellate Court has relied for its decision upon a document which is inadmissible in evidence a Court of second appeal will be justified in remanding the case for decision to the appellate Court with a direction to exclude that document from its consideration Hem Raj v Nihal Singh, 7 Lah L J 35...

T ... ground for a new trial ... ision But there is difficu ... the High Court in sec ... the evidence ... the Judge dec ... dispute the proper procedure for the High Court ... 31 C W N 32 lower C ...

If a inadmissible ... evider ... to either ... at the ... n by the p... or their Where the lower Court has based the High Court will not in second in the case is sufficient to support the findings arrived at, s 167 is not a bar to such a case being remanded Mussamat Sumitra v Ram Kuer Choubey 5 P L J 410=57 Ind Cas 561

On second appeal the High Court has generally speaking no right to look at the evidence to decide whether the remaining evidence in a case other than that which has been improperly admitted is sufficient to warrant the finding of the lower Court The only cases which can be with propriety disposed of under such circumstances without a ...lently of the evidence admitted the lower upon other grounds Hoomesh Ch

An objection as regards the modes of proving a document should be taken at the time when the document is tendered Madhabi v Gaganendra, 9 C W N 11

When a subordinate Court has refused in the erroneous exercise of its discretion to receive documentary evidence which might have been accepted, the High Court has power to interfere in second appeal Taleuar v Bagauan Das, 8 C L J 117=12 C W N 312

...document in the (...appeal Ram ...am v The Secretary of State 6 C L J 678=34 C 1059 P C=9 Bom L R 1192, Akbar v Bheya Lal 6 C 666

...cases The words include crimir of new trials India Wher is held to be admissible, it is open to the High Court in appeal either to ...old the verdict upon the remaining evidence on the record, or to quash the verdict and order a new trial Queen Empress v Ram Chandra 19 B 749 Where no objection was raised to the reception of improper evidence in the lower Court ...regarding the ...ourt should ...90 Though ...evidence is ...less it was ...he Criminal ...discretion to ...ed to by the party or not Reg v Dayanand 11 B H C 44 Improper admission of evidence of character of the accused goes to the very root of the administration of criminal justice and w ...fluence the Magistrate' consideration of ...should be set aside Phelan Singh ...49=1? Pat L T 471=A I R ...ence to justify the conviction indep ...ion of the lower Court should be a ...)

When a case has been ...en set aside on the ground of n ...is c e retried by a jury, and as a matter of procedure and in justice to the accused this course should be adopted Acting on this principle the Court declined to exercise its powers under section 167 of the Evidence Act and sent back the case for retrial Sheikh Hajir v King Emperor, 14 C W N 593=11 Cr L J 301=5 Ind Cas 315

At the trial of a party of Hindus for rioting the Magistrate, instead of examining the ...copies of the examination in ...or led at a previous trial ...Hindu is in the same riot ...then cross-examined by ...taken on the prisoners' behalf The accused were convicted Held, that although the procedure adopted by the Magistrate was irregular the irregularity was cured by the ... of s 167 of the Evidence ... failure of justice ... matter elicited in cross examination ... Queen Empress v Nand Ram, 9 A 609 ... 789 = 32 B 111 F B Datar J ... "Then again under s 167 of the Evidence Act all that we ...

adjudicated upon We are not a Court of appeal in the ordinary sense of the term I do not think it is open to us under the present circumstances to go behind the record of the case, scrutinize every piece of evidence and enter upon an elaborate investigation as to whether each particular piece of evidence recorded by the learned Judge and to which the accused's counsel now takes exception was or was ... does not appear to be intended to be follo... in s 167 of the Evidence ... to

Where inadmissible evidence has been received the Court of appeal ... consider whether the reception of inadmissible evidence influenced the minds of the jury so seriously as to lead them to a conclusion which might have been different but for its reception and whether it has in fact occasioned a failure of justice Harendra v Emperor, 84 Ind Cas 451 = 26 Cr L J 307 Under section 165 of the Evidence Act the improper admission of evidence is not ground of ... apart from it there is other evidence to support ...

relied upon by the Court below, there was ample legal ... the High Court in revision the p... will ... interfere Achhaibat v Emperor, 2 Pat ... J 374 Where a trial Court convicts an accused on the evidence part of which has been wrongly admitted and the Sessions Court excluding the wrongly admitted evidence upholds the conviction on the ... and the trial has taken a course substantially different ... body of inadmiss... Act, and should

SCHEDULE

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

(See section 2)

Number and year	Title	Extent of repeal
Stat 26 Geo III Chap, 57 *	For the further regulation of the trial of persons accused of certain offences committed in the East Indies, for repealing so much of an Act, made in the twenty fourth year of the reign of his present Majesty intituled (An Act for the better regulation and management of the affairs of the East India Company, and of the British possessions in India, and for establishing a Court of Judicature for the more speedy and effectual trial of persons accused of offences committed in the East Indies)," as requires the servants of the East India Company to deliver inventories of their estates and effects for rendering the laws more effectual against persons unlawfully resorting to the East Indies, and for the more easy proof in certain cases of deeds and writings executed in Great Britain or India	Section 38 so far as it relates to Courts of Justice in the East Indies
Stat 14 & 15 Vict, Chap 99 †	To amend the Law of Evidence	Section 11 and so much of section 19 as relates to British India ‡
§ *	* * *

* The East India Company Act 1786

† Short title The Evidence Act 1851—see the Short Titles Act, 1896 (59 & 60 Vict., c 14)

‡ Certain entries after this repealed by Act IV of 1927 have been omitted

§ The entry relating to ss 7 and 8 of the General Clauses Act 1868 (1 of 1868), was repealed by the General Clauses Act, 1897 (10 of 1897)

APPENDIX A.

FIFTH REPORT OF HER MAJESTY'S COMMISSIONERS

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

We, your Majes. [illegible] of substantive law for India, [illegible] of law which [illegible]

[illegible] upon the subject Within [illegible] force, modified by certain [illegible] is the most important [illegible] It extends the range of [illegible] nts, of foreign system of [illegible] competency to testify by reason of interest or relationship, renders parties to suits liable to be called as w[illegible] competent witnesses for or against each [illegible] lying declarations admissible though the [illegible] es of recovery, provided that witnesses may be cross examined by the party who called them, and that they shall not be excused from answering questions because they may thereby criminate them selves D[illegible] niary interest of the persons who made [illegible] course of business, both of which kir[illegible] its only in cases of death, are under this Act admissible if the person who made the declaration or the entry has become incapable of giving evidence or if his testimony cannot be procured The Act also gives to t[illegible] ments the character [illegible] makes entries in such t[illegible] it extends the class [illegible] pedigree, and provides in effect that mistake committed in the rejection or reception of evidence shall not lead to a new trial or to the reversal of a decision unless a substantial failure of justice has been caused thereby The Act, however, bears reference in many places to the existing law, and it appears to have [illegible] body of rules, but as supplementary to, and [illegible] and also of the customary law of evidence [illegible] h India where the English law is not administered

The customary law has not assumed any definite form, the Mahomedan law since the enactm[illegible] have any validity in th[illegible] Courts have in fact [illegible] of 1855 They are not required to follow [illegible] where they regard it as the most they are not debarred from following it where they regard it as the most equitable

In laying down uniform rules for the guidance of the Indian Judges in general, as well as in the Courts [illegible] law of evidence has hitherto p[illegible] advisable to adopt a system so artificial [illegible] country [illegible] and legal [illegible] be un[illegible] which [illegible] preser[illegible] safely [illegible] variou[illegible] nounced inadmissible, [illegible] absolutely dispassionately considere[illegible] s dangerous excluded On the other [illegible] r testimony at that which is shut out [illegible] be asked a for or against each other question on the trial of her husband unless the trial be for an offence committed against herself In matrimonial cases the inconsistencies of the law as to e evidence cause frequent embarras of judicial investigation is attended with peculiar difficulties, and where it is the duty of the Judge in all civil and in some criminal cases to decide without a jury, there is a great danger of miscarriage from the m unduly influenced by the to afford every facility falsehood or error may be exclusion of falsehood, the channels by which truth is admitted It is of course, impossible to admit all evidence that may be offered, for this would lead to excessive waste of tim expressly excluded by or few cases where the law evidence, the Court shall The Judge

nce
y in the early stage of a trial to show the exact bearing of each piece of evidence upon the issues It is by no means our desire that our rules should be understood as imposing upon the Judges the use of excessive strictness in excluding evidence of which the applicability cannot be fully shown at the moment when the evidence is tendered We have, however, inserted provisions intended to guard questions asked with a view t
I e rules which limit whole of the evider
Act for the registration of assurances or of the Code of Criminal Procedure which recognise certain things as prima facie evidence that is to say, as conclusive unless met by counter evidence, yet we do not by our own rules attach this character to evidence of any class nor except where the testimony of a witness has been attacked,—do we reco evidence We have pr single witness even or of perjury, or of alone

An attempt to define all the cases in which and the purposes for which particular evidence may be received would in our opinion impede instead of aid the investigation of truth We hope that the course which we have adopted will render it easier for those who ad often committed in practice where a strict of supposing that whatever evidence is dited to the Court

The exclusion of even of relevant evidence may be desirable, when the evidence is such that peo to it, when it is such as can forgery, or when it is such without injury to interests investigation of truth

Although we have laid it down generally that all relevant evidence shall be admissible, we have thought it necessary to make certain exceptions from this rule These exceptions relate chiefly to that kind of evidence which is described in the English law books under the title 'hearsay' We have however, abstained from making use of the word 'hearsay' from the uncertainty and vagueness of says as to wha one sense of ments by a witness of what he has heard another person say may be, in (as in cases of slander) the very matter in issue, or in other cases may be part of the circumstances which it is essential to ascertain On the other hand "hearsay" may be defined to be that which a witness does not say as of his own knowledge, but says what another has said or signified to him This is probably a more strict and accurate definition of the word "hearsay" as used in the English law . . . is known in that law as hearsay , we have thought that it would . . . ir meaning, and be of more practical . . . exclude the word altogether We . . . efinition of the word hearsay", en- . . . of that class of evidence in the cases in which we think it ought to be excluded, and for the admission of it in the cases in which we think it ought to be admitted We have accordingly gone through the various classes of evidence in which arises the question of admissibility or exclusion what is called in the English law "hearsay" and have endeav . . . each class Most of the rules for the admis . . . recognized by the English law, others . . . of 1855, above referred to, or are intended to relax the English rule still further than was done by that enactment

We ha . . . that which has been spokon, . . . iness by a person . . . r whose presence . . . s kept in the ordinary course of business We have also made admissible written acknowledgments of the receipts of money, goods, securities, or property of any kind, and documents used in commerce Declarations which under the English law are only admitted because they have been made against interest will, by the effect of our rules, be excluded, unless they have been made in the ordinary course of business The test of pecuniary interest is exceedingly difficult of application, and appears to us to be of little value as a test of truth

We have admitted statements as to matters of reputation and of pedigree made b . . . whose presence cannot be pr . . . it the person who made th . . . dge We have discarded th . . . he statement shall have be . . . af . . . af

The indulgence afforded to witnesses by the existing law in permitting them to refer to contemporaneous memoranda appears to us to be carried too far when copies of such memoranda are allowed to be used for the purpose, and our rules do not permit the use of copies

Another clause of exclusion applies to documentary evidence unless some degee of caution were observed with regard to the authentication of writings, great facilities would be afforded for the fabrication of documents We have, therefore, laid down rules for the evidence to be required of the proper execution of documents, and, retaining the distinction between primary and secondary evidence have prov . . . against the admission of the latter where the . . . with the . . . assu ran . . . sion wou . . . nora lity . . . ourse betv . . . ot be asked merely . . . ction 19 of Act . . . m producing their own title deeds—a provisi . . . become every day le . . . from the production . . . to the cause We . . . law on the subject o . . . evidence

To those judgments which are admitted by the laws of all other countries as conclusive evidence not only between the parties but as against strangers, we have affixed the same character in India, in all other cases we have provided

As regards strangers, we have provided evidence that such a judgment was pro

We hav ... the truth more accurately it left to draw ... les of presumpt ... le universally a ... ject of evidence ... s of the draft now submitted certainly border closely on Procedure Those sections however, have not found a place in either of the Codes of Procedure We have therefore inserted them (with some modifications) as it appears to us that the law of evidence ought not to be left to be gleaned from many different enactments but that so much of it as it not to be found in the Codes of Procedure should be, as far as possible comprised in the rules of law now submitted by us and that the enactments which will thus be rendered unnecessary should be repealed

... II of 1855 and XIX of 1853 as ... which does not form

EVIDENCE

MEANING OF WORDS

1 In the following rules the word 'Court' shall be taken to comprise all Courts of justice, civil or criminal, and all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to take evidence, and the word 'cause' shall be taken to comprise all judicial proceedings civil or criminal

Admissibility

... it is not meant that it ... if any, which the deci ...

... n issue in a cause the ... lecision of the cause, is admissible, unless it is excluded by the rules contained in this chapter

3 No statement by a witness of anything, or founded upon anything spoken or written, or otherwise intimated by another person, and no statement contained in any document is admissible in evidence, except in the cases specified in the rules hereafter contained

Illustrations

... evidence that D told him that he saw ...

... evidence that D, a deaf and dumb pers ... he saw B rob C The evidence is inadmissible

(c) A gives evidence that B robbed C Being asked how he knows it he says that he knows it only because E told him so The evidence which has been admitted must be struck out.

(d) A says that B was alive on the 1st January 1860 It appears that A does not speak to this fact of his own knowledge, but that he learnt it from a letter written to him by C, or from a newspaper or from a printed book or a picture In each of these cases A s statement is not admissible as evidence that

... Being asked how ... B whose handwriting ... alive on that day

(1) Where the fact that a thing was spoken, stated or otherwise intimated is a question in issue

Illustration

A says that he has been told by B that he saw C pick D's pocket This is admissible in an action against B for slandering C

(2) Where the fact that a person by or to whom the thing was spoken, written, stated or otherwise intimated was acquainted with such thing is a question in issue

Illustration

A writes to B "I have just heard that C has failed" The letter is received by B The letter is not admissible as evidence that C had failed, but when it is proved that C had then failed, the letter is admissible as evidence that the

h the letter was written erwise intimated tends to

Illustrations

(a) A says on a trial of C for robbing D's house that he heard B say to C "D's house has been robbed," and that thereupon C fled This evidence is admissible

(b) On a trial of B for robbing C's house it is proved that B fled immediately after the robbery A witness is produced who says that he heard A tell B before B fled that a warrant had been issued for his arrest under a decree of Civil Court Th s ev dence admiss ble ill him It is alleged of what A said at the g him to be appre n committed in B s that C told B that he saw A running away immediately after, is admissible

(e) A sa B C P me the 1,000 rupees which you ... but it is evidence that ... troduce evidence of wh sedit ... ined with B for ... ing part in a riot in furtherance of those purposes is admissible against A

(4) Where the thing was spoken written or stated or otherwise intimated by a party to the suit, or some one whom he represents in interest and it is sought to be used against him

Illustrations

(a) A ... of way across B s fi ld Evidence that ... had while owner admitted A's

(b) A w ... will ship for him 100 bales of co ... direct

B an ... as a ... but

Crim

in e ... the same subject and betwe ... in erest and where the ... become incapable of givin ... vided that if each perso

(7) Where the thing spoken, written, stated or otherwise intimated was spoken, written stated or otherwise intimated in the ordinary course of business by a person who has died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured

Illustrations.

(a) A, the shipping agent of the firm of B and Co states in a letter to B and Co, that he has just seen a certain ship of theirs sail from the port of Calcutta The letter is admissible as evidence of the sailing of the ship

(b) A an attorney, prepares the draft of an intended deed to which B was to be a party, and endorses upon it a memorandum that a copy had been sent to another attorney on a certain day The draft contains a statement that B was in insolvent circumstances The draft and endorsement are admissible as evi

[illegible] are not

[illegible] tain

[illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] A's

cotton, and in the same letter he mentions the state of the silk [illegible] letter is admissible as evidence of the order given to him but not of the state of the silk market

(8) Where the thing intimated consists in entries in books kept in the ordinary course of business, or consists in written acknowledgments of the receipt of money goods, securities of property of any kind, or in any document used in commerce

Illustrations

(a) Entries made by a clerk of a firm in the books of the firm to the effect that the firm has received a consignment of cotton from A and has purchased 50 chests of indigo from B These are admissible in evidence against all the partners in the firm

(b) A one of two partners makes an entry in the partnership books that he has lent his partner B £ 100 The entry is not admissible in evidence against B that A had left him the £ 100

(c) A clerk whose business it is to make entries in the books of the firm of all monies paid by him makes an entry in the books that he had paid away £ 100 for the firm The entry is admissible in evidence that he had so paid away the money

(d) The firm of A and Co, keeps a book in which the despatch and receipt [illegible] An entry in this book of the despatch

[illegible] f B and Co, is admissible in [illegible] by A and Co, to B and Co

[illegible] and Co are, according to the [illegible] and afterwards despatched A [illegible] d terms was despatched by them on a certain day to B and Co. tendered in evidence an entry in their letter book purporting to be a copy of a letter addressed by them on that day to B and Co, and an entry of the fact that such letter was despatched The entries are admissible

(f) A guarantees the payment by C of a sum of money due from him to B A pays the amount to B and sues C for repayment A tenders in evidence a receipt given to himself by B for the amount due The receipt is admissible in evidence

(g) A sues B for the proceeds of a cargo of cotton consigned by A to B and sold through a broker The account sales rendered by the broker are admissible in evidence

(h) A a wharfinger, gives to B an acknowledgment that 100 tons of copper have been deposited at A's wharf This acknowledgment is admissible in evidence of the fact that the deposit has been made

(i) A effects a policy on his ship against sea risks The ship goes to sea and sustains injury A institutes a suit to recover damages from the underwriters The log book of the ship is admissible in evidence

(9) Where the thing spoken, written, stated or otherwise intimated relates to the usages or tenets of any body of men, the constitution or government of any religious or charitable foundation, or the meaning of any technical or conventional words of terms or of any words or terms used in particular districts, or to any matter or public or general interest, and was spoken, written stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured

Illustrations.

(a) A, in order to show the religious tenets of a certain sect, tenders in evidence a manuscript treatise, proved to have been written by a deceased member of the sect The treatise is admissible

(b) It is a disputed fact in a suit whether a certain spot is or is not a public landing place Statements made on the subject by A and B now deceased intimated has spoken written,

stated or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured, provided that such person was a member of the family or had otherwise special means of knowledge

Illustrations

(a) It is a disputed fact in a suit whether A is the son of B A statement made on the subject by C, who was a nurse in B's family about the time of A's birth, is admissible in evidence

(b) A alleging that he is the son of B, deceased, produces the following documents in which he is mentioned as the son of B

1 An entry made by B in a memorandum book stating A's birth 2 Letters which passed between two of B's brothers since deceased 3 A deed executed by B

A also produced witnesses who state that B told them that A was his son The contents of the documents and the testimony of the witnesses are admissible in evidence

(1[illegible] by a recital [illegible] or after th[illegible] n of the Gov[illegible] ting to be t[illegible] ship of Brit[illegible]

(12) Where the thing intimated is and there has been a public meeting or public proceeding and such intimation is contained in a report thereof published in any newspaper or journal

Explanation Such report is not admissible in evidence of any fact reported to have occurred or of any statement reported to have been made at the meeting or proceeding

EVIDENCE OF LAW OF FOREIGN COUNTRY

(13) Where the thing intimated purports to be the law of a foreign country [illegible] to be printed [illegible] ntry, or in re[illegible]

MAPS

5 Maps made under the authority of Government shall be admissible

RES JUDICATA

6 [illegible] shall have effect as provided [illegible]

7 [illegible] ... s never were husband [illegible] is proof that the parties [illegible] ch

8 [illegible] is proof that the ship [illegible]

9 The judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue is admissible as evidence between the same parties, and those who represent them in interest upon the same matter, directly in issue in another cause, but not between any other parties, except as provided for in the next following section of the chapter

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for a horse, alleging that it was stolen from himself and that B brought it, knowing it to be stolen Judgment is given in B's favour B afterwards loses the horse, A finds it and B sues A for it A in defence makes the same allegations as in the former suit The judgment pronounced in the former suit is admissible as evidence in B's favour

(b) A sues B for rent in the Court of the Collector, which has cognizance of such suits ... retain the ren... genuineness of ...
A's suit Afte...
... rtgage The
... as evidence
that such judgment was pronounced between the parties, but is not as against any person other than the parties thereto and those who represent them in interest, evidence of any other fact thereby appearing

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for compensation for injury sustained through the negligence of C, who is B's agent A obtains judgment In a suit brought by B against C for compensation for loss sustained by B through C's negligence the ... amount which A has been adjudged ...

... ause B yielded up to C certain lands which B held as guardian of A, who was then a minor A decree passed in a prior suit, whereby B was directed to yield up possession to C as owner, is admissible in evidence

(c) A is tried on the charge of having forged a deed of gift from B He is acquitted Afterwards C alleging the deed to gift of be forgery institutes a suit against A for certain lands ... session under it The record of A's acqu...

(d) A one c... in estate, dies and his brothers, B and ... D a portion of the land which they posses...

E, claiming as the adopted son and heir of A, sues for A's share of the land sold to D ... e afterwards claiming as ...

... in one of them for compensation ... were sustained by him through the negligence of their captain B sues the owners of the ... goods The judgment is not ... negligence ... whom A alleges to be B's son ... at C is B's son and decrees payment by B of A's claims.

B dies, C alleging that he is B's son, sues the executor of D for a legacy of A 10 000 rupees, D having by his will bequeathed that sum to every child of B The judgment is not admissible in evidence that C is a son of B.

App

PROOF OF WRITINGS WHICH CONSTITUTE PRIMARY EVIDENCE

11 A writing which is not required by law to be attested, but which is alleged to have ... written wholly or in part by a ... rovided for by sections 17 1 ... nce, unless the signature attached thereto, or so much of the same writing as is sought to verify, be proved to be in the handwriting of the person by whom it is alleged to have been written or signed

12 A written instrument which is required by law to be attested shall not (except in the cases provided for by section 20 of this chapter), be received as evidence unless the following rules are complied with —

(1) That execution of such instrument shall be proved by one attesting witness at the least, if there be an attesting witness alive and subject to the process of the Court by which the cause is tried and capable of bearing testimony

(2) If no attesting witness is alive and subject to such process as aforesaid, ...

is alleged to have done so

13 I ... or seal a genuine any signatu ... this faction of t

14 ... years old and is produced from the proper custody, it shall be admissible in evidence without proof of its execution or attention

PROOF OF THE CONTENTS OF DOCUMENTS BY SECONDARY EVIDENCE

15 Evidence of the contents or purport of any written or printed document or of letters figures, or other mark not produced to the Court shall not be admissible except as provided by the rules next following —

(1) A copy of or extract from any proclamation, order or regulation issued by Her Majesty or by the Privy Council or any department of Her Majesty s Governm ... that such copy of extra ...

to be printed under the authority of possession or to be certified to be true proper officer

(2) A copy of a record of any Court or of an entry in any public book or register which is proved to be a correct copy, or which purports to be under the seal of such Court or to be certified by the proper officer, shall be admissible as evidence of the existence and the contents of any such record or entry

(3) to have being er able character

(4) Evidence of the contents of a admissible, when it has been proved that th lost or when the person in whose custod the Court by which the cause is tried or is document, or refuses, after due notice, to produce it, or when ... otherwise satisfactorily accounted for

EVIDENCE OF TERMS OF CONTRACT

16 Where a contract or grant or other disposition of property is in writing no evidence of the terms of such contract, grant, or disposition shall be received except the writing itself, or such evidence of its contents as may be admissible under the provisions of the last preceding section

Explanation The statement of a fact in any such document does not preclude the admission of oral evidence relating to the same fact, and where a suit is instituted for the purpose of setting aside or varying a document on the ground of a mistake in the writing thereof evidence may be received for the purpose of proving such mistake

PAPERS OF WHICH PROOF IS NOT REQUIRED

17 No pr ... ting to be the London ... of any Presidency ... ony or possession of the British Crown, nor of any paper purporting to be a news paper or journal, or a copy of a private Act of Parliament printed by the King's printer.

18 No proof shall b ... paper purporting to be a certificate certified ... by law made evi dence of any particular ... ubstantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by the law in that behalf

19 No proof shall be required of the official position of any person certi fying to the truth of any such paper as is mentioned in the last preceding rule

... and to have been exec ... Court Judge Magi ... Majesty or of the G ...

21 An impression of any document made by a copying machine, or a representation of anything made by means of photography or of any other process which affords a reasonable assurance of correctnes shall be admissible in evidence, wherever under these rules the production of the original may be dispensed with

PERSONS WHO MAY TESTIFY

22 Those persons only shall be incompetent to testify who from tender years or for unsoundness of mind or from any other cause appear to the Judge to be incapable of understanding the questions addressed to them

PRIVILEGE

23 A witness is not at liberty to disclose a communication— ... sclosure

... e to the ... te in a ... made it ... ot been

... erpreter ... ommu ... of his professional employment or consists of any advice given or conveyed by the witness professionally to his client or principal or of the contents of any docu ment of his client or principal, the knowledge of which the witness has acquired in the course of his professional employment, and where the client or principal or his representative in interest has not consented to the disclosure of such communication

(4) Where the disclosure demanded of the witness consisted in the pro duction of documents belonging to another person who would not be bound to produce them if in his possession and who has not consented to their production

24 A witness is not compellable to disclose to the Court any confidential communication which may have taken place between him and his legal pro fessional adviser

25 No communication made in furtherance of criminal purpose is protected from disclosure

26 A witness ... in his c... ind- ing a ... tion or to its being read, or being put in as evidence or to the disclosure of its contents

The validity of any such objection made by the person bringing the document shall be determined by the Court · and for the better determination thereof it shall be lawful for the Court to receive any admissible evidence which such person ... s the ... y any ... e its ... ment is to be given in evidence.

27 No question shall be put to a married person which substantially amounts to inquiring whether that person has had sexual intercourse forbidden him or her by the law to which he or she ...

28 ... a husband ... tians, whe... bodily inc... where the knowledge of the fact inquired after is necessary to the determination of some question between the husband and wife according to the law to which hey are subject

EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

29 The p... with the permission of th... in the same manner as ... may be allowed to show that the witness has varied from a previous statement made by him

30 In order to repel an attack on the testimony of a witness, any former statement made b... when the fact took ... the fact shall be ... deposition or stater... dence that such deposition or statement was made, and that it was made at the time and place, and under the circumstances, if any, which shall be stated in the certificate or on the face of the deposition or statement

31 It shall not be lawful to ask a witness, in order to test his credit, any question the answer to which might criminate or might tend directly or indirectly, to criminate him, or might expose or tend, directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind But a witness shall not be excu... ssue in any caus... night crimi- nate, ... or tend to expo... h a witness shall ... ishing him for ... nce against him ... party or a ... upon any witne... f a witness quest... cause is incor... not excluded by this rule

Illustrations

... the ground of fraud The ... he had not made a part... ble to show that he frau... had made such fraudulent claim

(b) In a suit by A against B, a witness for A is asked whether he had not been dismissed from B's service for misconduct He denies it. Evidence is tendered to contradict the witness's statement as to such dismissal. The evidence is not admissible.

A. (c) In an action against A for goods sold to him by B, a witness for B deposes that he saw the goods sold and delivered He is asked whether he had given a different account of the transaction He denies it Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such different account This evidence is admissible He is asked whether . . . alleged sale, dealt with B as the owner of the go . tendered to show that he had so dealt with B is asked whether he h . transaction not in issue in the cause . to show that he had given such false ac

(d) The witness is asked whether he had not received money or a promise of some favour from B to induce him to give his evidence He denies it Evidence is tendered to show that he had received such money or promise This evidence is admissible

33 A witness may be cross examined as to previous statements made by him in writing . to the subject matter of the cause without su . but if it is intended to contradict such witness st, before such contradicting proof can be given, be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used . Court may, however, at any time . iting for its inspection; and may the trials as may seem fit

34 A witness may while under examination refer to any writing mac by himse . questione or so soo actio was fresl in n made by insu tion, or insu tion, was fresh in his memory In such case the writing shall be produced an may be given by the adverse party, who may, if he choose, cross examine the witness upon it.

NUMBER OF WITNESSES

35 A Cour . act of such evidence, alt

This rule . that th testimony is give r offence against the sta

THINGS . TAKEN.

36 The

(1) All A law in any part of British .

(2) All public Acts of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed;

(3) The names, titles, and functions of the persons filling for the time being any police office in any part of India,

(4) All divisions of time, the geographical divisions of the world, th territories under the dominion of th . ment conti nuation, and termination of hostili . y other state and the . le recog

. own members and o . of their deputies and subordinate officers, or assistants, and also of all officers acting in execution of its process, and of all Advocates Attorneys, Proctors, Vakeels, Pleaders, and other persons authorized by law to act before it

SOURCES OF INFORMATION TO WHICH COURTS MAY REFER

38 A Court may, in order to inform itself in respect of any of the matters mentioned in sections 36 and 37 of these Rules, and also on matters of Publ History, Literature, Science, or Art refer, for the purposes of evidence, to such

Books, Maps, Almanacks, or Charts as the Court shall consider to be of authority on the subject to which they relate

39 The foregoing Rules are to take effect subject to the provisions of the law for the time being in force regarding the registration of any document

We humbly submit this our Fifth Report to your Majesty's Royal consideration

(Sd) ROMILLY (L S)
(Sd) EDWARD RYAN (L S)
(Sd) ROBERT LOWE (L S)
(Sd) ROBERT LUSH (L S)
(Sd) JOHN M MACLEOD (L S)
(Sd.) W. M JAMES (L S)

Dated this 3rd day of August 1868

ABSTRACTS of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The Council met at Simla on Wednesday, the 28th October, 1868

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding, His Excellency the Commander in Chief, G C S I, K C B

The Hon'ble G N Taylor
The Hon'ble H S Maine
The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, K C S I
The Hon'ble Col H W Norman, C B
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell
The Hon'ble Sir George Couper Bart C B

EVIDENCE BILL

The Hon'ble [illegible] and amend the Law of E[illegible] state that the Bill embo[illegible] missioners had recently [illegible] ably no subject in which a [illegible] India and the Commissioners had fully stated [illegible] circulated to Hon'ble Members the reasons [illegible] proposed to introduce If he got leave to introduce the Bill he propo[illegible] His Excellency the President to suspend the rules for the conduct of business and on their suspension, to introduce the Bill with a view to its publication in the Gazette There was no use in now dilating to any length on the technical subjects comprised in the Bill

The [illegible] the President to suspend the Rules for the [illegible]

[illegible] President declared the Rules suspended

The Hon'ble Mr Maine then introduced the Bill

(Sd) WHITLEY STOKES

Asst Secy to the Govt of India

Home Department (Legislative)

SIMLA,
The 28th October, 1868

ABSTRACT of Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the Provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict. Cap 67

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 4th December, 1868

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding

The Hon'ble G Noble Taylor
The Hon'ble H Summer Maine.
The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Colonel H W. Norman C B
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell
The Hon'ble Sir George Couper, Bart C B.
The Hon'ble Maharaja Sir Dig Bijoy Singh Bahadur, K C S I of Balrampur
The Hon'ble Gordon S Forbes
The Hon'ble D Cowie.
The Hon'ble M J Shaw Stewart

The Hon'ble Shaw Stewart took the oath of allegiance, and the oath that he would faithfully discharge the duties of his office

EVIDENCE BILL

The Hon'ble Mr. ... law of Evidence be referr... two months He said ... Bill to a Select Committee, what was affirmed was the principle of the me... or the expediency of legislation within the general principles of the measure This being undestood, Mr Maine did not suppose that the council would ever seriously think of refusing to refer to a Select Committee a Bill prepared by the Indian Law Commissioners and therefore he should say very little in commending it to the council The consideration of the measure was essentially a consideration of its detail and to that detail the Select Committee would doubtless give the most careful attention not, as Mr Maine hoped, for the purpose of ... n matters which ... isio experience, ... quired in any way restriction or extension with regard to the special circumstances and facts of this country.

...

India where English law was not administered 'This customary law ... added

"Has not assumed any definite form, the Mahomedan Law, since the enactment of the new Code of Criminal Procedure has ceased to have any validity in the country Courts even ... have in fact no fixed rules of evidence ... 1855 ... e not ...

... uld seem ... modified ... st ten or ... in force ... h, and the habit ... ind No doubt ... English Courts ... ould appeal to members of Council who had more experience in the Mofussil than he had, his honourable friends, Sir George Couper and Mr Cockerell, whether the Judges of those Courts did not, as a matter of fact, believe that it was their duty to ad- A minister the English law of evidence as modified by the Evidence Acts In particular, Mr. M... before a Mof...

the E
much
the

without fixed rules to go capricious administration o equal, or perhaps even a gre be enforced as practically to leave the Court without the material for a decision Mr Maine would venture to state his impression that the fault of substance ordinarily committed l evidence, than in avertir and in conjecturing the deration of what the circumstances Anothe Judges were thus plac were excellent text book consisted more in refreshing knowledge which had been gained by forensic experience than in teaching knowledge The commissioners would appear to be right in supposing that what was wanted for the greatest part of India was a liberalized version of the English law of evidence, enacted with authority and thus excluding caprice and superseding the use of text books by compactness and precision

Another ... law, mig
The doc prevale that rul acts an could be ascertained by the processes in use among men of science. There were certain continental systems of evidence which did make a pretension to include a process of the kind And perhaps some such theory did pervade the rules of the English law with regard to presumptions which he was happy to see the Commissioners had discarded But the English law of evidence as a whole made no claim to be such a system It was justly regarded by English lawyers as a mod... l probably have never come into existence ba... sh judicial administration,—the separation of ... fact, of the Judge from the Jury It consisted mainly of rules of exclusion that is, of rules for keeping certain kinds of evidence out of sight of the Judge of fact Such a system, Mr Maine apprehended could only be justified on two grounds First of all, some evidence must be excluded If all evidence were admitted nay, even if all relevant evidence were admitted, if everything were let in which tended to throw light on the matt... Even in England they would b their fur ing to remotest bearing on it It being then, assumed that, ... must necessarily be shut out, tions of judicial enquiry, some sorts of evidence which were found the English law excluded those descriptions of evidence which ... practical
judgmen
the case
not at a Maine co to a mo

reject as absolutely inadmissible But taking men, as you found them, and taking the average of judicial ability, it was really true that some kind of mind far deeper than was consistent which the English law laid claim was own for distinguishing those kinds of would be presumptuous in Mr Maine to praise the Commissioners' proposals, but he ventured to say that, in his humble opinion, they had wisely availed themselves of the results of English experience but had wisely modified those results upon two considerations, which a great degree by our social nd much of it is admitted different forms of property

In a country like India where the task of judicial investigation is attended with peculiar difficulties, and where it is the duty of the Judge in all civil and in some criminal cases to decide without a jury, there is greater danger of miscarriage from the mind of the Court being uninformed than from its being unduly influenced by the information laid before it"

Mr Maine had said that he would not comment on the details of the measure, but there was one point of detail which it was necessary to notice,

The omission in the Bill ... Stamp Bill now in hands of Mr ... of the Governor General before ... passed last, it would control the present measure. But another reason must probably t, on

y in ients amp nded
ed a

Now from the Commissioners' point of view, which was the purely judicial inference from those papers If effect were given to the Commissioners' suggestion either there would be an enormous evasion of the law, or that evasion would be prevented by recourse to the Criminal Courts for the enforcement of penalties to an extent which would itself be a greater evil than the sacrifice of any branch of revenue Under these circumstances, the point has been considered by the Executive Government and Mr Maine had to state that, having regard to the fact that the stamp duties on commercial instruments were easily levied, and did not press hardly on the people, the Government was not prepared to give up that portion of the public receipts

...nce—The Hon'ble Mr Cockerell, the Hon'ble Sir George Couper, and the Hon'ble Messrs Gordon Forbes Shaw Stewart and the Mover

The council adjourned till the 11th December, 1868.

CALCUTTA, WHITLEY STOKES

The 4th December, 1868. Asst. Secy to the Govt of India.

Home Department (Legislative)

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

The council met at Simla on Tuesday, the 6th September, 1870

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India, K P G C S I Presiding

His Excellency the Commander in Chief G C B G. C. S I

The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
Major General the Hon'ble H W Norman, C B
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell.

His Highness the Hon'ble Surmad Rajaha Hindustan Raja Rajendra Sri Maharaja Dhiraj Sivi Ram Singh Bahadur of Jaypur G C S I

EVIDENCE BILL

... the Hon'ble Mr Strachey be added ... and amend the Law of Evidence ... n opportunity of saying a few words on a measure of the very highest importance The Evidence Act was drafted by the Ind ... two years ago It was introd ... of the members of which ... had in the Gazette for general information Objections of ... taken to it by many of the most distinguished lawyers in India, and no doubt, the subject was one which required the most careful handling It was impossible to exaggerate the practical importance of the Bill, as it would regulate the most important part of the procedure of every Court of Justice throughout the Empire Such a measure would of course require most careful consideration ...

upon the ... doubts ... be ac ... in a ... nglish state ... the law ... As consequence was that the subject caused ... in Messrs Cowell and a proof of this he (the mover) might observe that in about Woodman's Indian Digest, which contained notes of cases decided in about eight years, the title "Evidence" filled no less than twenty three royal octavo pages in ... There were probably from four to five hun... which th... which in... continue...

The motion was put and agreed to

The Council then adjourned to the 20th September, 1870

WHITLEY STOKES

Secretary to the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations

SIMLA,
The 6th September, 1870

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 18th November, 1870

PRESENT.

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G, C S I, presiding

The Hon'ble John Strachey.
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
Major General, the Hon'ble H W Norman, C B
The Hon'ble D Cowie
The Hon'ble Francis Stewart Chapman
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell

EVIDENCE AND INSOLVENCY BILLS

... n'ble Mr Inglis be added to the ...

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 9th December, 1870

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secretary to the Government of India

CALCUTTA,
The 2nd December, 1870

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purposes of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 9th December, 1870

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G, C S I, presiding.

The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C
The Hon ble B H. Ellis
Major Genl the Hon'ble W H Norman, C B
The Hon'ble Francis Stewart Chapman

SUNDRY BILLS

... Hon'ble Mr Robinson be added ...

For the Limitation of Suits
The motion was put and agreed to
The Council adjourned to Friday, the 16th December, 1870

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secretary to the Govt of India

CALCUTTA,
The 9th December, 1870

APPENDIX B.

DRAFT REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

The Gazette of India, July 1, 1871, Part V, p 273

The following Draft Report of a Select Committee together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of

India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 31st March, 1871 — A

From Officiating Under Secretary, Home Department, No 423, dated 23rd October 1868, and enclosures.

From Assistant Secretary, Foreign Department, No 333, dated 12th December 1868, and enclosures

Remarks by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bombay (no date)

Remarks by Hon'ble Justice Phear, dated 8th December, 1868

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner British Burma, No 525—1, dated 1st December 1868

From Assistant Secretary to Government of Bengal Legislative Department, No 37, dated 9th January 1869, and enclosure

From Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Army, dated 26th January, 1869, and enclosures

From Officiating under Secretary Home Department, No. 258 dated 17th February, 1869, forwarding memorial from Muktars and Revenue Agents, Howrah, dated 4th February 1869

From Secretary to Indian Law Commissioners, dated 6th February, 1869.

From Chief Secretary to Government Fort St George, No 120, dated 18th March 1869, and enclosures

From Secretary to Government of Bombay, No 2971, dated 7th September 1869, and encloures

From Secretary to Government of Bombay, No 3188 dated 24th September 1869, and enclosures

Fifth Report of Her Majesty's Law Commissioners on the Bill

From Officiating Inspector-General of Police, Punjab, No 2657, dated the 28th September, 1870

From Secretary to Government of India Home Department, No 1892, dated 18th October 1870 forwarding letter from Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No 61, dated 15th August 1870, and enclosures

We the members of the Select Committee to which the Evidence Bill has been referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin

After a very careful consideration of the draft prepared by the Indian Law Commissioners we have arrived at the conclusion that it is not suited to the wants of this country

We have recorded in a separate report the grounds on which this conclusion is based They are in a few words that the Commissioners' draft is not sufficiently elementary for the officers for whose use it is designed, and that it assumes an acquaintance on their part with the law of England, which can scarcely be expected from them Our draft, however, though arranged on a different principle from theirs, embodies most of its provisions In general, it has been our object to reproduce the English Law of Evidence with certain modifications most of which have been suggested by the Commissioners though with some this is not the case

The English Law of Evidence appears to us to be totally destitute of arrangement This arises partly from the circumstance that its leading terms are continually used in different sense, and partly from the circumstance that the Law of Evidence was formed by degrees out of various elements, and in particular out of the English system of pleading and the habitual practice of the Courts of Common Law For instance, the rule that evidence must be confined to point in issue is founded on the system of pleading The rule that hearsay is no evidence is part of the practice of the Courts but the two sets of rules run into each other in such an irregular way as to produce between them a result which no one can possibly understand systematically unless he is both acquainted with the principles of a system of pleading which is being rapidly abolished, and with the everyday practice of the Common Laws of Courts, which can be acquired and understood only by those who habitually take part in it This knowledge, moreover, must be qualified by study of text books which are seldom systematically arranged

Many other circumstances, to which we need not refer, have contributed largely to the general results, but we may illustrate the extreme intricacy of the law, and the total absence of anything like system which pervades every part of it, by a single instance. In Mr. Pitt Taylor's work on evidence it is stated that "ancient documents" when tendered in support of ancient possession, form the third exception to the rule which excludes hearsay. The question is whether A is entitled to a fishery. He produces a royal grant of the fishery to his ancestor. This fact the law describes as a peculiar kind of hearsay admissible by special exception. Surely this is using language in a most uninstructive manner.

This being the case, we have discarded altogether the phraseology in which the English text writers usually express themselves, and have attempted first to ascertain, and then to arrange in their natural order, the principles which underlie the numerous cases and fragmentary rules which they have collected together. The result [illegible] follows:—

Every judicial proceedin [illegible] of some right or liability. If [illegible] the liability to punishment of [illegible] the object is to ascertain some right of property or of status, or [illegible] one party, and the liability of the other, to some form of relief.

[illegible] are dependent upon and arise out of facts, and [illegible] which can, and those which cannot be perceived [illegible] an be perceived by the senses, it is superfluous to give examples. Of facts which cannot be perceived by the sense, intention, [illegible] may be given as examples. But each class [illegible] n to the name of facts— [illegible] it the intervention of the [illegible] time, he had a certain [illegible] e can testify that, at a certain time and place, he saw a particular [illegible] e has, in each case, a present recollection of a past direct perception. Moreover it is equally necessary to ascertain facts of each class in judicial proceedings, and they must in [illegible] way [illegible] different ways [illegible] onstitute [illegible] liability [illegible] would be a lega [illegible] dest son of B, there ar [illegible] England the heir-at law [illegible] From the fact that A [illegible] id with a [illegible] that A [illegible] knowledge there arises of necessity the [illegible] iment provided by the law for murder [illegible] g may be called facts in issue unless [illegible] es in issue in the sense above explained [illegible] nce of facts in issue and these may be [illegible] with which it [illegible] themselves, so [illegible] relation to the [illegible] ther an alleged [illegible] inference from [illegible] t the belief of [illegible] l upon grounds altogether independent of the relation [illegible] nature of the proceedings in which its existence is to be determined. The question is whether A wrote a letter. The letter may have contained the terms of a contract. It may have been a libel. It may have constituted the motive for the commission of a crime by B. It may supply proof of an alibi in favour of A. It may be an admission or a confession of a crime, but whatever may be the relation of the [illegible] unless it believes that A did [illegible] red, in each of the cases [illegible] ce, the Court required the production of the original when the writing of the letter is a crime, there can be no reason why it should be satisfied with a copy when the writing of the letter is a motive for a crime. In short, the way in which a fact should be proved depends on the nature of the fact, and not on the relation of the fact to the proceedings

Court is convinced of a fact is evidence It is or circumstantial We have not adopted

e establishes a fact in issue whereas teral fact, evidence is classified not ith reference to the use to which it reference to its component elements but as being used for writing or for printing We have shown that the mode in which a fact must be proved depends on its nature and not on the use to be made of it Evidence, therefore, should be defined, not with reference to the reference to its own nature rect evidence is a statement of ntial evidence is something phrase is thus used, the word nd circumstantial "evidence" s In the first, it means testimony, in the second, it means a fact which is to serve as the foundation for an inference It would indeed be quite correct, if this view is taken to say 'circumstantial evidence must be proved by direct evidence' This would be a most clumsy mode of expression, but it shows the ambiguity of the word 'evidence' which means either

(1) Words spoken or things produced in order to convince the Court of the existence of facts, or

(2) facts of which the Court is so convinced and which suggest some inference as to other facts

We use the word 'evidence' in the first of these senses only, and so used it may be reduced to three heads—(1) oral evidence, (2) documentary evidence, (3) material evidence

Finally the evidence by which facts are to be proved must be brought to the notice of the Court and submitted to its judgment and the Court must form its judgm to us to supply the ground work for a e subject as follows —

II Preliminary

e issue

to their nature by oral documentary or

IV The production of evidence

V Procedure

We have accordingly distributed the subject under these heads, in the manner which we now proceed to describe somewhat more fully

I—PRELIMINARY

Under this head we have defined 'fact' facts in issue', 'collateral facts' a documen 'proved' 'necessary inference' and 'presume'

Of ou and 'evidence', with the principles already stated We may ffect of the definition of evidence

It will make perfectly clear several matters over which the ambiguity of the words as used in English law has thrown much confusion The subject of circumstantial evidence will be distributed into its elements and will be dealt with thus The facts are—that he had a motive e one of the crime shows fo was in possession of property he wrote a letter indicating his guilt he found that all these are relevant facts, either as motive, incident of facts in issue, effects of facts in issue or conduct influenced by facts in issue On turning to Chapter III it will be [illegible] the statements displayin [illegible] says he heard them, the [illegible] says he saw them the possession of the property by the production of the property in Court, and by the direct oral evidence of some one who had seen it in th [illegible] he letter itself or sec [illegible] rs observe is used [illegible] nner, finds no place in our draft, and we hope [illegible] any confusion in connection with it. Chapter [illegible] manner which corresponds on the whole (though with some modifications) with the English law in [illegible] of third persons as to relevant facts [illegible] not be themselves relevant and Chapt [illegible] shall in all cases be direct on whatev [illegible] y be relevant to the issue t [illegible] en, it must be established by a [illegible] by a [illegible]

So our definition does away with a confusion which arises out of the double meaning of the word evidence in the phrases "primary and secondary evidence Primary evidence sometimes means a relevant fact, and at other [illegible] of by a copy [illegible] and confined [illegible] was spoken or [illegible]

[illegible] vidence" the [illegible] is not open to objection on the ground of obscurity or ambiguity but the word 'evidence in it means not what we understood by evidence but a fact established by evidence from which a particular inference necessarily follows Our phrase, therefore, harmonises with the rest of our draft whereas 'conclusive evidence' would not.

The definitions of proof proved and 'moral certainty require some comment The definition of proof is subordinate to that of 'proved which is that a fact is said to be proved in two cases that is to say, when the Court after hearing the evidence respecting it—

(1) believes in its existence, or

(2) thinks its existence so probable that a reasonable man ought under the circumstances of the particular case to act upon the supposition that it exists

This degree of probability we describe as moral certainty', and we provide that no fact shall be regarded as morally certain unless the evidence is such [illegible] an approach as we [illegible] doubt", [illegible] fact to [illegible] be completely answered, for at bottom it is a question not of science but of prudence and our definition of the word proved' is meant to make this plain We have however attached to it the negative condition that a reasonable man ought [illegible] other [illegible] which must have been committed either by him or by B unless [illegible] exist which make it improbable that the offence was committed by B We have not attempted to carry the matter further We believe that in all countries and in this country more than in any other it is absolutely necessary to leave to judges a wide discretion as to the risk of error which they choose to incur in coming to a decision, and that this is a matter of prudence and practice as to which rules ought to be laid down, rather with a view of guiding, than with a view of fettering discretion

The last provision, in the preliminary part, to which we would call attention, defines in very general terms the duty of the Court in deciding questions of fact Its generality appeared to us to render the preliminary rather than the concluding chapter, the proper place for it This section declares that the duty of the Court is to determine question of fact by drawing inferences—

(1) from the evidence given to the facts alleged to exist,
(2) from facts proved to facts not proved,
(3) from the absence of evidence which might have been given,
(4) from the ad...

the ... nd generally from dra... rences are to be of p... lly to the subject fact ... upon record the ... to infer, and not merely to accept or register evidence is in all cases the duty of the Court One of the many fallacies which owe their origin to the amb... co... ich it is used is the in... inference whereas on ... whatever is useful

... the ground work for inferences of which the inference that the facts which the witness alleges to exist, do or did actually exist, is very often the most difficult to draw The truth is, that to infer in one or other of the different shapes which we have stated is the great duty of the Judge in every case whatever and we have thought it desirable to point this out in the plainest and broadest way

We have added two qualifications only to this general rule (1) that when the law declares an inference to be necessary the Court shall draw it, and shall not allow its truth to be contradicted, (2) that when the law directs the Court to presume a fact it shall infer its existence till the contrary appears We have treated in detail of necessary inference and presumptions in other parts of the Bill

II THE RELEVANCY OF FACTS

We have already pointed out the place which in our opinion belongs to this subject in the law of evidence The question what facts you may prove obviously lies at the root of the whole matter and unless a plain and full answer is given to the question it is impossible to state the law systematically The answer to the question is we think to be found in several of the wide exceptions which are made by English text writers to the wide exclusive rules— that evidence must be confined to the point in issue that hearsay is no evidence and that the best evidence must be given, though other parts of the same exceptions are to be found in different branches of the law We think however that by a comparison and collection of these exceptions we have succeeded in forming a collection of positive rules as to the relevancy of facts to the issue which w... nal man could wish to have before him

(1) ... facts in issue
(2) all collateral facts which
(a) form part of the same transaction,
(b) are the immediate occasion cause or effect of fact in issue,
(c) show motive, preparation or conduct affected by a fact in issue (d) are necessary to be known in order to introduce or explain relevant facts, (e) ...
(f) ... except u... ir its existe... of moral certainty given above,
(g) affect the amount of damages in cases where damages are claimed,
(h) show the origin or existence of a disputed right or custom,

(i) show the existence of a relevant state of mind and body, (j) show the existence of a series of which a relevant fact forms a part or
(k) show (in certain cases) the existence of a given course of business

The remainder of the chapter throws into a positive shape what in English law forms the exceptions of the rule, excluding the various matters described as hearsay They relate to—the conduct of the parties on previous occasions, the statement of the parties on previous occasions,

previous judgments,
statements of third persons, opinions of third persons

1 In reference to the conduct of the parties on previous occasions we embody in three sections the existing law of England as to evidence of character, with some modifications We include, under the word character both reputation and disposition, and we permit evidence to be given of previous convictions against a prisoner for the purpose of prejudicing him We do not see why he should not be prejudiced by such evidence, if it is true

2 Under the head of the statement of the parties on other occasions we deal with the question of admissions, as to which we have not materially altered the existing law

We have not thought it necessary to transfer from their present position ... Police ... the

3 Previous judgments appear to follow naturally upon previous statements Under this head we deal with the question of res judicata

We have not attempted to deal with the question of the bar of suits by previous judgments between the same parties This is a question of procedure rather than of evidence and will be properly dealt with whenever the Code of Civil and Criminal Procedure are re enacted We have on the other hand dealt is substantial accordance with the principles of the law of England with the question of the relevancy of judgment between strangers For the sake of simplicity and in order to avoid the difficulty of defining or enumerating judgments in ... of Sir Barnes Peacock in Kunya

4 ... made one considerable alteration in the ... made by third persons about ... truth or if they refer ... making them appears to the Court to have special means of knowledge We have given several illustrations of this the strongest of which is suggested by Mr Pitt Taylor A Captain about to sail on a voyage carefully examines the ship declares his belief that she is seaworthy, and embarks on her with his family and property uninsured Statements of this sort are surely most unlikely to be false Evidence of such statements will be admissible under this section whether the person who makes them is living or dead, producible or not Some of them would probably be admissible under the English rule which admits statements explanatory of conduct, but as the conduct explained must be relevant and as no clear definition of relevancy is given by the law of England it is very difficult to say how far his rule extends

The next exception refers to statements made by a person who is dead or cannot be found or produced without unreasonable delay or expense We ... cause of the person's ... r express an opinion ... of any relationship ... when they are made ... restrictions placed by the law of England on the admission of dying declarations and statements about relationship, and as to the necessity that statements should be opposed to the pecuniary interest of the party making them, on the ground that they ... ibility of what is, at best to ...

statements in public or official ... previous judicial proceedings

5 The cases in which the opinion of third persons are relevant are dealt with in sections forty four to fifty

They declare to be relevant, the opinions of experts, opinion as to handwriting, opinion as to usages, and opinions as to relationship and the grounds of such opinions

This completes that part of the Bill which relates to the relevancy of fa... minor importance, which ...odifies the law of England, ... part of the law which is ... the exceptions to the rules ... that the best evidence must ... these rules include other matters which we treat of under other heads

III—PROOF.

The second Chapter having decided what facts are relevant we proceed to show how a relevant fact is to be proved

In the first place, the fact to be proved may be one of so much notoriety that the Courts will take judicial notice of it, or it may be admitted by the parties In either of these cases no evidence of its existence need be given Chapter III which relates to judicial notice, disposes of this subject It is taken in part from Act II of 1855, in part from the commissioners' draft bill and in part from the law of England

If evidence has to be given of any fact that evidence must be either oral, documentary, or material, and we proceed in the following chapters to deal with the peculiarities of each of these three kinds of evidence There is however, one topic which applies to all of them, of which we treat in Chapter IV This is the distinction between primary and secondary evidence As we have already shown, ... of recognizing the obvi... of a document is t... and secondary evid... the document or t... scription is secondar...

We next ... proof by the various kinds of evidence successively, namely oral, documentary and material With regard to oral evidence, we provide, that it must in all cases whatever, whether it is primary or secondary, and whether the fact to be proved is a fact in issue or collateral, be direct That is to say, if the fact to be proved is one that could be seen, it must be proved by some one who says he saw it If it could be heard by some one who says he heard it and so with the other senses We also provide that, if the fact to be proved is the opinion of a living and producible person, or the grounds on which such opinion is held, it must be proved by the person who holds that opinion on those grounds

We have, however, provided that if the fact to be proved is the opinion of an expert who cannot be called (which is the case in the majority of cases in this country) and if such opinion has been expressed in any published treatise, it may be pro...

Th... provisions of relevancy contained, ... whole doctrine of hearsay in a perfectly ...

(1) the sayings and doings of third persons are, as a rule, irrelevant, so that no proof of them can be admitted,

(2) in some excepted cases they are relevant;

(3) every act done or words spoken which is relevant on any ground, must (if proved by oral evidence) be proved by some one who saw it with his own eyes or heard it with his own ears

With regard to the Chapters which relate to the proof of facts by documentary evidence, and in cases in which secondary evidence may be admitted, we have followed, with few alterations the existing law We may observe that Chapter VII contains most of the presumptions which we have thought it right to introduce into the Bill They are presumptions which in almost every

...nces of certified copies, gazettes, books copies of depositions, etc
... evidence
... this
upon it are, so ... contract etc, ... duced On ... the law of England and to writing ... the Commissioners' draft

IV THE PRODUCTION OF PROOF.

From the question of proof of facts, we pass to the question of the manner in which the proof is to be produced, and this we treat under the following heads —

The burden of proof (Chapter X) Witness (Chapter XI)
... oaths (Chapter XII)
... XIII)

... f, we lay down the broad rules the general burden of proof is on the party who, if no evidence at all were given, would fail, and that the burden of proving any particular fact is on the party who affirms it These are the well established English rules, and appear to us reasonable in themselves We have not followed the precedent of the New York Code in laying down a long list of presumptions, agreeing with the Indian Law Commissioners in the opinion that it is better not to fetter the discretion of the Judges We have, ... or two such presumptions to a place in the code, as, ... the Judges might feel embarrassed These ... from seven years' disappearance, and the presumption of partnership from the ... t of acting as partners.

We may observe th ... of a matter in which the laws of sev ... mewhat arbitrary, provisions to ... s in a common catastrophe ... burden of proof The persor ... t This ... nference ... rules of

... ation of witnesses, we have been careful ... existing practice of the Courts, which ... il Procedure, is of necessity in the ... we have put into propositions very ... on and cross examination of the witnesses

We have also considered it necessary, having regard to the peculiar ... of this country, to put into the hands of the Judge an amount ... evidence which if it exists by law, is at ... in England We expressly empower him to ... relevant or irrelevant, at any period of the ... if he thinks ... upon ... utmost ... The object of these provisions is to ... into the truth of the matter before him' define simply and clearly the duties and the position of the Judges and those who practice before them The English system under which the Bench and the Bar act together and play their respective parts independently, and the professional organisation on which it rests, have no doubt great advantages; but in this country such a system does not as yet exist, and will not for a very ... In mofussil, generally speaking, the great ... Bar and when a ... and have to appear ... training as English whose technical knowledge tremely intricate system of ower over the Judges unlike we have thought it necessary the hands of the Judges and to enable them to act efficiently and lic interest may refer to some provisions which we of the power of cross examination we believe the existence of that power to be essential to the administration of justice, and we believe it to be liable to great abuses The need for the power and danger of its abuse are proved by English experience, but in this country are t in particular, here t more necessary preve motives and to use of the power of exposure as a means of gratifying malice We have accordingly provided as follows

Such questions may relate either to matters relevant to the case, or to matters not relevant to the case If they relate to matters relevant to the case, we think that the witness ought to be compellable to answer, but that his answer should not afterwards be used against him

If they relate to matters not relevant to the case, except in so far as they affect the credit of the witness we think that the witness ought not to be compelled to answer His refusal to do so would, in most cases, serve the purpose of discrediting him, as well as an express admission that the imputation conveyed by the question was true

In order to protect witness against needless questions of this kind, we enact that any advocate who asks such questions without written instructions (which the Court may call upon him to produce, and may impound when produced) shall be guilty of a contempt of any such question, if asked by a party to th the question of the written instructions are to publication of affected, and tions, or as fall ninety nine of the India Penal Code, merely because they were made in the manner stated Upon a trial for defamation it would of course be open to the person accused to show, either that the imputation was true or that it was for the public good that imputation should be made (Ex I, section 499, I P C), or that it was made in good faith for the protection of the interest of the person making it or of any other person (Ex 9) This is the only method which occurs to us of providing at once for the interests of a bona fide questioner and an innocent witness

In the same spirit, we have empowered the Court, in general terms, to forbid indecent and scandalous inquiries unless they relate to facts in issue as defined above, or to matters absolutely necessary to be known in order to determine whether the facts in issue existed, and also to forbid questions intended to insult or annoy

We prefer this general power to the sections drawn by the Commissioners, which forbid questions to marr amount to inquiring whether that person to him or her by the law to which he or sh rding the occurrence of sexual the case of Christians, where ground of bodily incapacity It is possible to imagine ortant to show that a married person was living with some one who was not her husband or his wife A woman brings a false accusation against her servant The motive is revenge for the discovery by the servant of an intrigue by the mistress A married man comes to prove an alibi on behalf of his mistress A woman sues a married man on a bond He pleads that consideration was adultery In all these cases, and so in many others which might be suggested, it appears to us that it would be absolutely necessary to admit such evidence as is referred to As to questions relating to sexual intercourse between husband and wife, we think it better to forbid indecent and scandalous inquiries in

3. general terms, than to lay down a positive rule which in possible cases m produce hardship fa ts and deliver final judgment, or to remand the case

Finally, we recommend that the Draft Bill, together with the report sho be circulated for the opinion of the Local Governments.

J F STEPHEN
J STRACHEY
F S CHAPMAN
F. R COCKERELL
J F D INGLIS
W ROBINSON

The 31st March, 1871

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 31st March, 1871

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G M S I Presiding
His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal
His Excellency the Commander in-chief, G C P, C C S I

The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
Major General The Hon'ble H W Norman C B
Colonel the Hon'ble R Strachey, C S
The Hon'ble F S Chapman
The Hon'ble J R Bullen Smith
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell
The Hon'ble J F D Inglis,
The Hon'ble W Robinson C S I

INDIAN EVIDENCE BILL

The Honble Mr Stephen in presenting the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence said —

"My Lord,—I feel that I owe an apology to Your Lordship and the Council for requesting their attention to a second speech upon a purely legal subject after the one which I delivered a week ago, upon the Limitation Act On this occasion, however, I have to explain the position of a measure perhaps as important as any that has been ... ite years by the Indian Legislature in as muc ... affect the daily administration of both Civil and ... the whole country Moreover, the subject ... is one of deep and wide general interest for a law of Evidence properly constructed would be nothing less than an ... w, to the probl ... however, imp ... the Bill which ... w to describe in a general way to your L ...

"I will state, ... ures down to the present time So far ... Commissioners drew a draft Evidence Act which was sent out to this country and introduced and referred to a Select Committee by my friend and predecessor Mr Maine. The Bill was circulated for opinion to the Local Governments and was pronounced by every legal authority to which it was submitted to be unsuitable to the wants of this country. In this view the committee concur for reasons which I need not state in detail on the present occasion as they are fully stated in the report which I present to-day. I may observe in general however that the principal reasons were, that the bill was not sufficiently elementary, that it was in several respects incomplete, and that if it became law it would not supersede the necessity under which judicial officers in this country are at present placed of acquainting themselves by means of English Law books with the English Law upon this subject.

"The Commissioners' Draft, indeed, would hardly be intelligible to a person who did not enter upon the study of it with a considerable knowledge of the English Law. Under these circumstances a new draft was framed, which we now propose to print and circulate, and on which I hope to receive the opinions of the Local Governments and High Courts, in the course of the summer, say, by next September, so that their criticisms may be deliberately weighed, and the measure may be finally disposed of by this time next year.

"The report of the committee explains very fully the scheme of the Bill, which [illegible] and enters fully [illegible] I will not [illegible] occasion. I will confine myself to saying that I trust that those who will have to criticise the Bill will begin by studying the report, which has been drawn up with great care, and which, as well as the Bill itself, forms a connected and systematic whole. The general object kept in view in framing the Bill has been to produce something from which a student might derive a clear, comprehensive, and distinct knowledge of the subject, without unnecessary labour, but not of course, without that degree of careful and sustained attention which is necessary in order to master any important and intricate matter. It is by this standard that the committee in general, and I in particular, as the member in charge of the Bill, desire that it may be tried.

"With this reference to the Bill and the report of the committee, I proceed to discuss the general questions connected with the subject, and to mention a few of the leading features of the measure.

"I sup[illegible] necessity which exists for l[illegible] dia. It would be exceedingly [illegible] at, the law upon the subject certainly is. To some extent—it is far from being clear to what extent—and in some parts of the country—the English Law of Evidence appears to be in force in British In[illegible] will contin[illegible] been [illegible] they [illegible] good [illegible] re than [illegible] ditions [illegible] s satis[illegible] aborate [illegible] may be sa[illegible] unaided mother wit and natural shrewdness, but [illegible] system in which a vast body of half understood law, totally destitute of arrangement and of uncertain authority maintains a dead alive existence, is a state of things which it is by no means easy to praise.

"Legislation being thus necessary, in what direction is legislation to proceed? A gentleman, for whose o[illegible] upon all subjects connected with Indian Law and Legislation, I [illegible] respect, said to me the other day [illegible] Bill would be very short one [illegible] rules of evidence are hereby abolished. I believe [illegible] vigorously expressed is really held by a large number of persons who would not avow it so plainly. There is, in short, in the lay world, including in the expression the majority of Indian Civilians an impression that rules of evidence are technicalities invented by lawyers principally, for what Bentham called fee gathering puposes and of no real value in the investigation of truth I canni admit that this impression is in any degree correct I believe that rules c evidence are of very great value in all enquiries into matters of fact, and i it is practically impossibl rule because the necessity fo that and fact any combats When people began to obtain glimpses of the true methods of investigation they seem to have considered as almost supernatural skill what in our days fall within the scope of average police officers or attorney's clerks The delighted wonder which was displayed by the Jews according to the aprocryphal story of Susannah and the to call that very feeble cross examinatio instance of this At a later period, formed Such a fa four, such another ther by such rules were in f which introduced in their never tel or rather which grew up by degrees was of a very mixed and exceedingly singular character Part of it consisted of rules declaring large classes of witnesses to be incompetent Part was intimately connected with the English system of special pleading, which was so contrived as to define with extreme precision the facts upon which the parties differed or were, as the phrase goes, at issue Parts were the result of the practical experience of the Courts and these were by far th English law of evidence Most of t which st experienc

(1)
(2)
(3, (4) rules as to confessions and admissions, (5) rules as to documentary evidence

"I have two general remarks to make upon them The first is that they that when properly to all who have pon any important subject were ever expressed so loosely, in such an intricate manner, or at such intolerable length

It is necessary to prove the first of these propositions in order to justify the recommendations of the committee that the substance of the rules in question should be introduced in the form of express law into this country It is necessary to prove the second proposition in order to justify the attempt made in the Bill to reduce the rules to order and system First then as to the proposition that the rules in question are substantially sound and do far more proof of this I nglish Courts between the iose in which they are not understood and acted upon As a preliminary remark, I think I ought to observe that the knowledge of these rules possessed by English lawyers is derived far more from the daily practice in the Courts, than from theoretical study Many English lawyers know by habit almost instinctively although therefore, fact the by which sagacious the practical effect of these rules? I may perhaps be permitted to answer this by referring to a book which I published in 1863 on the Criminal Laws of England, and which contains, amongst other things an analysis of several celebrated trials, English and French One object of that analysis was to contrast the effect of the presence and absence of rules of evidence, and I think that any one who would take the trouble to compare those trials together carefully, would agree with me in the conclusion, that the practical effect of the English rules of evidence in those cases, was to shorten the proceedings enormously and at the same time to consolidate and strengthen them keeping out nothing that a reasonable person would have wished to have before him as material for his judgment The French system, on the other hand, which dispenses with all rules of evidence, got, at least in those cases, no other result from the want of them than floods of irrelevant gossip and collateral questions enough to confuse and bewilder the strongest head Again, compare the proceedings of an ordinary Court of Criminal Justice with the proceedings of [illegible] evidence are far less strictly enforced, and I [illegible] Criminal Court never gets very far from the [illegible] wanders into questions far remote from [illegible] Nothing [illegible] nge places, as it [illegible] Court finds itsel [illegible] ry offence but [illegible] In a case whic [illegible] state [illegible] affirmed, a [illegible] letters of th [illegible] nature, to k [illegible] he does not, an incalculable waste of time and energy, and a great weakening of the authority of his Court, is sure to follow Active and zealous Advocates, who have no rules of evidence to restrain their zeal, would have it in their power to pervert the administration of justice to the basest purposes, and to inflict immense injury on every class connected with it, directly or remotely, that might [illegible] for tearing open old [illegible] nus to scandals [illegible] lost sight of, [illegible] be excused for [illegible] f this Appeals [illegible] int of perjury [illegible] exceed in any country In certa n parts of the country, it was a point of honour for the friends o [illegible] to swear f [illegible] such case [illegible] into whic [illegible] imputatio [illegible] and fema [illegible] the popul [illegible] evidence kept matters to a po [illegible] the [illegible] appeared to me to [illegible] [illegible] till the very last rag of character had been [illegible] man, and child, whose name was in any [illegible] he French Courts display this evil, in an aggravated from In the work to which I have already referred, will be found an account of the trial of a monk named Leotade for murder If disposed of un [illegible] it could hardly have taken more than a [illegible] irrelevant explanation

"It is not however within reasonable limit pre eminent importance the discharge of his dut truth that even legislat evidence No doubt, it i of evidence shall have th and Judges to act upon they are nfallibly se argu
Courts degrees, the system would grow up of all conceivable shapes of getting rid of the law of tion of justice by lawyers, and returning to the system of mere personal discretion

"It may be that some persons would like this policy, but I suppose it is one which I need not discuss.

'So far, I have considered the rules of evidence merely as they conduce to the important practical objects of keeping proceedings to the point, and of protecting and supporting the Judges I must now say a few words on their value, as furnishing the Judge with solid tests of truth I fully admit that their value in ...d, but I think have a real,
There are two t all, and on admitted that those problems are by far the most important of any, which a Judge has to constantly present to th the rules of evidence that persons who are absolutely ignorant of these rules, may give a much better answer to each of these questions, than men to whom every rule of evidence is perfectly familiar I think, that a more or less distinct perception of this, coupled with impatience of the exaggerated pretensions which have sometimes been made on behalf of the rules of evidence, are the principal reasons for the distrust and dislike, with which they are ... I think, is merely a particular ances leads people to depreca e an opposition between th and depend upon nature. walk, nor will the best glass make him see, and in just the same way, the best rules of evidence will not supply the place of natural sagacity, or of a taste for, and training in logic, but it no more follows that rules of evidence are useless as guides to truth than that shoes or glasses are useless as assistances to the feet and to the eyes The real use of rules of evidence in ascertaining the truth, consists in the fact that they supply tests warranted by very long and varied experience, as to two great facts, the relevancy of facts to the question to be decided by the Court, and the sort of evidence by which particular facts ought to be proved They may in the broadest and most popular form be stated thus '—If you want to arrive at the truth as to any matter of fact of serious importance, observe the following maxims;—"First, if your belief in the principal fact which you wish to ascertain is to be, after all, an inference from the other facts, let those facts, at all events, be closely connected with the principal fact in some one of certain specific modes Secondly, never believe in any fact whatever, whether it is the fact which you principally wish to determine, or whether it is a fact from which you propose to infer the existence of the principal fact, until you have before you the best evidence that is to be had, that is to say, if the fact is a thing done have before you some one who saw it done with his own eyes; if it was a thing said have before you some one who heard it said with his own ears; if it was a written paper, have the paper before you and read it for yourself

"This exception—qualifications and explanations apart—is the true essence of the rules of evidence, and I think that no one will deny either that these rules are in themselves eminently wise, or that they are by no means so obvious and self-evident that the mere unassisted natural sagacity of judicial officers of every grade can be trusted to grasp their full meaning, and to apply them to the practical questions which arise in the administration of justice, with no assistance from any express law I do not wish to exaggerate, but I must add that I attach considerable moral and speculative value to these rules. If they are firmly grasped by Courts of Justice, and rigidly insisted upon in all practical matters which come before the Courts they will gradually work their way amongst the people at large, and furnish them with tests by which to distinguish between credulity and rational belief, upon a great variety of matters which will be of vast importance I ought to add that the good which they are calculated to effect, can be obtained only by erecting them into laws and rigorously enforcing them When this is done I feel confident that experience will be continually adding to the proper proof of their value

So far, I have tried to prove the proposition that the English rules of evidence are of real solid value and that they are not a mere collection of arbitrary subtleties which shackle, instead of guiding natural sagacity I pass now to the next proposition, which is that these rules are expressed in a form so confused, intricate, and lengthy, that it is hardly possible for any one to learn their true meaning otherwise than by practice, an inconvenience which may be altogether avoided by a careful and systematic distribution For the proof of this proposition, if indeed it is disputed I can only refer in general to the English text books on the subject They form a mass of confusion which no one can understand until, by the aid of long practice he learns the intention of the different rules of which they heap together innumerable and often incoherent illustrations I am f to the industrious, and in many cases lations They, like all other hand boo purposes, and are mere collections of generally relating to some very minute p they should be arranged rather with reference to vague catch words, with the ears of lawyers are familiar, than with reference to theoretical principles which it has never been worth any lawyer's while to investigate

"The condition of the law of evidence, as well as the condition of many other branches of the law of England, affords continual illustrations of the extraordinary intricacy and difficulty which arises from the combination of the very greatest practical sagacity with an absence of sound theory, or what is still worse, with the presence of unsound theory No one who has not seen it could possibly imagine how obscure the meaning of a clever man may become when he is forced to squeeze it into the terms of a theory which does not fit it, and is not true I will give one or two illustrations of my meaning The expression 'he ... currency in the English Cour ... at is more is true, ... ruth, from which ... and obscure to the last degree The objections to ... and 'evidence' are words of the most uncertain kind, each of which may mean several different ... 'hearsay' may mean what you have hear ima
a p may orga alm

"The word "evidence' is also exceedingly ambiguous It may mean that which a witness says in Court It may mean, the fact to which he testifies, regarded as a ground work for further inference Notwithstanding this, the phrase 'hearsay is no evidence,' being emphatic and easy to recollect stuck in the ears and in the minds of lawyers, and has been taken by many text-writers as the principle on which their statement of the most important branch of the law should be arranged They accordingly took to describing as hearsay, every fact of which evidence was by law excluded, in short, they turned "hearsay is no evidence' into, 'that which is not evidence is

y describing evidence was exceptions to follow me er a piece of ther C bought E conveyed the land to D and D conveyed it to C Now, as D and E are not parties to the suit between A and B, and as A cannot of his own knowledge, know anything of the transaction between them, English text writers call the deeds between D and E 'hearsay' and according to Mr Pitt Taylor, the rule which permits such deeds to be given in evidence is the third exception to the rule which excludes hearsay One of the Judges, if I am not mistaken, called such evidence 'written hearsay', and so indifferent are English lawyers in general, to the abuse of language for the sake of momentary convenience, that it probably never struck him, that this was a contradiction in terms I think however, that it is hard to expect people to understand, bear in mind, and follow out in language in such a peculiar manner, To talk of hearing a document, is

"I now turn to the ambiguity of the word 'evidence', to which I have already referred As I have suggests an inference For of stolen goods is evidence of the inference of theft At means what a witness actually says in Court or that which he produces for instance we say 'the evidence which he gave was true' I might occupy, I will not say the attention, but the time, of Your Lordship and the Council for hours, if I were to attempt to describe the amount of confusion and obscurity which the neglect of this simple and obvious distinction has thrown over the whole subject I will content myself with observing that it produces the effect of giving a double meaning to every expression into which the word 'evidence', is introduced Circumstantial evidence', 'hearsay evidence,' 'direct evidence', 'primary evidence,' 'best evidence,' have each two sets of meanings, and the result is, that it is almost impossible to arrive at a clear and comprehensive knowledge of the whole subject, or to see how its various parts are related to each other without an amount of study, thought, and practical acquaintance with the actual working of the rules of evidence, which few people are in a position to bestow upon the subject

"I may appear to be detaining the Council unduly upon merely verbal questions but I think that it is a common fault to under-rate the importance of accurate language particularly in regard to the fundamental terms of any particular branch of knowledge In regard to law, I have not the least doubt that a very large proportion of the intricacy and difficulty which attach to it is due to the fact, that proper pains have never been bestowed on the definition of its fundamental terms What could be made of Euclid, if we were not quite sure of our meaning when we spoke of a point, a line, a circle, parallels, and perpendiculars? Such a defect would render geometry impossible, and the defect measures believe aw was atirely easy, and in many cases attractive for its own sake; that its bulk might be diminished to a degree of which people in general have hardly any conception; that the expense of its administration, might be greatly diminished and that comparative certainty might do away with a very large amount of needless and harassing litigation App

"I shall now proceel to des ri e shortly, the principles on which the draft Bill of the committee has been frame l In the first place we thought it necessary to fx the sense in which th fund imental terms of the subject should be under tool and for that purpose w define, 'fact', 'evil nce', 'proof', 'proved' and some other words as to which I will content myself with a reference to the report. It seme l to us that the remainder of the subject would fall under the following generil hea ls —

1 The relevancy of fact to the issues to be proved

2 The proof of facts, according to their nature by oral, documentary, or material evilence

3 The production of evidence in Court

4 The duties of the Court, and the effect of mistal en admission or rejection of evilence

"These hea ls woul l we think be found to embrace and to arrange in their natural order all the subjects treated of by English text writers and Judges, under the general hea l of the law of evidence I will say a few words on their relation to each other, an l on each of them in turn

'The main feature of the Bill consists in the distinction drawn by it between the relevancy of facts and the mode of proving relevant facts The neglect of this distinction by English text writers, no doubt, arises from the ambiguity in the word evidence' to which I have already referred and is the main cause of the extreme difficulty of understanding the English Law of Evidence systematically I will shortly illustrate my meaning A says 'Z committe l murder' First of all this is a fact—something which could be directly perceived by the sense of hearing and distinctly remembered afterwards Now, whether this fact is or is not relevant in a particular case, depends upon a variety of circumstances If the question is whether A was guilty of defaming Z by accusing him of murder? Or where Z had a motive for assaulting A because A said that he had committe l murder or if Z is accused of murder and the object is to show that, when A charged him with it he behaved as if he were guilty and in many other instances which might be put, the fact that A spoke those words is clearly relevant But if the question is whether Z actually did commit murder the fact that A thought so or said so, generally speaking is not relevant Supposing, however that the fact is relevant on some one of the grounds just mentioned or on any other ground what ever be the ground on which the words are relevant to the matter under inquiry, it is obvious that the words themselves ought to be satisfactorily proved, and the rule of English law—and we think it is a wise rule—is that they must be proved by the assertion of some witness, that he heard them said with his own ears English text writers throw together with these two classes of rules under the head of Hearsay' They lay down the general rule that hearsay is no evidence, me ... of facts called hearsay are to be treated as necessary to loo whether, in a find that it can be proved ... estion is now ... that he heard A say propose to prove it by ... this expression so Again you are told ... ly by which it is means not that the fac ... nce of this is, proposed to prove the fact is improper One ext ... English Law of Evidence is thrown into that the most important part of the English Law of Evidence is thrown into the most intricate and inconvenient of all possible forms that of a very wide negative, of most uncertain meaning qualified by a long string of exceedingly intricate exceptions

'No one who has not gone through the process of learning the law by mere rule of ... the degree of needless obscurity and difficulty up ... of which he becomes gradually conscious ... to almost any English text-writers, 'you tell me at enormous length, what is not evidence, but you no where tell

"The word 'evidence' is also exceedingly ambiguous. It may mean that which a witness says in Court. It may mean, the fact to which he testifies regarded as a ground work for further inference. Notwithstanding this, the phrase 'hearsay is no evidence,' being emphatic and easy to recollect, stuck in the ears and in the minds of lawyers, and has been taken by many text writers as the principle on which their statement of the most important branch of the law should be arranged. They accordingly took to describing as hearsay, every fact of which evidence was by law excluded, in short, they turned 'hearsay is no evidence' into 'that which is not evidence is hearsay'. They did not however, do this expressly. They did it by describing as exceptions to the rule excluding hearsay, all cases in which evidence was admitted of anything, which would have been excluded, but for such exceptions. This is so intricate a state[illegible] feel to follow me

[illegible]nd he produces the deeds by which E conveyed the land to D and D conveyed it to C. Now as D and E are not parties to the suit between A and B, and as A cannot of his own knowledge, know anything of the transaction between them, English text writers call the deeds between D and E 'hearsay' and according to Mr Pitt Taylor, the rule which permits such deeds to be given in evidence is the third exception to the rule which excludes hearsay. One of the Judges, if I am not mistaken, called such evidence 'written hearsay', and so indifferent are English lawyers in general, to the abuse of language for the sake of momentary convenience, that it probably never struck him, that this was a contradiction in terms. I think, however that it is hard to expect people to understand, bear in mind, and follow out in [illegible] language in such a peculiar manner, [illegible] To talk of hearing a document, is

'I now turn to the ambiguity of the word 'evidence', to which I have already referred. As I have just said, 'evidence' sometimes means a fact which suggests an inference. For instance, it is common to say,—'Recent possession of stolen goods is evidence of theft', that is, the fact of such possession suggests the inference of theft. At other times and I think more frequently, 'evidence' means what a witness actually says in Court, or that which he produces. For instance we say 'the evidence which he gave was true'. I might occupy I will not say the attention, but the time, of Your Lordship and the Council for hours if I were to attempt to describe the amount of confusion and obscurity which the neglect of this simple and obvious distinction has thrown over the whole subject. I will content myself with observing that it produces the effect of giving a double meaning to every expression into which the word 'evidence' is introduced. 'Circumstantial evidence', 'hearsay evidence,' 'direct evidence,' 'primary evidence', 'best evidence,' have each two sets of meanings, and the result is, that it is almost impossible to arrive at a clear and comprehensive knowledge of the whole subject or to see how its various parts are related to each other without an amount of study, thought, and practical acquaintance with the actual working of the rules of evidence, which few people are in a position to bestow upon the subject.

"I may appear to be detaining the Council unduly upon merely verbal questions but I think that it is a common fault to under rate the importance of accurate language particularly in regard to the fundamental terms of any particular branch of knowledge. In regard to law I have not the least doubt that a very large proportion of the intricacy and difficulty which attach to it, is due to the fact, that proper pains have never been bestowed on the definition of its fundamental terms. What could be made of Euclid, if we were not quite sure of our meaning when we spoke of a point, a line, a circle, parallels, and perpendiculars? Such a defect would render geometry impossible, and the defect [illegible] measures [illegible] where [illegible] was [illegible] atively easy, and in many cases attractive for its own sake, that its bulk might be diminished to a degree of which people in general have hardly any conception; that the expense of its administration, might be greatly diminished and that

comparative certainty might do away with a very large amount of needless and harassing litigation Ap

"I shall now proceed to describe shortly, the principles on which the draft Bill of the committee has been framed In the first place we thought it necessary to fix the sense [illegible] be understood, and for that [illegible] and some other words [illegible] report. It seemed to us that [illegible] following general heads —

1 The relevancy of fact to the issues to be proved.

2 The proof of facts, according to their nature by oral, documentary, or material evidence

3 The production of evidence in Court

4 The duties of the Court, and the effect of mistaken admission or rejection of evidence

"These heads would we think be found to embrace and to arrange in their natural order all the subjects treated of by English text writers and Judges, under the general head of the law of evidence I will say a few words on their relation to each other, and on each of them in turn

"The main feature of the Bill consists in the distinction drawn by it between the relevancy of facts and the mode of proving relevant facts The neglect of this distinction by English text writers, no doubt, arises from the ambiguity in the word 'evidence' to which I have already referred and is the main cause of the extreme difficulty of understanding the English Law of Evidence systematically I will shortly illustrate my meaning A says 'Z committed murder' First of all this is a fact—something which could be directly perceived by the sense of hearing and distinctly remembered afterwards Now, whether this fact is or is not relevant in a particular case, depends upon a variety of circumstances If the question is whether A was guilty of defaming Z by accusing him of murder? Or where Z had a motive for assaulting A because A said that he had committed murder or if Z is accused of murder, and the object is to show that, when A charged him with it, he behaved as if he were guilty, and in many other instances which might be put, the fact that A spoke those words is clearly relevant But if the question is, whether Z actually did commit murder the fact that A thought so or said so, generally speaking is not relevant Supposing, however that the fact is relevant on some one of the grounds just mentioned or on any other ground, whatever be the ground on which the words are relevant to the matter under inquiry, it is obvious that the words themselves ought to be satisfactorily proved, and the rule of English law—and we think it is a wise rule—is that they must be proved [illegible] said with his own ears [illegible] sses of rules under the [illegible] at hearsay is no evidence, [illegible] classes of facts [illegible] arsay are to be treated a[illegible] it is necessary to [illegible] see whether, in a particular case, a statement [illegible] you find that it can be prove[illegible] how can it be proved [illegible] you propose to prove it by [illegible] say so Again, you are told, [illegible] sion means not that the fac[illegible] it is proposed to prove the fact is improper [illegible] that the most important part of the English Law of Evidence is thrown into the most intricate and inconvenient of all possible forms that of a very wide negative, of most uncertain meaning qualified by a long string of exceedingly intricate exceptions

"No one who has not gone through the process of learning the law by mere [illegible] degree of needless obscurity and diffic[illegible] of which he becomes gradually consc[illegible] to almost any English text-writers, 'you [illegible] evidence but you no where tell me what is evidence, except indeed in large compilations, which point out what has to be proved upon particular issues, and which it is as impossible to read or remember, as it is to read or remember any other mere works of reference".

"I hope that we have been able to avoid this, and that the second chapter of the Bill will be found to state specifically, and in a positive form, what sorts of facts are re[illegible] with the facts in issue to afford grounds f[illegible] non-existence I will not weary the [illegible] will content myself by referring to the [illegible] tly illustrate them by [illegible] an, which will relieve the dullness of [illegible] ich I refer is a short summary, by Mr [illegible] elieves that Mary, Queen of Scots, murdered her husband

"As Mr Froude was not a lawyer he certainly wrote, what I am about to read, without reference to the rules of evidence I think the fact that he did, in fact, unconsciously observe them, illustrate very strongly the truth of my assertion, that they are nothing more than the result of experience and practical sagacity, thrown into a categorical shape I need hardly say that I use the passage merely as an illustration, and without any notion of adopting Mr Froude's opinions or asserting the truth of his facts I am concerned merely with their relevance

"She (Mary) was known to have been weary of her husband, and anxious to get rid of him.

"(By our draft, facts which show motive are relevant)

'The difficulty and the means of disposing of him had been discussed in her presence, and she had herself suggested to Sir James Balfour to kill him

"(Facts which show preparation for a fact in issue, are relevant)"

"She brought him to the house where he was destroyed, she was with him two hours before his death

"(Facts so connected with the facts in issue as to form part of the same transaction, are relevant).

"And afterwards threw every difficulty in the way of any examination into the circumstances of his end"

"(Subsequent conduct, influenced by any fact in issue, is relevant)"

"The Earl of Bothwell was publicly accused of the murder

('Facts necessary to be known in order to introduce relevant facts, are relevant)

'She kept him close at her side; she would not allow him to be arrested; she went openly to Seton with him, before her widowhood was a fortnight old [illegible] nsented to his trial Edinburgh was occupied [illegible] himself at the Tolbooth surrounded by the [illegible] to the ground, because the Crown did not [illegible] had been prevented from appearing"

"(Subsequent conduct influenced by any fact in issue is relevant)"

"A few weeks later, she married Bothwell, though he had a wife already, and when her subjects rose in arms against her and took her prisoner, she refused to allow herself to be divorced from him"

"(Subsequent conduct Motive)"

[illegible] letters which the Queen [illegible] read, [illegible] d to [illegible] uent

'Finally Mr Froude observes 'In her own correspondence, though she denies the crime, there is nowhere the clear ring of innocence which makes its weight felt even when the evidence is weak which supports the words.'

"The letters would be evi lence under the section relating to admissions and Mr Froude's remark is in the nature of a criticism on them by a prosecuting counsel

"In English text books, so far as my of the same sort, are nowhere presented in come in for the most part, as exceptions to t to the points in issue In fact they can b l arned only by the practice of the Courts though they are as natural and lax as any rules need be, if they are properly stated

"From the rules which state what facts may be prove l we pass to those which prescribe the manner in which a relevant fact must be prove l Passing over technical matters—such as the law relating to judicial notice, questions relating to public documents and the like—these rules may be said to be three in number, though, of course, numerous introductory rules are required to adopt for practice They are these

"1 If a fact is proved by oral evidence, the oral evi lence must be direct, that is to say, things seen must be deposed to by some one who says he saw them with his own eyes, things heard by some one who says he heard them with his own ears

"2 Original documents must be produced or accounted for, before any other evidence can be given of their contents

"3 When a contract has been reduced to writing it must not be varied by oral evidence

"These rules as I have said are subject to certain exceptions and require certain practical adjustments, but I do not think that any one who has had practical experience of the working of Courts of Justice will deny their substantial soundness or indeed the absolute practical necessity for enforcing them

Passing over certain matters which are explained at length in the Bill and report, I come to two points to which the committee attach the greatest importance as having peculiar reference to the administration of justice in India The first of these rules refers to the part taken by the Judge in the examination of witnesses, the second to the effect of the improper admission or rejection of evidence upon the proceedings in case of appeal

That part which witnesses a Bar co operating duty than that of deciding questions which may arise between their hardly say that the state of things does not exist in India and that it would be a great mistake to legislate as if it did In a great number of cases—probably the vast numerical majority—the Judge has to conduct the whole trial himself In all cases he than he does it as he can, something re enquiry neec
accordingly
questions upon any facts, of any witnesses at any stage of the proceedings irrespectively of the rules of evidence binding on the parties and their agents and we ha Judges espe
before him, not think th at the truth the light of suited to Inc and apathy in England

With respect to the question of appeals, we have drawn a series of provisions, the object of which is to prevent mere mistakes in procedure from destroying the value of work properly done, as far as it goes We have gone through the various cases in which, as appears to us, the question of the improper admission or rejection or omission of evidence can arise; and have provided that, whenever any Appellate Court discovers the occurrence of any mistake, it shall not reverse the decision of the inferior Court, but shall either strike out what is redundant, or supply what is defective, as the case may be and give judgment accordingly

I have addressed Your Lordship and the Council at great length, but not I think at greater length than the importance of the matter requires I have only to add, that I propose to proceed with the Bill when the Government returns to Calcutta, and that I hope before that time, to receive the criticisms of the Local Governments upon the measure'

The council adjourned to Thursday, the 6th April, 1871

CALCUTTA, WHITLEY STOKES

The 31st March 1871 Secy to the Govt of India

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India K B C M S I presiding

Q C | The Hon'ble J F D Inglish
The Hon'ble W Robinson C S I
The Hon'ble F S Chapman
The Hon'ble R Stewart

The Hon'ble J R Bullen Smith

SUNDRY BILLS

The Hon'ble Mr Stephen also moves that the Hon'ble Messrs Chapman Stewart and Bullen Smith, be added to Select Committees on the following Bills —

The next Bill, to which Mr Stephen had to refer, was the Evidence Bill He need not say anything more about it than that it was under the consideration of the Committee He however wished to make one or two remarks In the first place, although the Bill had been sent for the opinion of the Local Governments some time in June last with a request that their opinion on the subject might be forwarded in the course of the autumn, many of the Local Governments had not yet sent in any opinions whatever on the subject He ... they might ... bject from ... t wish to ... n of some ... ilar, were ... nfounded ... President, ... any other of Mr ... st the Civil ... r any wish to ... d been sent ... attention in a perfectly fair and friendly spirit, without the slightest notion of making any attack upon the independence or position generally of the honourable profession in question

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 15th December, 1871.

CALCUTTA, H S CUNNINGHAM,

The 8th December, 1871 Offg Secretary to the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations

SECOND REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

App.

Vide the Gazette of India, February 17th, 1872, Part V p 91

The following R . . . C . . . ll as settled by them was prese . . . . ndia for the purpose of making L . . .

Petition from certain Barristers and Advocates of Bombay, dated the 8th August, 1871.
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Coorg No. 3 6/4, dated 4th October 1871, and enclosures
From certain pleaders of the High Court, Bombay, dated 4th October, 1871
From officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Coorg, No 403/6, dated 9th October 1871, and enclosures
From the Chief Secretary to Government of Fort Saint George No 166, dated 21st November 1871, and enclosures
From F J Ferguson Esq Barrister High Court, Calcutta, dated 8th December, 1871 forwarding memorial from Barristers and Advocates High Court, Calcutta
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No 2640/229, dated 6th December 1871 and enclosures
From Officiating Secretary to Government of Bengal No 6326 I dated 13th December, 1871, and enclosures
Memorial from certain members of the Madras Bar, dated 16th December, 1871

We the undersigned, the members of the select committee of the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, to which the Indian Evidence Bill was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin

1 We have made some alterations in the arrangement of the Bill

2 We have omitted the definitions of "proof" and "moral certainty" and the sections relating to inferences to be drawn by the Court as being suitable rather for a treatise than an Act

3 We have omitted the provisions relating to material evidence, and have given a new and simpler definition of the difference between primary and secondary evidence

4 We have provided that the Act shall apply to all judicial proceedings but not to affidavits presented to any Court or officer, nor to proceedings in arbitration

5 As to the effect of an admission by one of several persons jointly tried for an offence, we have omitted sections 120 and 121 of the original Bill Instead of these we have provid . . . on the . . . time, . . . of the . . . besides himself, it may be taken . . . deration by the Court against all the persons whom it affects

6 We have redrawn chapter VI, as to the exclusion of oral by documentary evidence so as to make the sections more distinct and complete We believe that they now represent the English law on the subject, freed from certain refinements which would not be suitable for this country

. . . . . . ters on the ground that it . . . is We have reconsi- de . . . follows —

Some presumptions have the effect of laying the burden of proof on particular persons, in particular cases These we have dealt with in sections 103 to 111 of the new Bill

A conclusive presumption is a direction by law that the existence of one fact shall in all cases be inferred from proof of another This we have provided for in sections 112 and 113

We have substituted the term "conclusive proof" in these instances for that of "necessary inference," which was employed for the same purpose in the first draft of the Bill

through the various cases in which, as appears to us, the question of the improper admission or rejection or omission of evidence can arise; and have provided that, whenever any Appellate Court discovers the occurrence of any mistake, it shall not reverse the decision of the inferior Court, but shall either strike out what is redundant, or supply what is defective, as the case may be, and give judgment accordingly

I have addressed Your Lordship and the Council at great length, but not, I think at greater length than the importance of the matter requires I have only to add, that I propose to proceed with the Bill when the Government returns to Calcutta, and that I hope before that time, to receive the criticisms of the Local Governments upon the measure'

The council adjourned to Thursday, the 6th April, 1871.

CALCUTTA, WHITLEY STOKES

The 31st March, 1871. Secy. to the Govt of India

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India K P G M S I presiding

The Hon'ble John Strachey.
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell
The Hon'ble J. F D Inglish
The Hon'ble W Robinson, C S I
The Hon'ble F. S Chapman
The Hon'ble R Stewart
The Hon'ble J R Bullen Smith

SUNDRY BILLS

The Hon'ble Mr Stephen also moves that the Hon'ble Messrs Chapman Stewart and Bullen Smith, be added to Select Committees on the following Bills —

The next Bill, to which Mr Stephen had to refer, was the Evidence Bill He need not say anything more about it than that it was under the consideration of the Committee He however wished to make one or two remarks In the first place, although the Bill had been sent for the opinion of the Local Governments some time in June last, with a request that their opinion on the subject might be forwarded in the course of the autumn, many of the Local Governments had not yet sent in any opinions whatever on the subject He earnestly hoped that these opinions might be received in order that they might be fully considered Some memorial had been received on the subject from individuals, specially from certain members of the Bar He did not wish to discuss them But he wished to say that he thought that the opinion of some persons, that the Council in General, and Mr Stephen in particular, were [illegible] perfectly unfounded, [illegible] lent [illegible] of Mr [illegible] Civil [illegible] make an attack upon the members of the Bar Everything that [illegible] in a [illegible] any [illegible]

in question

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 15th December, 1871,

CALCUTTA, H S CUNNINGHAM,

The 6th December, 1871 Offg. Secretary to the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations

SECOND REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

Ap

Vide the Gazette of India, February 17th, 1872, Part V p 91

The following Report of a Select Committee together with the Bill as settled by them was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpo e of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th January, 1872 —

Petition from certain Barristers and Advocates of Bombay, dated the 8th August, 1871.
From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Coorg No 3-6/4, dated 4th October 1871, and enclosures
From certain pleaders of the High Court Bombay, dated 4th October, 1871
From officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Coorg, No 403/6, dated 9th October 1871, and enclosures
From the Chief Secretary to Government of Fort Saint George No 166 dated 21st November 1871, and enclosures
From F J Ferguson Esq Barrister High Court Calcutta dated 8th December, 1871 forwarding memorial from Barristers and Advocates High Court, Calcutta
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No 2640/299, dated 6th December 1871 and enclosures
From Officiating Secretary to Government of Bengal No 6326 J dated 13th December, 1871, and enclosures
Memorial from certain members of the Madras Bar, dated 16th December, 1871

We the undersigned, the members of the select comm ttee of the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making [illegible] the Indian [illegible] the honour [illegible] the Bill and the papers noted in the margin

1 We have made some alterations in the arrangement of the Bill

2 We have omitted the definitions of "proof and 'moral certainty" and the sections relating to inferences to be drawn by the Court as being suitable rather for a treatise than an Act

3 We have omitted the provisions relating to material evidence, and have given a new and simpler definition of the difference between primary and secondary evidence

4 We have provided that the Act shall [illegible] not to [illegible] officer,

5 As to the effect of an admission by one of several persons jointly tried for an offence, we have omitted sections 120 and 121 of t [illegible] pro [illegible] whom it affects

6 We have redrawn chapter VI, as to the exclusion of oral by documentary evidence, so as to make the sections more distinct and complete We believe that they now represent the English law on the subject, freed from certain refinements which would not be suitable for this country

7 Ex [illegible] matters on the ground that it did not [illegible] ns We have reconsidered this su [illegible] s follows —

Some presumptions have the effect of laying the burden of proof on particular persons, in particular cases These we have dealt with in sections 103 to 111 of the new Bill

A conclusive presumption is a direction by law that the existence of one fact shall in all cases be inferred from proof of another This we have provided for in sections 112 and 113

We have substituted the term "conclusive proof" in these instances for that of "necessary inference," which was employed for the same purpose in the first draft of the Bill

Other presumptions are in substance mere maxims by which the Court oug' ' ' Theoretically they are regarded in say, as artificial rules which the · be drawn from facts Practically, however so many exceptions are made that the difference between a presumption of law and a presumption of fact is hardly traceable The distinction apppears to us altogether unsuitable for this country and likely to produce great inconvenience if it were introduced We have accordingly, by section 114 put all such presumptions in the position of mere presumptions of fact with which the Court can deal at its discretion

We have provided in the Chapter on the Burden of Proof that a Notification in the Gazette that a territory has been ceded to a Native State shall be conclusive proof of a valid cession at the date mentioned in the notification The object of this section is to set at rest questions which as we are informed have arisen on this subject

The subject of presumptions as to documents is a very special matter and appears to us to belong to the subject of documentary evidence under which head we have placed it in chapter V

Lastly many subjects are treated by English writers under the head of presumptions which appear to us to belong rather to different branches of the substantial law, e g the presumption that every one knows the law, is in reality a branch of substantive criminal law We have omitted such presumptions as these from the law of evidence, because they do not belong to the subject and because many of them are fictitious

8 The chapter on oaths has been omitted as they form the subject of a separate Bill now under discussion

9 We also recommend the omission of sections 141 to 145 of the old draft, as to qestions to credit asked by barristers or pleaders and the substitution of provisions showing the principles by which the asking of such questions, should be regulated, and empowering the Court if any such question is improperly asked to report the circumstance to the authority to which the person asking it is subject

10 We have amended the wordir ... r ... power to ask questions The section as or ... authorize him to found his judgment rumours The intention of the section of inquiry tor the discovery of relever ... makes this clear

11 We have omitted the chapter as to the duties of Judges, and Juries which will, we think b ... Code of Criminal Procedure We have also omitted t ... and have substituted for them ... the cases in which the improper ... nd for a new trial or a reversal of a decision 12 Subject to these amendments we recommend that the Bill be passed ... the Gazette, and ... nth from the date of

J F STEPHEN
J STRACHEY
J F D INGLIS
W ROBINSON
I S CHAPMAN
R STEWART
J R. BULLEN SMITH
F R COCKERELL

The 30th January, 1872

(1) When the fact that a thing was spoken, stated or otherwise intimated is a question in issue

Illustration.

A says that he has been told by B that he saw C pick D's pocket This is admissible in an action against B for slandering C

(2) Where the fact that a person by or to whom the thing was spoken, written, stated or otherwise intimated was acquainted with such thing is a question in issue.

Illustration.

A writes to B "I have just heard that C has failed" The letter is received by B. The letter is not admissible as evidence that C had failed, but when it is proved that C had then failed, the letter is admissible as evidence that the failure was known to A at the place and time at which the letter was written and also that B was apprised of it

(3) Where the thing spoken written, stated or otherwise intimated tends to explain any act or conduct which is a question in issue

Illustrations

(a) A says on a trial of C for robbing D's house that he heard B say to C "D's house has been robbed," and that thereupon C fled This evidence is admissible

(b) On a trial of B for robbing C's house it is proved that B fled immediately after the robbery A witness is produced who says that he heard A tell B before B fled that a warrant had been issued for his arrest under a decree of Civil Court

(intent to kill him It is alleged on A' Evidence of what A said at the time [illegible] against him

(d) A sues B for compensation for maliciously causing him to be apprehended on a charge of theft Evidence that a theft had been committed in B's house, and that C told B that he saw A running away immediately after, is admissible

(e) A says that he has heard B say to C "Pay me the 1,000 rupees which you owe me" This is no evidence that C owed B 1,000 rupees, but it is evidence that B claimed 1 000 rupees, and it is admissible in order to introduce evidence of what C said or did with respect to the claim

(f) A is charged with sedition, and is proved to have combined with B for seditious purposes Evidence of words spoken by B, while taking part in a riot in furtherance of those purposes, is admissible against A

(4) Where the thing was spoken, written or stated or otherwise intimated by a party to the suit, or some one whom he represents in interest, and it is sought to be used against him

Illustrations.

(a) A brings a suit against B to establish a right of way across B's field Evidence that C from whom B derives his title to the land, had, while owner, admitted A's right of way is admissible

(b) A writes [illegible] you will ship for him 100 bales of co[illegible] and received such direction from C [illegible] the direction

(c) In a [illegible] was made between B and C, strangers to A, it is stated that A had become insolvent This deed is as against B or C admissible in evidence to show that A had become insolvent, but it is not admissible against A for that purpose

(5) In the cases provided for by ss 368, 369, 370 and 371 of the Code of Criminal Procedure

(6) Where the evidence tendered consists in a statement which was received in evidence in a former judicial proceeding relating to the same subject and between the same parties, or those whom they represent in interest, and where the person who made such statement has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or where his presence cannot be procured, provided that if such person were present his evidence would be admissible have affixed the same character in India, in all other cases we have provided that the judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue shall be admissible as evidence between the same parties upon the same matter directly in issue in another cause, but that it shall not be conclusive [illegible] d that it shall be admissible merely as of presumption, which are in our [illegible] universally applicable. It may perhaps be made a question how far the subject of evidence falls under the head of substantive law and some of the sections of the draft now submitted certainly border closely on Procedure Those sections, however, have not found a place in either of the Codes of Procedure We have therefore inserted them (with some modifications), as it appears to us that the law of evidence ought not to be left to be gleaned from many different enactments but that so much of it as it not to be found in the Codes of Procedure should be, as far as possible comprised in the rules of law now submitted by us and that the enactments which will thus be rendered unnecessary should be repealed

[illegible]

We recommend the repeal of so much of Acts II of 1855 and XIX of 1853 as remains unrepealed, except section 26 of the latter enactment, which does not form part of the law of evidence

EVIDENCE.

MEANING OF WORDS

1 In the following rules the word "Court" shall be taken to comprise all Courts of justice, civil or criminal, and all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to take evidence; and the word "cause" shall be taken to comprise all judicial proceedings, civil or criminal

Admissibility

2 Whenever any evidence is said to be admissible it is not meant that it [illegible] only that the weight, if any, which the deci[illegible] be allowed to it, [illegible] pon any question in issue in a cause, the [illegible] material to the decision of the cause, is admissible, unless it is excluded by the rules contained in this chapter

3 No statement by a witness of anything, or founded upon anything spoken or written, or otherwise intimated by another person, and no statement contained in any document, is admissible in evidence, except in the cases specified in the rules hereafter contained

Illustrations

(a) [illegible] that D told him that he saw B ro[illegible]

(b) [illegible] that D, a deaf and dumb person, [illegible] B rob C The evidence is inadmissible

(c) A gives evidence that B robbed C Being asked how he knows it he says that he knows it only because D told him so The evidence which has been admitted must be struck out

(d) A says that B was alive on the 1st January 1860 It appears that A does not speak to this fact of his own knowledge; but that he learnt it from a letter written to him by C, or from a newspaper or from a printed book, or a picture. In each of these cases A's statement is not admissible as evidence that [illegible]

[illegible] 1860 Being asked how [illegible] rom B, whose handwriting [illegible] was alive on that day of any religious or charitable foundation, or the meaning of any technical or conventional words of terms or of any words or terms used in particular districts, or to any matter or public or general interest, and was spoken, written, stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence, or whose presence cannot be procured

App

Illustrations.

(a) A, in order to show the religious tenets of a certain sect, tenders in evidence a manuscript treatise, proved to have been written by a deceased member of the sect The treatise is admissible

(b) It is a disputed fact in a suit whether a certain spot is or is not a public landing place Statements made on the subject by A and B, now deceased

lence

otherwise intimated has

and was spoken, written,

stated, or otherwise intimated by a person who has since died or become incapable of giving evidence or whose presence cannot be procured, provided that such person was a member of the family or had otherwise special means of knowledge

Illustrations

(a) It is a disputed fact in a suit whether A is the son of B A statement made on the subject by C, who was a nurse in B s family about the time of A s birth, is admissible in evidence

(b) A alleging that he is the son of B deceased, produces the following

B

book stating A s birth brothers since deceased

3 A deed executed by B

A also produced witnesses who state that B told them that A was his son The contents of the documents and the testimony of the witnesses are admissible in evidence

(11) Where the th ... by a recital contained in a ... or after the passing of ... n of the Government appea ... ing to be the G ... ship of Br ... of the British Crown

(1 ... there has been a public meeting or pub ... is contained in a report thereof published in any newspaper or journal

Explanation Such report is not admissible in evidence of any fact reported to have occurred or of any statement reported to have been made at the meeting or proceeding

EVIDENCE OF LAW OF FOREIGN COUNTRY

(13) Where the thing intimated purports to be the law of a foreign country, and appears to be contained in books or documents purporting to be printed on published under the authority of the Government of that country, or in reports of decisions of the Courts of such country

MAPS

5 Maps made under the authority of Government shall be admissible

RES JUDICATA

6 A ... revoked shall have effect as provid

7 ... the parties never were husbar ... dissolved is proof that the parties ... were such

8 ... of war is proof that the sh

9 The judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue is admissible as evidence between the same parties, and those who represent them in interest upon the same matter, directly in issue in another cause, but not between any other parties, except as provided for in the next following section of the chapter

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for a horse, alleging that it was stolen from himself and that B brought it, knowing it to be stolen Judgment is given in B's favour B afterwards loses the horse A finds it and B sues A for it A in defence makes the same allegations as in the former suit The judgment pronounced in the former suit is admissible as evidence in B's favour

(b) A sues B for rent in the Court of the Collector, which has cognizance of such suits B sets up in defence a mortgage under which he is entitled to retain the rent in satisfaction of the interest of his mortgage A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage, but the Court pronounces it genuine and dismisses A's suit Afterwards B sues A in the Zillah Court to recover the amount due to him upon the mortgage A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage The judgment of the Collector is admissible in evidence

10 A decree of a Court of competent jurisdiction is admissible as evidence that such judgment was pronounced between the parties, but is not, as against any person other than the parties thereto and those who represent them in interest, evidence of any other fact thereby appearing

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for compensation for injury sustained through the negligence of C who is B's agent A obtains judgment In a suit brought by B against C for compensation for loss sustained by B through C's negligence the judgment is admissible as evidence of the amount which A has been adjudged to pay, but not as evidence of B's negligence

(b) A sues B for compensation, because B yielded up to C certain lands which B held as guardian of A who was then a minor A decree passed in a prior suit whereby B was directed to yield up possession to C as owner is admissible in evidence

(c) A is tried on the charge of having forged a deed of gift from B He is acquitted Afterwards C alleging the deed to gift of be forgery institutes a suit against A for certain lands, of which A has obtained possession under it The record of A's acquittal is not admissible in evidence

(d) A one of the three Hindu brothers, undivided in estate, dies and his brothers, B and C alleging that they are his heirs sell to D a portion of the land which they possessed jointly with A

E, claiming as the adopted son and heir of A, sues for A's share of the land sold to D and obtains a decree in his favour He afterwards claiming as such adopted son of A, sues B and C for A's share of the land which remains in their possession The decree in the former suit is not admissible in evidence

(e) A alleging that he is the only brother and the heir of B deceased, sues C for possession of B's land The Court declares A's title established and decrees that C shall yield up the land to him

Afterwards B claims to be the son and heir of B, and sues A for possession of the lands The decree in the former suit is admissible in evidence that A had obtained such a decree but not admissible as evidence that he was entitled to the land as the only brother and heir of B

(f) Two ships come into collision whereby A, a passenger in one of them is maimed and B's goods are destroyed A obtains a decree for compensation from the owners of the other ship on the ground that the injuries were sustained by him through the negligence of their captain B sues the owners of the same ship for compensation for the loss of his goods The judgment is not admissible in B's suit as evidence of the captains' negligence

(g) A sues B for maintenance of C a minor, whom A alleges to be B's son B denies that C is his son The Court decides that C is B's son and decrees payment by B of A's claims.

B dies, C alleging that he is B's son, sues the executor of D for a legacy of A 10,000 rupees, D having by his will bequeathed that sum to every child of B. The judgment is not admissible in evidence that C is a son of B.

App

PROOF OF WRITINGS WHICH CONSTITUTE PRIMARY EVIDENCE.

11 A wr t ng 1 1 1 not ~ ~ ~ 1 1 law to be attested, but which is to have been written wholly the cases provided for by ceived as evidence, unless the signature attached thereto, or so much of the same writing as is sought to verify, be proved to be in the handwriting of the person by whom it is alleged to have been written or signed

12 A written instrument which is required by law to be attested shall not (except in the cases provided for by section 20 of this chapter), be received as evidence unless the following rules are complied with —

(1) That execution of such instrument shall be proved by one attesting witness at the least, if there be an attesting witness alive and subject to the process of the Court by which the cause is tried and capable of bearing testimony and (2) If no attesting witness is alive and subject to such process as aforesaid is alleged to have done so

13 In order to ascertain, whether a signature writing or seal is genuine any signatu this faction of t

14 years old, and is produced from the proper custody, it shall be admissible in evidence without proof of its execution or attention

PROOF OF THE CONTENTS OF DOCUMENTS BY SECONDARY EVIDENCE

r 15 Evidence of the contents or purport of any written or printed docu-C hall not b

be printed by the Government printer or to be printed under the authority of the Legislature of any British Colony or possession or to be certified to be true by the proper officer

(2) A copy of a record of any Court or of an entry in any public book or register, which is proved to be a correct copy, or which purports to be under the seal of r officer, shall be admissible as such record or entry tions or marks which are proved have been destroyed or lost, or which cannot be produced by reason of their being engraved on or affixed to trees, buildings, or other things of an immoveable character

(4) Evidence of the contents of a written or printed document shall be admissible, when it has been proved that the document had been destroyed or lost or when the person in whose custody the Court by which the cause is tried or is r document, or refuses, after due notice, to otherwise satisfactorily accounted for

EVIDENCE OF TERMS OF CONTRACT

rty is in writing hall be received ay be admissible under the provisions of the last preceding section.

9 The judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction upon a matter directly in issue is admissible as evidence between the same parties, and those who represent them in interest upon the same matter, directly in issue in another cause; but not between any other parties, except as provided for in the next following section of the chapter.

Illustrations.

(a) A sues B for a horse, alleging that it was stolen from himself and that B brought it, knowing it to be stolen. Judgment is given in B's favour [illegible] for it A in defence judgment pronounced

[illegible] which has cognizance of such suits B sets up in defence a mortgage under which he is entitled to retain the rent in satisfaction of the interest of his mortgage A disputes the genuineness of the mortgage, but the Court pronounces it genuine and dismisses A's suit Afterwards B sues A in the Zillah Court to recover the amount due [illegible] the mortgage The

[illegible] dmissible as evidence that such judgment was pronounced between the parties, but is not, as against any person other than the parties thereto and those who represent them in interest, evidence of any other fact thereby appearing

Illustrations

(a) A sues B for compensation for injury sustained through the neglig nce of C, who is B's agent A obtains judgment In a suit brought by B against C for compensation for loss sustained by B through C's negligence, the [illegible] ount which A has been adjudged

[illegible] use B yielded up to C certain lands [illegible] a minor A decree passed in a [illegible] eld up possession to C as owner, is admissible in evidence

[illegible]

is maimed and B's [illegible] r compensation [illegible]

[illegible] nor, whom A alleges to be B's son [illegible] that C is B's son and decrees [illegible] for a legacy [illegible]

Ar

PROOF OF WRITINGS WHICH CONSTITUTE PRIMARY EVIDENCE

11 A writing which is not required by law to be attested, but which is alleged to have been signed by a specified person or to have been written wholly or in part by a specified person, shall not, except in the cases provided for by sections 17 ... signa... be pr... been written or signed

12 A wr... required by law to be attested shall ... of this chapter), be received ... with — ... ll be proved by one attesting ... ss alive and subject to the ... ed, and capable of bearing testimony

... process as aforesaid, ... ttestation of one ... must be adduced to show that the person who executed the instrument was the same person who is alleged to have done so

13 In order to ascertain, whether a signature writing or seal is genuine any signat... proved to the satis faction of t...

14 ... years old and is produced from the proper custody, it shall be admissible in evidence without proof of its execution or attestation

PROOF OF THE CONTENTS OF DOCUMENTS BY SECONDARY EVIDENCE

15 Evidence of the contents or purport of any written or printed document, or of letters, figures or other mark not produced to the Court shall not be admissible, except as provided by the rules next following —

(1) A copy of, or extract from any proclamation, order, or regulation issued by Her Majesty or by the Privy Council or any department of Her Majesty's G... ovided that such copy of ext... other Gazette or paper as is n... provided it purports to be printed by the Government printer or to be printed under the authority of the Legislature of any British Colony or possession or to be certified to be true by the proper officer

(2) A copy of a record of any Court or of an entry in any public book or register, which is proved to be a correct copy or which purports to be under the seal of such Court or to be certified by the proper officer shall be admissible as evidence of the existenc... record or entry

... dings of ... able character

(4) Evidence of the con... admissible, when it has been p... lost or when the person in ... the Court by which the cause is tried or is not legally bound to produce the document, or refuses after due notice to produce it or when its absence is otherwise satisfactorily accounted for

EVIDENCE OF TERMS OF CONTRACT

... property is in writing ... be received ... be admissible

Explanation The statement of a fact in any such document does not preclude the admission of oral evidence relating to the same fact, and where a suit is instituted for the purpose of setting aside or varying a document on the ground of a mistake in the writing thereof evidence may be received for the purpose of proving such mistake

PAPERS OF WHICH PROOF IS NOT REQUIRED

17 No proof shall be required of ... -ting to be the London Gazette or the Gazette ... of any Presidency or Lieutenant Governor ... ony or possession of the British Crown, nor of any paper purporting to be a news paper or journal, or a copy of a private Act of Parliament printed by the Kings printer.

18 No proof shall b ... aper purporting to be a certificate, certified ... law made evi dence of any particular ... stantially in the form and purports to b ... the law in that behalf

19 No proof shall be required of the official position of any person certi fying to the truth of any such paper as is mentioned in the last preceding rule

exec Mag the

21 An impression of any document made by a copying machine, or a representation of anything made by means of photography or of any other process which affords a reasonable assurance of correctnes shall be admissible in evidence, wherever under these rules the production of the original may be dispensed with

PERSONS WHO MAY TESTIFY

22 Those persons only shall be incompetent to testify who from tender years or for unsoundness of mind or from any other cause appear to the Judge to be incapable of understanding the questions addressed to them

PRIVILEGE

23 A witness is not at liberty to disclose a communication—

(1) When such communication relates to affairs of State and its disclosure ried couple to the in dispute in a n who made it est, has not been obtained for such disclosure

(3) Where the witness is a barrister, attorney, or vakil, or an interpreter or intermediate agent between the client and his legal adviser, and the commu nication was made by the client or principal to the witness in the course of his professional employment or consists of any advice given or conveyed by the ... the contents of any docu ... h the witness has acquired ... e the client or principal to the disclosure of such communication

(4) Where the disclosure demanded of the witness consisted in the pro duction of documents belonging to another person who would not be bound to produce them if in his possession and who has not consented to their production

24 A witness is not compellable to disclose to the Court any confidential communication which may have taken place between him and his legal pro fessional adviser

25 No communication made in furtherance of criminal purpose is protected from disclosure.

26 A witness summoned to produce a document shall, if the same be in his custody possession of power be bound to bring it into Court, notwithstanding any objection to the right of the party calling for it to compel its production or to its being read, or being put in as evidence or to the disclosure of its contents

The validity of any such objection made by the person bringing the document shall be determined by the Court and for the better determination thereof it shall be lawful for the Court to receive any admissible evidence which such person may give respecting it and it shall also be lawful for the Court unless the document relates to affairs of State, to inspect it and, if necessary to employ any person to interpret it under the obligation of an oath, and not to disclose its contents except to the Court, unless the Court shall decide that the document is to be given in evidence 27 No question shall be put to a married person which substantially amounts to ...

... the knowledge of the fact inquired after is necessary to the determination of some question between the husband and wife according to the law to which they are subject

EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

29 The party at whose instance a witness is examined may, with the permission of the Court, cross examine such witness to test his veracity, in the same manner as if the witness had not been called at his instance, and may be allowed to show that the witness has varied from a previous statement made by him

30 In order to repel an attack on the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by such ... when the fact took place ... the fact shall be admis... deposition or stat... ... that it was made at the ... ch shall be stated in

31 It shall not be lawful to ask a witness, in order to test his credit, any question the answer to which might criminate or might tend directly or indirectly to criminate him or might expose or tend, directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind But a witness shall not be excused from answering any question relevant to the matter in issue in any cause upon the ground that the answer to such question would or might criminate or tend to criminate him, or that it would or might expose, or tend to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture Provided that no answer which a witness shall be compelled to give shall, except for the purpose of punishing him for wilfully giving false evidence in such cause, be used as evidence against him in any criminal proceeding

32 No evidence is admissible to contradict the answers of a party or a witness as to matters affecting his character, but not otherwise bearing upon any question in issue in the cause Evidence of statements or conduct of a witness inconsistent with his evidence as to a question directly in issue in a cause is not excluded by this rule

Illustrations

(a) A claim against an underwriter is resisted on the ground of fraud The party claimant is asked whether in a former transaction he had not made a fraudulent claim He denies it Evidence is not admissible to show that he had made such fraudulent claim

(b) In a suit by A against B, a witness for A is asked whether he had not been dismissed from B's service for misconduct He denies it. Evidence is tendered to contradict the witness's statement as to such dismissal. The evidence is not admissible

Explanation The statement of a fact in any such document does not preclude the admission of oral evidence relating to the same fact, and where a suit is instituted for the purpose of setting aside or varying a document on the ground of a mistake in the writing thereof evidence may be received for the purpose of proving such mistake

PAPERS OF WHICH PROOF IS NOT REQUIRED

17 No proof shall be required of ... ting to be the London Gazette or the Gazette of any Presidency or Lieutenant Governor ... ony or possession of the British Crown, nor of any paper purporting to be a newspaper or journal, or a copy of a private Act of Parliament printed by the King's printer

18 No ... ss of any paper purporting to be a certifier ... hich is by law made evidence of any ... paper is substantially in the form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by the law in that behalf

19 No proof shall be required of the official position of any person certi fying to the truth of any such paper as is mentioned in the last preceding rule ... to have been ... Judge ... or of

..., or a representation of anything made by means of photography or ... other ... in ... be

PERSONS WHO MAY TESTIFY

22 Those persons only ... who from tender years or for unsoundness of mind ... e to be incapable of understanding th

PRIVILEGE

23 A witness is not at liberty to disclose a communication—

... to a matter ... ho made it ... has not been

... interpreter ... the commu ... urse of his ... veyed by the ... any docu ... has acquired ... or principal or his representative in interest has not consented to the disclosure of such communication

... of the witness consisted in the pro ... ld not be bound to ... o their production ... any confidential ... and his legal professional adviser

25 No communication made in furtherance of criminal purpose is protected from disclosure.

26 A witness summoned to produce a document shall, if the same be in his custody possession of power, be bound to bring it into Court, notwithstanding any objection to the right of the party calling for it to compel its production or to its being read, or being put in as evidence or to the disclosure of its contents

The validity of any such objection made by the person bringing the document shall be determined by the Court and for the better determination thereof it shall ... ly admissible evidence which such ... be lawful for the Court unless ... pect it and, if necessary, to employ any person to interpret it under the obligation of an oath, and not to disclose its contents except to the Court, unless the Court shall decide that the document is to be given in evidence

27 No question shall be put to a married person which substantially amounts to ... him or her ...

28. ... a husband ... tians, whe ... bodily inc ... where the knowledge of the fact inquired after is necessary to the determination of some question between the husband and wife according to the law to which hey are subject

EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

29 The party at whose instance a witness is examined, may, with the permission of the Court, cross examine such witness to test his veracity, in the same manner as if the witness had not been called at his instance, and may be allowed to show that the witness has varied from a previous statement made by him

30 In order to repel an attack on the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by ... when the fact took plac ... the fact shall be ad ... deposition or statemen ... dence that such deposition or statement was made, and that it was made at the time and place, and under the circumstances, if any, which shall be stated in the certificate or on the face of the deposition or statement

31 It shall not be lawful to ask a witness, in order to test his credit, any question the answer to which might criminate, or might tend directly or indirectly, to criminate him, or might expose or tend, directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture of any kind But a witness shall not be excused from answering any question relevant to the matter in issue in any cause upon the ground that the answer to such question would or might criminate, or tend to criminate him, or that it would or might expose, or tend to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture Provided that no an wer which a witness shall be compelled to give shall, except for the purpose of punishing him for wilfully giving false evidence in such cause, be used as evidence against him in any ...

32 ... witness ... of a party or a question ... bearing upon any inconsis ... duct of a witness ... e in a cause is not excluded by this rule

Illustrations.

(a) A claim against an underwriter is resisted on the ground of fraud The party claimant is asked whether in a former transaction he had not made a fraudulent claim He denies it. Evidence is not admissible to show that he had made such fraudulent claim

(b) In a suit by A against B, a witness for A is asked whether he had not been dismissed from B's service for misconduct He denies it. Evidence is tendered to contradict the witness's statement as to such dismissal. The evidence is not admissible

(c) In an action against A for goods sold to him by B, a witness for B deposes that he saw the goods sold and delivered He is asked whether he had given a different account of the transaction He denies it Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such different account This evidence is admissible He is asked whether ... alleged sale dealt with B as the owner of the go... is tendered to show that he had so dealt with B ... He is asked whether he had not given a false account of another transaction not in issue in the cause He denies it Evidence is tendered to show that he had given such false account This evidence is not admissible

(d) The witness is asked whether he had not received money or a promise of some favour from B to induce him to give his evidence He denies it Evidence is tendered to show that he had received such money or promise This evidence is admissible

33 A witness may be cross examined as to previous statements made by him in ... to the subject matter of the cause wit... but if it is intended to contradict such ... st, before such contradicting proof can be given ... be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him The Court may however, at any time during the trial, require the production of the writing for its inspection, and may thereupon make such use of it for the purpose of the trials as may seem fit

34 A witness may while under examination refer to any writing made by himself at the time of the transaction concerning which he is questioned or so soon afterwards that it may be reasonably presumed that the transaction was fresh in his memory, and he may for the like purpose refer to a writing made by any other person and r... of such transaction, or so soon afterwards that ... ansaction, was fresh in his memory ... d and may be given by the adverse ... ne the witness upon it

NUMBER OF WITNESSES

35 A Court if satisfied by the evidence given may in any case act on such evidence although there may be only the testimony of one witness

This rule is not rendered inapplicable by the circumstance that the testimony is given in a trial for giving false evidence, or for any other offence against th...

THI... TAKEN

36

(1) ... law in any part of Br... ...

(2) All public Acts of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all local and personal Acts directed by Parliament to be judicially noticed;

(3) The names, titles and functions of the persons filling for the time being any police office in any part of India

(4) All divisions of time, the geographical divisions of the world the territories under the dominion of the British Crown the commencement continuation, and termination of hostilities between the British Crown and any other state and the existence, title and national flag of every sovereign or state

... es of its own members ... rs, or assistants and ... and of all Advocate ... is authorized by law to act before it

SOURCES OF INFORMATION TO WHICH COURTS MAY REFER

38 A Court may, in order to inform itself in respect of any of the matters mentioned in sections 36 and 37 of these Rules and also on matters of Public History, Literature, Science, or Art refer, for the purposes of evidence, to such consideration.

(Sd) ROMILLY (L. S.)
(Sd.) EDWARD RYAN (L. S.)
(Sd) ROBERT LOWE (L. S.)
(Sd) ROBERT LUSH (L. S.)
(Sd) JOHN M. MACLEOD (L. S.)
(Sd.) W. M. JAMES (L. S.)

Dated this 3rd day of August 1868

ABSTRACTS of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The Council met at Simla on Wednesday, the 28th October, 1868

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding,
His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, G. C. S. I., K. C. B.

The Hon'ble G. N. Taylor
The Hon'ble H. S. Maine.
The Hon'ble John Strachey

The Hon'ble Sir George Couper, Bart, C. B.

EVIDENCE BILL

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine moved for leave to introduce a Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence. He said it would probably be sufficient to state that the Bill e [illegible] Law Commissioners had rece [illegible] re was probably no subject in [illegible] and the Commissioners had fully stated in the report which had been circulated to Hon'ble Members, the reasons for all the changes which the Bill proposed to introduce. If he got leave to introduce the Bill, he proposed to ask His Excellency the President to suspend the rules for the conduct of business, and on their suspension, to introduce the Bill with a view to its publication in the Gazette. There was no use in now dilating to any length on the technical subjects comprised in the Bill.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine then asked the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business.

The President declared the Rules suspended.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine then introduced the Bill.

(Sd.) WHITLEY STOKES,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of India,

Home Department (Legislative)

SIMLA,
The 28th October, 1868

ABSTRACT of Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the Provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67.

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 4th December, 1868

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding

The Hon'ble G Noble Taylor
The Hon'ble H Summer Maine.
The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Colonel H W. Norman, C B.
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell

Balrampur

The Hon'ble Gordon S Forbes
The Hon'ble D Cowie

The Hon'ble M J Shaw Stewart.

The Hon'ble Shaw Stewart took the oath of allegiance and the oath that he would faithfu those Courts did not, as a matter of fact, believe that it was their duty to administer the English law of evidence as modified by the Evidence Acts. In ... argued by a barrister ... ence were pressed on ... or reject evidence

... eminently un- ... were parts of ... They heard ... al Courts, but ... le. The evil, it appeared to Mr. Maine, lay less in admitting evidence which under strict rul... idence wit... like a cap... be an equ... should ... cision ... substance ... dmission of evidence, than in avertin... and in conjecturing the ... deration of what the ... circumstances. Another objection lay in the necessity which the Mofussil Judges were thus placed under of depending upon English text-books. They were excellent text books of the English law of evidence, but their usefulness consisted more in refreshing knowledge which had been gained by forensic experience than in teaching knowledge. The commissioners would appear to be right in supposing that what was wanted for the greatest part of India was a liberalized version of the English law of evidence, enacted with authority and thus excluding caprice and superseding the use of text books by compactness and precision.

... the ... ent ... nent ... tion ... s to ... the co... cer... pr... of the kind. And perhaps some ... the Engl... ... one which he was happy to see the ... law of evidence as a whole ... regarded by English lawyers ... ave never come into existence ... dministration,—the separation ... e Judge from the Jury. It consisted mainly of rules of exclusion, that is, of rules for keeping certain kinds of evidence out of sight of the Judge of fact. Such a system, Mr. Maine apprehended, could only be justified on two grounds. First of all some evidence mus... ...f all relevant evid... the... wou... ther... ing... rem... tion... the... pra... jud... the ... out of all proportion to ... lawyers as nearly ... It was not ... valuable, and Mr. Ma... ...l in an emergency to...

reject as absolutely inadmissible But taking men, as you found them and taking the average of judicial ability, it was really true that some kind of evidence did produce an impression on the mind far deeper than was consistent with their real weight The good sense to which the English law laid claim was evidenced by the tests which it laid down for distinguishing those kinds of evidence from those which remained It would be presumptuous in Mr Maine to praise the Commissioners' proposals, but he ventured to say that in his humble opinion, they had wisely availed themselves of the results of English experience but had wisely modified those results upon two considerations, which they stated as follows —

'The English practice has been moulded in a great degree by our social and legal institutions and our forms of procedure; and much of it is admitted in some criminal cases to decide without a jury, there is greater danger of miscarriage from the mind of the Court being uninformed than from its being unduly influenced by the information laid before it"

Mr Maine had said that he would not comment on the details of the measure, but there was one point of detail which it was necessary to notice

But another reason must probably appeared to be

Third Report on stamp duty in lers instruments

penalty in case of infringement would be more conducive to the public interest For the present we have thought it our best course to frame our rules irrespectively of the stamp law'

Now from the judicial point of view, there he course proposed But wh riend Mr Cockerell had had a vast mass of papers before him relating to the operation of the Stamp law Mr Maine appealed to him whether the following was not a fair inference from those papers If effect were given to the Commissioners sugges alties

ranch

y the Executive Government and Mr Maine had to state that having regard to the fact that the stamp duties on commercial instruments were easily levied, and did not press hardly on the people, the Government was not prepared to give up that portion of the public receipts

lence—The Hon ble Mr on ble Messrs Gordon

CALCUTTA,
The 4th December, 1868

WHITLEY STOKES
Asst Secy to the Govt of India
Home Department (Legislative)

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The council met at Simla on Tuesday, the 6th September, 1870

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India, K P G C S I Presiding

His Excellency the Commander in Chief G C B G C S I

The Hon'ble John Strachey	The Hon'ble B H Ellis
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple K C S I	Major General the Hon'ble H W Norman, C B
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C	The Hon'ble F R Cockerell

His Highness the Hon'ble Sarimad Rajaha Hindustan Raja Rajendra Sri Maharaja Dhiraj Sivai Ram Singh Bahadur of Jaypur G C S I

EVIDENCE BILL

... the Hon'ble Mr Strachey ... and amend the Law of Evidence ... an opportunity of saying a few words on a measure of the very highest importance The Evidence Act was drafted by the Indian Law Commissioners, and sent out to this country two years ago It was introduced by Mr Maine, referred to a Committee several of the members of which had now ceased to belong to the Council and published in the Gazette for general information Objections of great weight had been taken to it by many of the most distinguished lawyers in India and no doubt, the subject was one which required the most careful handling It was impossible to exaggerate the practical importance of the Bill as it would regulate the most important part of the procedure of every Court of Justice throughout the Empire Such a measure would of course require most careful consideration ir ...

w u

T

or ...

thr...

qu...

Ju...

den...

ru...

int...

up...

be ad...

state of great uncertainty No on... he law of Evidence did, and how far t... As consequence was that the subject ... nd a proof of this he (the mover) m... ...ecided in about Woodman's Indian Digest, which contained notes of cases ... eight years the title Evidence filled no less than twenty three royal octavo pages ... There were probably from four to five ... s was the state of things for whic... ...vide a remedy It was one whic... ought not to be permitted to continue

The motion was put and agreed to

The Council then adjourned to the 20th September, 1870

WHITLEY STOKES

Secretary to the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations

SIMLA,
The 6th September, 1870

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 18th November, 1870

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G, C S I, presiding

The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
Major General, the Hon'ble H W Norman, C B
The Hon'ble D Cowie
The Hon'ble Francis Stewart Chapman
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell

EVIDENCE AND INSOLVENCY BILLS

The Hon'ble Mr Stephen moved that the Hon'ble Mr Inglis be added to the Selec C

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 9th December, 1870

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secretary to the Government of India

CALCUTTA,
The 2nd December, 1870

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purposes of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 9th December, 1870

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G, C S I, presiding

The Hon'ble John Strachey
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen, Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
Major Genl the Hon'ble W H Norman, C B
The Hon'ble Francis Stewart Chapman

SUNDRY BILLS

Hon'ble Mr Robinson be added

The motion was put and agreed to
The Council adjourned to Friday, the 16th December, 1870

WHITLEY STOKES
Secretary to the Govt of India

CALCUTTA,
The 9th December, 1870

APPENDIX B

DRAFT REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

The Gazette of India, July 1, 1871, Part V, p 273

The following Draft Report of a Select Committee together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of

India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 31st March, 1871 — Ap

From Officiating Under Secretary, Home Department, No 423, dated 23rd October 1868, and enclosures

From Assistant Secretary, Foreign Department, No 333 dated 12th December 1868, and enclosures

Remarks by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bombay (no date)

Remarks by Hon'ble Justice Phear, dated 8th December, 1868

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner British Burma, No 525—1, dated 1st December 1868

From Assistant Secretary to Government of Bengal Legislative Department, No 37, dated 9th January 1869, and enclosure

From Deputy Judge Advocate General of the Army dated 26th January, 1869, and enclosures

From Officiating under Secretary Home Department, No 258 dated 17th February 1869, forwarding memorial from Muktars and Revenue Agents, Howrah, dated 4th February 1869

From Secretary to Indian Law Commissioners, dated 6th February, 1869

From Chief Secretary to Government Fort St George, No 120 dated 18th March 1869 and enclosures

From Secretary to Government of Bombay No 2971 dated 7th September 1869 and enclosures

From Secretary to Government of Bombay, No 3188 dated 24th September 1869 and enclosures

Fifth Report of Her Majesty's Law Commissioners on the Bill.

From Officiating Inspector General of Police Punjab No 2637 dated the 28th September, 1870

From Secretary to Government of India Home Department, No 1892, dated 18th October 1870 forwarding letter from Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No 61, dated 10th August 1870, and enclosures

We the members of the Select Committee to which the Evidence Bill has been referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin

After a very careful consideration of the draft prepared by the Indian Law Commissioners we have arrived at the conclusion that it is not suited to the wants of this country

We have recorded in a separate report the grounds on which this conclusion is based They are in a few words that the Commissioners' draft is not sufficiently elementary for the officers for whose use it is designed, and that it assumes an acquaintance on their part with the law of England, which can scarcely be expected from them Our draft, however, though arranged on a different principle from theirs, embodies most of its provisions In general it has been our object to reproduce the English Law of Evidence with certain modifications most of which have been suggested by the Commissioners though with some this is not the case

The English Law of Evidence appears to us to be totally destitute of arrangement particular out of the [illegible] pleading and the habitual practice of the Courts of Common Law For instance, the rule that evidence must be confined to point in issue is founded on the system of pleading The rule that hearsay is no evidence is part of the practice of the Courts but the two sets of rules run into each other in such an irregular way as to produce between them a result which no one can possibly understand systematically unless he is both acquainted with the principles of a system of pleading which is being rapidly abolished, and with the everyday practice of the Common Laws of Courts, which can be acquired and understood only by those who habitually take part in it This knowledge moreover, must be qualified by study of text books which are seldom systematically arranged

Many other circumstances, to which we need not refer, have contributed largely to the general results, but we may ... the law, and the total absence of anything lik... part of it, by a single instance In Mr P... stated that "ancient documents" when tendered in support of ancient possession, form the third exception to the rule which excludes hearsay The question is whether A is entitled to a fishery. He produces a royal grant of the fishery to his ancestor This fact the law describes as a peculiar kind of hearsay admissible by special exception Surely this is using language in a most uninstructive manner

This being the case, we have discarded altogether the phraseology in which the English text writers usually express themselves, and have attempted first to ascertain, and then to arrange in their natural order the principles which underlie the numerous cases and fragmentary rules which they have collected together The result is as follows —

Every judicial proceeding whatever ha... some right or liability If the proceeding... the liability to punishment of the person... the object is to ascertain some right of property or of status, or the right or ... ome form of relief ... upon and arise out of facts, and ... and those which cannot be perceived ... ived by the senses, it is superfluous to give e... sense, intention, fraud, goo... each class of facts ... of facts— they can be ... ition of the senses A man can testify to the fact that, at a certain time, he had a certain intention, on the same grounds as that on which he can testify that at a certain time and place, he saw a particular man He has, in each case, a present recollection of a past direct perception Moreover it is equally necessary to ascertain facts of each class in judicial proceedings, and they must in ... way ... ies in one of two different ways ... tion with other facts, constitute ... of the disputed right or liability would be a legal inference from them From the fact that A is the eldest son of B, there arises of necessity the inference that A is by the law of England the heir-at law of B, and that he has such rights as that status involves From the fact that A caused the death of B under certain circumstances and with a ... knowledge there arises of necessity the inference that A ... by the law for murder ... lled facts in issue unless ... he sense above explained ... issue and these may be called ... with which it can ... themselves, so that t... elation to the proceeding in which they are to be proved

This introduces the question of proof It is obvious that, whether an alleged ... the Court can draw no inference from ... also obvious that the belief of ... ought to proceed upon grounds altogether independent of the relation of the fact to the object and nature of the proceedings in which its existence is to be determined The question is whether A wrote a letter The letter may have contained the terms of a contract It may have been a libel It may have constituted the motive for the commission of a crime by B It may supply proof of an alibi in favour of A It may be an a... confession of a crime but whatever may be the relation of the f... that A did w... d

the production of the original when the writing of the letter is a crime, there can be no reason why it should be satisfied with a copy when the writing of the letter is a motive for a crime. In short, the way in which a fact should be proved depends on the nature of the fact, and not on the relation of the fact to the proceedings

The instrument by which the Court is convinced of a fact is evidence It is often classed as being either direct or circumstantial We have not adopted this classification

[illegible] evidence establishes a fact in issue whereas [illegible] fact, evidence is classified, not [illegible]

but as being used for writing or for p[illegible] which a fact must be proved depends on [illegible] made of it Evidence, therefore, should be defined, not with refer nce to the nature of the fact which it is to prove, but [illegible]

[illegible] the phrase is thus used, the word [illegible] clumsy mode of expression, which means either

(1) Words spoken or things produced in order to convince the Court of the existence of facts, or

(2) facts of which the Court is so convinced and which suggest some inference as to other facts

We use the word 'evidence' in the first of these senses only and so used it may be reduced to three heads—(1) oral evidence, (2) documentary evidence; (3) material evidence

Finally the evidence by which facts are to be proved must be brought to the notice of the Court and submitted to its judgment and the Court must form its [illegible] to us to supply the ground work for a [illegible] the subject as follows —

[illegible] issue [illegible] to their nature by oral, documentary or [illegible]

IV The production of evidence

V Procedure

We have accordingly distributed the subject under these heads, in the manner which we now proceed to describe somewhat more fully

I—PRELIMINARY

Under this head we have defined "fact" 'facts in issue", "collateral facts", a document" "evidence" "proof" and "proved', "necessary inference" and 'presume" We have also laid down in general terms the duty of the Court [illegible] 'collateral facts', and

Of our definitions of fact' 'facts in issue" are reframed in accordance with 'evidence", we need say no more than that they are reframed in accordance with the principles already stated We may however, shortly illustrate the effect of the definition of evidence

It will make perfect[illegible] the words as used in Engl[illegible] of circumstantial evidence with thus The question [illegible] he had a motive displayed by statement of his [illegible] his feet, that he [illegible] crime shows foot marks which correspond with his feet, that he [illegible] sion of property which might have been procured by it and that he wrote a letter indicating his guilt On turning to Chapter II, it will be found that all these are relevant facts, either as motive, incident of facts in issue, effects

3. Many other circumstances to which we need not refer, have contributed largely to the general results but we may illustrate the extreme intricacy of the law and the total absence of anything like system which pervades every part of it by a single instance In Mr Pitt Taylor's work on evidence it is stated that ancient documents when tendered in support of ancient possession form the third exception to the rule which excludes hearsay The question is whether A is entitled to a fishery He produces a royal grant of the fishery to his ancestor This fact the law describes as a peculiar kind of hearsay admissible by special exception Surely this is using language in a most uninstructive manner

This being the case, we have discarded altogether the phraseology in which the English text writers usually express themselves and have attempted first to ascertain, and then to arrange in their natural order the principles which underlie the numerous cases and fragmentary rules which they have collected toge[illegible]

Every [illegible] certaining of some right [illegible] s to ascertain the liability [illegible] ling is civil the object is to ascertain some right of property or of status or the right of [illegible] ome form of relief [illegible] upon and arise out of facts and [illegible] and those which cannot be perceived [illegible] ived by the senses it is superfluous [illegible] be perceived by the sense intention fraud good faith and knowledge may be given as examples But each class of facts has in common one element which entitles them to the name of fac[illegible] they can be directly perceived either with or without the intervention of t[illegible] senses A man can testify to the fact that at a certain time he had a certa[illegible] intention on the same grounds as that on which he can testify that at certain time and place, he saw a particular man He has in each case, present recollection of a past direct perception Moreover it is equally neces sary to ascertain facts of each class in judicial proceedings, and they must in most cases be ascertained in precisely the same way

Facts may be related to rights and liabilities in one of two different ways

1 They may by themselves or in connection with other facts constit[illegible] such a state of things that the existence of the disputed right or liabili[illegible] would be a legal inference from them From the fact that A is the eldest so[illegible] of B, there arises of necessity the inference that A is by the law of Engl[illegible] the heir at law of B, and that he has such rights as that status involves From the fact that A caused the death of B under certain circumstances and with [illegible] certain intention or knowledge there arises of necessity the inference that A murdered B and is liable to the punishment provided by the law for murder

Facts thus related to a proceeding may be called facts in issue unle[illegible] indeed their existence is undisputed

2 Facts which are not themselves in issue in the sense above explained may affect the probability of the existence of facts in issue and these may b[illegible] called collateral facts.

It appears to us that these two classes comprised all the facts with wh ch it can in any event be necessary for Courts of justice to concern themselves so that this classification exhausts all facts considered in their relation to the proceeding in which they are to be proved

This introduces the question of proof It is obvious that whether an alleged fact is a fact in issue, or a collateral fact the Court can draw no inference from its existence till it believes it to exist, and it is also obvious that the belief of the Court in the existence of a given fact ought to proceed upon grounds altogether independent of the relation of the fact to the object and nature of the proceedings in which its existence is to be determined The question is whether A wrote a letter The letter may have contained the terms of a contract It may have been a libel It may have constituted the motive for the commission of a crime by B It may supply proof of an alibi in favour of A It may be an admission or a confession of a crime, but whatever may be the relation of the fact to the proceeding the Court cannot act upon it unless it believes that A did write the letter and that belief must obviously be produced, in each of the cases mentioned by the same or similar means If for instance, the Court required

the production of the original when the writing of the letter is a crime there can be no reason why it should be satisfied with a copy when the writing of the letter is a motive for a crime In short, the way in which a fact should be proved depends on the nature of the fact, and not on the relation of the fact to the proceedings

The instrument by which the Court is convinced of a fact is evidence It is often classified as being either direct or circumstantial We have not adopted this classification in issue whereas e is classified not use to which it is put, as if paper were to be defined not by reference to its component elements but as being used for writing or for printing We have shown that the mode in which a fact must be proved depends on its nature and not on the use to be made of it Evidence, therefore, should be defined not with reference to the e to its own nature vidence is a statement of evidence is something from which facts in issue are to be inferred If the phrase is thus used the word evidence, in the two phrases (direct 'evidence' and circumstantial evidence opposed to each other) has two different meanings In the first, it means testimony serve as the foundation for an circum a most clumsy mode of expression, but it shows the ambiguity of the word 'evidence which means either

(1) Words spoken or things produced in order to convince the Court of the existence of facts, or

(2) facts of which the Court is so convinced and which suggest some inference as to other facts

We use the word evidence' in the first of these senses only and so used it may be reduced to three heads—(1) oral evidence, (2) documentary evidence, (3) material evidence

Finally the evidence by which facts are to be proved must be brought to the notice of the Court and submitted to its judgment and the Court must form its judgment respecting them

These general considerations appear to us to supply the ground work for a systematic and complete distribution of the subject as follows —

I Preliminary

II The relevancy of facts to the issue

III The proof of facts according to their nature by oral documentary or material evidence

IV The production of evidence

V Procedure

We have accordingly distributed the subject under these heads in the manner which we now proceed to describe somewhat more fully

I—PRELIMINARY

Under facts in issue, collateral facts" a docume inference' and presume' f the Court Of o ral facts' and "evidence' ccordance with the princip strate the effect of the definition of evidence

It will make perfect the words as used in Engli of circumstantial evidence with thus The question be had a motive displayed by statement of his own that he was in possession and that he wrote a letter it will be found that all th facts in issue, effects of facts in issue, or conduct influenced by facts in issue On turning to Chapter III, it will be seen how each of these facts must be proved, namely, the statements displaying motive by the direct oral evidence of some one who says he heard them; the foot marks, by the direct oral evidence of some one who says he saw them, the possession of the property by the production of the property in Court, and by the direct oral evidence of some one who had seen it in the prisoner's possession and the letter, by the production of the letter itself, or secondary evidence of it, if the case allows secondary evidence

So the phrase "hearsay" evidence", which, as the commissioners observe is used by English writers in so vague and unsatisfactory a manner, finds no place in our draft, and f any confusion in connection with it. manner which corresponds on the w with the English law in what cases the s as to relevant facts shall and in what cases they shall not be themselves relevant, and Chapter V on proof by oral evidence, provides that oral evidence, shall in all cases be direct, on whatever ground the fact which it is to establish may be relevant to the issue, that is to say, if the fact is one which could be seen, it must be established by a witness who says he saw it, if it could be heard by a witness who says he heard i the other provisions

So our definition does away with a confusion which arises out of the double meaning of the word evidence in the phrases "primary" and "secondary" evidence "Primary evidence" sometimes means a relevant fact, and at other times the proof of a document by its production as opposed to proof by a copy In our draft "primary", and "secondary' are distinctly defined, and confined idence" in each case means words spoken or the Court for the words "conclusive evidence" the phrase "necessary inference" The phrase "conclusive evidence" is not open to objection on the ground of obscurity or ambiguity, but the word "evidence" in it means not what we understood by evidence, but a fact established by evidence from which a particular inference necessarily follows Our phrase, therefore, harmonises with the rest of our draft whereas "conclusive evidence' would not and 'moral certainty" require some oordinate to that of "prov d' which is that is to say, when the Court after that a reasonable man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that it exists

This degree of probability we describe as ' moral certainty", and we provide such we bt', to state, without a prolonged abstract discussion, which would be out of place illustrations in offence umstances We have ntries, and in this country more than in any other it is absolutely necessary to leave to judges a wide discretion as to the risk of error which they choose to incur in coming to a decision, and that this is a matter of prudence and practice, as to which rules ought to be laid down, rather with a view of guiding, than with a view of fettering discretion

The last provision, in the preliminary part, to which we would call attention, defines in very general terms the duty of the Court in deciding questions of fact. Its generality appeared to us to render the preliminary rather than the concluding chapter, the proper place for it This section declares that the duty of the Court is to determine question of fact by drawing inferences—

(1) from the evidence given to the facts alleged to exist,
(2) from facts proved to facts not proved,
(3) from the absence of evidence which might have been given, (4) from the admissions and conduct of the parties, and generally from

the [illegible]

dra[illegible] o to be of p[illegible] subject fact[illegible] cord the the [illegible] all cases [illegible] to the [illegible] which it is used, is the [illegible] for inference, whereas [illegible] lence whatever is useful [illegible] ference that the facts [illegible], is very often the most [illegible] or other of the different shapes which we have stated is the great duty of the Judge in every case whatever, and we have thought it desirable to point this out in the plainest and broadest way

We have added two qualifications only to this general rule (1) that, when the law declares an inference to be necessary, the Court shall draw it, and shall not allow its truth to be contradicted, (2) that, when the law directs the Court to presume a fact, it shall infer its existence till the contrary appears We have treated in detail of necessary inference and presumptions in other parts of the Bill

II THE RELEVANCY OF FACTS

We have already pointed out the place which in our opinion, belongs to this subject in the law of evidence The question, what facts you may prove obviously lies at [illegible] answer is given to [illegible] The answer to th[illegible] exceptions which are made by English text writers to the [illegible] that evidence [illegible] is no evidence and that the b[illegible] he same excep tions are to [illegible] k however, that by a compar[illegible] e succeeded in forming a collection of positive rules as to the relevancy of facts to the issue, which will admit every fact which a rational man could wish to have before him in investigating any question of fact

These rules declare to be relevant—

(1) all facts in issue,
(2) all collateral facts, which
(a) form part of the same transaction,
(b) are the immediate occasion, cause or effect of fact in issue,
(c) show motive, preparation, or conduct affected by a fact in issue, (d) are necessary to be known in order to introduce or explain relevant facts;
(e) are [illegible] of a common design,
(f) [illegible], or inconsistent with it, except u[illegible] the other side, or render its existe[illegible] ording to the definition of moral certainty given above,
(g) affect the amount of damages in cases where damages are claimed,
(h) show the origin or existence of a disputed right or custom,

(i) show the existence of a relevant state of mind and body,
(j) show the existence of a series of which a relevant fact forms a part, or
(l) show (in certain cases) the existence of a given course of business

The remainder of the chapter throws into a positive shape what in English law forms the exceptions of the rule, excluding the various matters described as hearsay They relate to—

the conduct of the parties on previous occasions,
the statement of the parties on previous occasions,
previous judgments,
statements of third persons,
opinions of third persons

1 In reference to the conduct of the parties on previous occasions we embody in three sections the existing law of England as to evidence of character, with some modifications We include, under the word 'character, both reputation and disposition, and we permit evidence to be given of previous convictions against a prisoner for the purpose of prejudicing him We do not see why he should not be prejudiced by such evidence, if it is true

2 Under the head of the statement of the parties on other occasions we deal with the question of admissions, as to which we have not materially altered the existing law

... position ... olice ... the

3 Previous judgments appear to follow naturally upon previous statements Under this head we deal with the question of res judicata

We have not attempted to deal with the question of the bar of suits by previous ju... ion of procedure rather tha... never the Code of Civil and ... other hand dealt is substantial accordance with the principles of the law of England with the question of the relevancy of judgment between strangers For the sake of simplicity, and in order to avoid the difficulty of defining or enumerating judgments in ... he law of Sir Barnes Peacock in Kunya ... 39

4 ... have made one considerable alteration ... third persons a... truth or if they ... making ... of knowledge We have given ... which is suggested by Mr Pitt ... o carefully examines the ship ... family and ... likely to be ... his section ... not Some ... hich a limits statements explanatory of conduct, but as the conduct explained must be relevant and as no clear definition of relevancy is given by the law of England it is very difficult to say how far his rule extends

The next exception refers to statements made by a person who is dead or cannot be found or produced without unreasonable delay or expense We declare such statements to be relevant if they relate to the cause of the person's death or are made in the ordinary course of business or express an opinion as to the existence of the public right, or state the existence of any relationship as to which the party had special means of knowledge, or when they are made ... ties ... We have omitted the restrictions placed ... statements ... be opposed ... id that they ... than the admissibility of what is, at best to

statements in public or official ... previous judicial proceedings

5 The cases in which the opinion of third persons are relevant are dealt with in sections forty four to fifty

They declare to be relevant the opinions of experts, opinion as to hand writing, opinion as to usage, and opinions as to relationship and the grounds of such opinions

This completes that part of the Bill which relates to the relevancy of facts In the particulars stated and in some others of minor importance, which for the sake of brevity we have not noticed it modifies the law of England, but we believe that substantially, it represents that part of the law which is contained in (amongst others) the rules, together with the exceptions to the rules that evidence must be confined to points in issue, that the best evidence must be given, and that hearsay is no evidence, though these rules include other matters which we treat of under other heads

III—PROOF

The second Chapter having decided what facts are relevant we proceed to show how a relevant fact is to be proved

In the first place, the fact to be proved may be one of so much notoriety that the Courts will take judicial notice of it or it may be admitted by the parties In either of these cases no evidence of its existence need be given Chapter III which relates to judicial notice, disposes of this subject It is taken in part from Act II of 1855, in part from the commissioners draft bill and in part from the law of England

If evidence has to be given of any fact that evidence must be either oral documentary, or material, and we proceed in the following chapters to deal with the peculiarities of each of these three kinds of evidence There is however, one topic which applies to all of them of which we treat in Chapter IV This is the distinction between primary and secondary evidence As we have already shown ... as a legal way of recognizing the ob[illegible] of a document is [illegible] and secondary evi[illegible] the document or [illegible] crip tion is second[illegible]

We nex[illegible] proof by the various kinds of evidence successively namely oral documentary and material With regard to oral evidence, we provide, that it must in all cases whatever, whether it is primary or secondary and whether the fact to be proved is a fact in issue or collateral be direct That is to say, if the fact to be proved is one that could be seen it must be proved by some one who says he saw it If it could be heard by some one who says he heard it and so with the other senses We also provide that if the fact to be proved is the opinion of a living and producible person, or the grounds on which such opinion is held it must be proved by the person who holds that opinion on those grounds

We have however, provided that if the fact to be proved is the opinion of an expert who cannot be called (which is the case in the majority of cases in this country) and if such opinion has been expressed in any published treatise it may be proved by the production of the treatise

This provision taken in connection with the provisions of relevancy contained, in Chapter II will we hope set the whole doctrine of hearsay in a perfectly plain light, for their joint effect is this—

(1) the sayings and doings of third persons are, as a rule irrelevant, so that no proof of them can be admitted,

(2) in some excepted cases they are relevant,

(3) every act done or words spoken which is relevant on any ground must (if proved by oral evidence) be proved by some one who saw it with his own eyes or [illegible]

[illegible] of facts by document ary e[illegible] may be admitted, we have[illegible] We may observe that Chap[illegible] have thought it right to u[illegible] ch in almost every

3. ... of certified copies, gazettes, books ... nos of depositions, etc ... evidence ... this ... upon ... it are, so ...
On ... contract, etc, reduced to writing ... law of England and the Commissioners' draft

IV THE PRODUCTION OF PROOF.

From the question of proof of facts, we pass to the question of the manner in which the proof is to be produced, and this we treat under the following heads —

... of proof (Chapter X)

... XII)

... II)

... we lay down the broad rules that the general burden of proof is on the party who, if no evidence at all were given, would fail, and that the burden of proving any particular fact is on the party who affirms it ... h rules, and appear to us reasonable in thems ... e precedent of the New York Code in laying ... agreeing with the Indian Law Commissioners in the opinion that it is better not to fetter the discretion of the Judges We have, however, admitted one or two such presumptions ... Judges might ... seven years' ... acting as partners, ... an illustration, of a matter ... and we think somewha ... several persons in ... ule as to the burden ... B must prove it Th ...

... legitimacy being a necessary inference ... e adopt one or two of the rules of ...

... of witnesses, we have been careful ... e existing practice of the Courts, which ... e of Civil Procedure, is of necessity very loose and much guided by circumstances, but we have put into propositions the rules of English law as to the examination and cross examination of witnesses

We have also considered it necessary, having regard to the peculiar circumstances of this country, to put into the hands of the Judge an amount of discretion as to the admission of evidence which, if it exists by law, is at all events rarely or never exercised in England We expressly empower him to ask any questions upon any facts, relevant or irrelevant, at any period of the ... if he thinks ... upon ... utmost ... into the truth of the matter before him ... is to define simply and clearly the duties and the position of the Judges and those who practice before them The English system under which the Bench and the Bar act together and play their respective parts independently, and the professional organisation on which it rests, have no doubt great advantages, ... and will not for a very ... speaking, the great ..., and when advocates ..., and have to appear ... training as English

Judges, and are liable to be intimidated by advocates whose technical knowledge of law is greater than their own, and to whom the extremely intricate system of appeal which prevails in his country gives a power over the Judges unlike

In connection with this subject, we may refer to some provisions which we have inserted in order to prevent the abuse of the power of cross examination to credit. We believe the existence of that power to be essential to the administration of justice, and we believe it to be liable to great abuses. The need for the power and danger this country litigation c are the great engines here than in England, prevent the use of the power of exposure as a means of gratifying malice. We have accordingly provided as follows

Such questions may relate either to matters relevant to the case, or to matters not ... to the case, we think tl ... r, but that his answer shou

If they relate to matters not relevant to the case, except in so far as they affect the credit of the witness we think that the witness ought not to be compelled to answer. His refusal to do so would in most cases, serve the purpose of discrediting him as well as an express admission that the imputation conveyed by the question was true

In order to protect witness against needless questions of this kind, we enact that any advocate who asks such questions without written instructions (which the Court may call upon him to produce, and may impound when produced) shall l any such question the question of publication of an imputation intended to harm the reputation of the person af tı nı manner stated. Upon a trial for defamation it would of course be open to the person accused to show, either that the imputation was true or that it was for the public good that imputation should be made (Ex I, section 499, I P C), or that it was made in good faith for the protection of the interest of the person making it or of any other person (Ex 9). This is the only method which occurs to us of providing at once for the interests of a bona fide questioner and an innocent witness

In the same spirit we have empowered the Court, in general terms, to forbid indecent and scandalous ... to defined above, or to matters a ... ıd-determine whether the facts in ed to insult or annoy

We prefer this general power to the sections drawn by the Commissioners, which forbid questions to married persons "which substantially amount to inquiring whether that person has had sexual intercourse forbidden to him or her by the law to which ... subject" and "questions regarding the occurrence of Christiar of bodily possible to imagine num show that a married person or his wife. A woman motive is revenge for the discovery by ... an alibi on behalf of his m ... mistress. A married man comes to prove an alibi ... He pleads that consideration was woman sues a m adultery. In all it appears to us th as is referred to and wife, we think

B. general terms, than to lay down a positive rule which in possible cases might produce hardship

Finally we ... (Chapter XV) with the question of the improper admission at in regular appeals each Court successively ... fence it will have regard As for special appeals we provide that if evidence is said to be improperly admitted, the objection must be taken before ... called upon to say what its decisions ... ected If evidence is improperly rejec ... to look into the fa ts and deliver final judgment, or to remand the case

Finally, we recommend that the Draft Bill, together with the report, should be circulated for the opinion of the Local Governments

J F STEPHEN
J STRACHEY
F S CHAPMAN
F R COCKEREIL
J. F D INGLIS
W ROBINSON

The 31st March, 1871

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 31st March 1871

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G M S I Presiding
His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal
His Excellency the Commander in chief, G C B, G C S I

The Hon'ble John Strachey — Colonel the Hon'ble R Strachey, C S
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple, K C S I — The Hon'ble F S Chapman

... Norman C B

INDIAN EVIDENCE BILL

The Honble Mr Stephen in presenting the Report of the Select Committee ... aid — ... Lordship and the Council ... on a purely legal subject ... imitation Act On this occasion, however, I have to explain the position of a measure perhaps as important as any that has been passed of late years by the Indian Legislature in as much as, if it becomes law, it will affect the daily administration of both ... Moreover, the general interest ... less than an ... to the problem ... owever, impor- ... the Bill which the committee appended to their report, and which I am now to describe in a general way to your Lordship and the Council

"I will state, in the first place, the history of the measures down to the present time So far back as the year 1868, the Indian Law Commissioners drew a draft Evidence Act, which was sent out to this country . . .

stated in the report ever that the principal that it was in several . . . incomplete, and that, if it became law it would not supersede the necessity under which judicial officers in this country are at present placed of requainting themselves by means of English Law books with the English Law upon this subject

"The Comm . . . hardly be intelligible to a considerable knowledge of draft was framed, which propose to print and circulate, and on which I hope to receive the opinions of the Local Governments and High Courts in the course of the summer, say, by next Septe . . . weighed, and the measure may 'The report of the com . . .

the present occasion
. . . confine myself to saying that I trust that those who will have to criticise the Bill will begin by studying the report, which has been drawn up with great care, and which, as well as the Bill itself, forms a connected and systematic whole. The general object kept in view in framing the Bill has been to produce something from which a student might derive a clear, comprehensive, and distinct knowledge of the subject without unnecessary labour, but not of course, without that degree of careful and sustained attention which is necessary in order to master any important and intricate matter. It is by this standard that the committee in general and I in particular, as the member in charge of the Bill, desire that it may be tried.

'With this reference to the Bill and the report of the committee, I proceed to discuss the general questions connected with the subject and to mention a few of . . .

exis . . . mitted the necessity which exceedingly difficult to say precisely what at the present moment the law upon the subject certainly is . . . British India. It would be To some extent—it is far from being clear to what extent—and in some parts of . . . pears to be in force in British Indi . . . will continue to be so in practice, . . . been introduced . . .
have bee . . .
conscienc . . .
an imper . . .
of the E . . . factory . . .
legal syst . . .
said for unaided mother wit and natural shrewdness, but a half and half system in which a vast body of half understood law, totally destitute of arrangement and of uncertain authority maintains a dead alive existence is a state of things which it is by no means easy to praise.

"Legislation being thus necessary, in what direction is legislation to proceed? A gentleman, for whose opinion upon all subjects connected with Indian Law and Legislation, I, in con . . .
respect, said to me the other day . . .
Bill would be very short one . . .
rules of evidence are hereby abo . . . vigorously expressed is really . . . avow it so plainly. There is, . . .
sion the majority of Indian . . . technicalities invented by lawy . . .

general terms, than to lay down a positive rule which in possible cases might produce hardship

[illegible] the question of the improper admission

[illegible] regular appeals each Court successively will have regard As for special appeals [illegible] improperly admitted, the objection must be taken before the inferior Appellate Court, and the Court called upon to say what its decisions would be if the evidence objected to were rejected If evidence is improperly rejected, we would permit the High Court either to look into the facts and deliver final judgment, or to remand the case

Finally, we recommend that the Draft Bill, together with the report, should be circulated for the opinion of the Local Governments

J F STEPHEN
J STRACHEY
F S CHAPMAN
F R COCKERELL
J F. D INGLIS
W ROBINSON

The 31st March, 1871

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 31st March, 1871

PRESENT .

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K P G M S I Presiding
His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal
His Excellency the Commander in-chief, G C B, G C S I
The Hon'ble John Strachey [illegible]
The Hon'ble Sir Richard Temple K C S I
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen Q C
The Hon'ble B H Ellis
Major General The Hon'ble H W Norman C B

INDIAN EVIDENCE BILL

The Honble Mr Stephen in presenting the Report of the Select Committee [illegible] dship and the Council [illegible] purely legal subject [illegible] ation Act On this occasion, however, I have to explain the position of a measure perhaps as important as any that has been passed of late years by the Indian Legislature, in as much as, if it becomes law, it will affect the daily administration of both Civil and Criminal Procedure throughout the whole country Moreover, the subject matter to which the Bill refers is one of deep and wide general interest, for a law of Evidence properly constructed would be nothing less than an application of the practical experience acquired in Courts of Law, to the problem of enquiring into the truth as to controverted questions of fact, however, imperfectly it may have been attained

'This is the object which has been kept in view in framing the Bill which the committee appended to their report, and which I am now to describe in a general way to your Lordship and the Council

"I will state, in the first place, the history of the measures down to the present time So far back as the year 1868, the Indian Law Commissioners

tical effect of these rules? I may perhaps be permitted to answer this by referring to a book which I published in 1863 on the Criminal Laws of England, and which contains, amongst other things, an analysis of several celebrated trials, English and French. One object of that analysis was to contrast the effect of the presence and absence of rules of evidence; and I think that any one who would take the trouble to compare those trials together carefully, would agree with me in the conclusion, that the practical effect of the English rules of evidence in the floods of ... he want of them than the strong ... confuse and bewilder Criminal ... n ordinary Court of ... in which the rules of evidence are far less strictly enforced, and less clearly understood. An ordinary Criminal Court never gets very far from the point, but a Court martial continually wanders into questions far remote from those which it was assembled to try. Nothing for ...

as it w itself but v
which stated affirm letters
nature
he does not ... ning of the authority ... vocates, who have r ... power to pervert the administration of justice to the basest purposes, and to inflict immense injury on every class connected with it, directly or remotely, that might, or often would, in such hands, be made the excuse for tearing open old quarrels and ... long a
in a referri agains and c
country. In certain parts of the country, it was a point of honour for the friends of the putative father and of the mother respectively, to go to session to swear for him or her, as they used to say. No one who did not take part in such cases could imagine the strange ramifications of falsehood and contradiction, into which a hotly contested case of this kind would spread, or the number of imputations thrown on the honesty and chastity of the different witnesses, male and female. If it had not been for the rules of evidence the reputations of half the population of the village would have been torn in pieces. The rules of evidence kept matters to a point, and so minimized the evil, but the parties, the witnesses and the attorneys, all appeared to me to be one more anxious than another, to fight the matter ... stripped off the back of every man, ... way brought into the discussion ... aggravated from ... In the work to which I have already referred, will be found an account of ... for murder. If disposed of under th... ve taken more than a day or ... for, I think, about three weeks, a ... witness, in particular, was discovered, to have seduced a girl seven years before, and letters from her to him were read to throw light on his character. He naturally wished to give his own account of the transactions but was stopped on the ground that a line must be drawn some where, and that the Court chose to draw it between the point at which an irrelevant slur had been thrown on his character, and the point at which, had he been permitted to do so, he might have given an equally irrelevant explanation.

gathering puposes, and of no real value in the investigation of truth I cannot admit that this impression is in any degree correct I believe that rules of evidence are of very great value in all enquiries into matters of fact, and in it is practically impossible because the necessity for nd in the fact

In rude times to matters of fact was regarded as so helpless and difficult, that rude arbitrary substitutes for any sort of rational procedure were provided, in the shape of ordeals and judicial combats When people began to obtain glimpses of the true methods of investigation they seem to have in our days fall within the scope of The delighted wonder which was aprocryphal story of Susannah and the wonders, at what a friend of mine used to call that very feeble cross examination of Daniel's about the trees' is a good instance of this At a later period, arbitrary rules of evidence began to be formed Such a fact must be proved by two eye-witnesses, such another by four, such another by seven To say nothing of European systems in which such rules were in force the Hedaya is full of them These rules were never introduced in their full force into E rather which grew up by degrees character Part of it consisted of r be incompetent Part was intim special pleading, which was so cont facts upon which the parties di

Parts were the result of the practica by far th

Most of t which st experienc

(1)

(2)

(3, first is that they hat, when properly to all who have to take part in the administration of justice

"The second is that I believe that no body of rules upon any important subject were ever expressed so loosely, in such an intricate manner, or at such intolerable length

It is necessary to prove the first of these propositions in order to justify the recommendations of the committee that the substance of the rules in question should be introduced in the form of express law into this country It is necessary to prove the second proposition in order to justify the attempt made in the Bill to reduce the rules to order and system First then, as to the proposition that the rules in question are substantially sound and do far more they are not, understood and acted upon As a preliminary remark, I ought to observe that the knowledge of these rules possessed by English lawyers, is derived far more from the daily practice in the Courts, than from theoretical study Many English l eminently sag hen then is the prac heal effect of these rules? I may perhaps be permitted to answer this by referring to a book which I published in 1863 on the Criminal Laws of England, and which contair English and I the presence would take th with me in dence in those time to consol able person

The French s dence ... the want of them, than ... confuse and bewilder
... n ordinary Court of
... in which the rules of evidence are far less strictly enforced, and less clearly understood An ordinary Criminal Court never gets very far from the point, but a Court-martial continually wanders into questions far remote from those which it was assembled to try Noth ... nge places, as it ... Court finds itself ... ry offence but ... In a case whic ... o his credit state ... , which B affirmed, and made letters of the alphabe nature, to know how he does not, an incalculable waste of time and energy, and a great weakening of the authority of his Court, is sure to follow Active and zealous Advocates, who have no rules of evidence to restrain their zeal, would have it in their power to pervert the administration of justice to the basest purposes, and to inflict immense injury on every class connected with it, directly or remotely, that might, or often would, in such hands, be made the excuse for tearing open old quarrels and reviving questions laid at rest and giving fresh animus to scandals long ... would frequently be lost sight of,
... ssues I may be excused for ... n illustration of this Appeals
... luce an amount of perjury
... d be difficult to exceed in any country In certain parts of the country, it was a point of honour for the friends of the putative father and of the mother respectively to go to session to swear for ... No one who did not take part in and female If it the population of the evidence kept matters to a point, and so minimized ... one more anxious the witnesses and the attorneys, all appeared to me to be one more anxious than another, to fight the matter out till the very last rag of character had been stripped off the back of every man, woman, and child, whose name was in any way brought into the discussion The French Courts display this evil, in an aggravated from In the work to which I have already referred will be found an account of the trial of a monk named Leotade for murder If disposed of under the English rules of evidence, it could hardly have taken more than a day or two at the most In the French Court, it lasted for, I think, about three weeks, and branched ... of subjects One witness, in particular, was discovered to l to him were read to tl his own account of must be drawn some at which an irrelevant at which, had he been permitted to go irrelevant explanation

"It is not however merely for the purpose of confining judicial proceedings within reasonable limits that rules of evidence are useful They are also of pre eminent importance for the purpose of protecting and guiding the Judge in the discharge of his duty There is a sense in which it may be said with perfect truth that even legislative power is unequal to the task of abolishing rules of discretion

"It may be that some persons would like this policy, but I suppose it is one which I need not discuss

'So far I have considered the rules of evidence merely as they conduce to the important practical objects of keeping proceedings to the point and of protecting and supporting the Judges I must now say a few words on their value, as furnishing the Judge with solid tests of truth I fully admit that their
-ceived, but I think
that they have a real thoug
There are two great problems on which the rules of evidence throw no light at all and on which they are not intended to throw any light, and it must be admitted that those problems are by far the most important of any, which a Judge has to solve No rule of evidence that ever was framed, will assist a Judge in the very smallest degree in determining the master question of the whole subject—whether and how far, he ought to believe what the witnesses say? Again rules of evidence are not, and do not profess to be rules of logic They throw no light at all on a further question of equal importance to the one just stated from the facts in which, after considering

In every judicial proceeding whatever if it is true, what then—ought to be both that hem and ch better

evidence

of this, is perfectly familiar I think that coupled with impatience of the exaggerated pretensions which have sometimes been made on behalf of the rules of evidence, are the principal reasons for the distrust and dislike with which they are at times regarded This dislike I think is merely a particular instance of the vulgar error, which in so many instances leads people to deprecate art in comparison with nature as if there were an opposition between the two, and as if art in all cases did not presuppose and depend upon nature The best shoes in the world will not make a man walk, nor will the best glass make him see, and in just the same way, the best rules of evidence will not supply the place of natural sagacity, or of a taste for and training in logic, but it no -eless as guides to truth than that shoes o

-e feet and to the eyes The real us truth consists in the fact that they sup varied experience as to two great facts the relevancy of facts to the question to be decided by the Court and the sort of evidence by which particular facts ought to be proved They may in the broadest and most popular form be stated thus '—If you want to arrive at the truth as to any matter of fact of serious importance observe the following maxims —'First, if your belief in the principal fact which you wish to ascertain is to be, after all, an inference from the other facts let those facts at all events, be closely connected with the principal fact in some one of certain specific modes Secondly, never believe

in any fact whatever, whether it is the fact which you principally wish to determine, or whether it is a fact from which you propose to infer the existence of the principal fact, until you have before you the best evidence that is to be had; that is to say, if the fact is a thing done, have before you some one who saw it done with his own eyes; if it was a thing said, have before you some one who heard it said with his own ears; if it was a written paper, have the paper before you and read it for yourself

"This exception—qualifications and explanations apart—is the true essence of the rules of evidence, and I think that no one will deny, either that these rules are in themselves eminently wise, or that they are by no means so obvious and self-evident that the mere unassisted natural sagacity of judicial officers of every grade can be trusted to grasp their full meaning, and to apply them to the practical questions which arise in the administration of justice, with no assistance from any express law I do not wish to exaggerate, but I must add that I attach considerable moral and speculative value to these rules If they are firmly grasped by Courts of Justice, and rigidly insisted upon in all practical matters which come before the Courts, they will gradually work their way amongst the people at large, and furnish them with tests by which to distinguish between credulity and rational belief, upon a great variety of matters which will be of vast ir [illegible] they are calculated to effect, c [illegible] and rigorously enforcing them [illegible] perience will be continually adding to the proper proof of their value

So far, I have tried to prove the proposition that the English rules of evidence are of real solid value and that they are not a mere collection of arbitrary subtleties which shackle, inst[illegible] I pass now to the next proposition, which [illegible] so confused, intricate, and lengthy, th[illegible] learn their true meaning otherwise [illegible] may be altogether avoided by a careful and systematic distribution [illegible] proof of this proposition, if indeed it is disputed, I can only refer in general to the English text books on the subject They form a mass of confusion which no one can understand until, [illegible] intention of the different rules of which [illegible] often incoherent illustrations I am f[illegible] to the industrious, and in many cases [illegible] lations They, like all other hand boc[illegible] purposes, and are mere collections of [illegible] generally relating to some very minute p[illegible] generally relating to vague catch words, with which they should be arranged, rather with reference to vague catch words, with which the ears of lawyers are familiar, than with reference to theoretical principles which it has never been worth any lawyer's while to investigate "The cc[illegible] other branche[illegible] extraordinary [illegible] very greatest practical sagacity with an absence of [illegible] still worse, with the presence of unsound theory No one who has not seen it could [illegible] of a clever man may become when [illegible] which does not fit it, and [illegible] is of my meaning The expression 'hearsay is no evidence' early obtained considerable currency in the English Courts [illegible] its meaning is clear enough, and, but what is mo[illegible] truth, fro[illegible] lty and obs[illegible] y' and

'ev[illegible] y mean sev[illegible] u have her[illegible] icult to im[illegible] ore, in a [illegible] again, [illegible] his own
may be taken to mean that which a person [illegible] of the word, and it is organs of perception, but this is not the natural sense of the word, and it is almost impossible in practice to divest a word of its natural meaning.

'The word "evidence' is also exceedingly ambiguous It may mean that which a witness says in Court It may mean the fact to which he testifies regarded as a ground work for further inference Notwithstanding this the phrase 'hearsay is no evidence,' being emphatic and easy to recollect stuck in the ears and in the minds of lawyers and has been taken by many text writers as the principle on which their statement of the most important branch of the law should be arranged They accordingly took to describing as hearsay, every fact of which evidence was by law excluded, in short they turned 'hearsay is no evidence into 'that which is not evidence is hearsay' They did not however, do this expressly They did it by describing as exceptions to the rule excluding hearsay, all cases in which evidence was

and he

to C Now as D and E are not parties to the suit between A and B ... own knowledge, know anything of the transac... ...ers call the deeds between D and E the ... aylor, the rule which permits such deeds to ... ption to the rule which ex cludes hearsa... ...istaken, called such evidence written hears... lawyers in general, to the abuse of language for the sake of momentary convenience, that it probably never struck him that this was a contradiction in terms I think however that it is hard to expect people to understand bear in mind and follow out in ... language in such a peculiar manner, To talk of hearing a document, is

I now turn to the ambiguity of the word 'evidence', to which I have already referred As I have just said, evidence' sometimes means a fact which suggests an inference For instance, it is cor... of stolen goods is evidence of theft', that is, the ... the inference of theft At other times and I ... means what a witness actually says in Court, or that which he produces For instance we say the evidence which he gave was true I might occupy, I will not say the attention, but the time, of Your Lordship and the Council for hours if I were to attempt to describe the amount of confusion and obscurity which the neglect of this simple and obvious distinction has thrown over the whole subject I will content myself with observing that it produces the effect of giving a double meaning to every expression into which the word 'evidence', is introduced Circumstantial evidence hearsay evidence, direct evidence 'primary evidence best evidence, have each two sets of meanings, and the result is, that it is almost impossible to arrive at a clear and comprehensive knowledge of the whole subject or to see how its various parts are related to each other without an amount of study thought and practical acquaintance with the actual working of the rules of evidence which few people are in a position to bestow upon the subject

'I may appear to be detaining the Council unduly upon merely verbal questions but I think that it is a common fault to under rate the importance of accurate language particularly in regard to the fundamental terms of any particular branch of knowledge In regard to law I have not the least doubt that a very large proportion of the intricacy and difficulty which attach to it is due to the fact, that proper pains have never been bestowed on the definition of its fundamental terms What c... ...to sure of our meaning when we spe...

...iple I believe ...e term 'law was defined by the late Mr Austin, the study of law would become comparatively easy, and in many cases attractive for its own sake, that its bulk might be diminished to a degree of which people in general have hardly any conception, that the expense of its administration, might be greatly diminished and that

comparative certainty might do away with a very large amount of needless and harassing litigation

'I shall now proceed to describe shortly the principles on which the draft B [illegible] first place we thought it [illegible] terms of the subject should [illegible] 'evidence', 'proof', 'proved' report [illegible] content myself with a reference to the report It seemed to us that the remainder of the subject would fall under the following general heads —

1 The relevancy of fact to the issues to be proved

2 The proof of facts, according to their nature by oral, documentary, or material evidence

3 The production of evidence in Court

4 The duties of the Court, and the effect of mistaken admission or rejection of evidence

'These heads would we think be found to embrace and to arrange in their natural order all the subjects treated of by English text writers and Judges, under the general head of the law of evidence I will say a few words on their relation to each other, and on each of them in turn

'The main feature of the Bill consists in the distinction drawn by it between the relevancy of facts and the mode of proving relevant facts The neglect of this distinction by English text writers, no doubt arises from the ambiguity in the word 'evidence' to which I have already referred and is the main cause of the extreme difficulty of understanding the English Law of Evidence systematically I will shortly illustrate my meaning A says Z committed murder First of all this is a fact—something which could be directly perceived by the sense of hearing and distinctly remembered afterwards Now, whether this fact is or is not relevant in a particular case depends upon a variety of circumstances If the question is whether A was guilty of defaming Z by accusing him of murder? Or where Z had a motive for assaulting A because A said that he had committed murder or if Z is accused of murder and the object is to show that when A charged him with it he behaved as if he were guilty and in many other instances which might be put the fact that A spoke those words is clearly relevant But if the question is whether Z actually did commit murder the fact that A thought so or said so generally speaking is not relevant Supposing however that the fact is relevant on some one of the grounds just mentioned or on any other ground whatever be the ground on which the words are relevant to the matter under inquiry it is obvious that the words themselves ought to be satisfactorily proved and the rule of English law—and we think it is a wise rule—is that they must be proved [illegible] with his own ears [illegible] of rules under the [illegible] arsay is no evidence meaning by it that certain classes of facts called hearsay are to be treated as irrelevant to the determination of particular questions and it is necessary to look through a long list of exceptions to that rule in order to see whether, in a particular case a statement may or may not be proved If you find that it can be proved the question is how can it be proved? and you propose to prove it by a witness who says that B told him that he heard A say so Again you are told hearsay is no evidence, but this time this expression means not that the fact is irrelevant but that the testimony by which it is proposed to prove the fact is improper One extreme inconvenience of this is that the most important part of the English Law of Evidence is thrown into the most intricate and inconvenient of all possible forms that of a very wide negative of most uncertain meaning qualified by a long string of exceedingly intricate exceptions

'No one who has not gone through the process of learning the law by mere rule of thumb practice can imagine the degree of needless obscurity and difficulty upon this point, of the existence of which he becomes gradually conscious It would be perfectly fair to say to almost any English text-writer 'You tell me at enormous length, what is not evidence, but you no where tell me what is evidence, except indeed in large compilations, which point out what has to be proved upon particular issues, and which it is as impossible to read or remember, as it is to read or remember any other mere works of reference".

"I hope that we have been able to avoid this, and that the second chapter of the Bill will be found to state specifically, and in a positive form, what sorts of facts are relevant as being sufficiently connected with the facts in issue to afford grounds for an inference as to their existence or non existence I will not weary the Council by specifying those rules, and I will content myself by referring to the Bill and to the report But I may shortly illustrate them by reference to a passage from a modern historian, which will relieve the dullness of a very technical speech The passage to which I refer is a short summary, by Mr Froude of the grounds on which he believes that Mary, Queen of Scots, murdered her husband

"As Mr Froude was not a lawyer he certainly wrote, what I am about to read, without reference to the rules of evidence I think the fact that he did, in fact, unconsciously observe them, illustrate very strongly the truth of my assertion, that they are nothing more than the result of experience and practical sagacity, thrown into a categorical shape I need hardly say that I use the passage merely as an illustration and without any notion of adopting Mr Froude's opinions or asserting the truth of his facts I am concerned merely with their relevance

"She (Mary) was known to have been weary of her husband, and anxious to get rid of him

"(By our draft, facts which show motive are relevant)

'The difficulty and the means of disposing of him had been discussed in her presence, and she had herself suggested to Sir James Balfour to kill him

"(Facts which show preparation for a fact in issue, are relevant)"

"She brought him to the house where he was destroyed , she was with him two hours before his death

"(Facts so connected with the facts in issue as to form part of the same transaction are relevant)

"And afterwards threw every difficulty in the way of any examination into the circumstances of his end'

"(Subsequent conduct, influenced by any fact in issue, is relevant)'

'The Earl of Bothwell was publicly accused of the murder

('Facts necessary to be known in order to introduce relevant facts, are relevant)

'She kept him close at her side, she would not allow him to be arrested, she went openly to Seton with him, before her widowhood was a fortnight old When at last unwillingly, she consented to his trial Edinburgh was occupied by his retainers He presented himself at the Tolbooth surrounded by the Royal Guard, and the charge fell to the ground, because the Crown did not prosecute, and the Earl of Lennox had been prevented from appearing"

"(Subsequent conduct influenced by any fact in issue is relevant)"

"A few weeks later, she married Bothwell, though he had a wife already, and when her subjects rose in arms against her and took her prisoner, she refused to allow herself to be divorced from him"

'(Subsequent conduct Motive)"

[illegible] which the Queen [illegible] I need not read [illegible] oduction, and to [illegible] to the subsequent conduct meets the case of a person who destroys or conceals evidence"

'Finally Mr Froude observes 'In her own correspondence, though she denies the crime, there is nowhere the clear ring of innocence which makes its weight felt even when the evidence is weak which supports the words.'

"The letters would be evidence under the section relating to admissions, and Mr Froude's remark is in the nature of a criticism on them by a prosecuting counsel.

"In English text books, so far as my experience goes, these rules and others of the same sort, are nowhere presented in a compact substantive form They come in for the most part, as exceptions to the rule that evidence must be confined to the points in issue In fact they can be learned only by the practice of the Courts though they are as natural and lax as any rules need be, if they are properly stated.

'From the rules which state what facts may be proved, we pass to those which pre[illegible] technical [illegible] to public d[illegible] though, of course, numerous introductory rules are required to adopt for practice They are these

"1 If a fact is proved by oral evidence, the oral evidence must be direct, that is to say, things seen must be deposed to by some one who says he saw them with his own eyes, things heard by some one who says he heard them with his own ears

'2 Original documents must be produced or accounted for, before any other evidence can be given of their contents

"3 When a contract has been reduced to writing it must not be varied by oral evidence

"These rules, as I have said, are subject to certain exceptions, and require certain practical adjustments, but I do not think that any one who has had practical experience of the working of Courts of Justice will deny their substantial soundness, or indeed the absolute practical necessity for enforcing them

"Passing over certain matters which are explained at length in the Bill and report, I come to two points to which the committee attach the greatest importance as having peculiar reference to the administration of justice in India The first of these rules refers to the part taken by the Judge in the examination of witnesses; the second to the effect of the improper admission or rejection of evidence upon the proceedings in case of appeal

'Th[illegible] relates to the manner in which [illegible] e of a well educated, Bar [illegible] actically of every other duty [illegible] tween them I need hardly [illegible] great r[illegible] vast m[illegible]

[illegible] that it is the duty of the [illegible] n to the evidence put [illegible] th of the matter We do [illegible] interest in arriving [illegible] egarded mainly in [illegible] prisoner, are at all [illegible] than carelessness and apathy in England

"With respect to the question of appeals, we have drawn a series of provisions, the object of which is to prevent mere mistakes in procedure from destroying the value of work properly done, as far as it goes We have gone through the various cases in which, as appears to us, the question of the improper admission or rejection or omission of evidence can arise, and have provided that, whenever any Appellate Court discovers the occurrence of any mistake, it shall not reverse the decision of the inferior Court, but shall either strike out what is redundant, or supply what is defective, as the case may be and give judgment accordingly

I have addressed Your Lordship and the Council at great length, but not I think at greater length than the importance of the matter requires I have only to add, that I propose to proceed with the Bill when the Government returns to Calcutta, and that I hope before that time, to receive the criticisms of the Local Governments upon the measure"

The council adjourned to Thursday, the 6th April, 1871

CALCUTTA, WHITELEY STOKES
The 31st March 1871 Secy to the Govt of India

ABSTRACT of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 & 25 Vict Cap 67

PRESENT

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India K B G M S I presiding

The Hon'ble John Strachey | The Hon'ble J F D Inglish
The Hon'ble J Fitzjames Stephen Q C | The Hon'ble W Robinson C S I
The Hon'ble B H Ellis | The Hon'ble F S Chapman
The Hon'ble F R Cockerell | The Hon'ble R Stewart

The Hon'ble J R Bullen Smith

SUNDRY BILLS

The Hon'ble Mr Stephen also moves that the Hon'ble Messrs Chapman Stewart and Bullen Smith, be added to Select Committees on the following Bills —

The next Bill, to which Mr Stephen had to refer, was the Evidence Bill He need not say anything more about it than that it was under the consideration of the Committee He however wished to make one or two remarks In the first place, although the Bill had been sent for the opinion of the Local Governments some time in June last with a request that their opinion on the subject might be forwarded in the course of the autumn, many of the Local Governments had not yet sent in any opinions whatever on the subject He earnestly hoped that these opinions might be received in order that they might be fully considered Some memorial had been received on the subject from individuals, specially from certain members of the Bar He did not wish to discuss them But he wished to say that he thought that the opinion of some persons, that the Council in General and Mr Stephen in particular were ... perfectly unfounded p the President
... of Mr Civil
wish to had been said ul attention in a of making any attack upon the independence or position generally of the honourable profession in question

The Council adjourned to Friday the 15th December, 1871,

CALCUTTA H S CUNNINGHAM,
The 8th December, 1871 Offg Secretary to the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations

SECOND REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

Vide the Gazette of India, February 17th 1872, Part V p 94

The following ... ttled by them was prese ... the purpose of making L

Petition from certain Barristers and Advocates of Bombay, dated the 8th August 1871

From Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Coorg No 3?6/4, dated 4th October 1871, and enclosures

From certain pleaders of the High Court Bombay, dated 4th October 1871

From officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner of Coorg No 400/6 dated 9th October 1871 and enclosures

From the Chief Secretary to Government of Fort Saint George No 166 dated 21st November 1871, and enclosures

From F J Ferguson Esq Barrister High Court Calcutta dated 8th December 1871 forwarding memorial from Barristers and Advocates High Court, Calcutta

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner Central Provinces No 2640/299 dated 6th December 1871 and enclosures

From Officiating Secretary to Government of Bengal No 6326 I dated 13th December, 1871 and enclosures

Memorial from certain members of the Madras Bar, dated 16th December 1871

We the undersigned, the members of the ... the Gover- ... purpose of ... which the ... have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin

1 We have made some alterations in the arrangement of the Bill

2 We have omitted the definitions of "proof and 'moral certainty' and the sections relating to inferences to be drawn by the Court as being suitable rather for a treatise than an Act

3 We have omitted the provisions relating to material evidence and have given a new and simpler definition of the difference between primary and secondary evidence

4 ... apply ... affidavi ... nor to proceedings in arbitration

5 As to the effect of an admission by one of several persons jointly tried for an ...

time, and an admission is proved against one of them which affects others of the accused besides himself it may be taken into consideration by the Court against all the persons whom it affects

... of oral by documen ... d complete We ... ject, freed from 7 Exception was taken to the Bill in several quarters on the ground that it did not sufficiently dispose of the matter of presumptions We have reconsidered this subject with attention and have provided for it as follows —

Some presumptions have the effect of laying the burden of proof on particular persons, in particular cases These we have dealt with in sections 103 to 111 of the new Bill

... that the existence of one ... This we have provided

We have substituted the term 'conclusive proof' in these instances for that of "necessary inference,' which was employed for th... draft of the Bill.

3. Other presumptions are ... re maxims by which the Court ... Theoretically they are regarded ... to say, as artificial rules which ... cally ... pres ... is country and likely to produce ... have accordingly, by section ... mere presumptions of fact with ...

We have provided in the Chapter on the Burden of Proof that a Notification in the Gazette that a territory has been ceded to a Native State shall be conclusive proof of a valid cession at the date mentioned in the notification The object of this section is to set at rest questions which, as we are informed, have arisen on this subject.

The subject of presumptions as to documents is a very special matter, and appears to us to belong to the subject of documentary evidence, under which head we have placed it in chapter V

Lastly many subjects are treated by English writers under the head of presumptions which appear to us to belong rather to different branches of the ... e law, is in reality ... presumptions as ... to the subject and ... because many of them are fictitious

8. The chapter on oaths has been omitted, as they form the subject of a separate Bill now under discussion

... to 145 of the old draft, ... nd the substitution of ... such questions, should ... uestion is improperly asked, to report the circumstance to the authority to which the person asking it is subject

10 We have amended the wording of section 166 as to the Judge's power to ask questions The section as originally drawn might have been taken to authorize him to found his judgment upon irrelevant matter, such as loose rumours The intention of the section was to give him the fullest possible power of inquiry for the discovery of relevent matter Section 164 as now drawn makes this clear

11. We have omitted the chapter as to the duties of Judges, and Juries, which will, we think, be more properly placed in the Code of Criminal Procedure We have also omitted the provisions as to appeal in the first draft, and have substituted for them section 57 of Act II of 1855 which provides for the cases in which the improper admission or rejection of evidence shall be ground for a new trial or a reversal of a decision 12 ... e passed, but we als... ette, and that this ... be date of its publication

J. F. STEPHEN.
J. STRACHEY.
J. F D INGLIS.
W ROBINSON.
T S. CHAPMAN.
R. STEWART.
J. R. BULLEN SMITH.
F. R. COCKERELL.

The 30th January, 1872.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament, 24 & 25 Vict. Cap 67.

The Council met at Government House on Tuesday, the 12th March, 1872.

PRESENT.

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, K. T, presiding.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal.

His Excellency the Commander in Chief, G C B, G C S I

Maj Genl the Hon'ble H. W. Norman, C B

The Hon'ble J F D. Inglis.

The Hon'ble W Robinson, C S I

The Hon'ble F S Chapman.

The Hon'ble R Stewart

The Hon'ble J. R Bullen Smith.

The Hon'ble F R. Cockerell

The Hon'ble Mr. Stephen in moving that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the Law of Evidence be taken into consideration, said "My Lord,—Just a year ago, in submitting the Report of the Committee to the Council, I explained at very considerable length the ... they proposed, and which is now ... I need not revert to what I then said ... My best course I think will be to ... place in relation to the Bill since I last

... consideration of its various details, the Bill ... for opinion. ... Government ... h ago, with a ... made in it; ... Council The Committee has fully considered all the papers with which it has ... favoured, but with one or two exceptions, I cannot say that it has received any very consider... made some important

... prepared with the advice and ... We have received no public expression of ... Courts, except the High Court of Bombay ... on minor points ... at all on the matter.

... to do so I ... Barrister J... have informed me that they approve generally ... The Local Governments, ... ne which is much needed, ... th intelligible to persons not ... legally trained, and complete in essential ...

"Upon this point, I would specially refer to the valuable papers already referred to, which have been received from Madras It is impossible, in reading them, not to see that their ... do not like the Bill They find every fault they can with it, someti... I do not in the ... more fully in ... tion have pointed ... tled to say that

... last two highly competent ... the matter careful consideration ...

a few remarks as I go on I refer to them now for the sake of showing the importance of the opinions which I am about to read " The letter of the Madras Government says —

"' I [illegible] nce as to present [illegible] w practi cally suff [illegible] ll in its scheme and general arrangement appears to furnish an adequate outline of such a Code,' but it is observed that the Bill ' in its present state is far from complete'

"Mr Norton expresses the same opinion at greater length and each of these authorities agrees in the statement that the Bill is only a skeleton, which will have to be completed by a greater number of judicial decisions

' Mr Norton criticises the Bill, section by section, and in order to show how fully, he has done so, he observes —

'' I have, however compared it, section by section, with Taylor, Roscoe Best and other text writers, with Civil and Criminal Procedure Codes so far as they apply to the subject of evidence, with some of the existing Acts which regulate judicial evidence and such judicial decisions as I have access to illustrating the principles which at present are generally supposed by the profession to obtain in the Courts of India'

"He could hardly, I think, have submitted it to a more searching test. Further on he observes —

"' The process by which this Bill has been, in the main, built up, appears to me to have been by following Mr Pitt Taylor's work on evidence and arbitrarily selecting certain sections or portions of sections'

"He then criticises the Bill in detail, and concludes by saying—

"' Such are the observations that have occurred to me in the most careful study I can give the Bill, and I think that, with some omissions a little rearrangement here and there, and considerable extension and enlargement, it promises to prove a great step in advance and improvement in the present uncodified Law of Evidence, and likely to afford very valuable aid and facilities to the Mofussil Judges, and all concerned in the practice of the law in the Mofussil

[illegible]

goes [illegible]
'arbit [illegible]
and t [illegible] Bill [illegible] be, a [illegible] of su [illegible] has o [illegible]
[illegible] to pages, refers to all [illegible] ect has brought to [illegible] are no doubt just [illegible] ission with which he charges the Bill are the following—

' 1 —Its provisions as to the effect of judgments are 'meagre'

' 2 —It does not deal fully enough with the subject of presumptions

"He also suggests slight additions to or enlargements upon four sections of very subordinate importance, which I will not trouble the council by referring to ' The letter from the Madras Government, which describes the Bill as 'far from complete' specifies no omission whatever, except in reference to the subject of presumptions more of which it affirms, should be included ' in a Code aiming at completeness'

' The charge of incompleteness, then comes to this, that the Bill does not deal fully enough with the two subjects of judgments and presumptions I will refer to those points hereafter, but I will first with Your Lordship's permission say a few words on the positive grounds on which I assert that the Bill does form a complete Code, English text writers in the first place, to no Evidence 'arbitrarily c about as much truth, that the speech which I out of the dictionary I use, which is, or even pr extracts from superfi one bo comple

A

This p before his time by Gilbert, Phillips, Starkie and others, and as analogous posi tions are on Pl Bill of b arran arran text-b in M distinction between the relevancy of facts and the proof of facts or any, even the faintest perception of showed in the observations thrown over the whole subje define with precision the words 'fact' and 'evidence' As to the notion that bits of Taylor have been 'arbitrarily' put together in the Bill, I will only say that, at a proper time and place, I would undertake to assign the reason why every section stands where it does Upon the question of completeness, however, I will make this remark I assert that every principle applicable to which is contained in the 1,598 royal contained in the 167 sections of this Bill ; carefully compared, section by section, with the last edition of Mr Norton's work upon evidence, and that it disposes fully of every subject of which Mr Norton treats

"As to the specific instances of incompleteness which are alleged against the Bill two only are of any importance, and upon each of them I will say a few words.

The first is, that the Chapter on judgments is meagre My answer is, that it may appear meagre to those who take their notions of the law of Evidence from works like Mr Taylor's, but that it contains every thing which properly belongs to the subject Its utter absence of arrangement and classification on every subject is the great reproach of the law of England, and one of the strongest instances of it is to be found in the way in which provisions of an essentially different character are frequently comprised under the same head, I might give many illustrations of this; but the law of evidence, I think, supplies more glaring illustrations than any other department of law Many English writers have treated the subject in such a manner as to make it comprise the whole body of the law Thus, for instance, law and rules ab the sort an actio such an action It is obvious that the law of evidence thus include nearly the whole of the substantive law, and it follows, I think that it is of great importance to draw the line distinctly between what properly belongs to the subject and what does not. It is for this reason that the sections about judgments are nected with judgments, omitted from the Bill.
explain it in a few words.

"The second section of the Code of Civil Procedure enacts that —

"The civil Courts shall not take cognizance of any suit brought on a ause of action which shall have been heard and determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction in a former suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they claim'.

"The Code of Criminal Procedure enacts that a man shall not be tried ... or convicted It is a matter of great ... of these provisions, and to ... arise Mr Broughton's ... large pages, in very small ... n the second section of the print of notes of the cases which have been ... number of decisions have been given on ... Criminal Procedure; and it is because ... ns that it is described as meagre My ... of the two Codes in question were ... It ro ... h are ... sanity ... connected with it There are, ... If a man defends ... st as he must ... to sue if he ... it would be as ... sibility as a ... be necessary ... of a previous ... e, in certain judgment on a right to sue as part of the ... cases, it may be necessary to give evidence of the existence of a previous judgment

The only questions connected with judgments, which do appear to me to form part of the Law of Evidence properly so called, are dealt with in sections 40—44 of the Bill. These sections provide for the cases in which the fact that a Court has decided as to a given matter of fact relevant to the issue may be proved for the purpose of showing that that fact exists This, no doubt, is a branch of the Law of Evidence, and the provisions referred to dispose of it fully.

"As to the subject of presumptions, my answer to the critics of the Bill is partly to the same effect, though their criticisms were perhaps better founded I must admit that the Bill as introduced dealt less fully with the subject than was thought desirable on further consideration and some additions to it have accordingly been introduced, though the general principle on which the matter was dealt with is maintained The subject of presumptions is one of some ... It was a favourite enterprise on the part of con... ... which ... f ... e ... s ... e as to the value and import of a particular ... a variety of ways ... were irrebuttable, ... raesumptiones facti ... evidence; so much ... of, a little less was ... way into English ... ate effect, and give ... umptions ... subjects ... onclusive ... essary in ... ished for ... xpressing ... of ... ds ... n- law where they p ... nected, to criminal law to which it properly belongs

'I will not ... though I could ... the remarks o ... says— ...tails of the subject ..., answer specifically ... That Government

'S... ...ances of presumptions, selected from a ...s fills 111 sections It is ... are chosen'

'In general terms the answer is this, large parts of Mr Taylor's chapter relate to topics which have nothing to do with the Law of Evidence Those ... (a few ... ls —1st ... shall be conclusive proof of another, for various obvious reasons—the inference of legitimacy from marriage is a good instance 2ndly—There are several cases in which Courts would be at a loss as to the course which they ought to take under certain circumstances without a distinct rule of guidance After what length ...ad? ...ght ...rent ...den ...pter ...to this chapter, which deserves special notice Its substance was ... ...plied in the original draft of the Bill, but it has been inserted in order to put the matter beyond all possibility of doubt It is in the following words — 114 The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business in their relation to the facts of the particular case.

Illustrations

The Court may presume—

(a) that a man who is in possession of stolen goods soon after the theft is either the thief or has received the goods knowing them to be stolen unless he can account for his possession,

(b) that an accomplice is unworthy of credit unless he is corroborated in mater... ...rsed, was accepted or endorsed ... been shown to be in existence ...ch such things or states of things ...egularly performed ... has been followed in particular cases,

(g) that evidence which could be and is not produced would, if produced, be unfavourable to the person who withholds it,

(h) that if a man refuses to answer a question which he is not compelled to answer by law ... ...ld be unfavourable to him, obli... obligation is in the hands of the ... ard to such facts as the following in considering whether such maxims do or do not apply to the particular case before them

As to ... marked rupee soon after it was ... specifically, but is continually

As to ... character, is tried for causing a m... certain machinery B, a person ... in the arrangement describes precisely what was done and admits and explains the common carelessness of A and himself

As to illustration (b)—A crime is committed by several persons. A B and C, three of the criminals are captured on the spot and kept apart from each other Each gives an account of the crime implicating D, and the accounts corroborate each other in such a manner as to render previous concert highly improbable

As to illustration (c)—A, the drawer of a bill of exchange, was a man of business B, the acceptor, was a young and ignorant person, completely under A's influence

As to illustration (d)—It is proved that a river ran in a certain course five ... there have been floods since that time which

... judicial act the regularity of which is in question, was performed under exceptional circumstances

As to illustration (f)—The question is, whether a letter was received It is shown to have been posted, but the usual course of the post was interrupted by disturbances

As to illustration (g)—A man refuses to produce a document which would ... he is sued, but which might

... er a question which he is not ... matters

... it the

... stolen it

... general repealing clause at ... lear that Courts of Justice are ... of the effect of ... s whatever ... f what in ... effect of ... however, to ... apply, but ... e, whether,

which will be swept away by ... unworthy of credit, unless in strictness of speech the rule that an accomplice is unworthy of credit, unless he is confirmed, can be called a presumption of law, though, according to a ... Barnes Peacock's it has at all events, ... may

... subject ... ion, in ... stances ... though ... borated

... with ... he Bill,

... ject of

"I may observe that many topics closely connected ... dealt with by express law. It would ... the whole subject rests, and the ... hould be used in practice I think, ... present occasion I have however, ... subjects and I propose to therefore ... upon, or introduction to, publish ... use to the Civil Servants the Act ... who are preparing for their Indian career, and to the law students in Indian

Universities The subject is one which reaches far beyond law; for the Law of Evidence is nothing unless it is founded upon a rational conception of the manner in which truth as to all matters of fact whatever ought to be investigated

"I ... the Bill by His Honour the Lieutenant ... be somewhat dissatisfied with the manner ... of relevancy, which, as he says is a question of degree.

"The L... that the law, clearing up the ...

Judges in some degree masters in the ...
His princi...
relevant ...
of degree, ...
It may b... to the issu...
be occupi...
and what ... were, metaphysical If it were allowed to argue the question whether any piece of evidence is, or is not admissible under such rules, the Lieutenant Governor would fear that ... If howev... regarding relevanc... for the guidance ...
can, but that they ...
it, the Lieutenant Governor has no doubt that the rules in the draft are admirably suited to the purpose, and would be extremely useful It does not seem to him very clear in the draft whether or no counsels are to be entitled to take object...

...vancy will be endless

"I cannot altogether agree ...
I do not feel that horror of then ... think, abundantly clear that ... vancy of evidence, and as to the propriety of proof, and I do not see how a law can be laid down at all upon which counsels are never to argue No one, I think, will seriously ass... tration of justic... but if they are to ... subjects. I must, however, observe that every precaution has been taken to prevent ... In the first place, if the Judge wishes to kno... matter ... the me...
a new tr...
in England is the great cause of the enormous intricacy and technicality of English law on this point. If, in the Tichborne case, one single question had been permitted after being objected to, and if the Court had afterwards been of opinion that it had been wrongly permitted, then, however trifling the matter might have been the party whose objection had been wrongly overruled would have been ... expense of the first trial w... will it be ... useful principally as guides to the Judges and the parties, and, in particular ... rules ... relevant matter which ...

...ever, as it may, and taking a view, not indeed less practical, but more immediately and obviously practical, I would make the following observations — I am quite aware that relevancy is, as His Honou...

As to illustration (b)—A crime is committed by several persons A B and n the spot and kept apart from each crime implicating D, and the accounts as to render previous concert highly

As to illustration (c)—A, the drawer of a bill of exchange, was a man of business B the acceptor, was a young and ignorant person, completely under A s influence

As to illustration (d)—It is proved that a river ran in a certain course five years ago, but it is known that there have been floods since that time which might change its course

As to illustration (e)—A judicial act the regularity of which is in question was pr r a letter was received It i shown the post was interrupted by disturbances

As to illustration (g)—A man refuses to produce a document which would bear on a contract of small importance on which he is sued, but which might also injure the feelings and reputation of his family

As to illustration (h) compelled by law to answer unconnected with the matter

As to illustration (i)—A bond is in possession of the obligor but the circumstances of the case are such that he may have stolen it

'The effect of this provision coupled with the general repealing clause at the beginning of the Bill is to make it perfectly clear that Courts of Justice are to use their own common sense and experience in judging of the effect of particular facts and that they are to be subject to no technical rules whatever cases of what in to the effect of bject, however to or to apply, but quite sure whether of credit unless ugh, according to a l events some of the most important cha the indefinite position in and frequent failure of ju is not illegal because it proceeds on the uncorroborated evidence of an plice, on the other hand, it seems to be also law that in cases tried by a jury onvict on such ge (sitting High Court
mself that ems to me

it may not be corroborated or although the evidence by wh is itself suspicious

As I have already observed, I do not wish to trouble the Council with technicalities but I hope this explanation will show that this part of the Bill at all events, is not incomplete

'I may observe that many topics closely connected with the subject of dealt with by express law It would whole subject rests and the ld be used in practice I think the present occasion I have n these subjects and I propose to entary upon, or introduction to some use to the Civil Servants who are preparing for their Indian career and to the law students in Indian

Universities The subject is one which reaches far beyond law; for the Law of Evidence is nothing unless it is founded upon a rational conception of the manner in which truth as to all matters of fact whatever ought to be investigated

"... His Honour the Lieutenant ... not dissatisfied with the manner ... relevancy, which, as he says is a question of degree.

"The Lieutenant Governor ... that the law, clearing up the ... protecting our Courts from the ... applicable to and rendering the Judges in some degree masters in their own Courts, will be highly beneficial His ...

rele...
of d...
It r...
to th...
be ...
and ...
were ...
of evidence is, or is not admissible under such rules, the Lieutenant Governor would ... If however the rules reg... for ...
can ...
it, ...
mir...
seer...
take ... as to whether ...

think, abundantly clear that counsel will be permitted to argue as to the relevancy of evidence, and as to the propriety of proof, and I do not see how a law can be laid down at all upon which counsels are never to argue No one, I think, will seriously ... tration of j... but if they a... subjects. I ... prevent ... In the first place, if the Judge wishes ... which is under debate, he can cut the ... under section 165 In the second place, ... improper evidence is not to be a ground for ... a new ... opposite is the rule in En... and technicality of Engl... single question had been ... afterwards been of opinion ... trifling the matter might ... have ...
first tr...
will it ... use ... the Judges and the ... which ...

I am quite aware that relevancy is, as ... degree and for that reason the Bill gives definitions of it so wide and various, that I think they will b assignable connec relevancy are, inde many conditions

most facts which have any real connection with the matter to be proved would fulfil several of them Take, for instance, this fact—A man is charged with theft, and it is proved that he was seen running away immediately after the theft with the stolen goods in his hand This is (1) a fact so connected with a fact in issue as to form part of the same transaction, and is therefore relevant under section 6, (2) it is the effect of a fact in issue, and is therefore relevant under section 7, (3) it is the conduct of a party to the proceeding subsequent to a fact in issue, and is so relevant under section 8; (4) it is a fact which in itself renders a fact in issue highly probable, and is therefore relevant under section 11 This fact, therefore, is relevant under no less than four sections, each of which would admit a great number of facts which would not be admitted by the other sections Indeed, the latitude of the definition of relevancy will be best appreciated by negativing the conditions which the Act imposes Suppose that you are able to assert of a fact that it is neither itself in issue, nor forms part of the same transaction, nor is its occasion, cause or effect, immediate or otherwise, that it shows no motive or preparation for it, that it is no part of the previous or subsequent conduct of any person connected with the matter in question, that it does not explain or introduce any fact which is so connected with the or establis of any e relevant f with othe
negatives can be affirmed I think we may say, without much risk of error, that the one fact has nothing to do with the other, and may be regarded as irrelevant

1 'I now come to a matter which has excited a good deal of discussion, though it relates to a subordinate and not very important part of the Bill—that which concerns the examination of witnesses by counsel The Bill as originally drawn provided, in substance, that no person should be asked a question which reflected on his character, as to matters irrelevant to the case before the Court without written instructions, that if the Court considered the question improper, it might require the production of the instructions; and that the giving of such instruction should be an act of defamation, subject of course, to the various rules about defamation laid down in the Penal Code To ask such questions without instructions was to be a contempt of Court in the person asking them but was not to be defamation

produced
y most ome of pointed ict ons e Bar
were e most justice ises of ers of mittee and myself amongst the rest, that the sections proposed would be inexpedient, and others have accordingly been substituted for them which I think will in practice be found sufficient The substituted sections are as follows —

Questions lawful in cross examination

146 When a witness is cross examined, he may, in addition to the questions hereinbefore referred to be asked any questions which tend—

(1) to test his veracity,

(2) to discover who he is and what is his position in life, or

(3) to shake his credit, by injuring his character, although the answer to such questions might tend directly or indirectly to criminate him or might expose or tend directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture

When witness to be compelled to answer

147 If any such question relates to a matter relevant to the suit or proceeding, the provisions of section 132 shall apply thereto

Court to decide when question shall be asked and when witness compelled to answer.

148 If any such question relates to a matter not relevant to the suit or proceeding except in so far as it affects the credit of the witness by injuring his character the Court shall decide whether or not the witness shall be compelled to answer it, and may if it thinks fit warn the witness that he is not obliged to answer it In exercising its discretion, the Court shall have regard to the following considerations —

(1) such questions are proper if they are of such a nature that the truth of the imputation conveyed by them would seriously affect the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies

(2) such questions are improper if the imputation which they convey

(3) such questions are improper if there is a great disproportion between the importance of the imputation made against the witness's character and the importance of his evidence

(4) the Court may, if it sees fit, draw, from the witness's refusal to answer, the inference that the answer if given would be unfavourable

Question not to be asked without reasonable grounds

149 No such question as is referred to in section 148 ought to be asked, unless the person asking it has reasonable grounds for thinking that the imputation which it conveys is well founded

Illustrations.

(a) A barrister is instructed by an attorney or vakil that an important witness is a dakait This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dakait rt that an important witness the pleader, gives satisfactory ound for asking the witness whether he is a dakait

whetl

to hi
may

Procedure of Court in case of question being asked without reasonable grounds

150 If the Court is of opinion that any such question was asked by any reasonable grounds it may, if it was asked by any

Indecent and scandalous questions

151 The Court may forbid an as indecent or inquiries may before the Court, unless they or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed and for that reason the Bill gives definitions of it so wide and various, that I think they will be found to include every sort of fact which has any di t nct assignable connection with any matter in issue The sections which define relevancy are, indeed enabling sections Any fact which fulfils any one of the many conditions which they declare to constitute relevancy will be relevant and most facts which have any real connection with the matter to be proved would fulfil several of them Take, for instance, this fact—A man is charged with theft, and it is proved that he was seen running away immediately after the theft with the stolen goods in his hand This is (1) a fact so connected with afact other sections Indeed, the latitude of the definition of relevancy will be best appreciated by negativing the conditions which the Act imposes Suppose that you are able to assert of a fact that it is neither itself in issue, nor forms part of the same transaction, nor is its occasion, cause or effect, immediate or otherwise, that it shows no motive or preparation for it, that it is no part of the negatives can be affirmed I think we may say, without much risk of error, that the one fact has nothing to do with the other, and may be regarded as irrelevant

it might require the production of the instructions; and that the giving of such instruction should be an act of defamation, subject of course, to the various rules about defamation laid down in the Penal Code To ask such questions without instructions was to be a contempt of Court in the person asking them, but was not to be defamation the worst kind, that it is of the greatest importance that the characters of witnesses should be open to full inquiry These reasons satisfied the committee, and myself amongst the rest, that the sections proposed would be inexpedient, and others have accordingly been substituted for them which I think will in practice be found sufficient The substituted sections are as follows —

Questions lawful in cross examination

146 When a witness is cross examined, he may, in addition to the questions hereinbefore referred to be asked any questions which tend—

(1) to test his veracity,

(2) to discover who he is and what is his position in life, or

(3) to shake his credit by injuring his character, although the answer to such questions might tend directly or indirectly to criminate him or might expose or tend directly or indirectly to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture

When witness to be compelled to answer

147. If any such question relates to a matter relevant to the suit or proceeding, the provisions of section 132 shall apply thereto

Court to decide when question shall be asked and when witness compelled to answer

148. If any such question relates to a matter not relevant to the suit or proceeding except in so far as it affects the credit of the witness by injuring his character, the Court shall decide whether or not the witness shall be compelled to answer it, and may, if it thinks fit, warn the witness that he is not obliged to answer it. In exercising its discretion, the Court shall have regard to the following considerations:—

(1) such questions are proper if they are of such a nature that the truth of the imputation conveyed by them would seriously affect the opinion of the Court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies

(2) such questions are improper if the imputation which they convey re ... tri ... de ... on the matter to which he testifies

(3) such questions are improper if there is a great disproportion between the importance of the imputation made against the witness's character and the importance of his evidence

(4) the Court may, if it sees fit, draw, from the witness's refusal to answer, the inference that the answer if given would be unfavourable.

Question not to be asked without reasonable grounds

149 ... 148 ought ... has reason ... tion which it conveys is well founded

Illustrations

(a) A barrister is instructed by an attorney or vakil that an important witness is a dakait. This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dakait

(b) A pleader is informed by a person in Court that an important witness is a dakait, the informant, on being questioned by the pleader, gives satisfactory reasons for his statement. This is a reasonable ground for asking the witness whether he is a dakait

(c) A witness of whom nothing whatever is known, is asked at random whet ... as ... is ... to hi ... may ... it

Procedure in case of question being asked without reasonable grounds

150 ... was asked by any ... y, report the circum- ... other authority ... or attorney is ... which it regards

Indecent and scandalous questions

151. The Court may forbid any questions or inquiries which it regards as indecent or scandalous although such questions or inquiries may have some bearing on the questions before the Court, unless they relate to facts in issue, or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed

152 The Court shall forbid any question which appears to it to be intended to insult or annoy, or which, although proper in itself, appears to the Court needlessly offensive in form

Questions intended to insult or annoy

— . . . n to lay down, in the most distinct manner, ... ing witnesses with a view to shaking ... I trust that this explicit statement of the principles according to which such questions ought or ought not to be asked will be found sufficient to prevent the growth in this country, of that which in England has o ... I think that the sections so far as their ... that they will be admitted to ... ie public I can ... remarks on the memorials which the sections ... th from the Bar in various parts of the country ... have made any further remarks on the Bill ... amended form about a month ago I sup ... have removed the main objection which ... those parts of their memorials which ... from the sections which have been giv ...

part proper, though it cont ... een omitted The memorial of the Bombay Barristers contains similar passages, expressed more fully and less temperately, and I shall accordingly confine myself to noticing such of their remarks as appear to me to deserve notice

... general, that I have read in the news ... an only mean that I individually ... the Bar, indeed, the Bombay ... (meaning ... profession ... ment they ... ds from the report of the Select Committee —

'The English system, under which the Bench and the Bar act together and play their respective parts independently and the professional organization on which it rests does not as yet exist in this country, and will not for a very long course of time be introduced"

'Before I made the remarks which this suggests let me ask your Lordship and the Council whether a charge that I, of all people wish for the extinction of the profession of Barristers at law in India, is not upon the face of it absurd? I am myself a Barrister of eighteen years' standing and a Queen's council of four years' standing I believe that there is no Barrister in British India of whom I should not be entitled to take precedence, professionally, if I chose to practising here, and so strong is my connection with my profession, that I am at this moment on the point of resigning one of the most responsible offices which a Barrister can hold for the purpose of returning to the ordinary routine of professional practice How is it possible to imagine ... on? When this Bill ... power to ... good name ... led as an ... have been appropriate remedy for a great and crying evil— ... much impressed by my own observations in England and which is likely to extend in India as the habit of cross examination becomes more general and when the rights which a cross examining advocate has are explicitly defined The remedy, I will admit, was to some extent inappropriate, but for merely proposing it, for merely recognizing the existence of the evil against which it was directed I am charged with wishing to extinguish my own profession

... which I am fully ... tand how the memo- ... they could never ... system, under which the Bench and the Bar act together and play their respective parts independently, and the professional organization on which it rests, does not as yet exist in this country and will not for a very long course of time be introduced'

"Yes', say the memorialists, it does exist, to wit in the Presidency towns' This is as much as if the water works of Calcutta were referred to, to contradict a statement that India is wretchedly supplied with drinking water I make a statement about an Empire as large as Europe without Russia, and am told that it is incorrect, because there are three English Courts, and three knots of, perhaps, a dozen or so English Barristers, to be found at towns which are in the nature of English settlements The reason why the statement complained of was not qualified by excepting these towns and Courts was simply that the exception was not important enough to be stated It would, indeed, have been matter of great indifference to me personally, whether the Bill extended to the High Courts sitting on the original side or not It is a mistake to make exceptions without a necessity for them, but the question, what rules of evidence should apply in the Presidency towns is one of very little real importance The great and vital importance of the matter lies in the effect which it will have on the administration of justice throughout the country at large It is framed in order to meet the wants, and lighten the labours, of district officers, by giving them a short and clear view of a subject which has been converted into a sort of professional mystery the knowledge of which was confined to a knot of persons specially initiated in it Now, as regards the Mofussil, I repeat the expressions complained of. I assert that they are absolutely true and state a fact notorious to every one I say that, throughout India generally nothing like the English system under which the Bench and Bar act together and play their respective parts independently, does now exist, or can for a length of time be expected to exist Let me just recall for a moment the nature of that system In the first place the Bench and the Bar in England form substantially one body The Judges have all been Barristers, and the great prize to which the Barristers look forward is to become Judges

"That is not the case in India nor anything like it The great mass of Indian Judges are not, and never have been, lawyers at all, the great mass of Indian lawyers have no chance or expectation of becoming Judges, and many of them have no wish to do so [illegible] the whole organization of the profession differs fro[illegible] I do not think it necessary to refer to [illegible] I may, however, observe that the position of an English Barrister who practises in the Mofussil, whether he is habitually resident in the Presidency town or not, is alt[illegible] practice in [illegible] Sessions, [illegible] rules which do not, and can not apply to practice in the Mofussil in this country He acts under the eyes of a public which takes great interest in his proceedings, and p[illegible] He practises in important cases before Judges [illegible] al superiors, and to wh[illegible] ks applies to Ba[illegible] sults of this sta[illegible] impossible to discuss the su[illegible] lists consider it eminently satis[illegible] se, is formed upon grour[illegible] f little importance, I sha[illegible]

[illegible] to the case of pleaders and [illegible] ppeal to every one [illegible] s referred to are not str[illegible] provision founded upon it there—the p[illegible] uestions it pleases—is not e[illegible] g that the Bench and the B[illegible] ntly, what I mean is that, in England cases are fully prepared for trial before they come into Court so that the Judge has nothing to do but to sit still and weigh the evidence produced before him In India in an enormous mass of cases, this neither is nor can be so It is absolutely necessary that the Judge should not only hear what is put before him by others, but that he should ascertain by his own inquiries how the facts actually stand In order to do this it will frequently be necessary for him to go into matters which are not themselves relevant to the matter in issue but may lead to something that is, and it is in order to arm Judges with express authority to do this that section 165 which has been so much objected to, has beed framed

'I have now referred to the main points in the Bill which have been attacked, and as I fully explain the principles on which it was founded more than a year ago, I have only to move that it may be taken into consideration

The motion was put and agreed to

H S CUNNINGHAM
Offg Secy to the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations

CALCUTTA
The 12th March, 1872

APPENDIX C

Act II of 1855

An Act for the further improvement of the Law of Evidence

Preamble

Whereas it is expedient further to improve the Law of Evidence, It is enacted as follows

Act repealed

I Act No X of 1835 is hereby repealed

Judicial notice to be taken of all Acts and Regulations

II Within the territories in the possession and under the Government of the East India Company, all Courts of Justice, and all persons having by law or consent of parties authority to take evidence shall take judicial notice of all Regulations and Ordinances, made before or on the 22nd day of April 1834 by the Governor General in Council of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal by the Governor in Council of the Presidency of Fort St George or by the Governor in Council of the Presidency of Bombay and having the and regulations and of this Act be made by the purpose of making Laws and Regulations whether the same be of a public or of a private nature

Judicial notice to be taken of public Act of Parliament What shall be prima facie proof of a private Act

III All Courts and persons aforesaid shall take judicial notice of all public Acts of Parliament and of all local and personal Acts declared by Parliament to be public and to be judicially noticed and shall admit as prima facie evidence of any private Act of Parliament any copy thereof purporting to be printed by the King's Printer

Judicial notice to be taken by Court of its own officers etc

IV Every Court shall take judicial notice of its own members and officers respectively, and of their deputies and subordinate officers or Assistants, and also of all officers acting in execution of its process and of all Advocates Attorneys Proctors, Vakeels, Pleaders, and other persons authorized by Law to act before it.

Judicial notice to be taken of the names, titles, etc, of certain persons

V All Courts and persons aforesaid shall take judicial notice of the names, titles and authorities of the persons filling for the time being any one of the following offices in any

Bishop Member of Cou

Courts or of any Sudder Court or of any Court of Judicature hereafter to be constituted in the said territories to or in which the powers of any of Her Majesty's Supreme Courts may be transferred or vested

VI Any such Courts and persons aforesaid shall take judicial notices of all divisions of time of the geographical divisions of the world, of the territories under the dominions of the British Crown of the commencement continuation, and termination of hostilities between the British Crown, and any other state and also of the existence title and national flag of every sovereign or state recognised by the British Crown In all the above cases, such Court or person may resort for its aid to appropriate books or documents of reference

Judicial notice to be taken of divisions of time, place, etc

VII Any Government Gazette of any country, colony, or dependency under the domain of the British Crown, may be proved by the bare productions thereof before any of the Courts or persons aforesaid

Proof of Government Gazette

VIII All proclamations, Acts of state, whether Legislative or Executive, nominations, appointments, and other official communications of the Government appearing in any such Gazette, may be proved by the production of such Gazette, and shall be prima facie proof of any fact of a public nature which they were intended to notify

Proof of Proclamations Acts, state, etc Proclamations, etc when to be prima facie proof of fact

IX. Any recital contained in any Act of the Governor General of India in council, constituted for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, hereafter to be passed, of any fact of a public nature, shall be deemed, before all such Courts and persons, to be prima facie evidence of the truth of the fact recited

Recital in Act of a public nature to be prima facie proof

X The Gazette or Newspaper containing any advertisement purporting to be published by virtue of any public Statute, Act, Regulation, or Ordinance or of any Rule or order of a Court of Justice or of any Board or Office of Revenue, may be received by any such Courts or persons as aforesaid as prima facie evidence that such advertisement was published duly under the authority from which it purports to proceed

Gazette, etc, containing advertisement purporting to be published by authority to be prima facie evidence of such authority

XI All C[illegible] may on matters of public history, [illegible] r the purposes of [illegible] maps or charts, as [illegible] to be of authority

Books, ma[illegible] be evidence[illegible] of public hi[illegible]

XII Books printed or published under the authority of the Government of a foreign country, and purporting to contain the Statutes, Code, or other written Law of such country, and also printed and published books or reports of decisions of the Courts of such country, and books proved to be commonly admitted in such Courts as evidence of the law of such country, shall be admissible before any such Courts or persons as aforesaid as evidence of the law of such foreign country

What books, etc shall be evidence of Foreign Law

XIII All maps made under the authority of Government or of any public municipal body and not made for the purpose of any litigated question, shall prima facie be deemed to be correct, and shall be admitted in evidence without further proof

Government or public maps when to be prima facie proof,

XIV The following persons only shall be incompetent to testify —

Person incompetent to testify

1 Children under seven years of age who appear incapable of receiving just impressions of the facts respecting which they are examined, or of relating them truly

Children

Insane persons not to be summoned without leave or Court

2 Persons of unsound mind who at the time of their examination, appear incapable of receiving just impressions of the facts respecting which they are examined, or of relating them truly, and no person who is known to be of unsound mind, shall be liable to be summoned as a witness without the consent previously obtained, of the Court or person before whom his attendance is required

Children and persons of defective religious belief to testify on simple affirmation

XV Any person who by reason of immature age or want of religious belief, or who by reason of defect of religious belief ought not, in the opinion of such Court or person to be admitted to give evidence on oath or solemn affirmation shall be admitted to give evidence on a simple affirmation, declaring that he will speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth

Provisions as to witness to apply to affidavits etc

XVI Th… section … iven by … stimony orally delivered Punishment for giving false evidence

XVII Any such witness wilfully giving false evidence shall be subject to be proceeded against in like manner, and to suffer if convicted the same punishment as if he had been sworn and had committed wilful and corrupt perjury The indictment or charge shall be varied so as to meet the case

No incompetency from interest in suit

XVIII No person shall, by reason of any interest in the result of any suit or of any interest connected therewith, or by reason of relationship to any of the parties thereto, be incompetent to give evidence in such suit

Party to suit may be examined as a witness

XIX Any party to a civil suit or other proceeding of a civil nature shall be competent, and may be compelled, to give evidence as a witness therein, either on his own behalf or on behalf of any other party to the suit or proceeding and also to produce any … nner as if he were not a part… or … eme

Proviso

… of … ose of giving evidence ther… in that behalf in Act XIX of 1853

Husband or wife giving evidence

XX A husband or wife shall in every civil proceeding be competent to give evidence for or against each other Provided that any communication made by husband or wife to the other during their marriage shall be deemed a privileged communication, and shall not be disclosed without the consent of the person making the same, unless such communication shall relate to a matter in dispute in a suit pending between such husband and wife

Proviso

Witness, etc., not bound to produce document relating to state affairs

XXI A witness wheth… any … of wh… docur… woul… possession

Party to suit not bound to produce certain documents

XXII A witness being a party to the suit shall not be bound to produce any document in his possession or power which is not relev… or … f the party requiring … spon … legal professional adviser If a … all be … or correspondence … f relevant or material … its production

Unless he offer himself as a witness

Witness summoned to produce a document must bring it into Court

XXIII. Every witness summoned to produce a document shall, if the same be in his custody possession or power, be bound to bring it, or cause it to be brought into Court although there be a valid objection to the right of the party calling for it to compel its production, or to the reading or putting it in as evidence or to the disclosure of the contents thereof

Mode of determining objection to production

The validity of any such objection made by the person producing the document shall be determined by the Court, and for the better determination thereof, it shall be lawful for the Court to receive any admissible evidence which the person producing the document may give respecting it, and it shall also be lawful for the Court except in the case of any document relating to the affairs of state to inspect the document, and if necessary to call to its assistance any person whom it may appoint to interpret the same Such person however shall be previously sworn truly to interpret the same to the Court alone, and not to disclose the contents thereof except to the Court, unless the Court shall order the document to be given in evidence

Documents relating to affairs of state

Professional communications,

XXIV A Barrister, Attorney, or Vakeel shall not without the consent of his client, disclose any communication made by the client to him in the course of his professional employ- ... professionally to his client, nor ... of which he shall hav... The privilege, ho... shall give evidence the... waived his privilege ... Attorney, or Vakeel, of ... which the Barrister, A... ut for the privilege of ... be bound upon examin...

Person present in Court to give evidence, etc, though not summoned

XXV Any person present in Court whether a party or not may be called upon and compelled by the Court to give evidence and produce any document then and there in his ... document, and may be ... order of the Court

Person summoned to produce a document not bound to attend personally

XXVI Any person whether a party to the suit, or not, may be summoned to produce a document without being summoned to give evidence, and any person summoned merely to produce a document, shall be deemed to have complied with the summons if he cause such document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

Rules of evidence in Supreme Courts on Ecclesiastical sides and Admiralty

XXVII The rules of evidence in Her Majesty's supreme Courts as to matters of Ecclesiastical or Admiralty civil jurisdiction, shall be the same as they are on the Plea side of the Courts

Evidence of one witness sufficient proof Proviso

XXVIII Except in ... evidence of one witness, wh... be sufficient for pro... before any such per... ot affect any rule of practice of any Court that requires corroborative evidence in support of the testimony of an accomplice or of a single witness in the case of perjury

Dying declarations when admissible

XXIX Where dying declarations are evidence, they shall be received, if it be proved that the deceased was, at the time of making the declaration and then thought himself to be, in danger of approaching death, though he entertained at the time of making it hope of recovery.

Party allowed to cross-examine and discredit his own witness

XXX. The party at whose instance a witness is examined may with the permission of such Court or person, cross examine such witness to test his veracity, in the same manner as if he had not been called at his instance, and may be allowed to show that the witness has varied from a previous statement made by him

Former statement admitted to corroborate a witness.

XXXI In order to corroborate the testimony of a witness, any former statement made by such witness relating to the same fact, at or about the time when the fact took place, or before any authority legally competent to investigate the fact, shall be admissible, and for that purpose a copy of any deposition or statement taken before any Court, Judge, Justice of the Peace, Magistrate, or person lawfully exercising the powers of a Magistrate or before a Commissioner or Superintendent for the suppression of Thuggee or Dacoity, in the discharge of his duty, shall, if certified by such Court, Judge or other officer above mentioned, under his hand or the official seal of the Court or under the hand or official Seal of such Judge, to be a true copy of such deposition or statement without further proof, be received as prima facie evidence that such deposition or statement was made, and that it was made at the time and place, and under the circumstances, if any, which shall be stated in the certificate or on the face of deposition or statement

Witness bound to answer criminating question

XXXII A witness shall not be excused from answering any question relevant to the matter as issue in any suit, or in any Civil or Criminal proceeding, upon the ground that the answer to such question will criminate, or may tend, [illegible] witness, or that it will expose, or [illegible] penalty or forfeiture of [illegible] [illegible]ess shall [illegible] [illegible]rpose of punishing such person for [illegible] false evidence upon such examination, subject him to any arrest or prosecution, or be used as evidence against such witness in any criminal proceeding

Proviso

Witness may be examined as to conviction for felony

XXXIII A witness in any cause may be questioned as to whether he has been convicted of any felony or misdemeanour, and upon being so questioned, if he either denies the fact or refuses to answer, it shall be lawful for the opposite party to prove such conviction

Cross examination as to previous written s[illegible]

XXXIV A witness may be cross examined as to previous statements made by him in writing, or reduced into writing, relative to the subject matter of the cause, without such being shown to him but if it is intended to contradict [illegible] attention must before [illegible] of the writing [illegible]vided always, [illegible] rial, to require [illegible] ction, and be [illegible] se of it for the purposes of the trial as he shall think fit

Proviso

Copy of a document made by a copying machine to be deemed correct XXXV. An impression of a document made by a copying machine shall be taken without further proof to be a correct copy.

XXXVI

Admission of se[illegible] ary evidence whe[illegible] ginal document i[illegible] of the reach of pr[illegible]

[illegible] of the reach of the process [illegible] rt, on appli[illegible] and on notice [illegible] e before the [illegible] of secondary

When attested document may be proved as if unattested.

XXXVII An attested document may be proved as if unattested unless it be a document to the validity of which attestation is requisite

Admission prima facie proof of an attested document

XXXVIII The admission of a party to unattested instrument of its execution by himself shall be as against him sufficient prima facie proof of such execution of it, though it be an instrument which is required by law to be attested

Entry made against interest, or in course of business when admissible in life time of person making it

XXXIX An entry or statement which would be admissible in evidence after the death of the person who made it, on the ground of its having been made against the interest of the person making it, or on the ground of its having been made in the ordinary course of business, shall be admissible, though the person who made it be not dead, if he is incapable of giving evidence by reason of his [illegible] time of the trial or hearing [illegible] process of the Court, and [illegible]

Entry in course of business when admissible for purpose of identification

XL Any entry in any books proved to have been regularly kept in the course of business or in any public office, so far as such entry merely refers to and tends to identify by name, description, number, or otherwise, any bank-notes or other securities for the payment of money, or other property and the payer in or receiver of them, shall, in any case where such identification is necessary to be proved, be admissible in evidence for [illegible] limited purpose if it shall appear to have been made at or about the [illegible] of the transaction to which it relates, though the person who made it, or [illegible] on whose information it was made, is alive and capable of being produced as a witness

Receipt when evidence against person other than the giver

XLI. Any receipt in writing, acknowledging the receipt of any money, valuable securities of goods, shall, on proof of the execution thereof, be admissible in evidence before such Court or person aforesaid, not only against the party giving it, but also against any person in whose favour such receipt would operate as a discharge, or to whom it would render the person giving it, liable for the money, security, or goods acknowledged to have been received

Receipt of Agent

XLII Whenever [illegible] would be admissible under the preceding section [illegible] agent or [illegible] be evi- [illegible] receipt

Books kept in the course of business or in a public office admissible as corroborative evidence

XLIII Books proved to have been regularly kept in the course of business or in any public office, shall be admissible as corroborative but not as independent proof of the facts stated therein

XLI[illegible]

Documer[illegible] ble as c[illegible] evidence [illegible] be proved [illegible]

Refreshing [illegible]

XLV A [illegible] ting made by [illegible] time when the [illegible] or at any time of [illegible] wh[illegible]

C. stated in the writing In such case the writing shall be produced and may be given by the adverse party, who may if he choose, cross examine the witness upon it

Court may permit a copy of document to be used to refresh memory

XLVI Whenever a witness may refresh his memory by reference to any document, he may with the permission of the Court, refer to a copy o[illegible] person, under th[illegible] is sufficient rea[illegible] original

Declarations of illegitimate persons etc, admissible in questions of pedigree

XLVII In case of pedigree, the declarations of illegitimate members of the family, and also of persons, who, though not related by blood or marriage to the family, were intimately acquainted with its members and state, shall be admissible in evidence after the death of the declarant, in the same manner and to the same extent as those of deceased members of the family

Comparison of handwriting, etc.

XLVIII On an enquir[illegible] any [illegible] whose [illegible] comp[illegible] writing or seal be an instrume[illegible]

Proof of Power of Attorney

XLIX Any power of attorney, which has been executed at a place distant more than one hundred miles from the place wherein an action, suit or proceeding is depending may be proved by the production of it, without further proof where it purports, on the face of it, to have been executed before and authenticated by a Notary Public, or any Court, Judge, Consul or Magistrate

Proof of despatch of letter by Letter Book

L Whenever it is proved that a Letter Book is kept, and that according to the usual course of business, letters are copied into book and despatched, and the letter book is produced, and it is proved that the letter was despatched according to th[illegible] of the witness, having [illegible] ay presume the despat[illegible]

What to be prima facie proof of receipt of letter

LI Any book pr[illegible] usual course of business, be prima facie evidence of the receipt of such letter

Repeal of part of section VI of Act XV of 1852

LII So much of section VI of Act XV of 1852 as provides that any such application as therein mentioned shall be made before issue joined in any such action, or twenty one days before the trial or hearing of any other legal proceeding as therein mentioned, is hereby repealed

Extension of section XVI of Act V of 1854

LIII The provision contained in the 16th section of Act VI of 1854 that affidavits of particular witness or affidavits as to particular facts or circumstances, may, by consent of the parties, or by leave of the Court obtained upon notice, [illegible] Court [illegible] ourts [illegible] upon [illegible] eding [illegible] upon [illegible] of its [illegible] oral [illegible] may [illegible] and may

LV. The 33rd section of Act No VI of 1854 which applies only to proof of accounts on the Equity side of the said Supreme Courts shall extend to and embrace all accounts directed to be taken on any side of the said Court

Section XXXIII of Act VI of 18 extended

LVI Whenever by any Statute or Act, Regulation or Ordinance now in force, or any Statute or Act to be hereafter in force, any certificate, certified copy, or other document, shall be receivable in evidence of any particular in any Court of Justice, the same if it is substantially in form and purports to be executed in the manner directed by the Statute, Act, Regulation, or Ordinance which makes it evidence shall be prima facie evidence, where it is rendered admissible without proof of any stamp signature character, or authority, which it is directed to have, or from which it is directed to proceed.

Proof of official documents

LVII The improper admission or rejection of evidence shall not be ground of itself for a new trial or reversal of any decision in any case ... which such obj... the evidence obj... cient evidence to justify the decision, or the... received, it ought not to have varied the decision.

No new trial for rejection or improper reception of evidence

LVIII Nothing in this Act contained shall be so construed as to render inadmissible in any Court any evidence which but for the passing of the Act, would have been admissible in such Court.

Act not rendered inadmissible now admitted in the Company's Courts

---

APPENDIX D.

LIABILITY TO DAMAGES FOR REFUSING TO GIVE EVIDENCE

The following section appears alike in Act XIX of 1853 applying to Bengal, and in Act X of 1855 applying to Madras and Bombay.

Act XIX of 1853, Section 26.

26 Any person, whether a party to the suit or not, to whom a summons to attend and give evidence or produce a document, shall be personally delivered, and who shall, without lawful excuse, neglect or refuse to obey such summons, or who shall be proved to have absconded, or kept out of the way to avoid ... served with such summons and any person who, being produc... give e... sion, sh... at whc... shall be required to give evidence or ... which he may sustain in consequence of such neglect, or refusal, or of such absconding, or keeping out of the way as aforesaid, to be recovered in a civil action

Liability to damages for refusing to give evidence.

APPENDIX E.

AMENDING ACTS

Act XVIII of 1872

OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The primary object of this Bill is to continue certain rules which it is believed have been inadvertently repealed by the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

E. At the some time opportunity is taken to correct some clerical and other accidental errors to which attention has been drawn

"Section 32 clause (5) renders admissible certain statements as to the existence of relationship' As there are many relations other than those intended by the Act the Bill makes the clause precise by adding the words 'by blood marriage or adoption'

"In sections 41 and 45, some words which should have been repeated have

The same thing

92 to clear

or notice of the 'rules of the road' It must have been intended to include the rules of navigation The Bill therefore adds the words 'on land or at sea'

"Section 66 contains rules as to notice to produce documents It only mentions notice to the party in whose possession or power a document is To mofussil the Bill inserts the words

Wills under the Indian Succession Act may be proved by the probate But other Wills are admitted to probate, and the same mode of proof is made applicable to all such, as doubtless was intended

"Of sections 107 and 108, the latter was clearly intended to be a qualification of the former The language is altered to produce this effect

"Section 126 relates to professional communications and provides that when made "in furtherance of any criminal purpose they shall not be protected from disclosure As every fraud though illegal is not 'criminal' the Bill er word for the latter, thus the same principle for the t of a witness may be impeached by proof that he has had the offer of a bribe' The Bill, for obvious reasons, for 'had' substitutes accepted' In India still more than in England the mere offer of a bribe if unaccepted, should not prejudice the character of the person to whom it is made

"Act XV of 1852, section 12 provides that Her Majesty's Courts and Judges and all officers, Commissioners, Arbitrators etc, authorised to receive evidence with respect to proceedings, in such Courts may administer oaths to witnesses The Evidence Act repeals this section and puts nothing in its place (VI of 1872) or any npower those C ners to examine 12"

12th August 1872

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

"The Hon'ble Mr Hobhouse also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 He said that in considering the Bill the committee had proceeded on the principle that under the circumstances it was no part of their duty to alter any part of the Act on the score of principle but only to effect such alterations as they believed the draftsman would have made if his attention had been called to them The principal reason for passing the present Bill into law before the 1st September was this —

Act I of 1872 repealed in toto a prior Act, XV of 1852, and one of the sections of that Act was as follows —

XII All Her Majesty's Courts within the British territories under the Government of the East India Company, and every Judge and Justice of such Courts and every officer, Commissioner, Arbitrator or other person now or hereafter having by law or by consent of parties, authority to hear receive and examine evidence, with respect to or concerning any suit action, or other proceeding in any of such Courts, is hereby empowered to administer an oath to all such witnesses as are legally called before them respectively

Now, that was a positive enactment in the clearest possible terms, purporting to confer upon certain tribunals and officers power to administer oaths. Prima facie if that power were removed from the Statute Book, and nothing put in its place, it would cease to exist. The question then was whether the power could be derived from any other quarter. For the purpose of determining this question it had been necessary to read five Acts of Parliament and ten charters, and to read some of these documents very carefully, since they were framed on the most perplexing of all principles, the principle of declaring void all previous inconsistent provisions. So that you had to read through the whole document to see what was and what was not inconsistent. The result was that the power of administering an oath would remain with the High Courts, but would not remain therein mentioned. It was, therefore in as clear and extensive an authority as simplest way of doing that in the present emergency was by continuing the existence of that section. When the time came for dealing with the matter finally, the proper place for it would be found in an Act relating to the subject of oaths and affirmations, rather than in one relating to the general subject of evidence.

'Previously to this year, the incapacity to administer an oath would have vitiated many legal proceedings. But in the present year, an Act (No VI of 1872) was passed, which had two objects—one was to respect and bind the conscience of witnesses, and the other, to prevent the entire vitiation of legal proceedings by omissions and irregularities in the administration of oaths. The first object had nothing to do with the present question. An oath was an oath, whatever might be the form of it, and the person who administered it must be duly qu

the misc

an oath person f

upon being ... would deal with the case. Certainly, many a Co made by have, by ex go on with of perjury to the giving of false testimony under such circumstances. On this point Sections 178 and 179 of the Penal Code showed the importance attached to the legal adm ... For the foregoing reasons ... of judicial proceeding ... ber, on which day Act I of 1872 was to come into force, whereas no possible ... jury would be done by continuing the section in question the only suggestion against its h

...ts they would not be remarked upon in ...lves and were intended to cover obvious ...printing or of drafting. We had now received several criticisms on Act I of 1872, and there was little doubt that, after it had been tested in actual practice it would, like most laws of great magnitude and difficulty and especially those passed on subjects new to legislation, require amendment in several particulars.'

29th August 1872

Act III of 1887

OBJECTS AND REASONS.

'The object of this Bill is to prevent officers of any department concerned with any branch of the public revenue from being compelled to say whence ... of any offence. In England information as to frauds on the revenue (See Russel on Crimes, 5th Ed Vol III, p 553);

The law on the subject is further stated in Bell's Laws of Excise as follows — It is a rule of evidence applicable to criminal cases and the same rule has always been held to apply to penal informations at the suit of the Revenue, that a witness is not permitted to disclose privileged communications brought to his knowledge for th of the witness, but may be ju on a principle of public policy 272) Hence those questions which tend to the discovery of the which the disclosure was made to the officers of justice are not permitted to be asked (Rex v Hardy 24 How St Tr 753—per Eyre C J) If the name of the informer were to be disclosed would be defeated (Ibid p 81 v Bryant it was held that a give the information? (15 M & W 169) It cannot be ascertained from the records why the English law was not incorporated in the Indian Evidence Act The omission has caused much inconvenience'

11th August 1886

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

'We the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Indian Evidence Act 1872 was referred have considered the Bill and have the honour to submit this our Report

'We have so altered the section which it was proposed to substitute for section 125 as to following the plan an Explanation to 11th January 1886

Act III of 1891

OBJECTS AND REASONS

"The principal object of this Bill is to amend section 54 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872 so as to render the previous conviction of an accused person irrelevant when it is sought to prove the conviction with the object merely of showing that the accused is a man of bad character and is therefore more The fact that a probative it is not proposed ings the fact that the accused person has been previously convicted of any offence is relevant The result of this amendment of the law will be that the rule as to the relevency of a previous conviction will be contained in section 43 of the Act The existence of the judgment convicting the accused will be relevant only if the fact of the conviction is a fact in issue or is relevant under some provision of the Act

It seems necessary also to amend the Act so as to show first that in criminal evant to relevant
owledge planation planat on to show

In English law for the purpose of proving guilty dence of other acts of a nature similar to that charged may be given in cases of uttering false coins or disposing of forged bank notes (1 Russel, 233) On the whole evidence of this nature has been confined to cases of coining and forgery, but there is one case, Reg. v Francis, (13 L. J M C 97) in which evidence was admitted on a charge of obtaining money on false pretences In that case Lord Coleridge C J said 'It seems clear upon principle that when the fact that the prisoner has done the thing charged is proved, and the only remaining question is, whether at the time he did it he had guilty knowledge of the quality of his act, or acted under a mistake, evidence of the class received must be admissible' This case probably goes further than any other case, and the amendment which has been proposed of section 1 seems to provide sufficiently for the class of cases in which the peculiar nature of the offence makes this question the crucial test'

"As regards the admission of evidence of other similar acts to prove guilty knowledge, it is thought that such evidence might be admitted in cases in which an accused person is charged ... Pro Code, with and tried ... That is to say it is proposed ... the three offences to be ...

as the acc...

an opportu...

not raised ...

"Briefly stated the amendments proposed to be made by the Bill are as follows.—

(1) the provision allowing a previous conviction to be proved in all cases will be repealed;

(2) a previous conviction will be relevant under section 43 when it is a fact in ... the Act;

... relevant as evidence or bad character wh...

... a previous conviction will be relevant to prove guilty knowledge or intention,

(5) the fact that an act formed part of a series of similar occurrences, in each of which the person doing the act was concerned, will be relevant to prove guilty knowledge or intention'

4th July 1890

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.

"We the ... which the Bill was referred, ... our to submit this our report with ... consider that the

We generally approve the Bill ... object can be attained by adding to section 14 an Explanation suggested by the High Court

We consider it desirable to indicate more particularly the classes of persons exercising magisterial functions who are not to be held to be magistrates for the purpose of section 26

We have added a clause to remove a difficulty which has been experienced in the construction of the words 'for the same offence' in section 30 of the same Act"

6th February, 1891.

Act V of 1899

OBJECTS AND REASONS

"It has been ... the case of Queen Empress v. ... 1896 that the op...

un...

me...

de...

th...

ob...

'The opportunity has been taken to suggest the amendment of two other sections Section 37 fails to render relevant statements as to the facts of a public nature made in the Acts of certain legislatures Cl 2 will remove what is now an obvious lacuna The remaining amendment is of a purely formal character'

8th October, 1898

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

"We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to further amend the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 was referred, have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report with the Bill as amended by us annexed hereto

We have added a sub section making a consequential amendment in section 73 of the Act'

1st February, 1899

APPENDIX F.

THE BANKERS' BOOKS EVIDENCE ACT

Act XVIII of 1891

Received the assent of the Governor-General on the 1st October, 1891

An Act further to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books, It is hereby enacted as follows —

Title extent and commencement

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891

(2) It extends to be whole of British India

(3) [Repealed by Act X of 1914 Schedule II]

Notes This Act is primarily intended for the convenience of bankers and to facilitate proof of their transaction—R v Bono, 29 T L R 635, Arnott v Hayes, 36 Ch D 731, Kissan v Lank, (1896) 1 Q B 574, Pollock v Earle (1898) 1 Ch 1

Definitions

2 In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) 'Company" means a company registered under any of the enactments relating to companies for the time being in force in the United Kingdom or in any of the Colonies or Dependencies thereof or in British India or incorporated by an Act of Parliament or of the Governor-General in Council, or by Royal Charter or Letters Patent.

(2) "bank" and 'banker' mean—

(a) any company carrying on the business of bankers

(b) any partnership or individual to whose books the provisions of this Act shall have been extended as hereinafter provided ,

(c) any post office savings bank or money order office, A

(3) "bankers' books' include ledgers day-books, cash-books, account-books, and all other books used in the ordinary business of a bank,

(4) "legal proceeding" means any proceeding or inquiry in which evidence is, or may be given and includes an arbitration

(5) 'The Court" means the person or persons before whom legal proceeding is held or taken,

(6) "Judge' means a Judge of a High Court,

(7) "trial means any hearing before the Court at which evidence is taken, and

(8) "certified copy" means a copy of any entry in the books of a bank together with a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such entry, that such entry is contained in one of the ordinary books of the bank, and was made in the usual and ordinary course of business; and that such book is still in the custody of the bank, such certificate being dated and subscribed by the principal accountant or manager of the bank with his name and official title

Origin This Act is based on the English Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879, (42 & 43 Vict C 11)

Cc— ... which do not come within ... ubsection (1), though certifie... t are not admissible in evid... Patrick, 4 C W N 430 (F B)

Ban... 'bank" and 'banker' mean any ... on the business of bankers and ... of Inland Revenue and also ... ting to Savings Banks and also ... k' connotes the business of utilising money received for purposes of profit The mere fact that a Government Treasury receives money from a District Board and respects orders issued to it for payment does not constitue the Treasury a Bank Rangasuami v Sankaralingam, 43 M 816=39 M L J 327=58 Ind Cas 893, Tolsey v Hill, 2 H L C 28, (43) per Lord Brougham

Banker In Halifax Union v Wheelright 10 Ex 183=44 L J Ex 121, Baron Cleasby said "First, it is said that taking that statute together with several ... subject the word banker' was not to be restricte... any per... to the... upon hi... of that ... who in the ordinary course of his business, ... persons from and for whom he receives money' Hart's Law of Banking

Power to extend provisions of Act

3. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the provisions of this Act to the books of any partnership or individual carrying on the business of bankers within the territories under its administration, and keeping a set of not less than three ordinary account-books, namely, a cash book, a day book, a journal, and a ledger, and may in like manner rescind any such notification

Mode of proof of entries in bankers' books

4 Subject to the provisions of this Act, a certified copy of any entry in a banker's book shall, in all legal proceedings, be received as prima facie evidence of the existence of such entry, and shall be admitted as evidence of the matters, transactions, and accounts therein recorded in every case where, and to the same exent as, the original entry itself is now by law admissible, but not further or otherwise

Origin This section is based on section 3 of the English Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879, which runs as follows "Subject to the provisions of this Act, a copy of any entry in a banker's book shall in all legal proceedings be received as prima facie evidence of such entry, and of the matters, transactions, and accounts therein recorded"

Principle "Then if they are not removable, on the ground of public inconvenience, that is upon the same footing in point of principle as in the case of that which is not removable by the physical nature of the thing itself .. The necessity of the case in the one instance, and in the other case the general public inconvenience which would follow from the books being removed, supplies the reason of the rule" Per Alderson B in Mortimer v McCallan, 6 M & W 58, 67

Scope and object of the section "The Act was passed mainly for the relief of bankers to avoid the serious inconvenience occasioned to them by their having to produce books which were in constant use in their business" Parnell v Wood, (1892) P 137 "Banks are subject to the performance of duties to the public which might be seriously interfered with if they were compelled to carry the books needed in their business into every Court or tribunal where testimony is to be introduced concerning them. Books belonging to public offices cannot be removed from their legal custody without some strong necessity for their production While bank-books are not public to the same extent, yet the business which the corporations are required to transact cannot be done unless the books are usually preserved where they belong' Per Campbell C J in People v Hurst, 41 Mich 328 (Am) This Act makes copies of such entries evidence against any one thus the entries in a defendant's banker's books are made evidence against the plaintiff Harding v Williams, 14 Ch D 197, see also London & W Bank v Bolton, 51 Sol Jo 466 The Act applies to all books kept by the bank, even although not in daily use, and applies to the successors of a bank by whom the entries were made Asylum for Idiots v Handysides, (1906) 22 T L R 573 The main object of this Act is to enable evidence to be procured and given [Arnott v Hayes, (1887) 36 Ch D at 737, Emmott v Star Newspaper Co, 62 L J Q B 77, R v Bono and Another, (191[illegible] [illegible] of attending and [illegible] mott v Star New[illegible] It enables a party [illegible] to compel bankers to produce their books and to attend and to be examined on them, to obtain an order for leave to inspect and take copies of them Re Marshfield, 32 Ch D 499

Case in which officer of bank not compellable to produce books

5. No officer of a bank shall in any legal proceeding to which the bank is not a party be compellable to produce any bankers' book, the contents of which can be proved under this Act, or to appear as a witness to prove the matters, transactions, and accounts therein recorded unless by order of the Court or a Judge made for a special cause

Scope This section corresponds to section 6 of the English Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict 11) By this section a banker is exonerated from personal attendance in Court See also Emmott v Star News paper Co 62 L J K B 77.

Inspection of books by order of Court or Judge

6. (1) On the application of any party to a legal proceeding, the Court or Judge may order that such party be at liberty to inspect and take copies of any entries in a banker's book for any of the purposes of such proceeding, or may order the bank to prepare and produce, within a time to be specified in the order, certified copies of all such entries, accompanied by a further certificate that no other entries are to be found in the books of the bank relevant to the matters in issue in such proceedings and such further certificate shall be dated and subscribed in manner hereinbefore directed in reference to certified copies.

(2) An order under this or the preceding section may be made either with or without summoning the bank, and shall be served on the bank three clear days (exclusive of bank holidays) before the same is to be obeyed, unless the Court or Judge shall otherwise direct.

(3) The bank may, at any time before the time limited for obedience to any such order as aforesaid, either offer to produce their books at the trial, or give notice of their intention to show cause against such orders and thereupon the same shall not be enforced without further order.

Scope This section corresponds to section 7 of the English Act A magistrate before whom criminal proceedings are pending is a Court within the mean [illegible] to make an order under this section R.

[illegible]

but the Judge ought [illegible] Co 62 C A ; L' Amie v [illegible] per Lord L J. Q B 77, Sout[illegible] nder the Esher. But as a r[illegible], 53 L summons for directic[illegible] J Q B 275 The[illegible] the application on [illegible] could be resisted Yearly Practice, (1921) 4[illegible] necessary, but the Judge must be satisfied t[illegible] admissible in evidence in the action, and f[illegible] required Arnott v Hayes, 36 Ch D 731, Pou[illegible] 36 Ch D 731, [illegible] give any new power of discovery (Arnott v Hayes, 36 Ch D 731, [illegible] of law or the practice with Another, 29 T L R 635), or alter the principles [illegible] or take away any previously regard to discovery (Pollock v Earle, 1898, 1 Ch 4) Tramways Co v Ebbs Smith, existing ground of privilege [South Staffordshire Tramways Co (1892) P 139] An order under this (1895) 2 Q B 669 C A ; Parnell v Wood, (1892) P ground only Perry v Phosphor Bronze section should be made on sufficient ground only Where a defendant applied for inspection to assist Co, (1894) 71 L T. 854. Where a defendant applied for inspection to assist him to justify a libel imputing pecuniary embarrassment inspection was refused Emmot v Star Newspaper Co 62 L J Q B 77 Similarly in Pollock v Earle, (1898) 1 Ch 1 the C A refused to make an order in the case of third persons who were neither actual nor constructive parties to the case, e g, as to the bank ' its directors for inducing as to such balance Phip he Court should take care n " The order should only be made where the entries of which inspection is sought will be admissible in evidence at the trial Howard v Beall 23 Q B D at p 2

It seems that the Court has jurisdiction to order inspection of the accounts of third parties Howard v Beall 23 Q B D 1, South Staffordshire v Ebbsmith, (1895) 2 Q B 669, M' Gorman v Kierans 35 Ir L T R 84, Agra Bank v Kashi Ram, P L R 1900, p 237 But this power should not be exercised ordinarily Pollock v Earle (1898) 1 Ch 1 But when order for inspecting the accounts of third parties is sought a notice should be given to him South Staffo not i ... nk, even when they are were ... bank by whom the entries doubt ... T L R 573 But it is mea ... Books come within the ... 31 C 284 ... ok in his ... iting an order to inspect the banker's book, and in a fit case an order will be made Perry v Phoshpor Co, (1894) 71 L T 854, Yearly Practice, (1921) 459 The qualifications of the co... and customer are (a) ... re there is a duty to th ... k ... or Provincial Banks, (1924) n order under section 6 behalf, the Court ought party the Court ought Tricumlal v Lakhmi

7 (1) The costs of any application to the Court or a Judge, under or for the purposes of this Act, and the costs of anything done or to be done under an order of the Court or a Judge made under or for the purposes of this Act, shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, who may further order such costs or any part thereof to be paid to any party by the bank if they have been incurred in consequence of any fault or improper delay on the part of the bank.

Costs

(2). Any order made under this section for the payment of costs to or by a bank may be enforced as if the bank were a party to the proceeding.

(3) Any order under this section awarding costs may, on application to any Court of Civil Judicature designated in the order, be executed by such Court as if the order were a decree for money passed by itself

Provided that nothing in this sub section shall be construed to derogate from any power which Court or Judge making the order may possess for the enforcement of its or his discretions with respect to the payment of costs.

APPENDIX G.

THE INDIAN OATHS ACT.

ACT X OF 1873

Received the assent of the Governor General on the 8th April, 1873

An Act to consolidate the law relating to Judicial oaths, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate the law relating to judicial oaths, affirmations and delarations and to repeal the law relating to official oaths, affirmations and declarations; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1 PRELIMINARY

Short title

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Oaths Act 1873".

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India, and so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the territories of Native Princes and States in alliance with Her Majesty ;

[Commencement]—Repealed by the Repealing Act, 1873 (II of 1873).

History ... "takes our history ... all primi tive civ ... it part in the adminis ... as only a single ... the general resort to oaths The early Germanic modes of ... 'Judicia ... his plea ...

The progress from this ... the 1800 s in some of the common modes of procedure) to the second stage of a test of security for credibility ... stage of ... come full ... marked ... of compete ... applicatio ... feature by ...

Theory ... modern common law, may be termed ... be termed objective ... swearing whereby wh ... they know

1. , Applicability The provisions of the Indian Oaths Act are not intended as we ... is ... not the ... will not make it admissible. Shekh Jar ... R 1926 Nag 194

2. [Repeal of Enactment] Repealed by Act XII of 1873

Saving of certain oaths and affirmations

3. Nothing herein contained applies to proceedings before Courts Martial or to oaths, affirmations or declarations prescribed "by or under any instructions under the Royal Sign Manual of His Majesty or"* by any law which, under the provisions of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, the Governor General in Council has no power to repeal.

II AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

Authority to administer oath and affirmation

4. The following Courts and persons are authorized to administer, by themselves, or by an officer empowered by them, in this behalf, oaths and affirmations in discharge of the duties or in exercise of the powers imposed or conferred upon them respectively by law :—

(a) all Courts and persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence;

(b) the commanding officer of any military station occupied by troops in the service of Her Majesty.

Provided :

(1) that the oath or affirmation be administered within the limits of the station, and

(2) that the oath or affirmation be such as a Justice of the Peace is competent to administer in British India.

Scope ... as to the fitness of a surety has power to rec... xercise of the power and duty conferred upon hi... 371 = A W. N. 1901, 52 There is no provisio... the fact that an oath was administered S... A L J 933 = 35A 575 Under the rules f... Emperor v Lal... s 4 of the ... e evidence ... the duties, or in exercise of the powers imposed or conferred on them by law King Emperor v. Palisi, 2 L B R 272 A Sub-magistrate acting under ch XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code is a Court acting in the discharge of a duty imposed on him by law and ... oath under this section Tevan v Emperor, ... nesses examined before a Commissioner ... 1850 to hold an enquiry into the behaviour of a certain Judicial officer, are bound to state the truth and render themselves liable to be punished under s 193 I P C

*Inserted by s 2 of Act VI of 1919

if they testify falsely Gobind Ram v Empress, 18 P R 1898 Cr The procedure of the arbitrator is not governed by the Oaths Act Bhagirath v Ram Ghulam, 4 A 283 = A W N 1882, 31 A Magistrate is not competent to administer oath in the course of a non-judicial inquiry Allahu arayo v Crown, 17 Cr L J 368 = 35 Ind Cas 672

III PERSON BY WHOM OATHS OR AFFIRMATIONS MUST BE MADE

Oaths or affirmations to be made by—

5 Oaths or affirmations shall be made by the following persons :—

Witnesses

(a) All witnesses, that is to say, all persons who may lawfully be examined, or give, or be required to give evidence by or before any Court or person having by law or consent of parties authority to examine such persons or to receive evidence;

Interpreters

(b) interpreters of questions put to, and evidence given by, witnesses;

Jurors.

(c) jurors.

Nothing herein contained shall render it lawful to administer in a criminal proceeding, an oath or affirmation to accused person. or necessary to administer to the official interpreter of any Court, after he has entered on the execution of the duties of his office, an oath or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge those duties.

[illegible]

Miller
Omichc
Supren whom I
It is tence
said, punish a e, 4 Jones n be upon which requires a

The purpose of the attention of an appeal to the the avenger of Persons subjected to the oath This section [illegible] n that oaths or affirmations shall be made by the three following classes of persons, namely (1) witnesses (2) interpreters, and (3) jurors So oath or affirmation is requisite in all testimonial statements made in Court An interpreter is a kind of witness and must be sworn Wigmore § 1824, R v Douglas, 13 Q B D 42, 59, 66, 72 A juror should also be sworn Queen v. Ramsodoy, 20 W. R Cr 19

Accused person. "Originally an accused person was allowed to produce no witnesses; later, he might produce them, but they testified without oath, and finally ... allowed to be sworn" Wigmore § 1824 This section as well as sec ... ode lays down that no oath shall be administered ... in sub section (4) that no oath shall be admin ... reference only to the statement made by him ... under this section It has no ... can make ... case under ... also Reg v ... mperor 22 ... 0, Alladal ... Emperor v v King Emperor, 9 P R 1906; ... 20 Cr L J. 342, Q E v. Tribuni, 20 Durant, 23 B 213, Nga Nque v K E, 20 Cr L J. 342 ... A 426; Joseph v Emperor, 3 Bur L J 265; K E v Annya, 3 Bom L R 437 The term "accused" means a person under trial Hinanda v Emperor, 2 C L J 149, see also Emperor v Govind, 18 ... Corporation of Calcutta, 31 C. W N 506= ... no power to administer an oath or affirm ... records under s 164 Cr Pro Code Lalu ... 10 C P L R Cr 16.

Scope of the section. The direction in s 164 Cr Pro Code that the ... shall be recorded in one of the manners prescribed for recording ... procedure The statement itself is one which ... re the Court by a witness, and is therefore ... of the Evidence Act The person making it ... is Act Queen Empress v Alagu, 16 M ... trate might examine a person for the sake ... some person ... person is not a ... 49 Whether a ... examined as a ... reoratan S C ... regard to the ... s any option, ... as evidence, but to ... the case may be ... 4, Queen Empress v ... J 161=22 Ind ... is Act is imperative,

... e interpreter under ... or the prosecution to ... al v King Emperor, ... prove that the interpretation was made accurately, 9 C L J 690=13 C W. N 942.

An enquiry on an application under s 100 Cr Pro Code, 1898, to issue a search warrant is judicial inquiry and proceedinds preliminary to the issue of a search warrant under s 100 are judicial proceedings In the course of such ... to examine persons jud ... 5 of the Oaths ... Abdul Aziz on ... Ac. ... v

6. Where the witness, interpreter or juror is a Hindu or Muhammadan, Affirmation by natives or by persons objecting to oaths or has objection to making an oath, he shall, instead of making an oath, make an affirmation.

In every other case, the witness, interpreter, or juror shall make an oath

Hindu and Mahomedan law on the subject ' If we turn to India even prior to the introduction of English rule, we find that the Laws of Menu had their oath too, and in point of form, that prescribed by Menu is not very different from the English one —The imprecatory part too of the oath of Menu, if not framed exactly in conformity with the varying Code of the religious belief of the swearer, was nevertheless in a form adopted to the peculiarities of the influences by which each individual might be presumed to be most affected 'Let the Judge cause a Priest to swear b elephant and his weapons, a Merchant by or servile man imprecating on his owr crimes The meaning is he shall adjure t falsely your truth will be destroyed, a Cashetrye by saying your horse or elephant and weapon become useless, a Vaisya 'your cattle, seeds and gold will be unproductive ' A Sudra he shall adjure by saying, 'if you speak falsely all sins will b imprecatio punishme have bee swearing l sanctioned

19 C 355.

IV FORM OF OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

Forms of oaths and affirmations

7. All oaths and affirmations made under section 5 shall be administered according to such forms as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

And until any such forms are prescribed by the High Court, such oaths and affirmations shall be administered according to the forms now in use

Explanation—Repealed by the Lower Burma Courts Act (VI of 1900) s. 48. Schedule II.

swear according to his own notion of the oath In the same case Harawicke L C. said. "The next thing is the form of the oath It is laid down by all

1 Leach Cr L 4th Ed 412, Walker's Case N Pleas 23, R v Extrehan, C & M 248, ... the usual form of oath in criminal cases ... the form at the assizes or sessions is, for the clerk of arraigns or of the peace to desire the witness to take the book in his hand and, that done to say to him 'The evidence you shall give between ... prisoner at the bar shall be the truth, the ... truth; So help you God', upon which the ... usual form of words in civil cases differred ... shall give to the Court and Jury, touching the ... truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth So help you God ... 18 ... of the administration of the oath is immaterial, provided that it ... bringing to bear of this apprehension of ... ds or ceremonies are used in imposing ... as binding by his belief Indar Prosad ... Ind Cas 314

... children ... ubt ... he ... ive ... he ... ale ... od beginnings of capacity for various ... Nisi Prius, 293, Young v Slaughterford ... Pl Cr I, 302, 634 Buller, Nisi Prius, 293, ... But this view was finally repudiated in R v ... 228, R v Travers 1 Stra 700 But this view was finally repudiated, where the Brasier, East Pleas of the 'Crown, 1, 443 After much deliberation, where the Court said 'An infant, though under the age of seven years may be sworn in a criminal prosecution, provided such infant appears on strict examination by ... of the nature and consequences of ... the time within which infants ... depends upon the ... falsehood, which ... to them by the ... their testimony ... take an ... Braddon's Trial Court, but if they ... cannot be received' See also R v Perkins 2 Moo Cr, C 139; Braddon's Trial 9 How St Tr 1127, R v Holmes 2 F & F 788, Wigmore § 1821, Nafar v Emperor, 18 C W N 147=41 C 406, Talu v Emperor, 6 Pat L J 147=61 Ind Cas 705 Evidence of child witnesses can be admitted without oath or affirmations In re Chinnavenal adu, 38 M 550, Hussain v Emperor, 76 Ind Cas 1037, Hari Ramji v Emperor, 20 Bom L R 365=45 Ind Cas 497 In the case of a child witness the Judge is bound first to ascertain by questioning the child whether it is by tender years prevented from understanding the questions or from giving rational answers to those questions Then if the Judge intend ... should proceed to administer ... so doing, on the ground ... solemn affirmation under ... child will be admissible section 13 of ... Emperor v Kusha, 5 Bom L R 551

8 If any party to, or witness in, any judicial proceeding offers to give evidence on oath or solemn affirmation in any form common amongst or held binding by, persons of the race or persuation to which he belongs, and not repugnant to justice or decency and not purporting to affect any third person, the Court may, if it thinks fit, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, tender such oath or affirmation to him.

Power of Court to tender certain oaths

Scope ... the parties ... should come from ... 39 Ind Cas 836=56 C L J 77= ... the term 'party to any judicial proceedings in this section does not include the complainant in a criminal proceeding nor the accused Sections 8 11 of the Oaths Act do not apply to criminal proceedings Queen Empress v Muraru 13 B 389, Imperator v. Haji Alu, 5 S L R 129=13 Ind Cas 215=13 Cr L J 23, 1 Weir 822, Emperor v Chiman 22 Bom L R 893=58 Ind Cas 147 Under the provisions of this Act, an oath proposed in a form which could affect a third party can not under . . Ram Narain v Babu Singh, 18 A 4 . . 1916=7 Ind Cas 479=111 P L : . as 448 23 A L J 513 . . . called upon false, which . . . justified in . . false, the Cc . . 1873 Issu Meah v Kalaram, 2 C L R 176, Ulagappa v Peria, 15 Ind Cas 195. But where defendant also refuses no presumption arises Sukdeo v Ganesh, 10 Ind Cas 472=7 N L R. 50

Where in a suit, the parties put in a joint application evidencing an agreement to abide by the statement on oath of a certain person, but one of the part . . ked them to withdraw from the reference on the . . with the other party and no collusion was . . allowed to do so Chiddu v Kuar Sen, 2

An agreement to a case decided on the evidence of a third person given on oath, is in . . . Code, and would . . join in it The . . such a case La . . .

Neither an invocation nor an oath or affirmation in the technical sense of the words is in any way an essential part of the special oath or solemn affirmation provided for in section 8 of the Indian Oaths Act of 1873 The . . o in section 8 of the Act is . .

the first from its very nature, and must be in the form held deponent belongs The special is a complete substitute for the o supplemented by it or any p used in respect of the special procedure provided for in section 8 are merely descriptive of the nature and suggestive of the consequences of the ritual—linking it up with ordinary oaths and affirmations—but are in no way connected with what its form should be Indar Prasad v Jogmohan Das, 31 C W. N 1053=54 I A 301=2 Luck 316=46 C L J 13=39 M L. T. 618=53 M L J. 1 (P C)=54 I A 301.

. . . endant on behalf of the minor to abide . . very d . . Code . . guardian although given without the leave of the Court, provided there is no fraud or gross negligence on the part of the guardian Muhammad v. Behary Lal, A I R 1930 Cal 463.

Court may ask party or witness whether he will make oath proposed by opposite party.

9. If any party to any judicial proceeding offers to be bound by any such oath or solemn affirmation as is mentioned in section 8, if such oath or affirmation is made by the other party to, or by any witness in, such proceeding, the Court may, if it thinks fit, ask such party or witness, or cause him to be asked, whether or not he will make the oath or affirmation

G. Provided that no party or witness shall be compelled to attend personally in Court solely for the purpose of answering such question.

Scope Under ss 8 and 9 of the Act, it is not necessary that the form of oath should be specified before it can be held binding on the parties agreeing to be bound by it It is sufficient if the oath is common among, and held binding by the class to which the parties belong Ahmad Ali v Hanuman, 29 P R 1887 If in the course of a suit, the plaintiff offers to bind himself by the oath of a witness and the witness, after consenting to the offer, refused afterwards to take oath, the Court cannot decree the suit in the plaintiff's favour, even though the defendant had agreed to it in case the witness refused to take the oath Such an act on the part of the Court is not sanctioned by the Oaths Act Bawa Suchat v Ratna, 31 P R 18 ... appointed to record evidence in a case cannot ...

... tion between Court and ... s not include persons authorised to ... Puran Chand v Chabar, 89 P R, 1909 Pleader has no power to bind client by oath Perag v Ram, 75 P R 1900 Ordinarily, it is the party himself that can make an offer contemplated under this section If, however, a party specially authorises his pleader, or an agent, to make an offer to be bound by a particular oath he might be estopped from retracting the step he had taken if his offer were acted on Sadasiv v Maruti, 14 B 455 A offer by ... tak... or ... absence of the Court's sanction to the agreement under s 462, the minor defendant is barred by the consent of his guardian, if there is no fraud or ... 27 C 229=4 ...

... fendant offered ...

... Oaths Act, agrees to be bound by an ... o be bound by an oath is in effect, an ... der the oath as the evidence in the ... If the party who has agreed to be bound prevents the oath being taken, the other party is entitled to a decree ... the result of ... on is that there ... M L J. 99, ... Thoyi Ammal v ...

Where the defendant takes oath proposed by the plaintiff, the oath is ... J 244=31 A. 315=2 Ind ... bound by the oath of the other party and to have the case decided in accordance therewith. Wasi uz zaman v Faiza Bibi, 14 A L. J 38=38 A 131=32 Ind Cas 348

Where the agreement proves abortive, a suit can be decided on evidence taken Seshagiri v Sankayy Setti, 4 L W 258=1917 M W N 101=36 Ind Cas 1001 Where an offer is made by plaintiff to be bound by oath the Court has full discretion to call upon the defendant to accept or refuse the offer, and, subject to the exercise of that discretion, the offer once made stands, and if the defendant eventually accept it, the plaintiff is bound by the result Khawaj Din v Mt. Nur [illegible] it seems that under [illegible] to refuse to refer [illegible] A 65, but see Muth [illegible] 596=74 Ind Cas [illegible]
1926 Lah 240

Ordinarily a party cannot resile from his offer, but he can do so with the permission of the Court Ram Bhaj v Dhuni 92 Ind Cas 813; Narayan v Srikantha 4 Mys L J 217, Salik v Hali, 49 A 388=25 A L J 297=A. I R. 1927 All 590 If a party after agreeing to abide by an oath satisfies the Court that there is good ground for retracting, the Court would exercise a wise discretion in refusing to administer the oath and it is only when a party puts forward frivolous reasons for retracting that the Court would be justified in administering the oath notwithstanding the retraction Ramdeo v Naipal, A. I. R 1933 All 184

Where in certain divorce proceedings among Mahomedans the pleader for the wife applied that both parties should be put on special oath and the Court granted the application directin [illegible] prescribed for 'Lann' under Mahon [illegible] that the other party agreed to abide b [illegible] not be conclusive because of secti [illegible] Umar Saheb, 52 B 295=110 Ind Cas 131=30 Bom L R 447=A I R 1928 B 268

The word "party" in this section includes a duly authorised representative such as a pleader and that he can make the offer contemplated by the section Amir v Mohammad 5 O W N 10, see also Hata v Samail 137 Ind Cas 810=33 P L R 470=A I R 1932 Lah 414

A party cannot add new condition to his original offer and the other party can take the oath in accordance with the original offer. Kinhi v Kunnath, 1928 M W N 113=A I R 1928 Mad 488=109 Ind Cas 758

Administration of oath if accepted

10 If such party or witness agrees to make such oath or affirmation, the Court may proceed to administer it or, if it is of such a nature that it may be more conveniently made out of Court, the Court may issue a commission to any person to administer it, and authorize him to take the evidence of the person to be sworn or affirmed and return it to the Court.

[illegible]

the oath itself, must issue a Commission to some person to administer it and [illegible] to be sworn and return it to [illegible], see also Dar Bux v. Dar Meah, [illegible]

11. The evidence so given shall, as against the person who offered to be bound as aforesaid, be conclusive proof of the matter stated.

Evidence conclusive as against person offering to be bound

Scope of the secti ... ed at ... ler the provi sions of the Act is ... y future proceedings Keshava ... to the ... examined under the usual form of oath of ... Jaladar v Ke ... ler person who offered to be bou d by ... stated Maddhogir v Gopal Bhaskar, 7 C P L R 122, ... 1898, Hamid v Naqui 84 Ind Cas 729, Gramathil v Sidlayya, 90 Ind Cas 577 (2)—49 M L J 379 A statement by a witness that a party is in possession is in point of law admissible evidence of the fact that such party was in possession under section 11 of the Oaths Act, it is conclusive proof of the matters stated The expression "conclusive proof" in s 11 is to be understood in the sense in which it is defined by s 4 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872 Vithu v Pamji 8 Bom L R 19=1 M L T 63

The parties to a suit agreed to be bound by the deposition of a referee in the manner contempla ... decree was passed in favour of one ... The referee died afterwards ... on did not fully cover the ques ... case was, therefore to be ... to the usual procedure Mahc ... 143

There is nothing in the Indian Oaths Act constraining a Court to pass a decision in favour of a particular party If a party to a suit says that he would be bound by the oath of a particular person under the provisions of section 11 of the Act, it means no more than this that pro tanto he will be bound, that is to say, in so far as the matter of that evidence is concerned, and that evidence will be conclusive as to its truth, and the truth of such evidence will be conclusive as against him throughout the whole of the litigation But it does not, in any way, compel the ... hat evidence as conclusive Muhammad Zahu ... 2, 3

An attorney empowered ... fically to ... ond him ... suit to be decided accordingly ... P R 1903; see also Gharib v

Under this section the oath is not conclusive to the suit but is so only ... na v Bala Sheka, 3 M L T 163

... e bound by whatever statement might be made by the plaintiff upon oath as prescribed by law The plaintiff accordingly was examined on oath administered in the usual manner Held, that though the statement then made by the plaintiff might not be binding ... 1873, nevertheless ... decision of the ... Muhammad, A

W N 1899, 200 ... eding under the provisions of sections 8 11 of ... subsequent proceeding Badiaddin v Nizam ... 01

... t confirms the decree of the first Court on the strength of the oath of a party to the suit on a question of fact, the decree of the Court is none the less a final adjudication Ahmed v Moidin, 24 M 441

Where the plaintiff originally agreed to be bound by the oath of the defendant, if taken in a particular form and subsequently varied the agreement by attaching further conditions as to the way in which the oath should be made, opportunity must be given to the defendant to take the oath in the manner originally agreed upon between the parties If the defendant does so, the evidence so given will be the defendant refuses t on the merits Thul ku

An adjudication by a Court on an oath ... suit would make the matter or issue covered by the adjudication res judicata in a subsequent litigation between the same parties, though the subject matter of the suit is different Sanyari v Artu Suaro, 13 M L T 261=24 M L J 321=36 M 257=18 Ind Cas 835

An oath is under s 11 of the Oaths Act conclusive only as against the ... against one who never joined ... right of appeal against the ... =50 P W R 1918=45 Ind. Cas 230

Where the agreement was to take the oath on a particular day but the oath was taken on a later day the burden lies on the person who relies on the oath to show : ... the contract Athermankuthi v Chandroth, 1

When ... by the defendant, the Court is bound to decide in favour of plaintiff Jamna v Nanda, 118 P. R 1919=57 P L R 1919=49 Ind Cas 1005

... guardian of the minor defendant to the ... ain fact, the minor defendant is bound ... er specified oath Porbhu v Jamil,

... bound by the statement made by the acc... steps towards the Ganges and ... conditions, the statement being made on oath was conclusive proof of the facts set forth in it. Dilsukh v. Ram Rama L R 5 A 147

... open to the ... gave false evi... ...das In re, 26

There is nothing in the Oaths Act which says that the reference to the referee comes to an end as soon as the referee has once been examined The referee can be re examined if all the points which would be necessary to be ... Kishen v Kashi Nath, 48 A 276=A I. R

... that the ... contro- ... A I. R. 1927 All 670

... taken by a party ... not afterwards say that ... Ind Cas 861=A.

... the oath of a witness, Where ... though the other parties do not agree to be so bound, he will be bound and the case must be tried only as against the others Ram Ratan v Ramlall, 27 A. L J 1095=118 Ind Cas 188=A I. R 1929 A 759

Procedure in case of refusal to make oath

12 If the party or witness refuses to make the oath or solemn affirmation referred to in section 8, he shall not be compelled to make it, but the Court shall record, as part of the proceedings, the nature of the oath or affirmation proposed, the facts

. that he was asked whether he would make it, and that he refused it, together with any reason which he may assign for his refusal.

Scope of the section Under section 12 of the Act, it is only when a party refuses to make the oath proposed that the Court is bound to record that he was asked if he would make it and that he refused to do so Madhogir v Gopal, 7 C P L R 122 This section directs the Court to record, as part of the proceedings, the nature of the oath proposed, the fact that the party was asked to make the oath and refused, together with any reason assigned for the refusal The section seems to contemplate that the Court shall give such weight, as it may think fit, to the fact that a party has offered to make an oath, and has afterwards refused to make it, whilst it negatives the view that the refusal to make the oath is, in itself a ground for dismissing the suit or giving the plaintiff a decree, as the case may be Mayan v Pathu Kutti, 17 M L J 545=31 M 1, per White C J It may be doubted whether this section was intended to apply to a case, in [illegible] agreement that one of them shall take an [illegible] ent between the parties to a suit, the [illegible] h, and that, on his failure to do s [illegible] the failure of the plaintiff to take the proposed oath, that the agreement could not be recorded as an adjustment of the suit, and the suit should be proceeded with Mayan v Patthakutti, 17 M L J 545=3 M L T 91=31 M 1.

[illegible] 1 by the [illegible] n the part [illegible] take an oath, or refusal to be bound by an oath Amirchand v. Govind Sahai, 5 P R 1903=37 P. L R 1903

A Court is not entitled to presume because a party refuses to take a special [illegible]

Where the plaintiff after agreeing to abide by the oath of a [illegible] subsequently declined to abide by it, the Court has no power to dismiss the plaintiff's suit on account of the plaintiff not having taken the oath but must either proceed to administer the oath and decide the case in accordance therewith or accept the plaintiff's refusal to abide by the oath drawing such inference from the refusal as is permissible and then proceed with the trial of the case in accordance with law Babu Ram v Nathu Ram, 99 Ind Cas 283=A I R 1927 Lah 78.

V. MISCELLANEOUS

Proceeding and evidence not invalidated by omission of oath or irregularity

13. No omission to take any oath or make any affirmation, no substitution of any one for any other of them, and no irregularity whatever in the form in which any one of them is administered, shall invalidate any proceeding or render inadmissible any evidence whatever, in or in respect of which such omission, substitution or irregularity took place or shall affect the obligation of a witness to state the truth.

Scope The evidence of a boy aged 10, to whom no oath or affirmation was advisedly administered, was held admissible Budha v Empress, 31 P. R 1889 Cr [illegible] any omission and is not limited to [illegible] press v Sanbhai, 11 C P. L R Cr. 16; [illegible] 105, per Parker J, Golli Chinna v. [illegible] 737; Queen v. Sheo Bhogta,

23 W R Cr 12, Emperor v Kusha 5 Bom L R 551; Queen Empress v Shava 16 B 359, Queen v Ananta, 22 W R Cr 1, Q v Perumal, 1 Weir 827 (F B), Queen v Itwarya, 22 W R Cr 11, Bulchand v Tarak Nath, 18 C W N 1523, Nafar v Emperor, 18 C W N 147 = 41 C 406, Dhani v Emperor, 13 A L J 1072, Emperor v Hari, 20 Bom L R 365 Emperor v Sashi, 24 C W N 767, Palu v Emperor, 6 Pat L J 147, Hussain v Emperor, [illegible] Laaperumal 16 M 105, per Collins [illegible] W N 1888, 86, Pan Nyun v King [illegible] Bur L T 133 = 36 Ind Cas 468

If the jury [illegible] one which could be covered [illegible] R Cr 19 This section has [illegible] on commission in a foreign [illegible] = 7 C W N 806 This sectio[illegible] of the Presidency Court of [illegible] Nath, 18 C W N. 1323.

[illegible] not [illegible] v [illegible]

14. Every person giving evidence on any subject before any Court or person hereby authorised to administer oaths and affirmations shall be bound to state the truth on such subject.

Person giving evidence bound to state the truth

Scope Section 132 of the Evidence Act, read with s 14 of the Oaths Act compels a witness to answer criminating questions, and he is protected by the proviso to s 132 from a criminal prosecution for any offence for which he criminates himself directly or indirectly by his answer, except a prosecution for giving false evidence by such answer Queen Empress v Ganu Singh, 12 B 440

15. The Indian penal Code, sections 178 and 181 shall be construed as if, after the word "oath" the words "or affirmation" were inserted

Amendment of Penal Code ss 178 and 181

16. Subject to the provisions of sections 3 and 5, no person appointed to any office shall, before entering on execution of the duties of his office, be required to take any oath, or to make or subscribe to any affirmation or declaration whatever.

Official oaths abolished

SUBJECT INDEX.

B

him to justify a libel imputing pecuniary embarrassment, inspection was refused Emmot v Star Newspaper Co 62 L J. Q B 77 Similarly in Pollock v Earle, (1898) 1 Ch 1 the C A refused to make an order in the case of third persons who were neither actual nor constructive parties to the case, e g, as to the bank inst one of its directors for inducing epresentation as to such balance Phip R said 'The Court should take care of oppression" The order should only be made where the entries of which inspection is sought will be admissible in evidence at the trial Howard v Beall 23 Q B D at p 2

It seems that the Court has jurisdiction to order inspection of the accounts of third parties Howard v Beall 23 Q B D 1, South Staffordshire v Ebbsmith, (1895) 2 Q B 669, M' Gorman v Kierans, 35 Ir L T R 84, Agra Bank v Kashi Ram, P L R 1900, p 237 But this power should not be exercised ordinarily Pollock v Earle, (1898) 1 Ch 1 But when order for inspecting the accounts of third parties is sought, a notice should be given to him South … B 669

kept by the bank, even when they are e successors of the bank by whom the entries
… But it is doubtful whether the … thin the meaning of the Bankers … b, 31 C 284=8 C W N 125 … book in his affidavit of documen… getting … fit case an order will be made … Yearly Practice, (1921) 459 The implied in the relation of banker and customer are (a) where disclosure is under compulsion by law, (b) where there is a duty to the public to disclose, (c) where the interest of the bank required disclosure, and (d) where the disclosure is made by the express or implied consent of the customer Tournier v National Provincial Banks, (1924) 1 K B 461=93 L J K B 449 Where a party desires an order under section 6 of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891 on his own behalf, the Court ought to grant it ex parte, but where he applies against the other party the Court ought not to make the order without notice to the other party Tricumlal v Lakhmichand, 5 Bom L R 865

Costs

7. (1) The costs of any application to the Court or a Judge, under or for the purposes of this Act, and the costs of anything done or to be done under an order of the Court or a Judge made under or for the purposes of this Act, shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, who may further order such costs or any part thereof to be paid to any party by the bank if they have been incurred in consequence of any fault or improper delay on the part of the bank.

(2). Any order made under this section for the payment of costs to or by a bank may be enforced as if the bank were a party to the proceeding.

(3) Any order under this section awarding costs may, on application to any Court of Civil Judicature designated in the order, be executed by such Court as if the order were a decree for money passed by itself :

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed to derogate from any power which Court or Judge making the order may possess for the enforcement of its or his discretions with respect to the payment of costs.

APPENDIX G.

THE INDIAN OATHS ACT.

ACT X OF 1873

Received the assent of the Governor General on the 8th April, 1873

An Act to consolidate the law relating to Judicial oaths, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate the law relating to judicial oaths, affirmations and delarations and to repeal the law relating to official oaths, affirmations and declarations; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

I. PRELIMINARY

Short title

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Oaths Act 1873".

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India, and so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the territories of Native Princes and States in alliance with Her Majesty;

[Commencement]—Repealed by the Repealing Act, 1873 (II of 1873).

History ... "takes our history ... all primitive civ... part in the adminis... as only a single and subordinate phase of the general resort to oaths. The early Germanic modes of ... Judicium ... his plea ... sworn ... made wi... was att... notions of the oath at large (which left its traces as late as the 1800's in some of the common modes of ...

marked injustice, an... of competent witnesse... application of the c... feature by rendering ...

... modern common law may ...

him to justify a libel imputing pecuniary embarrassment, inspection was refused Emmot v Star Newspaper Co 62 L J Q B 77 Similarly in Pollock v Earle, (1898) 1 Ch 1, the C A refused to make an order in the case of third persons who were neither actual nor constructive parties to the case, e g, as to the bank balance of a company, in an action against one of its directors for inducing a purchase of its shares b ... ich balance Phip Ev 332 In the above cas ... should take care that this section is not ... e order should only be made where the entries of which inspection is sought will be admissible in evidence at the trial Howard v Beall 23 Q B D at p 2

... on of the accounts of th ... rdshire v Ebbsmith, (1895 ... 84, Agra Bank v Kash ... uld not be exercised ordin ... for inspecting the accou ... iven to him South

... s kept by the bank, even when they are ... entries were made Asylum f ... it is doubtful whether the ... in the meaning of the Banker ... 31 C 284=8 C W N 125 ... ook in his affidavit of docume ... etting an order to inspect the ... made Perry v Phoshpor C ... The qualifications of the contractual duty of secrecy implied in the relation of banker and customer are (a) Where disclosure is under compulsion by law, (b) where there is a duty to the public to disclose, (c) where the interest of the bank required disclosure, and (d) where the disclosure is made by the express or ... Banks, (1924) ... nder section 6 ... Court ought ... Court ought ... v Lakhmi

7. (1) The costs of any application to the Court or a Judge, under or for the purposes of this Act, and the costs of anything done or to be done under an order of the Court or a Judge made under or for the purposes of this Act, shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, who may further order such costs or any part thereof to be paid to any party by the bank if they have been incurred in consequence of any fault or improper delay on the part of the bank.

Costs.

(2). Any order made under this section for the payment of costs to or by a bank may be enforced as if the bank were a party to the proceeding.

(3) Any order under this section awarding costs may, on application to any Court of Civil Judicature designated in the order, be executed by such Court as if the order were a decree for money passed by itself :

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed to derogate from any power which Court or Judge making the order may possess for the enforcement of its or his discretions with respect to the payment of costs.

APPENDIX G.

App.

THE INDIAN OATHS ACT.

ACT X OF 1873.

Received the assent of the Governor General on the 8th April, 1873.

An Act to consolidate the law relating to Judicial oaths, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate the law relating to judicial oaths, affirmations and delarations and to repeal the law relating to official oaths, affirmations and declarations, It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. PRELIMINARY

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Oaths Act 1873".

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India, and so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the territories of Native Princes and States in alliance with Her Majesty ;

[Commencement]—Repealed by the Repealing Act, 1873 (II of 1873).

History. 'The employment of oaths" says Prof. Wigmore "takes our [illegible] back to the origins of Germanic law and custom, whereas in all primi[illegible]

[illegible]

in store for false swearing, [illegible] to speak the truth as he saw it" Wigmore § 1816

I. Applicability The provisions of the Indian Oaths Act are not intended to be utilized in such a manner as would abrogate the provisions of the Evidence ... is evidence, but if what is deposed to is not the Evidence Act the fact of a special oath will Jamu v Muhammad, 90 Ind Cas 378=A I R

2. [Repeal of Enactment] Repealed by Act XII of 1873

Saving of certain oaths and affirmations

3 Nothing herein contained applies to proceedings before Courts Martial or to oaths, affirmations or declarations prescribed "by or under any instructions under the Royal Sign Manual of His Majesty or"* by any law which, under the provisions of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, the Governor General in Council has no power to repeal.

II AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

Authority to administer oath and affirmation

4 The following Courts and persons are authorized to administer, by themselves, or by an officer empowered by them, in this behalf, oaths and affirmations in discharge of the duties or in exercise of the powers imposed or conferred upon them respectively by law —

(a) all Courts and persons having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence,

(b) the commanding officer of any military station occupied by troops in the service of Her Majesty

Provided .

(1) that the oath or affirmation be administered within the limits of the station, and

(2) that the oath or affirmation be such as a Justice of the Peace is competent to administer in British India.

Scope A Magistrate holding an enquiry as to the fitness of a surety has power to record evidence on oath in the exercise of the power and duty conferred upon him Emperor v Ghulam, 26 A 371=A W N 1904 52 There is no provision of law which requires a Court examining a witness to record the fact that an oath was administered Syed Ahmed v King Emperor 11 A L J 933=35A 575 Under the rules framed under the Steam Vessels Act, a ... Emperor v Lal Meah, ... 4 of the Indian ... Evidence are aut... duties or in exercise of the powers imposed or conferred on them by law King Emperor v Pakisi 2 L B R 272 A Sub magistrate acting under ch XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code is a Court acting in the discharge of a duty imposed on him by law and is therefore authorized to administer oath under this section Tevan v Emperor 29 M 89=3 Cr L J 370 Witnesses examined before a Commissioner appointed under Act XXXVII of 1850 to hold an enquiry into the behaviour of a certain Judicial officer are bound to state the truth and render themselves liable to be punished under s 193 I P C

*Inserted by s 2 of Act VI of 1910

if they testify falsely Gobind Ram v Empress, 18 P R 1893 Cr The procedure of the arbitrator is not governed by the Oaths Act Bhagirath v Ram Ghulam, 4 A 283 = A W N 1882, 31 A Magistrate is not competent to administer oath in the course of a non-judicial inquiry Allahwarayo v Crown, 17 Cr L J 308 = 35 Ind Cas 672

App

III PERSON BY WHOM OATHS OR AFFIRMATIONS MUST BE MADE

Oaths or affirmations to be made by—

5 Oaths or affirmations shall be made by the following persons :—

Witnesses

(a) All witnesses, that is to say, all persons who may lawfully be examined, or give, or be required to give evidence by or before any Court or person having by law or consent of parties authority to examine such persons or to receive evidence,

Interpreters

(b) interpreters of questions put to, and evidence given by, witnesses;

Jurors

(c) jurors

Nothing herein contained shall render it lawful to administer in a criminal proceeding, an oath or affirmation to accused person, or necessary to administer to the official interpreter of any Court, after he has entered on the execution of the duties of his office, an oath or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge those duties.

Nature of the universally establist it is sufficient, for L C J in Omict said "Nothing bu according to our des L C added "All that is necessary to an oath is an appeal to the Supreme Being, as thinking him the rewarder Miller v Salomons, 7 Exch 535, M Omichand v Barker), was that the es Supreme Being in whose existence whom he also believed to be a rewarder of truth and an avenger of falsehood" exis-
R.
that

Supreme Being as thinking him the rewarder of truth and the avenger of falsehood Indar v Jog Mohan 1924 Oudh 412

Persons subjected to the oath. This section lays down that oaths or affirmations shall be made by the three following classes of persons, namely (1)

G witnesses (2) interpreters and (3) jurors So oath or affirmation is requ s te in all testimonial statements made in Court An interpreter is a kind of witness and must be sworn Wigmore § 1824, R v Douglas 13 Q B D 42 59 Cb 72 A juror should also be sworn Queen v Ramsodoy 20 W R Cr 19

Accused person Originally an accused person was allowed to produce no witnesses, later he might produce them but they testified without oath and finally they were allowed to be sworn' Wigmore § 1824 This section as well as section 342 (4) of the Cr Pro Code lays down that no oath shall be adm nis tered to the accused The provision in sub section (4) that no oath shall be administered to the accused has reference only to the statement made by him in answers to questions put to him by the Court under this section It has no reference to any other act of the accused, and therefore the accused can make an affidavit on oath in sup of the case under section 526 Ghulam v 399, se also Reg v Hanmantha, 1B 610, Emp ni v Emperor 2? C W N 740 Akshoy v K E 45 C 720, Q E v Dalgua, 10 B 190, Alladal v King Emperor 9 P R 1906, Banu v Emperor, 33 C 1353, Emperor v Durant 23 B 213 Nga Ngue v K E 20 Cr L J 342 Q E v Tribhuni 20 A 426, Joseph v Emperor 3 Bur L J 265, K E v Annya, 3 Bom L R 437 The term accused means a person under trial Hinanda v Emperor 2 C I J 149 see also Emperor v Govind 18 Bom L R 266, Krishna Dojal v Corporation of Calcutta 31 C W N 506=28 Cr L J 407 A magistrate has no power to administer an oath or affirmation to a person whose statements he records under s 164 Cr Pro Code Lalu v Empress, 2 P R 1893 Cr, see also 10 C P L R Cr 16

Scope of the section The direction in s 164 Cr Pro Code that the shall be recorded n one of the manners prescribed for recording procedure re the Cou of the Evid is Act Qu on for the sake of obtaining information upon son not before the Court he can ot a witness Hari Charan v Quee er a child understands the nature is a v Sheoratu C ving regard to the has any option as evidence but to the case may be Queen Empress v 1 16=22 Ind imperative reter under osecution to rately Kalhai v King Emperor 100 Cr Pro Code, 1898, to issue linds preliminary to the issue of oceedings In the course of such empowered to examine persons take oath under s 5 of the Oaths Act and under s 14 of th d to state the truth Abdul A v Crown, 34 P R 1916 Cr = 17 Cr L J 491 = 36 Ind Cas 171

Affirmation by natives or by persons objecting to oaths

6 Where the witness, interpreter or juror is a Hindu or Muhammadan, or has objection to making an oath, he shall, instead of making an oath, make an affirmation.

In every other case, the witness, interpreter, or juror shall make an oath.

Hindu and Mahomedan law on the subject "If we turn to India even prior to the introduction of English rule, we find that the Laws of Menu had their oath too, and in point of form, that prescribed by Menu is not very different from the English one —The imprecatory part too of the oath of Menu, if not framed exactly in conformity with the varying Code of the religious belief of the swearer, was nevertheless in a form adopted to the peculiarities of the influences by which each individual might be presumed to be most affected 'Let the Judge cause a Priest to swear by his veracity, a Soldier by his horse or elephant ... or servil ... , grain, and gold, a Mechanic ... crimes ... if he speak falsely all possible ... falsely y ... by saying, if you speak ... saying your horse or elephant and weapon become useless, a Vaisya 'your cattle, seeds and gold will be unproductive.' A Sudra he shall adjure by saying, 'if you speak falsely all sins will be on your head (Macnaughten s Hindu Law Vol I, 248) A course of imprecation though, by the way, which seems to address itself rather to the punishment of a present life, than a future one This however appears not to have been the only cause of swearing According to Mr Beaufort, the form of swearing by the water of the Ganges, and by copper and toolsy is virtually sanctioned by many shastras, but other prescribed forms are of equal validity; and all oaths, made by laying the hand on any symbol or image of the Diety have ... In ... cas ... Hi ... tio ... exe ... R. ... per ... 19 ... 305.

IV FORM OF OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

Forms of oaths and affirmations

7. All oaths and affirmations made under section 5 shall be administered according to such forms as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

And until any such forms are prescribed by the High Court, such oaths and affirmations shall be administered according to the forms now in use

Explanation—Repealed by the Lower Burma Courts Act (VI of 1900) s. 48. Schedule II.

Forms of oath In Omichund v Barker 1 Atk 45 Willes L C J. said. "Th ... tion ... On ... be ... swe ... L ... bind his own con ... v. Solomons, 7 I ...

... 1 Leach Cr L 4th Ed 412, Walker's Case ... N Pleas 23, R v Extrehan, C & M 218, ... ie usual form of oath in criminal cases at common law was as follows The form at the assizes or sessions is, for the clerk of arraigns or of the peace to desire the witness to take the book in his hand, and, that done to say to him 'The evidence you shall give between our sovereign lord the king and the prisoner at the bar shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; So help you God', upon which the witness kisses the book' The usual form of words in civil cases differred slightly "The evidence that you shall give to the Court and Jury, touching the matters in question, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth ... Wigmore § 1818 ... provided that it ... n of ... ing ... sad v Lala Jogmohan, 11 O L J ...

Capacity to take oath—Children It was formerly thought that for children there was an age below which the incapacity to take the oath was beyond doubt and was to be regarded as always wanting This notion was probably due to the unwarranted transfer into the law of Evidence of some principles of substantive law, by which certain ages, specially seven years, were thought to mark the beginnings of capacity for various purposes Vide Co Litt 6 b, 2476, Hale Pl Cr I, 302, 634 Buller, Nisi Prius, 293, Young v Slaughlerford 11 Mod 228, R v Travers 1 Stra 700 But this view was finally repudiated in R v Brasier, East Pleas of the Crown, 1, 443 After much deliberation where the Court said 'An infant, though under the age of seven years may be sworn in a criminal prosecution, provided such infant appears on strict examination by the Court to possess a sufficient knowledge of the nature and consequences of an oath For there is no precise or fixed rule as to the time within which infants are excluded from giving evidence, but their admissibility depends upon the sense and reason they entertain of the danger and impiety of falsehood, which is to be collected from their answers to questions propounded to them by the Court, but if they are found incompetent to take an oath, their testimony cannot be received See also R v Perkins 2 Moo Cr, C 139, Braddon's Trial 9 How St Tr 1127, R v Holmes 2 F & F 788, Wigmore § 1821, Nafar v Emperor, 18 C W N 147=41 C 406, Fatu v Emperor, 6 Pat L J 147=61 Ind Cas 705 Evidence of child witnesses can be admitted without oath or affirmations In re Chinnaienal adu, 38 M 550, Hussain v Emperor, 76 Ind Cas 1037, Hari Ramji v Emperor, 20 Bom L R 365=45 Ind Cas 497 In the case of a child witness the Judge is bound first to ascertain by questioning the child whether it is by tender years prevented from understanding the questions put or from giving rational answers to those questions Then if the Judge intend ... he should proceed to administer ... so doing, on the ground ... solemn affirmation under ... child will be admissible section 13 of the Oaths Act the depos... Emperor v Kusha, 5 Bom L R 551

Power of Court to tender certain oaths

8 If any party to, or witness in, any judicial proceeding offers to give evidence on oath or solemn affirmation in any form common amongst, or held binding by, persons of the race or persuation to which he belongs, and not repugnant to justice or decency and not purporting to affect any third person, the Court may, if it thinks fit, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, tender such oath or affirmation to him.

Scope of the section Under ... should come from the parties and not from the Cour... Cas 836=56 ... C L J 77=36 C W N 786=A. I ... 'party' to any judicial proceedings in this ... plainant in a criminal proceeding nor the accused Sections 8 11 of the Oaths Act do not apply to criminal proceedings Queen Empress v Murari 13 B 389, Imperator v. Haji Alu, 5 S L R 129=13 Ind Cas 215=13 Cr L J 23, 1 Weir 822, Emperor v Chiman, 22 Bom L R 898=58 Ind Cas 147 Under the provisions of this Act, an oath proposed in a form which could affect a third party can not under any circumstances be lawfully administered Ram Narain v Babu Singh, 18 A 46, Nabi Bakhsh v Ram Jauaya, 66 P R 1910=7 Ind Cas 479=114 P L R 1910, Tulsi Ram v Dayaram, 88 Ind Cas 448 23 A L J 513 Where the lower appellate Court at the instance of the defendant, calle[illegible] fals[illegible]

just[illegible]
fals[illegible]
187[illegible]
195. But where defendant also refuses no presumption arises Sukdeo v Ganesh, 10 Ind Cas 472=7 N L R 50

Where in a suit, the parties put in a joint application evidencing an agreement to abide by the statement on oath of a certain person, but one of the parties thereto subsequently, asked them to withdraw from the reference on the ground of collusion of that person with the other party and no collusion was proved Held, he could not be allowed to do so Chiddu v Kuar Sen, 3 A L J 654=29 A 49

[illegible] vidence of a third person given on [illegible] Cod[illegible] join[illegible]
such a case Lakhraj Singh v Dulhma, [illegible]

Neither an invocation nor an oath or affirmation in the technical sense of the words is in any way an essential part of the special oath or solemn affirmation provided for in section 8 of the Indian Oaths Act of 1873 The [illegible] in section 8 of the Act is [illegible] ths and affirmations referred to [illegible] the High Court prescribes, [illegible]

and must be in the form held [illegible] deponent belongs The special [illegible] is a complete substitute for the o[illegible] supplemented by it or any part of it The words "oath" and "affirmation" used in respect of the special procedure provided for in section 8 are merely descriptive of the nature and suggestive of the consequences of the ritual— [illegible] way connected [illegible] Das, 31 C W N [illegible] 618=53 M L [illegible]

[illegible] A [illegible]

The offer of the guardian of a minor defendant on behalf of the minor to abide by the deposition to be given by a plaintiff on a special oath stands on a [illegible] compromise contemplated by C P. [illegible] the consent of his [illegible] rovided there is no [illegible] ammad v. Behary [illegible]

9. If any party to any judicial proceeding offers to be bound by any such oath or solemn affirmation as is mentioned in section 8, if such oath or affirmation is made by the other party to, or by any witness in, such proceeding, the Court may, if it thinks fit, ask such party or witness, or cause him to be asked, whether or not he will make the oath or affirmation.

Court may ask party or witness whether he will make oath proposed by opposite party.

i. Provided that no party or witness shall be compelled to attend personally in Court solely for the purpose of answering such question.

Scope. Under ss 8 and 9 of the Act, it is not necessary that the form of oath should be specified before it can be held binding on the parties agreeing to be bound by it It is sufficient if the oath is common among, and held binding by the class to which the parties belong Ahmad Ali v Hanuman, 29 P R. 1887 If in the course of a suit, the plaintiff offers to bind himself by the oath of a witness and the witness, after consenting to the offer, refused afterwards to take oath, the Court cannot decree the suit in the plaintiff's favour, even though the defendant had agreed to it in case the witness refused to take the oath Such an act on the part of the Court is not sanctioned by the Oaths Act. Bawa Suchat v Ratna, 31 P R 1888 A local commissioner appointed to record evidence in a case cannot administer an oath to one of the parties, [illegible] 8, 9 and 10 of the Oaths Act As the [illegible] tion between "Court" and persons [illegible] s not include persons authorised to [illegible] Puran Chand v Chabar, 89 P R, [illegible] to bind client by oath Perag v R [illegible] party himself that can make an [illegible] vever, a party special[illegible] e an offer to be bound by a [illegible] racting the step he had taken if h[illegible] B 455 A offer by the guar[illegible] taken in a pa[illegible] or comprom[illegible] absence of the Court's sanction to the agreement under s 462, the minor defendant is barred by the consent of his guardian, if there is no fraud or negligence on the part of the latter. Sheo Narain v. Sukh Lal, 27 C 229=4 C W N 327, Chengal Reddi v Venkata, 12 M 483

[illegible] fendant offered [illegible]

A person, who under s 9 of the Oaths Act, agrees to be bound by an oath cannot retract The agreement to be bound by an oath is in effect, an agreement to treat the evidence given under the oath as the evidence in the case, and to dispense with other evidence If the party who has agreed to be bound prevents the oath being taken, the other party is entitled to a decree [illegible] the result of [illegible] on is that there [illegible] M L J. 99, [illegible] Thoyi Ammal v Subbaraya, 22 M. 231

Where the defendant takes oath proposed by the plaintiff, the oath is conclusive Chhedi Lal v Jawala Prasad, 6 A L J 241=31 A. 315=2 Ind Ca[illegible] proceeding to t[illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] by [illegible] matter stated in the agreement is sufficient as the ground of a decision, a judgment may be passed, for then it would be conclusive evidence [under the Oaths Act. Vasudeva v. Narama, 2 M 356 A duly authorized agent holding a special power-of-attorney from a party to a suit enabling him to conduct it in a manner he may deem fit can make an offer under s 9 of the Oaths Act, to be bound by the oath of the other party and to have the case decided in accordance therewith. Wasi uz-zaman v. Faiza Bibi, 11 A L. J 38=38 A. 131=32 Ind Cas 318 App

Where the agreement proves abortive, a suit can be decided on evidence taken Seshagiri v Sankaya Setti, 4 L W 258=1917 M W N 104=36 Ind Cas 1001. Where an offer is made by plaintiff to be bound by oath the Court it seems that under to refuse to refer A 65; but see Mith

596=74 Ind Cas
1926 Lah 240

Ordinarily a party cannot resile from his offer, but he can do so with the permission of the Court Ram Bhaj v Dhuni 92 Ind Cas 813, Narayan v Srikantha, 4 Mys L J 217, Salik v Wali, 49 A 388=25 A L J 297=A I R. 1927 All 590 If a party after agreeing to abide by an oath satisfies the ... the Court would exercise a wise ... is only when a party puts ... e Court would be justified in administering the oath notwithstanding the retraction Ramdeo v Naipal, A I. R 1933 All 184

Where in certain divorce proceedings among Mahomedans the pleader ... and the ... and the other party agreed to abide by ... not be conclusive because of section 11 of the Oaths Act Ahalya Bibi v Umar Saheb, 52 B 295=110 Ind. Cas. 131=30 Bom L R 447=A I. R 1928 B 268

The word "party" in this section includes a duly authorised representative such as a pleader and that he can make the offer contemplated by the section Amir v Mohammad, 5 O. W N 10, see also Hata v Samail 137 Ind Cas 810=33 P L R 470=A I R 1932 Lah 414

... offer and the other party Kunnath, 1928

10 If such party or witness agrees to make such oath or affirmation, the Court may proceed to administer it or, if it is of such a nature that it may be more conveniently made out of Court, the Court may issue a commission to any person to administer it, and authorize him to take the evidence of the person to be sworn or affirmed and return it to the Court.

Administration of oath if accepted

... ment to take an oath s to be adminis-
h in any form he requirements
, J. 618 The
is only when 10 of the Act, to iminary to the administer the oath proposed The ... Krishna Rao v. Srinivasa Rao, 7 M L T. agreement must be adopted ... Under this section, the Court if it does not administer ... ission to some person to administer it and ... e person to be sworn and return it to ... L R 122, see also Dar Buz v. Dar Meah,

Evidence conclusive as against person offering to be bound

11. The evidence so given shall, as against the person who offered to be bound as aforesaid, be conclusive proof of the matter stated.

Scope of the section The decision of an issue arrived at, under the provisions of the Act is not an adjudication operating as an estoppel in any future proceedings Keshava v Rudram, 5 M 259 This section does not apply to the evidence of a defendant who has been examined under the usual form of oath and not under any oath or form of affirmation under s 8 Ram Jaladar v Ram Kishen, 22 W R 387, see also Kashiram v Bhulu A W N 1885 188

Under section 11, it is "the evidence so given' which shall, as against the person who offered to be ' ' ' the matter stated Maddhogir v Gopal 45 P R 1898, Hamid v Naqui 84 Ind Cas 577 (2)=49 M L J 379 A possession is in point of law admissible evidence of the fact that such party was in possession under section 11 of the Oaths Act, it is conclusive proof of the matters stated The expression 'conclusive proof' in s 11 is to be understood in the sense in which it is defined by s 4 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872 Vithu v Ramji 8 Bom L R 19=1 M L T 63

The parties to a suit agreed to be bound by the deposition of a referee in the manner contemplated by ss 10 and 11 of the Oaths Act, and a decree was passed in favour of one of the parties on the strength of that deposition The referee died afterwards not fully cover the quest was, therefore, to be r usual procedure Maha

There is nothing in the Indian Oaths Act constraining a Court to pass a decision in favour of a particular party If a party to a suit says that he would be bound by the oath of a particular person under the provisions of section 11 of the Act, it means no more than this that pro tanto he will be bound, that is to say in so far as the matter of that evidence is concerned and that evidence will be conclusive as to its truth, and the truth of such evidence will be litigation But it does to accept that evidence as =A W N 1892, 3 case and specifically to s client may bind him by offering the opposite party to take oath and the suit to be decided accordingly Ganga Bishen v Matna, 143 P L R 1903=85 P R 1903; see also Gharib v Karim 72 P R 1874

Under this section the oath is not conclusive to the suit, but is so only as to the facts deposed to in the oath Jattauma v Bala Sheka, 3 M L T 163 Abdul Hussein v Badruddin, 1 Bom, L R 531

A defendant to a civil suit agreed to be bound by whatever statement might be made by the plaintiff upon oath as prescribed by law The plaintiff accordingly was examined on oath administered in the usual manner Held, that though the statement then made by the plaintiff might not be binding

The oath taken in one proceeding under the provisions of sections 8 11 of the Act is not binding in any subsequent proceeding Badruddin v Nizamuddin, 33 C 386=10 C W N 501

Where an appellate Court confirms the decree of the first Court on the strength of the oath of a party to the suit on a question of fact the decree of the Court is none the less a final adjudication Ahmed v Moidin, 24 M 444

Where the plaintiff originally agreed to be bound by the oath of the defendant, if taken in a particular form and subsequently varied the agreement by attaching further conditions as to the way in which the oath should be made, opportunity must be given to the defendant to take the oath in the manner originally agreed upon between the parties If the defendant does so, the evidence so given will be conclusive evidence of the facts to which it relates If the o on th

suit
a subsequent litigation between the same parties though the subject matter of the suit is different Sanjari v Artu Suaro, 13 M L T 261=24 M L J 321=36 M 287=18 Ind Cas 83 only as against the one who never joined of appeal against the W R 1918=45 Ind

Cas 230

Where the agreement was to take the oath on a particular day but the oath was taken on a later day the burden lies on the person who relies on the oath t the contract Athermankuthi v Chana

by the defendant, the Court is bound to decide in favour of plaintiff Jamna v Nanda, 118 P R 1919=57 P L R 1919=49 Ind Cas 1005

Where an offer is made by the guardian of the minor defendant to the plaintiff as regards the truth of a certain fact the minor defendant is bound by the statement of the plaintiff made under specified oath Porbhu v Jamil, 19 A L J 911

acc
anc being made on oath was conclusive proof of the facts set forth in it Dusak v Raja Rama, L R. 5 A 147

This section does not provide that the evidence given on oath shall be

There is nothing in the Oaths Act which says that the reference to the referee comes to an end as The referee can be re examined if to be established are not put to him I R 1926 All 266=24 A L J 241

For the application of section 11 of the Oaths Act it is necessary that the "evidence" of the fact in contro- rdewa, 103 Ind Cas 348=A I R.

de by the oath taken by a parti fterwards say that Ind Cas 864=A oath of a witness, though the other parties do not agree to be bound and the case must be tried only as against the others Ram Ratan v Ramlall, 27 A L J 1095=118 Ind Cas 188=A I R 1929 A 759

12 If the party or witness refuses to make the oath or solemn affirmation referred to in section 8, he shall not be compelled to make it, but the Court shall record, as part of the proceedings, the nature of the oath or aff proposed, the facts

Procedure in case of refusal to make oath

that he was asked whether he would make it, and that he refused it, together with any reason which he may assign for his refusal

Scope of the section Under section 12 of the Act, it is only when a party refuses to make the oath proposed that the Court is bound to record that he was asked if he would make it and that he refused to do so Madhogir v Gopal, 7 C P L R 122 This section directs the Court to record as part of the proceedings the nature of the oath proposed, the fact that the party was asked to make the oath and refused, together with any reason assigned for the refusal. The section seems to contemplate that the Court shall give such weight as it may think fit, to the fact that a party has offered to make an oath, and has afterwards refused to make it, whilst it negatives the view that the refusal to make the oath is in itself a ground for dismissing the suit or giving the plaintiff a decree as the case may be Mayan v Pathu Kutti, 17 M L J 515=31 M 1, per White C J It may be doubted whether this section was intended to

as
n v

the defendant as to his indebtedness in the plaintiff s book the failure on the part of the plaintiff to produce the account book was equivalent to failure to take an oath, or refusal to be bound by an oath Amirchand v Govind Sahai 5 P R 1003=37 P L R 1903

A Court is not entitled to presume because a party refuses to take a special oath that his case is false In the absence of anything on the record to show the reasons for the refusal, no inference can be drawn Amantulla v Chhattoo, 93 Ind Cas 830 ... to take a special oath is conduct ... vidence in the case bi ... t weigh positive evidenc ... I. R 1933 Nag 52

Where the plaintiff after agreeing to abide by the oath of a third person subsequently declined to abide by it, the Court has no power to dismiss the ... the oath but must ... ice there- ... inference ... case in ... I R 1927 Lah 78

V MISCELLANEOUS

Proceeding and evidence not invalidated by omission of oath or irregularity

13 No omission to take any oath or make any affirmation, no substitution of any one for any other of them, and no irregularity whatever in the form in which any one of them is administered, shall invalidate any proceeding or render inadmissible any evidence whatever, in or in respect of which such omission, substitution or irregularity took place or shall affect the obligation of a witness to state the truth.

Scope The evidence of a boy aged 10, to whom no oath or affirmation was advisedly administered, was held admissible Budha v Empress, 31 P R 1889 Cr ... omission and is not limited to ... v Sanbhai 11 C P L R Cr 16, ... per Parker J, Golla Chinna v ... Queen v Sheo Bhojo, 23 W R Cr 12; Emperor v Kusha 5 Bom L R 551, Queen Empress v Shaia, 16 B 359; Queen v Anunta, 22 W R Cr 1, Q v Perumal, 1 Weir 827 (F B); Queen v Ilwarya, 22 W. R Cr 11; Bulchand v Tarak Nath, 18 C W. N. 1523; Nafar v Emperor, 18 C W N 147=41 C 406, Dhanu v Emperor, 13 A L J 1072, Emperor v Hari, 20 Bom L R 365, Emperor v Sashi, 24 C W N 767, Tulu v Emperor, 6 Pat L J 147, Hussain v Emperor, 1923 Lah 332, but see Queen-Empress v [illegible] ollins C J; Queen v Masu, 10 A 207=A [illegible] King Emperor, 2 L B R 322; Daya v King, 9 [illegible] 468 If the jury in a Sessions trial are not sworn [illegible] could be covered by this section Queen v [illegible] This section has no application to the evidence of a witness taken on commission in a foreign territory Kadambini v Kumudini, 30 C 931=7 C W N 806 This section applies to deposition taken by Registrar of the Presidency Court of Small Causes at Calcutta Bulchand v Tarak Nath, 18 C W N. 1323.

Asking whether a person would take oath and not recording the fact and not actually offering the oath are irregularities vitiating the trial Afsar Kahan v Shabu, 1922 Cal 148

14. Every person giving evidence on any subject before any Court or person hereby authorised to administer oaths and affirmations shall be bound to state the truth on such subject.

Person giving evidence bound to state the truth

Scope Section 132 of the Evidence Act, read with s 14 of the Oaths Act compels a witness to answer criminating questions, and he is protected by the proviso to s 132 from a criminal prosecution for any offence for which he criminates himself directly or indirectly by his answer except a prosecution for giving false evidence by such answer Queen Empress v Ganu Singh, 12 B 440

15. The Indian penal Code, sections 178 and 181 shall be construed as if, after the word "oath" the words "or affirmation" were inserted

Amendment of Penal Code ss 178 and 181

16. Subject to the provisions of sections 3 and 5, no person appointed to any office shall, before entering on execution of the duties of his office, be required to take any oath, or to make or subscribe to any affirmation or declaration whatever.

Official oaths abolished.

G. that he was asked whether he would make it, and that he refused it, together with any reason which he may assign for his refusal.

Scope of the section Under section 12 of the Act, it is only when a party refuses to make the oath proposed that the Court is bound to record that he was asked if he would make it and that he refused to do so Madhogir v Gopal, 7 C P L R 122 This section directs the Court to record, as part of the proceedings, the nature of the oath proposed, the fact that the party was asked to make the oath and refused, together with any reason assigned for the r ... plate that the Court shall give such weight, a ... party has offered to make an oath, and has a ... negatives the view that the refusal to make the oath is, in itself a ground for dismissing the suit or giving the plaintiff a decree, as the case may be Myan v Pathu Kutti, 17 M L J 515=31 M 1, per White C J It may be doubted whether this section was intended to apply to a case, in which the parties have arrived at an agreement that one of them shall take an oath Ibid per Miller J By an agreement between the parties to a suit, the plaintiff agreed that he should take an oath, and that, on ... the ... is ... v

Patthakutti, 17 M L J 545=3 M L T 91=31 M 1.

Where the plaintiff offered to be bound by any statement recorded by the defendant as to his indebtedness in the plaintiff's book the failure on the part of the plaintiff to produce the account-book was equivalent to failure to take an oath, or refusal to be bound by an oath Amirchand v. Govind Sahai, 5 P R 1003=37 P. L R 1903

A Court is not entitled to presume because a party refuses to take a special ... record to show the

... positive evidence which has been adduced Rameshorday v. Gopyi, A I R 1933 Nag 52

Where the plaintiff after agreeing to abide by the oath of a third person subsequently declined to abide by it, the Court has no power to dismiss the ... having taken the oath but must ... the case in accordance there- ... the oath drawing such inference ... ed with the trial of the case in ... 99 Ind Cas 288=A I. R 1927 Lah 78

V. MISCELLANEOUS

Proceeding and evidence not invalidated by omission of oath or irregularity

13. No omission to take any oath or make any affirmation, no substitution of any one for any other of them, and no irregularity whatever in the form in which any one of them is administered, shall invalidate any proceeding or render inadmissible any evidence whatever, in or in respect of which such omission, substitution or irregularity took place or shall affect the obligation of a witness to state the truth.

Scope The evidence of a boy aged 10, to whom no oath or affirmation was advisedly administered, was held admissible Budha v Empress, 31 P. R. 1889 Cr ... includes any omission and is not limited to ... Empress v Sanbhai, 11 C P. L R. Cr. 16; ... M 105, per Parker J, Golla Chinna v. ... Cas 737; Queen v. Sheo Bhogta, 23 W R Cr 12, Emperor v Kusha 7 Bom L R 701, Queen Empress v Shari 16 B 359, Queen v Anunta 22 W R Cr 1, Q v Perumal, 1 Weir r 11 Dulchand v Tarak Nath 18 C W N 147=41 C 400 Dhanu v ... 20 Bom L R 305 Emperor v ... Pat L J 147, Hussain v Emperor, Innayerumal 16 M 105 per Collins W N 1888 86 Pan Nyun v King-Emperor, 2 L B R 322; Daya v King, 9 Bur L J 133=36 Ind Cas 468 If the jury in a Sessions trial are not sworn the omission is one which could be covered by this section Queen v Pimsaloy 20 W R Cr 19 This section has no application to the evidence of a witness taken on commission in a foreign territory Kalamdun v Kumudini, 30 C 534=7 C W N 806 This section applies to deposition taken by Registrar of the Presidency Court of Small Causes at Calcutta Dulchand v Tarak Nath, 18 C W N 133.

Asking whether a person would take oath and not recording the fact and not actually offering the oath are irregularities vitiating the trial Ifar Ali v Sabu 1922 Cal. 148

14 Every person giving evidence on any subject before any Court or person hereby authorised to administer oaths and affirmations shall be bound to state the truth on such subject

Person giving evidence bound to state the truth

Scope Section 132 of the Evidence Act, read with s 14 of the Oaths Act compels a witness to answ... proviso to s 132 from a cri... criminates himself directly ... giving false evidence by such ...

15 The Indian penal Code, sections 178 and 181 shall be construed as if, after the word "oath" the words "or affirmation" were inserted

Amendment of Penal Code ss 178 and 181

16 Subject to the provisions of sections 3 and 5, no person appointed to any office shall, before entering on execution of the duties of his office, be required to take any oath, or to make or subscribe to any affirmation or declaration whatever

Official oaths abolished

SUBJECT INDEX.

Q

R

F

7
f,

1400

THE END

U

V

W

THE END

U

V

W

THE END